

LIFE IS... BHROOM BHROOOM BHROOOOM

The way Sharman Joshi explains how a motor works, in the movie 'Three Idiots'

Oh God! Once again, I am back to square one. Mistake repeated. Unforgivable. Now suffer. Suffer being lonely among your own people; confined within four walls; no freedom (no two-wheeler here); and no casual interactions.

Feelings are present, but suppressed deep down under the covers of being practical all time, responsibilities and other 'being adult' stuff. No major deal since everyone over here seems to be suffering from the same.

Why???

What has happened to my rational decision-making attitude? What was going in my mind when I decided to leave the job (without any backup plan)? Is it the impact of my Graha Dasha? My friend, Deepika says Scorpions are under the influence of Sade Sati till the year October 2017.

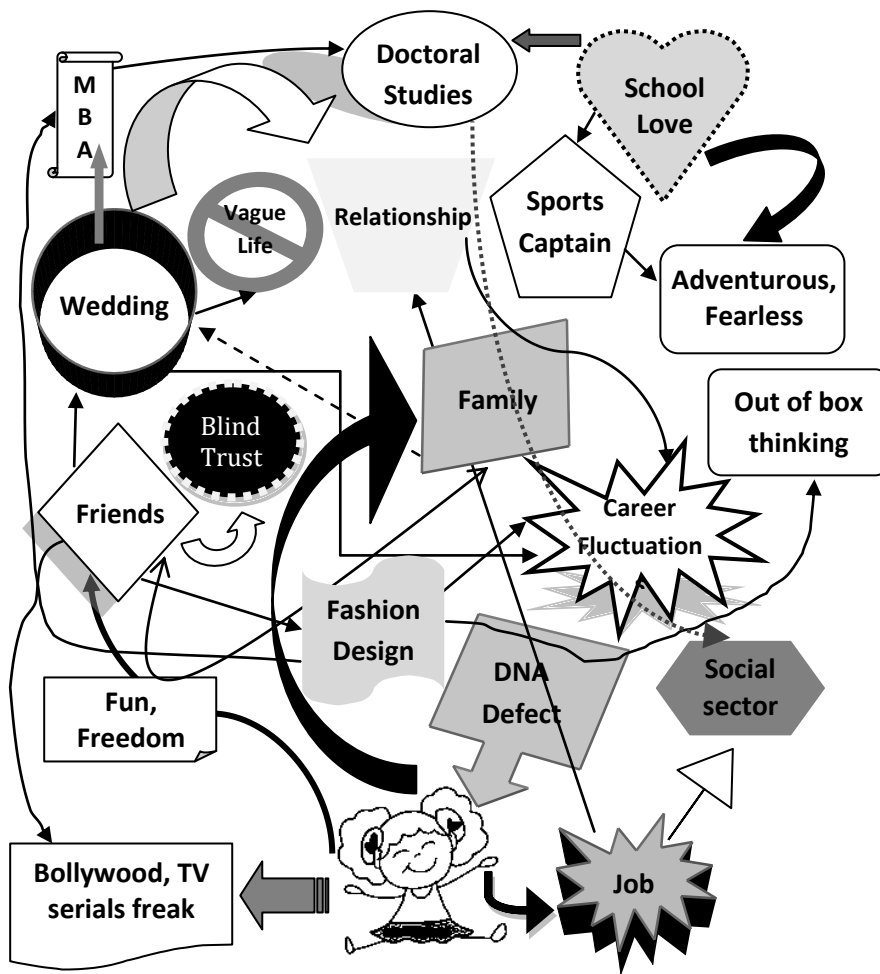

Or this is my hormonal imbalance issue which is not letting my brain to stay stable- I feel giddy when I don't take medicines. Ah! Let me tell you I am suffering from PCOD (Poly Cystic Ovarian Disease) since 15 years and Endometrial Hyperplasia too, I suppose. One of the either is the cause of the other. I don't know which is what, please Google the technical details.

Have I introduced you to my lifetime partner? The one, which lives with me since I don't know when; no matter what the situation is, or what time of the day (or night) it is. It's my inhaler - Asthalin. I have suffered from asthma since childhood. It was gifted with my DNA structure. And now this, ruptured ligament at the left knee.

And career? What is the fudge about? The ladies of my family are embroidery experts, hence I always knew I had to be a fashion designer and give due credit to their talent. Exploring this field brought a reality check – my designs are too creative and complex to be put into wardrobe. Then I found MBA was in-trend, which resulted in a management degree. This course had definitely built up my self confidence but being straight forward is too injurious to the health of corporate jobs. One needs to be diplomatic in opinions and use sugar coating words to crack the deals. That's not me and living a dual-personality is not my style of living. When you are a topper in studies and sports, always behaved sincere and mature, and kept a strong face and patience in every phase of difficulty, it is unobvious for others to understand that yes, even I need a guidance, help me!

And getting married is not the solution to all the issues of a girl's existence. Move on people! Get a life.

If anyone attempts to draw a mind map of how I see things, it would be like:

Everything is messed up here, yet I love this. This keeps my mind always active, alert and creatively organized!