

Here sat the boy, still days to go, completely bored to tears.
A week alone's a long time contemplating hopes and fears.

Despite his wistful solitude, each night he had relief.
A bright and cheerful moon looked down, renewing his belief that when your day is ugly there's still beauty up above.

The wonders found in nature can tug heartstrings just like love.

