

President Carter proclaims U.S. an oligarchy, and Army Colonel Laurence Wilkerson it's a perpetual war machine for defense contractors, weapons manufacturers, and power hungry politicians!

In this controversial, informative, painfully honest "hard" look in the mirror, Darrell Cass re-educates those 99% of Americans and the world that have been bullied, brainwashed, kidnapped, and beaten into delusional submission by master sorcerers. You will laugh, cry and be ashamed as he illuminates the ingenious ways our self-serving elite have percolated their morals, values and ethics down throughout society. One that was willingly hypnotized, brainwashed, and duped into playing its role in this play for modern day privateers through a comprehensive list of cancerous infections we've all spread throughout every segment of society for their benefit.

This no-holds-barred confession points out it takes "two to Tango" and exposes our seedily choreographed social demise started by Wall Street, politicians, and Super Pac's in the 1980's with just a few, selfish, corrupt, moral-less, narcissist on board. But by 2000, when the train pulled out of the station - it was packed full of ordinary Americans. You will quickly realize for the last 35 years we've been nothing more than a highway for political ambitions, an extremist punching bag they beat to a pulp, and an elitist puppet they played like a violin for their amusement.

Like Charlie Brown, we charge that football time and again and follow their plan as if they sincerely are not going to pull that darn ball away. But "opposite" Charlie Brown, we continue to follow that Scrooge of contemporary society "COMMERCIALISM" right off the cliff!

We followed Federal Reserve Chairman, Alan Greenspan's economic theory of self above all else until democracy, liberty, and freedom were kidnapped! Delusional from privateers, marketing, the stock market boom of the 90's, and stratospheric home appreciations; expectations changed dramatically and we no longer appreciate what we have. Imprisoned by our own whims and desires, we feel we're entitled to the best, and things that were once considered a luxury or treat is now a daily expectation and demand. A feeding frenzy of excess has been embedded in our brains by those who profit most, leaving our priorities and ethics a disgrace and our values disappearing like a ship on a flat earth.

Who caused America's social degradation? Who empowers the billionaires, politicians, and banking establishments that are more dangerous than standing armies? Who's really responsible for our misguided, irrational, self-absorbed, materialistic, often violent and cruel society, and how did it happen? Who helped push the self-destruct button?

Can we restore our great society, or is it too late to sink their moral-less mighty fleet, and pull the country back out of "Davy Jones locker."
