Long long ago...

...In Starkrimson, book two, to be true...

Starkrimson jumped out of his egg!

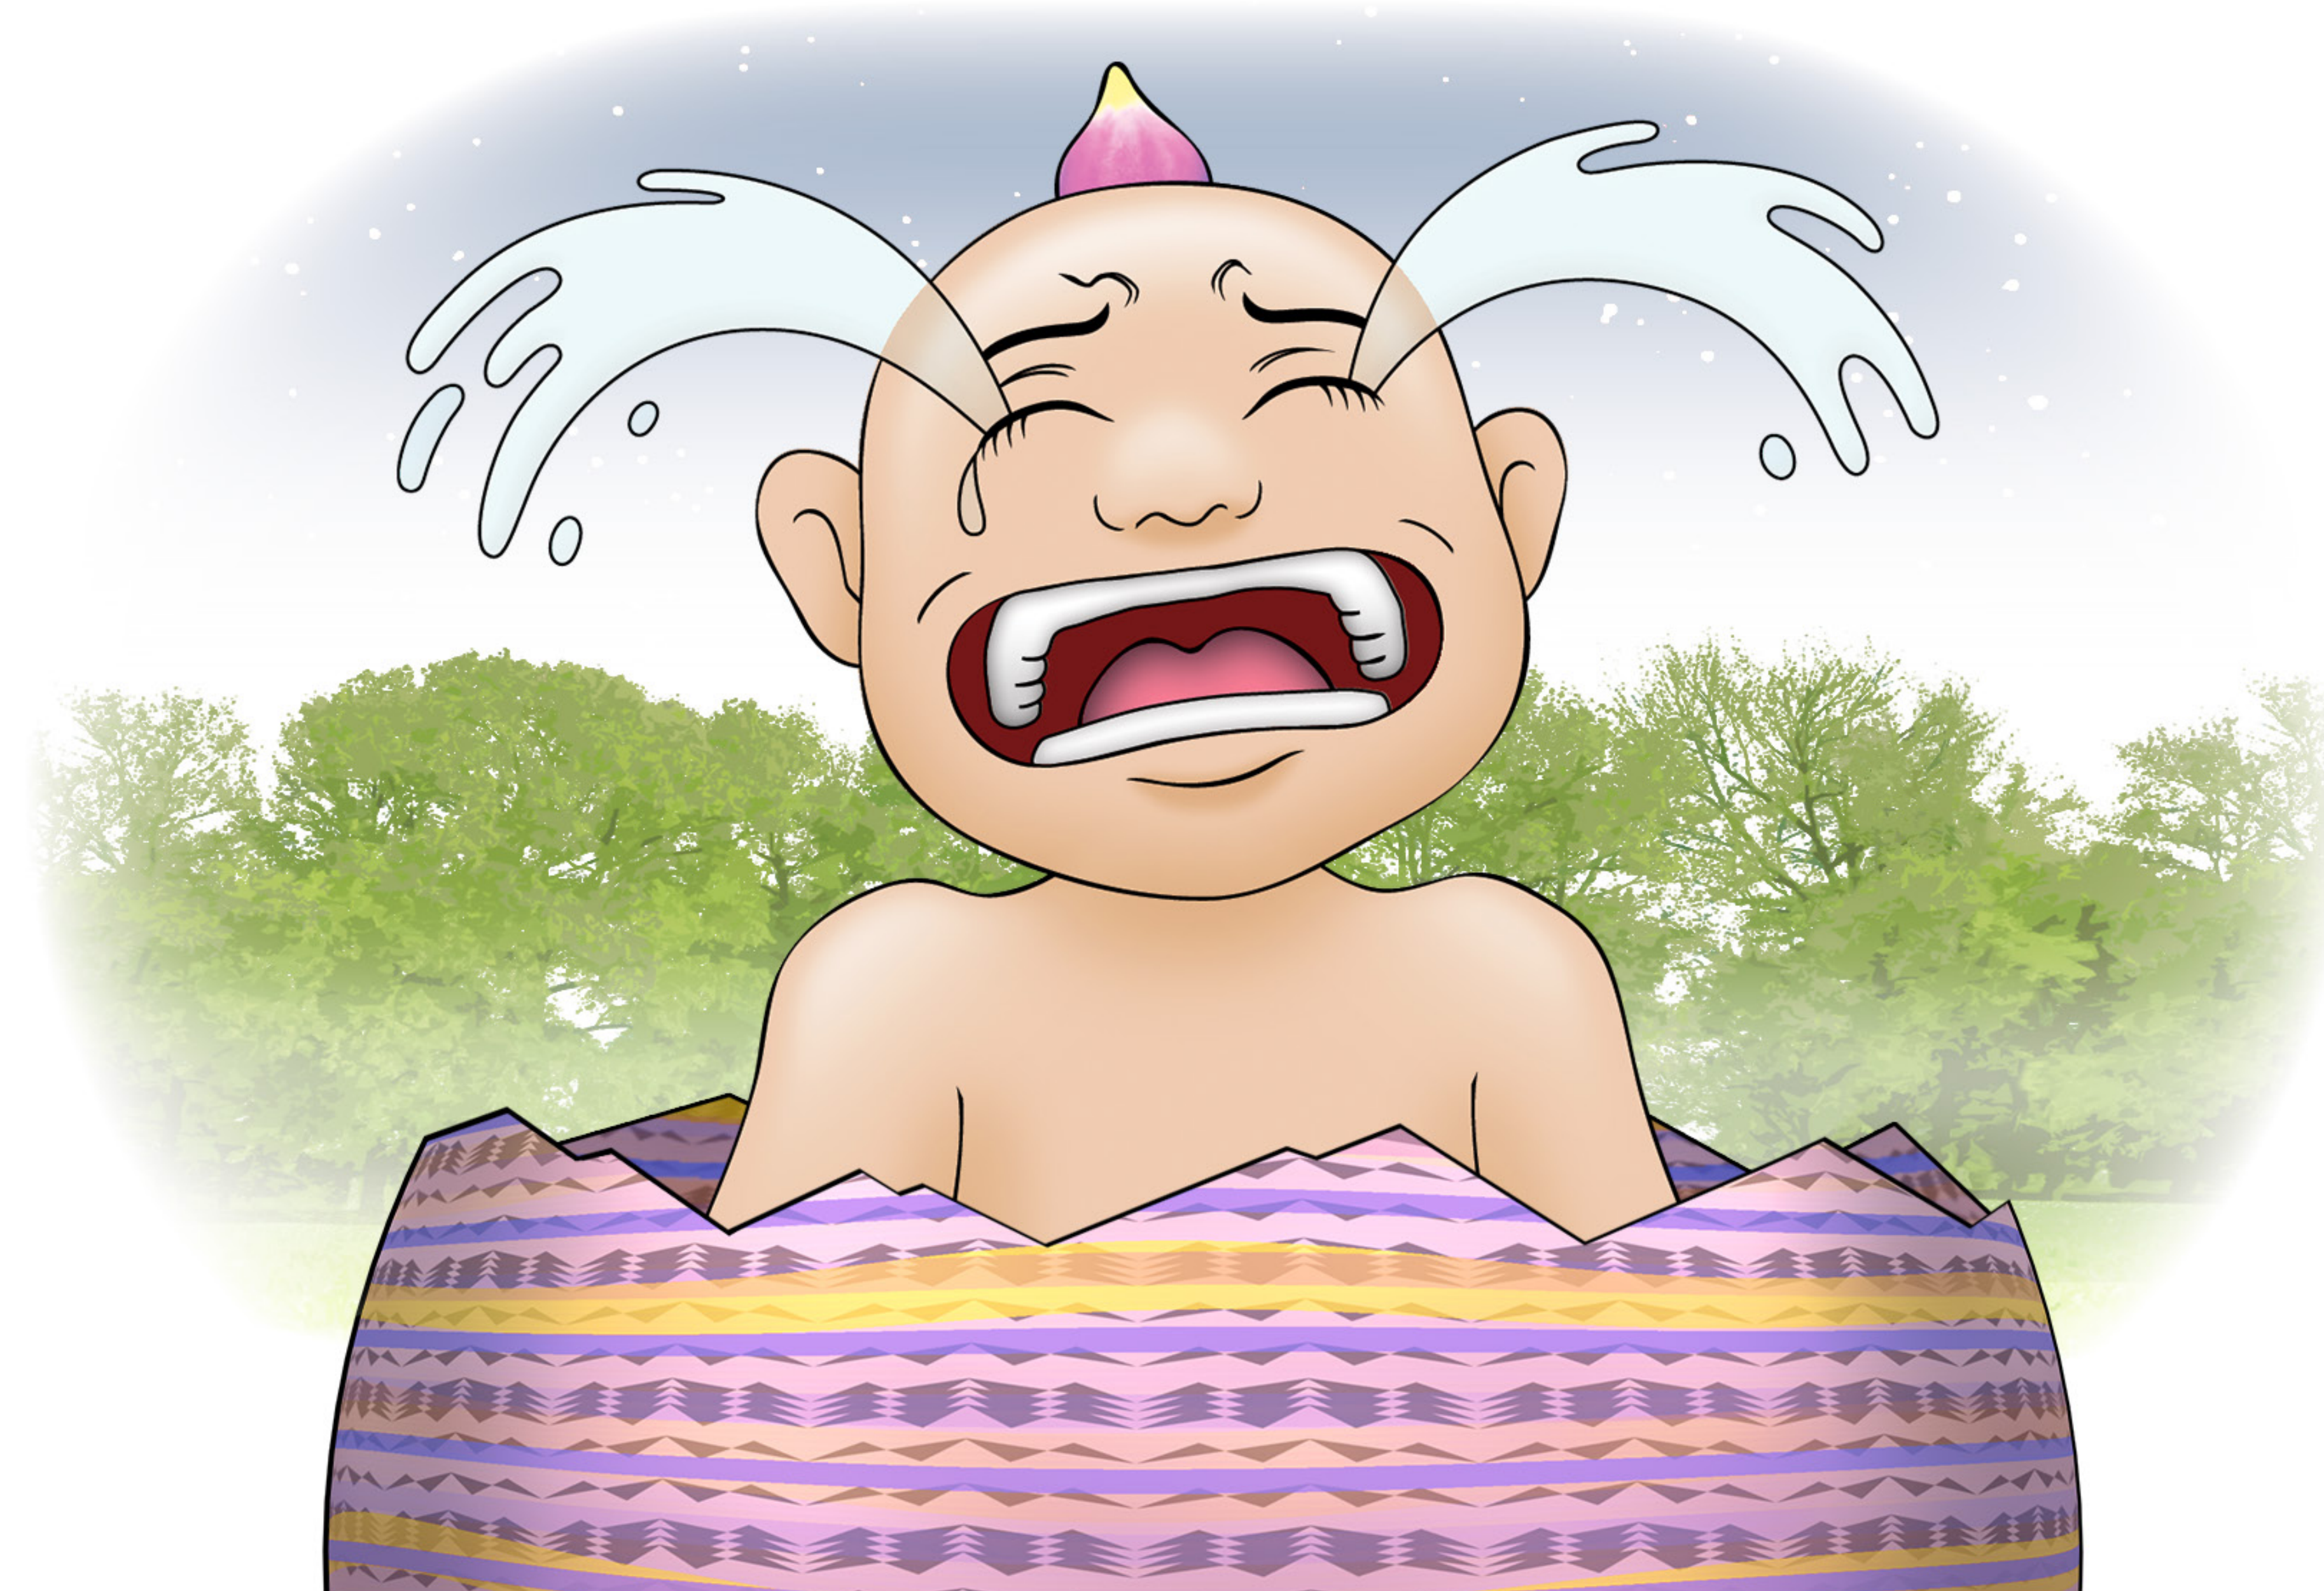

As soon as he touched the ground, he gave Mother Gro-Gro a great big hug!

But the next thing he did... was of such a mischievous nature...

...that it clearly demonstrated the devilish
half of his lineage.

What in the world was the star-headed creature up to?

"Waaaaaah!"

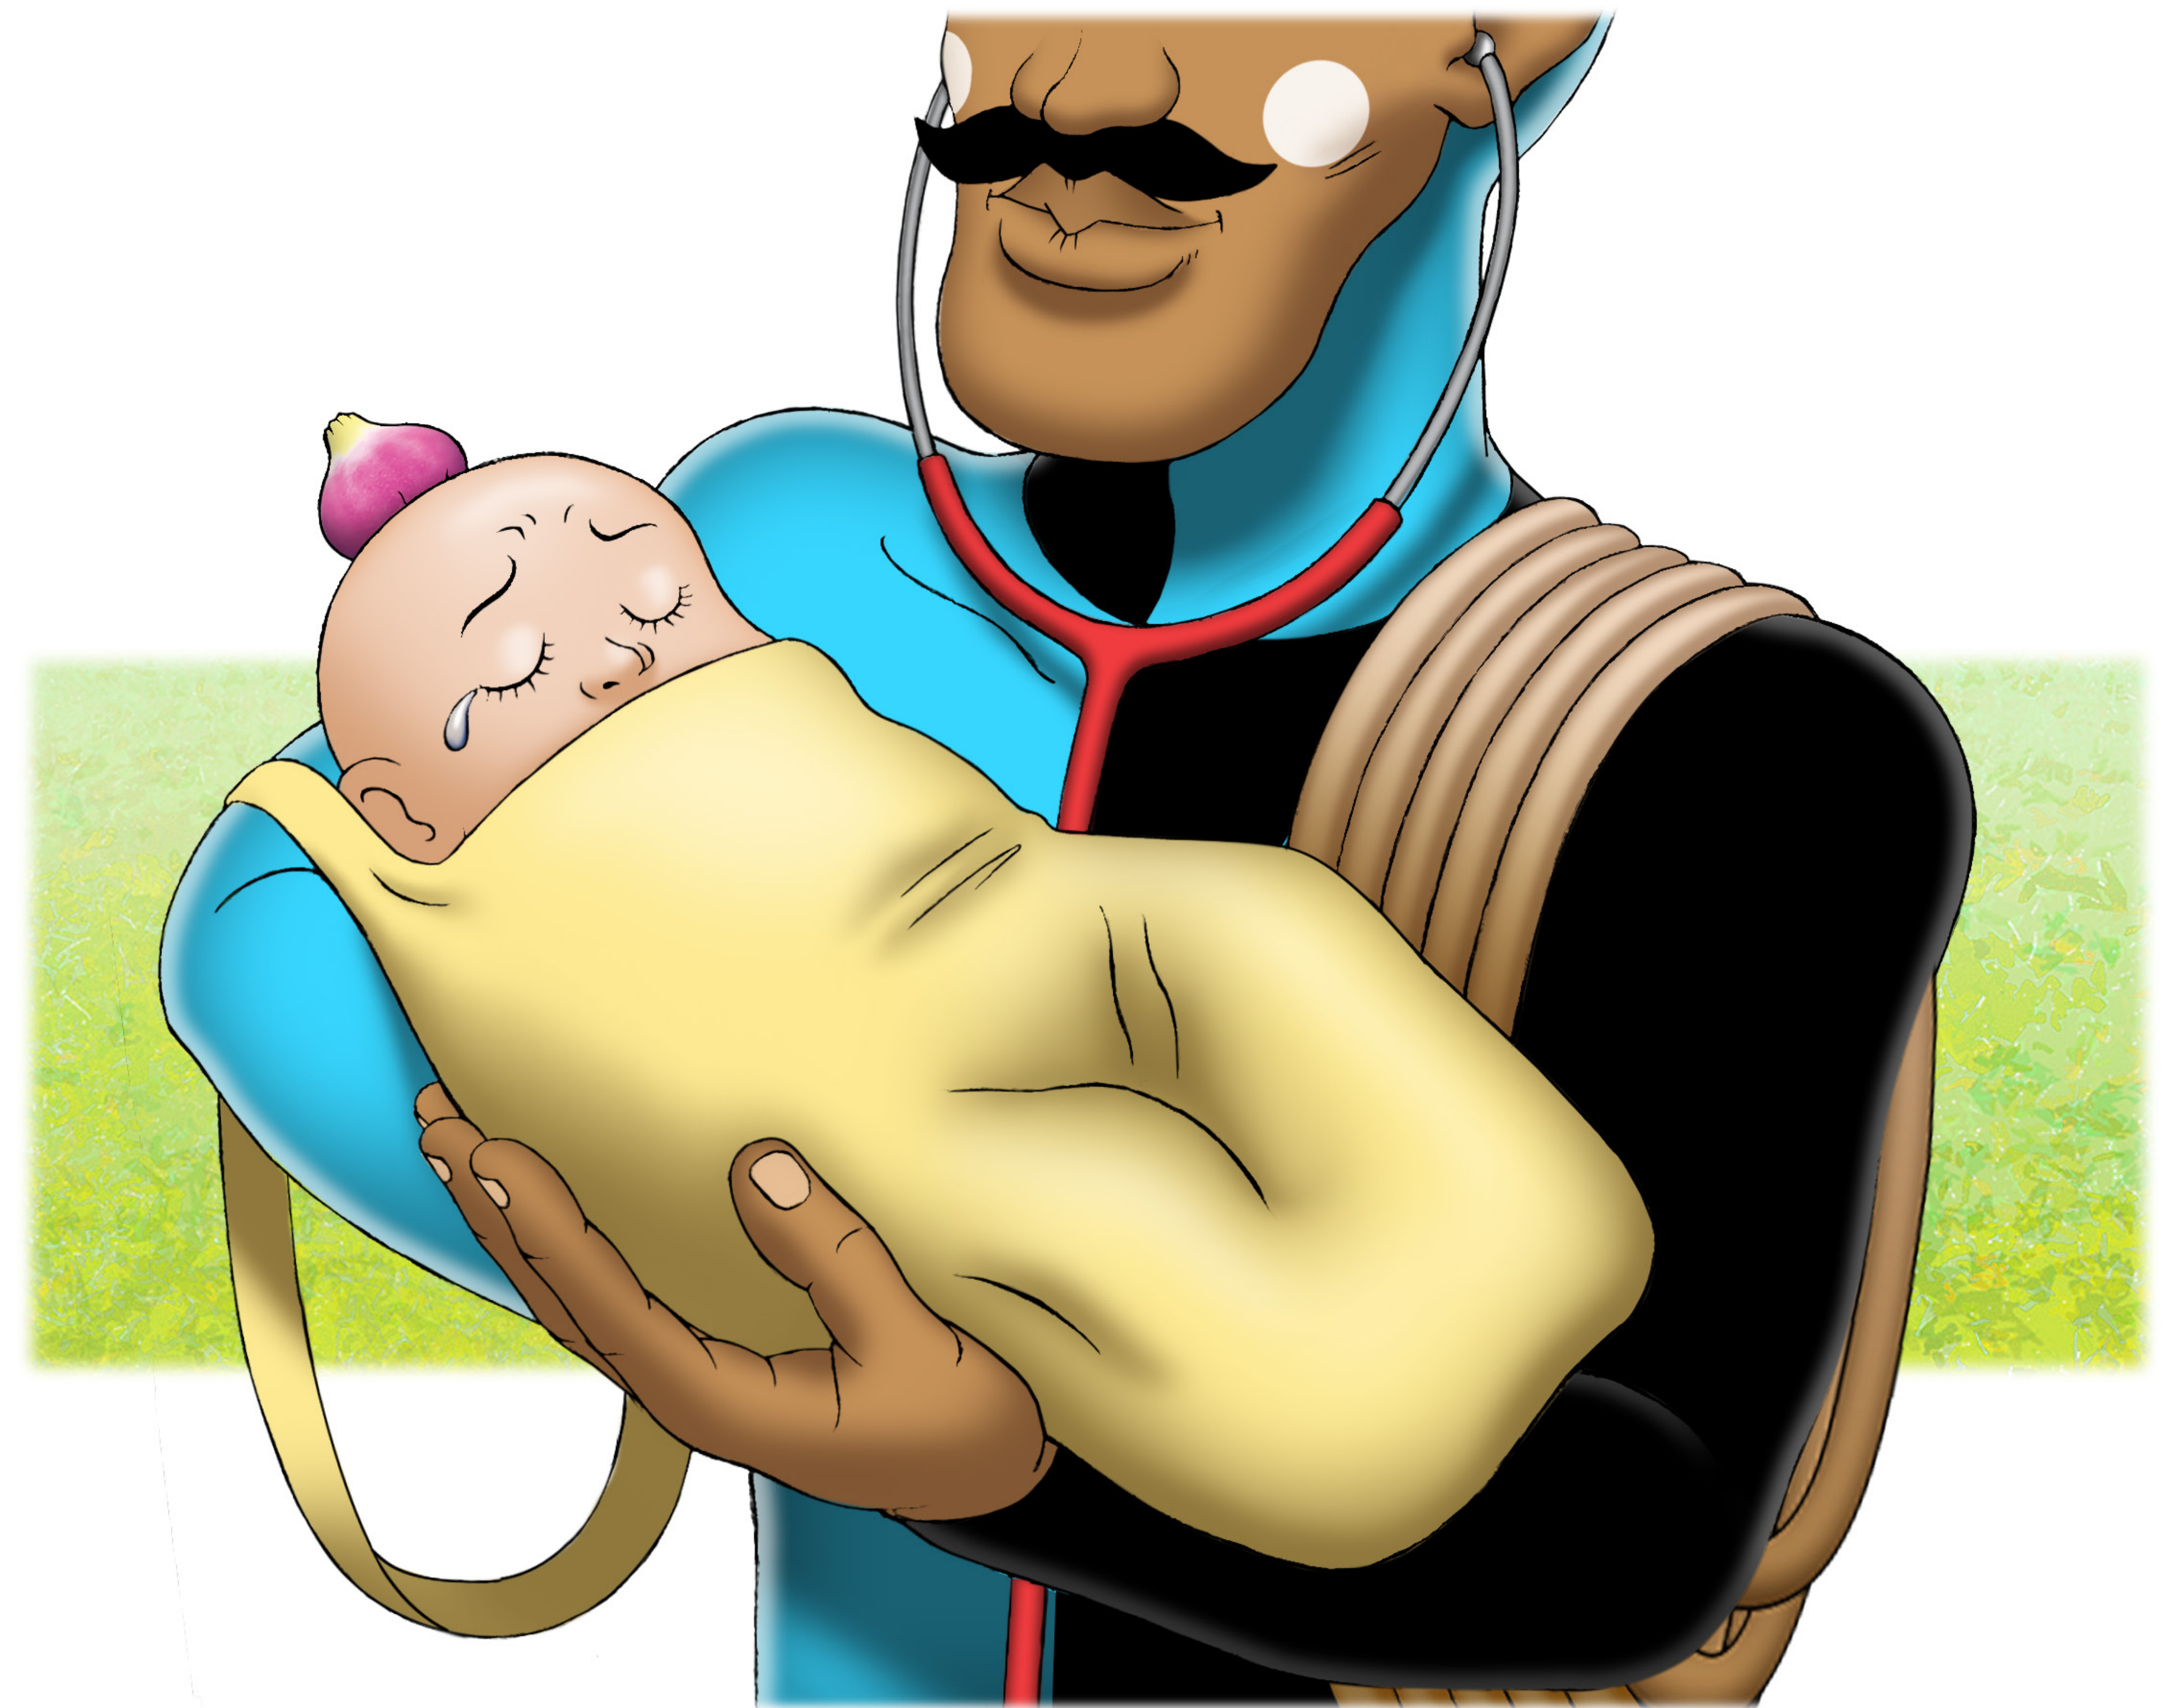

...the newly-hatched Fig-God cries...

...which to Golden comes as no surprise.

It is often quite cold in the Garden of Fabulous Fruits.

Luckily, Golden and Worm are professionals!

They slip the Fig-God into their Baby-Bag to get him warm.

But is Golden the only Egg-Keeper in the land?

Of course not! Meet his sister,
Russet. She's another.

And who's that Fabulous
Caterpillar by her side?

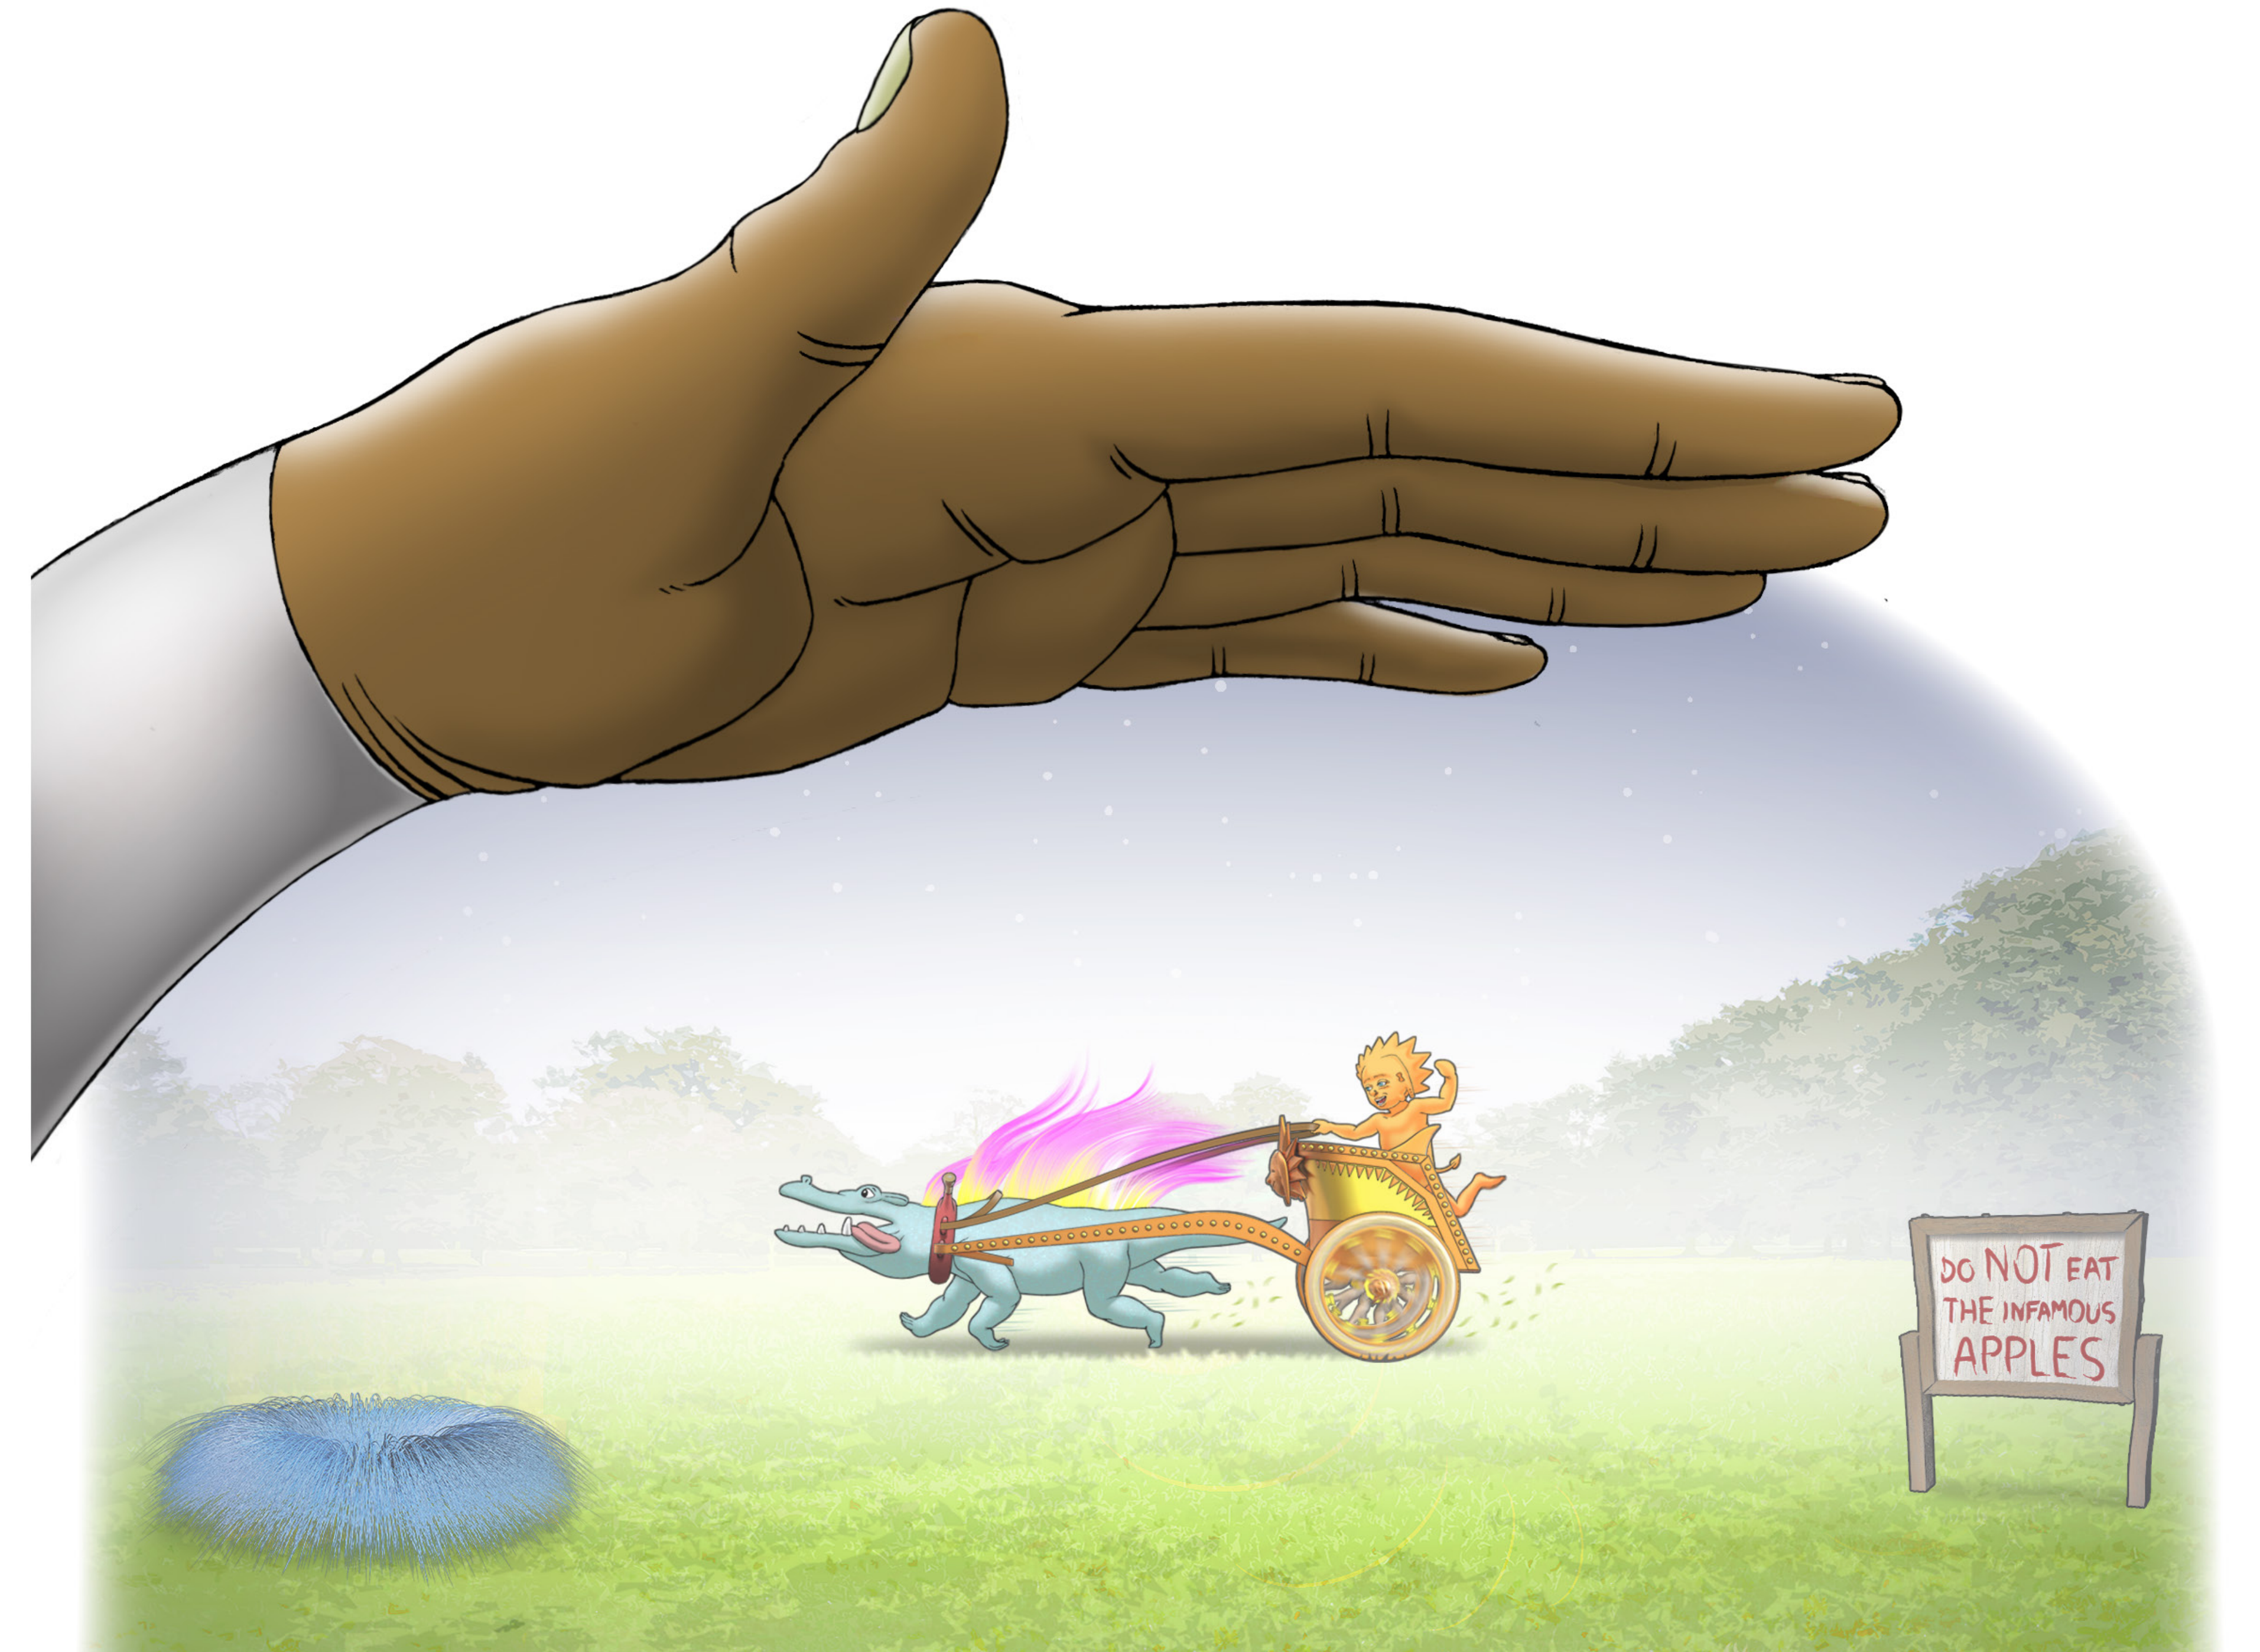

It's little Firefly,
Russet's Fabulous Assistant-in-Training.

Russet, who takes her work very seriously,
is scanning the horizon for new eggs...

...when something in the distance catches her eye.

“That’s Mother Gro-Gro!”

“But why in the names of all gods and spirits is she pulling a chariot?”

Greatly intrigued...
...and a little worried,

Russet dashes to the scene
as fast as she can!

“Mother Gro-Gro!”

gasps the Egg-Keeper as she catches her breath.

“What in the world is going on here?”
