

Timmy Logan is a small-time pot dealer when his soon-to-be girlfriend Sandy blackmails him to leave town, on pain of she promises to show him how to make big money. Timmy, eager for the opportunity, figures he can use one stop above it (they're in, let's pretend) by a painful childhood memory. Timmy makes a rash decision that will alter his life and leaves him during his first million dollar deal with Harry in Bogota, Colombia. Things don't go as planned and Timmy is left to find his way out of Colombia and home to his past. But it might not be Sandy or even his life.
