

JUSTINE PRADO • JENN ST-ONGE

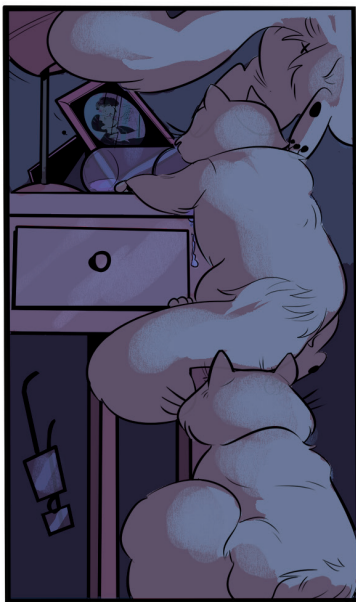

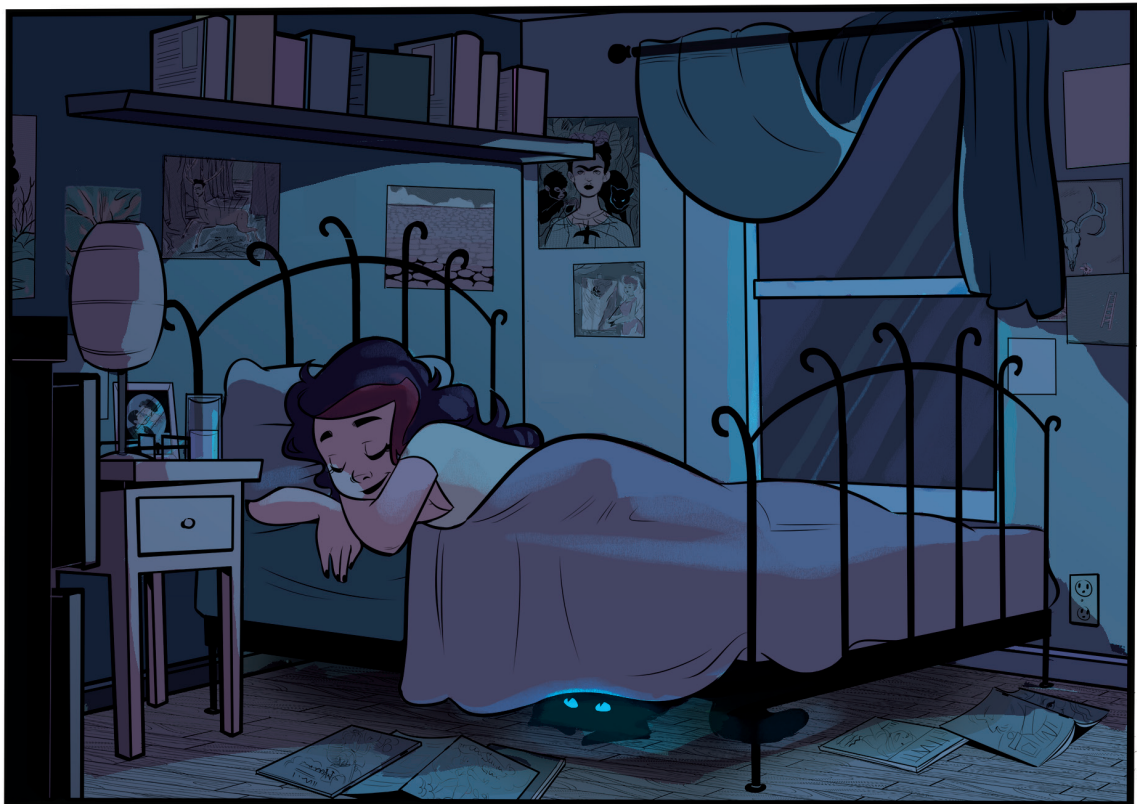

Finding

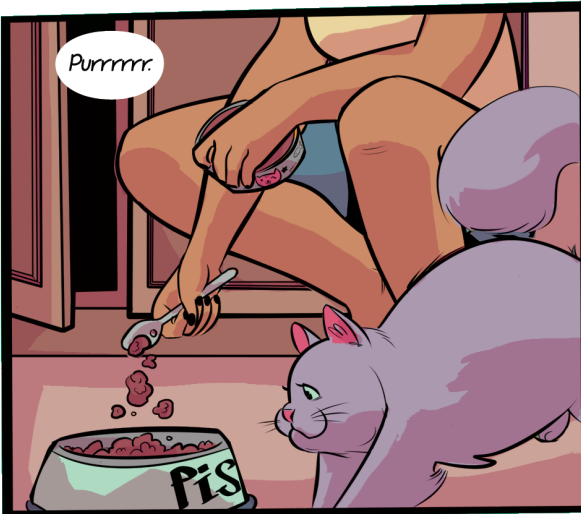

Molly

An Adventure in Catsitting

EMET
COMICS

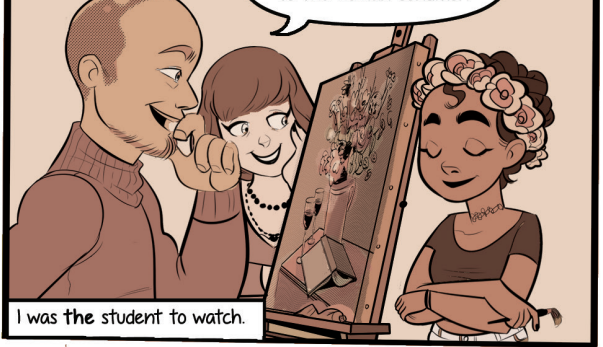

I promise my life wasn't always this bleak.

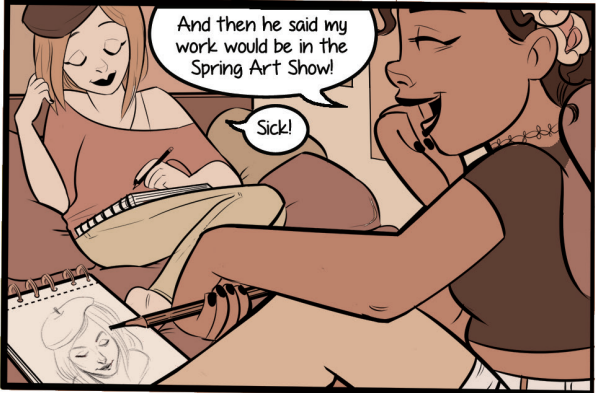

So true to life. It speaks to the human condition.

I was the student to watch.

And then he said my work would be in the Spring Art Show!

Sick!

My BFF Sarahh and I were dorming together. This was before she added an extra 'h' to her name to make it unique...

AGHHHH!

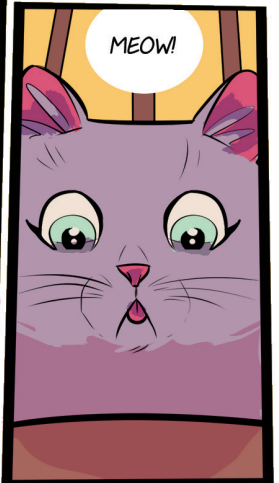

Okay! A simple "back to work" would do.

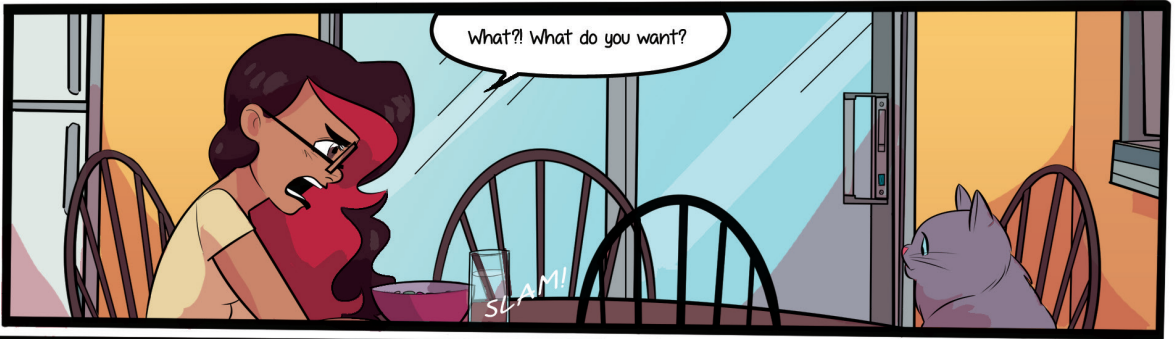

Grrrr.

Meow?

MEOW!

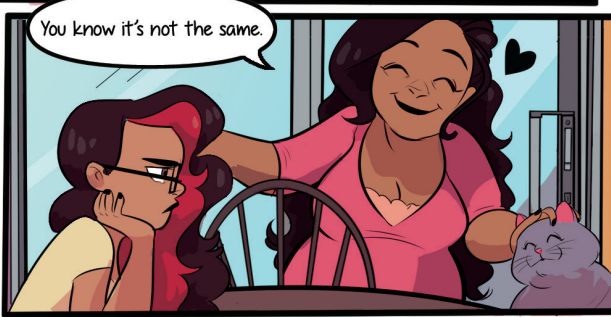

What?! What do you want?

SLAM!

Ay, mija. You know Pishi just wants your cereal milk.

Well I'm not finished. Give her her own bowl.

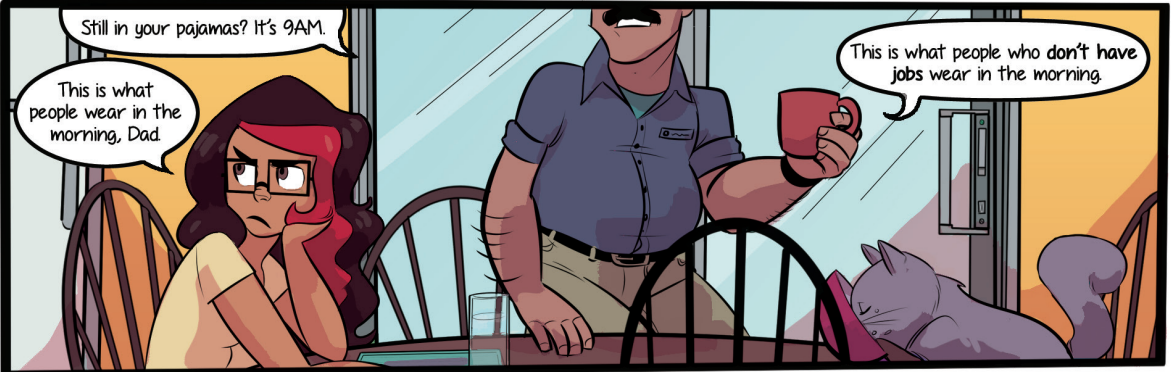

You know it's not the same.

Whatever. I can't believe these things are related to lions. Cats are lazy, spoiled, good for nothing...

Hmmm... sounds familiar.

Still in your pajamas? It's 9AM.

This is what people wear in the morning, Dad.

This is what people who don't have jobs wear in the morning.

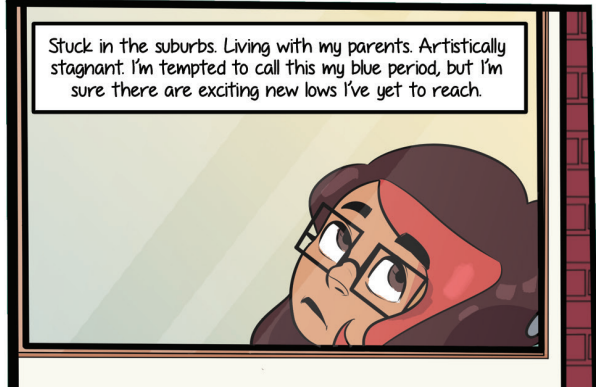

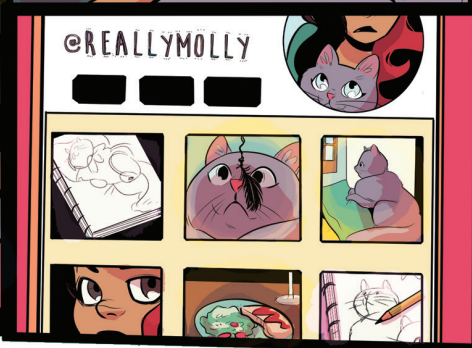

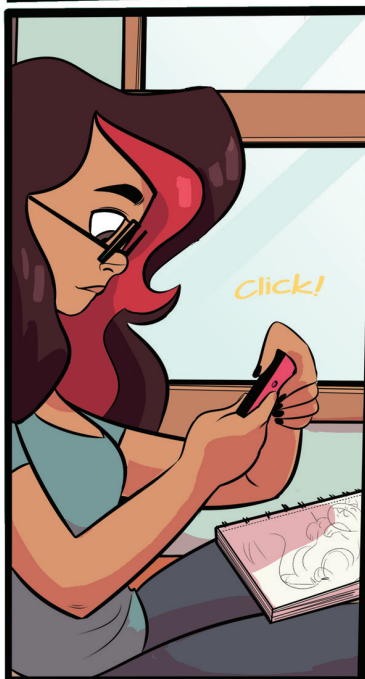

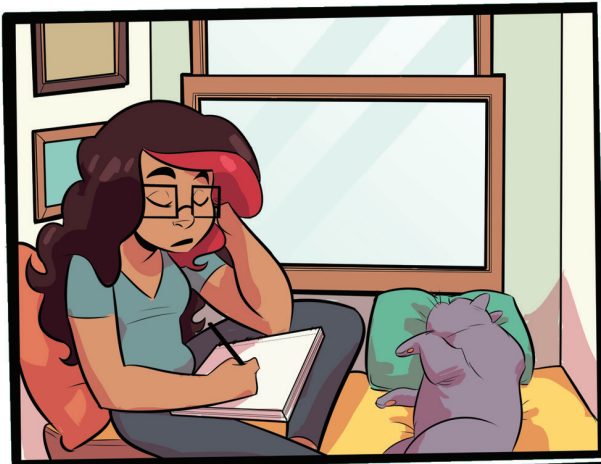

It's not that simple. There aren't listings for "fine artist" in the newspaper.

Listen, either you look for a job today, or you look for a husband.

Can't. No money.

Get a job.

And sell out like you? Pshhh.

Well, this "sell out" had her art used in a pitch meeting today! I'm going to be working on a movie!

That's crazy!

One new comment from

@LindaOfTheCanyon

You do beautiful work!

@ReallyMolly

Oh, thank you. But I just--

I love this! How can I contact the artist?

We live in the canyon. Come out and draw my Aberdeen!

I don't know. That's really far--

We'll pay $200 for one of your pieces.

...

...

Is tomorrow good?

