Chapter 1

The Weapons Possession Charge

It is late at night around 1:00 in the morning. Street cameras in Queens and Long Island, NY are being shot down by a mysterious sniper. Police cars are on the scene. Several policemen are standing around looking down at a street camera that has been shot down. "So far, four street cameras had been shot down already!" a male white police officer says.

"You still don't have any clue who's shooting down these street cameras?" an older male white detective says.

"No. All we know is that somebody is going around shooting these street cameras down with a high powered rifle! We have no idea who's doing this or why. Thank God no one has been hurt by these fallen street cameras! So far it's gonna cost the city thousands of dollars in damages!" The officer and the detective continue to look down and around the shot down street camera.

A few miles away, two male white police officers, Officer Silvers and Officer Monroe, are sitting inside their patrol car. They suddenly spot a car a couple of blocks away wobbling and swerving down the street. "That car is wobbling over there," Officer Silvers says as he sits behind the wheel.

"Yeah I see," Officer Monroe says. The officers then see the car ride right into some bushes. "It just rode right into some bushes," Officer Monroe says.

"Let's go check it out." The police officers put on their sirens and start to go after the car.

A dark blue car pulls out of the bushes, then wobbles and swerves down the street. The police car hurries after the dark blue car! The dark blue car continues to wobble and swerve down the street. The police car soon catches up to the dark blue car. "Pull over to the right!" a voice from the police car blow horn shouts. The dark blue car continues to wobble. "Pull over to the right!" a voice from the police car blow horn shouts again. The dark blue car slowly pulls over to the right and stops. The police car pulls over and stops behind the dark blue car. Officer Silvers and Officer Monroe come out of the police car.

Inside the dark blue car, Diane D sits in the driver's seat looking sweaty and dreary as she looks in the rearview mirror with her cousin Dana sitting in the passenger seat looking sweaty and dreary also as she has her head turned facing the rear window, looking at the officers.

Officer Silvers approaches the dark blue car on the driver's side while Officer Monroe approaches the dark blue car on the passenger side. Officer Silvers stands on the driver's side of the dark blue car. He looks at Diane D. He then asks, "Are you okay Miss?" Diane D gives a dreary look at Officer Silvers. Officer Silvers looks further into the car and sees Dana. He looks back at Diane D and says, "Miss, I asked are you okay. Do you realize how you were driving?" Diane D rolls her eyes away from Officer Silvers and holds her head down on the steering wheel. Officer Silvers then says, "Miss, you don't seem fit to be driving. I'm gonna have to ask you to step out of the car." Officer Silvers looks further into the car at Dana again and says to her, "I'm gonna have to ask you to step out of the car too Miss. Both of you step out of the car." Diane D and Dana open their side of the door and slowly step out of the vehicle. Officer Silvers looks at Diane D's face. He recognizes her and says, "Hey, I know you! You're Diane D, aren't you?"

"Yes I am," Diane D says.

"Wow. Who's the lady with you?"

"That's my cousin Dana."

"Your cousin Dana?"

"Yeah."

"Wow Diane D. Weren't you sent away Upstate to a Mental Institution for beating up that little kid inside an elementary school?"

"Yes as a matter of fact, they did put me away for that."

"So what are you doing out here on the streets? You didn't escape from the Mental Institution, with a little help from your cousin, did you?"

"No I did not escape from the Mental Institution! I served my time up there and they let me out!"

"They did?"

"Yes they did!"

"How long were you out?"

"I came out a few months ago."

"You did?"

"Yes I did."

"I didn't hear about it."

"What? What do you mean you didn't hear about it? Were you supposed to hear about it?"

"Well, when you first got sent to the Mental Institution, everyone heard and read about it. It's just that I thought whenever you came out of the Mental Institution, everyone would hear and be warned about that also."

"Everyone would hear and be warned about that?"

"Yes."

"Why would everyone have to know or be warned when I come out? Everybody does not have to know every damn move I make Officer."

"No I guess not. By the way, I smell liquor on you Diane D. Were you drinking?"

"No I wasn't."

"How about your cousin here?" Officer Monroe says. He looks at Dana and says,

“Were you drinking Miss?”

“No I wasn't,” Dana says.

“Yes you were. I smell alcohol on you.”

“Miss Diane D,” Officer Silvers says. “You know it's against the law to be drinking and driving?”

“We weren't drinking Officer,” Diane D says.

“Don't play games with me. I'm gonna have to ask you two to step over here.”

“Why?”

“Don't ask questions Miss, just do as I say. Step over this way.” Officer Silvers looks at Dana and says, “You too miss. Step over here.” Diane D and Dana look at Officer Silvers. They slowly step to the side near each other. Officer Silvers then says, “I'm going to search your vehicle to see if I see any liquor in there.”

“What!” Dana shouts. She becomes hysterical. She is about to head towards the car but Diane D pulls her back. Dana shouts to Officer Silvers, “You can't search our vehicle Officer! There's no liquor in there!”

“I'll believe it if I don't see it! Just step back over there Miss!” Officer Silvers goes into the car and takes the keys out of the ignition as Officer Monroe stand on the side guarding Diane D and Dana. Officer Silvers holds a flashlight inside the car interior looking around it. He comes out of the car. He turns to Officer Monroe and says, “I don't see anything in there.”

“No?” Officer Monroe says. “Check the trunk.”

Dana becomes hysterical again. She is about to head towards the trunk but Diane D pulls her back again. Dana shouts to the officers, “There's nothing in the trunk Officers! You don't need to go in there!”

“Let me be the judge of that Miss,” Officer Silvers says. “Just stay back, alright!”

Diane D holds onto Dana as Officer Silvers goes to the trunk with the car keys. Officer Silvers unlocks the trunk. Dana is about to head for the trunk again, but Diane D pulls Dana back again and says to her, “Let him check the trunk Dana! We have nothing to hide. Let him check the trunk.” Dana glares at Diane D as Diane D turns to Officer Silvers and shouts, “Go ahead and check the trunk Officer!”

“Diane!” Dana shouts.

Diane D turns back to Dana and shouts, “We have nothing to hide Dana!” Diane D turns back at Officer Silvers and shouts, “Go ahead and check the trunk Officer!”

“If you say so,” Officer Silvers says.

Dana glares at Diane D. She and Diane D then look at Officer Silvers as Officer Silvers opens the trunk. Dana is about to go to the trunk again but Diane D pulls her back again.

Officer Silvers looks into the trunk.

“See officer?!” Diane D shouts. “I told you we have nothing to hide! There's nothing suspicious inside the trunk!”

“Oh yes there is!” Officer Silvers shouts. “You have a couple of rifles in here!”

“What! A couple of rifles?! What do you mean we have a couple of rifles in there?!” Diane D hurries to the trunk as Officer Monroe hurries behind her.

“Just like I said Ma'am!” Officer Silvers shouts. “There are two rifles inside this trunk!” Diane D looks in the trunk. She becomes shocked and stunned to see two long rifles inside the trunk. She stares at the rifles. She puzzled looks at Officer Silvers as he says to her, “You care to explain this Diane D?”

“Officer, I don't understand. I don't know what's going on. I don't know anything about these rifles! I've never seen these rifles before in my life!”

“No? Well how did they get in this trunk?”

“I have no idea!” Diane D looks towards Dana and shouts, “Dana do you know anything about these rifles?!”

“No I don't,” Dana says.

Diane D puzzled looks at Dana. Diane D turns back to Officer Silvers and says, “Officer, someone had to have plant these rifles inside this trunk without us knowing it!”

“Does this someone have the keys to your trunk?” Officer Silvers asks.

“I don't know.”

“Well I'm gonna have to take you two in.”

“What! What do you mean take us in?”

“First of all, for drunk driving! Second of all, for reckless driving and third, for having possession of fire arms!”

“Possession of fire arms? These aren't our rifles officer! I have no idea where these rifles came from!”

“Yeah tell it to the judge! You two are under arrest!”

Diane D and Dana shockingly look at Officer Silvers.

Inside the police station, Officer Silvers walks to Officer Monroe who is sitting behind a desk and says to him, “We tested the ballistics of the rifles. Those ballistics match the bullets that have been found at all of the traffic camera shoot outs!”

“What!” Officer Monroe says.

“Yes!”

“You mean to tell me that Diane D and her cousin Dana are the ones who might have been shooting down all those traffic cameras?”

“Yes! Either both of them or one of them or someone who had the rifles. Either way, the rifles were caught in their possession.”

“Why would they do something like that?”

“I don't know. Diane D says she has nothing to do with the traffic cameras being shot down. The other one isn't talking at all.”

“You mean her cousin Dana?”

“Yeah. Well, I put a trace on those rifles and ballistics. I found out who the rifles belong to! Those rifles belong to an uncle of theirs!”

“An uncle of Diane D and her cousin Dana?”

“Yeah. An uncle of theirs named Willie Brown. I called him up. He claims either his niece Diane D or his other niece Dana took his rifles without his knowledge or his permission! I told him that his nieces are suspected of shooting down the traffic cameras. He was real upset when he heard about it and he was real furious when he found out that his nieces stole his rifles and that his rifles were used in the traffic camera shoot outs! He's threatening to press charges against his nieces himself!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah!”

“But I don't think Diane D really had anything to do with those rifles being inside the trunk of that car or even knew that those rifles were in there. I think it was the other one who putted those rifles in there without Diane D even knowing about it.

Think about it. Why was Diane D the one willing for us to check the trunk of that car, saying that they had nothing to hide while the other one was the one against us even looking inside the trunk? The other one knew those rifles were inside that trunk and didn't want to be caught with them.”

“I told their uncle that. He believes the exact same thing that it was Dana who stole his rifles out of his house and not Diane D. He did say that Dana was at his house the other night asking about his rifles. He said he never knew she was planning to steal and use them. He says he keeps his rifles hidden and locked away. He says he doesn't know how Dana found out where his rifles were or how she got the rifles while they were locked up.”

“Well obvious she was casing his house while she was there. She was searching for those rifles and was searching for the keys to unlock those rifles. But still, why did she shoot down the traffic cameras, if she's the one who did it?”

“Has she been taught how to use rifles?”

“I asked her uncle that. He says he never taught her. He told me Dana's always been fascinated with guns and rifles since she was a kid back in Jamaica.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

Inside the Women’s Detention lobby, Diane D's entire family and relatives, her husband Michael and Dana's boyfriend Tony are all angry and upset as they question Diane D and Dana's friend Teresa who's with her boyfriend Joseph as Diane D’s mom Mary says, “So Teresa, what did Diane and Dana say to you when you called them?”

“I asked them were they still planning to pick me up because they were taking a long time to show up at my house,” Teresa says. “Then Diane told me to just cool out and be patient that she and Dana are on their way over, so I waited another long time for them to show up. That's when Michael and Tony called me and Joseph and told us Diane and Dana both just got arrested on drunk driving and weapons possession charge and stolen properties.”

“Y'all didn't know anything about them drinking or having rifles on them?” Barry asks.

“No,” Joseph says. “Not until Michael and Tony told us about it.”

“That's it!” Uncle Willie angrily shouts. “I'm going to press charges against Dana!”

“Calm down Willie,” Diane D and Dana’s paternal grandmother Gracy says. “I'm sure there's some explanation to all of this!”

“There is no explanation Mom! Dana stole my rifles! She stole them out of my closet point blank, right under my nose! I don't appreciate that! I'm definitely going to press charges against her!”

“You can't do that Willie!” Diane D and Dana’s paternal grandfather Mike shouts. “Dana is your niece! She's your family! You're going to press charges against your own family?!”

“Dad, did Dana think about family values when she took my rifles to shoot those traffic cameras down?!”

“Dana didn't mean to get you into trouble Willie!”

“I'm not the one in trouble Dad, she is! She's the one who's sitting in jail and she winds up bringing Diane with her! Man she's gonna have to deal with me whenever she and Diane get out of jail! Wait till I get a hold of her!”

“I'm sure Dana and Diane didn't mean to get caught Willie,” Gracy says. “They were both drunk and didn't know what they were doing! I'm sure they didn't expect the police to see or catch them driving recklessly! Don't press charges against Dana Willie, please don't!”

“I am gonna press charges against her Mom! If I let her get away with this once, she's gonna do it again!”

“Willie!” Grandpa Mike shouts. “You're just gonna have to find another place to lock up your rifles where Dana can't find them, that's all! Don't worry, I'm gonna see that Diane and Dana both can get bailed out, then we'll handle it from there, okay? Come on. Let's go see if we can bail them out.” Grandpa Mike takes Willie by the shoulder and leads him away. The rest of the family follow behind Grandpa Mike and Uncle Willie.

The following day, a man and woman in the street who are around their late twenties are reading a couple of different newspaper articles with two different headlines that read: DIANE D AND HER COUSIN DANA ARRESTED ON DRUNK DRIVING AND WEAPONS POSSESSION CHARGES AND STOLEN PROPERTIES: DIANE D AND HER COUSIN DANA ARE SUSPECTED OF SHOOTING DOWN TRAFFIC CAMERAS: “My God can you believe it?” the woman says. “Diane D and her cousin Dana were arrested on drunk driving and weapons possession charges and stolen properties last night! They were the ones who were shooting down all those traffic cameras for the past two months!”

“Yeah I see it,” the man says. “Why would they go around doing that? Why would anybody shoot down traffic cameras?”

“I don't know. I guess we'll probably have to wait and find out in tomorrow's paper.” The man and woman continue to read the newspaper articles.

Outside the Women's Detention, a large heavy crowd appears outside the jail. Hundreds and hundreds of people are out there. There are reporters all over the place. Tons of Diane D fans are outside the jail. They are protesting, holding up large signs that say 'RELEASE DIANE D', 'STAY STRONG DIANE D'. A lot of them are wearing T-shirts that read, 'DIANE D'.

Inside the Women's Detention lobby, Diane D's entire family and relatives are all angry and upset surrounding Grandpa Mike as Barry asks, “So what happened last night Dad? Diane and Dana couldn't get any bail?”

“No!” Grandpa Mike shouts. “They weren't allowed any bail!”

“What!” the entire family shouts.

“I'm gonna hire a lawyer for them.”

“Mike,” Gracy says. “We're gonna have to call up David and Christine in Jamaica and tell them that Dana and Diane are both in jail.”

“No Gracy, let's not get David and Christine upset right now. Let me get a lawyer and see if we can get the girls out of jail as soon as possible before we call up David and Christine. Come on let's go.” Mike turns and walks away as they all follow behind him.

A few days later, Diane D's entire family and relatives are inside the lawyer's office all angry and upset. They surround a couple of white male lawyers James Koffman, a gentleman with dark hair, and his partner Jerry Hutchinson who are both around their late 40's. James Koffman speaks to Grandpa Mike and says, “I went to see and speak with both your granddaughters the other day. I told them they were still denied bail. They were pretty upset about it.”

“I don't blame them!” Grandpa Mike shouts. “Why can't you get my granddaughters bail?”

“The district attorney wants them to stay locked up until their court date.”

“When is that?” Mary asks.

“In three months.”

“Three months!” Grandpa Mike and his family shout.

“You mean the district attorney is gonna keep them locked up for three whole months?!” Barry shouts

“I'm afraid so,” James Koffman says. He looks at Gracy and asks, “Did you call your granddaughter Dana's parents down in Jamaica?”

“Yes I did,” Gracy says. “We called her parents up last night. They're on their way up here. Her mother Christine is bringing her entire family up here with her.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Just please get my granddaughters out of jail Mr. Koffman,” Grandpa Mike says.

“I will,” James Koffman says. “I'm gonna speak to the district attorney again tomorrow and try to get bail for your granddaughters.”

“Yes please do.”

“Okay.” James Koffman and Diane D's family and relatives get up from their chairs. They turn and walk towards the doorway and leave the office.

It is one week later. Outside the Women's Detention, a large heavy crowd appears outside the jail again. Hundreds and hundreds of people are out there. There are reporters all over the place. Tons of Diane D fans are outside the jail. They're still holding up large signs that say 'RELEASE DIANE D', 'STAY STRONG DIANE D'. A lot of them are wearing T-shirts that read, 'DIANE D'.

Inside the Women's Detention lobby, Diane D's entire family and relatives, Dana's family from Jamaica and the beautiful and gorgeous Dianettes are all angry and upset as they surround James Koffman and Jerry Hutchinson as James Koffman says to them, “We still couldn't get the district attorney to give Diane D and Dana any bail. He says they still have to remain in jail until their court date!”

“What!” Diane D and Dana's family say.

“Come on!” Grandpa Mike shouts. “They've been in jail for an entire week already! Why can't the district attorney just let them go!”

"He doesn't want to," James Koffman says.

"We tried to get your granddaughters out Mr. Brown," Jerry Hutchinson says.

"Well you didn't try hard enough!" Grandpa Mike shouts.

"We did the best we could."

"I'm just gonna have to call your granddaughters on the phone and tell them the bad news," James Koffman says.

"Ah man," Diane D and Dana's family say.

James Koffman gets on a jail phone and dials a number. He speaks into the phone and says, "Hello, I need to speak to two inmates up there, Diane Denise Brown and her cousin Dana Jean Brown. Send them to the phone please, thank you." James Koffman waits for a while. He then speaks into the phone and says, "Hello? Is this, Diane D? ..... Hello Diane D, it's me James Koffman." Diane D and Dana's family and relatives excitedly look on. The Dianettes anxiously approach James Koffman and try to take the phone receiver out of his hand.

"Cool it girls," Mary says to the Dianettes as she tries to stop them. "Let him speak to Diane. Step over here." The Dianettes step to the side next to Mary. Everyone turns towards James Koffman as he speaks into the phone receiver and says, "Yeah Diane D, how are you doing today?"

On the other end of the phone, Diane D, who is wearing an orange prison suit, is upstairs in the Women's Detention lounge standing as she talks into a telephone receiver and says, "I'm doing okay."

"Good," James Koffman says. "How's your cousin Dana doing?"

"She's holding up. Were you able to get bail for us Mister Koffman?"

"No I wasn't."

"No? Well why not?"

"The district attorney wants you and your cousin Dana to stay in jail until your court date."

"What! The district attorney wants us to stay in jail until our court date?!"

"Yes."

Diane D frustratingly looks across the lounge. She then shouts across the lounge, "He says the district attorney wants us to stay in jail until our court date?!"

"What the hell he means the district attorney wants us to stay in jail until our court date?!" Dana's voice shouts.

"I don't know!" Diane D speaks back into the phone receiver and says. "Why does the district attorney wants us to stay in jail until our court date?!"

"He wants you two to serve some time in jail," James Koffman says.

"We've already been here a week! That means we have to stay in here for another eleven weeks?!"

"I'm afraid so."

"You told us you would definitely get bail for us today!"

"I know I said that, but what can I tell you?"

"Tell us you're gonna get us bail!"

"I can't do that!"

Diane D looks across the lounge and hollers to Dana, "He says he can't get us bail!"

"Why not?!" Dana's voice shouts.

Diane D gets back on the phone and shouts, "Why not?!"

"I don't know," James Koffman says.

Diane D looks back across the lounge and hollers to Dana, "He says he doesn't know!"

"He doesn't know?!" Dana's voice shouts. "What the hell means he doesn't know?!"

Diane D speaks back into phone and shouts, "What do you mean you don't know?!"

"Like I said, I don't know," James Koffman says.

Diane D looks back across the lounge and hollers back to Dana, "He said it again, he doesn't know!"

"He still don't know?!" Dana's voice shouts.

"No! That's all he could say, he doesn't know!"

Dana, also dressed in a orange prison suit, angrily gets up from a chair. She walks towards Diane D, points her hand at the telephone receiver and shouts, "I swear THAT useless motherfucka!" Dana turns and angrily walks away from Diane D.

Back downstairs in the lobby, James Koffman overhears Dana and shouts into the receiver, "Hey! I overheard what your cousin Dana just called me!" The entire crowd puzzled looks at James Koffman as he shouts into the receiver, "Yes I did! I'm not gonna have any client of mine disrespecting me like that! Put your cousin Dana on the phone now! Let me have a word with her!"

"What's going on Mr. Koffman?" Dana's dad David shouts.

James Koffman ignores David and continues to shout into the receiver, "Oh she doesn't want to come to the phone?! She has nothing to say to me?! Well I can still hear her yelling and cursing about me in the background! ..... What! I just overheard her yelling and screaming that your grandfather should fire me?!" The entire crowd puzzled look at each other. They then back at James Koffman as he continues to shout into the phone, "What did she say?! ..... I just overheard her yelling and screaming something else about me! ..... What! ..... Oh yeah?! ..... Is that right?! ..... Really! ..... Is that right?! ..... What! Oh she thinks that about me too! ..... Is that right?! Well you know what you can tell her?! ..... What! She really believes that, huh! ..... Is that right?!"

The entire crowd puzzled looks at James Koffman as they say, "What are they saying to him?"

"Well if your cousin Dana is gonna go around disrespecting me like that and feels all that stuff about me, she could go find herself another lawyer!"

"What in the world is going on?!" Mary shouts.

"I don't know!" Grandpa Mike shouts, "but I'm gonna find out!" Grandpa Mike walks up to James Koffman and shouts, "Hand me the phone!" Mike snatches the receiver out of James Koffman's hand and speaks into it shouting, "Diane! Diane! Diane! Diane!" Grandpa Mike looks at the telephone receiver. He then turns to his family and says, "She's not there." Grandpa Mike hangs up the telephone. He turns to James Koffman and shouts, "Do you mind telling us what the hell was that all about!"

"I just overheard your other granddaughter Dana calling me a useless motherf.....!" James Koffman shouts. "Then I heard her calling me every name in the book! She disrespected me! I'm not going to have any client of mine disrespecting me! I'm not gonna tolerate that! Let her go find herself another lawyer!"

"Wait a minute! I hired you to represent both my granddaughters!"

“Oh I'll represent Diane D, but I won't represent the other one!”

“Now wait a cotton picking minute! Either you represent both my granddaughters, or you represent none of them!”

“What are you talking about?! Did you hear what I just told you?! I said your other granddaughter Dana disrespected me! She called me a useless motherf.... and everything else! I'm supposed to put up with that?!”

“I'm sure she wouldn't have disrespected you if you were able to get them bail! Now take them both or take none of them and pay me back my money! The choice is yours!”

“I can't believe you expect me to tolerate that. I cannot believe that you condone her behavior! How can you expect me to represent her?! How can you?! Especially representing someone who calls me names like that?! I'm sorry I can't represent her! I won't!”

“Fine, don't represent either of them! Just pay me my money back and I'll get another lawyer for my granddaughters!” Grandpa Mike turns to his family and tells them, “Stay here everybody! I'll be right back!” Grandpa Mike and James Koffman turn and angrily walk away with each other as the entire family, relatives and the Dianettes look on.

A few men in the street are giggling as they read an article in the paper with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S LAWYER QUILTS HER CASE AFTER HER COUSIN DANA IS OVERHEARD CALLING HIM A USELESS MOTHERF....! One of the men turns to the others and says, “Did y'all read this, where it says Diane D's cousin Dana called their lawyer a useless motherfucka?”

“Yeah I saw it,” the second man giggles. “Unbelievable.”

“Oh I believe it,” the third man giggles, “knowing how Diane D's cousin Dana is.” The men continue to giggle as they read the article.

A few months has past. It is now court day. Diane D and Dana's entire family and relatives are all sitting down in the spectators' seats. Mary and Christine come out of the front room, followed by Diane D and Dana, who are both dressed in identical sweater shirts and identical slacks and their long black hair flowing down their sides and backs. They are followed by two other male white lawyers around their late 40's. Mary and Christine approach the front benches and stop as everyone else in the courtroom look on. Mary and Christine turn around to Diane D and Dana and gestures for Diane D and Dana to go in first and take a seat. Dana moves in first followed by Diane D, then by Mary as Christine waits aside.

Dana and Diane D's family and relatives wave to them from the spectator seats. Dana and Diane D stand there looking towards the back of the courtroom at their family and relatives. Christine looks at Dana and Diane D and says, “Dana! Diane!” Dana and Diane turn and look at Christine as Christine says to them, “Look forward and take your seats please.” Dana and Diane look forward and angrily plot down into their seats. “Thank you,” Christine says to them. Mary sits down besides Diane D as Christine sits at the edge next to Mary. Dana sits there frustrated as she looks forward. Diane D turns to Dana and tells her, “Be cool Dana. It's gonna be alright.” One of the lawyers, Ken Murrell gets ready to take the case.

Around an hour later, Diane D and Dana's families, relatives, Michael, Tony, Joseph and Teresa stand outside the courtroom surrounding Diane D and Dana cheering. Christine and David then pull Willie to the side.

Christine, David and Willie stand at the side as Christine says, "Thanks for deciding not to press charges against Dana Willie."

"Yeah, I'm still pissed off at what she did," Willie says.

"It won't happen again Willie," David says. "Promise."

"Yeah I hope not." Willie, Christine and David turn their heads and look down the hall towards Diane D and Dana.

Diane D holds Dana by the arm and says to her family and relatives, "Excuse us for a minute everybody." Diane D pulls Dana from the crowd and goes to the side.

Diane D and Dana stand at the side as Diane D tells Dana, "Now Dana, you know Uncle Willie is gonna keep his rifles hidden somewhere else every time you come over to his place."

"I won't take his rifles again Diane," Dana says.

"I hope not. Look Dana, since Michael's family is coming in from Virginia again, they're gonna stay at our place for a couple of months. Since they're gonna stay at our place, I decided to stay at Aunt Mindy and Uncle Charles' house again."

"You are?"

"Yeah. Too much of Michael's family is gonna be at our place, so I decided to just stay somewhere else and just let Michael and his family have the place for a while."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Why don't you stay with me and Tony at his place."

"Let me try Aunt Mindy first. Could you call up Aunt Mindy and Uncle Charles for me and let them know I'm coming to stay with them? Tell them I want to stay in the same room I stayed in before."

"Okay. I'm gonna go outside and call them."

"Okay Dana."

Dana turns and walks towards the exit as Diane D turns and walks back towards her family and relatives.

The following day, several people in the street are reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D AND HER COUSIN DANA HAVE BEEN RELEASED FROM JAIL! JUDGE CONSIDERS TIME SERVED FOR DRUNK DRIVING AND WEAPONS POSSESSION CHARGE AND STOLEN PROPERTIES! "Look!" a woman says. "It says right here that Diane D and her cousin Dana went to court yesterday and the judge released them from jail for time served."

"Oh that's good," one of the men say. "They don't have to stay in jail any longer." The people continue to look at the article.

Dana Bully's Her Aunt's Tenants

It is now evening. The telephone rings inside Aunt Mindy's house. Aunt Mindy, an older woman who is Dana and Diane D's grandfather Mike's sister, walks to the telephone. She picks up the receiver. She speaks into the receiver and says, "Hello? .... Who's this? .... Dana? .... Oh Hi Dana! How did everything go in the courtroom? .... Yeah I hear. Your grandfather called me earlier. That's good."

"Aunt Mindy, I called to let you know that I'm coming over there," Dana says.

"Oh yeah? You're coming over here? Why would you want to come here Dana? I have no rifles hidden in this house."

"I didn't ask you that Aunt Mindy. I'm bringing Diane over there."

"Diane is coming over here?"

"Yeah. She's coming to stay with you again."

"She's coming to stay with me?"

"Yep. She's coming to stay for a couple of months."

"For a couple of months?"

"Yeah. She wants to stay in the same room she stayed in before."

"She does?"

"Yeah."

"Why? She's not staying with Michael again?"

"No. His people are coming in from Virginia again and they're staying at his and Diane's place again."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah, and Diane doesn't want to be there while they're there. She says it will be too crowded for her."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Oh I don't know Dana, I have tenants living in that same room."

"What? You got tenants living in that room?"

"Yes I do."

"Since when did you started renting rooms out Aunt Mindy?"

"Since two weeks ago. Your Uncle Charles and I need the extra money."

"Oh yeah? What type of tenants do you have there?"

“A foreign couple. A man from Guyana and his wife.”

“A man from Guyana and his wife?”

“Yeah.”

“How long are they planning to live at your place?”

“For a couple of years at least or until they get better on their feet.”

“For a couple of years?! Oh no, they can't stay in your place that long!”

“What do you mean?”

“I mean they better get on their feet right now because they got to go!”

“What do you mean they got to go?”

“Like I said Aunt Mindy, they got to go! Diane is planning to stay there!”

“Dana these tenants are here already! They pay rent!”

“I don't care if they pay rent Aunt Mindy! That was Diane's space before and she wants it back! Those people got to leave! I'm on my way over there!”

“Now wait a minute Dana!” Aunt Mindy hears the phone on the other end go click.

Around twenty minutes later, Aunt Mindy's husband Charles, an older man, comes in the front door. He closes the front door behind himself. He sighs as he take off his coat. He opens the closet door and hangs up his coat. The doorbell rings. Charles looks through the people. As he opens the front door, Aunt Mindy hurries down the stairs and shouts, “No Charles don't open the door! That's Dana!” Dana barges right into the house as Uncle Charles puzzled looks at her. “Dana!” he says.

“Hey Uncle Charles,” Dana says.

“What are you doing here Dana? There's no rifles hidden here!”

“I'm not looking for any rifles Uncle Charles.” Dana approaches Aunt Mindy and says, “Okay Aunt Mindy, it's time for those tenants to leave.”

“Dana called here twenty minutes ago just before you came in,” Aunt Mindy says. “She claims Diane wants to stay in here again! She claims Diane wants to stay in the same bedroom she stayed in before, but I told her we have tenants living there, staying in that same room!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Listen those people got to go and they got to go now!” Dana shouts.

“Dana, this couple have no other place to go! They have no family in this country! If they get thrown out of here they'll end up on the street!”

“I don't care where they end up, but they got to get out of here!” Dana barges past Aunt Mindy and hurries up the stairs. Aunt Mindy and Uncle Charles hurry after her!

Dana is walking in the upstairs hallway. She heads towards one of the bedroom doors as Aunt Mindy and Uncle Charles hurry behind her. “No Dana don't bother those people,” Uncle Charles say. Dana approaches the bedroom door and turns the doorknob. She tries to open the door, but it is locked. She angrily starts to bang on the door.

“Dana leave these people alone, don't bother them!” Aunt Mindy shouts.

“As soon as they leave out of here, I won't be bothering them!” Dana shouts. She angrily bangs on the door again. The door opens. A middle aged Guyanese man opens the door. Dana looks at the man and barges right into the room!

Dana enters the bedroom. She looks at the man's wife, a middle aged Guyanese woman, who is sitting on the bed. "What's going on?" the Guyanese man asks.

Dana points her finger to the man and tells him, "You, got to leave!"

"Got to leave? What are you talking about?"

"My cousin wants this room back! You got to go!" Dana starts picking up the man and his wife's belongings.

"Hey wait a minute!"

"Dana you can't do that!" Uncle Charles shouts.

"Who is this?" the man's wife asks.

"This is Dana, our grand niece!"

"Dana, your grand niece?" the Guyanese man asks. "Oh is this the one who just came out of jail with your other grand niece, Diane D?"

"Yes, she's the one. Diane used to stay with us sometimes! She stayed in this very room."

"Really? Well why can't Diane D stay in another room? There's another bedroom here."

"She wants this one!" Dana shouts.

"But we live in this bedroom," the man's wife says.

"Well you can't live here in this bedroom or house anymore! My cousin is coming here to stay and you two got to go!"

"But where would we go?" the man says. "We have no family here to go to!"

"I don't give a damn where you go! Just get the hell out!"

"Don't curse at these people Dana!" Charles shouts. "Diane can stay in another room!"

"No Uncle Charles she wants this room!" Dana turns back to the couple and shouts, "You two got to go!" Dana starts picking up the man's belongings again.

Uncle Charles tries to stop Dana and shouts, "No Dana! You can't throw them out!"

"Oh yes I am!" Dana drops the man's stuff back down and shouts, "I'm gonna go get a moving truck! And when I come back with the truck, I'm gonna have all their things inside of it!" Dana is about to leave the room.

The man grabs onto Dana's arm and shouts, "Now wait a minute!"

Dana fiercely turns to the guy and swings her arm away from him as the man's wife hurries up towards him with Dana shouting, "Don't put your fuckin hands on me!"

"Why not? You putted your hands on my belongings!"

"You got your belongings in my cousin's space!"

Uncle Charles quickly holds Dana and shouts, "Calm down Dana!"

Dana yells at the guy again and shouts, "Don't ever put your fuckin hands on me! I don't know you, you don't know me, you don't fuckin touch me!"

"Dana calm down!" Aunt Mindy shouts.

Dana turns to Uncle Charles and says, "I'm gonna get a moving truck!"

"And I'm gonna get the police!" the man shouts.

"Go ahead dammit!"

"I will!" The man hurries to a telephone on the night stand as Uncle Charles holds on to Dana and starts to argue with her! The man nervously looks towards Dana then speaks into the phone as Aunt Mindy hurries out the room.

Aunt Mindy hurries into the kitchen and picks up the phone receiver. She quickly dials a number. She anxiously waits for several seconds. She then says, "Hello?! ..... Is Christine or David Brown still there?! Please put them on the phone?! I got to speak to them right away! ..... Okay thanks!" Aunt Mindy waits awhile. She then speaks into the phone again and says, "Hello Christine?! ... Yeah Christine this is me, Aunt Mindy! You have to get here right away! Dana is here!"

"She is?" Christine says from the other end of the phone. "What she doing over there? She's supposed to be here at Gracy and Mike's house! We were all wondering where she was, because she disappeared for a while! We asked Diane where Dana was. Diane said Dana went to call you then Diane didn't know where Dana was after that."

"Well Dana's here!"

"What is she doing over there?"

"She's harassing my tenants!"

"Harassing your tenants?! What do you mean she's harassing your tenants Aunt Mindy? What are you talking about?"

"Dana's trying to throw my tenants out!"

"She what!"

"Yeah! She called here a little while ago and told me Diane is planning to stay with me for a couple of months! She said Diane is planning to stay in the same room she stayed in before, then I told her I have tenants in that room! Then she told me the tenants got to go that she was on her way over! Twenty minutes later, she storms right in here right after Charles came in the house, then barges right up the stairs to these people! She's in the room right now trying to throw them out! Could you and David do something about her Christine?! I mean could you come take care of this one!"

"Sure Aunt Mindy! Put Dana on the phone! I want to have a word with her!"

"Okay." Aunt Mindy puts the receiver down and hurries away.

At Gracy and Mike's house, Christine stands behind David as David angrily speaks into the telephone receiver and shouts, "Dana you haven't been out of jail a minute and now you're having another problem? ..... No 'but Dad' me! Your Aunt Mindy has tenants there! They pay rent! Now you're just gonna have to accept that and Diane will just have to stay in another bedroom if Diane is gonna stay there!"

"Let me talk to her David," Christine says. David hands Christine the receiver. Christine speaks into the phone and says, "Now Dana I want you to leave out of your Aunt Mindy's house right now! Leave out of Aunt Mindy's house and leave those tenants alone!"

Two minutes later, Dana comes out the front door of Aunt Mindy's house. Aunt Mindy and Uncle Charles hurry behind Dana as Dana walks towards the gate. Aunt Mindy then says, "Dana Diane could stay in the other room."

"No she says she wants that one Aunt Mindy," Dana says. "Gotta go, Mom and Dad are waiting for me." Dana angrily walks to her vehicle as Aunt Mindy and Uncle

Charles hurry behind her. Aunt Mindy and Uncle Charles stand on the sidewalk as Dana gets inside the car. Dana starts up the engine. She then speeds off as Aunt Mindy and Uncle Charles watch her.

At Gracy and Mike's house, Diane D is speaking on the telephone saying, "What! I didn't know you and Uncle Charles had tenants there Aunt Mindy! And I didn't expect Dana to go there and go off on you or them! If I knew you and Uncle Charles had tenants there, I wouldn't have suggested to Dana I would come stay there."

"I know Diane," Aunt Mindy says. "You can stay in the other room if you want to stay here."

"Ain't Christian supposed to come home there for a while and stay in the other room?"

"Oh yes that's right. I forgot all about that."

"That's okay Aunt Mindy. I'll just stay here with Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike."

"You're gonna stay with them again?"

"Yeah."

"Well what room are you gonna move into and stay in Diane? All the rooms there are taken by the rest of your relatives."

"I know. I'll just have to move into Dana's room and stay in the room with her again."

"You're gonna move in the room with Dana again?"

"Yeah. Why not? Listen Aunt Mindy I'm gonna go to my place, pack my stuff so I can I can bring it all to Grandma and Grandpa's house. Talk to you later."

"Okay Diane. By."

"By Aunt Mindy." Diane D hangs up the phone then walks away.

A couple of hours later, a van pulls up to the curb in front of Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house and stops. Dana comes out of the driver's door.

Diane D, Christine, David, Mary, Barry, Gracy and Grandpa Mike come out of the house.

Dana walks to the back of the van to the back doors.

Diane D and the rest of their family go through the front gate. They walk to the back of the van to where Dana is as Dana unlocks the back doors and opens them. David and Barry bend into the van. They pull out two large suitcases. "Be careful Dad and Uncle David," Diane D says. "I got valuables in there."

"Okay Diane," Barry says. Dana closes the back doors back. She and everyone else walk away from the van and walk towards the front gate. They go through the front gate and walk towards the front door.

They approach the front door. Grandpa Mike opens the front door and they all head into the house.

Problem At The Dance Studio

Diane D, Michael, Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn walk down the corridor of a dance studio with Gordon, a black male around his early 40's who's the director of the dance studio as Diane D carries seven cream colored dance outfits in plastic bags. Diane D turns to Gordon and asks, "Now who did you say our extra dancers were gonna be?"

"Some of the dancers from the Norton's School of Dance," Gordon says. "There's ten of them that are gonna dance with you and the Dianettes. Five women and five men. You're gonna love these people Diane D. They're real good dancers."

"Okay," Mary says. "Let's meet them."

"Okay." Gordon turns his head around towards the other end of the hallway and shouts, "Jack! Y'all come here!"

Ten dancers, five men and five women of all mixed ethnicities around their twenty's and thirty's hurry towards Diane D and her family. They become excited and shout, "Oh my God! It's Diane D! Hello Diane D!"

Gordon turns to Diane D and says, "Diane D, this is Jack, the choreographer of the dancers."

"Hey Diane D!" Jack, a tall black male dancer around his mid 30's who's bald, smiles and says. "We always wanted to get a chance to meet you Diane D! Especially get a chance to dance on stage with you and the Dianettes! I can't believe it's going to happen! Well where are the Dianettes? Can't wait to meet them too!"

Diane D turns around towards the end of the hallway. She sees the Dianettes and says, "Oh here they are." She calls out to the Dianettes and says, "Hey girls! Come and meet who we're going to dance with at our next show!"

The Dianettes hurry down the hall.

The Dianettes approach Diane D as Diane D says to them, "These are the dancers we're going to dance with. These dancers are from the Norton's School of Dance."

The Dianettes look at the dancers. Then they look at Margarita and Mary as Nancy asks, "These are gonna be our dance partners?"

"They're going to dance with us?" Lonna asks.

"Yes," Mary says.

"Where are the dancers from Africa?" Miranda asks.

"Yeah we thought they were gonna dance with us at our next show," Charlotte says.

"They were," Margarita says, "but they couldn't make it for the next performance."

“But we were hoping to dance with them again,” Bernice says.

“I know Bernice, but for right now, you girls have to settle and dance with these dancers.”

“We wanted the dancers from Africa.”

“What difference does it make?” Mary says. “The dancers from Africa couldn't be here.”

“Well if the dancers from Africa aren't gonna dance with us, I don't know if I want to dance with anybody else,” Lonna says.

“Lonna the show is in another month,” Diane D says. “The dancers from Africa are not gonna make it here by then and we have to hurry and practice. Besides, I'm sure these dancers are good. Come on, it's not gonna be so bad. It's gonna be okay.” Diane D turns to Gordon and says, “Gordon where's the dressing room?”

“Thanks.” Diane D turns to the Dianettes and says, “Come on girls. We got to get ready and get changed.”

“How's your ankle Kelly?” Margarita says. “Does it feel better?”

“Yeah,” Kelly says. “It feels much better after y'all wrapped it in this bandage.”

“Are you sure you're able to practice?” Barry asks. “If not, you can still rest.”

“No that's okay Uncle Barry. I'm able to practice.”

“What happened to your ankle?” Gordon asks.

“Oh she twisted during rehearsal a week ago,” Margarita says. “We just want to make sure her ankle is okay and not to put too much strain on it.”

“Oh I see.”

“Okay girls y'all get going and get changed.”

“Okay Grandma,” Diane D says. She turns to the Dianettes and says, “Come on girls.” Diane D goes off as the Dianettes look at Jack and his dancers, then follow off after Diane D.

Gordon, Jack and the dancers look at the Dianettes. They then turn to Diane D's family as Jack says, “The Dianettes are not happy at all about dancing with us, are they?”

“They miss the dancers from Africa,” Margarita says, “but they'll get over it.”

“Are you sure?”

“Yes we're sure.”

“Okay,” Gordon says. “Well if you all want, you all can come to my office now.”

“Okay.”

Gordon leads Diane D's family and the Norton School dancers down the hallway.

Several minutes later, Diane D's family is sitting in the office with Gordon drinking coffee. Gordon turns to Diane D's family and says, “So how are the Diaz-Davidson Youth performers and Athletes doing? Do they still perform games and shows with your organization?”

“They are?”

“Yeah.”

“I see. How are those twin brothers doing?”

“You mean Mike and Mitch?”

“Yeah. Where are they?”

“They got into trouble again.”

“No kidding! What did they do this time? Get into another fist fight with some other kids?”

“Wow,” Barry says. “You seem to know Mike and Mitch pretty well, don’t you?”

“I think everybody knows Mike and Mitch pretty well Mr. Barry. They do have a reputation. So where are they, in juvenile detention again?”

“No not this time Gordon. This time, they got sent back to Germany to live with their dad’s relatives for a while.”

“They’re living in Germany right now?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow! How long will they be living in Germany?”

“Maybe for a year or so.”

“For a year or so?”

“Yeah.”

“How do you all feel about that?”

“At the rate Mike and Mitch were going, constantly getting into fights with other kids and everything and going back and forth to court and juvenile detention, it’s a real break for all of us.”

“And it’s a break we all really needed,” Tomas says.

“I guess it is,” Gordon says. “So when will you all get to see them again?”

“Well we’re going to do a show in Germany sometime in the future,” Barry says. “Mike and Mitch’s family in Germany says while we’re in Germany, we can stay with them.”

“What? Mike and Mitch relatives in Germany say you all can stay with them?”

“Yes and while we’re staying with them, Mike and Mitch will be there too and we’ll see them.”

“Wow, that’s nice! How long will you be staying with Mike and Mitch’s relatives?”

“For two or three weeks?”

“Yeah.”

“They said it’s the least they can do for us after us putting up with Mike and Mitch for all these years,” Tomas says.

“I know what they mean,” Gordon says.

The door suddenly swings opens. A tall slim black male dancer hurries into the office and shouts, “They’re arguing in the ladies’ dressing room!”

“What!” everybody shouts.

“Who’s arguing?” Gordon shouts.

“The Dianettes and the female dancers from the Norton school!” the male dancer shouts. Everybody hurries out of the room.

Five of the Dianettes, Nancy, Miranda, Charlotte, Lonna and Bernice are arguing with the five female dancers in the female dressing room as Nancy shouts, “Why don’t y’all just leave so we can get changed!”

“No!” one of the Norton School female dancers shouts. “We got to get changed too!”

Diane D’s family and Gordon rush to the commotion as Barry shouts, “What the hell is going on here?!”

“They're trying to kick us out the dressing room!” a second Norton School female dancer shouts.

“No we aren't!” Charlotte shouts.

“Yes y'all are!” the first female dancer shouts.

“It's not that we're trying to kick them out Uncle Barry!” Lonna shouts. “It's just that we want to get changed and they're in the way!”

“No y'all in the way because we have to get changed also! Y'all leave!”

“Wait a minute!” Bernice shouts. “Y'all want the dressing room, fine, have it your way!” Bernice turns to the rest of Dianettes and says, “Let's go y'all.” The Dianettes are about to leave.

“Now wait a minute!” Mary shouts. “It seems to me you two groups don't want to co-operate with each other!”

“We are trying to co-operate with them Aunt Mary!” Miranda shouts. “It's just that it's impossible for both groups to be in here together!”

“Yeah we need our own space!” Lonna shouts.

“Your own space?” Mary says. She looks around and asks, “Where are Diane and Kelly?”

“Listen, I'll tell y'all what,” Margarita says. “Why don't you girls stay in here and get changed and these dancers from the Norton School come with me then use this room when you all are finished. How about that?” Nancy, Miranda, Charlotte, Lonna and Bernice turn and look at the Norton School dancers. The Norton School dancers look at Nancy, Miranda, Charlotte, Lonna and Bernice. The Norton School dancers then walk towards Margarita and walk out the door. Margarita turns to Nancy, Miranda, Charlotte, Lonna and Bernice and says, “Now when you girls finish changing, I'll send these dancers back in here. Hurry and get changed.” Diane D's family leave the room as Margarita closes the door behind herself.

Around thirty minutes later, Margarita, Nancy, Lonna and Charlotte stand around together on the dance room floor as Nancy Lonna and Charlotte are dressed in the cream-colored dance shirts and dance leggings and long thick ponytails. “Hey everybody!” a voice shouts. Margarita, Nancy, Lonna and Charlotte turn around and look.

Bernice, Kelly and Miranda are at the doorway also dressed in the cream-colored dance outfits and long thick ponytails with Kelly in the middle as Bernice and Miranda hold on to her. Bernice then shouts, “Kelly's gonna test her ankle out now!”

“That's right everybody!” Kelly shouts. “So ready or not, here I come!” Kelly runs across the dance room floor towards Margarita, Nancy, Lonna and Charlotte and does a few somersaults and high flips! She then lands perfectly on her feet. They all clap and become excited for Kelly as they surround her.

“Alright Kelly!” Margarita, Nancy, Lonna and Charlotte say.

“Your ankle got better!” Margarita shouts. “That was great!”

“Thanks Grandma,” Kelly says. They all continue to happily surround Kelly.

Around fifteen minutes later, Mary, Barry, Tomas, Tonio, Marilyn and Gordon walk back into the office. Inside the office, Diane D is sitting backwards on a chair dressed in the cream-colored dance outfit and long thick ponytail down her back as Jack sits directly behind her also sitting backward on a chair as he and Diane D hold each other's hands doing a dance routine on the chair. Diane D then says, "Hey Mom, Dad, Grandpa check this out. How do y'all like this dance routine me and Jack are doing?"

"That looks nice Diane," Barry says.

"It does? So what do y'all say? You think we can do this chair routine at our next performance?"

"I don't see why not," Mary says. "That looks real nice."

The door suddenly swings open again. One of the male dancers Horace, a big husky dark skinned black male, bursts into the room and shouts, "We're quitting!"

"What!" everyone shouts.

"We're quitting!"

"Quitting?" Gordon asks. "What do you mean you're quitting, Horace? What's going on?"

"The Dianettes don't want to rehearse with us! They keep saying they want the dancers from Africa! Are the dancers from Africa that important to them?!"

"Obvious it is," Barry says.

"Well we all decided to quit! All the other dancers are in the dressing rooms right now changing back to their regular clothes! We're all leaving!"

"Now you all can't leave!" Diane D shouts. "The show starts in another month! We have to rehearse!"

"Yeah I was hoping to dance with Diane D and the Dianettes Horace!" Jack shouts.

"The Dianettes don't want to dance with us Jack!" Horace shouts. "They keep talking about the fellows from Africa that they wish those fellows from Africa were here!"

"But those fellows from Africa are not here!" Diane D shouts. "The girls already know that! Now come on, you guys have to rehearse with us!"

"Diane D, you and your girls can rehearse, but not with any of us! I'm sorry, but we're out of here!"

"Now wait a minute!" Tomas shouts. "We paid you and your dancers a lot of money to perform with Diane and the girls! I don't want to lose that money!"

"We rather pay you your money back then to be any place we're not wanted! You can call our dance school first thing in the morning and speak to Mac! He'll pay you your money back, but during the mean time, we're out of here!" Horace turns away.

Diane D gets up and hurries towards Horace and shouts, "But wait!"

Horace turns towards Diane D and says, "Sorry Diane D." Horace turns back around and walks out the room.

Diane D worriedly turns to her parents and Tomas and shouts, "Mom, Dad, Grandpa what are we gonna do?!"

"I don't know what y'all gonna do Diane!" Mary shouts, "but I know what I'm gonna do! I'm gonna put those girls on a new assignment!" Mary is about to walk out the room.

"Wait a minute Mary!" Barry shouts. Mary stops and looks at Barry as he says, "Maybe we can try to work something out."

"Work something out?! Like what?!"

Barry turns to Jack and says, "Jack, do you still want to dance with Diane?"

"Of course I do," Jack says. "Soon as I heard my dance group might get a chance to dance and work on stage with Diane D and the Dianettes, that's all I've been thinking about!”

“Okay, here's what we're gonna do. Next month Diane and the girls will perform on stage. After their performance and everybody else's and the choir finish their performance, you and Diane can come on stage and do a performance together as a closing act. What do you say to that?”

“Woa that sounds great! I would love that!”

“That would give you the chance to still dance with Diane and you can do the performance y'all just did with the chairs.”

“Okay! I'm all for it!”

“Me too,” says Diane D.

“Okay good,” says Barry. “I'll go tell the girls. I'll be right back.” Barry heads towards the door and walks out the room, closing the door behind himself.

Barry enters the Dance Hall and approaches Margarita and the Dianettes. Margarita and the Dianettes turn to Barry as Barry says to them, “Hey listen up everybody. The dancers from the Norton School just quit. But Jack, who was supposed to be Diane's partner still wants to dance with her. What I decided to have done, is you girls and Diane will perform on stage. After your performance and everybody else's performance is finished, Diane and Jack will come out on stage and do a closing act.”

“What!” the Dianettes shout.

“Uncle Barry, we were supposed to do the closing act,” Miranda says. “Diane and all of us together, not this guy!”

“That's right Uncle Barry,” Charlotte says.

“I know,” Barry says. “Well how about you all, Diane and Jack.”

“No!” the Dianerttes say.

“No Jack,” Lonna says. “Because if he be there, I don't want to be there!”

“What?” Margarita says. “Now you girls are making it very difficult right now! What's wrong with Jack being with you all when you do a closing act?!”

“Because we were supposed to do it Grandma,” Bernice says.

“Okay you will do it! So would Jack, okay?”

“Hey Grandma, Uncle Barry, I have an idea,” Charlotte says. “How about those dancers from Africa do the closing act with us.”

“Yeah!” the rest of the Dianettes say.

Barry looks at the Dianettes. He then says, “Obviously the dancers from Africa are important to you all. Alright, I'll try to get those dancers from Africa.”

“You will?” the Dianettes asks.

“Yes I will.”

“How are going to do that Barry?” Margarita says. “Those dancers from Africa already said they couldn't make it next month.”

“I know Ma. Don't worry, I'll work something out.”

“Thanks Uncle Barry!” the Dianettes say as they happily hug Barry.

“Come on girls.” Barry turns and leads the Dianettes away as Margarita follows behind them.

The following day, a woman in the street is reading a small article in the newspaper that reads: DANCERS FROM THE NORTON SCHOOL QUIT REHEARSAL WITH DIANE D

AND DIANETTES DUE TO DIFFERENCES WITH THE DIANETTES: The woman turns to several other people and says, "Hey. Did y'all read this article about the dancers from that Norton Dance School quitting rehearsal with Diane D and Dianettes?"

"Yeah, because the Dianettes keep wanting the dancers from Africa on their show," one of the men says. "I read Diane D's dad is gonna try to bring those same African dancers back."

"He is?"

"Oh I hope so, because I've seen those African dancers before and they're terrific. I'm planning to see Diane D and the Dianettes' next show. I would love to see those African dancers there on stage with them again."

"So would I." The woman, the man and the rest of the people look at the article.

Two weeks later, Barry comes into the hallway with eight male dancers from Africa. He looks down the hallway and shouts, "Diane! Girls! Here they are!" Diane D and the Dianettes hurry down the hall towards Barry screaming with excitement. They approach the male dancers and start to hug all over them. "Y'all made it!" Diane D says.

"Yeah we did," the African dancers say.

"Ariiiiight!" the Dianettes say. Diane D and the Dianettes excitedly pull the male dancers away with them as Barry stands there and smiles on at them.

A woman in the street is reading a flyer. She becomes excited and turns to four other adults shouting, "Hey! The Diaz-Davidson Organization is gonna have a concert the week after next!"

"They are?" a second woman asks.

"Yeah! It says it right here!" The woman hands the flyer to the other people. The people take the flyer and look at it. It has a headline that reads: THE DAVIDSON ORGANIZATION PRESENTS: NICOLAS AND MICKEY DAVIDSON, DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES, MICHAEL AND THE DAVIDSON BAND, THE DAVIDSON CHOIR AND MANY MORE AT THE KORR'S THEATER!

"Oh wow!" a man says.

"It says Diane D's dad was able to get the dancers from Africa for their next performance!"

"He was?"

"Yeah! They're gonna perform at the theater in two weeks! They're selling tickets now! I'm gonna by some!"

The man turns to a second woman and asks, "You want to see the concert?"

"Sure I want to see it," the second woman says. "I always wanted to see The Diaz-Davidson Organization's shows. Where do we purchase tickets from?"

"It has a number right here you can call," the first woman says. "I'm gonna call that number when I get home." She looks at the third woman and asks, "You going to the concert?"

"Yeah I want to go," the third woman says. "I'll bring my family with me. You have an extra flyer on you?"

"No, someone just gave this one to me."

"Well can I copy this number down?"

"Sure."

“The third woman and the other people take pens and paper out of their pockets. They all start to copy the phone number down.

Diane D is at the Dance Studio standing on a platform in front of the room facing the Dianettes and the male dancers from Africa. Michael and the Band are on the side ready to play their instruments. The Dianettes each have microphones in their hands as Diane D waves her hand and finger at everyone and shouts, “Okay everybody! The concert is in two weeks, alright! We gotta be prepared to hit the stage, we don't have much time! We got to get these steps right! Now again, when I count to five, I want you all to do your steps and I want you girls to lift your feet up a little higher and sing louder, okay! Ready?! One, two, three four five, hit it!” Michael and the Band start to beat the drums and play the music.

The Dianettes and the dancers from Africa start to dance as the Dianettes sing, “Where's the party at? Where's the party at?”

Diane D steps off the platform. She walks slowly around the room, firmly watching everybody's steps and performance. She suddenly stops and looks across the room. She points her arm and finger across the room and shouts, “Uh let's get those steps right you two! You're a little off key!” Diane D continues to look across the room. She then walks around the room watching everybody's steps. She stops and stares at everybody's steps. She bends to the floor and puts her head near the floor, watching everybody's steps from below. She gets back up and firmly walks back to the front of the room.

Diane D steps up on the platform again and puts her arms out in the air towards everyone and shouts, “Hold it!” The music stops. Everyone in the room stops rehearsing and look at Diane D as Diane D shouts, “You guys are missing a step and missing a beat! Some of you are still off key! We're gonna go at it again! If you don't get the steps right this time, we're gonna go at it a few more rounds! Okay when I count to five, I want everybody to do their steps again! Ready?! One, two, three four five, hit it!” Michael and the Band start to beat the drums and play the music again.

The Dianettes and the dancers from Africa start to dance as the Dianettes sing, “Where's the Party At? Where's the Party At?”

Diane D steps off the platform and walks slowly around the room, firmly watching everybody's steps and performance again. She suddenly stops again. She stares at everybody steps. She bends to the floor and puts her head near the floor again, watching everybody's steps from below again. She gets back up and goes back to the front of the room again.

Diane D steps up on the platform again and puts her arms out in the air to everyone and shouting, “Hold it!” The music stops again. Everyone in the room stops rehearsing and look at Diane D again as Diane D shouts, “You guys are still missing a step and still off key! I'll tell you what! We're not gonna do this song and step! We're gonna try a different song, step and beat! But first we're gonna take a thirty minute break then come back and do a different tune and beat! So everybody, take a break!” Diane D turns and walks towards the side of the platform as she points her arms and index finger out towards Michael and says, “Michael let me speak to you for a minute!” Michael waits for Diane D as everyone else in the room heads towards the exit door.

Controversy Over Diane D's Dance Steps

It is two weeks later. It is 7:00 Saturday evening. The theater lobby is packed with people. There are teenage girls in the crowd as one of them says, "Are Mike and Mitch going to be on the show?"

"No we won't be seeing Mike and Mitch for a while," a second girl says. "Mike and Mitch got into trouble again and they were sent to live in Germany for a while."

"Yeah that's what I heard," a third girl says.

"So that means we won't get to see them at any of the Diaz-Davidson's organization events for a while?" the first girl asks.

"I guess not," the second girl says.

"Ah man. I'm gonna really miss them."

"Yeah me too," the third girl says.

"Me too," a fourth girl says.

"A lot of people miss them," the second girl says. The teenage girls become sad.

"Hey, I know what!" the first girl shouts. "Maybe we can take a trip to Germany and see them!"

"Sandy, you're dreaming right?"

"No I'm not dreaming! I hear the Diaz Davidson Organization is going to do a show in Germany in the future! If we go to Germany to see their show, maybe we can get to see Mike and Mitch there!"

"Well good luck! My family and I can't afford to go to Germany."

"Neither can my family," the fourth girl says.

"Well hopefully Mike and Mitch will come back to The States again then we'll get to see them again."

"I hope so too," the third girl says.

It is an hour later inside the theater. The show has been going on for a while. Male white reporters around their mid 40's and cameras are at the stage. A Hispanic male announcer around his late 30's comes on the stage with a microphone in his hand. He speaks into the microphone and shouts, "Ladies and gentleman, are you ready for the next performance?!"

"Yeeeaah!" the crowd shouts.

"Okay Ladies and gentleman, here are Diane D and The Dianettes!" The crowd starts to scream and cheer as the African dancers come out on stage dancing. The Dianettes flip a few times out onto the middle and back of the stage. They then dance past the African dancers towards the front of the stage. Diane D comes out with the microphone in her hand singing as the crowd screams and cheers. Reporters watch Diane D and the Dianettes dance. The reporters become stunned.

Five minutes later, Diane D and the Dianettes finish their performance. The crowd screams and cheers as Diane D and the Dianettes take a bow. The reporters stare at Diane D and The Dianettes stunned. Diane D and the Dianettes turn and leave the stage. One reporter turns to the other and says, "You know it's so remarkable and so uncanny how Diane D and the Dianettes all dance so perfect like that. I've seen several of their shows before and those girls never once miss a step or beat!"

"Yeah I notice that," the second reporter says. "They must do an awful lot of practice."

"Practice? We think it's more than practice."

"More than practice? What do you mean more than practice?"

"Don't you see? Look at how perfect they danced!"

"Yeah they danced perfect, so what? What's wrong with that?"

"They're too perfect! Something is not right about that. We're going to have to have an investigation as to what's going on." The reporters and investigators turn and leave from near the stage.

At the Diaz-Davidson Organization, Vivian hurries through the organization hallway to a door holding a male toddler and lots of books in her arms. Margarita quickly comes out of the door wearing her hair hanging around her back and shoulders with bangs on her forehead, a grey sleeveless and shoulderless shirt and black pants. She bumps right into Vivian. The books drop right on the floor as the toddler almost falls. Margarita bends down and quickly catches the toddler as the toddler starts to cry. Margarita holds on to the toddler and tries to calm him. Diane D, Charlotte and Lonna, dressed in identical sleeveless silver blouses and the rest of Diane D's family and relatives come behind Margarita as Margarita says to the toddler, "There there, it's okay. Don't cry, I got you." Marilyn takes the toddler as Nicolas bends down and picks the books up.

"What happened Grandma?" Diane D says.

"The baby almost fell but he's gonna be just fine."

Evette approaches Diane D and says, "Oh Diane, I just came to tell you that the investigators are downstairs now."

"Yeah I was just on my way down there," Diane D says.

Nicolas stands back up with the books as Margarita says, "Here, I'll take those." Nicolas hands Margarita the books.

"Listen Grandma," Diane D says. "I'm gonna find out what the heck these investigators want."

"Yeah I'm coming too." Margarita put the books aside as Diane D and everyone else hurry away. Margarita follows Diane D and the rest down the hallway.

Inside the organization lounge, Diane D and the Dianettes are sitting on stools lined against each other with Diane D being in the middle as Margarita stands beside them.

A few reporters are in the room with them. A middle-aged white female reporter with dark hair says, "Now Diane D, these investigators and police have come here to the Diaz-Davidson Organization today, because they want to know, if you put steroids or some other kind of power drug or some hypnotic drug in the food you cook for your family, especially the Dianettes to make them perform real good."

"What!" Diane D and the Dianettes.

"Where the hell do you get this crazy idea from?!" Diane D says.

"Diane doesn't put drugs in anybody's food!" Margarita shouts.

"What kind of person do you think I am?!"

"Well your brothers claimed in an interview before that you cook food for your family and the Dianettes," the female reporter says. "The investigators think that maybe you might be secretly putting some sort of power drug in the Dianettes food without them even knowing it because you all perform too perfect. Nobody or any group of people dance that perfect or jump and twirl that high in the air. We are wondering if you put anything in the Dianettes food."

"No I don't! Anybody could dance perfect like that if they practice enough!"

"Yeah one person can dance perfect, but a whole group of girls dancing perfect like that together without missing a beat or movement?! That's kind of strange."

"It is," a white male reporter says. "Diane D if we find out you secretly put drugs in the Dianettes food, charges could be filed against you."

"Diane is not drugging us!" the Dianettes shout.

"That's right!" Margarita shouts. "So you all can take your crazy accusations out of here!"

"What's crazy about it?" the male reporter asks.

"It's crazy because it's not true!" the Dianettes say.

"It isn't true!" Diane D shouts. "And I don't appreciate any of you suspecting me of doing something like that! We're being investigated because we dance too perfect?! Have you guys ever heard of the term 'practice makes perfect'?! We dance well because we practice and rehearse at it just like anybody else would do! What the hell is wrong with that?!"

"Other dance groups don't seem to dance too perfect like you all do," says the male reporter.

"So we're supposed to dance not too perfect just to please you guys?! No it's not gonna happen! We want to give the crowd our best performance, that's all we want to do. If the crowd is happy with our performances, then why can't you guys be happy?!"

"We are happy with your performances Diane D, but if there's a slight chance that you might be secretly slipping some kind of drugs or any other illegal substance in these girls food, we can't be happy with that."

"There's no drugs in anybody's food!" Margarita shouts.

"Okay prove it to us. Why don't you all give us your best performance right now."

"Give you our best performance?" Diane D says.

"Yeah. Just so you can prove to us there's no power drug creating your performance."

"Okay. Even though this whole idea sounds crazy, we'll give you our performance." Diane D turns to the Dianettes and says. "Come girls let's step this way." Diane D and the Dianettes step up off the stools and go to the other side of the room. They sit on other stools lined up with Diane D at the far right end. Diane D and the Dianettes start to sing as the investigators reporters watch them stunned.

The following day, several people are at the bus stop reading an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: INVESTIGATORS SUSPECT DIANE D OF PUTTING SOME SORT OF SUPER DRUG IN THE FOOD SHE COOKS FOR DIANETTES! INVESTIGATORS AND POLICE COME TO FAMILY ORGANIZATION AND QUESTION DIANE D!: “Oh my God!” a woman says. “Look at this article! It says right here that reporters and investigators had came to the Diaz-Davidson Organization yesterday and questioned Diane D and wanted to know does she put steroids or some other kind of power drug in the food she cooks for the Dianettes to make them perform real good!”

“Yeah, I saw that article,” one of the men says. “Can you believe it?! They think Diane D might be drugging the Dianettes! That’s crazy!”

“It is,” a second woman says. “The police claim if Diane D puts drugs in the Dianettes’ food, they’re gonna arrest her and file charges against her.”

“They want to arrest Diane D?” a second man asks.

“If they find out she be secretly putting drugs in the Dianettes’ food.”

“Yeah,” the first woman says.

“And now they want to arrest her again?”

“Yeah, if she’s drugging the Dianettes, she’ll be right back in jail.” The people continue to look at the article.

It is one week later. Diane D and the Dianettes who are all dressed identically are at a TV Station sitting on a ledge with Diane D in the middle. Maxine Carter, a middle aged white female TV reporter with blonde hair speaks into the camera and says, “Hello, I’m Maxine Carter. I’m here with Diane D and the Dianettes after Diane D was questioned by reporters last week about a possible drug use going on at the Diaz-Davidson home or organization.” Maxine Carter turns around to Diane D and the Dianettes and says, “So how are you ladies doing? Welcome to the Maxine Carter Show. Now Diane D, I understand that some reporters came to your family’s organization and wanted to question you and your family about possible drug use going on with you and the Dianettes’ performance. Why do these reporters think there is some sort of drugs involved in your performances?”

“Because they claim we dance too perfect to be true,” Diane D says. “I don’t appreciate anybody accusing me of using drugs or putting drugs in anybody’s food! What the hell is wrong with them? What’s wrong with anybody giving a good performance?!”

“It’s not that the performance is good Diane D. Is just that they think your performance is too good. They’re trying to find out what your secret is.”

“Secret? There is no secret! What’s secret about it?! We practice! We rehearse at what we’re doing! We’ve been dancing together since we were kids! Sooner or later we’ll get tuned to each other and the performance will come to us like nothing! Of course we mess up our steps at times when we practice! If any of us mess up on our steps, we practice at it again until we get the steps right! What’s wrong with doing that?”

“Nothing I guess.”

“Listen, we're human, we make mistakes just like everybody else.”

“But Diane D, you're the one who does all the choreography, don't you?”

“Yeah, and?”

“Do you give these girls steroids or anything like that to make them perform great?”

“Is there something inside all of your shoes to make you all jump and twirl real high?”

“No there isn't! There's nothing inside our shoes but our feet! I told you we rehearse and practice! That's real absurd for you, the reporters, the police and the investigators to even think, that I would try to harm anybody with drugs or have something put in our shoes! The police and investigators got the nerve to talk about arresting me and throwing me in jail if their speculations about me putting some super drug in the girls' food is true! I don't need this pressure on my back!”

“They told you if their speculations are true, they're gonna arrest you and throw you in jail?”

“Yeah that's what they told us when they were leaving the organization!”

“I'm sorry you all had to go through that. Your performances are great and I absolutely enjoy your performances.”

“Thank you.”

“And I thank you for coming here.” Maxine Carter turns to the camera and says, “So ladies and gentleman you heard it from Diane D herself, she does not put drugs in her or the Dianettes' food that she cooks for them and I believe her. And that's all we have for right now Ladies and Gentlemen. See you next time.” Maxine Carter turns away from the camera back towards Diane D and the Dianettes.

A few days later inside a dance studio hallway, Diane D and the Dianettes walk down the hallway dressed in identical horizontal maroon and blue striped shirts with matching maroon leggings as they talk and laugh a little. “So where're the other outfits Grandma's supposed to pick out for us?” Nancy asks.

“They should be upstairs already,” Diane D says. “Let's go check them out.”

“Okay,” the Dianettes say. Diane D and the Dianettes are about to hurry down the hallway. All of a sudden there is a loud knock on the door. Diane D and the Dianettes become startled and look towards the door.

Diane D and the Dianettes go to the window. They take a peak through the window. They see a bunch of anxious reporters and investigators outside. Diane D starts to sing and shout, “Oh my god, oh my god! When these people gonna stop, comiing?”

“Oh my god, oh my god!” the Dianettes sing in chorus.

“When these people gonna stop, comiing?” Diane D sings as she starts to walk down the hall with the Dianettes following behind her and sing, “Oh my god, oh my god!”

“When these people gonna stop, comiing?” Diane D continues to sing. The reporters and investigators come around all the windows around the room peaking through the windows, trying to speak to Diane D questioning her about the Dianettes as she and the Dianettes continue to walk and sing looking around the windows at the reporters and investigators.

FLASHBACK:

Diane D and Dianettes are suddenly on a stage dressed in gold halter like tops with matching mini-skirts and matching golden sandals with their long hairs all loosed out around the back and sides as they spread out across the stage in a straight line with Diane D going towards the far right front, singing and dancing, “Oh my god, oh my god!”

“When these people gonna stop, comiing?” Diane D sings.

“Oh my god, oh my god!” the Dianettes sing.

“When these people gonna stop, comiing?” Diane D sings again.

BACK TO THE PRESENT:

Back in the hallway, the reporters bang on the windows as the Dianettes sing to Diane D not to go near the door, “Here we go again don’t go near the door, don’t open the door, don’t look out the door.” The reporters and investigators bang on the window as the Dianettes sing to Diane D not to go to window, “Here we go again don’t go near window, don’t open window, don’t look out window.” The reporters and investigators ring the telephone as the Dianettes sing to Diane D not to go to the phone or answer it, “Here we go again don’t go near the phone, don’t pick up the phone, don’t answer the phone.” The reporters and investigators slip mail and notes under the door. Diane D and the Dianettes see two larges notes that says: DIANE D, WHAT ARE YOU AND THE DIANETTES SECRET? TELL US THE STORY! Diane D becomes frustrated as the Dianettes sing to her not to go to the mail, “Here we go again don’t go near the mail, don’t look at the mail, don’t open the mail.” Diane D picks up the note and tears it up. She angrily starts to go to the window as the Dianettes pull her back a little. Diane D breaks away from the Dianettes and fiercely go to the windows. She starts to sing to the reporters and investigators, “I don’t really have to volunteer my story, I don’t really have to volunteer! I don’t really have to tell you my story, I don’t have to really tell you! I don’t really care to tell you my story, I don’t really care to tell you!”

Back on the stage, Diane D and Dianettes sing and dance again, “Oh my god, oh my god!”

“When these people gonna stop comiing?” Diane D sings.

“Oh my god, oh my god!” the Dianettes sing.

“When these people gonna stop.....comiing?” Diane D sings again.

Back in the hallway, the reporters and investigators bang on the door and windows again. They slip another large note under the door. Diane D and the Dianettes see the large note saying: STOP IGNORING US DIANE D!! Diane D becomes frustrated again. She bends down and picks up the note. She bends back up and tears the note up. She angrily starts to go to the windows again as the Dianettes follow her in a single ling. Diane D sings to the reporters and investigators, “I won’t read any of your letters, anymore. Don't send me any of your letters, anymore.” Diane D and the Dianettes stand in a straight line and face forward. They start to clap, dance and sing again. “Oh my god, oh my god!” the Dianettes sing.

“Oh my god, oh my god!” the Dianettes sing again.

“When these people gonna stop comiing?” Diane D sings again. Suddenly the front door opens. The reporters are at the door. The Dianettes hurry to the door as the reporters try to question Diane D and the Dianettes. The Dianettes try to shove the reporters and investigators out the door as Diane D stands afar singing to the Dianettes, “Get rid of them riiight awaaay. Please send them as faaar awaaay. And make sure they staaay awaaay.” The Dianettes finally get the reporters and investigators out the door. They then slam the door, singing, “Oh my god!”

Diane D suddenly appears through the Dianettes in front of them singing, “Oh my god! When these people gonna stop comiing?”

“Oh my god, oh my god!” the Dianettes sing.

“When these people gonna stop comiing?” Diane D sings as she starts to walk with the Dianettes following behind her in a diagnal line with three on each side of her continuing to walk, sing and dance.

Outside the window, the security guards are pushing the reporters back as the reporters desperately try to get back to the building.

Inside the dance studio, Diane D suspiciously smiles looking out the window singing, “When these people gonna stop comiing?”

The reporters desperately try to break away from the security guards.

Back in the hallway, Diane D leaves from the window and makes a gesture to the Dianettes. She suddenly turns her head around towards the window and sees the reporters breaking from the security guards. She sees them hurrying towards the building. She turns back to the Dianettes and hollers to them, “Run!” The Dianettes turn and run straight down the hall as Diane D runs behind them.

The reporters rush in the other doorway and look down the hallway, “There they go!” one of the reporters shout. “Let's get them!” The reporters hurry down the hallway.

Outside in an empty lot, a white male reporter hides behind the bushes. Diane D runs past him turning her head around towards the Dianettes shouting, “Let's hurry girls!” The Dianettes run past the reporter one by one. Charlotte is the last to run past the reporter. The reporter suddenly leaps out of the bushes. He grabs Charlotte causing her to fall to the ground as Diane D and the rest of the Dianettes run way up ahead. The reporter starts to tackle Charlotte. Another white male reporter comes and tackles Charlotte's shoes and shouts, “What is in your shoes?!”

“Yeah tell us what Diane D's secret is!” the first reporter shouts.

Charlotte looks towards Diane D and the rest of the Dianettes and screams, “Aaaaaahhh! Diane! Girls! Help! Aaaaaah!”

“Aaaaah Charlotte!” the Dianettes voices shout. Angry footsteps are heard running back towards Charlotte.

The reporters continue to tackle Charlotte's feet. Charlotte suddenly bites down on one of the reporters' arm. “Aaaaahhh!” the reporter hollers as he pulls his arm away from Charlotte's teeth grip! Diane D suddenly appears and stomps right on one of the reporters hand then kicks him hard in the face! Lonna, Miranda, Kelly and Bernice then appear and stomp on the reporters and kick them away from Charlotte. Diane D, Lonna, Miranda, Kelly and Bernice all wrap their arms around Charlotte and lift her off the ground! They take Charlotte and run off!

Diane D, Lonna, Miranda, Kelly and Bernice continue to run off with Charlotte as Nancy quickly approaches! Diane D makes a gesture for Nancy to turn back around and run! Diane D, Lonna, Miranda, Kelly, Bernice, Charlotte and Nancy continue to run as they all turn their heads and look back towards the reporters!

Controversy At The Catering Hall

Two nights later, four vans pull up to a curb outside a Banquet Hall. Michael comes out of the driver's seat of the first van as Diane D comes out of the front passenger seat. The Dianettes come out of the back seats. Nicolas comes out of the driver's seat of the second van as Barry come out of the passenger seat. Mary, Margarita, Tomas, Tonio, Marilyn and Mickey come out of the back seats. Several handsome young black and Latino men who are members of the Diaz-Davidson Band and the Dianettes boyfriends come out of the third van, including Charlotte's husband Kenny while other people come out of the fourth van. They all come together then walk to the Banquet Hall building. A few reporters and a big crowd of excited people approach Diane D and her family. "Diane D!" one of the men in the crowd shout. "Hey Dianettes!" other people in the crowd shout. The entire crowd excitingly surrounds Diane D, her family and the Dianettes as Diane D, her family and the Dianettes continue to walk towards the Banquet Hall building.

Inside the Banquet Hall, two Latino female singers around their late 20's, one who is slim with curly chest length brown hair and the other one who is chubby and plus size with short curly black hair are on stage singing a Latin song with Latin music. Diane D, her family, Michael, the Dianettes, the members of the Diaz-Davidson Band, members of the Diaz-Davidson Organization and another crowd of people come in front of the stage looking on at the two Latino female singers. The two Latin female singers then do a dance routine as they sway their hips and do the twist. The crowd starts to scream and cheer! The two Latin female singers then move across the stage and twist their feet! The crowd starts to scream and cheer more! The two Latin female singers then sing towards the end of the song.

Five minutes later, the Latin female singers finish their performance. The entire crowd claps and cheer as the two singers smile and take a bow. A black male announcer comes on the stage. He speaks into the microphone and says, "Let's give it up one more time for Carmen and Rachel!" The crowd claps and cheer again as the two Latin singers take another bow. Diane D, her family, the Dianettes and the rest of the crowd turn and walk towards some chairs.

Diane D, the Dianettes and their boyfriends approach the chairs. The Dianettes and the men sit down on the chairs as the crowd excitedly chats with them. Mary turns to Diane D and says, "Diane, vamos a ir echan na mano en la cocina y traen los platos de la comida a cada uno."

"Esta bien Mama," Diane D says. "Voy a estar ahi."

"Esta bien."

Margarita then says to Diane D, "Diane, antes de llegar a la cocina, averigua que tipo de pollo todos quieren en sus platos."

"Okay Grandma," Diane D says. Margarita and Mary turn and walk away. Diane D turns to the Dianettes and members of the Diaz-Davidson Band. She claps her hands to them and shouts, "Okay listen up everybody!" The Dianettes and members of the Diaz-Davidson Band turn to Diane D as she shouts, "I'm gonna go in the kitchen and bring the plates of food to everybody!"

"You're gonna bring the food to us?" Wayne asks.

"Yeah, I'll be the servant for now!" Everybody laughs. Diane D then says, "So you all have to tell me which kind of chicken y'all want on your plates!"

"What kind of chicken do they have back there?" Melvin asks.

"Well they have barbequed chicken, fried chicken, broiled chicken, baked chicken, spicy chicken, curry chicken, you name it!" Everybody laughs again.

"Well give me the barbequed chicken," Kelly says.

"And I'll take the spicy chicken," Nancy says.

"Give me the fried chicken," Lonna says.

"Okay," Diane D says. "So far we got barbequed, spicy and fried chicken coming up! Mickey, what are you having?"

"You don't have to get my plate right now Diane," Mickey says. "I'll help you bring the food."

"Aariight!" Diane D turns to Nicolas and Miranda and says, "Nicolas, Miranda, what kind of chicken do you guys want?"

Nicolas, who has his arm around Miranda, says, "I don't know." He turns to Miranda and asks her, "What kind of chicken do you want babe?"

"I'll take the fried chicken," Miranda says.

"Fried chicken sounds good." Nicolas turns back to Diane D and tells her, "We'll both take fried chicken."

"You got it." Diane D turns to Charlotte and says, "Charlotte and Kenny, I didn't get your orders yet."

"Well I'll have both, the barbequed and the fried chicken," says Charlotte.

"You want both types of chicken?"

"Yeah."

"I'll have the same thing Diane," says Kenny.

"Okay you got it," Diane D says. She then turns to Bernice and says, "Bernice, how about you and Bobby?"

"Can you remember everybody's plate Diane?" Bernice asks.

"I'll try."

"Diane why don't everybody write down what chicken plate they want and put their names next to it," Bobby says.

"Okay that's cool. That sounds like a good idea."

"I have a pen and paper."

"Okay." Diane D then turns to the crowd and shouts, "Everybody have to write down what plate of chicken they want, then Mickey and I are gonna bring the plates!”

“Okay!” everybody says. Bernice writes down the plate of chicken she and Bobby want, then hands the paper and pen to Charlotte. Charlotte starts to write down what she and Kenny want. Charlotte finishes and passes the list to the next person. Soon everybody finishes writing what they want. They hand the list to Diane D.

Diane D looks at the list. She then says, “Okay everybody's done! Good! We'll go pick up the plates!” She turns to Mickey and says, “Come on Mickey.” She then turns to Michael and says, “You coming Michael?”

“I'm right behind you Diane,” Michael says. Diane D, Michael and Mickey go away from the crowd and head towards the back of the catering hall.

Diane D, Michael and Mickey go through the back hallway. They are about to pass two men who are both around their mid thirties, one white who is stocky with short dark hair and the other one half black and half Indian who is tall and slim with a very tan complexion and short black wavy hair with slight bangs. The men look at Diane D, Michael and Mickey as Diane D, Michael and Mickey are about to walk pass them. Lance, the white male says to them, “Hey Diane D, Michael, Mickey!”

“Hey,” Michael says as he, Diane D and Mickey slow down and stop. “What's going on guys?”

“Nothing much. How y'all feeling?”

“We're okay. And yourself?”

“We're alright.” Lance then looks at Diane D and asks, “Are you okay Diane D?”

“Yeah I'm okay,” Diane D says as she places her hands on her hips.

“Are you sure you okay?”

“Sure I'm sure. Why do you ask?”

“No reason. Just want to know that's all.”

Diane D puzzled looks at Lance. She then looks forward and continues to head towards the kitchen as Michael and Mickey turn and follow her.

Lance and the other man, Felix Green, turn and look towards Diane D, Michael and Mickey. Lance then says, “Well, it looks like she's holding up.”

Felix Green puzzled turns to Lance and says, “It looks like she's holding up? What do you mean?”

“I mean it looks like Diane D's holding up from the drugs she uses.”

“What? Drugs she uses? What are you talking about?”

“I'm talking about the night Diane D and her cousin Dana got arrested for drunk driving, weapons possession charges and stolen properties. They were both on drugs that night.”

“What do you mean Diane D and her cousin Dana were both on drugs that night?”

“Well Diane D and her cousin Dana had came from a club just before the police stopped them and pulled them over that night. The police stopped them for drunk driving, but they weren't drunk. They were both high.”

“They were high?”

“That's what I heard. I heard they were on their way to get some weed when the cops pulled them over.”

“What? They were on their way to get some weed? My goodness. Who did you hear this information from?”

“I heard it from a person who was at the club Diane D and her cousin Dana were at.”

Diane D and her cousin Dana were at a club called Sparkles. The person who was at Sparkles told me that Diane D and her cousin Dana were both snorting coke there that night.”

“They were both snorting coke? You're kidding!”

“No I'm not kidding Felix. The person who told me saw them doing that.”

“Lance, are you telling me, that Diane D, the one who works, sings, performs and raises money for her family's charity organization, the one who makes speeches to children at the schools against smoking, drinking and using drugs, uses drugs herself?”

“According to this witness she does.”

“Are you sure this is true? Because if it is true that Diane D is using drugs, I'm gonna print that in my newspaper tomorrow morning.”

“What? Print that in your newspaper? Why would you do that?”

“Because Diane D is supposed to be a role model, kids look up to her. Her family's organization raises money for charity, she visits sick children at the hospitals and sings to them. She makes appearances at schools, telling children to make sure they get an education and tells them don't smoke, don't drink and don't use drugs.”

“Diane D doesn't make appearances at schools anymore Felix.”

“She doesn't?”

“No.”

“Why not?”

“Ever since that horrible incident that happened the last time she appeared at a school. You know, the horrible incident that happened between her and that little boy Marcus, the kid who sent her family's organization a phony letter about a little boy who's dying of leukemia whose dying wish is to meet her just so she can appear at his school, then she winds up beating the crap out of that little boy when she found out that the whole letter was a hoax planned by him and his brother?”

“Yeah I heard about that incident.”

“It was horrible what I heard she did to that poor kid, breaking his bones like that, then claims not to remember any of it! Ever since that incident, Diane D stayed away from appearing at schools again. She hasn't forgiven being lied to, plus her family don't want the haunted memories reminding them of what happened between her and that kid Marcus inside that school.”

“I don't blame them. Didn't Diane D get sent away for what she did to that kid?”

“Yeah she got sent Upstate to a Mental Institution. I heard they put her on medication.”

“They put her on medication while she was up there?”

“That's what I heard. I hear she's still on medication to calm her nerves. She has to take the medication to control her out of control behavior which she also claims not to remember, but, she's out of the Mental Institution now.”

“Yeah we see. But why does she always lecture the Dianettes about their health, telling them to eat right and not to drink hard liquor? I thought she was health conscience. I also thought she was supposed to be a nutritionist and a personal trainer. Then behind closed doors, she's gonna use drugs and get high with her cousin? If Diane D does uses drugs, then maybe she does put drugs or steroids in the food she cooks for the Dianettes just like the police and those investigators suspected. The public have a right to know about this. They have a right to know that Diane D is not what she appears to be. They have a right to know that she is a phony and a hypocrite.”

“A phony and a hypocrite? But what about her cousin Dana? Her cousin Dana was using drugs too.”

“Yeah, but her cousin Dana is not the one out there being a role model. Dana's not out there in the public eye doing charity work, singing and dancing on stage and appearing at schools lecturing to children. She doesn't want anything to do with the public eye or charity work. She only happens to be in the public eye because she and Diane D are very close cousins and have been close cousins all their lives. Diane D is the one who's out there. She's suppose to be the role model, her, the Dianettes and the whole Diaz-Davidson Organization.”

“I know they're supposed to be role models Felix, but if the public knows about Diane D's drug use, it's gonna mess up her image.”

“Lance Diane D's image is already messed up by her out of control behavior whenever she gets angry! Her image is already messed up by what she did to those security guards, those police officers and those correction officers who threw inside that jail cell and tried to keep her in there! Plus her image is already messed up by sleeping with her own cousin's boyfriend, threatening her Jamaican lover's girlfriend over the telephone then speeding all the way to that woman's place of residence to assault her and beating and kung fu kicking the hell out of the wife of one of the guy's she was trying to date for some High School dance and the last incident she had which involved that little boy inside that school! She's a modern day Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde! Everybody already knows that!”

“I know, but if the public knows about Diane D's drug use, it's gonna mess up her image even more. It will mess up images for the Dianettes and the whole Diaz-Davidson Organization as well.”

“Well it's controversy, and controversy sells.”

“Felix, what are you saying? Are you telling me, that you're willing to mess up Diane D's image more and her family's organization's image, so your paper can make a lot of sales?”

“If that's what it takes. If I bring this story to the press, I'll get a commission.”

“A commission? So you wanna mess up Diane D's image more and her family's organization's image to make extra bucks out of it, huh?”

“No Felix, you can't mess up Diane D's image more or her family's organization's image, because I don't know if it's true about her drug use. I'm only going by what I heard. I'm only going by what someone else told me.”

“That's proof enough right there for me Lance. I'm gonna print in my newspaper tomorrow that Diane D is a Crack Head.”

“What! A Crack Head?! No Felix don't do that, please don't! You'll be in big trouble with Diane D's ENTIRE FAMILY if you do that! Diane D comes from a very close-nit family! Her family sticks together you know! Almost everything they do involves the entire family and all their relatives! You deal or mess with one of them, you're gonna have to deal and mess with ALL of them! They're not gonna take this lying down!”

“Diane D's family don't have to know that I'm the exact person who brought this information to the press. The newspaper I work for is pretty big. Diane D's family will never know which individual in the firm printed it.”

“They don't have to know which individual in the firm printed it Felix. They'll just bring a lawsuit against the entire newspaper company, that's all.”

“It's a chance I'm willing to take.”

“No Felix, don't do it.”

“It's too late Lance, I'm gonna do it. I'm gonna make a phone call to my newspaper company right now and tell them to get started on this new information I just got on Diane D. New information the investigators might want to know about. My newspaper company is open twenty-four hours. I'm gonna make that call.” Felix turns away from Lance and walks away as Lance worriedly watches him.

Diane D, Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Gracy, Mike, Michael, Mickey and other relatives are getting the plates of food together. Diane D moves a cart full of dinner plates. Mary turns to Diane D and asks, “Tienes la sal Diane?”

“Si, me dieron la sal Mama,” Diane D says. She then turns to her paternal grandmother Gracy and asks, “What's taking Dana and Tony so long to get here Grandma?”

“They should be walking in here with the extra food any minute now Diane,” Gracy says.

A black male caterer, around his early forties approaches Margarita. He says to her, “Excuse me Miss Margarita, there's someone on the phone who says they're from the newspaper.”

“The newspaper?” Margarita asks.

“Yeah. They say they want to speak to someone in charge of the Diaz-Davidson Organization and ask that person some questions.”

“Oh really? Okay thanks, I'll take it.” Margarita and the man walk away towards the hallway.

Margarita steps inside the catering office. She walks towards a desk. She approaches the desk and picks up the telephone receiver. She speaks into the receiver and says, “Hello Diaz-Davidson Organization, Margarita speaking. What can I do for you?”

On the other end of the phone, a white male around his mid 40's sits behind a desk and speaks into the telephone receiver saying, “Hello Miss Margarita, I'm Carlton Blake from the Daily Press.”

“The Daily Press?”

“Yes.”

“Well what can I do for you?”

“Well, I would like to ask you some questions about Diane D.”

“Ask me some questions about Diane D? My granddaughter. Well what do you want to know about her?”

“Well Miss Margarita, is it true? I mean is it true?”

“Is what true?”

“Is it true that.... Is it true that.....”

“I don't know what you're trying to say Mister. Get to the point.”

“Is it true that, your granddaughter Diane D uses drugs?”

“What! Is it true that my granddaughter Diane uses drugs?! What are you talking about Mister, Diane don't use drugs! Why do you ask?!”

“Well I have a reporter there at the catering hall right now who just called me up a couple of minutes ago and told me he just found out, that your granddaughter Diane D and her cousin Dana were both using drugs the night they got arrested for drunk driving, weapons possession charge and stolen properties.”

“What! Really?!”

“Yes.”

“My God, what reporter?!”

“Felix Green.”

“Felix Green?! Who him?!”

“You know him?”

“Yeah I know who he is! Where in the world did he get this information from?!”

“He said he got it from another reporter named Lance who's also at the catering hall. Lance got the information from a source who was at a club your granddaughter Diane D and her cousin Dana were at. The source told Lance, that Diane D and her cousin Dana were both getting high at the club and they were both high on drugs the night they were both arrested. Lance told Felix then Felix called me up. Felix claims that we should get this information printed in the paper by tomorrow morning. I told Felix that we cannot print the information unless we're sure it's true. So is it true that your granddaughter Diane D and her cousin Dana use drugs?”

“Of course I'm sure! These reporters got a lot of nerve making up some bogus story like this! This is absurd! This is ludicrous!”

Diane D, her family and relatives rush into the office as Tomas shouts, “Lo sucedido Margarita? Que esta pasando?”

“Alguien del periodico se encuentra en el telefono ahora mismo, me pide es Diane sobre drogas!” Margarita shouts.

“What!” the family shout.

“Alguien del periodico pregunta estoy en drogas?!” Diane D shouts. “Por que piden que?!”

“Porque se dijo un reportero aqua les llamo hace dos minutos, yles dijo que se entero de que usted y Dana estaban consumed drogas la noche usted y ella fueron arrestados por conducir borracho, posesion de armas y bienes robados!” Margarita shouts.

“What!” the family shouts.

Michael turns to Diane D and asks, “Diane, what did she say?”

Diane D turns to Michael and says, “Someone from the newspaper called here and asked Grandma am I on drugs!”

“What!” the family shouts.

“Someone from the newspaper wanted to know if you are on drugs!” Michael asks.

“That's what Grandma said!” Diane D says. “They told Grandma that they heard Dana and I were using drugs the night she and I got arrested!”

“What!” the family shout.

“Someone from the newspaper called and said that they heard you and Dana were using drugs the night you and she and got arrested?!” Barry shouts.

“Yes!” Diane D says. “They said a reporter here called them up and told them that?!”

“A reporter here called them up and told them that?!”

“That’s what she said!”

“What reporter?!”

“I don’t know!” Diane D turns to Margarita and asks, “What reporter Grandma?!”

“Felix Green!” Margarita shouts.

“We just passed by Felix Green in the hallway a little while ago!” Michael shouts.

“Y’all did?” Margarita asks.

“Yeah!”

“Felix Green is always printing harsh things about people!” Barry shouts. “Hand me that phone!” Barry approaches Margarita. He takes the telephone receiver and shouts into it, “Hello! Hello! Hello!” Barry looks at the receiver. He turns to his family and says, “No one’s there.” He hangs up the telephone.

“Well the guy on the phone told me that Felix Green found out about Diane and Dana’s supposed drug use the night they got arrested and wants to print that information in the paper by tomorrow morning!” Margarita shouts.

“What!” the entire family shouts.

“Print it in the paper?!” Grandpa Mike shouts.

“Felix Green wants to print about Dana and I using drugs?!” Diane D shouts. “Where the hell did he get that information from?!”

“He got it from another reporter Lance who’s here too!” Margarita shouts. “Lance got that information from someone who was at a club you and Dana were in just before you two got arrested!”

“Wait a minute, hold up! Dana and I weren’t in any club just before we got arrested! These reporters or their sources don’t know what the hell they’re talking about! And now they’re planning to print some lie about me and Dana in the newspaper?! Well I’m gonna go out in the hallway and give that Felix Green a piece of my mind!”

“So am I!” Michael says.

“I’m right behind y’all!” Mickey says.

Diane D, Michael and Mickey angrily turn and run towards the door. Diane D’s family grab and pull her, Michael and Mickey back. Diane D, Michael and Mickey struggle to break away from the family’s grip as Diane D shouts, “Let me go!”

“No Diane!” Tomas shouts. “You guys don’t go out there!”

“Why not Grandpa?! Felix Green is gonna print bad things about me and Dana! Let me go!”

“No Diane!” Mary shouts. “You can’t go out there and make a scene! We don’t want too many people knowing about this!”

“That’s right Diane!” Barry shouts. “There are other reporters and a lot of the press out there! If they see all of this commotion, they’re really gonna have a field day printing about this!”

“I don’t care!” Diane D shouts. “Just let me go!”

“No Diane, you’re not gonna go out there and argue with this guy!” Barry turns to Michael and Mickey and says, “Neither are you two!” Michael and Mickey look at Barry as Barry turns back to Diane D and says, “I’m gonna go out there and have a talk with Felix Green myself, but I’m gonna do it in a quiet manner, that way, other people don’t have to know or hear about this, okay? Now be cool!” Diane D continues to struggle away from her family as they continue to hold on to her! She suddenly gets superhuman strength as she heads towards the doorway dragging her family as her family screams! Diane D's family wrap their arms around her, struggling to hold on to her as she continues to drag them!

"Diane stop it please!" Gracy shouts.

Diane D continues to head towards doorway dragging her family as her family scream, still struggling to hold on to her! Barry gets the strength and goes right in front of Diane D and shouts, "Diane stop it! Stop it right now!" Diane D's family suddenly manage to stop her! They continue to hold tightly on to Diane D as she breaths in anger, staring out towards the hallway. Barry then tells Diane D, "I'm gonna go out there in the hallway and bring this guy Felix Green in here, just stay cool Diane, I'll be right back!" Barry turns to the rest of his family and says, "Everybody please hold on to Diane, don't let her go! I'm gonna bring this Felix Green guy in here!" Barry turns and hurries away out into the hallway.

"I'll go with you Barry!" Mary shouts. She then turns to her family and says, "I'm gonna go help straighten that Felix Green out! Please hold on to Diane! Whatever y'all do please don't let her go!" Mary angrily turns and hurries away out into the hallway as Diane D continues to breath in anger, looking at her mother as her mother hurries out into the hallway.

Dana and Tony suddenly walk into the catering office through a back door holding bags of food. Everyone turns and looks towards them. Gracy nervously approaches Dana and Tony and says to them, "Hey you guys."

"Hey everybody," Tony says.

"We got the extra chicken you wanted Grandma," Dana says.

"Oh good," Gracy says. "I'll take that." Gracy takes the bags of food from Dana.

Mike turns to Margarita and Tomas and whispers to them, "I think we better take Diane into the next room so Dana won't see how upset she is."

"And we have to go into the hall and tell Mary and Barry not to bring Felix Green in here just yet," Margarita says.

"Okay." Mike, Margarita, Tomas, Michael and Diane D's relatives take Diane D towards the doorway and take her out into the hallway.

A minute later, Margarita and Tomas are walking in the back hallway towards Mary and Barry. They approach Mary and Barry as Tomas tells them, "We don't think y'all should bring this Felix Green in the office yet. Dana and Tony just walked in there."

"They did?" Mary asks.

"Yeah."

"Well we didn't get a chance to speak to Felix Green anyway," Barry says. "We just saw him go out the front door. He's talking with some people outside."

"He is?" Margarita asks.

"Yeah." Barry, Mary, Margarita and Tomas suddenly hear slight shouting. They turn to look. They see Diane D rushing towards them with Michael, Mickey, Gracy and Grandpa Mike and her other relatives continuing to hold on to her.

Diane D approaches Mary, Barry, Margarita and Tomas and shouts, "Well did y'all find that turkey yet?!"

"Diane Felix Green just went out the front door just as we were about to approach him," Mary says.

“He probably knows we're on to him! Well I'm gonna go out there and curse him out!”

“Diane let's try to keep our voices low,” Barry says. “Your Grandma and Grandpa just told us that Dana and Tony came in the office. We don't want Dana and Tony knowing about this, especially Dana.”

“Dad Dana's not gonna hear about this, because while she's back there in the office, I'm gonna go out to the front and straighten that Felix Green out!” Diane D is about to go pass her parents and grandparents as the rest of her family pull her back again.

Barry stands in front of Diane D and holds her shouting, “Diane calm down!” Diane D angrily tries to go past Barry and is about to drag her family again as her family struggles to hold on to her.

“Calm down Diane!” Mary shouts. “You're not going out there?!”

Diane D angrily heads out towards the side of the back hallway dragging her family again as her family screams and struggles to hold on to her. “No Diane!” Barry shouts. Diane D continues to angrily head out towards the other side of the hallway dragging her family as her family continues to scream, struggling to hold on to her.

“What the hell is going on?!” Dana's voice shouts.

Everybody stops and turn their heads. They see Dana standing there at the end of the hallway looking at them. They all become nervous.

“Hey Dana,” Barry says.

Dana puzzled looks at them all. She then looks at Diane D. She walks towards Diane D.

Dana approaches Diane D and asks, “What's the matter Diane? Are you okay? Is something bothering you?”

“No Dana,” Mary says. “Nothing's bothering her. She's fine.”

Dana looks at Diane D and says to her, “Are you sure Diane? Where are you trying to go?”

“Oh yeah? What thing?”

“Her wallet,” Barry says. “Diane thought she left her wallet in the car and didn't want anybody to take it. Since the wallet is in here, I guess we don't have to go out there after all.” Barry turns to everybody and shouts, “Hey everybody! Why don't we all go back in the kitchen and finish setting up the food!”

“Okay,” everybody says.

“That's a good idea,” Margarita says. Everybody nervously smile to each other. Dana puts her arm around Diane D's shoulders worriedly looking at Diane D and leads Diane D and everybody else towards the end of the hallway as Diane D puts her arm back around Dana's shoulder.

Inside the kitchen, Margarita, Mary, Gracy and everybody else start to prepare more plates of food. Diane D and Dana go to the food cart still hugging each other as Dana continues to worriedly look at Diane D and asks, “What's wrong Diane?”

Diane D and Dana stop at the food cart as Diane D says, “Nothing is wrong Dana. I'm fine.”

“Oh yeah? Then why did you seem so upset out in the hallway?”

“Because like they said, I thought I left my wallet in the car. I was afraid it would be stolen.”

“Oh yeah? Are you sure it wasn't anything more than just your wallet? You seem real angry about something.”

“I'm not angry about anything. Look Dana, you have nothing to worry about. I'm okay. Let's hurry and get the food prepared.”

“Alright. I'll go help with the plates.”

“Okay.”

Dana lets go of Diane D as she gently pats Diane D on the back. She frowns as she looks away from Diane D then turns and walks away as Diane D turns and looks at her. Diane D then turns to the food cart. She gives an angry look out into the hallway. She takes the food cart towards the doorway then out into the hallway.

Inside the ballroom, Diane D is back at the crowd as the crowd sit at the tables. She hands everybody their plates of food. Lonna and Bernice stand beside Diane D. They puzzled look at Diane D as they hold their plates of food. Lonna then asks, “Diane, are you okay?”

“Am I okay?” Diane D says. “Sure I'm okay Lonna.”

“Are you sure?” Bernice asks.

“Sure I'm sure. Why do y'all ask?”

“I don't know, but, we could just sense something is bothering you.”

“Oh really? Nothing is bothering me.”

“Are you sure Diane?” Lonna asks.

“Of course I'm sure. Look, the only thing that's bothering me right now, is that you two aren't eating your plates.” Lonna and Bernice puzzled look at their plates. Diane D then tells them, “Y'all got to eat up.” Lonna and Bernice puzzled look back at Diane D as Diane D says to them, “There's plenty of vegetables on your plates I want y'all to finish.”

“Diane are you sure nothing else is bothering you besides these vegetables on our plates?” Bernice asks.

“Yes something else is bothering me Bernice.”

“Well what is it?”

“The vitamins inside the vegetables that you all need to eat. Now you two go eat. You need your vitamins and your vegetables. Eat!” Lonna and Bernice puzzled look at Diane D. They then turn from Diane D and walk away. Diane D then turns away from the crowd towards the food cart. She secretly gives an angry look towards the back hallway again as she takes the food cart and walk across the ballroom, heading back towards the kitchen. Lonna and Bernice sit with the others. They and the rest of the Dianettes worriedly look towards Diane D as Diane D leaves the ballroom. Miranda turns to Lonna and Bernice and asks them, “Is Diane okay?”

“We don't know,” Lonna says. “We think she's upset about something.”

“We think something is bothering her?” Bernice says.

“What do y'all think it is?” Nancy asks.

“We don't know. It's something she's not telling us.”

“What could she be upset about?” Charlotte asks.

“That's what me and Bernice were trying to find out,” Lonna.

“Well maybe we should go check on her and find out,” Kelly says.

“Yeah come on, let's go,” Nancy says. The Dianettes set their plates aside. They are about to get up from their seats.

“Wait a minute,” Melvin says. “Where are y'all going?”

The Dianettes stop as Nancy says, “To check on Diane.”

“Why are y'all getting ready to check on Diane? Diane seemed fine when she was just here. She seemed okay, giving all of us our food. Y'all don't need to check on her. I think y'all just getting carried away. Why don't y'all sit back down and wait a while.”

The Dianettes look at each other. Bernice then says, “Yeah I guess so.” The Dianettes sit back down at the table.

“Well as long as she doesn't sneak around behind our backs looking for a cigarette, that means she's okay,” Lonna says.

Sneak around behind your backs looking for a cigarette?” Gary asks. “What do you mean? Diane don't smoke.”

“Gary when Diane becomes angry or upset about something, she sneaks around behind all of our backs and depends on a cigarette to calm her nerves,” Bernice says.

“She does?” Anthony asks.

“Yeah. So if she doesn't sneak around and look for a cigarette, that means she's okay.”

“Well I didn't see her ask any of us for a cigarette when she was just here,” Vincent says.

“Well she's not gonna look for a cigarette in front of us Vincent,” Nancy says. “She won't let us know about it. She's gonna sneak behind all our backs and our family's back to secretly look for a cigarette.”

“She would?” Bobby asks. “Why would she have to sneak behind your backs to do that?”

“She doesn't want to set a bad example for us.”

“No?” Ralph says. “Well if she doesn't look for a cigarette in front of you guys and sneaks behind your backs and her family's back to secretly depend on a cigarette, how do y'all know she does that at all?”

“Because we would here about it later on,” Miranda says. “Somebody would come along later on and tell us that Diane had secretly asked them for a cigarette. That's how we would know.”

“So if nobody comes to us later on and tells us that Diane secretly asked them for a cigarette, that means she's okay,” Bernice says.

“Well I guess we'll all just have to wait and see if anybody tells any of you later on that Diane had secretly asked them for a cigarette,” Melvin says. The Dianettes worriedly look at Melvin, then at each other. They and everybody else start to eat their food.

Inside a dark part of the back hallway, Diane D is standing at the side door, angrily looking towards the outside through the glass on the door. She sees Felix Green on the sidewalk talking secretive to a group of around five people. She sees Felix Green secretly pointing towards the catering building as if appearing to be speaking about her. She notices the peoples' stunned reaction to whatever Felix Green is telling them. She sees one of the people, a woman appearing stunned with her mouth open, pointing towards the catering building also. Diane D then says to herself, “I swear that motherfucka.” She angrily rolls up her sleeves and balls up her fists. She opens the side door and is about to angrily go out of it. Suddenly, Joseph and Teresa come in the side door carrying some shopping bags and bump right into Diane D. Diane D becomes stunned and says, “Teresa! Joseph!”

“Hey Diane,” Teresa smiles and says as Joseph closes the door behind himself.

“Hey Diane,” Joseph says. “What's going on? How's it going kid?”

“Everything is alright Joseph,” Diane D says. “Everything is fine.”

“Good. We brought the extra punch. Where do you want us to put it?”

“Just take it to the kitchen. My family is back there.”

“Oh yeah?” Teresa asks. “Is Dana back there too?”

“Yeah Dana is back there. As a matter of fact Teresa, why don't you go to the kitchen and say hello to her.”

“Why sure Diane.” Teresa and Joseph excitedly walk away towards the kitchen as Diane D turns to look at them. Diane D suspiciously backs up. She then turns away and looks outside the side door again. She sees Felix Green in the street still talking secretive to the group of people. Diane D angrily opens the side door again. Suddenly Boris, a black man around his mid thirties comes inside the side door and bumps right into Diane D as he holds a large bag. Diane D becomes stunned and says, “Boris!”

“Hey Diane!” Boris says. “What's going on?” Boris closes the door behind himself and says, “Well here's the camera, CDs, champagne and beer you told me to pick up from the mall earlier.” Boris hands the camera to Diane D and tells her, “I also bought extra cans of soda, and I got the CDs your family wanted, especially the Miles Davis CD your Grandma Gracy have been begging me to get.”

“That's good.” Diane D suspiciously looks around a little. She then looks back at Boris and whispers to him, “By the way Boris. You don't happen to have a cigarette on you, do you?”

“A cigarette on me? Diane you don't smoke. Aren't you against smoking?”

“That's right,” a soft female voice from the distance says. “She is against smoking.”

Diane D and Boris turn their heads and see Joseph and Teresa standing there several feet away. Diane D becomes nervous. Teresa and Joseph approach Diane D as Diane D tells them, “You're right Teresa. I am against smoking.”

“Then why did you just ask him for a cigarette?”

“Oh I'm not asking for myself. My friend wanted a cigarette.”

“Your friend?” Joseph asks. “What friend?”

“My friend Lenny. He was looking for a cigarette earlier.”

“Lenny? We don't know any friend of yours whose name is Lenny.”

“Well of course you don't know Lenny Joseph, I just met him early this morning.”

“Early this morning?” Teresa asks. “Oh he came by your grandparents' house?”

“No Teresa, I met him at the supermarket.”

“At the supermarket?”

“Yeah. But forget about Lenny guys.” Diane D turns back to Boris and says, “What else you have in the bag Boris?”

“Well I have extra Reggae Dance Hall CDs I picked up from the store and some napkins. Hey why don't we all go in the back and let me show you all the CDs I brought.”

“Well, Teresa and I have to leave real quick and come back,” Joseph says. “We have to drop my mother off at the airport?"

"Oh that's right Joseph," Diane D says. "Your mother is leaving for Florida."

"Yeah and she wants to see me and Teresa before she boards her flight."

"Okay. Well you tell your mother I said 'hello' and tell her to have a safe trip."

"Sure we'll tell her Diane."

"Are you alright Diane?" Teresa asks.

"Yeah I'm alright Teresa," Diane D says.

"Are you sure?"

"Yes I'm sure. Listen y'all better get going, you can't keep your mom waiting. You don't want her to miss her flight."

"No we don't," Joseph says. "We'll be right back Diane."

"Okay."

Joseph and Teresa pass Diane and Boris and go for the side door. They open the side door, go out of it then close the door behind themselves.

Boris smiles to Diane D and says, "Come Diane, let's go look at the CDs." Boris takes Diane D by the arm and leads her away towards the back of the hallway as she looks back towards the side door.

Joseph and Teresa are walking out on the sidewalk towards the street. Teresa suddenly stops. Joseph stops as Teresa turns to him and says, "You know Joseph, I'm kind of worried about Diane. She seemed kind of nervous about something. Something didn't seem right with her."

"Yeah I notice that too."

"She said she met some guy named Lenny at the supermarket early this morning."

"So, what's wrong with that?"

"Well when I spoke to her family on the phone a little while ago, they told me that Diane spent the night at her grandparents' home and she never even left her grandparents' house until this evening. That's why I thought maybe this Lenny person came by her grandparents' house, but yet she claimed she met him at the supermarket."

"Well obvious she wasn't telling the truth to us about this Lenny person."

"Obvious she wasn't. Joseph, maybe I should stay here with Diane to make sure she's alright."

"Teresa my mother wants to see and hug both of us before she boards her flight. We're coming right back. Besides, Diane's here with her family. Knowing them, they'll keep an eye on her. Let's hurry and drop Mom to the airport so we can get back here."

"Okay." Teresa and Joseph hurry off as Felix Green continues to talk with the group of people as he drinks a can of beer.

Diane D and Boris are in the kitchen with Diane D's family and relatives as Boris says to them, "Hey everybody. How's it going?"

"Hey Boris," Gracy says. "You got that Miles Davis CD I asked you to bring?"

"I sure do Miss Gracy. I have it right here." Boris hands Gracy the CD.

Gracy takes the CD and says, "Thanks Boris! Now my husband and I can get to slow dance later on." Everyone laughs a little.

Diane D looks around. She looks at Gracy and asks, "Where's Dana Grandma?"

“I'm right here Diane!” Dana’s angry voice shouts. Diane D and everyone else turn around and see an angry Dana, Tony and Mickey at the doorway as Dana asks, “Is it true Diane?!”

“Is what true?” Diane D puzzled asks.

Dana walks towards Diane D and says, “Mickey just told me and Tony about what happened involving that newspaper reporter Felix Green!” Dana approaches Diane D and says, “He told us that Felix Green is gonna print bad shit in the newspaper about you and me using drugs!”

“Is that true Diane?” Tony asks.

Diane D sadly looks at Tony then says, “Yeah that's what we heard.”

“I had to tell Dana about this, Diane,” Mickey says. “She has a right to know about it.”

“So that's why you were upset out in the hallway a little while ago,” Dana says. “Listen Diane, I don't care what the hell that Felix Green says or writes about me, but I'm not gonna allow him to print bad shit about you!” Dana turns to Mickey and asks, “Where did you say Felix Green was Mickey?”

“Mom and Dad said he went outside the building in the front.”

“Well I'm gonna go straighten him out!”

“Yeah me too!” Tony says.

Dana angrily walks away as Tony and Mickey follow off behind her. Diane D's family and relatives grab Dana, Tony and Mickey as Barry shouts, “Wait a minute, calm down Dana! You too Tony and Mickey!”

“No I'm not gonna calm down Uncle Barry!” Dana shouts, “knowing that asshole wants to print bad shit about my cousin!”

“We're gonna take care of Felix Green as soon as we find him alone Dana!” Mary shouts. “We don't want too many people knowing about this! Just calm down! You're not going out there! Just stay cool!” Dana calms a little as the family holds on to her. The family, Tony and Mickey calm a little.

“Just relax everybody,” Barry says. Dana relaxes. The rest of Diane D's family and relatives relaxes. Suddenly Dana breaks away from the family and relatives and runs off! She dashes out the doorway as Diane D's family and relatives panic and go off after her!

Dana races down the back hallway as the rest of Diane D’s family and relatives race after her shouting, “Wait Dana! Wait! Come back here Dana! Get back here!” Dana ignores her family and relatives as she continues to race down the back hallway with her family and relatives in hot pursuit!

The Dana Vs. Newspaper Reporter Showdown!

Dana angrily bursts out of the side door and walks towards the sidewalk! She angrily walks towards Felix Green as Tony, Mickey, Michael and the rest of the family and relatives hurry after her! She then shouts to Felix Green, “Hey man!”

Felix Green and the people with him turn around towards Dana.

Dana approaches Felix Green and shouts, “What the hell you doing talking about printing about my cousin and me using drugs?!”

“What?” Felix says.

Diane D’s family and relatives grab Dana and hold on to her as she shouts to Felix, “Are you planning to print in your newspaper that Diane and I were using and abusing drugs?!”

“I don't know what you're talking about!” Felix Green shouts.

“I heard you were planning to print in your newspaper about Diane and me using drugs the night she and I got arrested!”

“I don't know who the hell went back and told you that!”

“My cousin Mickey told me! He said someone from your newspaper called here and told them about it, then he told me! He told me you were planning to print that shit in your newspaper!”

“So what if I was?!”

“For your information, Diane and I do not use drugs!”

“Well that's what somebody told me, that you and your cousin Diane D were using and abusing drugs that night you two got arrested for drunk driving, weapons possession charges and stolen properties!”

“So you just gonna choose to believe that bullshit lie and be quick to print that in your newspaper?!”

“That's right!”

“So you're gonna slam my cousin and mess up her image like that?!”

“As far as I’m concerned, your cousin’s image is already messed up!”

“What!” Diane D’s family shout.

“You better not write anything like that about my cousin in your paper!” Dana shouts.

“What I write about your cousin has nothing to do with you!” Felix Green shouts.

“It has everything to do with me!”

“No it doesn't! It is not your business!”

“Look! She's my cousin, she's my family, she IS my business motherfucka!”

“You really need to stay out of it!”

“I will stay out of it as long as you keep my cousin out of it!”

“Don't tell me what to do with my newspaper!”

“Don't slam my cousin in your newspaper!”

“I'll slam anybody in my newspaper I want to! I have slammed people before!”

“Listen, I don't give a fuck WHO you slam! You can slam anybody you want! As long as that person is not my cousin or anybody else in my family! Because if you slam my cousin or anybody else in my family, there is going to be a problem!”

“A problem?! Are you threatening me?!”

“Exactly!”

“Listen, I don't appreciate anybody threatening me! Just for that, I will slam your cousin in my newspaper tomorrow morning!”

“What!” Diane D's family shout.

“That's right, you all heard! Tomorrow morning, there will be an article in the newspaper with a headline that says ‘Diane D is a ‘crack head!’”

“What!” Diane D's family shout. “A ‘crack head!” Diane D's family is shocked and stunned. They turn their heads and look at Diane D as Diane D stares at Felix Green with wide angry eyes!

Dana turns back towards Felix Green and shouts, “Why you no good son-of-a-bitch!” as she throws her fist punching Felix Green right in the jaw, then kicks him hard in the groin as the crowd screams! Barry suddenly punches Felix Green right in the other jaw! Felix Green falls to the other side as Michael throws both his fists, punching Felix Green right in the face also! Felix Green falls to the other side as Mickey suddenly swings a 2 by 4 and whams the 2 by 4 right into Felix Green's belly! “Mickey!” the crowd shouts in horror as Felix Green bends and painfully grabs his belly! The crowd continues to scream as Dana throws three hard blows into Felix Green's face again then knees him right in the stomach! Michael and Diane D's family and relatives continue to viciously attack Felix Green! The crowd tries to intervene and break up the fight! They hold Dana, Michael and the rest of Diane D's family and relatives back away from Felix Green as Michael and the rest of the family angrily scream at Felix Green!

As some of the crowd hold Felix Green back, he holds his face and belly in pain. He takes his hand away from his face and looks at his hand. He becomes shocked to see blood all on his hand. He breaks away from the crowd and goes the other way! Some people in the crowd go after him!

Felix Green goes into the catering hall as some of the crowd go after him.

The rest of the crowd try to calm Dana, Michael, Diane D's family and relatives as Diane D's family and relatives continue to be hostile. A few people in the crowd try to calm Mary as Mary shouts to them, “He had no right calling my child a ‘crack head‘! He had no right!” Mary angrily turns from the people and goes to Dana and Diane D as Diane D holds onto Dana. Everybody else come and surround Diane D and Dana.

Felix Green painfully runs in the back hallway of the catering place as some of the crowd hurry after him! He goes to the side and head into the men's room! He slams the door behind himself as the crowd approaches the door! The crowd tries to open the men's room door, but it is locked! They cannot get in! They bang on the door shouting, "Are you okay Mister! Are you okay!"

Inside the men's room, Felix Green limps towards the mirror holding his stomach and groin in pain as he hears the crowd shouting and banging on the door! He ignores the shouting banging sounds as he looks into the mirror at his reflection. He sees his bloodied and bruised face. He sees both of his eyes swollen. He touches and holds his painful stomach. He becomes furious. The shouting and banging sounds outside the door suddenly stop. Felix Green then says to himself, "That fucking Dana! Look what that bitch started! I swear she is gonna pay for this!" Felix Green angrily turns and walks away from the mirror. He looks towards the bathroom door. He then walks towards it. He opens the bathroom door. He does not see anyone outside of it. He then walks out into the back hallway.

Felix Green angrily walks through the back hallway. He does not see the crowd anywhere around as he walks towards the side door.

Felix Green approaches the side door. He stands there and looks through the glass on the door. He sees the crowd still being hostile completely surrounding Dana as Tony, Michael, Diane D's family and relatives all try to calm her.

Several yards away on the sidewalk, Tony, Michael, Diane D's family and relatives continue to calm Dana. They see Dana's mouth trembling. "It's okay Dana," Mary says. "It's gonna be alright." They all then see a little blood dripping out of Dana's mouth.

"Oh my God!" Margarita shouts. "She just bit her own lip! Get some tissues!"

Mary reaches into her bag and shouts, "Tengo algunos tejidos!"

"Hold on Dana!" Barry shouts. Barry, Mary, Margarita and Gracy hold some tissue up to Dana's mouth, holding the blood.

Several yards away, Felix Green comes out of the side door. He angrily goes towards the crowd.

The crowd continues to scream in horror as Diane D's family rush right to her and Dana's aid! Diane D's family bend down to her and Dana and hold on to them as the rest of the crowd approach and bend down to them too. Diane D's family and the crowd help Diane D and Dana sit up off the ground as they ask, "Are you two okay?!" Dana looks at Diane D. She holds onto Diane D checking on her. She then asks, "Are you okay Diane? Diane are you okay?" Dana and the crowd worriedly look at Diane D as Diane D painfully tries to hold onto her back.

Barry, Tonio, Tony, Michael, Mickey and Diane D's relatives approach Dana's car as Dana starts up her engine! They all try to open Dana's car doors. They are not able to open the doors. "My God all the doors are locked!" Tonio shouts. "She's not letting us in!" Tonio and everyone else start to bang on Dana's car windows as they all shout, "Let us in Dana! Let us in!"

Diane D quickly looks towards Dana's vehicle's direction then quickly turns around as she, her relatives, Barry, Michael, Tony and Mickey run back the other direction!

Several minutes later, inside the family van, Barry sits behind the wheel driving as Mary sits in the front passenger seat. Diane D, Michael, Margarita, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn sit in the back seats looking out the windows for Dana's and Felix Green's vehicles. Mary turns around to Diane D and asks, "Diane, are you okay baby? Are you hurt bad?"

"I'm alright Mom," Diane D says. "I'm still in pain, but I'm okay. Which way did they go? Which way did Dana's car went?"

"I don't know baby." Mary turns to the rest of her family and asks, "Do any of y'all know which way Dana's car went?"

"No we have no idea Mary," Barry says. "We just gotta keep looking, especially before it gets dark!"

"All we know is that we gotta hurry and find Dana before she gets into an accident or something!" Margarita shouts.

"Yeah," Tomas says. "At least find her before the police finds her!"

"Yeah that's true," Barry says. The entire family is desperate, trying to find Dana's vehicle. They look out in the street and do not see any sign of Dana's or Felix Green's vehicles.

Felix Green's vehicle is speeding on the highway passing several cars!

Inside the car, Felix Green's face is all bloodied and bruised as he quickly looks into the rearview mirror. As he looks into the rearview mirror, he suddenly sees a dark blue car change from another lane then come right on to his lane speeding right towards his vehicle! "What the....," he shouts. He puts his car into high gear! He speeds his car down the highway more fast!

The dark blue car speeds down the highway more fast behind Felix Green's car, going after Felix Green's car! The two cars speed at around 80 miles per hour as they miss and go past other cars! They continue to race down the highway!

Inside Felix Green's car, he glances into the rearview mirror again. He suddenly hears a gunshot! "What the....," he shouts again. He becomes frightened and ducks his head! "Oh my god!" he shouts. He speeds his car more fast!

The dark blue car speeds more fast! It comes along side Felix Green's car as they both race at 100 miles per hour!

Inside Felix Green's car, he is frightened as he continues to speed! He suddenly hears another gunshot and ducks his head as his car jerks! "Oh my God!" he shouts again. He then notices that the other car is trying to push him off the road! "My God!" he shouts. "She's trying to push me off the road! She's crazy! I think she's trying to kill me!" Felix Green's car speeds away from the dark blue car! He suddenly hears a third gunshot and ducks his head as one of the rear windows in his car shatter and breaks. "Oh shit!" he shouts. The two vehicles continue to race down the highway going at 100 miles per hour! They go past other cars as motorists and passengers from other cars scream with fright!

A police car sits on the side of the highway. Inside the police car, two white male police officers spot the two vehicles racing down the highway! The officer behind the steering wheel gets on the police radio and speaks into it shouting, "Calling all units, calling all units! There're two cars speeding down the highway! I think they're both going over 100 miles per hour! They seem to be racing with each other! Go after them! Roger!" The police put on their sirens. They put on chase and speed into the highway!

The police car speeds down the highway past other vehicles! They chase after the speeding vehicles!

After a couple of minutes, the police cars are about to catch up with the two vehicles. The dark blue car suddenly slows down then quickly pulls off at a ramp! It speeds up the ramp and quickly exits the highway!

The dark car goes into the service road and speeds around the corner!

The police car continues to go after Felix Green's vehicle! They soon catch up to it. Felix Green's vehicle slows down. "Pull over to the right!" a voice shouts from the police car speaker.

Felix Green's vehicle pulls to the shoulder of the highway. It slows down then stops. The police car pulls up behind Felix Green's car then stop. The two officers get out of their car and walk towards Felix Green's car. They approach Felix Green's car. They see one of the rear windows shattered. They also see a bullet hole on the side of the car. The officers look at Felix Green. One of them says, "Do you mind telling us what the hell is going on?! What happened?! What were you and that other car doing speeding on the highway?!"

"She was trying to kill me!" Felix Green shouts. "I had to get away from her!"

"What! What are you talking about?! Who was trying to kill you?! Step out of the car." Felix Green opens the car door. He limps out of the car trembling. He closes the car door behind himself. The officers see his face all bloodied and beat up. "What in the world happened to you?!" the first officer asks. "It looked like you got beat up or something! What happened?!"

"That broad just tried to kill me!"

"Broad?" the second officer says. "What broad?!"

"Diane D's cousin! You heard of The Diaz-Davidson Organization before, right?! The family owned charity organization that performs all over the country for charity?!"

"Yes I heard of them."

"Well you know Diane D right?!"

"Yes I know who Diane D is. She's the one who sings and dances on stage with The Dianettes. The one who was arrested with her cousin Dana for drunk driving and weapons possession charges and stolen properties several months ago."

"Exactly!"

"Diane D's cousin tried to kill you?"

"Yes!"

"Which cousin?" the first officer asks.

"The same cousin Dana who was arrested with her!"

"The one who was suspected of shooting down all those traffic cameras?!"

"Yeah that's the one! It was Dana! She just tried to kill me!"

"She did?"

"Yes!"

"Why would she want to kill you?!"

"Because I threatened to their family that I was gonna print about Diane D using drugs the night Diane D and her cousin Dana got arrested and that I was gonna print Diane D is a 'crack head'! That's when her cousin Dana attacked me! She punched me right in the face, then the rest of Diane D's family and relatives jumped in and attacked me as well, including her husband, her parents, her uncle, her grandfather and her brother!"

"What! All of them attacked you?!"

"Yes!"

“You work for a newspaper?”

“Yes I do! I'm a newspaper reporter. I work for the local newspaper.”

“You do?”

“Yes!”

“I see. So after Diane D's family attacked you, did Diane D herself attack you too? Did she throw her fist at you?”

“No, she didn't get a chance to! She didn't need to attack me with her family doing all the attacking!”

“Wow. So what happened after Diane D's family attacked you?”

“I ran off and went into the men's room at the catering place where they were having an event. After I left the men's room, I went back outside to Diane D's family and tried to attack her cousin Dana back! I ran right towards Dana and jumped to try to kick her down! Somehow Diane D got right in the way and I wind up kicking her instead and she and her cousin Dana both fell down on the street curb, so did I! That's when her cousin Dana and I both got up off the ground! Then she came after me and chased me down the street! Then we both got in our vehicles and she chased me right on the highway! She chased me for a while, then I heard a gun shot! I got so scared, then I heard another gunshot! That time, my car jerked! Then she tried to push me off the road! As I was getting away from her, I heard a third gunshot! That's when one of my windows shattered! Then I heard the sirens! That's when she pulled off and got off the highway as soon as she heard the sirens!”

“We guess she did get off the highway because we didn't see that car anywhere around as we got closer to you.”

“Do you know what exit she might have pulled off at?” the second officer asks.

“I think two exits back.”

“You know what kind of car she was driving?”

“Well the car that was chasing after me appeared dark blue. I'm not sure.”

“Are you sure it was Diane D's cousin Dana chasing after you? Were you able to see the driver of the other car's face?”

“No, but most likely it was Dana coming after me.”

“Do you know whether or not she had anybody else in the car with her?” the first officer asks.

“I don't know.”

“Okay.” The first officer gets on his radio. He then shouts, “Calling all units, calling all units! Be on a lookout for a dark blue car that got off exit 3 on the highway, northbound side around five or ten minutes ago! The driver of that car is armed with a gun! The driver shot at another motorist three times as they and the other motorist were speeding down the highway and that driver tried to push the other motorist off the road! I'm with the other motorist right now! He happens to be a newspaper reporter from a local newspaper! Again, be on the lookout for that dark blue car! We have an attempted murder incident on our hands! We believe we know who the driver of the other car might be! Be cautious! The driver of the other car is believed to be armed and dangerous! Roger!” The first officer gets off his radio. He then turns to Felix Green and asks, “Are you hurt real bad?”

“Yes I am,” Felix Green says. “My jaw feels broken!”

“Your jaw feels broken?”

“Yeah! Dana punched me right in the jaw, so did the rest of her family! My stomach and ribs feel broken too! I'm hurt all over!"

"Well I'm gonna call the ambulance for you. Once you arrive at the hospital, we're gonna have to write a report on this incident."

"Okay."

The first officer gets on his radio again and says, "Send for an ambulance. Okay Roger." Felix Green looks away from the officer, all shaken up.

At a different location, two female officers sit in a patrol car. Officer Cooper, a black chubby female officer around her late thirties with a dark brown complexion and shoulder length dark brown curly hair sits behind the wheel talking into the police radio as her partner Officer Martinez, a slimmer Hispanic female officer also around her late thirties with shoulder length curly hair, sits on the passenger side. The two female officers suddenly see a dark blue car going slowly in the distance. "Wait a minute," Officer Cooper says into the police radio. "Did you say look out for a dark blue sedan that just got off exit 3 around five or ten minutes ago? The driver of that vehicle is wanted for attempted murder? And this driver is armed with a gun and you think you know who this driver might be? Well we think we just spotted that vehicle! We're gonna go after it! Roger!" Officer Cooper puts on the sirens.

Officer Cooper speeds the patrol car down the street! She goes after the dark blue car! The police car drives behind the dark blue car. Officers Martinez yells into the police speaker and shouts, "Pull over to the right!"

The dark blue car does not stop. It continues to drive.

Officer Martinez yells into the speaker again and shouts, "Pull over to the right!"

The dark blue car continues to drive.

Officer Martinez yells into the speaker again and shouts, "I said pull to the right!"

The dark blue car makes a quick turn as the police car makes a turn after it.

Officer Martinez turns to Officer Cooper and says, "I think this driver is hard of hearing." She yells back into the police speaker and shouts, "Pull to the right!"

The dark blue car continues to drive. It makes another turn. The police car makes another turn and continues to follow the dark blue car. Officer Martinez yells into the speaker again and shouts, "Pull over to the right!"

The dark blue car makes another turn.

The police car makes another turn and go after the dark blue car again as Officer Martinez yells into the speaker again and shouts, "I said pull to the right!" The dark blue car makes another turn.

The dark blue car goes into an isolated area. The police car continues to follow it. The dark blue car finally pulls to the right and stops. The police car pulls up ten feet behind it and stops.

Inside the police car, Officer Cooper and Officer Martinez puzzled look at the dark blue car. They then look out the window at the area. They puzzled look back at the dark blue car. Officer Martinez then asks, "Why did that driver decide to pull over and stop here? This area is isolated. There's no one around."

"I know," Officer Cooper says. "Something is not right about that. It's like this driver purposely lured us here to this isolated area where no one can see us."

"I think so too. Remember, they said this driver is armed with a gun. Maybe this driver is planning to shoot at us too. That's probably why they lured us to this isolated area, so there won't be any witnesses." Officer Martinez and Officer Cooper worriedly look at each other.

Officer Cooper then says, "We better get our guns ready, just in case." Officer Cooper and Officer Martinez get their guns ready as Officer Cooper says, "And we better let the other units know where we are just in case we don't make it out of here."

"I know."

Officer Cooper gets on the police radio and shouts, "Calling all units, calling all units! Yeah I Officer Cooper and Officer Martinez found and pulled the dark blue car over. We're off from the highway off exit seven! Okay Roger!" Officer Cooper gets off the police radio. She turns to Officer Martinez and says, "Let's find out what the hell is going on with this driver." Officer Cooper and Officer Martinez get out of their patrol car.

Officer Cooper and Officer Martinez are outside the police vehicle looking around the area. They see that the area is totally isolated. They turn and look at the dark blue car. They slowly walk towards the dark blue car.

Suddenly the dark blue car turns to the left and drives to the left. It then stops. Officer Cooper approaches the driver's side of the dark blue car as Officer Martinez approaches the passenger side. Officer Cooper and Officer Martinez look into the car. They see Dana. Officer Cooper then says, "Why did you pull your car over here Miss?! Can I see your driver's license?"

"I don't have my license," Dana says.

"What? What do you mean you don't have your license? Where is it?"

"I left it home."

"You left it home? You're supposed to have your license on you whenever you drive! Why didn't you pull over immediately when we yelled for you to pull over?"

"I didn't hear you."

"You didn't hear us? Don't hand me that! You seem very suspicious about something! I'm gonna have to ask you to step out of the car!"

Dana hesitates. She does not move.

"You must be hard of hearing! I said step out the car!"

Officer Martinez comes around to the driver's side and approaches Officer Cooper and says, "Is she giving you a hard time, Janice?"

"Yes she is."

Officer Martinez turns to Dana and says, "Ma'am, step out of the car! Now!"

Dana slowly opens the car door. She gets up and steps out of the vehicle. Officer Cooper and Officer Martinez puzzled look at her. Officer Cooper then says, "Hey! I know you from somewhere! You're Diane D's cousin, aren't you?! You're the one who was suspected of shooting down all those traffic cameras with a rifle several months ago! The other officers said on the radio that they know who the driver of this vehicle might be! Did you just shoot at and tried to run over another driver on the highway a little while ago?"

"No I didn't," Dana says.

"Where were you just coming from?" Officer Martinez asks.

"None of your business."

"Don't be nasty with us Miss, because right now, it is our business! You're suspected of something and we're gonna have to search your vehicle to see if you have any weapons in there!”

“I don't have any weapons in my vehicle.”

“We'll be the judge of that! Step to the side please!”

Dana steps to the side. Officer Martinez leans into the vehicle and looks into it with a flashlight as Officer Cooper keeps an eye on Dana. Officer Martinez leans back out the vehicle. She turns to Dana and says, “Well I don't see anything suspicious in there. I'm gonna have to search your trunk. Take your keys and open the trunk.” Dana looks at Officer Martinez. She then turns and leans in the car. She takes the keys out of the ignition. She leans back out the car and steps to the trunk. She opens the trunk.

“Okay step to the side while I look in the trunk,” Officer Martinez says. Dana steps to the side. Officer Martinez leans into the trunk. She starts to search the trunk. She soon leans back out the trunk and says, “Well I don't see anything suspicious in there.” She turns to Dana and says, “Now we're gonna have to search and frisk you! Turn around and put your hands up against the car!”

“Why?” Dana says. “I don't have any weapons on me!”

“We'll be the judge of that!” Officer Cooper says. “Turn around and put your hands up against the car!”

“Officers, you can search my vehicle, but you cannot search me!”

“We are gonna search you!” Officer Martinez shouts. “You're suspicious of something and we have to frisk you!”

“You are not gonna frisk me!”

“Why not?” Officer Cooper says. “Are you hiding something?”

“No I'm not!”

“Well if you have nothing to hide, there shouldn't be a problem with us frisking you!” Officer Martinez says.

“Officers, don't put your hands on me.”

“We have to put our hands on you if we're gonna frisk you!” Officer Cooper says. “Now turn around and put your hands up against the car!”

“I said don't put your hands on me!”

“Turn around and put your hands up against the car or we will have to use force!” Officer Martinez shouts. “Please stop making our job hard! Now turn around and put both your hands up against the car!”

Dana gives an icy stare at Officer Martinez.

“Turn around and put both your hands up against the car!” Officer Martinez shouts again. Dana slowly turns around. “Put your hands up against the car!” Officer Martinez again shouts. Dana puts her hands up against the car.

Officer Cooper comes behind Dana and shouts, “Spread your legs!” Dana hesitates.

Officer Cooper bends behind Dana. She starts to pat Dana's sides. Dana closes her eyes and hisses. Suddenly, she kicks her heel up hard right up against Officer Cooper's private area! “Aaaaahh!” Officer Cooper screams and holds her private area in pain as Officer Martinez becomes shocked! Dana quickly turns around and kung fu kicks Officer Cooper right in the stomach! She then whams her fists right into Officer Cooper's temple! Blood starts to splatter as Officer Martinez quickly pulls out her gun! Dana quickly turns and kung-fu kicks the gun right out of Officer Martinez's hand as Officer Cooper falls to the ground! Dana then whams her fists right into Officer Martinez' temple and starts attacking Officer Martinez as Officer Cooper screams and lay on the ground holding her private and abdominal areas! Dana then throws several hard, loud blows right into Officer Martinez's face and head! Blood starts to splatter as Officer Martinez starts to fall out! Dana grabs and holds Officer Martinez's arms and hands tightly behind Officer Martinez's back! She spreads her legs apart, bends Officer Martinez forward and starts punching Officer Martinez right up in the stomach area as Officer Martinez's feet practically lifts off the ground!

Officer Cooper continues to lay on the ground screaming in agony, holding her abdominal and private area as she helplessly watch Officer Martinez get beat up! She painfully struggles to get her gun!

Officer Cooper continues to struggle to get her gun as she continues to lay on the ground in agony holding her abdominal and private area!

Dana then grabs Officer Martinez's head then smashes Officer Martinez's head right through the police car window breaking the glass! Dana pulls Officer Martinez's head back out the police car window! She then bangs her knee real hard against Officer Martinez's stomach area!

Officer Cooper slowly and painfully pulls out her gun! She painfully aims the gun right at Dana! She is about to pull the trigger!

Dana suddenly looks at Officer Cooper! Then she quickly tosses Officer Martinez right towards the gun and throws herself down to the side as Officer Cooper pulls the trigger! The gun goes off and Officer Martinez gets shot right in the back! Officer Martinez's eyes open wide in shock and in pain as she's bent backwards! Officer Cooper screams, "Oh noooo!" Officer Martinez falls backward to the ground! She lays motionless on the ground as Dana gets up off the ground and rushes away!

Dana runs back to her vehicle!

Dana reaches her car! She opens the door, jumps into the driver's seat, closes the door and starts up the engine! She then drives her car behind the police vehicle and speeds off! Her car tires screech as she speeds away into the distance leaving both female officers down on the ground helpless and injured!

Officer Cooper continues to lay on the ground in agony holding her private area with both hands! She takes one of her hands away from her private area and looks at her hand and fingers. She sees heavy blood on her hand and fingers. She starts to panic and scream, "OH GOD NOOO! DON'T LET IT BE! OH MY GOD, PLEASE DON'T, NOOOO! NOOOO! DON'T LET ME LOSE MY BABY, PLEASE!" Officer Cooper takes her other hand away from her private and sees more heavy blood! She cries and screams, "OH NO! MY BABY! HELP ME SOMEBODY! PLEASE HELP! SOMEBODY HELP US! HELP MY BABY LORD, PLEASE DON'T LET ME LOSE MY BABY!" Officer Cooper and Officer Martinez continue to lay on the ground. Officer Cooper struggles in pain as she reaches for her police radio. She struggles as she speaks into the police radio shouting, "Hello! Help! My partner and I are down! We're injured! Please come help us!" Officer Cooper then passes out and drops the police radio as she and Officer Martinez continue to lay motionless on the ground, each of them covered in a pool of blood.

It is two hours later. Officer Cooper is laying unconscious in the hospital attached to tubes and monitors. Two male white doctors around their late 50's look at her. They then turn and head towards the doorway.

The doctors step out into the hallway. One of the doctors approach Officer Cooper's desperate husband Mr. Cooper, a stocky black man and other family members. "How's she doing Doctor?" Mr. Cooper anxiously asks.

"Your wife is fine Mr. Cooper," the doctor says. "But I'm afraid I have some bad news. She lost the baby."

"What! She lost the baby?!"

"Yes. She was kicked so hard in the groin and stomach areas, it caused her to miscarry the baby and lose a lot of blood."

"OH MY GOD NOOOO!"

"I'm afraid it's true."

"Why why whyyy!" Mr. Cooper cries. "Why did this have to happen?! We had planned a long time to have a child! We wanted a child several years ago when we first got married, but my wife decided to put having a child on hold because she wanted be a police officer and she didn't want having a child right away to interfere with her career! She wanted to get her career going first, once she got her career going, then we planned for a child! And now this happens!"

"I understand and I'm sorry we weren't able to save your unborn child."

"Who the hell did this to her?"

"We don't know. Your wife was able to call for help. She gave her and her partner's location just before she passed out. The police came to your wife's location and spotted her and her partners' patrol car and saw them both laying near their patrol car on the side of the road. The police called for an ambulance, then the ambulance brought your wife and her partner here. Your wife nor her partner is able to speak right now. Once they come around, I guess we'll all find out who did this to them."

Mr. Cooper and the rest of the family start to scream and cry.

In another hospital room, Officer Martinez is laying unconscious attached to tubes and monitors with one tube in her nose and a bandage around her head. Different white male doctors look at her. One of the doctors turns then heads towards the doorway.

The doctor steps out into the hallway. He approaches Officer Martinez's anxious and desperate husband Mr. Martinez, a Hispanic man with a mustache and his family. The doctor says to him, "She's messed up pretty bad."

"What do you mean Doctor?!" Mr. Martinez shouts. "Is she alive?!"

"Well part of her is still alive. That's the good news."

"What do you mean part of her is still alive? What's the bad news?!"

"Well Mr. Martinez, the bad news, is that your wife's hand and fingers are broken. The second bad news is, I'm afraid to tell you, that your wife might not be able to walk again."

"What! What do you mean she might not be able to walk again?!"

“She was shot in her spine, her spine got damaged.”

“WHAT! OH NOOO! THIS CAN’T BE HAPPENING! IT CAN’T BE TRUE DOCTOR!”

“I'm afraid it's true. I'm afraid your wife is paralyzed! She might be paralyzed for the rest of her life!”

“PARALYZED FOR THE REST OF HER LIFE?! NOOOO! NO GOD NOOO! PLEASE DON’T LET THIS BE TRUE! GOD NOOO!” Mr. Martinez and the rest of his family scream in shock!

At the Diaz-Davidson Organization the next day, Diane D's family, relatives and everyone else are shocked as they look at and read an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S FAMILY AND RELATIVES BEAT REPORTER BLACK AND BLUE! They then see an article in the paper that reads: REPORTER FELIX GREEN CLAIMS DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA CHASED HIM ON HIGHWAY, SHOT AT HIM THREE TIMES SHATTERING HIS CAR WINDOW AND TRIED TO RUN HIM OFF THE ROAD! REPORTER PLANS TO PRESS CHARGES! POLICE PLAN FOR DIANE D’S COUSIN'S ARREST: Diane D's family is stunned. Barry turns to his family and says, “Boy they sure got this in the paper right away, didn't they?”

“Yeah they sure did,” Nicolas says. “Can y'all believe this? This reporter Felix Green plans to press charges against our family! He also claimed that Dana chased him on the highway and shot at him three times, breaking his windows! Where did Dana get a gun from?”

“I don't know Nicolas. I have no idea.” Barry turns to Diane D and asks, “Diane did Dana say anything to you about this when she came back home to Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house last night?”

“No she didn't say anything about that Dad,” Diane D says. “She told me, Grandma and Grandpa that when she went after Felix Green, he disappeared on the highway and she never saw him again after that.”

“But yet the police claim they spotted her car and Felix Green's car racing right next to each other going at 100 miles per hour on the highway! You know how fast that is?! That's very fast! They could've gotten killed or killed somebody else!”

“Yeah that's true,” Margarita says. “Where is Dana at now?”

“Oh she's home at Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house,” Diane D says.

“Do you know whether she or Gracy and Mike saw the paper yet?”

“I don't know.”

“Look at these other articles,” Nicolas says. “The articles about two female police officers who were beat up and left for dead yesterday!” Nicolas, Diane D and the rest of the family look at two other newspapers with several different headlines that read: TWO FEMALE POLICE OFFICERS LEFT FOR DEAD!: TWO FEMALE POLICE OFFICERS LAY IN THE HOSPITAL WITH MAJOR BLOWS TO BOTH OF THEIR HEADS FROM AN UNKNOWN ATTACKER! ONE OFFICER SUFFERING FROM A MISCARRIAGE, THE OTHER OFFICER SUFFERING FROM A GUNSHOT WOUND TO THE BACK AND POSSIBLE PARALYZATION!: Diane D’s family is in disbelief. “Those female officers were beat up pretty bad,” Nicolas says. “One suffered a miscarriage and the other got shot in the back and might be paralyzed for the rest of her life! That is terrible!”

“It is!” Margarita shouts. “The article says the two women's families never wanted them to be police officers, because their families think the job is too dangerous!”

“It is a dangerous job and a stressful job, but somebody's got to do it!” Barry shouts. “Did these women identify their attacker yet?”

“No I don't think so Dad,” Nicolas says.

“It's a shame what happened to them,” Tomas says. “I mean who would want to hurt female police officers?”

“I have no idea Grandpa.”

“All I know is that we better hurry and get to Dana and be there with her by the time the police get her for shooting at Felix Green,” Diane D says.

“Yeah come, let's go,” Barry says. Barry, Diane D and the rest of the family hurry and leave the room.

Several people on the street are shocked as they look at and read an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S FAMILY AND RELATIVES BEAT REPORTER BLACK AND BLUE! They then see an article in the paper that reads: REPORTER FELIX GREEN CLAIMS DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA CHASED HIM ON HIGHWAY, SHOT AT HIM THREE TIMES SHATTERING HIS CAR WINDOW AND TRIED TO RUN HIM OFF THE ROAD! REPORTER PLANS TO PRESS CHARGES! POLICE PLAN FOR DIANE D'S COUSIN'S ARREST: The people are stunned. One of the people, a black woman in her early 30's turns to the others and says, “Can y'all believe this? Diane D's family beat a reporter up yesterday evening, then her cousin Dana chased the reporter on the highway, shot at him three times and tried to run him off the road! Why did Diane D's family do that?”

“Well it says that reporter Felix Green threatened to expose Diane D for possible drug use,” a black man says. “So Diane D's family and relatives got upset, attacked that reporter Felix Green and beat him up for it.”

“I don't blame them,” another black woman says. “Why would this reporter Felix Green want to expose Diane D for drug use anyway?”

“You know how this world is. If you become sort of well-known and have skeletons in your closet, the media is ready to expose you.”

“Yeah that's true,” another black man says. “But Diane D don't use drugs. Doesn't she preach against it?”

“Yeah, but that doesn't mean anything. You don't know what a person does when no one else is around them. You have a lot of preachers and priests out there who preach against a lot of things and probably sin more than anybody else. Of course they won't let you know about it. Remember a couple of years ago the preacher whose wife caught him in bed with another man? The same preacher who preached against homosexuality! Yet he was caught doing exactly what he was preaching against!”

“Yeah I remember that story,” the first woman says. “Well either way, this reporter Felix Green was wrong for wanting to expose Diane D anyway. Her family had every right to get upset.”

“I heard that another reporter at the catering hall warned him not to try and expose Diane D. The other reporter warned him that if he tries to expose Diane D, he's gonna have to deal with Diane D's whole family and look what happened. He dealt with her whole family including her crazy cousin Dana who he said chased him down the highway, shot at him three times and tried to run him off the road. And check out these other articles.” The people see more articles with different headlines that read: FEMALE POLICE OFFICERS LEFT FOR DEAD!: TWO FEMALE POLICE OFFICERS LAY IN THE HOSPITAL WITH MAJOR BLOWS TO BOTH OF THEIR HEADS FROM AN UNKNOWN ATTACKER! ONE OFFICER SUFFERING FROM A MISCARRIAGE, THE OTHER OFFICER SUFFERING FROM A GUNSHOT WOUND TO THE SPINE, POSSIBLE PARALYZATION!:

“This incident happened yesterday too?”

“Yeah.”

“Who would hurt police officers? Especially female officers!”

“I don't know. The police aren't able to get a statement from either of the female officers yet.” The people continue to look at the headlines and articles.

At the organization the next day, Diane D sits in an office at a desk typing and clicking on the computer. Kory, the slim black male staff member around his late 30's comes into the office holding a newspaper. He approaches Diane D and says, “Hey Diane.” Diane D turns her head towards Kory then looks back at the computer screen and continues to type and click on it as Kory says, “So how did it go when the police arrested your cousin Dana yesterday for chasing and shooting at that reporter Felix Green? What happened? Is Dana still in jail?”

“Yes she still is Kory,” Diane D says.

“You know how long they're gonna keep her in jail?”

“We don't know yet. My Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike are planning to bail her out.”

“Again? Well I don't think your grandparents better waist their time or their money trying to bail your cousin Dana out of jail right now because read this!” Diane D stops typing and looks as Kory shows her a newspaper and points to a headline that reads: FEMALE POLICE OFFICERS COME TO AND IDENTIFIES DIANE D'S COUSIN AS THEIR ATTACKER!: Diane D jumps out of her seat and shouts, “What! What are they talking about?! What the hell is going on here?!”

“The two female officers who were attacked the other day identified a cousin of yours as their attacker! They claim the same cousin of yours who was suspected of shooting down all those traffic cameras and the same cousin of yours who was arrested with you on the drunk driving and weapons possession charges! I'm sure we all know which cousin of yours these two officers are talking about!”

“Dana?!”

“But I don't understand! How did Dana wind up beating up these female officers? My family and I saw Dana speed off and chased after Felix Green! We didn't know what happened to her after that! How did she wind up in contact with these female officers anyway?”

stepped out of the car, the officers said they recognized the driver as your cousin Dana! The officers said they recognized Dana from her being arrested with you before! The officers said they were about to frisk your cousin Dana! They said Dana told them not to put their hands on her. The officers putted their hands on your cousin Dana and tried to frisk her anyway! They said when they started to frisk Dana, that's when Dana attacked them and beat the hell out of them both! They're both claiming that Dana did the same thing you tried to do when you were about to get frisked right at the police station before!"

"They said that?!"

"Yes they did. Diane, after you and your family saw Dana speed off after Felix Green the other day, when was the next time you and your family saw your cousin Dana again?"

"That same night! She came back home to my Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house around twelve o'clock midnight!"

"Did she say anything to you or your family about what happened to her or where she went after she chased off after Felix Green?"

"No, she didn't say much! When we asked Dana what happened to her after she chased off after Felix Green, she told us she lost Felix Green as soon as he got on the highway! She said she was looking for him for a couple or few miles, couldn't find him, gave up on him and decided to come home."

"That's what she told your family?"

"Yep, that's what she told us."

"So she never said a word to y'all about chasing down Felix Green on the highway, shooting at him three times, trying to run him off the road then being pulled over by two female officers and wind up beaten them up, did she?"

"No, she never said a word. I would have never even know about any of this if it wasn't in the paper! Does my family know about this article?"

"Yeah, they all know about it now. They're downstairs right now reading the article in another newspaper. They're very shocked and devastated by this. They're shocked to find out that your cousin Dana was these two female officers' attacker and left them for dead. The police are gonna charge your cousin Dana with THIS CRIME now! So it wouldn't make sense for your Grandma Gracy and your Grandpa Mike to bail your cousin Dana out of jail for the crime she did to Felix Green because she would be right back in jail for this crime!"

"My god! I got to go down to my family!" Diane D hurries to the doorway and hurries out the room as Kory follows off behind her.

Diane D and Kory hurry into the lobby. They hear a lot of commotion. They see Diane D's entire family, relatives including Gracy and Grandpa Mike and other people hysterically fussing and fighting as they look at and hold some newspapers. Diane D and Kory rush to the family. The family turns to Diane D as Margarita shouts, "Diane viste el papel todavia?"

"Si lo vi," Diane D says.

"Mi dios," Mary shouts. "Tenemos que llamar a Christine y David!"

"Mama, no van a ser contentos de oir sobre esto!"

"Lo se Diane, pero tenemos que decirles! No podemos mantener esto informacion de ellos! Diane, did Dana say anything to you about this incident when she came home the other night?”

“No! She never said a word to me about it!”

“How about you Ma?” Aunt Celeste asks Gracy. “Did Dana say anything or do anything strange when she came back home the other night after she ran off after Felix Green? How was she behaving?”

“She was behaving her usual self!” Gracy says. Everybody continues to look at the article.

Inside Teresa’s bedroom, Teresa is fixing her clothes as she looks in the mirror. She then turns towards the telephone. She picks up the receiver and dials a number. She waits for several seconds. She then speaks into the receiver and says, “Hey Diane. How’re you doing? Did you see today’s paper about the female police officers identifying Dana as their attacker?”

“Yeah I saw it,” Diane D says.

“Did your family see it?”

“Yeah they saw it.”

“Well what do y’all think?”

“We don’t know what to think Teresa.”

“Did Dana say anything to you or your family about this incident when she came home that night?”

“No, she never said anything to us about it at all. But she never says anything to us whenever she does stuff like this. She always keeps her mouth shut and just keeps things like this to herself. We always wind up hearing about it from someplace else.”

“I know. Does she know that this incident is in the paper?”

“I don’t know. My family hasn’t spoken to Dana yet. We’re planning to visit her at the jail this afternoon.”

“You are?”

“Yeah.”

“Do you know when her court date is?”

“Her court date is in two months.”

“On both cases? Felix Green’s and the female officers?”

“Yeah.”

“Are the courts gonna give Dana bail?”

“No. They said no bail for her. Dana is gonna have to remain in jail for the next two months.”

“Oh my god.” Teresa sadly looks into space.

At Officer Cooper’s family’s home, Mr. Cooper and other family members are shocked as they look at and read an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: FEMALE POLICE OFFICERS COME TO AND IDENTIFIES DIANE D’S COUSIN DANA AS THEIR ATTACKER!: Mr. Cooper shouts, “What! Are they saying that it was Diane D’s cousin Dana who attacked them?!”

“Yeah they identified her!” a male family member says.

“Are they saying that Diane D’s cousin Dana killed my unborn child?!”

“Yes that’s what they’re saying,” a female family member says.

“Why that murderer! She killed my unborn baby!” Mr. Cooper starts to cry and lean his head on his family’s shoulders as they sadly wrap their arms around him.

Dana's Trial

Two months later, tons of people are outside the court building lined up waiting to get inside the court building. One of the men, a middle aged white male turns to a black woman on the line and asks, "Are you here to see Diane D's cousin Dana's trial?"

"I sure am," the woman says. "That Dana is something else, ain't she, attacking that newspaper reporter, then chasing his vehicle on the highway and shooting at his vehicle three times then try to run him off the road then beat up two female police officers right after that!"

"I know. She is a dangerous cookie. I wouldn't want to mess with her."

"Me neither. I try my best to avoid individuals like her."

"Me too."

An hour later, the people are inside the courtroom. Diane D, her family and relatives including Dana's family, Michael, Tony, Teresa, Joseph, Officer Cooper's family and Officer Martinez's family sit in the audience in the middle of the courtroom.

Dana sits in the front of the courtroom with two of her lawyers. Prosecutor Jacob Blair, a male white around his late forties with dark hair, stands up and says, "I would like to call the defendant to the stand." Everyone in the courtroom looks at Dana as Dana stands. Dana turns and walks to the front of the courtroom towards the stand.

Dana approaches the stand. She then turns and faces Jacob Blair.

Jacob Blair tells Dana, "Raise your right hand please." Dana raises her right hand as Jacob Blair says to her, "State your full name please."

"Dana Jean Brown," Dana says.

"Okay Miss Dana Jean Brown, do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth so help me God?"

"Yes."

"Sit down please."

Dana sits down in the stand.

"Okay Miss Brown, did you and the rest of your family attack and beat up newspaper reporter Felix Green outside of a Catering Hall on the evening of September seventeenth?"

"Yes we did."

"Why did you and the rest of your family attack and beat up newspaper reporter Felix Green?"

"He called my cousin a dirty name that we didn't appreciate."

“He called your cousin a dirty name?!”

“Yeah and he threatened to expose her in the newspaper.”

“Your cousin Diane D, right?”

“Right.”

“You and your family didn’t appreciate what Felix Green called your cousin Diane D and you didn’t like the idea of him threatening to expose her in the newspaper.”

“No we didn’t.”

Diane D sits slightly sideways leaning against Michael with his arms wrapped around her waist as she firmly looks towards Dana and Jacob Blair. Her family looks towards her and pats her on the shoulder as they look back towards Dana and Jacob Blair.

Jacob Blair continues, “What dirty name did Felix Green call, your cousin Diane D?”

“He called her a ‘crack head’,” Dana says.

“He called your cousin Diane D a ‘crack head?’”

“Yes he did.”

“And what did Felix Green threaten to expose your cousin Diane D with?”

“He threatened to lie and expose about her using drugs and she doesn’t.”

“I see. Being that Felix Green called your cousin Diane D a crack head and threatened to attack her about her alleged drug use in the newspaper, you and your family felt you all had every right to attack HIM, didn't you?”

“Yes we did.”

“Did you chase newspaper reporter Felix Green down the highway after you and your family attacked him?”

“No I didn’t.”

“Well the police spotted a dark blue vehicle and Felix Green's vehicle racing down the highway going at a hundred miles an hour! Did you shoot at Felix Green’s vehicle as you two were speeding down the highway?”

“No.”

“Well there is a bullet hole and a shattered window in his car to prove it! Why did you attack and beat up the two female police officers that pulled you over that same evening, Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez? Why did you attack them?! Did they call your cousin Diane D a dirty name and threatened to expose her in the newspaper too?”

“No.”

“Then why did you attack them?”

“Because they putted their hands on me!”

The entire courtroom gasps.

“What!” Jacob Blair says. “Because they putted their hands on you?! They putted their hands on you because they felt that you were armed and needed to frisk you! They had a right to put their hands on you if they're going to frisk you! Felix Green stated to the police that you shot at his vehicle three times as you two were speeding down the highway! The two female police officers had a call on their police radio to look out for a dark blue car that might have been involved in a speeding and shooting on the highway! Not long after that, the two female officers spotted a dark blue car that looked suspicious! They figured that dark blue car might be the car involved in the speeding and shooting on the highway, that’s when they decided to pull that dark blue car over! When they pulled that dark blue car over, they spotted you alone in the driver's seat, so they figured you had to be armed! When the female officers had you step out of the car, they searched your vehicle! They didn't find any weapons inside your vehicle, so they figured the weapon had to be on you, that's why they felt they had to search and frisk you! Soon as they started to do that, you went on the attack and beat the crap out of them!"

The entire courtroom gasps.

"Why did you do that?"

"Because they putted their hands on me!" Dana says.

"They putted their hands on you, so what! You beat those two women up so bad they couldn't be here today! They became physically and emotionally scarred by what you did to them! You caused Officer Janice Cooper to miscarry her unborn baby!"

The entire courtroom gasps.

"Her inside organs might be damaged for life! She might not ever be able to have children in the future because of what you did to her! How do you feel about that?! How do you feel that you caused Officer Janice Cooper to lose her unborn baby?!"

"I have no comment about that," Dana says.

"You have no comment about that?! What do you mean you have no comment about that?! Don't you have any kind of remorse for the unborn child whose life was lost?!"

"I have no comment."

"But Miss Dana Brown, you killed an unborn baby! A baby that would have been born in several months! Because you attacked its mother, the child is not going to be born! Now Officer Janice Cooper and her husband have to donate and give away all the baby stuff that they had bought for the baby!"

The entire courtroom gasps again.

"Officer Cooper's family, friends and relatives were all planning to throw a baby shower for her several months from now, but now they have to cancel that baby shower!"

The entire courtroom gasps again.

"They had already put a down payment on the catering hall that they were going to rent for the baby shower! Officer Cooper and her husband had remodeled one of the rooms in their house into a nursery when they found out they were having a child! Now since their child is not going to come, they have to make that nursery room back into what it use to be!"

The entire courtroom gasps again.

"It would be nice if they could keep the room a nursery, for future babies, but that might not happen! Because of you, Officer Cooper might not be able to have any children at all in the future! You killed her chance of ever becoming a mother!"

The entire courtroom gasps again.

"Did you know that Officer Janice Cooper was pregnant when you decided to beat the crap out of her and then beat the crap out of Officer Liz Martinez?! Did you know that any of the female officers was pregnant?!"

"No!" Dana shouts. "What the hell do you think I am, the pregnant inspection police? I am not gonna look at anybody to see or inspect whether or not they're pregnant!"

"So in other words, you wouldn't care if they were pregnant or not if you decide to go on the attack and beat the crap out of them?!"

“If they come up to me first and decide to mess with me, I’m just gonna defend myself against them, that’s it, no questions asked!”

“But Miss Brown, you didn’t have to defend yourself against Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez! They didn’t come up to you to harm you! They were only doing their job when they came up to you because they felt that you were involved in the speeding and shooting on the highway! They thought you might be armed and needed to frisk you! Once you found out that Officer Janice Cooper lost her unborn child as a result of your attack on her, did you have any remorse about that at all?!”

“I told you, I have no comment about that!”

“No comment at all?!”

“No comment! Next question please!”

The entire courtroom gasps seeing Dana’s unremorseful behavior.

“Well Miss Dana Brown,” Jacob Blair says. “Since you’re not the least bit remorseful of an unborn child whose life YOU took, are you at least remorseful for what you did to Officer Liz Martinez? You caused her to be shot! You used her as a human shield when you threw her right in harm’s way of a bullet that was meant for YOU!”

The entire courtroom gasps.

“You caused the bullet to hit Officer Liz Martinez right in her spine, now she is paralyzed! She lost the use of her legs! She’s not going to be able to walk again! She is going to be in a wheel chair for the rest of her life!”

The entire courtroom gasps.

“Officer Liz Martinez is now permanently disabled because what you did to her! How can you just throw somebody in front of a Live bullet?!”

“It was either me, or her!” Dana shouts. “I chose her!”

The entire courtroom gasps at Dana’s harsh statement.

“How can you be so heartless Miss Brown?!” Jacob Blair says.

“What do you mean how can I be so heartless?!” Dana shouts. “What the hell you expect me to do, throw myself in front of the bullet?!”

“No! How about not throwing ANYBODY in front of the bullet at all! You could have thrown both yourself and Officer Liz Martinez to the side away from the bullet, but instead, you threw Officer Liz Martinez right to the bullet and threw yourself to the side! Now Officer Liz Martinez and Officer Janice Cooper are both quitting and retiring early from the police force on a kind of YOU! You caused bodily injury on three and a half different people, all in one evening!”

The entire courtroom gasps.

“You did not have to attack reporter Felix Green, you did not have to attack Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez and you did not have to kill Officer Janice Cooper’s unborn baby! Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez weren’t trying to harm you when they first pulled you over! They didn’t call your cousin Diane D a dirty name and they were not planning to expose her in the newspaper! Why did you have to beat THEM up?!”

“Because they putted their hands on me!” Dana shouts.

“I just told you why Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez had to put their hands on you! I just told you why! You know you really need to respect authority!”

“And the authority needs to respect me!”

“Oh yeah?! How did they not respect you?!”

“They putted their hands on me!”

“Why is it so important to you that Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez not touch you?! Why were you so against them frisking you?! Were you afraid of what they might feel or find?! Were you afraid that they might feel or find a gun on you?!”

The entire courtroom gasps.

“You probably did have a gun on you, that’s probably why you were so against them frisking you! You probably wanted to make sure that Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez didn’t feel or find a gun on you, so you went on the attack and beat the crap out of them before they can ever get the chance to do that!”

The entire courtroom gasps.

“You know Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez told investigators, that when they first tried to pull you over, you didn’t stop right away. They claim they kept telling you over and over again to pull over, but you did not stop. They claimed you kept driving and driving refusing to pull over! They said you did not pull over at all until you reached an isolated area. An area where no one else was around and where no one else can see you!”

“Ooooh,” the audience says.

“They said it was like you lured them to this isolated area where there were no witnesses around!”

“They said after they first came out of their police car to approach your vehicle, you suddenly drove and moved your vehicle over to the left. They said they didn’t know why at first. Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez now believe, that when they first tried to pull you over, right away you started planning in your head, to lure them to an isolated area where there weren’t any witnesses around, that way you can beat the crap out of them before they can ever get the chance to frisk you and find a gun on you!”

The entire courtroom gasps.

“Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez now believe that’s why you really beat them up and left them for dead, to prevent them from identifying you! They now believe that’s why you suddenly drove and moved your vehicle over to the left when they were about to approach your vehicle, to get out of the view of the police dashboard camera so you won’t be seen and identified on video beating the crap out of them!”

“Ohh shoot,” the audience gasps.

“They now believe that you deliberately left your keys inside the ignition when you first stepped out of the car, that way once you finish beating the crap out of them, you can leave them for dead, then you can just run and jump right back into your vehicle and quickly start up the engine to make a quick getaway!”

The entire courtroom gasps.

“Isn’t that true Miss Brown? Isn’t that why you really beat up Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez, to keep them from feeling and finding a gun on you?! Isn’t that why you left Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez for dead, to keep them from identifying you?! Isn’t that why you suddenly drove and moved your vehicle over to the left when Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez were about to approach your vehicle, so you won’t be seen and identified on police dashboard camera beating the crap out of them?!”

“No that is not why either!”

“Then why on earth did you beat Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez up and leave them for dead?!”

“Because they putted their hands on me, that’s why!”

Jacob Blair angrily stares at Dana. He then throws his arms up in the air and turns to the judge shouting, “Judge, I give up on this one! No more questions!” Jacob Blair angrily turns away and walks back to his seat.

The judge, an older white male with salt and pepper hair turns to Dana and says, “You may step down ma'am.”

Dana stands up and steps down from the witness stand. She goes back to her lawyers and takes a seat.

A half hour later, the judge says, “Will the lawyers stand please.” Dana's lawyers stand. The judge then tells them, “The defendant is found guilty on three assault charges and permanent bodily injury for three persons! Newspaper reporter Felix Green, Officer Janice Cooper and Officer Liz Martinez! The defendant will spend three years in prison!” The entire courtroom screams and becomes shocked! The judge then says, “Three years in prison will include the two months time served the defendant had in jail! Plus the heavy fine her family has to pay for Janice Cooper, Liza Martinez and Felix Green's medical expenses!” The entire courtroom screams and becomes shocked!

Liz Martinez's husband and family members stand as Mr. Martinez shouts to the judge, “That's all she gets is three years in prison?!” Everyone in the courtroom look on at Mr. Martinez as he shouts, “She caused my wife to be paralyzed for life! She killed Officer Cooper's unborn child and beat up a reporter! She chased the reporter down the highway and shot at his vehicle three times and that's all she gets is three years confinement! She is a danger to society and she is a danger to authorities as well! She is a violent person! I don’t think the public is safe as long as she’s around! You should lock her up and throw away the key!”

“I charged her family a heavy fine for your wife's medical needs Mr. Martinez! We will do everything possible to help your wife and the rest of your family!” Mr. Martinez and the rest of his family start to cry and become very upset. The entire courtroom is emotionally upset.

Diane D becomes frustrated as she, Tony and Diane D's family and relatives desperately try to hurry to Dana. The court officers hold them back. Diane D gets more upset and shouts to the officers, “Get your fuckin hands off me!”

“Just move the hell out of my way! I want to go to my cousin if you don't mind!”

“I do mind ma'am! None of you are allowed up there!”

Diane D shoves the officers aside as she, Tony and her entire family desperately try to get to Dana. “Dana!” Diane D, Tony and Dana’s family shout. “Dana!”

“Diane, I want you all to get back here!” Margarita shouts as she Mary, Barry and rest of the family try to get Diane D.

Dana sits there in the front of the courtroom looking towards the back at Diane D. She then turns and faces the front of the courtroom showing no emotions.

The next day, several people are in the street holding and reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA IS SENTENCED TO THREE YEARS IN PRISON FOR THE THREE ASSAULT CHARGES ON REPORTER FELIX GREEN AND FEMALE OFFICERS JANICE COOPER AND LIZ MARTINEZI: "Wow," one of the women says. "Diane D's cousin Dana assaulted, attacked and beat up three different people all in one evening and that's all she gets is three years in prison? It's like she got a year for each victim."

"I know," one of the men say. "She probably took a plea bargain or got hell of a good lawyers to serve only that little amount of time in prison." The people continue to look at the article.

The next day, Diane D sits behind the desk in one of the organization offices angrily typing away on the computer as Michael sits on a chair besides her. Margarita and Tomas enter the office. Diane D stops typing and turns towards her grandparents as they approach her and Michael. "Hey Michael," Margarita says.

"Hey Grandma," Michael says.

"How you feeling Diane?"

"Not too good Grandma," Diane D says.

"You're still thinking about Dana aren't you?" Tomas says.

"Of course I am Grandpa."

"Dana will be home before you know it. She'll be back soon."

"See?" Margarita says. "Now you see why we wanted to keep this information from Dana that day at the Catering Hall when we first heard and found out that Felix Green wanted to expose you in the newspaper, because look what happened. Dana goes and confronts Felix Green. He decides to challenge her, then he winds up getting beat up then shot at three times on the highway, two female officers get beat up and injured for life and have to leave the police force, an unborn baby will never get to be born and Dana is now being sent to prison. This is why we were so desperate not to let Dana find out that Felix Green was planning to expose you in the newspaper."

"I understand that Grandma," Diane D says, "but I wasn't the one who told Dana about Felix Green. It was Mickey who told her. He told Dana about Felix Green before anybody can get the chance to stop him. He said he felt she had the right to know about it because Felix Green not only threatened to expose me in the newspaper, he threatened to expose Dana too claiming that she and I both use drugs! If Felix Green would have expose me and Dana in the newspaper, Dana would have saw and read about it in the newspaper anyway."

"I know. All I got to say, is that this whole situation came out horrible."

"It sure did," Michael says.

"Well anyway, we have a show in four weeks. You think you'll be able to perform then Diane?"

"I don't know Grandma," Diane D says. "My mind is still on Dana right now."

"I understand Diane. I understand. You don't have to participate in the next show if you're not up to it. You can skip the next show and wait for the one after it."

"Can I Grandma? I mean can I take a break from doing any show for a couple of months and just work here in the office, because I don't really know if I'm up to singing and dancing for anybody for a while."

"Okay Diane, whatever you feel. I just want to make sure that you're alright."

"Yeah I'm alright Grandma. I just need a break from the crowd for now."

“Okay Diane, you got it. Your feelings are more important.”

“Thanks Grandma.”

“Come on downstairs Diane and Michael,” Tomas says. “Everybody wants you two to come join them.”

“Okay,” Michael says. Diane D stops working on the computer. She and Michael get up from their chairs. Margarita and Tomas smile at Diane D and Michael as they take Diane D and Michael away and head towards the doorway.

One month later, the theater lobby is packed full of excited people! There are large posters and large signs that read: THE DAVIDSON ORGANIZATION PRESENTS: NICOLAS AND MICKEY DAVIDSON, MICHAEL AND THE DAVIDSON BAND, THE DAVIDSON CHOIR AND MANY MORE! The people are all excited as they read the posters and signs! Four teenage girls and two teenage boys read the posters and signs and turn to each other as one of the teenage boys says, “Hey. I don’t see Diane D and The Dianettes’ name up here. How come they’re names are not up here?”

“I heard Diane D and the Dianettes aren’t performing tonight,” the other teenage boy says.

“They’re not? Why not?”

“I heard Diane D wanted to take a break from performing for a while.”

“Diane D wants to take a break from performing? How come?”

“Ever since that incident that happened between her cousin Dana and that reporter Felix Green and those two female police officers, she’s not up to performing for a while.”

“No.”

“My God. I guess I can’t blame her. Well what about the Dianettes? Are they still going to perform?”

“I usually don’t see the Dianettes performing without Diane D, it’s very rare. If there’s no Diane D, then most likely, there will be no Dianettes either.”

“Wow, so you know when Diane D is going to perform again?”

“I don’t know. I hope soon, that way we can see her and the Dianettes again.”

“Yeah, I want to see her and the Dianettes too.”

The crowd continues to look at the signs and posters.

Two hours later, the theater is packed full of excited people! There are a lot of people holding large banners and large signs high in the air. Some banners and signs read: 'NICOLAS AND MICKEY DAVIDSON' with very large bold letters printed on them while other banners and signs read: 'DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES' THE SUPER SEVEN' with very large bold letters. Other banners and signs read: 'MICHAEL AND THE DAVIDSON BAND'. An announcer comes up on stage. He speaks into the microphone and says, “Alright ladies and gentlemen, give it up one more time for the Diaz-Davidson brothers, Nicolas and Mickey Diaz-Davidson!” The crowd claps and cheers! “Okay, the next performance is about to come out!” The crowd cheers more as the announcer shouts, “Ladies and gentlemen, The Diaz-Davidson Organization presents Michael and The Diaz-Davidson Band!” The crowd cheers and screams as music starts to play. Michael and The Diaz-Davidson Band appear on the stage and start to play music.

Dana's Home Coming

It is a year later. Teresa is looking in the mirror fixing her clothes. The telephone rings. Teresa goes to the telephone and picks up the receiver. She speaks into it and says, "Hello?"

"Hey Teresa!" Diane D says.

"What's up Diane?! How's it going?!"

"I got great news Teresa!"

"You do?! Well what is it?!"

"They're gonna let Dana out of prison!"

"They're gonna let Dana out of prison?! What do you mean they're gonna let her out of prison? She hasn't finished serving her sentence yet!"

"I know! They're gonna let her out early!"

"They're gonna let her out early?"

"Yeah! She's gonna be on parole."

"Dana's gonna be on parole?"

"Yeah!"

"That's great Diane! That's real great!"

"I know! My grandparents got a call from the lawyers and said the judge is gonna release Dana from prison due to overcrowding!"

"Due to overcrowding?! Oh really?"

"Yeah!"

"Oh that's wonderful Diane! I'm so excited to hear about this! Does Tony know about this yet?"

"Yeah he already knows about it! My family called him up as soon as we got the news! He got so excited he couldn't control himself!"

"I bet he couldn't! So when is Dana coming home?!"

"They're gonna let her out by next week."

"Next week?"

"Yeah. The prison got to get all the paper work together. They're gonna call my family back the day before Dana is released then my family's gonna pick her up as soon as they bring her from Upstate."

"Oh that's great Diane! I'm so happy to hear this! We gotta make sure Dana doesn't get into anymore trouble again!"

"I know. Listen Teresa, Michael and I are getting ready to head to the organization. I'll catch you later on this evening."

"Okay Diane! I'll see you then! By!" Teresa hangs up the telephone. She turns towards the doorway and shouts, "Hey Joseph! I got great news!" Teresa hurries towards the doorway and heads out into the hallway.

The following week, Diane D, Michael, Tony and Diane D's entire family and relatives, including Dana's parents, family and relatives from Jamaica are at Gracy and Mike's house excitedly surrounding Dana as Dana sits there in a chair with a can of beer in her hand. "Nice to have you home again Dana!" Gracy says.

"Thanks Grandma," Dana says.

"We all got something special for you Dana!" Christine says.

"Yeah Dana!" Diane D says. "We're gonna celebrate your homecoming tonight!"

"Homecoming?" Dana says.

"Yeah!"

"We're gonna call up Teresa and Joseph later on so they can be here for the celebration too!" Tony says.

"Come on Dana," Christine says. "Let's get you out of these prison clothes and put different clothes on you." Christine, Diane D and the rest of her family excitedly take Dana out of the chair and take her away upstairs.

Chapter 9

Controversy At The Dance Studio

One evening, five young adults in the street are reading a flyer. One of the men turns to the others and says, "Wow, the Diaz-Davidson Organization is giving another show next month."

"Yeah I already saw that flyer yesterday," a woman says. "My husband wants to see their show. We're both planning to see their show. We're going to purchase tickets tomorrow. We're bringing his parents to the show with us and we're bringing the kids."

"Oh yeah? I want to see their show too. My girlfriend keeps begging me to let's go see it."

"My family is planning to see their show too," a second man says.

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah." The people continue to read the flyer.

A month later inside a concert hall, a couple of thousand excited people are standing facing the stage. Young adults and older adults of all ethnic groups are cheering as they face the stage. A male announcer comes out on the stage. He speaks into the microphone and shouts, "Ladies and gentlemen! The next performers are about to come out!" The crowd screams and cheers as the announcer shouts, "Ladies and gentlemen.....Here are Diane D and The Dianettes!" The crowd screams and cheers more as music starts to play. Diane D and the Dianettes come out on stage. Diane D and the Dianettes line up across the stage in a straight line as Diane D stands to the far right and twelve inches towards the front. Diane D starts to sing, "I want to know where aaall the people gooo."

"People gooo," the Dianettes sing chorus.

"I want to know where aaall the people go."

"People gooo yeah."

"I want to know how city people flooow."

"People flooow."

"I want to know how city people flow."

"People flow."

"I spent all of my life here, I would like to get out of here."

"I want to know what city people."

“People dooo yeah.”

“All my life I’ve been trying, been trying to get out of here.”

Diane D and The Dianettes finish their performance. As they end their performance, they moon walk backwards in a straight line. They wave to the crowd and dance they're way off the stage. The crowd stands and cheers.

Two days later, Diane D, the Dianettes, Michael, Margarita, Tomas, Mary, Barry, Tonio and Marilyn walk down the corridor of the dance studio with Gordon again. Diane D and the Dianettes are all dressed in identical dark purple dance body shirts and matching purple leggings. Gordon turns to Diane D and the Dianettes and says, “Now ladies, I want you all to meet some wonderful well-known singers who want to meet you all.”

“Well-known singers?” Diane D asks.

“Yeah. They're a singing group too.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Well, where are they?”

“Right here.” Gordon turns his head forward and shouts, “Okay ladies!”

Six beautiful young ladies, two blacks, two whites, one Latino and one Asian, all dressed in identical green dance shirts and green leggings, excitedly come from down the other end of the hallway. They run right towards Gordon, Diane D, the Dianettes and Diane D's family.

The six young ladies approach Gordon, Diane D, the Dianettes and Diane D's family. Diane D, the Dianettes and Diane D's family are stunned. They become shocked and excited as Diane D shouts, “Oh my God, it's the Punky Gurlz!”

“Diane D!” the Punky Gurlz shout. “Dianettes!”

“Nice to meet you all!” Punky Gurl 1, a beautiful black woman, shouts.

“We always wanted to get a chance to meet you all!” Punky Gurl 2, a white woman, shouts.

“Well what are you all doing here?!” Diane D asks.

“Well we're staying in town to do a few Punky Gurlz shows!” Punky Gurl 3, the other black woman, says.

“Punky Gurlz shows?! Really?!”

“Yeah! We’re here at this dance studio to practice and rehearse some dance moves for our concert.”

“You are?”

“Yeah!”

“Wow Diane D,” Punky Gurl 4, the Hispanic woman, says. “You look a lot like Alissa.”

“Alissa?” Diane D asks. “Who's that?”

“Diane D, the Punky Gurlz would also like to collaborate with you and the Dianettes at your next performance!” Gordon says.

“Really?! Collaborate?! Y'all want to collaborate with me and the girls?! At our next performance?! You're kidding! My God I can't believe it! The Punky Gurlz want to collaborate with us! That sounds like a great idea!” The Dianettes stop smiling. They puzzled look at Diane D. They then look at each other. They look back at Diane D and the Punky Gurlz as Diane D goes on and says, "Us and the Punky Gurlz collaborating on stage together?! That would be wonderful! Well y'all can join us for our next performance in a few weeks!" Diane D continues to chat with the Punky Gurlz.

The Dianettes puzzled look at Diane D. They then look at each other again as Kelly whispers, "What's she doing?!" The Dianettes puzzled look back at Diane D.

Diane D continues to talk to the Punky Gurlz and tells them, "Y'all just in time to join us for practice because the girls and I are just about to rehearse! What do y'all say to that? Y'all want to practice with us?"

"Sure we would like to practice with you all Diane D," Punky Gurl 1 says.

"That's fine with us!" Punky Gurl 2 says.

"Good," Diane D excitedly says. "I just invented some new dance steps for our performance! Y'all just in time to learn it! Oooh wait till y'all see it! You are going to love it! Can any of you tap dance?"

"No we can't tap dance at all Diane D," Punky Gurl 5, the second white woman says.

"No?"

"No."

"Well what about ballet, can any of you do ballet?"

"No," Punky Gurl 6, the Asian woman says. "We can't do that either."

"Well that's alright, I'll think of something we all can do together."

"And think of something that is easy for all of us to do Diane D," Punky Gurl 3 says, "because that twisting, turning, jumping, flipping and sliding moves you and the Dianettes be doing seem real complicated for us, I mean, we're not acrobats like you all are." The rest of the Punky Gurlz laugh a little.

"Oh don't worry. I won't have you do more than you can handle. Anyway, it is so cool that you all want to work with us!" Diane D excitedly continues to chat with the Punky Gurlz.

The Dianettes puzzled look at each other again. Nancy then whispers, "I'll take care of it." Nancy comes from behind the rest of the Dianettes. She approaches Diane D.

Diane D turns and smiles to the Dianettes and says to them, "Well what do y'all think girls? Us and the Punky Gurlz collaborating on stage!" Diane D turns back to the Punky Gurlz and continues to chat with them.

"Um, Diane?" Nancy says. Diane D stops chatting and turns her head to Nancy as Nancy says, "Can we like take a vote on this?" Diane D, her family, Gordon and the Punky Gurlz puzzled look at Nancy and the rest of the Dianettes.

Diane D places one hand on her hip as she puzzled looks at Nancy and says, "A vote?"

"That's right, a vote."

"Yeah," the rest of the Dianettes say.

Everyone puzzled looks at the Dianettes as Michael says, "What's there to vote about?! These are the Punky Gurlz!"

"We know that Michael," Nancy says. "But can we still take a vote on it?" Everybody puzzled looks at Nancy and the rest of the Dianettes again.

Diane D then says, "I don't know. I guess a vote won't hurt." Diane D turns to parents and grandparents and says, "What do you say Mom, Dad, Grandma, Grandpa,?"

Should we vote on it?"

"Well," Barry says. "I guess it's only fair."

"Sure Diane," Margarita says. "You all take a vote on it."

"Yeah," Gordon says. "Why don't you girls go down the hall into the back room and vote on it while the rest of us wait here."

"Okay." Diane D and the Dianettes turn and walk down the hallway.

Gordon, the Punky Gurlz and Diane D's family stand there and wait, looking on as Diane D and the Dianettes walk down the hallway and head towards the backroom.

Diane D and the Dianettes reach the backroom. They go into the back room and shut the door behind themselves.

Inside the backroom, the Dianettes head towards the back of the room as Diane D follows behind them. They stop and form a circle as Lonna sits up on a stool. Diane D then says to them, "So what do you say girls? How about collaborating with the Punky Gurlz at our next show? I vote yes. How 'bout you guys?"

"Diane where're the dancers from Africa?" Lonna asks.

"Lonna, you still thinking about the dancers from Africa?"

"I sure am."

"Yeah Diane," Miranda says. "We thought the dancers from Africa were gonna dance with us at our next show."

"They were," Diane D says, "but are the dancers from Africa the only people y'all want to collaborate with?"

"Yes they are Diane," Bernice says. "We were hoping to dance with them again."

"Girls what difference does it make who collaborates with us? The Punky Gurlz want to collaborate with us. That should tell us something. I'll tell y'all what. Since my vote is already yes, why don't I leave you all alone for a minute so y'all can have a little time to think before you vote. The majority vote rules. I'm gonna go back out in the hallway while you all vote, then I'm gonna come back in here." Diane D turns away from the Dianettes and excitedly walks towards the door.

Diane D approaches the door. She turns her head around towards the Dianettes and smiles to them saying, "Now remember girls!"

The Dianettes look away from each other towards Diane D.

"The majority vote rules!" Diane D smiles and turns her head back forward as she opens the door and leaves the room with the door closing behind her.

Diane D runs a little down the hallway and excitedly approaches Gordon, her family and the Punky Gurlz and tells them, "Well the girls are voting right now. I already voted yes."

"Diane D why do the Dianettes have to take a vote on this?" Gordon asks.

"Yeah," Punky Gurl 1 says. "We thought the Dianettes would love to collaborate with us."

"Yeah, I thought so too."

"Well I guess this idea just came on so sudden to them," Diane D says. "But I'm sure they'll come around to it and vote yes like I did. So Punky Gurlz, how long have you guys been in town?"

"We've been in town for a month," Punky Gurl 1 says.

"Yeah," Punky Gurl 2 says. "We just want to have a few concerts."

“Wow that's good y'all doing a concert,” Diane D says. “That's great to hear. Well let me go check on the girls and see how the vote is coming along. I'll be back.” Diane D excitedly turns away from them all and heads back down the hallway towards the back room as everyone else look on.

Diane D enters the backroom and shuts the door behind herself.

A few minutes later, the Punky Gurlz, Gordon and Diane D's family are talking and chit-chatting with each other. They suddenly hear the back room door open then close. They turn their heads to look. They see Diane D slowly and disappointedly walking down the hallway heading towards them. They all look at her. “You don't seem too happy Diane,” Margarita says. “The girls voted no didn't they?”

“Yeah, they did,” Diane D says.

“All of them?” Mary ask.

“Yeah Mom, all of them.”

Diane D approaches her family, the Punky Gurlz and Gordon and says, “I told the girls that the majority vote rules and that was the majority vote. Their six no's to my one yes.”

“Why don't the Dianettes want to collaborate with us Diane D?” Punky Gurl 3 asks.

“Yeah,” Gordon says. “Being that the Dianettes didn't want to collaborate with the dancers from the Norton Dance School, I was sure they would want to collaborate with the Punky Gurlz.”

“Yeah, me too,” Diane D says. “But they want to collaborate with the dancers from Africa.”

“What!” Tomas shouts. “They still have their minds set on those dancers from Africa?”

“Yeah Grandpa. So far the dancers from Africa seem to be the only ones the girls want to collaborate with.”

“I'm sorry Diane D,” Gordon says. “I know you were looking forward to collaborating with the Punky Gurlz.”

“Hey!” Punky Gurl 1 shouts. “I have an idea! Diane D, since the Dianettes don't want us to perform on your show, maybe you all can perform at our concert in Paris next month and y'all can be an opening act for us!”

“What!” Diane D excitedly shouts. “Me and the girls perform in Paris and be an opening act for you guys?!”

“Yeah Diane D!” Punky Gurl 2 shouts. “What do you say to that?!”

“Like Tony the Tiger, that sounds grrreat! I would love that! Oh my God, me and the girls performing with you all in Paris! I can't believe this! Let me go tell the girls! I know they would really be excited about this!” Diane D excitedly turns away from them all and heads back down the hallway towards the back office as everyone looks on at her.

Diane D soon enters the back office and shuts the door behind herself.

A few minutes later, Diane D's family, Gordon and the Punky Gurlz stand around talking. They suddenly hear the back door open then close. They all turn and look. They see Diane D slowly and disappointingly heading towards them again. “Oh no Diane,” Margarita says. “They voted no to this too?”

“Yeah Grandma, they did!” Diane D says. “Six to one again!”

“What!” Punky Gurl 2 says. “They still don't like the idea of collaborating with us? Not even in Paris?”

“No.”

“You know I don't understand the girls,” Margarita says.

“Me neither,” Mary says. “Why don't they want to collaborate with the Punky Gurlz Diane?”

“They said they don't need the Punky Gurlz in order for them to go to Paris or anywhere else,” Diane D says. “They also said they're just not interested in sharing the stage with any other singing groups.”

“What? Not interested in sharing the stage with any other singing groups? Diane you and the girls shared the stage and collaborate with several singing groups before!”

“Yeah,” Barry says. “Y'all shared a stage with that singing group from Philadelphia a few years ago. Y'all also shared the stage with that other singing group in Florida and several other singing groups in the churches! Why is it different now?!”

“They were all guy groups Dad!” Diane D says.

“Guy groups?” everyone puzzled asks.

“What are you saying Diane?” Margarita asks.

“I'm saying that the girls are just not interested in sharing the stage with any other female singer or female singing groups period!” Diane D says.

“What?” everybody else says.

“Any other female singer or female singing groups?!” Tomas asks.

“That's what they just said,” Diane D says.

“You know I'm gonna have a talk with those girls and straighten them out!” Mary says. Mary is about to walk away towards the back room.

Diane D grabs Mary, stops her and says, “No Mom, their minds are already made up. What's the use?”

“We're sorry Diane D,” Punky Gurl 5 says. Diane D and Mary sadly look at Punky Gurl 5.

“Hey!” Punky Gurl 1 shouts. “I have another idea! Diane D, since we invited you and the Dianettes to perform at our concert in Paris, and the Dianettes don't want to come and participate, and since you're the only one who doesn't mind sharing the stage with us, then maybe just YOU can come along to Paris and perform with us?”

“Yeah how about that!” the rest of the Punky Gurlz say.

“What do you say to that Diane D?!” Punky Gurl 3 says.

“You mean just ME come?!” Diane D says.

“Yeah!” the Punky Gurlz say.

“Oh boy, I would love that! Sure I'll come along! My God!” Diane D turns to her family and says, “What do y'all say to that Mom, Dad, Grandma, Grandpa, Michael?! Should I perform at the Punky Gurlz' next concert in Paris?!”

Diane D's family look at each other, then back at Diane D as Barry says, “Well, I don't see why not.”

“I don't see why not either,” Mary says.

“Go for it Diane,” Margarita says.

“My God that's great!” Diane D shouts. She turns back to the Punky Gurlz and says, “Oh boy, me being in Paris again, performing on stage with the Punky Gurlz! I can't believe it! I can't believe it's going to happen!” Diane D excitedly paces back and forth and says, “Oh my God, what should I wear?!” She stops pacing and says, “Oh never mind what should I wear, when should I start packing?! Oh my goodness, this is so wonderful, it's so unbelievable! Let me go tell the girls!” Diane D excitedly turns away from them all and heads back down the hallway towards the back room!

“Wait Diane D!” Punky Gurl 1 shouts. Diane D stops and turns around towards the Punky Gurlz as Punky Gurl 1 tells her, “We'll come with you!” The Punky Gurlz run towards Diane D and catch up to her.

Diane D turns back forward as she and the Punky Gurlz happily have their arms wrapped around each others' shoulders then smile, skip and sing as they excitedly go off towards the back room.

Diane D's family, Michael and Gordon smile looking on at them.

Diane D and the Punky Gurlz reach the back room. They enter the back room and shut the door behind themselves.

Diane D's family, Michael and Gordon look at each other smiling as Tomas says, “Well, I guess the girls are gonna change their minds once they realize that Diane is gonna perform with the Punky Gurlz in Paris anyway.”

“Right,” Michael says. “I bet now the girls are gonna want to go to Paris.”

“Yeah,” Barry says. “Especially when they realize that Diane is gonna go to Paris with, or without them.”

“Yeah I guess so too,” Mary smiles and says.

“So do I,” Gordon smiles and says. They all start to laugh as Gordon says, “Come on. Let's go get some coffee.” They all turn and start to walk the opposite way towards the other end of the hall as they continue to laugh.

“What!” a voice suddenly shouts from the back room. Diane D's family and Gordon shockingly stop in their tracks. They all look at each other stunned as the voice shouts, “Y'all fuckin bitches!” Diane D's family and Gordon shockingly turn their heads and look down the hall towards the back room as another voice shouts, “Y'all got some goddamn nerve!” Diane D's family, Michael and Gordon turn and hurry down the hallway towards the back room!

Diane D's family and Gordon reach the back room door and open it.

Diane D's family, Michael and Gordon enter the back room and become shock and stunned to see the Dianettes and the Punky Gurlz going at each other, hollering, shouting and pointing fingers at each other as the Dianettes shout, “Who the hell y'all think y'all are, trying to take Diane away from us?!” Diane D stands in front of the Dianettes facing the Punky Gurlz with her arms spread out in front of Dianettes keeping them from going forward towards the Punky Gurlz as she tries to break up the commotion!

Diane D's family and Gordon approach the women and try to break up the commotion as Barry shouts, “What the hell is going on here?!”

Miranda angrily points her finger at the Punky Gurlz and shouts, “Diane is not gonna perform with you guys in Paris!”

“That's right!” Bernice shouts. “She's not gonna perform anywhere with you guys!”

“That's right!” Nancy shouts. “So you all can just forget it!”

“Cause it AIN'T gonna happen!” Lonna shouts.

“No?!” Punky Gurl 3 says. “Why not?! Y'all don't want to come be in our show!”

“No we don't want to be in your show!” Kelly shouts.

“So you don't have to then!”

“We're not!” Charlotte says.

“Fine!” Punky Gurl 1 says. “Then just Diane D will be there!”

“No she isn't!” the Dianettes shout.

“Diane is not gonna be in your show either!” Miranda shouts.

“Yes she is!” the Punky Gurlz shout.

“No she isn't!” the Dianettes shout.

“Yes she is!” the Punky Gurlz shout.

“She just said she would!” Punky Gurl 5 says.

“No she isn't!” the Dianettes shout.

“Diane is not going to be in your show, that's it!” Nancy shouts.

“Oh yes she is!” the Punky Gurlz shout.

“No she isn't!” the Dianettes shout.

“You want a singer to be in your show, go find somebody else!” Lonna shouts.

“Because it's NOT going to be Diane!” Miranda shouts.

“Oh yes it is!” the Punky Gurlz shout.

“No it isn't!” the Dianettes shout.

“Diane belongs with us!” Bernice shouts. “Y'all can't have her!”

“Oh yes we are!” the Punky Gurlz shout.

“No you're not!” the Dianettes shout.

“Yes we are!” the Punky Gurlz shout.

The Dianettes angrily lunge at the Punky Gurlz as Diane D, her family, Michael and Gordon try to stop them! “Girls!” Mary shouts to them.

“Y'all need to watch yourselves!” Punky Gurl 2 shouts.

“And you need to go back to Canada where you came from!” Lonna shouts.

A small crowd of people enter the room and see the commotion as Nancy shouts, “Diane is NOT gonna be in your show cause it AIN'T gonna happen!”

“It IS gonna happen!” Punky Gurl 1 shouts.

“No it isn't!” the Dianettes shout.

“Yes it is!” the Punky Gurlz shout.

The Dianettes angrily lunge at the Punky Gurlz again! All the men from the crowd grab a hold of all the Dianettes, lifting and pulling them towards the door as the Dianettes continue to angrily scream at the Punky Gurlz. The men bring the Dianettes towards the doorway! They then bring the Dianettes out the room. One of the men hold on to Diane D. Diane D angrily pulls her arm away from the man as she and the rest of her family follow behind the Dianettes and slam the door behind themselves! Gordon and the Punky Gurlz stay in the back room. They look at the door stunned. They hear loud commotions going out in the hallway. Gordon turns and looks at the Punky Gurlz as they look back at him. “They had no right trying to attack us!” Punky Gurl 2 says.

“That's right!” Punky Gurl 1 says. “We gotto go speak to Diane D.” The Punky Gurlz turn and head for the door.

Gordon hurries in front of the Punky Gurlz and stops them as he tells them, “No don't go speak to Diane D! All you're gonna do is upset the Dianettes even more!”

“Who cares?!” Punky Gurl 1 says. “We still have to know whether or not Diane D is gonna perform with us in Paris!” The Punky Gurlz angrily shove Gordon aside. They hurry to the door, open it then rush out into the hallway!

Diane D, the Dianettes and everybody else are down at the opposite end of the hallway as Diane D and the Dianettes fuss at each other with Miranda crying out, “How could you just go with them Diane?! How could you?”

“Miranda, did y'all hear what I said?!” Diane D shouts. “I said I'm not going to Paris! I'm not going!” The Dianettes start to complain to Mary and Barry!

The Punky Gurlz come down the hallway. Michael and a few men in the crowd approach them and stop them. “Can we just talk to Diane D for a moment?!” Punky Gurl 1 says.

“We know that,” Punky Gurl 2 says. “We just want to talk to Diane D real quick, then we'll go.”

“Okay. Hold on.” Michael turns towards Diane D and shouts, “Diane! Diane!” Diane D and everyone else turn towards Michael.

“The Punky Gurlz want to speak to you real quick before they go!” Michael shouts.

Diane D and everyone else look at the Punky Gurlz as the Dianettes angrily glare at the Punky Gurlz. Diane D turns to the Dianettes and tells them, “I'll be right back girls.” The Dianettes puzzledly look at Diane D. Diane D tells them, “I'll be right back. I'm not going anywhere. I just wanna see what they want. I'll be back. Stay cool.” Diane D looks at the Dianettes as she walks away from them. She then turns her head and walks towards the Punky Gurlz as the Dianettes worriedly look on at Diane D then glare at the Punky Gurlz again.

Diane D approaches the Punky Gurlz as Punky Gurl 1 says, “Diane D can we talk to you in private?”

“In private?” Diane D asks.

“Yeah.”

“Okay, but we got to make it quick.” Diane D turns to the Dianettes and her family and shouts, “I'll be right back everybody!” Diane D turns back to the Punky Gurlz and says, “Let's go into the office.” Diane D and the Punky Gurlz turn and head towards the opposite direction of the hallway and go around the corner into another hallway.

Diane D and the Punky Gurlz enter an office and close the door behind themselves. The Punky Gurlz rush all the way inside the office as Diane D slowly follows behind them. The Punky Gurlz turn around towards Diane D as Punky Gurl 2 says, “Listen Diane D, we're very sorry for that outburst that just happened.”

Diane D stops and firmly stares at Punky Gurl 2.

“Yeah Diane D,” Punky Gurl 1 says. “We really are! We had no idea that the Dianettes would react this way! We didn't know they would be upset about you performing with us in Paris! I mean it's bad enough they don't want to perform with us or share the stage with us, but they don't even want YOU to perform with us or share the stage with us.”

“That's right Diane D,” Punky Gurl 3 says. “I mean we just want to know, if you're still interested in performing in Paris with us.”

“What?” Diane D says. “You're still expecting me to perform with you guys in Paris, after that argument you all and the girls just had? You saw how upset the girls got about the idea of me performing with you!”

“We know that Diane D,” Punky Gurl 2 says. “We know the Dianettes don't want you performing with us, but maybe we can make arrangements, for you to perform with us in Paris without the Dianettes ever knowing about it.”

“Without them ever knowing about it?”

“Yeah,” Punky Gurl 5 says. “Maybe you can just sneak away from them for a while.”

“Yeah,” Punky Gurl 3 says. “By the time you be in Paris and perform with us, it'll be too late for the Dianettes to stop you.”

“What do you say to that Diane D?” Punky Gurl 1 says. “If you come perform in Paris with us, we'll pay you a whole lot of money.”

“Pay me a whole lot of money?” Diane D says.

“Yeah,” Punky Gurl 2 says. “We'll pay you hundreds of dollars!”

“No!” Punky Gurl 1 shouts. “We'll pay you thousands of dollars!”

“No!” Punky Gurl 6 shouts. “We'll pay you multimillions of dollars!”

Diane D angrily holds her arm and hand out to the Punky Gurlz and shouts, “WAIT A MINUTE, JUST STOP WITH THE MONEY, ALRIGHT?!” Diane D angrily stares at the Punky Gurlz as the Punky Gurlz frighteningly look at her. Diane D then calms as she puts her hand down and says, “Listen you all, money is not the issue here. There are a lot of things in life that's much more important to me than money. Right now, the girls' feelings are very, very important to me. Now if the girls don't want me to perform with you guys in Paris or anywhere else, I'm not gonna let them down or disappoint them. I appreciate you all wanting to perform with me and me perform with you, but it's not worth disappointing the girls.”

“Not worth disappointing them?” Punky Gurl 1 worriedly says. “So what are you saying Diane D? Are you saying you're not gonna perform in Paris with us? We understand that the Dianettes' feelings are important to you, but they're the ones who don't want to participate with us, you do! You don't mind sharing the stage with us, so why in the world should they stop you or not want you sharing the stage with us?!”

“That's right Diane D,” Punky Gurl 5 says. “You should still come to Paris with us! Come with us today! We'll sneak you to Paris then you'll be right back here before the Dianettes would ever realize you're gone!”

“Yeah so come with us Diane D,” Punky Gurl 2 says. “We'll make arrangements for you right now with the airlines and fly you right out of here within an hour!” Punky Gurl 2 turns to the others and shouts, “Girls let's call the airlines right now and book a flight out of here for all of us including Diane D!”

“Wait a minute!” Diane D shouts. “Did you all hear what I just said?! I'm not going!”

“You are going Diane D!” Punky Gurl 1 says. “No ifs ands, or buts about it! You're going!” Punky Gurl 1 turns to the others and says, “Hurry girls! Call the airlines and book an extra seat for Diane D!”

“You got it!” Punky Gurl 2 says. The Punky Gurlz turn and hurry to the telephone. They suddenly hear the sound of the door bang open! They become startled as they and Diane D turn towards the door and look. They see the angry Dianettes standing in the doorway glaring at the Punky Gurlz with their arms folded. Diane D and the Punky Gurlz puzzled look at the Dianettes. The Dianettes glare at the Punky Gurlz.

They then charge in the room at the Punky Gurlz as Diane D's family and a crowd quickly approach the doorway! They jump and kick the Punky Gurlz down on the floor and throw objects from the desk at them! "Aaaaahh," the Punky Gurlz scream. The Dianettes turn around and grab Diane D by both her arms and hands. They quickly run out the room with her! The men in the crowd grab the Punky Gurlz and help them up. The Punky Gurlz stand up. They run out the room going after the Dianettes! Everyone else run out the room!

The Punky Gurlz run out in the hallway. They run down the hallway and catch up to the Dianettes! They kick back at the Dianettes! The Dianettes almost fall as the Punky Gurlz turn and run back down the hallway! The Dianettes quickly catch their balance! They turn and angrily run after the Punky Gurlz! The Punky Gurlz quickly run towards an exit! They open the door and burst out the building!

The Dianettes run towards the exit! They open the door and burst out the building after the Punky Gurlz!

Diane D and the rest of the crowd run through the park after the Dianettes! Everyone soon hear police sirens coming! The Punky Gurlz continue to run off as everyone else stop! Diane D catches up to the Dianettes! She shouts to them, "Girls! Girls! The police are coming! We gotto get outta here! Come on let's shoot!"

Diane D and the Dianettes turn and race off in the other direction! The crowd follows off after them! Several police cars approach the crowd! The people in the crowd stop as other police cars hurry around a corner!

Diane D and the Dianettes are running on the other side of the park! They hear sirens coming around the corner! They turn their heads towards the sirens and quickly turn and run other direction!

On the other side of the park, the police cars are hot on the Punky Gurlz' trail as the Punky Gurlz continue to run! The Punky Gurlz scream as they tumble over a log and continue to run on the other side.

Diane D and the Dianettes continue to run on the other side of the park! Other police cars are on their trail!

The Punky Gurlz continue to run as the police cars pull up along side them. The Punky Gurlz stop running as the police come out of their cars! The police rush to the Punky Gurlz and grab them! The Punky Gurlz start to struggle and fuss with the police.

Lonna, Kelly and Nancy continue to run on the other side of the park as the police cars pull up along side of them. Lonna, Kelly and Nancy stop running as the police come out of their cars and run to them! The police grab Lonna, Kelly and Nancy! Lonna, Kelly and Nancy scream as the police become a little rough with them. One of the officers pull Lonna's arm behind her back a little hard as Lonna shouts, "Aaaaah! You're hurting me! Aaaaah!"

"Where are the others?!" the male white police officer shouts.

"Aaaaah!"

"I asked you, where are the others?!"

"Aaaaaah!"

Two other officers look behind the first officer towards the bushes and yell to him, "Watch out! She's trying to put a sneak attack on you!"

The first officer turns around and looks towards the bushes as Diane D suddenly leaps from behind the bushes and angrily lunges at him! The other officers quickly grab Diane D and hold onto her! One of the officers holding Diane D, a male black around his late 30's, looks at Diane D and says, "Diane D?!" Diane D looks at the officer as he says to her, "You're in trouble again?!"

The other officers got a hold of Miranda, Charlotte and Bernice. One of the other officers, a male black around his late 30's, looks at Miranda, Charlotte and Bernice and says, "Dianettes! What's going on?!"

"Officer," an out of breath Miranda says. "We can explain!"

"You can explain when we all go down to the station!"

"Go down to the station?!" Diane D shouts. "Why we have to go to the station?!"

"Yeah it was those Punky Gurlz that started it!" Lonna says.

"Don't worry!" the officer says. "We're taking them to the station too! Let's go."

The police pull Diane D and the Dianettes away.

Two hours later, Diane D's family sit in the office of the police station with Gordon. Two white male police officers come into the room and approach Diane D's family as Diane D's family approach them. "What's going on officers?" Mary asks.

"Your daughter Diane D has an attempted assault charge against her," one of the officers says.

"What!" Diane D's family shout.

"Attempted assault charge?!" Margarita shouts.

"Yes," the officer says. "She tried to put a sneak attack on one of the other officers who was holding and grabbing onto one of the Dianettes! The other officers saw your daughter Diane D sneaking from behind the bushes getting ready to attack that officer! They warned that officer in time, so when your daughter Diane D leaped from behind the bushes, the other officers grabbed her in time and held on to her."

"What!" Diane D's family shout. "Oh no!"

"Now we had a talk with the Dianettes and the Punky Gurlz. Now both the Dianettes and the Punky Gurlz agree to not to press charges against each other."

"They did?" Barry asked.

"Yes. So we're gonna let them all go."

"Thank you officers."

"Even though the Punky Gurlz agree not to press charges against the Dianettes, the Dianettes agree not to press charges against the Punky Gurlz on one condition."

"On one condition?" Diane D's family asks.

"What condition is that?" Tomas asks.

"That the Punky Gurlz have to agree and make sure that Diane D does not perform in Paris or anywhere else with them," the officer says.

"What?!" Diane D's family says.

"If Diane performs in Paris or anywhere else with the Punky Gurlz, the girls say they will press charges against them?!" Mary asks.

"That's what they said," the officer says. "They said they will press charges AND file a lawsuit against the Punky Gurlz."

"File a lawsuit?!" Diane D's family asks.

"Yes. Maybe even file kidnapping charges."

"What! Kidnapping charges?!"

"Yes. The Dianettes said if the Punky Gurlz take Diane D to Europe with them, they're going to file kidnapping charges against them."

"Oh yeah?" Tomas asks. "How can they file kidnapping charges against the Punky Gurlz?"

"The Dianettes claim they were in the hallway at the dance studio eavesdropping through the door while the Punky Gurlz were in the back office with Diane D. The Dianettes claim they overheard the Punky Gurlz trying to bribe Diane D with a whole lot of money if Diane D goes to Paris with them."

"What!" Diane D's family say.

"The girls claim they overheard the Punky Gurlz trying to bribe Diane with a whole lot of money if Diane goes to Paris with them?!" Margarita asks.

"Yeah."

"How much money?!" Tomas asks.

“The Dianettes claim first in the hundreds then in the thousands then in the millions.”

“In the hundreds then thousands then millions?!” Barry asks.

“Yeah. Not only that, the Dianettes claim they overheard the Punky Gurlz trying to book a flight out the airport tonight and include a seat for Diane D in their flight, even though Diane D told the Punky Gurlz no, that she’s not going to Paris with them.”

“The girls overheard Diane telling the Punky Gurlz that she’s not going to Paris with them?”

“Yes. The Dianettes said they overheard the Punky Gurlz tell Diane D that she IS going to go to Paris with them. The Dianettes said the Punky Gurlz were very persistent. They said it was like the Punky Gurlz were forcing Diane D to go to Paris with them whether Diane D wanted to go or not. That’s when the Dianettes said they burst into the room to save Diane D from the Punky Gurlz and take her away from them. The Dianettes said when they took Diane D out into the hallway, the Punky Gurlz came after them to get Diane D back, but the Punky Gurlz said it’s not true, they didn’t come after the Dianettes to get Diane D back. They said they only came after the Dianettes because the Dianettes hit them first.”

“Wow,” Barry says. “You know this is so absurd!”

“It is. Well the Dianettes don’t have to worry about your daughter Diane D going to Europe with the Punky Gurlz because your daughter Diane D can’t leave town anyway. Not with this attempted assault charge against her.”

“So what are you planning do with her?” Margarita asks.

“We’re letting her go too, but she has to appear in court. I’ll bring you all to Diane D and the Dianettes.”

“Thank you officer.”

The officer turns and walks away as Diane D's family follow behind him.

A crowd of people and some organization members are standing in the lobby of the police station. Barry approaches the crowd as Alex says to him, “How is everything? How are Diane and the girls?”

“They’re all okay,” Barry says. “The girls are still pissed off. They’re all talking about pressing charges, filing a lawsuit and filing kidnapping charges against the Punky Gurlz if the Punky Gurlz have Diane perform in Paris or anywhere else with them.”

“Yeah we heard.”

“Diane is not gonna go to Paris with the Punky Gurlz is she?” Stephanie asks.

“No she's not gonna go,” Barry says. “She can't go to Paris or leave town anyway with the attempted assault charge against her.”

“Yeah we heard,” Harvey says. “The other officer already came and told us that Diane has an attempted assault charge against her.”

“He did?”

“Yeah.”

“Well Diane is not going to Paris, that's dead.”

“So what's gonna happen now?” Alex asks. “Are the police letting Diane and the girls go?”

“Yes, the police are letting them all go, but Diane is gonna have a day to appear in court for the attempted assault charge.”

“Oh no,” Stephanie says.

“Well we're gonna bring Diane and the girls back to the dance studio now to change back to their clothes then we're gonna take them all home.” Barry turns away and heads towards the back of the police station as the staff members look on at him.

An hour later, Diane D is in regular street clothes wearing a short corduroy black jacket with matching black pants and a short black shirt underneath her jacket as she adjusts some straps on her bag. Mary and Barry approach Diane D as Mary says, “Diane, how're you feeling baby?”

Diane D looks at her parents and says, “I’m Okay. Listen Mom, Dad, I’m gonna bring all the girls home with me to Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house. I’ll have them stay there with me for a couple of weeks again.”

“You are?”

“Yeah.”

“Okay Diane,” Barry says. “Just call Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike up and let them know you're bringing the girls there. We already called them up and told them about this incident. They and the rest of the family were all about to rush down to the police station, but I told them we're not at the police station anymore that we left the police station and will be home shortly.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Okay. I’ll call Grandma Gracy and tell her I’m bring the girls home with me. I’ll call her in the hallway.” A frowning Diane D leaves from her parents as her parents turn and worriedly look on at her.

Diane D sits on a stool in the hallway with one knee up as she dials a number on her cell phone. She sighs as she puts the cell phone to her ear. She then speaks into the cell phone and says, “Hey Grandma.”

“Diane!” Gracy says. “How are you baby!”

“I'm okay. Listen Grandma, I'm getting ready to come home now and I'm bringing all the girls over there with me.”

“You are?”

“Yeah. I'm gonna have them spend two weeks with us again.”

“Two weeks? Okay. I heard about the argument and fight they got into with the Punky Gurlz. And I heard about your attempt assault charge on a police officer again. I also heard the Punky Gurlz were interested in collaborating with you and the girls, but the feeling wasn't mutual. The girls didn't want to collaborate with the Punky Gurlz.”

“No they didn't. They only want to collaborate with the guys from Africa. They said they're not interested in sharing the stage with any female singers or any female singing group.”

“I heard. I heard they flipped out when they found out that the Punky Gurlz were gonna have you perform in Paris with them! I heard they started yelling, cursing and screaming at the Punky Gurlz then the Punky Gurlz fussed back and they all started arguing with each other. I heard the girls started protesting to your Mom and Dad that they didn't want you performing in Paris with the Punky Gurlz! I heard the girls and the Punky Gurlz started chasing after each other back forth at the dance studio, then in the street then at the park! Then I heard the police came and got involved then you were about to assault a police officer you saw got rough with Lonna! I heard it turned into a whole big mess! Are you and the girls alright Diane?"

"Yeah Grandma we're okay. We're on our way out of the dance studio then we'll be on our way to your place. You'll see us when we get there."

"Alright Diane. Just bring the girls over. What room are you gonna put them all in?"

"Well it's not too much room left in your house Grandma. I'll just have to have three of the girls squeeze in the room with me and Dana and put the other three girls in the room with Aunt Celeste."

"Oh yeah? So you want the extra beds put back into Dana's room?"

"Yeah."

"Okay Diane. I'll have Nicolas and Mickey bring the extra beds down from the attic again and put them in Dana's room and your Aunt Celeste's room."

"Thanks Grandma. Did Dana come home from work yet?"

"Yeah she came in an hour ago. She's upstairs now."

"Okay. Well the girls and I will be there. It might take a while because it's rush-hour traffic on the highways right now."

"I know. Okay Diane. I'll be here waiting for you all."

"Okay Grandma thanks."

"See you when you get here."

"Okay." Diane D closes her cell phone, gets off the stool and goes away.

An hour later, Diane D comes into the front door of Gracy and Mike's house as the upset looking Dianettes all dressed in short black jackets, short belly baring shirts, pants, bangs with hair flowing down their backs carrying some luggage follow in behind her. Michael, Mary and Barry follow them inside carrying some luggage also. Barry closes the door behind himself as Diane D looks up the staircase and shouts, "Grandma, Grandpa we're here!"

Gracy and Grandpa Mike come down the stairs. "Hey everybody!" Gracy says.

"Hey Mom, Dad," Barry says. Gracy and Grandpa Mike reach the bottom of the stairs and approach Diane D and the Dianettes. They give them all warm hugs. Gracy and Grandpa Mike then give Michael, Mary and Barry warm hugs too. Grandpa Mike and Gracy step back as Grandpa Mike puzzled looks at the Dianettes and says, "Now which one of you girls was mainly having a problem with the Punky Gurlz?"

"I bet it was Lonna wasn't?" Gracy says.

Lonna folds her arms and pokes her mouth to the side as Diane D says, "You're warm Grandma."

"I'm warm. Okay, then I bet it was Nancy."

"It wasn't just Nancy! It was all of them Grandma!" Diane D looks at the Dianettes as they look back at her. Diane D looks back towards Gracy and says, "They ALL had a problem with the Punky Gurlz!"

"Oh no! Well we're gonna have to get to the bottom of this whole thing later. But right now, why don't you all go upstairs and get settled. Dinner is just about ready. After dinner we'll talk about this whole Punky Gurlz thing."

"Okay Grandma." Diane D turns her head to the Dianettes and says, "Come on girls." Diane D turns her head back forward and goes up the stairs as the Dianettes follow up behind her. Gracy and Mary follow up behind the Dianettes. Michael and Barry carry some luggage and follow up behind Gracy and Mary as Grandpa Mike follows behind.

Back at the dance studio, Margarita, Tomas and Gordon are sitting inside the office talking. The Punky Gurlz suddenly enter the office. "Hey," Punky Gurl 1 says.

Margarita, Tomas and Gordon look at the Punky Gurlz as Margarita says, "Hey."

The Punky Gurlz approach Margarita, Tomas and Gordon. Punky Gurl 1 then says, "We heard Diane D went home to her grandparents' house and brought all the Dianettes over there with her, but y'all here."

"No Diane went home to her other grandparents' house," Margarita says. "Her father's parents' house out in Queens. She's staying over there."

"Yeah," Tomas says. "Diane took all the girls home over there to stay with her other grandparents for two weeks."

"For two weeks?" Punky Gurl 1 says. "Really?"

"Yeah," Margarita says. "Listen ladies, we're very sorry about what happened between you all and the girls."

"Yeah," Tomas says. "We didn't expect that to happen."

"Yeah we're sorry too," Punky Gurl 2 says. "We're sorry that the Dianettes are no fans of ours, even though we were big fans of theirs."

"Well Diane seemed to be a fan of yours. She seemed real excited about you all."

"Well we're excited about her too," Punky Gurl 3 says. "We want to get in touch with her. We want to know if we could change her mind about performing in Paris with us."

"Oh ladies Diane can't leave town anyway. She has an attempted assault charge against her and you heard what the girls said. They said if Diane performs with you all in Paris, they're gonna file kidnapping charges against you and file a lawsuit if Diane happens to go to Paris with you anytime in the future."

"Kidnapping charges," Punky Gurl 1 says. "For real? You think we would stoop that low to try to kidnap Diane D or anybody else?"

"Well the girls claimed they overheard you trying to bribe Diane with millions of dollars if she performs in Paris with you and said you all were planning to book a seat for Diane on a flight tonight," Margarita says.

"We were only trying to persuade Diane D to come to Paris with us because we knew she wanted to go, but the only reason she's not going is because of the Dianettes."

"The Dianettes are putting this kidnapping thing on us just to make us look bad," Punky Gurl 2 says.

"Yeah," Punky Gurl 3 says. "We were only persuading Diane D and nothing else. Now we are hoping we can get Diane D to perform with us in Paris without the Dianettes knowing about it."

"Yeah we were hoping the Dianettes would find out about it later after the event in Paris was all over," Punky Gurl 5 says.

"Find out about it later?" Tomas says. "The girls might still want to file kidnapping charges and a lawsuit against you guys even after the event is over and they find out about it later. I think you girls should just give it up. If Diane is missing for a while, believe me, the girls will know about it. Then they're gonna start to ask questions."

"That's right," Margarita says. "I think it would be best to just let it go. But I'll let you speak to Diane about it yourself. Let me call her other grandparents' number and let you speak to her, because Tomas and I are on our way out the door. We have to hurry and head back to the organization.”

“Okay,” Punky Gurl 5 says.

Margarita picks up the phone receiver off the telephone on the desk and dials a number. She listens in the receiver. “It's ringing,” she says. She turns to the Punky Gurlz and says, “Here you guys take the phone and speak to Diane about it yourself, cause we have to go.”

“Okay,” Punky Gurl 1 says.

Margarita hands the phone receiver to Punky Gurl 1. Punky Gurl 1 puts the phone receiver to her ear. Margarita turns to Gordon and says, “I'll see you later.”

“Okay,” Gordon says.

Margarita and Tomas walk towards the door. They walk out the door and leave the office.

Punky Gurl 1 has the phone receiver to her ears and hears a few rings from the other end. She turns to the other Punky Gurlz and whispers, “Gee I hope none of the Dianettes answer the telephone.” Punky Gurl 1 continues to listen in the receiver. She suddenly hears someone pick up the other end of the telephone.

“Hellooo?” a deep hoarse voice on the other end of the phone says.

“Uh hello,” Punky Gurl 1 nervously says. “Um, can I speak to Diane D please?”

Dana, who is on the other end of the phone, dressed in a short jacket and matching pants says, “Hold on.” Dana is about to leave the phone. She pauses a little then puzzled asks, “Who's calling by the way?”

“Who's calling? Um, a friend.”

“A friend? What friend?”

“A new friend of hers. I just met her today.”

“Do you have a name?”

“My name? Well I'm one of the Punky Gurlz.”

“One of the Punky Gurlz?”

“Yes.”

“What do you want with Diane?!”

“Well I want to speak to her.”

“What do you want to speak to her about?”

“It's personal. Can I speak to her?”

“Oh I'm sorry Diane is busy right now, she won't be able to come to the phone. Can I give her a message?”

“She won't be able to come to the phone? What do you mean she won't be able to come to the phone?”

“Busy? Well it's real important. Could you put her on the phone please?”

“She can't come to the phone.”

“Why not? I have to speak to her.”

“She's busy right now. Do you have a message you would like for me to give her?”

“Can't you just put her on the phone real quick?”

“I can't, she's busy!”

“I need to speak to her personally. It's real urgent.”

“Diane is busy right now, she can't come to the phone! Do you have a message for me to give her?!”

“Please put her on the phone. I really need to speak to her personally!”

“Are you hard of hearing?! I said Diane is busy right now, she can't come to the phone, now do you have a message for me to give her or not?!”

“No, nevermind! Forget it!”

“Fine! Don't you ever call this number or any other number for Diane again! Stay the hell away from my cousin!” Dana slams the phone receiver down and walks away.

Punky Gurl 1 puzzled looks at the phone receiver on her end and says, “Well excuuuuse me!” She angrily hangs up the phone receiver.

“Who was that?” Gordon asks.

“I don't know, but whoever that was on the other end of the phone, that person was certainly rude! They refused to bring Diane D to the phone! After a while, they started hollering at me!”

“Really? Was it one of the Dianettes?”

“Didn't sound like any of them. This person who answered the phone had a deep hoarse Jamaican accent.”

“A deep hoarse Jamaican accent? Was it a man or woman?”

“It sounded like it could be a man or a woman with a deep voice.”

“It was probably Diane D's cousin Dana, you know, the one who was suspected of shooting down all those traffic cameras and the one who beat up and car chased that newspaper reporter on the highway and shot at his vehicle three times and the one who beat up those two female police officers, because Dana stays with Diane D's other grandparents at times.”

“She does?”

“Yeah. It's her room Diane D is staying in.”

“Oh yeah? It probably was her on the phone because she just sounded like she wanted to beat me up! She told me not to ever call their number or any other number for Diane D again then told me to stay the hell away from her cousin!”

“What?!” the other Punky Gurlz say.

“She told you to stay the hell away from Diane D?!” Gordon asks.

“Yeah,” Punky Gurl 1 says. “Then she slammed the phone down in my ear!”

“She slammed the phone on you?”

“She sure did.”

“Gordon, isn't Diane D's cousin Dana on parole?” Punky Gurl 5 asks.

“That's what I heard,” Gordon says. “I try not to get involved with anything that has to do with Dana, she's dangerous, I want nothing to do with her! I wish I would have known that there's a possibility that Dana might pick up that other end of the phone because if I knew that, I wouldn't have let Miss Margarita called Diane D's other grandparents' house.”

“Well I don't think we're gonna be able to get in touch with Diane D at all.”

“Me neither,” Punky Gurl 3 says.

“Hey wait a minute,” Punky Gurl 2 says. “Doesn't Diane D have a cell phone? Maybe we can try to contact her through her cell phone!”

“And how are we going to do that?” Punky Gurl 1 says. “Her cousin Dana just warned me on the phone not to ever call their house number or any other number for Diane D again! When she said that, I'm sure she meant not to call Diane D's cell phone either!”

“Who the hell is she to tell other people not to call Diane D’s cell phone?! She doesn’t own Diane D’s cell phone!”

“I know. It would have been best if Miss Margarita had dialed Diane D’s cell phone in the first place instead of dialing Diane D’s other grandparents’ house number. That way, we wouldn’t have had to deal with her cousin Dana!”

“Ladies,” Gordon says. “It’s best to just forget about trying to contact Diane D or try to get her to go to Paris with you, because now you’re not just dealing with the Dianettes, you’re dealing with her cousin Dana as well.” The Punky Gurlz worriedly look at Gordon.

The next day, a woman in a cafe is reading an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: THE DIANETTES VS. THE PUNKY GURLZ! CATFIGHT ERUPTS BETWEEN THE DIANETTES AND THE PUNKY GURLZ AT DANCE STUDIO AS DIANE D GETS CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE! The woman turns to several other people and says, “Hey. Did y’all read this article about the Dianettes and the Punky Gurlz going at it at a dance studio yesterday?”

“Yeah,” a second woman says. “It says that the Punky Gurlz wanted to collaborate and perform with Diane D and the Dianettes at Diane D and the Dianettes’ next show or concert and in Paris, but the Dianettes didn’t want to collaborate with the Punky Gurlz. When the Punky Gurlz suggested that maybe just Diane D can collaborate with them alone in Paris, that’s when hell broke loose.”

“Yeah I heard,” one of the men say. “I heard the Dianettes didn’t even want Diane D to collaborate with the Punky Gurlz by herself. I heard Diane D and her family tried to stop the fight at the dance studio, then I heard the Dianettes protested to Diane D’s parents against Diane D performing in Paris with the Punky Gurlz! Then I heard the Dianettes and the Punky Gurlz started chasing after each other outside in the street then in the park, then the police came after them and they were all taking to the police station, including Diane D.”

“Wow,” a second man says. “So is Diane D still gonna collaborate with the Punky Gurlz in Paris or what?”

“I don’t think so,” the first woman says. “Because first of all, she’s not allowed to leave town because she has an attempted assault charge against her. Second of all, the Dianettes threatened kidnapping charges against the Punky Gurlz if Diane D goes to Paris with the Punky Gurlz and third, it says the Punky Gurlz tried to get in touch with Diane D last night by calling her other grandparents’ house, but couldn’t reach her. They said a family member of Diane D’s who they believed might have been her cousin Dana answered the telephone and refused to bring Diane D to the phone. It says then Dana hollered at the Punky Gurl who was on the telephone and told the Punky Gurl not to ever call for Diane D again and to stay the hell away from her cousin. Then Dana slammed the phone down in the Punky Gurl’s ear.”

“She did?” the second man asks.

“Yeah! So the Punky Gurlz decided to give up trying to collaborate with Diane D because of the Dianettes and Diane D’s cousin Dana. They claim they don’t need the pressure or attitudes.”

“Wow I don’t blame them.” The woman continues to look at the article.

A man is sitting on the subway reading an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: THE DIANETTES VS. THE PUNKY GURLZ!.

Margarita, Tomas, Mary, Barry and Nicolas are inside the organization office looking at the newspaper article with a headline that reads: THE DIANETTES VS. THE PUNKY GURLZ! Tomas turns to Mary and asks, "Dana never said a word to Diane about the Punky Gurlz calling Gracy and Mike's house last night?"

"No!" Mary says.

"Did Diane see this article yet?" Margarita asks.

"Yeah she saw the article already. I spoke to her on the phone this morning."

"Did Dana see the article?" Barry asks.

"Yeah Dana saw the article. Diane said she showed the article to Dana while they were all eating breakfast. She said Dana looked at the article and had nothing to say about it. Diane said she asked Dana why she didn't bring her to the telephone when the Punky Gurlz called for her. Diane said Dana told her she forgot. Diane didn't believe Dana so she yelled at Dana and chewed Dana out."

"She did?" Margarita says.

"Yeah."

"I can't believe Dana would not get Diane to the telephone to speak to the Punky Gurlz."

"I can believe it," Nicolas says. "Knowing Dana."

"Dana should have gotten Diane to the telephone. I should have waited on the phone myself to make sure Diane came to the telephone."

"Well it's too late now Ma," Mary says. "I mean Diane was trying to give it another shot to collaborate with the Punky Gurlz."

"She was," Barry says. "She and Mom were working on the girls late last night, trying to change the girls' minds to get them to perform in Paris with the Punky Gurlz. Mom and Diane said the girls seem like they were about to come around to it. Then I spoke to Gordon on the phone this morning. He told me the Punky Gurlz already gave up trying to collaborate with Diane because of the argument and fight with the girls and the way Dana treated them on the telephone! Gordon said the Punky Gurlz already called another singing group late last night and decided to collaborate with that singing group in Paris instead of with Diane."

"Man that's a shame," Margarita says. "Are Diane and the girls coming in today?"

"No," Mary says. "Diane said she and the girls are just gonna stay home for the whole next two weeks."

"For the whole next two weeks? You mean they're not gonna come to the organization at all?"

"No I guess not." They all sadly look at each other. They then look back at the article again.

Dana Throws Contractors Out

It is a month later. Dana and Diane D are riding on motorcycles wearing helmets with long ponytails hanging around their backs and shoulders as Dana's maternal cousin Judy from Jamaica sits on the back seat behind Dana wearing a helmet and Teresa sits on the back seat behind Diane D wearing a helmet. Dana and Diane D pull their motorcycles to the curb in front of their grandparents Gracy and Mike's house and stop. Judy, who is a little taller, darker and slimmer than Dana holds on to Dana's shoulders as she gets off the back seat of the motorcycle. She takes off her helmet showing her shoulder length dreadlocks. Teresa holds on to Diane D's shoulders as she gets off the back seat of the motorcycle. She takes her helmet off. Judy and Teresa smile to each other as Dana and Diane D turn the motorcycle engines off. Dana and Diane get off the motorcycles. Dana and Diane D take off their helmets. They walk towards their grandparents' front door as Judy and Teresa follow behind them. Dana approaches the front door and unlocks it. She lets Diane D, Judy and Teresa go inside the house ahead of her. She then follows in behind them and closes the door behind herself.

Diane D walks into the living room as Judy and Teresa follow her. Judy and Teresa stop as Dana walks in front of Judy and Teresa. They all suddenly hear a lot of banging going on. Dana turns to Diane D and asks, "What the hell is that?"

"Oh those are the contractors that are remodeling Grandma and Grandpa's kitchen," Diane D says.

"What! Grandma and Grandpa got contractors to remodel their kitchen?"

"Yeah."

"I thought Sammy and Thomas told Grandma and Grandpa that they and I were gonna do and help with the remodeling!"

"Well Dana you went away for a while. You were locked up. While you were away, Grandma and Grandpa called someone else to remodel their kitchen."

"Oh so in other words, they couldn't wait for me, couldn't they?"

"No I guess they couldn't. They were gonna wait for you, but they heard about these terrific guys and hired them on the spot."

"Oh yeah? Well I'm gonna fire these guys, on the spot!"

"What."

Dana puts her helmet down. She turns and storms towards the kitchen.

Dana enters the kitchen doorway and looks into the kitchen as Diane D, Judy and Teresa come in behind her. She sees three South American looking men fixing the kitchen. The men turn and look at Dana. Dana looks around the kitchen and shouts, “What the hell is going on here?”

“Nothing Ma’am,” one of the men says. “We were hired to fix this kitchen.”

“How long have you been working on this kitchen?”

“We started this morning.”

“When are you supposed to be finished with it?”

“We don't know. Maybe a week or two.”

“A week or two? Well that's okay, you guys don't have to fix the kitchen for my grandparents. My brothers and I are gonna fix it.”

“Dana!” Diane D shouts.

Dana turns to Diane D and says, “We're gonna fix it!” She turns back to the men and says, “You guys can leave.”

“Leave?” the second man says. “We already started working on it.”

“Look I don't like the way you're making my grandparents' kitchen look! My brothers and I will finish it! Y'all don't have to work on it anymore!” Dana starts to pick up the men's belongings.

“But your grandparents already hired us! They already paid us the entire bill and everything! If we leave now, they will lose their money and won't be able to get their money back under this circumstance!”

“Oh no? Watch me!”

“But miss!” the first guy shouts.

“Don't ‘but miss’ me! Just take your shit and get out!” Dana picks up the men's belongings. She takes their belongings out of the kitchen as the men and Diane D hurry behind her!

Dana walks through the living room with the men's belongings. She heads towards the front door and opens it. She throws the men's belongings out the front door. The men walk towards the front door. Diane D goes in front of the men and tries to stop them from leaving and shouts, “No you guys can't leave! You were paid to do a job now do it!”

“How can we do the job if she's throwing our belongings out?” one of the men says.

“I'll get your belongings back! Just go back in the kitchen and finish doing what you were doing!”

“Diane they got to go!” Dana's voice shouts.

Diane D turns towards Dana and shouts, “No they don't!”

“Yes they do!” Dana says as she storms back in the kitchen.

Diane D turns back to the men and says, “You guys have to finish the kitchen!”

“How can we?” the man shouts.

Dana comes back out of the kitchen with more of the men's belongings. She goes to the front door and opens it. She throws more of their belongings out the front door.

“Miss!” the man shouts to her.

“Man just take your things and go!” Dana shouts

“Don't you think we should at least let your grandparents know we're leaving?!”

“I'll let them know about it! Just get out!”

“But miss!”

“I want you guys out of my grandparents' house now!”

“Fine then!” The men grab the rest of their belongings and leave out of the house.

The men come out of the front door as Dana shouts to them, “And don't come back!” Dana throws another of the men's belongings out the door then slams the door.

The men look back at the front door stunned. They then look at each other as the third man says, “Man what the hell is her problem?”

“I don't know!” the second man shouts. “We gotta call her grandparents up later on and tell them about this!”

“I know, but for now, let's just get the hell out of here!” The men pick up their belongings then turn and walk towards the front gate.

The first man looks around. He then stops and says, “Hey! We forgot our tool belt!” The other men stop as the first man says, “We can't leave it. We gotta get it.” The men turn back around and start to walk back towards the front door.

As the men walk towards the front door, the front door suddenly swings open! Dana ducks out the front door and throws the tool belt out the house! The men look at the tool belt as it crashes on the front lawn! They turn and look back at the front door as it slams shut. The three men look at each other as the second guy whispers, “Man, what a bitch!”

“She sure is! Come on let's grab our things and go!” The three men pick up their tool kit and their belongings from off the front lawn. They then walk towards the front gate. They head out the front gate and quickly leave the area.

Two hours later, the contractors are sitting inside their office. The first guy turns to the others and says, “I'm gonna call that woman's grandparents up and tell them what happened.” He picks up the telephone receiver and puts the receiver in his ear. He dials a number on the telephone and listens into the receiver. He speaks into the receiver and says, “Hello? Yeah I would like to speak to Mike and Gracy Brown please.”

“Who is this?” Dana says from the other end of the telephone.

“I'm the worker who was there earlier. I want to speak to Mike and Gracy Brown.”

“No you may not speak to my grandparents!”

“Why not? I just want to tell them why me and my partners aren't there!”

“I already told my grandparents everything! You don't have to call back here anymore!”

The guy hears the other end of the phone go click. He looks at the telephone. He hangs up the telephone receiver then turns to his partners.

“Well what happened?” the second guy asks.

“It was that bitch on the phone! The one who threw us out! She told me I can't speak to her grandparents!”

“She won't let you speak to her grandparents?! Does her grandparents know what happened?! Does her grandparents know that she threw us out of their house?!”

“She said she told them everything! I want to speak to her grandparents so we could tell them ourselves!”

“I guess we're just gonna have to try to call up her grandparents later. Come on let's go.” The three guys turn and walk away towards the doorway.

Two hours later, the contractors sit in their office again. The first guy turns to the others and says, “I'm gonna try to call that woman's grandparents again and tell them what happened.” He picks up the telephone receiver and dials a number on the telephone. He puts the receiver in his ear and listens. He then speaks into the receiver and says, “Hello? Yeah I would like to speak to Mike and Gracy Brown please.”

“Who is this?!” Dana says from the other end of the telephone again.

“I'm the worker who was there earlier who also called a little while ago.”

“I thought I told you, you cannot speak to my grandparents! Don't call back here no damn more!”

The guy hears the other end of the phone slam down. He looks at the telephone receiver then hangs it up. He turns to his partners and tells them, “It was that bitch again!”

“It was?” the second guy says.

“Yeah! She still won't let me speak to her grandparents!”

“I guess we're gonna have to try to call up her grandparents again later.”

“I know. But I'm only gonna try one more time to call their grandparents. If I still don't get in touch with them, I'm gonna forget about the whole thing and move on to somewhere else. Come on let's go.” The men turn and walk away.

Diane D is in the bedroom standing in front of the mirror fastening her shirt buttons, wearing a mini-skirt and black stockings as Teresa stands near her also in a mini-skirt. “So what time you have to pick up Michael?” Teresa asks.

“Not until another couple of hours,” Diane D says.

“Oh okay. Where's Dana?”

“She's in the shower right now.”

“She is?”

“Yeah. Don't you hear the shower water running?”

Teresa looks towards the hallway and could hear the shower water running from the bathroom. “Yeah I hear it running,” she says. She then looks at the foot of Dana's bed and sees beautiful folded up women's lingerie and a beige folded up army looking outfit laying there. She approaches the foot of Dana's bed and says, “Whose clothes are these?”

“Those are Dana's,” Diane D says. “She's gonna put those on when she comes out the shower.”

“Oh.”

Diane D goes sit down on the foot of the other bed. She bends over and starts to fix her shoes.

Teresa picks up Dana's beige army looking outfit. She starts to unfold the outfit and holds it high up in the air. She sees that the outfit is a very short army looking mini-dress. "Ooh this mini-dress is beautiful Diane! This is nice!"

Diane D looks up at Teresa. She becomes frustrated and says, "No don't bother that Teresa!" Diane D quickly gets up off her bed. She approaches Teresa and angrily snatches the short mini-dress right out of Teresa's hands! Teresa looks at Diane D stunned as Diane D folds the dress back up and says, "Dana's gonna have a fit if she sees that someone was bothering her stuff."

"She is?"

"Of course she is Teresa. Would you want someone to bother your stuff, especially while you're in the shower?"

"No. I guess not."

"Well that's exactly how Dana would feel." Diane D places the folded army looking dress back down on the foot of Dana's bed and says, "When she comes in here and sees that someone bothered her things, the first thing she's gonna wanna know is 'who was bothering her shit and why the hell did someone bother her stuff then say 'don't touch her shit' and believe me, I am not in a mood to hear her shit right now. I'm still upset with her for throwing those contractors out and I'm still pissed off at her for not letting me know that the Punky Gurlz called here for me." Diane D and Teresa suddenly hear the shower water go off. They look towards the hallway as Diane D says, "She just turned off the shower. She's getting ready to come out the shower and come in here to get dressed. Let's go down stairs so we can be out of her way."

"Alright."

Diane D picks up her belongings off the bed. She then heads out the bedroom door as Teresa follows behind her.

Diane D and Teresa step out into the hallway and look towards the closed bathroom door as they head to the staircase. Diane D heads down the staircase as Teresa follows her.

Diane D and Teresa enter the dining room and sit down on the chairs. As Diane D bends over and starts to fix her shoe again, she and Teresa hear the bathroom door opening upstairs. They look towards the upstairs. They hear slight footsteps going to the bedrooms. They then hear the bedroom door slam shut. Teresa turns to Diane D and whispers, "Does she always slam the bedroom door like that?"

"Yep," Diane D says. The telephone rings. Diane D turns to Teresa and says, "Excuse me for a minute." Diane D turns to the phone and picks up the telephone receiver. She speaks into the telephone receiver and says, "Hello? .... Oh hi Aunt Christine. How're you feeling? .... I'm okay. .... Nothing. I'm just sitting here in the dining room with Teresa. So what time are you gonna get here Saturday? ..... Okay. .... Oh Dana is upstairs getting dressed. She just came out the shower. .... Yeah." Diane D hears the bedroom door opening. "Oh wait a minute Aunt Christine. I just heard the bedroom door opened. I think she's coming down." Diane D and Teresa look towards the staircase. They hear footsteps walking upstairs. They then hear footsteps coming down the stairs. They then see a frowning Dana coming down the staircase with her long hair loosed out and damp, wiping her damp hair and face with a towel and wearing the short beige army mini-dress, showing her bare muscular legs and bare feet. "Oh Dana," Diane D says. "Your mom is on the phone. She wants to talk to you.”

“Okay,” Dana says. “I’ll take it in the living room.” Dana walks away towards the living room as Diane D looks down and starts to fix her shoe again.

Dana is in the living room sitting up on one side of the sofa with her bare muscular legs and bare feet stretched out across the rest of the sofa with one knee up and the towel wrapped around her neck, shoulders and damp hair as she speaks into the telephone receiver saying, “Hi Mom. .... Yeah I’m alright.”

The contractors are inside their office again. Two of the contractors stand around the first guy as the third guy asks, “Are you gonna try to call that woman's grandparents again?”

“I don't know if we should even waste our time calling their number back,” the first guy says. “That broad just might answer the phone again! I really don’t want to be bothered with her.”

“Just try to call that woman's grandparents one more time,” the second guy says. “If that broad answers the phone, just hang up on her and forget about that household.”

“Alright.” The first guy picks up the telephone receiver. He dials the number on the telephone again as the other two guys stand beside him. The guy puts the receiver to his ear and hears the other end ringing.

Inside Gracy and Grandpa Mike’s house, Dana is inside the living room still speaking on the telephone. She then says, “Wait, hold on Mom. Someone is on the other line.” Dana presses the hold button then lets go of it. She then says, “Hello? Hello? Hello?”

Inside the contractors’ office, the first guy hangs up the phone. He turns to his partners and shouts, “It was that broad again! She answered the telephone! I recognized her voice!”

“Damn!” the second guy shouts. “Why is she the one always answering the fucking phone?! Why can't the other granddaughter Diane D answer the phone sometimes?!”

“I don't know! Maybe she beats Diane D to the phone a lot!”

Inside Gracy and Grandpa Mike’s house, Dana presses the button again and lets go of it. She continues to speak into the telephone receiver and says, “Yeah Mom, I'm back. .... I don't know who was on the other line. No one answered. .... Uh uh. So you and Dad still coming Saturday right?” Dana takes a nail clipper and starts to clip her fingernails as she continues to speak on the telephone.

Inside the contractors’ office, the second guy says to the others, “Man, we might as well forget about that whole household. We're just gonna have to wait until their grandparents call us. Let's get out of here.” The guys turn and leave the office.

Tension At The Dance Studio

The following day, the entire Diaz-Davidson Organization is at the organization standing in the hallway. Diane D turns to Mary and Barry and says, "Mom, Dad, I'm gonna call Grandma Gracy right now and let her knowing I'm bringing the girls over there to stay with us for a week again."

"Okay Diane," Mary says.

Diane D turns away and goes to the side. She takes out her cell phone. She dials a number on her cell phone. She puts the cell phone to her ear and says, "Hello Grandma?"

"Hey Diane," Gracy says. "How's everything baby?"

"Everything's fine Grandma. Listen Grandma I'm bringing all the girls over there to spend a week at our place again because we all got to rehearse at the other dance studio closer to where you live. We're gonna practice at that dance studio for the next few days."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah. Gordon's dance studio is booked for the next few weeks so we're going to rehearse at his other dance studio location."

"Oh yeah? Okay Diane, bring the girls over. I might as well put the extra beds back into Dana's room, huh?"

"Yeah. We'll be there in a few hours because the girls have to pack their belongings again. We'll see you in a little bit okay?"

"Okay Diane. I'll be here."

"Okay Grandma. Bye." Diane D hangs her cell phone and hurries away.

Three hours later, Diane D comes into the front door of Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house as the Dianettes, Michael, Mary and Barry follow her inside with the Dianettes as Michael and Barry carrying some luggage. Barry closes the door behind himself as Diane D looks up the staircase and shouts, "Grandma, Grandpa we're here!"

Gracy comes down the stairs and says, "Hey everybody! Hi girls."

"Hey Grandma Gracy," the Dianettes say.

"Hey Mom," Mary and Barry say. Gracy smiles and gives the Dianettes a warm hug as Michael, Mary and Barry give her hugs too. "Where's Dad?" Barry asks.

“Oh he's upstairs,” Gracy says. “Why don't you all go up stairs and freshen up for dinner.”

“Okay Grandma,” Diane D says. She turns to the Dianettes and says, “Come on girls!” Diane D goes up the stairs as the Dianettes follow up behind her. Gracy and Mary follow up behind the Dianettes. Michael and Barry follow up behind Gracy and Mary with the luggage.

The next day, Michael, Tomas, Mary, Barry, Tonio and Gordon are sitting inside the dance studio office drinking coffee. Diane D and Jack enter the office with Diane D holding a large sheet of paper in her hand. Everyone turns to them as Gordon asks, “So how is everything going?”

“Everything is going fine Gordon,” Diane D says.

“Good. How are the Dianettes and the dancers from the Norton School getting along so far?”

“Well we haven't started rehearsing yet.”

“No? Alright we'll give it some time.” Gordon turns to the side and grabs a pot of coffee. He turns to Mary, Barry, Michael, Tomas and Tonio and asks, “Would you all like some more coffee?”

“More coffee sounds great,” Tonio says.

“Okay.” Gordon turns to Diane D and Jack and asks, “How about you two Jack and Diane? Would you two like some coffee?”

“Yeah I can use a cup,” Diane D says.

“So could I,” Jack says.

“Okay,” Gordon says. Gordon gets up and goes to the back.

Diane D and Jack approach Mary and Barry as Diane D tells them, “Hey Mom, Dad, check this out.” Diane D shows Mary and Barry the large sheet of paper with twenty sets of shoe prints formed in a dance pattern. “How do y'all like these dance step patterns Jack and I created? We're gonna have these dance steps for everybody.”

“Wow, that looks nice Diane,” Barry says.

“It does,” Mary says.

“So y'all think we can do this routine at our next performance?” Diane D says.

“I don't see why not. That looks real nice.”

Gordon comes back to the front with a pot of more coffee. Suddenly Horace and a beautiful dark-skinned black female dancer named Cheryl come bursting into the room as Horace shouts, “I'm quitting!”

“So am I!” Cheryl shouts.

“What!” everyone else in the room shouts as they look at Horace and the Cheryl stunned.

Mary and Barry get up out of their seats and approach Horace and Cheryl as Barry asks, “What do you mean you're quitting?”

“We're outta here, that's what I mean!” Horace shouts.

“Why?!” Gordon asks. “What's going on?!”

“The Dianettes don't want to rehearse with us! They keep saying they don't want me for their partner!”

“What!” everyone says.

“They don't want you for a partner?” Gordon asks.

“That's what they said!” Horace says.

“Don't tell me that the girls are at it again!” Mary shouts.

“Yes they are! They keep fussing with Miss Margarita, telling her that I smell bad and none of them want me for their partner!”

“They're claiming that you smell bad?” Michael asks.

“Yeah!”

“They told me they don't want me on stage with them!” Cheryl shouts.

“What!” Mary shouts. “They told you they don't want you on stage with them?!”

“Yeah!”

“When the Dianettes all had to choose a male dance partner, they all skipped and bypassed me!” Horace shouts. “After a while, it was only two male dancers left, me and Leonard! When the last two Dianettes had to choose between me and Leonard, they both chose Leonard! Then they got into an argument with each other and told the other they got Leonard and the other got the smelly one for their partner!”

“What!” everybody says.

“Yeah! So Miss Margarita told them both that one of them is going to have me for a partner whether they like it or not! Then they started fussing and complaining to Miss Margarita that if they have to have me for a partner, they weren't gonna participate! Then Miss Margarita told them none of them is gonna have Leonard, Cheryl is gonna have him! Then they both gave Cheryl a dirty look. Then they got mad at her and told her they didn't want her performing on stage with them!”

“What!” Mary shouts. “You know this is way out of line! Which two of the girls were giving you two problems?”

“The last two that had to do the picks!”

“Do you know their names?” Barry asks.

“I think one is Nancy and the other one is Lonna!”

“Nancy and Lonna?”

“Are you sure it was those two, Nancy and Lonna?” Mary says. “Because Barry and I are gonna have a talk with them right now!”

“Yeah we're sure it was those two. They're fussing with Miss Margarita right now.”

“Alright we'll go take care of them.”

“I'll come with you Mom,” Diane D says.

“No that's okay Diane. Stay here with Horace and Cheryl until we come back.” Mary and Barry angrily head to the door as Gordon and Jack follow them.

Mary, Barry, Gordon and Jack look over the balcony of the dance studio looking down at the dance floor across the large room and are stunned to find Nancy and Lonna fussing with the dancers from the Norton School as Margarita try to calm them down. Mary starts to call out, “Lonna!”

“Nancy!” Barry shouts.

Lonna and Nancy do not hear Mary and Barry calling out to them as they and the rest of the Dianettes continue to fuss with the dancers from the Norton School.

“Nancy!” Mary calls out.

“Lonna!” Barry calls out.

“Lonna!” Mary calls out. “Nancy!”

“Nancy!” Barry calls out. “Lonna!”

Down on the dance floor, Nancy gets frustrated and walks away from Margarita. Margarita shouts to her, "A donde vas Nancy?! Vuelve aqui!"

Nancy angrily waves her hands towards Margarita and shouts, "I'm not dancing with no funky Romeo!"

Mary, Barry, Gordon and Jack continue to be on the balcony as Mary and Barry call out, "Nancy! Lonna!"

Down on the dance floor, Nancy angrily leaves the area as Lonna and the dancers from the Norton School continue to argue and fuss with each other. Margarita looks at Lonna and shouts, "Lonna!"

Lonna ignores Margarita and continues to fuss with the Norton School dancers with her hands on her hips as she shouts, "Go ahead and try it!"

"Lonna!" Margarita shouts again.

Lonna still ignores Margarita as she shouts to the Norton School dancers, "I said go ahead and try it!"

"Lonna I am speaking to you!" Margarita shouts.

Lonna still ignores Margarita as she continues to shout to the Norton School dancers, "Go ahead and try it!"

Margarita becomes frustrated. She angrily rushes to Lonna, holds her arms and hands up, putting her face right in Lonna's face and shouts, "Lonna I am speaking to you!"

Lonna unphased moves her face away from Margarita's face completely ignoring Margarita and continues to shout to the Norton School dancers, "Go ahead and try it suckaaaa!"

Mary, Barry, Gordon and Jack continue to be on the balcony as Mary calls out, "Lonna!"

Down on the dance floor, Lonna and everyone else turn and look up at Mary.

Mary then shouts, "Come here for a minute Lonna! I want to speak to you, come here! Just you, come here!"

Lonna turns and walks towards underneath the balcony where Mary is. She picks up a foam cup of drink that's on the side and takes a few sips. A few witnesses approach her as one of them asks, "What's going on?" Lonna rudely walks right pass the witnesses ignoring them as she continues to walk towards underneath the balcony.

On the balcony, Barry turns to Mary and says, "While you're dealing with Lonna, I'm gonna go deal with Nancy."

"Okay Barry," Mary says. Barry turns and goes away as Mary follows him.

Mary is walking in the hallway downstairs. She approaches Lonna as Lonna approaches her with the cup of drink in her hand. She then says, "Lonna, what the heck is going on out there?"

“Nothing's going on,” Lonna says as she rudely fiddles with her nails, not looking at Mary.

“Lonna I just saw you, Nancy and the rest of the girls arguing and screaming at the other dancers, then I saw Nancy angrily walk off. What was that all about?”

“Nothing.”

“Nothing? Lonna what's this I hear you and Nancy fussing about Horace and Cheryl, saying that none of you want Horace for a dance partner and y'all don't want Cheryl sharing the stage with you?”

“I don't know what they're talking about.”

“No? Well Horace and Cheryl came bursting into the office a few minutes ago, claiming they're gonna quit because of you, Nancy and the rest of the girls.”

“I don't know what they're talking about.”

“I'm telling you what they're talking about! They're threatening to quit and walk out of here like they did before because of you girls again.”

“I still don't know what they're talking about.”

“Lonna what is the problem? Talk to me. If you don't tell me what the problem is, I can't help you. Now I need you to help me help you. What is the problem with you and the rest of the girls?”

“Nothing. Nothing's the problem.”

“I see. So in other words, you're not gonna talk to me about it.”

“Nope.” Lonna continues to fiddle with her nails, not looking at Mary.

Mary angrily looks up in the air. She suddenly grabs Lonna by the collar and long necklace chain and pulls Lonna towards her, causing Lonna to spill some drink on herself!

“Aaaah!” Lonna screams as Mary violently pulls and jerks on her!

Mary pull Lonna's face right to her own face and says to her, “Well let me tell you what I'm talking about! You and the rest of the girls better get this chip off your shoulders and you all better get this chip off your shoulders right now because now you're getting me started!”

“Aaaah!” Lonna screams as she tries to break away from Mary.

“Now I'm gonna tell you a message and when I finish telling you this message, I want you to pass the message on to the rest of the girls!”

Mary continues to pull and violently jerk Lonna by the collar and chain and says to her, “Now I paid these dancers a lot of money to perform at the next show! I don't want to lose this money on a kind of you and the rest of the girls' attitude! If I lose any money because of you all, I'm gonna put you all on a new assignment, you got that?”

“Aaaah! Help!” Lonna screams still trying to break away from Mary.

Mary continues to pull and violently jerk Lonna by the collar and chain and tells her, “You girls better start shaping up or you all gonna have to deal with me, you got that?!”

“Aaah!”

“Do you get my message?!”

“Aaah! Help!”

“I asked do you get my message?!”

“Yes!”

“Do you get my message loud and clear?!”

“Yes!”

“Are you sure now?!”

“Yes!”

“Good! Now pass the message on!” Mary says as she violently shoves Lonna away.

“Aaaah!” Lonna screams again as she almost falls. She quickly catches her balance and walks away from Mary. She takes a sip from the cup giving an attitude. Mary walks a little towards Lonna angrily looking at her.

Ten minutes later, Mary and Margarita stand there in the doorway of the dance floor underneath the balcony sadly looking in the distance as they hear a loud commotion across the dance floor.

Across the dance floor, Nancy angrily heads towards the exit door and shouts, “Because I really don't give a fuck!” Miranda, Bernice, Charlotte and Kelly angrily follow after Nancy and grab a hold of her arms as Nancy shouts, “As far as I'm concerned, all those dancers can go to hell!” Nancy reaches the exit door and angrily shoves the exit door, walking through it with Miranda, Bernice, Charlotte and Kelly walking through it with her. They are then followed by a group of bystanders.

Mary and Margarita continue to stand there in the doorway of the dance floor as Margarita says, “Usted sabe Mary, no se lo que ha entrado en las ninas.”

“No se que ha metido en ellas Mama,” Mary says. “Realmente no se.” Mary and Margarita continue to look out across the dance floor.

Margarita smiles and holds on to Miranda and Lonna hugging them both as they all watch Charlotte, Nancy and the Dominican male dancer dance. "Wait a minute," Margarita says. Charlotte, Nancy and the male dancer stop dancing as they and everyone else turn to Margarita as Margarita says, "Let me show you all how we danced when I was a little girl back in the Dominican Republic."

"Alriiiiight!" the crowd says.

Margarita turns to the DJ and says, "Hit it DJ!" Margarita approaches the male dancer as the DJ starts to play salsa music. Margarita and the male dancer twirl and dance to the salsa music showing some Dominican dance moves as everyone else cheers.

"Now wait a minute," Kelly says. Margarita and the male dancer stop dancing. They and everyone else turn to Kelly as Kelly says, "We don't know if Diane is gonna let us do those Dominican dance moves. She just might toss it out. We gotta wait till she gets here and see what she says."

"Yeah we know," Margarita says. "We just wanted to give it a try." Margarita places her hands on her hips and asks, "Where is Diane by the way? She should've been here already."

"I know," Miranda says. "I tried calling her on her cell phone all morning but couldn't get through."

"I couldn't get through her cell phone neither" Lonna says.

"Neither could I," Bernice says.

"Maybe she shut her cell phone off?" Billy says.

"No Diane doesn't usually shut off her cell phone," Margarita says.

"Well let's try calling her cell phone again," Bernice says.

"Okay." Margarita picks up the telephone receiver and dials a number. She listens into the receiver. She then hangs up the receiver. She turns to everybody and says, "There's still no answer. Her answering service came on." Everyone puzzled looks at Margarita.

Alex worriedly rushes into the room. He approaches everybody and says, "Hey! I thought you all said Diane wasn't going to Paris with the Punky Gurlz!"

"What!" everyone shouts as they rush to Alex.

"What are you talking about Alex?" Margarita anxiously asks.

"Didn't you all said that Diane wasn't going to Paris with the Punky Gurlz?" Alex says.

"She's NOT going to Paris with the Punky Gurlz Alex! What's going on?!"

"Well some guy from the newspaper just called the office downstairs and asked me was Diane D going to Paris with the Punky Gurlz, because they claim they see Diane D secretly rushing luggage into a limousine with the Punky Gurlz right in front of the Marriott Hotel where the Punky Gurlz are staying!"

"What!" everybody anxiously shouts.

"The guy told me that the Punky Gurlz are supposed to fly to Paris today and that they're going to the airport and it looks like the Punky Gurlz are secretly taking Diane with them!"

"What!" the Dianettes shout.

"Is that guy from the newspaper sure it was Diane he saw with the Punky Gurlz?!" Miranda asks.

"He said 'it is definitely Diane D with the Punky Gurlz!'" Alex shouts. "Those were his exact words!"

"Oh my God!" Margarita worriedly shouts. "Don't tell me that Diane is gonna disappear with the Punky Gurlz!"

"She probably is Grandma!" Nancy shouts. "No wonder why we haven't heard from her all morning! No wonder why we couldn't get through to her cell phone! Those damn Punky Gurlz are sneaking behind our backs plotting to take Diane to Paris with them anyway after we told them they couldn't!"

"And they probably told Diane to shut off her cell phone so there wouldn't be any disturbance!" Lonna shouts.

"My God Grandma!" Charlotte cries. "What are we gonna do?!"

"We can't let the Punky Gurlz take Diane to Paris!" Bernice cries and shouts.

"Well I heard that limo is still outside in front of the hotel right now!" Alex shouts.

"It is?!" Kelly shouts.

"Yes!"

"Well we got to go after those Punky Gurlz and get Diane back!"

"Yeah!" Miranda shouts. "We got to stop those Punky Gurlz from taking Diane away with them!"

"Don't worry girls!" Lonna shouts. "We're gonna get Diane back! We're gonna stop those damn Punky Gurlz from taking Diane with them if it's the last thing we do! Come on girls, y'all ready?!"

The Dianettes angrily throw their fists up in the air and shout, "Let's....get em!" The Dianettes quickly step back then charge forward towards the doorway as Kelly and Miranda push Alex right out the way almost knocking him down as they and the rest of the Dianettes dash out the doorway!

She quickly looks back at the Dianettes then nervously turns away from them again and rushes out the back door leaving the limousine!

“Wait Miss!” Margarita shouts. “Come back!”

The woman frighteningly looks back towards the limo as she runs away from it, then looks forward again as she continues to run off!

“Miss come back!” Margarita shouts. “Please, come back!” Margarita turns and heads out the limousine.

The woman runs into the distance as the Dianettes continue to shockingly stare towards her.

The crowd on the curb sees the woman running. One of the men in the crowd points towards the woman and shouts, “There goes Diane D right now, running away from the limousine!”

The members of the Diaz-Davidson organization start to call out to the woman, “Diane! Diane! Where're you going?! Get back here! Diane!” The woman runs and disappears into the distance.

“We gotta go after her!” Alex shouts.

The crowd and the members of the Diaz-Davidson Organization are about to go after the woman. Margarita rushes to them! She pulls some of them back and shouts, “No don't go after that woman! That's not Diane!” The crowd and the members of the organization turn and look at Margarita stunned.

“What do you mean that's not Diane?!” Harvey asks.

“It wasn't her! It was a person who looked like her!”

“A person who looked like her?!” the crowd shouts.

“That wasn't Diane we all just saw running from out this limo?!” Alex asks.

“No it wasn't her!” Margarita shouts. “We don't know where Diane is right now! But she was never inside this limo!” The crowd shockingly stares at Margarita. All of a sudden, there is loud screaming! Punky Gurl 1 and Punky Gurl 3 angrily approach the limo! They grab Nancy and pull her out the limousine! They start to attack Nancy! The rest of the Dianettes angrily come out of the limousine! They attack the Punky Gurl 1 and Punky Gurl 3 as Punky Gurl 1 and Punky Gurl 3 fight them back!

The police and ambulance arrive! The police and the members of the Diaz-Davidson Band, Diaz-Davidson Choir and Diaz-Davidson Organization desperately try to break up the fight! The police soon grab all the Dianettes and the two Punky Gurlz and pull them apart as the other four Punky Gurlz remain on the ground hurt. The officers look at all the women! One of them says, “Dianettes! Punky Gurlz! Y'all at it again?!”

“It wasn't our fault!” Punky Gurl 3 shouts. “They just came out of nowhere and started attacking us for no reason!”

“Well tell it at the station!”

“The station?!” Punky Gurl 1 shouts.

“That's right, the station! Let's go!” The police officers grab all the Dianettes, Punky Gurl 1 and Punky Gurl 3 and pull them away as the other four Punky Gurlz remain on the ground with the paramedics and crowd surrounding them.

Several miles away, Diane D and Michael are at the counter of a cell phone store with a black male sales clerk. The sales clerk pulls the charger out of Diane D's cell phone and asks, “So how long ago did your cell stopped working?”

“Early this morning,” Diane D says.

“Okay.” The clerk hands Diane D her cell phone.

Diane D takes the cell phone and dials a number. She puts the phone to her ear. She waits for a while. She turns to Michael and says, “Wow that's strange. No one's answering at the organization.”

“No?” Michael asks.

“Uh uh. It's always somebody there.”

“Are you sure you dialed the right number?”

“Yeah I'm sure. No one's there.”

“Hand me the phone.” Michael takes the cell phone from Diane D. “I'm gonna step outside and try to call your grandma's cell number to find out where they're all at. They're all probably wondering where we are.” Michael turns from Diane D and walks away as Diane D turns and looks at the cell phones on display.

Three minutes later, Michael hysterically bursts back into the store and approaches Diane D as he shouts, “Diane! We have to get out of here! I just spoke to your grandma on the phone! She just told me, that the girls are in police custody!”

“What!” Diane D shouts. “The girls are in police custody?! What the hell are you talking about Michael?!”

“The girls heard that the Punky Gurlz were going to Paris today and taking YOU with them!”

“What! Wait a minute Michael, slow down! Now what did you just say?!”

“The girls heard that the Punky Gurlz were going to Paris today and taking YOU with them!”

“The Punky Gurlz are going to Paris today and taking me with them?! Michael I'm not going to Paris with the Punky Gurlz! Where in the world did the girls hear that from?!”

“Your grandma said some guy from a newspaper called the organization up and told Alex, that they see you packing luggage into some limousine with the Punky Gurlz outside of the Marriott Hotel! So Alex told everybody else about it and the girls got hysterical! They and everybody else rushed out the organization, took off in the vans and rushed near the Marriott Hotel! They stopped at a traffic light a block away from the hotel! While the girls and your grandma were sitting in the van, they saw the Punky Gurlz and another woman who they all thought was you in front of the hotel, getting into a limousine with a bunch of luggage!”

“They saw the Punky Gurlz and another woman in front of the hotel, getting into a limousine with a bunch of luggage and they thought this woman was me?!”

“Yeah! They thought the Punky Gurlz were taking you and sneaking you off to Paris with them, so when the limousine raced off to the airport, the girls and everybody else raced off after the limousine and followed the limousine all the way to the airport!”

“They followed the limousine all the way to the airport?! Now you got to be kidding Michael!”

“No I'm not kidding Diane! Your grandma said when the girls were following the limousine, they kept sticking their heads out the van, calling your name out thinking that the woman inside that limousine was you! Your grandma said when the girls got to the airport, they got out the van and ran straight to the limousine as the Punky Gurlz were getting out of it! When the girls reached the limousine, they ambushed the Punky Gurlz and started beating the crap out of them!”

“What!”

“Yeah! They attacked the Punky Gurlz! They literally pulled the Punky Gurlz right out of the limousine and started beating them, pouncing them, banging them against the limousine and throwing them to the ground! Then when the girls went into the limousine to cry and complain to you about how could you do this, they got the shock of their life and realized that the woman inside that limousine was not you, but somebody that looked like you!”

“Somebody that looked like me?!”

“Yeah!”

“Well who was this person?!”

“The girls asked the woman who she was and she told them that she's Alissa!”

“Alissa?!”

“Yeah! Diane when we first met the Punky Gurlz at Gordon's dance studio, didn't they mentioned to you that you look a lot like Alissa?”

“Yeah that's right. I remember them saying that. I asked them who Alissa was, but they never got a chance to tell me.”

“Well Alissa is the one everybody thought was you inside that limousine with the Punky Gurlz, that's why the girls followed the limousine and attacked the Punky Gurlz, then the police came! They took all the girls and two of the Punky Gurlz into custody! The other four Punky Gurlz were sent to the hospital!”

“What! Four of the Punky Gurlz were sent to the hospital?!”

“Yeah! Your grandma said they got hurt real bad when the girls pulled them away from the limousine then beat, pounced and threw them to the ground!”

“Oh my God Michael! We got to get to the police station! Which police station are they at?”

“The one near the airport! Grandma is at the station with the girls right now! She called up your Mom and Dad and all the girls' families and they all rushed to the police station! They and everybody else from the organization are at the police station right now! No wonder why no one was at the organization when we called there, because they all were at the airport, now they're at the police station!”

“Okay we gotto go!” Diane D turns to the guy behind the counter and shouts. “I got an emergency sir! I can't stay to look at your chargers! I'll be back another time!”

Michael grabs Diane D's hand and they both rush out the door as the guy behind the counter puzzled looks at them!

A couple of hours later, a large group of people including family members of the Dianettes, some children, the members of the Diaz-Davidson band, Diaz-Davidson Choir and Diaz-Davidson Organization stand in the lobby at the police station. Michael, Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Tonio, Marilyn, Nicolas and Mickey come out from the back. Everyone approaches them as Alex asks, "How are the girls doing?"

"They're fine," Margarita says. "They're okay."

"Well where are they at this moment?" Lonna's dad asks.

"They're all in a holding cell right now," Barry says.

"A holding cell?!" the Dianettes' family members say.

"All of them?" Bernice's mom asks.

"Yep, all of them," Barry says.

"My God."

"Well how are the Punky Gurlz doing?" Miranda's dad asks.

"The two Punky Gurlz in the back room are still hurt," Tomas says.

"Oh no. Where's Diane?"

"She's in the back talking with the girls," Mary says.

"Well how are the four Punky Gurlz that are in the hospital?" Kelly's mom asks.

"The police got in touch with the hospital and found out that three Punky Gurlz are hurt very bad," Margarita says.

"Oh no."

"They said the hospital wants to keep them in there for a few days."

"Three of them in there for a few days?" Charlotte's dad Dante asks. "That means they have to miss getting back to Paris for now."

"I know," Barry says. "It's bad enough they missed their flight from this whole thing. They're talking about filing charges and a lawsuit against the girls."

"Oh no!" the Dianettes' family members say.

"We told the Punky Gurlz we are very sorry for what happened between them and the girls."

"Margarita what made the girls think that the Punky Gurlz were taking Diane to Paris with them?" Bernice's mom asks.

"Because Alex said someone from a newspaper called the organization and said that they see Diane loading luggage into a limousine with the Punky Gurlz outside the hotel," Margarita says. "Not only that, we haven't heard from Diane all morning. Then we went near the hotel to check it out for ourselves. When we sitting at the traffic light a block away from the hotel, we looked and thought the woman with the Punky Gurlz was indeed Diane. She looked just like Diane, especially from a distance! Then the woman and the Punky Gurlz got into the limousine. When the limousine sped away, we thought the Punky Gurlz were trying to get away from us with Diane inside the limousine, which got the girls more upset. That's why they attacked the Punky Gurlz when the Punky Gurlz' limousine stopped at the airport terminal. They thought the Punky Gurlz were sneaking Diane off with them! Then we just found out a little while ago that the reason why the Punky Gurlz were speeding off to the airport was because they were running late and they didn't want to miss their flight. They didn't even know we were following after them."

"Grandma," Michael says. "When Diane told the girls that she was not going to Paris with the Punky Gurlz, they didn't think she meant it?"

"Of course they thought Diane meant it Michael. But when we all saw this woman who we all thought was Diane getting into that limo with the Punky Gurlz, we thought maybe the Punky Gurlz somehow got Diane to change her mind or something. We thought maybe the Punky Gurlz bribed Diane with a whole lot more money like they tried to do before! At Gordon's dance studio, the girls said they overheard the Punky Gurlz in the office, bribing Diane with a whole lot of money if she sneaks off and come to Paris and perform with them! Not only that, later on that evening, the Punky Gurlz approached me and Tomas at Gordon's dance studio and suggested to us maybe Diane can sneak off to Paris with them without the girls knowing or finding out about it until later! What else were the girls and I suppose to think?"

A white male police officer and a black male police officer come and approach everyone with a pen and paper in their hands. "Okay everyone," the white male officer says. "Now I need more information for this report." The white male officer turns to the members of the Diaz-Davidson Band and organization and says, "Now you all saw this woman get out the limo at the airport and thought that this woman was indeed Diane D?"

"Yes officer," members of the Diaz-Davidson organization say.

"When did you all realize, that this woman was NOT Diane D?"

"When she ran from the limo and we were all about to go after her," Alex says. "That's when Margarita pulled us back and stopped us and told us it wasn't Diane."

The black officer turns to Margarita and asks, "Miss Margarita, when did you and the Dianettes realize that the woman sitting in the backseat of that limousine was not your granddaughter Diane D?"

"Well we realized when the girls went into the limo and started to cry and complain to Diane thinking it was Diane at first," Margarita says. "Then I went into the limousine and looked in the back of the limo to see Diane. When the girls and I looked at the person, we became shocked because we thought it was Diane with bigger eyes! We wondered, how did Diane's eyes get so big! We know her eyes didn't get big overnight! We looked at the woman's body frame and thought Diane looks kind of slimmer! We wondered how did Diane get slim that fast. We know she didn't get slim overnight. The girls and I thought no it couldn't possibly be Diane. That's when we all realized we made an error! That's when Lonna asked this woman who she was!"

"And the woman told the Dianettes who she was, right?"

"Yes. She told the girls she was Alissa."

"Alissa?"

"Right. Then she asked the girls 'what's going on'."

"She asked the Dianettes 'what's going on?'"

"Yes she did."

"So this young woman told the Dianettes who she was, then asked a question 'what's going on'. That means you all heard this woman speak, right?"

"Yes we did."

"How did this woman's voice sounded like when you all heard her speak? Did she sound like your granddaughter Diane D?"

"No, she didn't sound like Diane at all. She had a much higher pitch voice when we heard her speak."

"I see. Do you know what this Alissa person was doing with the Punky Gurlz?"

"No. All I know is that she was in the limousine with them. I don't know why she was with them."

"Do you know where this woman Alissa is or where she ran off to? Because she's a witness to this whole incident too.”

“No I don't know where she is or where she ran off to. That's the first, last and only time I or any of the girls ever saw her.”

“Where was Diane D during this whole entire incident?”

“None of us knew where Diane was at first. We found out later on, that her cell phone stopped working, that's why she never answered her cell phone when we were all trying to call her all morning. She and Michael were shopping for a cell phone charger.”

“So she wasn't anywhere around when this whole incident happened?”

“No she wasn't.”

“So in other words, she never saw this woman Alissa or came face to face with her?”

“No, Diane never saw Alissa.”

“Okay this is all we need for now.”

“Are you gonna let the girls go now?” Mary asks.

“We still have to wait and see.”

“Aaahhh!” the Dianettes’ family members says.

The officers turn from everybody and walk away.

Later on that night, a heavy crowd of people and reporters are outside the police station as they surround Diane D, her family and Michael as Diane D nervously paces back and forth holding the back of her neck. Some of the people are holding signs saying: RELEASE THE DIANETTES! FREE THE DIANETTES! A male white reporter approaches Diane D and says, “So Diane D, the police still aren't letting the Dianettes go?”

Diane D stops pacing and says, “Please sir. I’m not in the mood to talk or answer any questions right now.” Diane D then turns from the reporter and walks away.

The reporter then turns to Michael and asks, “Are the police letting the Dianettes go?”

“No, we're afraid they're not,” Michael says as he turns away from the reporter and follows Diane D.

Diane D and Michael go to the side away from the crowd. A black man with shoulder length dreadlocks walks past them and shouts to them in a Jamaican accent, “Hey Diane D! Don't worry! The Dianettes will be out before you know it! We got to keep hope alive!” The man waves his fist in the air and shouts, “Keep hope aliivive!” Diane D and Michael look at the man as the man continues to chant, “Keep hope aliivive! Keep hope aliivive!” The man then goes away. Diane D holds the back of her neck again as she starts to pace back and forth again.

Mary and Barry soon approach Diane D as Barry says, “Diane, you've been pacing back and forth all night. Why don't you go home and get some rest. I'll stay here and see what happens with the girls.”

“Dad, I can't rest at all unless I know what's gonna happen with the girls,” Diane D says.

“Yeah me neither,” Mary says. “We'll all wait together.” Everyone continues to wait as Diane D nervously paces back and forth again.

The following morning, Diane D, Margarita and the rest of their family are inside the lobby of Central Booking. A male white officer approaches them all and says, "Okay, we're letting the Dianettes go." Everyone jumps for joy and shout, "Yippiiii!"

"But they have to appear in court in three weeks. You all can meet them outside."

"Thank you officer!" Margarita says. Everyone excitedly hurries outside the building.

Twenty minutes later, Diane D and the Dianettes are walking on the sidewalk away from Central Booking surrounded by their families, reporters and a crowd of people. The reporters follow and hurry after Diane D and the Dianettes as one of them, a male white reporter around his early 40's with light brown hair start to call out to the Dianettes and says, "So Dianettes! How did you all feel when you all realized, that the young woman sitting inside the backseat of that limousine was not Diane D after all? How do you feel that you attacked the Punky Gurlz all for nothing?! Do you all feel guilty about it?!"

"Dianettes!" a white female reporter with blonde hair shouts, "How do you all feel that you caused the Punky Gurlz to miss their flight?!"

"Dianettes!" a male black reporter shouts. "How do you all feel that you caused four of the Punky Gurlz to land in the hospital?! Do you feel guilty about that?!"

"Dianettes!" another white female reporter shouts. "Do you all feel guilty or sorry for what you all done to the Punky Gurlz?!" Diane D, the Dianettes and their families hurry away from the reporters. The reporters run a little as they try to catch up to the Dianettes and shout, "Dianettes! Dianettes!" The reporters continue to catch up to the Dianettes.

At a newspaper stand, a bundle of newspapers are placed in front of the stand with a headline that reads: ROUND 2 OF THE DIANETTES VS. THE PUNKY GURLZ!

A man is sitting on the bus reading the front cover of another newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANETTES AMBUSH THE PUNKY GURLZ OUTSIDE AIRPORT TERMINAL AS MISTAKEN IDENTITY LEADS TO BRUTAL ASSAULT AT AIRPORT!

People in the street are picking up other newspapers with headlines that read: FEAR OF DIANE D AMONG PUNKY GURLZ INSIDE LIMO SPARKS A FUED!

A man is in a barber shop reading the front cover of another newspaper with a headline that reads: A CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY AS A MYSTERIOUS DIANE D LOOK-ALIKE CAUSES A STIR!

A woman is sitting inside a beauty salon reading the inside article of a newspaper with a headline that reads: MYSTERIOUS DIANE D LOOK-ALIKE CAUSES A STIR!

A shopper inside a supermarket reads a newspaper article with a headline that reads: WHO WAS THE MYSTERIOUS DIANE D LOOK-ALIKE?

Three weeks later, a crowd of people and reporters surround Diane D, the Dianettes and their families outside the court building with Diane D holding on to Charlotte's, Nancy's and Lonna's arms on her right side and holding Miranda's, Kelly's and

Bernice's arms on her left side as they all walk towards the courthouse. The reporters question the Dianettes as a white female reporter hold a microphone to the Dianettes' mouths and asks, "Hey Dianettes. Have any of you apologized to the Punky Gurlz for that mistaken identity error at the airport? Do any of you think you owe the Punky Gurlz an apology?"

A male white report approaches the Dianettes and asks, "Dianettes, do you think that maybe one day you all can just bury the hatchet and will be able to get along with the Punky Gurlz?" The reporter holds the microphone up to the Bernice's mouth. Bernice keeps quiet not saying a word as she, Diane D and the rest of the Dianettes continue to walk towards the courthouse. The reporter then says, "Do you all want to get along with the Punky Gurlz?" The reporter holds the microphone back up to Bernice's mouth again as Bernice remains quiet not saying a word. Bernice, Diane D and the rest of the Dianettes continue to walk towards the courthouse.

It is three hours later. Diane D, the Dianettes, their families and everyone from the organization are all in the hallway as they excitedly cheer! The reporters approach Diane D and the Dianettes as a white male reporter says, "So we see you all have to pay a fine and don't have to spend any jail time, huh?"

"That's right!" the Dianettes say.

"I'm happy for you all."

"So Dianettes," a black male reporter says. "We've heard you all apologized to the Punky Gurlz inside the courtroom for that mistaken identity error, is that true?"

"Yep, they sure did!" Margarita say.

"Wow that's wonderful! That's great! Well Dianettes, since you all apologized to the Punky Gurlz, maybe there's some hope for you and them after all! Maybe one day you all can collaborate on stage together with the Punky Gurlz or let Diane D collaborate with them! What do y'all say to that?"

The Dianettes suspiciously look the reporter. They then look at Diane D then back at the reporter. They turn and smile at each other. They look back at the reporter and shout, "Nooo!" The Dianettes grab each other's hands and excitedly hurry away, pulling Diane D away with them as Diane D puzzled shrugs her shoulders at the reporter. The reporters stare at the Dianettes as the Dianettes pull Diane D away with them.

Everyone on the street is excited as they surround Diane D and the Dianettes. Gracy approaches Diane D and says, "Diane, can I talk to you for a minute?" Diane D turns and go to the side.

Diane D and Gracy stand on the side as Diane D says, "What's up Grandma?"

"Hey Diane," Gracy says. "Boy I'm glad the trial is over."

"I'm glad it's over too Grandma."

"How are the girls holding up?"

"Oh they're doing just fine Grandma. They're excited to be getting out of here and come home. They're willing to forget about this whole entire incident and get things back to normal."

"I know what they mean. How are the Punky Gurlz doing? Did you speak to them?"

“Yeah I spoke to them a little while ago. I told them I'm very sorry things didn't work out between any of us. They said they feel the same. Then they told me they're heading back to Paris next week. The concert they were supposed to have there had to be postponed for another two months.”

“Postponed for another two months? Why?”

“Their doctors told them they need to rest for a while.”

“I see.” Gracy and Diane D turn and walk back towards everyone else.

The next day, four people are reading a newspaper headline that reads: DIANETTES ARE CHARGED A FINE AT TRIAL OF ASSAULT ON THE PUNKY GURLZ! THEY ARE RELEASED TO GO HOME, BUT ARE ON PROBATION! One of the men turns to the others and says, “The Dianettes were charged a heavy fine and put on probation at their trial yesterday.”

“Yeah I see,” one of the women says. “It says the Punky Gurlz are flying to Paris next week.”

“Yeah. It also says that the Punky Gurlz think the Dianettes still got over, especially literally pulling some of the Punky Gurlz right out of the limousine like that, banging them against the car and throwing them hard against the ground.”

“I know,” a second man says. “That’s terrible.”

“It is. All the Punky Gurlz want to do right now is fly to Paris, go on with their live concert and forget about this whole ordeal.”

“Yeah I don't blame them. Did the media ever found out who that Diane D look-alike was and why was she inside the limo with the Punky Gurlz?”

“Yeah. They said that the Punky Gurlz hired this woman Alissa to pose as Diane D for their Paris concert?”

“Hired this woman Alissa to pose as Diane D!” a second woman says.

“Yeah!” the first man says. “They said the Punky Gurlz had always wanted to perform with Diane D and the Dianettes. They promised their fans in Paris that they would get Diane D and the Dianettes to come to Paris and perform with them. They didn't know whether they would actually ever get to meet Diane D and the Dianettes so they secretly put in an ad for Diane D and Dianettes look-alikes!”

“The Punky Gurlz secretly put in an ad for Diane D and Dianettes look-alikes?!” the first woman shouts.

“Yeah! But only a look-alike for Diane D showed up to them. That look-alike's name turned out to be Alissa. When the Punky Gurlz actually got to meet Diane D and the Dianettes themselves, the Dianettes refuse to collaborate on stage with the Punky Gurlz and refuse to let Diane D collaborate with the Punky Gurlz, so the Punky Gurlz realized they were in a bind. They decided that they had no choice but to just bring the Diane D look-alike Alissa to Paris with them. They planned to put this woman Alissa on stage with them and not put too much stage light on her so the audience wouldn't suspect that she wasn't really Diane D. They wanted to pretend to the audience and have the audience think that they were actually looking at Diane D.”

“My God. That’s wrong for the Punky Gurlz to do that. How were they planning to pull this whole thing off? I heard that the woman Alissa don't even sound like Diane D when she speaks. It was claimed that the woman Alissa had a much higher pitch voice than Diane D's. Would she have sounded like Diane D when she sings?"

"No, but I heard that the Punky Gurlz took care of that part. They weren't gonna have that woman Alissa sing alone."

"They weren't gonna have her sing alone?" the second woman asks.

"No. They were all gonna sing on stage together, singing every word together and sing every phrase together, that way the audience will never know the difference and know that this woman Alissa's voice don't sound deep like Diane D's voice do."

"Well can this woman Alissa do any of that other stuff Diane D does, like dance or do ballet, tap, do flips and all that acrobatic stuff Diane D does? What would have happened if the audience asked that woman Alissa to do any of that?"

"The Punky Gurlz took care of that also. They would have told the audience that they all were just gonna sing and do nothing else."

"Wow. Well if nobody seen or heard from that woman Alissa again who knows, she could go off with the Punky Gurlz to Paris or anywhere else in the world and pull that stuff off." The people puzzledly look at each other. They then look back at the article.

At the organization the next day, Michael, Tomas, Mary, Barry and Gordon are sitting drinking coffee. "I'm happy the trial is over for the Dianettes and they were able to come home," Gordon says.

"Yeah so are we," Barry says.

"You know it was hard for me to get the dancers from the Norton Dance School to come rehearse with the Dianettes again. Especially after they all heard and read about the couple of fights between the Dianettes and the Punky Gurlz. The dancers said they didn't want any more trouble or problems with the Dianettes. And I spoke to the Punky Gurlz yesterday. They're supposed to fly to Paris next week."

"Yeah we know," Tomas says.

"Whatever happened to the look-alike the Punky Gurlz hired?" Michael asks. "The one that unintentionally caused all this stir. Have the Punky Gurlz been in touch with her since?"

"No," Gordon says. "The Punky Gurlz said they haven't seen or heard from Alissa ever since the incident at the airport. Nobody knows where Alissa is. The Punky Gurlz have been trying to contact Alissa through her telephone number, but couldn't get through. All the Punky Gurlz know, is that Alissa cut out and ran away when she witnessed the Dianettes assaulting and beating them like that. They said Alissa must have been frightened by seeing that assault coming out of no where like that."

"From what I heard, she was frightened," Mary says. "Mom told me that woman Alissa was nervous and shaking like a leaf when the girls bashed the limo window then went inside the limo shouting and looking at the woman, asking her who she was." Everyone stun looks at Mary.

Intimidation At The Catering Hall

Inside Cornwell's Catering And Dance Hall, Nicolas walks with the two Latin female singers Carmen and Rachel who were singing at the Catering Hall before. He brings Carmen and Rachel all the way to the back of the dance floor where the Dianettes, their boyfriends, Charlotte's husband Kenny, members of the Diaz-Davidson band, members of the Diaz-Davidson Organization and a crowd of people are sitting. Nicolas approaches the Dianettes and says, "Hey girls." The Dianettes and everyone else turn to Nicolas as Nicolas says, "Remember these two girls who were singing here before? This is Carmen," Nicolas says as he points to the slim one with the curly chest length brown hair. "And this is Rachel," Nicolas says as he points to the chubby plus size one with the short curly black hair.

"Hi," Carmen and Rachel say.

"Carmen, Rachel and I were just in the back talking with Mom, Dad, Grandma and Grandpa. Carmen and Rachel told Mom, Dad, Grandma and Grandpa that they are both interested in doing a performance with you all and Diane." The Dianettes look at Carmen and Rachel. Nicolas then says, "Mom, Dad, Grandma and Grandpa said they don't mind as long as it's okay with you girls. Would you girls and Diane like to sing and perform on stage with Carmen and Rachel?"

The Dianettes look at Carmen and Rachel again. Carmen then says, "These are the lyrics to the song we can all perform together." Carmen shows the Dianettes a sheet of paper with lyrics written on it. She tries to hand the sheet of paper to the Dianettes, but the Dianettes do not take the sheet of paper. They just look at it. They then look back at Carmen and Rachel.

"So what do you say girls?" Nicolas asks. "Are you and Diane interested in singing and performing with Carmen and Rachel?"

"No that's okay," the Dianettes say.

Carmen, Rachel and Nicolas puzzled look at the Dianettes. Nicolas then says, "Look, I know you girls don't want to collaborate with any other female singers, but Carmen and Rachel told Mom, Dad, Grandma and Grandpa that they would love to sing and perform with you all and Diane just one time."

"No thanks," Miranda says.

"We're not interested," Nancy say.

"Well Carmen and Rachel already told Mom and Dad if you all didn't want to sing or perform with them, you're more than welcome to be an opening act for them at their College performance next week,” Nicolas says.

“No Nicolas,” Bernice says. “We’re not interested.”

“We’re not interested in singing with them or being an opening act for them,” Lonna says. “Sorry.”

“Maybe they can find somebody else to sing with them or be an opening act for them,” Charlotte says. Charlotte and the rest of the Dianettes rudely turn away from Nicolas, Carmen and Rachel and go about their business talking to each other and to the members of the Diaz-Davidson Band. Nicolas, Carmen and Rachel look on at the Dianettes stunned and disappointed. Nicolas sadly turns to Carmen and Rachel. He takes them away.

Nicolas pulls Carmen and Rachel to the side. He then says to them, “I’m sorry ladies, I tried.”

Carmen and Rachel sadly look at Nicolas. Carmen then says, “Well since the Dianettes are not interested in singing with us or being an opening act for us, what about Diane D? Can we sing with her?”

“Yeah can we?” Rachel asks.

“Oh I don’t know about that,” Nicolas says, “the girls are not going to feel it. You heard about what happened between them and the Punky Gurlz when the Punky Gurlz tried to have Diane sing with them, all hell broke loose! It was all over the newspapers and everything! You had to have seen and read about it.”

“We did,” Carmen says. “But I was hoping that maybe we can just try to get Diane D to sing and perform with us if it’s possible.”

Nicolas sighs. He then looks towards the front entrance. He then says, “I’ll tell you what. Why don’t you ladies ask Diane yourselves. She and Michael just walked in. They’re at the front entrance.”

“They are?” Carmen asks.

“Yeah.”

Carmen and Rachel look towards the front entrance. They see Diane D and Michael at the front entrance. They turn back to Nicolas as Carmen says, “Okay we’ll ask her. Thanks.”

“Yeah thanks,” Rachel says. Rachel and Carmen turn from Nicolas and look at the Dianettes.

The Dianettes continue to talk with their boyfriends, Kenny and the Diaz-Davidson Band members, going about their business not paying any attention to Carmen and Rachel as their backs are towards the front of the dance hall.

Carmen and Rachel turn forward and start to go across the half crowded dance floor.

Carmen and Rachel approach the front of the dance floor where a crowd of people are. They then see Diane D and Michael coming their direction. “Diane D!” Carmen and Rachel excitedly shout. “Diane D!” Carmen and Rachel excitedly approach Diane D and Michael as Diane D and Michael stop. Carmen then says, “Hi Diane D! How are you?!”

“I’m alright,” Diane D says.

“How’ve you been,” Rachel asks.

“Okay I guess.”

“Good.”

Carmen and Rachel look at Michael as Carmen asks, "And how are you?!"

"I'm okay," Michael says.

"Good. Nice to meet you two. I'm Carmen and this is Rachel. You remember us when we were singing on stage before?"

"Yeah I remember you two," Diane D says. "Y'all were great."

"Thanks Diane D. We were just speaking with your brother Nicolas and your parents and grandparents in the back."

"You were?"

"Yeah," Rachel says. "We told your brother and the rest of your family that we would love to sing and perform on stage with you and the Dianettes."

"What?" Michael says. "You two want to sing and perform with Diane and the girls?"

"Yeah," Carmen and Rachel say.

"I doubt that's gonna be possible ladies."

"That's the same thing your parents and grandparents said in the back," Carmen says. Carmen looks at Diane D and says, "Wouldn't you like to try to sing with us Diane D?"

"Listen ladies," Diane D says. "Personally, I would not have a problem with it."

"You wouldn't?"

"No."

"Well that should settle it then. This is the song we were hoping you can perform with us, the English version." Carmen hands Diane D the sheet of paper with the song lyrics written on it. Diane D and Michael look down at the sheet of paper. Carmen then says, "We also have a Spanish version, just in case we decide to sing the song in Spanish. Your brother Nicolas already asked the Dianettes about it, but the Dianettes weren't too....." Carmen and Rachel take a quick glance towards the back of the dance floor at the Dianettes. They suddenly become stunned as they look at the Dianettes.

At the back of the dance floor, Lonna, Miranda, Kelly, Charlotte, Nancy and Bernice are sitting on stools with their backs facing Carmen and Rachel, but their heads are facing around towards Carmen and Rachel. They angrily stare all the way across the half crowded dance floor right at Carmen and Rachel giving them cold stares. The Diaz-Davidson Band members and other people on the chairs look at Lonna, Miranda, Kelly, Charlotte, Nancy and Bernice. They then look at Carmen and Rachel also.

Back across the front of the dance floor, Carmen and Rachel become nervous as they look at the Dianettes. Diane D and Michael continue to look down at the sheet of paper, not noticing the Dianettes' behavior. Carmen and Rachel quickly turn back to Diane D as Carmen says, "Um Diane D?" Diane D looks up at Carmen as Carmen says to her, "Can we step over there for a minute?" as she points to a little hiding spot behind another group of people that are standing near the front entrance. Carmen and Rachel take Diane D and Michael near the front entrance.

Carmen and Rachel stand Diane D and Michael right behind the group of people, hiding Diane D and Michael away from the Dianettes' view. Diane D and Michael continue to look down at the lyrics on the sheet of paper. Carmen and Rachel look at each other. They turn from each other and secretly take a peek through the group of people and look towards the back of the dance floor. They do not see any of the Dianettes or anybody else at the back of the dance floor. They become stunned. They puzzled look at each other wondering where the Dianettes go. They turn their heads back forward and secretly take a peak through the group of people again and this time, they look towards the dance floor. They suddenly see all the Dianettes angrily walking through the half-crowded dance floor towards the front!

Miranda, Lonna, Kelly, Charlotte, Nancy and Bernice angrily walk through the half crowded dance floor, looking towards the group of people near the front entrance trying to see Carmen and Rachel as the Diaz-Davidson Band members and other people follow them! Miranda, Lonna, Kelly, Charlotte, Nancy and Bernice suddenly face forward and hurry through the half crowded dance floor with the Diaz-Davidson Band members and other people hurrying behind them!

Carman and Rachel quickly turn back to Diane D as Carmen says, "Diane D we have to go."

"Already?" Michael asks.

"Yeah. But if you're interested in singing with us, here's our card and number." Carmen quickly hands Diane D a business card. "We gotta go. By." Carmen and Rachel turn and hurry away from Diane D and Michael! They rush right to the front door!

Carmen and Rachel reach the front door. They quickly open the front door and rush right out of it!

Diane D and Michael puzzled stare at the front door as Michael says, "What was that all about?"

"I have no idea," Diane D says as she and Michael continue to stare towards the front door.

Chapter 16

Controversy Over Snatched Chains As Dana Strikes Police!

A week later, Diane D's family, relatives and a lot of other people are at a church function again. Dana's sister Landa, one of the triplets, and her boyfriend Chad hysterically come into the church! Landa approaches everybody and shouts, "Hey everybody! I just got my chains snatched!"

"What!" the entire crowd shouts as they rush to Landa.

"You got your chains snatched?!" Mary shouts.

"Yeah! Right outside the mall!"

"Outside the mall?!" Margarita asks. "Well how did it happen?!"

"Chad and I went to the mall! I had the necklace chains around my neck, then we went outside the mall! Chad went back in the mall real quick because he forgot his receipt so I waited for him outside the mall! While I was waiting for him, some guy ran right up to me and snatched my diamond necklace chains right off me!"

"What!" the crowd says.

"Yeah! This guy pulled my chains so hard it made me fall! Then the guy ran off with my chains!"

"What!" The crowd gently hold on to Landa, checking all on her.

"Are you alright Landa?!" Barry asks. "Did you get hurt real bad?!"

"My neck hurt when he ripped the chains from it," Landa says. "And I got hurt a little when I fell on the ground, but other than that, I'm alright."

"You need us to take you to the hospital?!"

"No I don't need a hospital Uncle Barry. I'm okay."

"Well were the hell is this guy?! We're gonna go after him!"

"I tried to look for the guy Uncle Barry," Chad says, "but I couldn't find him!"

A few hours later, Dana's other sister Missy and her boyfriend James come in the church. "Hey everybody!" Missy shouts. "Look what James just bought me!" Missy is wearing three diamond necklace chains.

Everybody goes to look at Missy's chains. "Hey!" Landa shouts. "That's my necklace!"

"Your necklace?" Missy and James say.

"Yeah! That's my necklace! Chad bought that for me a little while ago!"

"How can it be your necklace Landa?" Missy says. "James just bought it and gave it to me!”

“Yeah but it was snatched from me! This guy snatched it from me right outside the mall and ran off with it!”

“Oh my God Landa! You got your necklace snatched?!”

“Yeah!”

“Oh no!” James shout. “Did you get hurt?!”

“I got hurt a little, but I'm alright.”

“James where did you get the necklace chains from?” Chad asks.

“I just bought the necklace chains from some guy up the street who's selling jewelry,” James says.

“Really? Well let's go up the street and find this guy.” Chad and everybody else turns and heads towards the exit.

Around an hour later, everyone comes back in the church. They all turn to Landa as Mary asks, “So that wasn't the same guy who snatched the necklace chains Landa?”

“No it wasn't him Aunt Mary,” Landa says. She turns to Missy and says, “So Missy can I have my jewelry back?”

“No,” Missy says. “It's mines.”

“No it's my jewelry.”

“No it isn't!”

“Okay cool it girls!” Barry shouts as he and everyone else get in between Landa and Missy.

An hour later inside the church, Diane D is standing in front of a desk speaking into her cell phone as she frustratingly takes some items off the desk and throws them to the side shouting into her cell phone, “You gotta give me a chance to look for them Miss Graham! I just got here!” Diane D then sits down on the chair as she continues to speak into the cell phone. She then hears bickering across the room. She turns her head and angrily looks across the room. She sees Landa and Missy fussing with each other. She turns her head back and speaks back into her cell phone and says, “Hold on Miss Graham.” Diane D angrily turns back towards Landa and Missy and shouts, “Listen you two!”

Landa and Missy look towards Diane D.

Diane D then shouts, “If y'all don't stop arguing and fussing over there, I'm gonna come over there and break those damn diamond necklace chains!”

Landa and Missy look at Diane D stunned.

Diane D angrily looks away from Landa and Missy and speaks back into her cell phone. Mary comes into the room besides Diane D and hollers at Landa and Missy shouting, “Okay you two, cut it out now!”

“But the necklace belongs to me Aunt Mary!” Landa shouts.

“No it doesn't!” Missy shouts. “It belongs to me!”

“I don't want to hear anymore of this!” Mary shouts. Diane D looks at Mary. She then gets up from the chair as she continues to speak into her cell phone. She gently holds Mary's shoulder and upper back as she passes behind Mary. Mary gently pats Diane D's hand as Diane D leaves from behind her. Diane D turns and swiftly walks away towards the doorway, continuing to speak into her cell phone. She then walks out the doorway and turns, leaving the room as Mary continues to holler at Landa and Missy shouting, "Just cut it out! And I mean it!" Mary angrily stares at Landa and Missy. She turns around and walks back out the room.

It is two hours later. Landa and Missy are arguing and fussing in the church lounge as Missy shouts, "Look what you just did! I'm gonna make you pay for this!" Mary, Barry and everyone else come between Missy and Landa. They see Missy's chain broken up. Dana and her Jamaican relatives come into the church. Mary, Barry and everyone else sit both Missy and Landa down on the chairs. Dana and her Jamaican relatives come to the commotion. Landa and Missy calm down as Dana and her relatives approach them. Dana looks at Missy and Landa and asks, "What's the matter?"

"Landa and Missy both claim these necklace chains are theirs and we don't know which one of them the jewelry belongs to," Mary says, "that's why they were fussing. They started snatching the chains from each other and broke the chain apart."

"What!" Dana's Jamaican relatives say.

Mary shows the broken chains to Dana and says, "They broke it right in two."

Dana takes the chains as she and her Jamaican relatives examine them. Dana turns to Mary and says, "I'll take the chain upstairs and see if I can fix it Aunt Mary."

"You will?"

"Yeah. I'll bring it back."

"Okay Dana."

Dana turns away as her Jamaican relatives follow her. She goes to the staircase with the broken chain as her Jamaican relatives go up the staircase behind her.

Twenty minutes later, Mary brings Landa, Missy and a white female police officer with brunette hair into the office. The female police officer turns to Landa and Missy and says, "Now what I need right now, is for one of you to take a seat down on the chair in front of me, then I'll have the other one sit."

Landa and Missy both try to sit on the chair first. They are sitting on it at the same time. They try to push and shove each other off the chair. Mary steps in and pulls the chair right from underneath them. Landa and Missy both fall on the floor landing on their behinds! Mary turns to the female officer and tells her, "Never mind. You don't need to make a report about the jewelry. I'll walk you out." Mary and the female officer turn away and walk towards the door.

Inside the lounge area, Dana's other sister Londa and her boyfriend Rick and other sister Linda and her boyfriend Terrance come in all smiling and carrying shopping bags. They suddenly hear fussing going on. They turn to look. They see Landa and Missy physically fighting as Mary, Barry, their relatives and the rest of the crowd go right between them again, trying to stop the fight. Londa, Rick, Linda and Terrance rush towards the commotion! They grab and hold Landa and Missy, trying to keep them apart, but Landa and Missy keep going at each other grabbing and holding each other!

Dana and her Jamaican relatives suddenly come down the stairs! They rush to the commotion!

Dana approaches Landa and Missy. She suddenly bends down at Landa's and Missy's knees. She bends back up and lifts both Landa and Missy high in the air by their waist and knees as Landa and Missy and the crowd frighteningly scream! Dana hurries and carries both Landa and Missy to the couch as everybody continues to scream moving out of the way shocked and stunned at Dana's superhuman strength! Dana angrily plots both Landa and Missy down on the couch as the crowd comes around them! Landa and Missy nervously look at Dana as Dana stands over them, angrily throwing her arms towards them shouting, "Stop fighting! None of y'all are gonna fight anymore!"

A stocky black male police officer and three other male officers come out of nowhere and suddenly approach Dana. "What's the problem ma'am?" the black male officer asks.

Dana turns her head towards the officer. She puzzled looks at him. She then turns towards the crowd and shouts, "Yo who the fuck called the cops?!"

"No one called us Miss! We just happened to be across the street taking care of another incident when three people from inside this church ran across the street to get us, telling us that there is fighting going on inside here!"

"Yeah it was fighting going on inside here, but we don't need you. I'll handle the situation."

"Ma'am, when we came in the church, we saw you carry these two ladies to the couch!"

"Yeah these two ladies were fighting, but we don't need the police, we'll handle the situation ourselves. Y'all can leave."

"No we're not gonna leave. We are gonna arrest these two young ladies."

"What!" the crowd shouts. "Arrest them?!"

"Arrest them for what officer?!" Barry shouts.

"For disorderly conduct!"

"Disorderly conduct?!" the crowd shouts.

Dana slowly faces her body towards the officer and shouts, "I thought I told you we'll handle the situation ourselves goddammit!" Mary, Barry, their relatives and Dana's Jamaican relatives quickly come in front of Dana to calm her as Dana continues to shout, "These two ladies are my sisters, leave them alone! I'll take care of them!"

"We're still gonna arrest these two young ladies, whether you like it or not Miss!" the officer shouts.

"No you're not gonna arrest them!"

"Oh yes we are!"

"Oh no you're not! Don't put your fuckin hands on them!"

"Don't tell us what to do! We're still gonna arrest these two women!" The officer turns to his officers and says, "Charlie and Greg go slap the cuffs on these two ladies." One of the other officers go to Landa while the other goes to Missy. Dana turns and kung fu kicks the first officer right in the groin then turns and kung fu kicks the other officer in the groin as everybody start to scream and panic! Mary, Barry and their relatives grab and hold Dana as she tries attacking the cops! The other cops try to grab Dana, but Dana tries attacking them as well! More cops come into the church! They approach Dana and subdue her! They slap the cuffs on Dana and arrest HER instead.

The next day, Diane D's family is inside the organization reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA STRIKES AGAIN! DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA IS ARRESTED AGAIN! THIS TIME SHE CAUSES THREE MALE COPS TO LAY IN HOSPITAL SUFFERING FROM INJURIES!

Two months later, several people are reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA SENT TO MENTAL INSTITUTION

Inside the living room, Nicolas' family and relatives anxiously surround him as he hysterically speaks into the telephone receiver shouting, "I don't know why Dana!" Nicolas takes the phone receiver from his ear and holds his hand over the phone receiver. He turns to his family and says, "Dana just found out from her lawyer that Landa really had her jewelry snatched! Her lawyer asked her was she there when Landa's jewelry got snatched! Dana didn't know what the hell he was talking about! She asked him 'what does he mean Landa got her jewelry snatched! Her lawyer assumed she knew about the whole thing! When Dana's lawyer told her some guy snatched Landa's jewelry right outside the mall and Landa got hurt a little, Dana got very hysterical and told her lawyer 'no she wasn't there!' Then she got angry, called here and started screaming and cursing in my ear wanting to know why the hell didn't we tell her what really happened! She wants to know why didn't we tell her that Landa really got her jewelry snatched and why didn't we tell her Landa got hurt!" Nicolas gets back on the phone receiver and says, "Yeah Dana, Landa did get hurt from that incident, but she's alright now! ..... I don't know who the guy who snatched her jewelry is or where he is! ..... No I don't! Dana, why do you want to know who the guy is or where he is?! ..... What!" Nicolas holds his hand over the phone again. He turns to his family and shouts, "She just yelled and said if she ever finds out who the guy is that snatched her sister's jewelry or finds out where he is, she's gonna hunt him down and go after him whenever she comes out the mental institution!"

"What!" the family shouts. "Go after him?!"

"My God we don't need another Felix Green incident!" Gracy shouts.

"No we sure don't!" Barry shouts. "Hand me that phone!" Barry takes the telephone receiver out of Nicolas' hand. He yells into the phone shouting, "Now Dana, you're gonna do no such thing! You're not gonna go after anybody! This is exactly the reason why we didn't tell you about this incident in the first place! You don't need to get into anymore trouble! ..... No Landa and Missy aren't fighting anymore! Missy decided to give the jewelry to Landa since the jewelry was rightfully Landa's in the first place! You don't have to worry, Landa and Missy are not fighting anymore! ..... Yes I'm sure, they're not fighting! ..... Okay? ..... Good. Now Dana, the family and I are gonna come visit you tomorrow okay? Now get some rest. We'll see you first thing in the morning alright? We all love you and we want you to come home soon ..... Okay. We'll see you tomorrow. Bye now." Barry hangs up the telephone. He turns to his family and says, "She really calmed down a lot as soon as I was sure to her that her sisters aren't fighting anymore."

"She did?" Mary says.

"Yeah."

"Oh that's good." Everybody turns and leave the living room.

Four months later, a man is at a bus stop reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA IS RELEASED FROM MENTAL

INSTITUTION!

At Gracy and Mike's house, Diane D's family and relatives are all celebrating Dana's home coming. Nicolas approaches Mary, Barry and Gracy on the side and secretly speaks to them. He says to them, "Y'all know what? Dana came to me a little while ago and asked me, have I ever found out who that jewelry snatcher guy is, where he is or what he looks like."

"What!" Mary, Barry and Gracy shout.

"She did?" Mary asks. "My God, she sure didn't waste any time to ask about him."

"She certainly didn't," Barry says, "after I told her not to get into anymore trouble."

"Where did she go?" Gracy asks.

"She just went in the kitchen with Diane," Nicolas says.

"Come on everybody," Mary says. "It's time for us to have a talk with Dana." Mary, Barry, Gracy and Nicolas start to head towards the kitchen.

The Motorcycle Chase!

At the organization the next day, Diane D's family and the Diaz-Davidson Choir stand around talking and fussing. Barry approaches his family and says, "I just heard you all found out who the guy is that snatched Landa's jewelry and went to the projects where he hangs out to confront him."

"Yeah we did Dad," Nicolas says.

"Well who is this guy?"

"Some guy named Bubby Owens."

"A guy named Bubby Owens? How did you all find out who he is?"

"Because a few days after he snatched Landa's jewelry, he started bragging to the people in that neighborhood that he snatched one of Diane's relative's jewelry," Mary says. "Sooner or later, the people that he bragged to told other people about it. Then the other people started telling everybody else about it, the word kept spreading around then the word winds up getting back to a couple of the choir members, then the choir members told everybody here about it."

"Now everybody here knows the guy who snatched Landa's jewelry's name is Bubby Owens," Margarita says.

"The worst thing about it," Nicolas says, "is that the word somehow got to Dana, and now she knows the guy who snatched Landa's jewelry's name is Bubby Owens and knows where the neighborhood is he hangs out at."

"She does?" Barry asks.

"Yeah. Mickey told us Dana told him she's gonna pay a visit to the neighborhood Bubby Owens hangs out at."

"What! Dana told Mickey she's gonna pay a visit to that neighborhood?!"

"Yeah. As soon as we heard about that, we all went and yelled at Dana and told Dana she's not gonna go anywhere near that neighborhood and to stay away from it! She told us she has a friend who lives in that neighborhood and wants to visit that friend."

"A friend who lives in that neighborhood and wants to visit that friend?! What friend?! What's their name?!"

"Good question," Mary says. "She never told us this friend's name!"

"She never? My goodness. Where's she at now?"

"She and Diane went riding on the motorcycles."

"She and Diane went riding on the motorcycles?! My God! Did they say where they were going?!”

“Yeah,” Gracy says. “Dana told us she was gonna go to the pharmacy to pick up her prescription. Diane told us she's gonna go with Dana to keep an eye on Dana, to make sure Dana doesn't go anywhere near Bubby Owens' neighborhood.”

“Diane told you all that she's gonna go with Dana to keep an eye on Dana, to make sure Dana doesn't go anywhere near Bubby Owens' neighborhood?!”

“That’s what she said.”

“That wasn’t a good idea!”

“It wasn’t?”

“No! That was a bad move!”

“Bad move?” Grandpa Mike says. “Why do you say that Barry?”

“I mean it’s great and dandy that Diane went to keep an eye on Dana, but who’s going to keep an eye on Diane?! Diane is just as bad as Dana! She and Dana both have bad tempers, they both been committed to mental institutions, they are always getting arrested and you wind up having to keep bailing both of them out of jail Dad!” Barry then sighs and says, “Well I hope both Diane and Dana took their medications this morning.”

“Yeah they both took their medications this morning Barry,” Gracy says. “I was with them in the kitchen when they took their medication. I made sure they both swallowed it too.”

“I sure did.”

“That’s good Mom, but someone still should have went with both Diane and Dana because I’m not feeling this. I’m afraid sooner or later, we’re going to hear something about Dana or Diane or both.” Gracy, Grandpa Mike, Mary, Nicolas and the rest of the family worriedly look at Barry.

Around 45 minutes later, Diane D and Dana enter a hospital lobby both dressed in identical black corduroy jackets, black matching pants and holding white helmets with black designs in each of their hands with their long black hair in a half-braid and half-ponytails hanging down their backs as they follow a black, male security guard. Diane D turns to Dana and whispers, “I thought you had to go to the pharmacy to pick up your prescription Dana.”

“I do,” Dana says, “but after I visit my friend.”

“What friend? I keep telling you, there's no visiting hours at this time. Now if nobody else can visit patients at this moment, what makes you think you can?”

“Because it's important for me to visit my friend at this moment. It's an emergency. He has something of mine and I want it back. The security guard is gonna make an exception for me.”

“He is?”

“Yeah.”

“You still haven't told me your friend's name yet.”

“I'll tell you his name later Diane. I just have to visit him real quick.” Dana and Diane D turn forward and approach the information desk with the security guard.

The security guard turns to Dana and says, “Now I'm only escorting you upstairs because it's non-visiting hours right now. But it seems so important for you to visit your friend at this moment.” The security guard turns to Diane D and says, “Are you going up too?”

“No I'm not going up,” Diane D says. “Dana already told me she wants to go up alone.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Diane I don't know how long I'll be up there and I don't want to keep you waiting,” Dana says. “Why don't you just meet me back at home.”

“Meet you back at home?”

“Yeah. Come on. I'll walk you to the door.” Dana turns Diane D around. She gently hugs and holds onto Diane D's upper back as she walks Diane D towards the front exit.

“Miss!” the security guard's voice says.

Diane D and Dana stop and turn their heads around towards the security guard.

“Where're you going?” the security guard asks. “Remember this is non-visiting hours! We have to hurry and get this visiting over with!”

“Okay!” Dana turns to Diane D and says, “I'll see you at home.” Dana turns away and hurries towards the security guard.

Diane D puzzled stares towards Dana as she moves a little towards Dana's direction then stops. She continues to stare towards Dana's direction. She then turns back around and walks towards the exit door. “Diane D!” a crowd's voice shout. “Oh my God it's Diane D!” Diane D hears her name being called and stops walking. She puzzled turns around to look.

A heavy crowd of adults, teenagers and children all of mixed ethnic groups excitedly rush to Diane D and shout, “Diane D! It's Diane D! Oh my God!”

“Hi Diane D!” a man in the crowd excitedly shouts. “How are you?! What are you doing here in the hospital?!”

“I came here with my cousin,” Diane D says.

“Your cousin?! Was that your cousin Dana who was walking away with that security guard?!”

“Yeah that was her.”

“We thought that looked like her. It's nice to see you Diane D!” The crowd excitedly surround Diane D as the man asks, “Where are the Dianettes?”

“What are you doing with a helmet Diane D?!” a teenage boy asks.

“Yeah we saw your cousin Dana holding a helmet too!” a lady in the crowd asks. “Are you two riding on motorcycles?!”

Diane D just nods her head at all the T-shirts not showing too much emotion.

“So Diane D, where are the Dianettes?!” a boy in the crowd asks.

“Yeah we would like the Dianettes to see this too!” a woman wearing a T-shirt says. The people continue to stand in front of Diane D smiling and showing her their T-shirts.

“Diane D!” the security guard's voice shouts. Diane D and the crowd turn and look. They see the security guard and three other male security guards rush to them as the security guard shouts, "Diane D! Thank God you're still here! You're cousin Dana is gone!"

"Dana is gone?!" Diane D shouts. "What the hell you're talking about Dana is gone?!"

"We don't see her anywhere! She disappeared somewhere! So did my gun!"

"What! Your gun is missing?!"

"Yeah!" the second security guard shouts. "We think your cousin Dana took his gun because he doesn't have it on his holster!"

"No wonder why your cousin was so desperate to visit a friend during non-visiting hours!" the first security guard shouts. "She wanted to be escorted so she can be close enough to me to steal my gun! I was wondering why she was standing so close behind me when we were waiting for the elevator! When the elevator came, the door opened and I walked in the elevator! I turned around towards your cousin, but I didn't see her! She just disappeared! The next thing I knew my gun was gone too! I panicked and started to look for your cousin Dana but couldn't find her anywhere! Then I alerted the rest of security, now the whole hospital is looking for your cousin! I think your cousin Dana was planning to steal my gun all along because she never even went upstairs to this so called patient's hospital room!"

"We don't know whether or not your cousin Dana is still in the building! Did you see her go by?"

"No I didn't!" Diane D shouts.

"She must have went out the side exit or the back exit! We already called the police! They're on their way over!"

"Diane D, I don't even think your cousin Dana knows you're still here!" the first security guard shouts. "She stole my gun thinking you already stepped out of the hospital and on your way home already! We gotta stop your cousin Dana before she gets away! How did you two get here?"

"On the motorcycles!" Diane D says.

"Motorcycles?! Where are the motorcycles parked?!"

"They're parked down the street!" Diane D turns and anxiously rushes to the exit door as the security guards and crowd of people anxiously rush behind her!

Dana is rushing down the street hurrying away from the hospital. She stops in her tracks and sees two parked motorcycles instead of one. She is stunned to see Diane D's motorcycle still around. She nervously looks back towards the hospital then looks back at Diane D's motorcycle. She rushes to the two motorcycles.

Dana nervously looks back towards the hospital then looks back at Diane D's motorcycle again. She quickly gets on her motorcycle. She puts her helmet on then quickly starts up the motorcycle engine as it roars! Dana starts to pull off into the street and looks back for oncoming traffic! The coast is clear so she pulls off and races her motorcycle down the street as it roars!

Diane D, the security guards, four extra security guards and the crowd of people rush to the curb then look down the street! They see Dana speeding away, roaring her motorcycle down the street into the distance as the security guard shouts, "There she is! Speeding away with my gun!"

“Dammit Dana!” Diane D shouts. She turns to the security guard and says, “I’ll go after her and get your gun back!” Diane D hurries away from the security guards and the crowd and races down the street!

“Diane D!” the crowd shouts. The security guards and the crowd of people race down the street after Diane D!

Diane D almost bumps into some paramedics as they pull some stretchers out of the ambulances! Diane D anxiously waits for the paramedics and stretchers to go by. She then continues to run down the street!

Diane D runs to her motorcycle. She gets on her motorcycle then quickly puts her helmet on as the security guards and crowd run to her.

“Diane D!” the crowd shouts.

Diane D starts up the motorcycle engine as it roars! The security guards and crowd of people reach Diane D as she starts to pull off into the street. Diane D looks back for oncoming traffic! The coast is clear so Diane D pulls off and races her motorcycle down the street as it roars! The security guards and the crowd of people stand and watch as Diane D speeds and roars her motorcycle down the street into the distance! The security guard turns to the other security guards and says, “Wow look at her go!”

“We got to follow them!” the other security guard says. The security guards turn and race to two patrol cars!

The third and fourth security guards quickly get into either side of one of the patrol car as the fifth and the sixth security guards quickly get into either side of the second patrol cars! The patrol cars back up and pull out into the street! They then go forward, racing down the street!

The second security guard turns to the first security guard and tells him, “We gotta call the police back and tell them that Diane D’s cousin Dana left the building with the gun already, going southbound down the highway on a motorcycle!” The first security guard gets on his cell phone as everyone else continue to watch as Diane D’s motorcycle roar and disappear into the distance.

Diane D races her motorcycle down the highway service road looking towards the highway. She sees Dana racing her motorcycle down the highway. Diane D anxiously beeps the horn! Dana turns her head towards Diane D.

Dana is shocked and stunned to see Diane D! She angrily faces forward and speeds her motorcycle to the left passing a car!

Diane D sees Dana speeding away! She angrily faces forward and speeds her motorcycle down the service road! Diane D and Dana both race their motorcycles down the highway and service road!

The patrol car races down the highway service road!

Diane D and Dana continue to race their motorcycles alongside each other down the highway and service road!

Diane D enters the highway ramp looking back for oncoming traffic! The coast is clear so she speeds her motorcycle down the highway! She catches up to Dana and races right behind Dana following Dana!

Dana quickly looks back towards Diane D then looks forward and speeds her motorcycle to the right, passing a car!

Several police cars race down the highway, giving chase!

Diane D and Dana have their heads back and realize police cars are after them! They quickly look towards each other then look back forward and speed their motorcycles in separate directions, going past several cars as they speed down the highway!

The police cars continue to give chase! The patrol cars continue to give chase!

Diane D and Dana speed their motorcycles alongside each other again, speeding their motorcycle more faster down the highway!

Police cars continue to race down the highway! The patrol cars continue to race down the highway!

Inside the police car, a male white police officer on the passenger side gets on his police radio and shouts, "Attention, calling all units, calling all units! I don't see Diane D or her cousin Dana anywhere on the highway! Block off all southbound and eastbound exits! Again weed need all southbound and eastbound exits blocked off! Ten four!

Police cars are blocking all highway exits. Other police cars continue to race down the highway!

As Diane D and Dana continue to speed their motorcycles, Dana quickly heads for one of the highway exits as Diane D quickly follows behind her! Dana speeds her motorcycle up the ramp as Diane D speeds her motorcycle up the ramp following right behind Dana!

Around an hour later, the security guard is in the hospital lobby speaking into a telephone receiver saying, "The police caught up with Diane D and her cousin Dana? .... Okay good! Did the police find the gun on Dana? .... No? Okay I'm on my way to that station! I'll see you there!" The security guard gets off the telephone. He turns to the other security guard and says, "The police caught up with Diane D and her cousin Dana and took them both in!"

“Thank God!” the other security guard says. “How did the police caught up with them?”

“They had all southbound exits and eastbound exits blocked! They were waiting for Diane D and her cousin Dana as Diane D and Dana were getting off one of the exits!”

“That's good!”

“Why did the police take Diane D in too?” a female hospital staff member asks.

“They took Diane D in for questioning because they said it looked like she was running away from the police on the highway with her cousin like she was trying to help her cousin get away,” the first security guard says.

“Maybe she just didn't want her cousin to get arrested again.”

“Maybe so. The police claim Diane D has been arrested with her cousin Dana more than once. Diane D and her cousin Dana have both been thrown in jail a few times together.”

“Yeah I heard.”

“Well I'm gonna head to that police station.”

“Okay.”

The security guard turns away from everyone and leaves.

At the police station, Diane D and Dana walk beside each other, both handcuffed in the back as the police surround and lead them to the back of the station with Diane D shouting, “I don't know what the hell you're talking about officer! I don't have anything to do with a gun being missing!”

“I don't have a fucking gun officer!” Dana shouts. “I didn't take one!”

“You two were speeding away like you're guilty!” one of the police officer shouts. “Let's go!” The police continue to lead Diane D and Dana to the back.

The next day, a group of people are looking at an article in a newspaper with a headline that reads: HIGH SPEED CHASE DOWN THE HIGHWAY! DIANE D AND HER COUSIN DANA GET ARRESTED AGAIN FOR SUSPICION OF ANOTHER WEAPONS POSSESSION CHARGE AND STOLEN PROPERTY! “Wow!” a woman says. “It was a high speed chase after Diane D and her cousin Dana on the highway yesterday?!”

“Yeah!” one of the men says. “The police chased after Diane D and her cousin Dana as Diane D and her cousin were speeding away on their motorcycles!”

“On their motorcycles?!” a second woman says. “My God!”

“The police arrested both Diane D and her cousin Dana on Weapons Possession Charge and Stolen Properties! A hospital security guard claims Diane D's cousin Dana stole his gun! Diane D claimed to police she had nothing to do with the gun being taken.”

“Oh yeah? Did the police ever find the security guard's gun?”

“No, they never found the gun,” the first woman says. “They questioned Diane D's cousin Dana about where the gun is but Dana told the police she doesn't have any gun and never took a gun from anybody. She told the police most likely the security guard misplaced his gun. The police got angry with Dana and told her nobody is gonna misplace a gun just like that! The police believed Dana might have tossed the gun away somewhere on the highway when she and Diane D realized the cops were after them.”

“Did the police searched the highway for the gun?” a second man asks.

“Yeah they searched all over the highway but never found the gun. If the gun is out on the highway somewhere, sooner or later somebody else is gonna wind up finding it. It might get into the wrong hands again.”

“Yeah it sure might. So what happened to Dana and Diane D after the police arrested them for weapons possession?”

“Well the police couldn't find any evidence against Diane D whether or not she had anything to do with the gun being missing. The hospital security guard told police that Diane D was no where near him the exact time his gun disappeared, so she was let go after a few hours. Her cousin Dana is still locked up though because the hospital security guard told police that Dana was the one right near him the exact time his gun disappeared.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.” The people continue to look at the article.

The following day, a few men are inside a barber shop reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA ON ANOTHER WEAPONS POSSESSION CHARGE AND STOLEN PROPERTY!

The next day, a man is standing at the bus stop reading an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: HOW MANY GUNS OR RIFLES HAS DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA STOLEN BEFORE? WHAT WERE HER INTENTIONS?! The man turns to another man next to him and asks, “Did you see this article about Diane D's cousin Dana stealing a gun from a security guard at a hospital then she and Diane D get arrested for another Weapons Possession Charge and Stolen Property after a high speed chase on the highway?”

“Yeah,” the second man says. “Those two women are always getting arrested!”

“I know.” The man continues to read the article.

A week later, a few men inside a barber shop are reading an article with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA IS RELEASED FROM JAIL AND ON HOUSE ARREST UNTIL COURT DATE! One of the men turns to the other one and says, “Did you see this article about Diane D's cousin Dana being released from jail and on house arrest until her court date?”

“Yeah?” the second man says. “Why the heck did she steal a gun in the first place if she did steal a gun?”

“Oh yeah?” the third man says. “Why did they think Dana was on her way to that neighborhood?”

“Because they heard that after Dana supposedly stole the security guard's gun, she got on the highway and started heading to that direction of the neighborhood Bobby Owens hangs out at. She doesn't live in that direction. If she was going home, she would have head the other direction! If Diane D's cousin Dana did steal that security guard's gun, she stole it for a reason and intended to use it! She used a gun on somebody before when she tried to shoot that newspaper reporter Felix Green on the highway and she will use a gun on somebody again!" The men worriedly look at one another.

It is three weeks later. Diane D's family, Christine and David are in the hallway outside the court room. They head to the courtroom as reporters with microphones in their hands follow them as one of the male white reporters asks, "What do you think the outcome is gonna be of your daughter Dana's trial?"

"We have no idea," Christine says.

"We got to hurry and get to the courtroom," David says. "If you all will just excuse us." Christine, David and Diane D's family continue to head to the courtroom.

The next day, several people in the street at the newsstand are reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA IS RELEASED ON PROBATION AND INTO THE CUSTODY OF DIANE D'S FAMILY! One of the men turns to the others and says, "Did y'all see this article, about Diane D's cousin Dana released on probation and into the custody of Diane D's family?"

"Yeah," a second man says. "So what does that mean, Diane D's family has custody of her cousin Dana?"

"Yeah. Her family signed for custody of Dana and are responsible for Dana while Dana is on probation!"

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"You think she was her way to get that guy Bubby Owens?" a woman asks.

"That's what everybody thinks. When word got to Bubby Owens that Diane D's cousin Dana stole a security guard's gun and seemed to be on her way to that neighborhood after him, I heard he got scared and stopped coming to that neighborhood. Nobody in that neighborhood seen Bubby Owens around there since."

"No?"

"Uh uh."

"Wow," a third man says. "What do you think happened to him?"

"I think he's probably in hiding, knowing that Diane D's crazy cousin Dana might be after him with a stolen gun. If Bubby Owens is in hiding, I think he did the right thing by staying away from that neighborhood fearing that this crazy woman might try to pump a bullet in him like she tried to do to that newspaper reporter Felix Green on the highway. You don't want to wait until it's too late. Why take the chance?" The people sadly look at the man.

Diane D And Dana Try To Assault Motorist!

Two months later, Diane D is riding in a passenger van sitting in the front passenger seat with a foam cup in her hand. She sits beside Dana as Dana sits in the driver's seat driving the van down a Suffolk County highway in Long Island, New York. Dana's Jamaican cousin Judy sits in the second row of seats right behind Diane D as Dana's sisters Linda and Landa also sit in the second row behind Dana. Missy, Londa and Teresa sit in the third row of seats in the back. Reggae music is playing on the van radio. Linda then says, "Wow, thanks for treating us all out to lunch at the Chinese buffet Dana."

"No problem Linda," Dana says as she continues to drive.

"Yeah Dana," Landa says. "Thanks for paying for all that food we ate."

"No problem Landa."

"Yeah Dana's rich now," Diane D smiles and says, "after winning all that money at the casino yesterday." Diane D, Judy, Landa and Linda smile at Dana as Dana rubs down her eyes and the front of her face then looks in the rearview mirror at her sisters. Dana then looks straight ahead and continues to drive. Diane D then reaches on the side and grabs a music CD. She shows the CD to Dana and says, "Hey Dana, is this the CD you want to listen to?"

Dana looks towards the CD and says, "Yeah mon that's di CD, play it." Dana looks straight ahead and continues to drive as Diane D puts the CD into the player.

Judy leans forward and chats with Diane D. Diane D turns her head around towards Judy. She then looks at the back of the van and says, "Hey Missy, Londa and Teresa, are you all okay back there?"

Missy, Londa and Teresa look at Diane D as Londa asks, "What you say Diane?"

"I said are you all okay back there."

"Yeah mon, we're cool."

"Yeah it's nice and cool back here Diane," Missy says.

"In other words, we're okay Diane," Teresa says.

"Good," Diane D says. She then looks forward and adjusts the CD player as Judy leans forward and starts to chat with her again.

Dana blows her mouth and looks in the rearview mirror at her sisters again as she continues to drive. She then frowns and looks straight ahead again.

Suddenly, a light blue car comes out of nowhere and cuts right in front of Dana's van!

Dana sees the light blue car and quickly slams on the brakes! The van halts causing everyone in the van to scream and jerk forward! Dana then shouts, "Fuckin bloodclaat!" She then sees the light blue car continue to drive off! She steps on the gas pedal and races the van right up to the car! She leans to the opened driver's window and shouts to the driver, "Godammit look wah you did! You almost caused a crash you motherfucka!"

The driver of the car, a Middle Eastern looking man around his late 50's, and his Middle Eastern looking wife around her mid 50's who is in the passenger seat look to their right at Dana. The wife quickly turns to her husband and shouts, "My God! That looks like Diane D's cousin Dana!"

"What?!" the man shouts. "You mean that crazy woman?! Oh shoot!" The man looks forward and starts to speed away!

"Oh no you don't!" Dana shouts as she puts the van into high gear! She starts to chase after the light blue car!

Dana's van and the light blue car speed down the highway! The man swerves his vehicle to get away from Dana but Dana's van remains hot on his trail! Dana's van and the light blue car start to speed faster and faster! They start to speed at around ninety miles per hour!

Dana's van catches up to the car! Dana deliberately bumps the van into the car and pushes the car off the road! The car bumps right up against the side of the highway and swerves! Dana continues to bump the van right into the car! She pushes the car more and more off the road into an isolated area off the highway where there are a lot of tall weeds. She then uses a lot of force and pushes the car right into a dirt pit. The car slides into the dirt pit. It then stops. The wheels of the car spin, but the car does not go anywhere. It is stuck in the dirt.

Dana pulls the van over several feet behind the light blue car then slams on the brakes! The van stops. Diane D, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy open the van doors. They jump out of the van and lean against the van. They are quite dizzy. Dana angrily opens the van door and jumps out the van. She turns back towards the van and reaches under the driver's seat. She pulls out a large hammer. She turns back around and walks away from the van.

Dana goes straight towards the light blue car with the hammer in her hand and shouts, "I'm gonna bash your fuckin face!"

Diane D, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy turn and rush to Dana shouting, "No Dana no!" Diane D, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy grab and try to hold Dana, but Dana violently jerks away from them and continues to head towards the light blue car. Diane D, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy rush to Dana again! They grab Dana and try to stop her again as they wrap their arms tightly around her torso and hold on to her!

The Middle Eastern looking man and his wife frighteningly sit in their light blue car looking on at Dana as the man's wife shouts, "Oh my God! She was trying to come right this way with that hammer! She was about to use it on us! Start the car and leave!”

“The car won’t move!” the man nervously shouts as he constantly steps on the gas pedal. “It’s stuck here in the dirt!”

“What! It is?!”

“Yeah!”

The wheels of the car continue to spin, but the car does not go anywhere.

“Oh no!” the man’s wife shouts. “My God! That means we have to get out the car and try to run!”

“Run?! Run where?! You know we both can’t run with our arthritis! If we try to leave, she will chase us down and definitely outrun us! She will definitely catch up to us and use that hammer on us! This is an isolated area! There’re no witnesses around! We’re dead!”

“I think you should apologize to that woman real quick for cutting her off like that!”

“I am! While the rest of those women are holding on to her, I’m gonna call the police!” The man pulls out his cell phone. He nervously starts to dial a number on his cell phone as his wife nervously look on towards Dana. The man then puts his cell phone to his ear as he looks around the area and asks his wife, “What highway exits are we near?”

“I’m not sure!” the man’s wife nervously shouts as she looks around the area.

The man then speaks into his cell and shouts, “Hello nine one one?! Get me the police quick!” He frighteningly looks towards Dana.

Dana continues to try to break away from Diane D, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy. Suddenly, Diane D lets go of Dana. She goes around Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy, steps right in front of Dana and angrily shouts to her, “No, you’re not gonna do shit Dana!” Dana stops struggling as she, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy puzzled look at Diane D. Diane D then shouts, “You just came out of the mental institution! I’ll handle this!” Diane D angrily turns to Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy and shouts to them, “You guys continue to hold on to her! And no matter what happens, don’t let go of her!” Diane D angrily turns around and walks away towards the light blue car as Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy continue to tightly hold onto Dana and puzzled look at Diane D.

As Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy look at Diane D, Judy shouts to her, “What do you mean ‘no matter what happens’ Diane?! What’s suppose happen?! What you planning to do?”

Diane D slightly turns her head back towards Judy and shouts, “I’m gonna straighten out this motherfucka!” She turns her head back forward as she continues to head towards the light blue car.

Judy quickly turns to Landa, Londa and Linda and shouts to them, “Hold Dana! And no matter what happens, don’t let go of her!” Judy turns to Missy and shouts, “Come on Missy!” Judy and Missy quickly let go of Dana then turn and rush towards Diane D!

Judy and Missy rush right to Diane D and grab her! They stop Diane D as they wrap their arms tightly around her torso and hold onto her. Diane D then shouts, “Judy, let go of me!” as she tries to break away from Judy and Missy.

The man and his wife continue to look on as the wife shouts, “Hey! That was Diane D trying to come this way! She stopped her cousin from coming this way and she was about to come this way instead!”

“What good is that?!” the man shouts. “I hear whenever Diane D gets angry, she turns into a Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde and she becomes just as dangerous as her cousin! And right now, she looks pretty angry to me! We need to get out of here!”

“Are the police on their way?”

“Yeah but by the time they get here, we’ll probably be already dead! We have to try and make a run for it now while those other women are holding onto Diane D and her crazy cousin!” The man and his wife open their car doors.

Diane D continues to try to break away from Judy and Missy as Judy shouts to her, “You’re not going to do anything either Diane!”

Diane D stops struggling and shouts, “What the hell are you talking about Judy?! Did you see what the fuck this guy just did?! He almost caused us to have an accident! We all could have been hurt or killed because of him! Let go!”

“No Diane, you’re upset right now!” Missy shouts. “Let me and Judy talk that driver!”

“No!” Diane D tries to break away from Missy and Judy again, but Missy and Judy pull her back as their arms remain tightly around her torso!

Dana suddenly tries to break away from Landa, Londa and Linda with the hammer still in her hand, but Landa, Londa and Linda scream and pull her back as their arms remain tightly around her torso! Dana angrily looks at the man inside the light blue car as her sisters pull her back. Landa quickly smacks Dana on the back. Dana suddenly stops struggling then looks on towards Diane D, Judy and Missy as Landa rubs her on the back. Landa, Londa and Linda look at Dana. They then turn their heads and look on towards Diane D, Judy and Missy.

Diane D continues to try and break away from Judy and Missy. She then stops struggling, looks at Judy and firmly says, “You better get off of me Judy.”

“No!” Judy shouts.

“I’m serious!” Diane D shouts as she suddenly bends her knees and lowers herself to the ground.

“I don’t caaare!!” Judy shouts as she continues to tightly hold on to Diane D’s torso. Diane D suddenly gets superhuman strength as she starts to slightly drag Judy and Missy towards the light blue car! Judy and Missy scream as their arms remain tightly around Diane D’s torso desperately trying to pull her back! “You’re not going to do anything Diane!” Judy shouts.

Dana suddenly tries to break away from Landa, Londa and Linda again with the hammer still in her hand as Landa, Londa and Linda scream! Dana suddenly bends her knees and lowers herself to the ground. She suddenly gets superhuman strength also as she starts to slightly drag Landa, Londa and Linda towards the light blue car! Landa, Londa and Linda continue to scream with their arms remaining tightly around Dana’s torso desperately trying to pull her back also!

The man and his wife are outside of their car. They frightening look on towards Diane D and Dana as the man shouts, “Oh my God! Diane D and her cousin are practically dragging those other women!” The man hurries to his wife. He and his wife frighteningly hold each other as they stand against the weeds shockingly looking on towards Diane D and Dana.

Diane D angrily drags Judy and Missy closer to the light blue car! Judy and Missy scream as they bend their knees and desperately struggle against Diane D's pull as their feet start to slide against the grass and dirt!

Dana drags Landa, Londa and Linda closer to the light blue car also! Landa, Londa and Linda scream as they bend their knees and desperately struggle against Dana's pull as their feet start to slide against the grass and dirt also!

The man and his wife continue to frighteningly and shockingly look on at Diane D and Dana. The man then shouts, "We're out of here!" The man pulls his wife by the hand then they both turn and try to run the other way!

Diane D sees the man and his wife trying to run off! She stops and shouts, "Dammit he's getting away!" She starts to drag Judy and Missy more towards the man as Judy and Missy scream and continue to struggle against Diane D's pull with their feet continuing to slide against the grass and dirt!

Dana starts to drag Landa, Londa and Linda more towards the man also as Landa, Londa and Linda scream and continue to struggle against Dana's pull with their feet continuing to slide against the grass and dirt also!

Judy then turns to Landa, Londa and Linda and shouts, "Where's Teresa?! What she doing?!" Judy, Missy, Landa, Londa, and Linda turn their heads towards the van and call out to Teresa shouting, "Teresa help! Help!"

Teresa, slowly and nervously emerges from the van. She leans against the van as she looks out towards the commotion.

"Teresa!" Judy shouts. "Call Uncle Barry, Uncle Tonio, Nicolas, Mickey and Michael!"

"And call dem right away!" Londa shouts as she, Landa and Linda struggle to pull Dana back.

Teresa nervously pulls out her cell phone. She trembles as she tries to dial a number on her cell phone. Her cell phone suddenly drops on the ground.

"Teresa!" Londa angrily shouts.

"She's scared Londa!" Missy shouts as she and Judy struggle to pull Diane D back. "One of y'all is a gonna have to call Uncle Barry!"

"We can't!" Landa shouts.

Diane D and Dana continue to drag Judy, Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda towards the man as Judy, Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda scream and shout desperately trying to hold Diane D and Dana back!

Police cars soon arrive. Diane D and Dana stop struggling. They turn their heads and see the police as the police hurry out of the police cars and approach them.

The man and his wife stand several yards away from their car, frighteningly holding each other as they face towards Diane D, Dana and the police. They breathe a sigh of relief as they look at the police. They then turn and nervously look at each other. "Thank God the police finally arrived," the man's wife says.

"Yeah thank God," the man says. He and his wife then look back towards Diane D, Dana and the police.

Several hours later inside the lobby of the police station, most of Diane D's family members and relatives are there all upset surrounding Judy, Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda as Judy, Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda sit on the police lobby bench leaning their heads on each other all tired and worn out. Grandpa Mike says to them, "Are you all okay?"

"No Grandpa, we're not!" Landa shouts. "We're all tired and worn out from trying to restrain Dana and Diane!"

"Y'all look worn out!" Mary shouts.

"We are Aunt Mary!" Missy shouts. "Dana and Diane are no joke! They were a handful!"

"I bet they were!"

"So you all were saying that this car came out of no where and cut right in front of the van, causing Dana to slam on the brakes?" Grandpa Mike asks.

"Yeah Grandpa!" Londa shouts. "That's exactly wah happened!"

"And you all had to hold on to both Dana and Diane trying to restrain them?" Gracy asks.

"Yeah Grandma!" Linda shouts. "Judy and Missy were holding onto Diane trying to restrain her, while me, Landa and Londa were holding onto Dana trying to restrain her!"

"Y'all didn't mention Teresa," Margarita says. "Where was Teresa all that time?"

"Staying in the van," Judy says. "She was scared."

"She was scared?" Barry ask. "Well where is she now?"

"She's standing over there."

Everyone turns around towards Teresa. They all walk towards Teresa as Judy, Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda slowly get up off the bench. Everybody approaches Teresa as Margarita asks, "Teresa, are you alright?"

Teresa nervously looks at Margarita and cries, "I'm sorry Miss Margarita. I'm sorry I wasn't able to help hold Diane or Dana. I was too scared to do anything!"

"She was," Missy says. "She was a nervous wreck. We saw her."

"I'm sorry again Miss Margarita."

"Were you able to see what happened when Dana almost had the collision?" Margarita asks.

"No, I was sitting way in the back of the van, I didn't know what happened. All I know is that the van jerked then we all jerked forward and screamed. I wasn't able to see any car cut in front of Dana's van from where I was sitting."

"Okay Teresa."

"Did you see Diane and Dana yet?"

"Yeah we saw them."

"What's going to happen to them?"

"Well right now they're both being charged with attempted assault," Barry says.

"Attempted assault?"

“Yes.”

“Oh no!”

“According to the police, they saw Diane and Dana both literally dragging Judy, Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda right towards the other motorist trying to go after the other motorist. Did you see Diane and Dana dragging Judy, Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda towards the other motorist?”

“Yeah I saw it. That’s what scared me.”

“Well the police said Diane and Dana both stopped trying to go towards the motorist when they arrived.”

“Yeah I saw that too. Are Diane and Dana gonna go to jail?”

“We don’t know Teresa,” Margarita says. “Diane is telling the police that she wasn’t trying to assault the other motorist. She told the police she just wanted to talk to the other motorist, that’s all, so the police asked her why were her two relatives holding on to her trying to stop her. Diane told the police she don’t know why her family members were holding on to her trying to stop her, when all she wanted to do was talk to the other motorist to try and find out why he pulled that stunt.”

“That’s what she told the police?”

Grandpa Mike turns to Missy and asks, “Missy, why were you and Judy holding on to Diane trying to stop her if she’s telling the police all she wanted to do was talk to the other motorist? Did you knew Diane just wanted to talk to the other motorist?”

“No we didn’t know that Grandpa,” Missy says. “We didn’t know what Diane’s intentions were. When she walked towards that car all angry and shouted to us that she was going to straighten the guy out, we didn’t know what she meant by that.”

“She said she was going to straighten the guy out?” Tomas asked.

“Yeah that’s what she said. And we all know when Diane says she’s going to straighten someone out, she usually goes after that person with a vengeance!”

“She does,” Judy says. “That’s why Missy and I went and grabbed her right away because we didn’t want to take any chances with Diane!”

“I don’t blame you!” Mary shouts, “knowing Diane!”

“Grandpa,” Missy says, “we all know Diane has a violent history just like Dana! They’ve both been in and out of jail before AND mental institutions! What else were we suppose to think?”

“I understand Missy,” Grandpa Mike says. “You all did the right thing. I’m glad you all stopped Diane and Dana both from attacking that other motorist if Diane was actually trying to assault him.”

“I think she was actually trying to assault him Grandpa, even though she might not admit it.”

“And you should know Missy,” Mary says, “you all were there.”

“And it’s a good thing you all were there Missy,” Margarita says. “We don’t know what would have happened to that other motorist if none of you were there to stop both Diane and Dana because those two can really get out of hand.”

“That’s why we’re all still worn out, from trying to stop them both!” Judy says.

“Yeah mon,” Londa says. “We still feel drained out. We lost all our energy from all that pulling and dragging!”

“Well that’s exactly why Diane and Dana are both where they are right now Londa, because they cannot control their violent tempers,” Barry says.

“Come on everybody,” Grandpa Mike says. “I’m gonna see if Diane and Dana are going to get bail, then I’m going to bail them both out.”

“You’re going to bail them out Grandpa?” Missy asks.

“Of course I’m going to bail them out if they get bail Missy, they’re my granddaughters. Let’s go.” Grandpa Mike turns and walks away as everyone else turn and follow him.

Michael, Nicolas and Tony suddenly approach everybody as Nicolas tells them, “The police are gonna let Diane go.”

“What!” everyone else shout.

“They’re letting Diane go?” Mary asks.

“Yeah,” Nicholas says.

“Why are they letting Diane go?” Barry asks.

“Because she’s sticking with her story,” Michael says. “She still claiming to the police that she just wanted to talk to the other motorist, not attack him.”

“So they believed her story?”

“I guess they did, they’re letting her go.”

“Well what about Dana?” Grandpa Mike asks. “They’re not letting her go?”

“Well Dana is the one who was caught with the hammer in her hand when the police arrived there.”

“Plus the other motorist and his wife both claim to the police that they heard Dana threatening him with the hammer, telling him that she was going to bash his face as she was walking towards their car,” Tony says.

“What!” the family shouts.

“Dana threatened the other motorist with the hammer, telling him that she was going to bash his face as she was walking towards their car?” Barry asks.

“That’s what the other motorist and his wife said,” Nicolas says. “That’s why the jail is keeping her.”

“My God.”

“Well,” Grandpa Mike says. “Now that Diane is being let go, we got one down and one to go. I guess all I have to do now, is just bail Dana out.”

Barry turns to Mike and says, “Bail Dana out?”

“You know you really need to just keep Dana locked up Dad. You just heard that she threatened to bash the other motorist in the face with the hammer!”

“Barry, Dana is my granddaughter! I’m going to pay her bail! Now I want you all to go get Diane while I’ll go pay for Dana’s bail!” Grandpa Mike turns from everybody and walks away as everyone turns and stare at him.

Barry turns to everyone and says, “Come one everybody, let’s hurry and get Diane.” Barry turns and walks away as everyone follows him.

The next day, four middle aged women of different ethnic backgrounds are sitting around a table inside a café drinking coffee as one of them looks at an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D AND HER COUSIN DANA GET ARRESTED TOGETHER AGAIN! “Hey,” one of the woman says. “This article says that Diane D and her cousin Dana got arrested yesterday.”

“Yeah I heard,” a second woman says. “Those two women are always getting arrested.”

“They sure do.”

“What did they get arrested for this time?” a third woman asks.

“For attempted assault on a motorist.”

“What?” the fourth woman says. “Diane D and her cousin Dana got arrested for attempted assault on a motorist?”

“Yeah. This article says that the police charged both Diane D and her cousin Dana with attempted assault yesterday on another driver that Dana was chasing after on a highway in Long Island after the other driver cut her off and the police charged Dana and the other driver with reckless endangerment.”

“Reckless endangerment? Diane D’s cousin Dana chased after another driver on the highway, just like she did with that newspaper reporter Felix Green?”

“Yeah.”

“Did she shoot at the other driver too?” the third woman asks.

“No not this time. This time, she tried to use a hammer as a weapon!”

“A hammer?!” the fourth woman asks.

“Yeah. It says that the other motorist and his wife told police that after Diane D’s cousin Dana pushed their car off the road.”

“Wait a minute. Diane D’s cousin Dana pushed the other car off the road?”

“That’s what the other motorist and his wife told police. They told the police that after Dana pushed their car off the road, Dana jumped out of her van then started walking towards their car with the hammer in her hand then they heard her threatening the man telling him that she was going to bash his face.”

“They heard Dana telling the man that she was going to bash his face?”

“That’s what this article says.”

“My God.”

“I heard Diane D, Dana’s sisters and a Jamaican relative of theirs named Judy jumped out of the van to stop Dana,” the second woman says.

“What?” the fourth woman says. “You mean to tell me that Diane D’s cousin Dana, was about to do an assault and attack right in front of her very own sisters and their relative?”

“When you have a violent temper like Dana, you’re not thinking about who’s around you, you’re just enraged.”

“It’s true,” the first woman says. “This article says that when Diane D, Dana’s sisters and their relative Judy grabbed Dana to stop her, Diane D stopped holding Dana and told Dana’s sisters and their relative Judy to continue to hold Dana. The next thing Dana’s sisters and their relative Judy knew is that Diane D herself started going towards the driver of that car.”

“Oh yeah?” the third woman says. “What was Diane D planning to do?”

“Well it says right here that Dana’s sisters and their relative Judy didn’t know what Diane D’s intentions were, but said it looked like she was planning an assault herself so they didn’t waste any time trying to find out. They didn’t want to take any chances with Diane D, knowing Diane D’s violent tempered history, so two of them went to grab and hold onto Diane D while the other three stayed and held on to Dana. That’s when the police came and arrested both Diane D and her cousin Dana for attempted assault on the other driver.”

“Did they go to jail?”

“Yeah they both went to jail. It says right here that Diane D was let go first because she told the police she only wanted to talk to the other motorist. The police couldn't really prove that she wanted to harm and assault the other motorist. Being that Dana was the one who was actually caught with the hammer in her hand and actually threatened to use it on the other motorist, she was kept in the jail and of course her rich grandfather comes to her rescue and bails her out of jail again."

"Her rich grandfather," the third woman says. "Ain't she lucky. Didn't Diane D's cousin Dana just come out of the mental institution weeks ago for beating up male cops at a church function?"

"Yep, she sure did."

"And wasn't Diane D in a mental institution herself a year ago for attacking that poor little boy Marcus right inside of an elementary school the night she appeared there?"

"Yep, she sure was."

"Well maybe the mental institution should have just kept both Diane D and her cousin Dana in there."

"It should have. This article says that Diane D's cousin Dana and that other driver are gonna have to appear in court for the reckless endangerment charge and Dana have a case for the attempted assault charge."

"My God," the fourth woman says. "It was bad enough that Dana's sisters and their relative Judy had to deal with trying to stop Dana from assaulting that motorist and then they had to try and stop Diane D herself from assaulting him? Thank goodness Dana's sisters and their relative Judy was there to stop both Dana and Diane D from about to assault that other motorist."

"Isn't Diane D on medication?" the third woman asks.

"That's what I heard," the second woman says. "I heard the mental institution she was in put her on medication, so she has to keep taking that medication to calm her nerves."

"Is her cousin Dana on medication too?" the fourth woman asks.

"I don't know. If she's not, she needs to be. I heard that Dana had kicked a woman real hard in the chest when she was a teenager!"

"She did? My God, why did she do that?"

"The woman and Dana were arguing and grabbing over a stolen bike. Dana claimed the bike belonged to her brother and the woman said no the bike belonged to her son. The woman told Dana to let go of her son's bike. Dana refused and told the woman no, she's not letting go of her brother's bike. The woman got upset and told Dana to get lost and cursed at Dana. The next thing people knew is that Dana kicked her foot high right into the woman's chest!"

"Oh no!"

"I heard the woman fell out on the ground. Then the ambulance came and took the woman to the hospital."

"My goodness! Did the woman turned out alright?"

"Yeah. I heard she stayed in the hospital overnight then came home the next day."

"Thank goodness. Was Dana ever put away for it?"

"Yeah. I heard she was put away in a juvenile detention for a month."

"She was put in juvenile detention for a month?"

"Yeah."

"My God, she started out very young didn't she? You know being that Diane D and her cousin Dana keep getting arrested for assault, and the fact that Diane D beat up that helpless little kid Marcus right inside of that third floor school hallway after she finds out that this kid Marcus was behind a hoax that lied to her and her family, a person like her shouldn't be a role model for kids. Kids can't have an ex-con like Diane D being a role model for them!"

"You consider Diane D an ex-con?" the first woman asks.

"Of course I consider her an ex-con, she keeps getting locked up doesn't she? The kids at the elementary school I work in had wanted Diane D to appear at the school earlier this year, but after what the principal and I heard what she did to that little boy Marcus, we decided we didn't want Diane D anywhere near our school or anywhere near the students."

"Diane D claims not to remember beating up that little boy Marcus. She thinks he's making that story up."

"Why would that kid make up a story like that?"

"She thinks he's making that story up just to get attention."

"Well maybe she really doesn't remember beating that little boy Marcus up, but still, what if she ever comes to our school and one of those children there approaches her and tells her something that upsets her, then she winds up going off on that child beating the crap out of that child too, then winds up not remembering that either. We don't want history repeating itself."

"You're certainly right about that." The women look at each other then look towards the article as they drink their coffee.

A week later, on a cloudy windy afternoon, Diane D and Teresa are walking barefoot together along a deserted beach with Diane D dressed in a navy blue sweater shirt and blue denims with her long black hair all loosed out around her chest, sides and back blowing against the wind as she walks with her thumbs in her pocket chewing on gum, looking to her left out towards the ocean. Teresa who is walking on the right side of Diane D is dressed in an identical brown sweater shirt and dungarees also as she looks towards the ocean too. Teresa looks at Diane D and says, "Are you sure you're okay Diane?"

Diane D turns her head towards Teresa and says, "I'm okay Teresa. The ocean helps me get my mind off things that's all."

"That good. So when is Dana going to court?"

"Next month."

"Oh yeah? Do we have to be at the court too?"

"Yeah we have to be there Teresa. We were all in the van with Dana so we have to be there."

"Okay."

"Anyway, I didn't come here to think about court, I came here to get my mind off court, so right now, let's just enjoy this beautiful breeze and this beautiful ocean, okay?"

"Okay." Teresa and Diane D look back towards the ocean. Teresa points towards the ocean as Diane D continues to look out towards the ocean. A group of geese suddenly fly above their heads going towards the ocean. Diane D and Teresa turn their heads up and look up at the geese. They turn their heads and watch the geese fly out over the ocean. They smile at the geese. The geese start to disappear out of sight. Diane D and Teresa continue to smile at the geese as the geese disappear out of sight. Diane D and Teresa look forward. Diane D then looks down at the sand and stops. She bends down to the sand on one knee resting one hand on her knee as Teresa stops beside her. Diane D picks up some shells with her other hand. She stands back up. She turns to Teresa, gives the shells to Teresa and says, "Here you go Teresa, this is for you."

Teresa looks at the shells. She then smiles and says, "These shells are wonderful. Thank you Diane."

"You're welcome. Let's go." Diane D turns and starts to walk forward as Teresa walks beside her. Diane D starts to run a little. Teresa starts to run a little. Diane D and Teresa then turn and face each other as they skip sideways along the beach.

On another windy sunny afternoon, Diane D is riding a bike along the beach shore dressed in a gray sweater shirt, tight black pants bearing her muscular shaped legs and black sneakers with her hair out and wind blowing against her hair as Teresa rides on another bike behind Diane D dressed in a beige sweater shirt, black pants and black sneakers smiling at Diane D.

Diane D continues to ride the bike down the beach shore as Teresa follows her. Then she turns her head around and upper body sideways to look at Teresa as Teresa lags behind continuing to ride the other bike following Diane D.

Diane D continues to ride the bike down the beach shore with the wind blowing against her hair with one hand on the handle bar and the other hand resting on her lap as she stares back at Teresa. She then turns forward and rides further down the shore as Teresa continues to follow her.

Chapter 19

The Dianettes Got The Fashion Bug

A week later, Margarita is inside the organization office sitting on a large office chair behind her desk as Mary, Barry, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn surrounding her talking with her. Suddenly there is a tap at the door. “Grandma,” Nancy’s voice says. Margarita, Mary, Barry, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn turn and look towards the doorway.

The Dianettes excitingly come into the office carrying large shopping bags. They approach Margarita, Barry, Mary, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn as Margarita says, “Wow, you girls are in a good mood today.”

“We sure are,” Charlotte smiles and says. Charlotte turns to the rest of the Dianettes and says, “Well tell them girls.”

“Tell us what?” Mary asks. “What’s going on?”

“Guess what,” Miranda says. “We went to Manhattan and purchased this beautiful yellow material.”

“Beautiful yellow material?”

“Yeah,” Lonna says. “Check it out.” Lonna excitingly reaches into one of the shopping bags and pulls out a large shiny yellow material as Charlotte excitingly reaches into another shopping bag and pulls out a different shiny yellow material. Mary, Barry, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn come from around the desk and look on as Margarita gets up from her chair. Margarita goes around to the front of the desk next to Tomas as she, Tomas, Mary, Barry, Tonio and Marilyn puzzled look at the yellow materials.

Lonna, Miranda, Kelly and Bernice unfold the large yellow material of the other shopping bag and spread out as they spread out the material. Nancy and Charlotte unfold the other yellow material and spread out as they spread out the material. They all start to hold the materials up. Nancy excitingly turns to Margarita, Tomas, Mary, Barry, Tonio and Marilyn and says, “Well, what do you all think about these materials?”

“Well,” Margarita says, “the materials are very beautiful girls. But what are the materials for?”

“Diane?” Margarita, Mary, Barry, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn say.

“Yeah.”

“What do these materials have to do with Diane?” Barry asks.

“We’re planning to have this material made into a corset,” Miranda says.

“You’re planning to have this material made into a corset?” Mary asks.

“Yeah.”

“A corset for what?” Tomas asks.

“For Diane to wear,” Charlotte says.

“For Diane to wear?”

“Yeah,” Lonna says. “We’re planning to have this entire material made into a beautiful corset, shirt, skirt and pants so we can put it on Diane and have her wear it when she sings in the music video.”

“What?” Margarita, Mary, Barry, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn say.

“Wait a minute,” Margarita says. “Am I hearing this right? You all are planning to have this material made into a corset outfit, so you can put it on Diane and have her wear it in the music video?”

“Oh really?”

“Yeah.”

“How come?” Marilyn asks.

“So she can advertise the corset outfit while she performs in it,” Kelly said.

“Advertise the corset outfit while she performs in it?”

“Yeah.”

“Oh I get it,” Tonio says. “You all want Diane to model in the corset outfit at the same time she’s performing in the music video?”

“Exactly Daddy,” Nancy says. “And we want to put matching yellow bows in her hair for when she sings in the music video.”

“Matching yellow bows?”

“Yeah.”

“Why?”

“Because the matching yellow bows will look so cute on her while she’s wearing the corset outfit Uncle Tonio,” Miranda says.

“It will?”

“Yeah.”

“Do any of you even know Diane’s measurements?” Margarita asks.

“We don’t know her exact measurements yet because we don’t have a tape measure. Once we get the tape measure, we’ll be able to take Diane’s measurement and make the outfit for her.”

“Wow this is so exciting!” Lonna says.

“It is!” Kelly says. “Wow I can’t wait til we make this material into a corset outfit and put it on Diane.”

“Me either!” Charlotte says.

“Now hold on girls,” Tomas says. “Wait just a minute here. Does Diane know about this?”

“No, we didn’t get a chance to tell her yet Grandpa.”

“What? You mean you didn’t let her in on this?”

“Not yet, Grandpa Tomas,” Lonna says.

“So far, she’s totally unaware of this great terrific plan that you all have in store for her, huh.”

“That’s right Grandpa,” Nancy says. “Diane doesn’t know about this yet. We just wanted to hurry and purchase the material and get it made for her, that’s all.”

“Well you know we’re gonna have to see the outfit and check it out before you all even put it on Diane.”

“Of course you all get to see the outfit before we put it on Diane Grandpa. You all will be the first to see it.”

“Yeah as a matter of fact, you all can come with us later and watch the material be made into the outfit,” Miranda says.

“Watch the material be made into the outfit?” Margarita says.

“Yeah.”

“Well this, I got to see.”

“Me too,” Marilyn says

“Well that settles it then,” Nancy says. “But before we get the outfit made, we got to go buy a tape measure.”

“You’re going to buy a tape measure now?” Mary asks.

Lonna turns to the rest of the Dianettes and says, “Come on girls. We better hurry and buy the tape measure so we can get this material started so the outfit can be done by the time Diane does the music video.”

The Dianettes excitedly turn to Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn as Nancy says, “We’ll be right back.” Nancy and the rest of the Dianettes turn and excitedly hurry towards the doorway with the yellow materials and shopping bags. They then hurry into the hallway and leave the room.

Margarita, Barry, Mary, Tomas, Tonio and Marilyn puzzled stare at the doorway. They turn their heads to each other as Tonio says, “You remember when all the girls were little, and they used to love dressing up their little dollies with different clothe outfits and put bows and ribbons on their dollies’ hairs?”

“Yeah we all remember that,” Barry says.

“Well I don’t think they’ve outgrown it. I think they’re still doing the same thing, instead of doing it with dolls, they’re doing it with Diane. I think they just adopted Diane as their personal doll,” Tonio smiles and says.

“I think so too Tonio,” Margarita smiles and says. “I think so too.” They all smile and laugh a little.

Later on that day, Diane D and Michael are in the organization office. Margarita approaches Diane D and Michael and says, “Hey you two.”

“Hi Grandma,” Michael says.

“Hey Grandma,” Diane D says. “What’s up?”

“Diane,” Margarita says. “Remember when you used to wear bows in your hair?”

“Yeah I remember Grandma. Why?”

“Because get ready. All the girls came to me, your mom, your dad, your grandfather, your uncle Tonio and your Aunt Marilyn earlier today and told us all, that they’re planning to dress you up in a yellow corset outfit they’re going to have made for when you sing in the music video.”

“What?” Diane D puzzled says. “The girls told you all, that they’re planning to dress me up in a yellow corset outfit they’re going to have made for when I sing in the music video?”

“They sure did. They also said they’re planning to put matching yellow bows in your hair to go with the outfit.”

“What?” Diane D says. “Matching yellow bows?”

“That’s what they told us. Isn’t that exciting?”

“Exciting?”

“Well the girls think it’s exciting.”

“They do?”

“Yeah. How ‘bout you? Do you think it’s exciting to have bows put back in your hair?”

“Grandma, I haven’t worn hair bows in my hair since I was around eleven years old.”

“Well how would you like to start wearing them again?”

“Me, wear hair bows again? Seriously Grandma?”

“Yes Diane. The girls said they’re planning to dress you in one of their yellow corset outfits and put yellow bows in your hair.”

“So what the girls wanna do, is have Diane look like a little flower girl, huh?” Michael smiles and says.

“Flower girl?” Margarita smiles and says. “I don’t know about all that Michael. They’re planning to start having the outfit made very soon.”

“Oh yeah?” Diane D says.

“Yeah.” Margarita puts her arm around Diane D’s shoulders and says, “Come on Diane. Let’s go see what the girls got.”

“Okay Grandma.” Diane D, Margarita and Michael turn and walk away as Diane D puts her arm around Margarita.

The Soda Challenge

Around two week later, Quench Soda Company is preparing a photo shoot inside a commercial studio. Quench Soda Company's logos are all over the studio. Doug, a white male director around his mid-forties, stands over the set as around ten staff members work on it. He then shouts, "Okay everybody! Diane D and The Dianettes should be here soon! Let's get this set ready for them!" The staff members continue to work on the set. A male Hispanic staff member around his mid-thirties approaches Doug and says, "Excuse me Doug, but there's someone on the line for you."

"Oh yeah?" Doug says. "Who is it?"

"It's someone from Diane D's family. I think it's her older brother, Nicolas. He just phoned here and said that Diane D and The Dianettes won't be able to make it to the studio for the photo shoot today."

"What! They're not gonna make it to the photo shoot?! Well why not?!"

"He said a relative of theirs just had an accident at home."

"A relative of theirs just an accident at home?!"

"That's what he said."

"Let me go speak to him." Doug and the staff member turn and hurry away.

Doug enters an office and walk to a desk. He sits down at the desk and picks up the telephone receiver. He speaks into it and says, "Hello?"

"Hello," Nicolas says from the other end of the phone. "Is this Doug, the director from the Quench Soda photo shoot?"

"Yes I'm Doug, the director. Is this Diane D's brother, Nicolas?"

"Yes."

"Hello Nicolas. What's this I hear that Diane D and The Dianettes cannot make it to the photo shoot today? What's this I'm hearing that a relative of yours had an accident at home?"

"Yes, a relative of ours had an accident! Our cousin Dana!"

"Your cousin Dana?!"

"Yes!"

"You mean the cousin who was suspected of shooting down all those traffic cameras? The cousin that was arrested with Diane D for drunk driving and weapons possession charges and stolen properties?! The cousin who chased and shot at that newspaper reporter on the highway and the same cousin who beat up those two female police officers?"

"Yep that's the one!"

"Well what happened to her?!"

"She fell off a ladder!"

"She fell off a ladder?!"

"Yeah! In the kitchen of our grandparents' house!"

"Oh yeah?! Well how did that happen?!"

"Well Dana was helping remodeling my grandparents' kitchen! She was doing some finishing touches on the ceiling! She was way on top of the ladder painting the ceiling! Our little cousins were running around the house! Then they ran into the kitchen and ran right into the ladder! They knocked the ladder down to the floor while Dana was on top of it, so Dana fell all the way to the floor from the ceiling! She crashed to the floor pretty hard and landed right on the ladder, then her whole body rolled right on the paint that was sitting on the floor! She hit her head against the cabinet on the way down! She's messed up real bad! The paint was all on her clothes, her hair and her skin! The paint had to be cleaned off her entire body, then she had to be taken here to the hospital by ambulance!"

"You're at the hospital now?"

"Yeah!"

"What! I don't believe that story!"

"What do you mean you don't believe the story? It's true!"

"I don't believe it!"

"Why the hell would I make this story up?"

"Because I think you're making up this excuse for your sister so she and The Dianettes won't have to show up for this photo shoot!"

"Now why the hell wouldn't I want my sister and the girls to show up for the photo shoot?!"

"Because this is not the first time that Diane D and the Dianettes canceled a photo shoot! This is the third time they canceled a photo shoot on us! They canceled a photo shoot on us last year and they canceled a photo shoot on us the year before last and now they're canceling again! This is the third year in the row! What is going on with them?!"

"I don't know what happened with the first two cancellations! My mother had something to do with that!"

"I know your mother had something to do with the first two cancellations! I remember your mother calling here canceling the photo shoot for Diane D and The Dianettes both of those times before and claimed that someone in the family got hurt! And now someone in the family got hurt again?! Every time Diane D and The Dianettes are suppose to come here for a photo shoot, your mother would call here and claim someone in the family got hurt and Diane D and The Dianettes wind up canceling! That sounds pretty strange!"

"I don't know why my mom canceled the first two photo shoots!"

"I know why she canceled them! I found out why!"

"You did?"

"Yeah! I found out from a source that your mother canceled the first two photo shoots for Diane D and The Dianettes because a better offer came up for them somewhere else! Your mother decided to take the better offer for Diane D and The Dianettes! That's when she would call here and claim someone in the family got hurt because she didn't want this soda company to know that she made Diane D and The Dianettes ditch us for a better offer somewhere else! Then we heard from another source that your mother signed a contract with that other place not to ever have Diane D and The Dianettes have a photo shoot with us! Your mother never planned to have Diane D and The Dianettes have a photo shoot with us, but she just didn't tell us! She was just stalling to keep us from being upset with her! Even though we found all this out, we still decided to give Diane D and The Dianettes another try, because we know it's not their doing! Then this happens again!"

"I'm sorry, I wasn't there when my Mom called you up about the first two cancellations, but I'm here now and I'm telling you, someone in the family did had an accident and did get hurt and my sister and the girls can't make it there to the photo shoot! My mom has nothing to do with it this time! She's not even around! We just called her up and told her about the accident a few minutes ago! And now she, my dad and the rest of our family and relatives are all on their way here to the hospital to see Dana now!"

"Oh yeah? You know this soda company putted out a lot of money getting the set ready for Diane D and The Dianettes! We putted out a lot of money the first two times, then we hear Diane D and The Dianettes weren't gonna show up, and now the same damn thing is happening again! If Diane D and The Dianettes don't show up for this photo shoot, we'll lose all the money again we put into it!"

"Can't you make the photo shoot for another day?"

"No we can't make the photo shoot for another day, I have to make the photo shoot today! The money for the production was spent to get this set ready today so we have to use it today! Diane D and The Dianettes must show up today!"

"Can't your company get another singing group to take my sister and the girls' place?"

"No we can't get another singing group to take their place just like that! Diane D and The Dianettes names are on the contract!"

"I'm telling you, there was an accident in the family! That is why my sister and the girls can't make it to your photo shoot! Diane asked me to call you to tell you that she and the girls can't make it today! She wanted me to do the calling because she is too upset and emotional to make this call herself! She told me to tell you she's very sorry for any inconvenience, but says in cases like this, family comes first!"

"I don't believe there was an accident in your family, I just don't believe it!"

"You don't want to believe it! I'm just telling you that my sister and the girls can't make it there, just accept it!"

"No I will not accept it! We'll just bring a lawsuit against Diane D and The Dianettes, that's all!"

"A lawsuit?!"

"That's right a lawsuit! We're gonna have a lawsuit against them for breaking a contract!"

"They broke a contract because there was an accident in the family! Can't you understand that?! Is money so important to you that you refuse to believe an accident can happen?"

“Accidents can happen, but I don't think it's happening in your sister and the Dianette's case!”

“Listen, do what the hell you have to do, okay! I've said all I have to say! Bye!” Nicolas slams the phone receiver and hurries away.

Doug looks at the telephone receiver. He angrily hangs up the telephone. He turns and walks away.

The next day, several people in the street are reading articles in two newspapers with headlines that read: QUENCH SODA PLANS TO SUE THE DIAZ-DAVIDSON ORGANIZATION FOR THIRD CANCELATION OF PHOTO SHOOT! QUENCH SODA PLANS LAWSUIT AGAINST THE DIAZ-DAVIDSON ORGANIZATION FOR BREAKING THIRD PHOTO SHOOT CONTRACT! A woman turns to the others and says, “Do y'all see the headlines? Quench Soda is planning to sue the Diaz-Davidson Organization for canceling the photo shoot they were supposed to have yesterday.”

“Yeah I saw it,” one of the men says. “This article right here says that there was an accident in the family, that Diane D's cousin Dana had fell off a ladder at their grandparents' home and had to be taken to the hospital.”

“Dana?” a second woman says. “You mean the cousin that was arrested with Diane D for drunk driving and weapons possession charges and stolen properties?”

“Yeah.”

“And she's the same one who shot down all those traffic cameras, chased and shot at that newspaper reporter on the highway then beat up those two female police officers, right?”

“Yep, that's the ooone. That's why Diane D and The Dianettes couldn't make it to the Quench Soda photo shoot. It says Diane D's brother Nicolas called the Quench Soda Company on the phone and tried to explain the accident to the Quench Soda Company, but the Quench Soda Company didn't buy it.”

“Why didn't they believe it?”

“It says because Diane D and The Dianettes canceled a photo shoot a couple of times before in the past and caused the Quench Soda Company to lose all that money. Now the Quench Soda company wants all their lost money back.”

“They don't understand that someone in the family got hurt?”

“I guess they would understand it if they believed it was true. If someone in the family did get into an accident and got hurt this time, why did Diane D and The Dianettes canceled the first two photo shoots they were gonna have with the Quench Soda Company?”

“I read it was Diane D's mom who called the Quench Soda Company up and canceled the first two photo shoots and claimed someone in the family got hurt,” a second man says.

“Oh did somebody in the family got hurt both of those time too? Every time Diane D and The Dianettes are supposed to go for a Quench Soda photo shoot, someone in the family gets hurt?”

“That sounds strange.” The people continue to look at the article.

The following evening, several Quench Soda managers, three male whites around their late forties and early fifties and Doug, sit at a table in the office. Barry, Nicolas, Michael, Tomas and Mickey suddenly barge into the office as a few staff rush in behind them. The Quench Soda managers and Doug become stunned and get up from their seats. Seth, the head manager asks, "What's going on?"

"We tried to stop them!" a few staff members shout.

Barry angrily approaches the managers and waves a couple of newspapers in their faces and shouts, "Look! My family and I don't like what the hell we see in these headlines! What the hell you doing talking about you're going to sue our organization?!"

Seth looks at the staff members and says, "It's okay. You guys can leave."

The staff members turn and leave the office. Seth turns to Barry as Barry says, "Didn't my son Nicolas called here on the phone yesterday and said there was an accident in the family?!"

"Yes he did call here," Doug says. "I spoke to him."

"And you refused to believe what I told you on the phone!" Nicolas shouts. "Listen, you guys can take this issue to court if you want to, but we have proof to show the court why my sister and the girls couldn't make it to your photo shoot yesterday!"

"What do you mean you have proof?" Seth asks.

Michael waves a newspaper in his hand and shouts, "We have a copy of the accident report right here!"

"Not only that," Nicolas shouts, "it was luckily for us that the sound and aftermath of the accident was caught on video! That way we can show the court there really was an accident in the family!"

"How did you happen to get the sound and aftermath of the accident on video?" Seth asks.

"Because Diane received a letter from a sick child who is confined in a hospital," Michael says. "The child is a little girl named Stacy who is handicapped who said she wanted to meet Diane and the girls, but Diane and the girls couldn't visit the sick child Stacy because they had to do the photo shoot with you guys! Since Diane and the girls couldn't visit Stacy, they decided to send her a personal video of themselves singing to her. Mickey was holding the video camera. He was video taping Diane and the girls singing to Stacy through the camera, then suddenly the accident happened. The only thing was when the accident happened, Mickey kept the video camera rolling. That's how the sound and aftermath of the accident got caught on video!"

Barry turns to his family and says, "Shall we show the video to them guys?"

"Yeah let's show it to them," Mickey says. "Here Dad." Mickey hands the DVD to Barry. Barry hands the DVD to Seth.

"The accident is on this DVD?" Seth asks.

"Yes it is," Barry says.

"Okay. I'll load it into the DVD player. You all can have a seat." Seth loads the DVD into the DVD player as Barry and his family take a seat. Seth then takes a seat as everyone in the room faces the large TV set. The DVD starts to play as everyone in the room starts to watch it.

ACTION IN VIDEO:

Three little boys, one of them a little chubby, run down the stairs inside Gracy and Mike's house. The three boys then run around the stairs towards the back of the house. Diane D comes in the front door holding several different color outfits wrapped in plastic bags. She is followed by Nicolas and all the Dianettes. They come into the living room where Michael and six members from The Diaz-Davidson Band are sitting on the sofa with instruments surrounding them. Diane D, Nicolas and the Dianettes greet the fellows. Diane D looks at Mickey and the camera and says, "You got that camera rolling already Mickey? The girls and I aren't ready to sing to Stacy yet."

"I know Diane," Mickey's voice says. "I thought I would just get a head start with it."

Diane D turns away from the camera and says to the Dianettes, "Okay girls, we have to hurry and get upstairs to change. Let's go." Diane D walks towards the staircase as Miranda, Charlotte, Nancy and Kelly turn from the guys and head towards Diane D. Diane D goes up a few steps as Miranda, Charlotte, Nancy and Kelly come behind her. Diane D turns towards the living room and shouts, "Bernice, Lonna let's go! We gotta go upstairs and get changed!" Bernice and Lonna turn from the guys and head towards Diane D, Miranda, Charlotte, Nancy and Kelly. Diane D heads up the steps. The Dianettes follow up the steps behind her as Nancy loses her footing. Nancy, Kelly and Charlotte start to fuss a little as they all continue up the stairs.

The video skips to an hour as Nicolas, Michael and members from the Davidson Band still sit on the sofa as Michael talks on the telephone. "What's taking Diane and the girls so long to get changed?" Mickey's voice says. "They've been upstairs for over an hour already."

"Well you know how women are," Nicolas says as he opens a can of beer. "They take a long time to change and get dressed."

"They sure do," Mickey's voice says. "I hear them coming now."

Lonna, Miranda and Kelly come down the stairs laughing, each dressed in identical bright orange long sleeved shirts with a Quench Soda logo on it and matching orange leggings with their long hair hanging around their sides and backs. They wrap their arms around each others' shoulders, turn and enter the living room smiling. "That's right girls, walk that runway," Vincent says. Lonna, Miranda and Kelly laugh as they walk into the living room. They then sit on some chairs. Nancy, Charlotte and Bernice come down the stairs, each dressed in the same identical bright yellow long sleeved shirts with a Quench Soda logo on it and matching bright yellow leggings also with their long hair hanging around their sides and backs. They turn and stop as the three little boys run right past them, heading into the living room. Nancy, Charlotte and Bernice enter the living room. They go sit on the chairs next to Lonna, Miranda and Kelly. They all start to talk and laugh.

The three little boys run out of the living towards the back of the house again as Nicolas shouts to them, "You guys better stop running around the house before y'all get hurt or break something!"

"Are you girls ready to sing?" Mickey's voice says.

"No not yet Mickey," Lonna says as she looks at Mickey. "We gotta wait for Diane."

"Well where is she? Never mind, I hear her coming." The camera moves away from the Dianettes and goes to the staircase.

Dana comes down the staircase dressed in a light gray turtleneck shirt and light gray denim pants with a long thick braid behind her back as Diane D, dressed in a bright green long sleeved shirt with a Quench Soda logo on it and matching bright green leggings with her long hair hanging around her sides and back, comes down the stairs right behind Dana. Dana and Diane D look towards Mickey and the camera. They then turn and look towards the living room. Dana then turns and heads towards the kitchen as Diane D turns and follows her.

Dana enters the kitchen and goes to some cream colored paint that is sitting on the floor. She bends down to the paint and reaches for some tools. She gets on her knees and starts to stir the paint as Diane D gets on her knees and helps her. "Diane, are you ready to sing for the little girl Stacy so you can send her this video?" Mickey's voice says.

Diane D looks at Mickey and says, "Yeah I'm ready Mickey. I just want Dana to promise me that she's not gonna throw anymore contractors out of the house, causing Grandma and Grandpa to lose all that money."

"I told you I wasn't gonna do that anymore Diane," Dana says as she stirs the paint.

Diane D turns to Dana and says, "I want you to promise me that Dana."

"I promise."

"Are you sure now?"

"Yeah I'm sure."

"Are you positive?"

"I'm positive Diane."

"Good. I'm gonna hold you to that Dana."

"Okay Diane let's hurry and send the video to the little girl," Mickey's voice says. "Remember, you have a photo shoot with Quench Soda later on."

"Okay Mickey, I'm coming." Diane D gets off her knees and stands back up. She heads towards the camera as Dana gets off her knees and stands back up. Dana goes to the ladder. She starts to climb the ladder. Diane D turns around and looks at Dana. She sees Dana going all the way to the top of the ladder. Diane D becomes worried and says, "My God be careful up there Dana."

"I will Diane," Dana says.

Diane D continues to look at Dana. She then turns away and starts to head to the living room as Dana goes about her business on the ladder.

Diane D enters the living room. She approaches the Dianettes, each of them with a microphone in her hand as they talk and laugh with Michael and the members of the Diaz-Davidson Band. "Okay everybody!" Diane D shouts. The Dianettes stop talking and laughing and turn towards Diane D as Diane D goes and sits on a stool in front of the Dianettes. Diane D reaches to the side and grabs a letter. She opens the letter then picks up a microphone. She speaks into the microphone as her hoarse baritone voice booms out of the stereo speakers saying, "Okay guys and girls. We have a letter from a sick child. A little girl named Stacy who's ten years old. She is handicapped and confined in a hospital."

"Handicapped and confined to a hospital?" Melvin says. "Diane how do you know it's not another hoax?"

"Because my grandparents went to the hospital Stacy is in to see her to make sure she was a real kid. They confirmed she is real and do exist."

"Oh okay, that's good. Just wanted to make sure."

“No problem Melvin.” Diane D turns her head and looks into the video camera talking to Stacy through it and says, “Hi Stacy, how are you feeling? Stacy, the Dianettes and I are gonna do a photo shoot for Quench Soda later on today. Stacy, since the Dianettes and I cannot be with you in person, we'll sing a song for you on this video, then send this video to you. My brother Mickey is gonna video tape us as we sing to you. How that sounds?” Diane D turns to the Dianettes and says, “Okay, ready to sing a song for Stacy girls?”

“Yeah we're ready Diane,” the Dianettes say.

“Good. So what song should we sing for Stacy?”

“Let's sing 'All I Need To Know'” Charlotte says.

“'All I Need To Know'?”

“Yeah, how about that?” Kelly says.

“Aaariiiight!” Diane D, Charlotte and Kelly sway their bodies and bounce their shoulders as they smile at each other.

“No I don't want to sing that yet,” Miranda says. “Let's sing 'I Love You'.”

“'I Love You'?” Lonna says. “I don't want to sing that now. Let's sing 'Dance With Me'.”

“'Dance With Me'?” Nancy says. “I don't want to sing that either. Let's sing 'All Night Long'.”

“Hey ,how about 'Satisfied'?” Kelly says.

“'Satisfied'?” Miranda says. “Let's sing 'Our Love Will Cherish'.”

“Hey I have a good one!” Bernice says. “Let's sing 'I Will Fight For Everything'.”

“Yeah, let's do that,” Charlotte says.

“Hey, how about 'Slept All Night'?” Nancy says.

“Now that's a good one,” Kelly says.

Diane D looks at the Dianettes. She then looks into the video camera and says, “Well Stacy, hopefully the girls will decide on which song to sing by, Christmas.” Diane D looks back at the Dianettes. The three little boys run back into the living room again. One boy hits the other and runs away. The other boy becomes angry and goes off after the other boy as a third boy follows and run. They dash to the back of the house. Diane D looks towards them and shouts, “Hey Stevie! I thought I told you guys to stop running around the house!”

“He keep hitting me,” Stevie's voice says.

“Just stop running around the house before you or someone else gets hurt, alright!”

Diane D turns back to the camera and says, “I'm sorry about that Stacy, but we've been telling these kids to stop running around the house all day.” Diane D turns back to the Dianettes and asks, “So what song are we gonna sing for Stacy girls?”

“Let's sing 'All I Need To Know' like I first suggested,” Charlotte says.

“'All I Need To Know' is it! That's the song we're going to sing!”

“We're going to sing that?” Nancy asks. “Oh come on Diane, I want to sing 'Slept All Night'.”

“We ARE going to sing that song.”

“Oh good.”

“But not today.” The Dianettes look at Diane D as Diane D turns to Michael and says, “Turn the radio off Michael and start the instruments please.” Michael turns the radio off. He takes a guitar as he and the members from the Diaz-Davidson Band get ready to play the instruments. They start the instruments and play music. Diane D turns to the camera again and says, "Okay Stacy, this song is for you." Diane D turns back to the Dianettes and says, "Ready girls?!"

"Yeah we're ready!"

"Good!" The three little boys run from the back of the house into the living room again. Diane D becomes angry and yells at the little boys as she points her finger at them and shouts, "Listen guys, I'm only going to tell you one more time! Stop running!" The music stops playing as the three little boys stand quietly. "We're trying to sing a song for somebody! Now go in the back! Now!" The three little boys quietly leave the living room. "And don't come back out!" The three little boys walk slowly towards the back. They then run a little towards the back of the house. Diane D turns back to the camera and says, "I'm sorry again Stacy." Diane D turns to Michael and says, "Start the music again guys?" Michael and the Diaz-Davidson Band members play the instruments again as Diane D turns to the Dianettes and says, "Ready girls?" Nancy, Charlotte and Bernice secretly speak with each other again. Diane D sees them not paying attention and shouts, "Excuse me!" Nancy, Charlotte and Bernice turn to look at Diane D as Diane D says, "If you three in the back aren't ready yet, I'm not gonna have you three sing in the video!"

"We were ready Diane," Bernice says.

"No y'all weren't!" Diane D says.

"Yes we were Diane," Charlotte says. "Honest we were ready." Charlotte, Nancy and Bernice look at Diane D as the music stops again. The three little boys suddenly run from the back of the house and run straight into the kitchen as Diane D turns her head towards them. Suddenly, there is a loud crash coming from the kitchen, then two loud thumps.

"What the hell was that?" Mickey's voice says. Diane D, The Dianettes, Michael and everyone else in the living room jump up and rush towards the kitchen! Lite music comes back on the radio.

Diane D, the Dianettes, Michael, members from Diaz-Davidson Band and the camera enter the kitchen. They all become shocked and start to scream as they see Dana covered from head to toe in paint as she lays across the kitchen floor hurt with the ladder on the floor beside her and one of the boys laying across the kitchen floor. They all become hysterical and come to Dana's aid! They bend down to Dana and surround and hold her as she moans and groans in pain. "Dana," everyone says. "Dana! Dana!"

"My God," Nicolas says. "She has paint all over herself."

Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura and several more relatives rush into the kitchen! They start to scream! They rush to Dana's aid also! They bend to Dana and surround and hold on to her and call out, "Dana! Dana!" The little boy gets up off the floor. Diane D and Michael angrily get up from the floor and go after the little boy. Diane D and Michael grab the little boy as Diane D shouts to him, "Didn't we tell you guys to stop running around the house?! Didn't we tell you that?!"

"This is exactly why we told you guys to stop running!" Michael shouts. "This is exactly why!"

"They were still running around the house?!" Aunt Celest asks.

"Yeah," Michael says.

Diane D and Michael go back to Dana and bend down to her. They hold onto Dana as Dana continues to moan and groan. The three boys become hysterical as they see Dana laying across the kitchen floor hurt. They start to cry. Lonna tries to calm Diane D as Diane D talks to Dana and says, "Dana it's gonna be alright! Just hold on!"

"She's hurt real bad!" Michael says. "We gotta call the ambulance!"

"She can't go in the ambulance with paint all over herself!" Aunt Celeste says. "It's gonna dry up on her! What are we gonna do?"

"We gotta clean the paint off her!" Diane D shouts, "and we got to do it fast!" Diane D turns to her aunts and shouts, "Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean and Aunt Laura, I need you all to help me clean this paint off her!"

"You're gonna clean the paint off her now Diane?" Michael says.

"Yeah," Diane D says. "We gotta clean the paint off her before it dries up!"

"How are y'all going to do that Diane?" Nicolas asks.

"We gonna remove all the clothes off her, put them on the side, then clean her entire body up with soap and water, then put clean clothes on her! We got to do it real quick!" Diane D turns to the Dianettes and says, "Girls we got to get several bed pans and fill them all up with soap and water! We're gonna get the shampoo, soap, the water pans and her clothes from upstairs and bring them down! Come with me girls! The rest of you all stay with Dana!"

"I'll help with the water too!" Michael says.

"Me too," Nicolas says.

Diane D rushes out of the kitchen as all the Dianettes, Michael and Nicolas hurry behind her! Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, the other relatives and members from The Diaz-Davidson Band continue to surround and hold on to Dana as Dana has her head back continuing to moan and groan.

A couple minutes later, Diane D rushes back into the kitchen carrying a plastic pan of water, several wash cloths and several large towels. Michael and Nicolas rush back into the kitchen with large plastic pans of water, several wash cloths, several large towels, soap and a large blanket. They place the pans of water and soap on the floor beside Dana. They place the blanket on the floor. They place the wash cloths and the towels on the blanket. The Dianettes rush back into the kitchen carrying extra clothes, shampoo and soap. They place the extra clothes, shampoo and soap on the blanket beside Dana. They bend on the floor and unfold a few patterned dark blue corsets with strings on the shoulders. They unfold a few short shirts. They unfold some pants. Nancy turns to the other Dianettes and says, "Hey. We forgot to get the other corset. Come on." The Dianettes get back up off the floor. They turn and hurry back out the kitchen.

Aunt Laura looks at the Dianettes as they leave the kitchen. She then turns and looks at the corsets. She then says, "Those are beautiful corsets Diane. I didn't know Dana have corsets. I didn't even know she owns or wears them."

"She doesn't," Diane D says. "Those are my corsets."

"Your corsets? I thought they looked something like your corsets Diane. Why did the girls bring your corsets down here?"

"When they were upstairs before looking for something for Dana to wear, they came across my corsets and decided to pick out my corsets for her. They asked me can they put one of my corsets on her and dress her up in it after we clean the paint off her. I told them to go ahead, it's no problem. You know the girls are into fashion Aunt Laura, they're crazy about corsets. They want to put the corsets on Dana and dress her up in them."

"I see."

The Dianettes rush back into the kitchen carrying extra clothes and extra corsets. They put one of the short shirts, a dark blue shirt, on the side. They put a dark blue corset on top of it. They then put one of the pants, a matching dark blue leggings, next to the dark blue shirt. They then put the corsets right next to the dark blue shirt and dark blue pants. They then unfold some dark blue socks. Diane D then shouts, "Okay Aunt Celeste, Aunt Laura and Aunt Jean, we gotta get ready to undress her real quick! Surround her!" Aunt Celeste, Aunt Laura and Aunt Jean get up and surround Dana. They bend back down to Dana and hold each of her limbs far apart as they prepare to pull up her shirt. Lonna and Bernice hold each of Dana's legs and feet. Diane D turns to everyone else and shouts, "Now what I need now, is for everyone else to clear out the kitchen!"

"Clear the kitchen?" Melvin says. "Why? Dana is hurt! Can't we all stay in here with her?"

"No Melvin everybody cannot stay in here with Dana, we're getting ready to undress her! We're gonna remove all her clothes so we can clean her up! So I need everybody out the kitchen!"

"I want to stay with Dana," Stevie says.

"You don't need to stay with Dana Stevie! You're the cause of her getting hurt and now you want to stay with her?! The only thing you can do for Dana right now is to leave the kitchen!" Diane D shouts to the crowd, "Come on everybody, you all gotta hurry and clear the kitchen so we can clean the paint off Dana before the ambulance gets here! Everybody leave the kitchen, now!"

"We want to stay with Dana," Stevie says.

Diane D angrily grabs and jerks Stevie by the arm and shouts, "Listen man! Don't give me a hard time alright?" She then shoves Stevie right out the kitchen towards the living room and shouts, "Just go!" Aunt Celeste, Aunt Laura and Aunt Jean continue to hold on to Dana and look on as Diane D pushes Stevie, the other little boys and the relatives into the living room. Diane D turns to the other people and shout, "Okay I need everybody on this side out the back door!"

"Does the camera have to leave the room too?" Melvin asks.

"Oh yes definitely, especially the camera! Everybody out!" The camera, Michael, Nicolas and the rest of the crowd go out the back door of the kitchen as Diane D pushes them all out.

The video camera, Michael, Nicolas and the crowd are outside the house in the back yard. Diane D comes in the back doorway and says, "Michael, we should have Dana cleaned up and changed by the time the ambulance gets here."

"Alright Diane," Michael says.

Diane D turns to her aunts and shouts, "Okay Aunt Celeste, you all start undressing her!" Diane D shuts the back door and locks it.

Fifteen minutes later, everybody is standing in front of the house on the sidewalk waiting for the ambulance. "Where is the ambulance?" Melvin asks. "They should've been here by now. Are you sure you called for the ambulance Michael?"

“Yeah I called the ambulance Melvin,” Michael says. “The operator said the ambulance will be on its way.”

“Then what's taking it so long?” Nicolas asks.

“I don't know.”

“Let me call them.” Nicolas takes Michael's cell phone and dials a number. He speaks into the cell phone and walks away as everyone looks on tense.

A few minutes later, Nicolas hysterically comes back to Michael and says, “Michael, did you give the operator the correct address here?”

“Sure I did,” Michael says. “I think I did.”

“What address or street did you tell them?”

“I'm not sure what address or street I told them. I was too nervous to realize what I was saying to them.”

“They said you told them two thirtieth street?”

“I did?”

“Yes! This is not two thirtieth street, this is two thirty-three! You sent the ambulance three blocks away from here!”

“Oh no! I'm sorry! I told you I was too nervous to realize what I was saying to them!”

“It's okay. I told them the correct address and street number.”

“Well if the ambulance is on two thirtieth, I better go catch it!”

“You're gonna go three blocks?” Melvin asks.

“Yeah.”

“How are you going to get there?”

“I'm gonna run.”

“Run?!”

“Yeah.”

“I'll run with you Michael,” Nicolas says.

“Okay. But before we run there I better tell Diane about the mix up.”

“I'll come with you,” Melvin says. Michael, Melvin, the camera and everyone else go to the back of the house as Nicolas stays in the front.

Everyone walks towards the back steps. They see a water hose going into a small opening in the kitchen window. “What are they doing,” Michael asks, “hosing her down?”

“I think so,” Melvin says.

Michael approaches the steps to the back door. He goes up the steps, knocks on the back door and shouts, “Diane! Diane!”

The sound of footsteps hurry to the other side of the door. “Yeah?!” Diane D's voice shouts.

“Diane when I called for the ambulance, I accidentally gave the operator the wrong address!”

“You gave the operator the wrong address?!”

“Yeah!”

“What address did you give them Michael?!”

“I told the operator two thirtieth street instead of two thirty-three! I accidentally sent the ambulance three blocks away!”

“Yeah! Nicolas and I are about to run and catch the ambulance!”

“You two are gonna run three blocks away?!”

“Yeah! We would take the car, but the street is all blocked with construction work!”

“Where's Nicolas at now?!”

“He's in the front waiting for me!”

“Wait a minute, hold on! I'm coming out there! Is the camera there at the door?!”

“Yeah the camera's at the door!”

“Well turn it away from the door, because I'm about to open the door and Dana is not dressed yet!”

“Okay!” Michael turns to Mickey and says, “Turn the camera away from the door Mickey.” The camera turns away from the door. The sound of the back door unlocks. It then opens, then shuts. The camera turns back towards the door. Diane D is standing outside the back door with a towel covered in paint in her wet hands as Michael asks, “What's up with the water hose Diane?”

“Aunt Celeste and Aunt Jean are hosing Dana down now,” Diane D says.

“Oh yeah? How's she doing?”

“Not good.”

“Did y'all get the paint off her?”

“We got most of it off.” Diane D comes down the steps as Michael comes down the steps behind her and says, “There's still some on her skin and her hair.”

“What else is the matter with her?” Melvin asks.

“She has a bump on top of her head.”

“She has a bump on her head?”

“Yeah and it's bleeding.”

“Bleeding? Oh no, let us get in there to her!” Melvin and everyone else try to go up the steps.

Diane D holds her hands up to them and stops them, then shouts, “No y'all can't go in there yet, Dana's not dressed! We're right in the middle of rinsing all the soap off her skin and her hair! Michael if you're going to catch the ambulance, I'm gonna go with you! I want to make sure that ambulance get right over here! Especially get them here through this messed up street! Let me tell Aunt Celeste and them I'll be back.” Diane D turns and goes back up the steps as Michael goes up the steps behind her. She knocks on the back door and shouts, “Aunt Celeste! Aunt Celeste! Come to the door!”

The sound of footsteps hurry to the other side of the back door. “What's up Diane?” Aunt Celeste's voice says.

“Listen Aunt Celeste, I'm gonna go run and catch the ambulance with Michael! I'll be right back! Continue to take care of Dana! Finish rinsing her off then dry her up then put the clean clothes on her!”

“Gotcha Diane!”

“And don't let anybody else back in the kitchen until she is decent enough, alright?”

“Alright Diane!”

“Lock the door! I'll be back!”

“Okay!” The sound of the back door locks.

Diane D turns around and says, "Come on Michael, let's go catch that ambulance!" Diane D wipes her hand then throws the towel to the side as she and Michael run down the steps and run from the back door. They turn and run towards the side of the house as the camera and everyone else follows them.

Diane D, Michael and a few members from The Diaz-Davidson Band run towards the front of the house.

Diane D, Michael and a few members from The Diaz-Davidson Band reach the front of the house and run to Nicolas as Diane D shouts, "Ready Nicolas? Let's go." Diane D, Michael and Nicholas turn and run down the street. Everyone else stands in front of the house looking on nervous and tense.

Several minutes later, the video camera goes to the back of the house again. The camera goes up the steps to the back door. Mickey knocks on the back door and shouts, "Aunt Celeste! Aunt Celeste! Aunt Celeste!"

The sound of footsteps hurry to the other side of the door. "Yeah?" Aunt Celeste's voice shouts.

"Do y'all have Dana dressed yet? I want to come in there now!"

"No we didn't get her dressed yet Mickey! We just finished drying her up! We're getting ready to put her underwear on her!"

"Her underwear?"

"Yeah!"

"Okay, I'll wait a few minutes!"

"Okay!"

The camera turns away from the back door.

Ten minutes later, the video camera turns back towards the back door. Mickey knocks on the back door again and shouts, "Aunt Celeste! Aunt Celeste!"

The sound of footsteps hurry to the other side of the door again. "Yeah?" Aunt Celeste's voice shouts.

"Is Dana decent yet?"

"No not yet Mickey! The girls have to put her pants on her and the corset top on her!"

"Oh, alright! I'll wait another few minutes!"

"Okay!"

The camera turns away from the back door.

Ten minutes later, the video camera turns back towards the back door. Mickey knocks on the back door again and shouts, "Aunt Celeste! Aunt Celeste!"

The sound of footsteps come to the other side of the door again. "Yeah Mickey," Aunt Celeste's voice says.

"Is Dana decent yet? Did y'all finish getting her dress?"

"Practically! We're just trying to dry off her back and neck!"

"She still has water on her?!"

"Yeah a little bit!"

"So her back is not covered yet?!"

“No not yet!”

“Is the rest of her covered up?”

“Yeah!”

“So is she decent enough for me to bring the camera back in there?”

“No, wait till the girls finish putting the corset top and shirt on her! Once the girls finish putting the corset top and shirt on her, you can bring the camera in!”

“Okay.” The camera turns away from the back door.

Five minutes later, the video camera turns back towards the back door. Mickey knocks on the back door again and shouts, “Aunt Celeste! Aunt Celeste!”

The sound of footsteps come to the other side of the door again. “Yeah?” Aunt Celeste’s voice shouts.

“Is Dana decent yet?”

“Yeah, she’s decent now! The girls already put the corset top on her, they’re now just putting the shirt on her!”

“Alright! Let me in!”

“Okay! Hold on!”

The camera turns away from the door. The sound of the back door unlocks, then opens. The camera turns back towards the back door. The back door is opened.

The video camera enters back into the kitchen as Aunt Celeste goes to the living room. The three little boys and other family members from the living room re-enter the kitchen. Everybody sees shampoo, hair sprays, lotion, powder, perfumes and mineral ice sitting all on the kitchen floor around the Dianettes. They see two water hoses, one coming from out the kitchen window and the other one connected to the sink faucet laying on the floor near the Dianettes. Everybody sees Dana’s paint soaked former clothes laying on the side on a stack of newspapers. They see all the Dianettes down on their knees on the floor entirely surrounding Dana’s head and upper body and Aunt Laura and Aunt Jean around Dana’s waist and hips as Dana lays face down on the floor on a large body pillow dressed in dark blue leggings and dark blue socks with her legs and feet spread apart. They see Miranda and Bernice on Dana’s right and Charlotte and Lonna on Dana’s left with Miranda and Charlotte holding Dana’s arms and hands high up over behind her lower back almost bringing her hands together as they, Bernice and Lonna pull the short dark blue shirt all the way up on Dana’s arms all the way up to her back, shoulders and neck putting the short dark blue shirt right on her from the back as Kelly and Nancy comb Dana’s long wet hair. “Dana,” a few voices say. Miranda, Charlotte, Bernice and Lonna then spread Dana’s arms apart as they continue to put the short dark blue shirt all the way on her from the back. “Is she okay?” Mickey’s voice asks. “Is she conscious?”

“Okay everybody!” Uncle Willie shouts. “Stand back and give them some room!” Everybody stands back and look on.

“Dana,” the three little boys start to cry out.

“When’s the ambulance gonna get here?” Aunt Celeste asks.

“We don’t know Aunt Celeste,” Mickey’s voice says. “Diane, Michael and Nicolas ran to get it. They had to run three blocks away to get it because the ambulance was sent to the wrong street.”

“Yeah we heard.”

Uncle Willie gets on the floor and help Aunt Celeste, Aunt Laura, Aunt Jean and the Dianettes tend to Dana as Dana lays quietly and motionless face down on the body pillows. Kelly then braids Dana's long hair trying to make it into one long thick braid as Nancy helps hold Dana's hair. “Dana,” the three little boys start to cry out again. The three little boys and some of the crowd start to approach Dana.

Uncle Willie shoves the three little boys back and shouts, “Some of y'all have to get back! They need room! Give them some space, especially you three! Give them some space!” The three little boys and some of the people step back. Other relatives approach Dana. They sit on the floor surrounding Dana's legs and hips as Aunt Celeste, Aunt Laura, Aunt Jean and the Dianettes continue to help Dana. “Okay let's turn her over,” Aunt Laura says.

“Okay,” Aunt Jean says. Aunt Jean turns to Dana and says, “We're gonna turn you over Dana.”

“My hand is stuck beneath her,” Lonna says as her right hand holds onto Dana's lower back and her right hand is stuck beneath Dana's belly.

“My hand is stuck beneath her too,” Charlotte says as her right hand holds onto Dana's upper back and her right hand is stuck beneath Dana's chest. “Wow, I can feel her heart beating.”

“You can?” Aunt Celeste asks. “That's a good sign then. That means she's still alive. We'll help lift her off your hands. Come on everybody let's lift!” Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, the Dianettes and everyone near Dana's legs lift the left side of Dana's body turning her body sideways again. Charlotte and Lonna pull their hands out from beneath Dana's body. Everyone else then turn Dana over face up towards the ceiling as the strings and straps of the corset hang from off her shoulders. Dana's body practically comes off the side of the body pillow as everyone holds her.

“We gotta lift her entire body up,” Uncle Willie says. “One two three lift!” Uncle Willie and everyone else lifts Dana's entire body up a little.

“Ah she's a heavy one,” Aunt Laura says. They bring Dana's body back over the body pillow then gently bring her body back down, having her lay face up on the body pillow with her head back a little, her arms down on the side against the floor and the short dark blue over shirt wide open baring her muscular shoulders, her muscular chest, her muscular cleavage, the short dark blue corset, her abdominal area and her entire 6-pack abs. Everyone near Dana's face strangely look at Dana's eyes as she lays with and her eyes slightly open, eyeballs hidden beneath her eyelids and face a little sweaty.

“Is she okay?” Uncle Willie asks.

“I think so,” Aunt Celeste says. Everyone standing stares at Dana's eyes. Kelly then takes a damp hand towel and gently wipes Dana's eyes with it closing Dana's eyelids. She then wipes Dana's sweaty face as Nancy takes another damp hand towel and wipe off Dana's neck and upper chest area with it. Charlotte, Lonna, Bernice and Miranda take another damp hand towel and wipe Dana's sides and abdominal area with them.

Kelly and Nancy finish wiping Dana's face, eyes and chest area. Kelly then pulls the strings and straps from the top of Dana's corset on Dana's left side. She tries to tie the strings over Dana's left shoulder as Nancy pulls the strings and straps from the top of Dana's corset on Dana's right side and tries to tie the strings over Dana's right shoulder. "I don't know whether these shoulder strings and straps should be loose or tight right now," Kelly says.

"I don't know either," Nancy says.

"I'll come over there and help decide that," Bernice says. Bernice gets up off the floor. She goes around Miranda and Kelly and goes around Dana's head to the top of Dana's right shoulder where Nancy is. She gets down on the floor near Dana's head and right shoulder. She then says, "We're not gonna make the strings too loose or too tight right now. We're gonna have it just right for now." Bernice takes the strings on the front right side of Dana's corset and the strings from the back right side and says, "You go like this." She starts to tie the strings together in a knot right on top of Dana's right shoulder. She then ties the strings into a bow. She then pulls the strap on the front right side of Dana's corset and the strap from the back right side. She starts to fasten the corset straps together.

"Those strings and straps seem kind of complicated," Aunt Celeste says. "Why didn't you all just put a simple tank top on her? Dana has plenty of tank tops."

"But we like these corsets Aunt Celeste," Kelly says.

"Yeah look at them," Miranda says as she holds up the other three corsets. "Aren't they pretty?"

Nancy takes one of the three corsets and holds up a pretty short, bright red rose print corset that has red straps and strings over the shoulder parts also. She then turns the corset around. She shows the strings and fasteners on the back of it and says, "This corset is so pretty just like this one."

"They are very pretty," Aunt Celeste says. "There're so much strings and straps on the shoulder parts and in the back parts. I just hope Dana doesn't have a hard time with those strings and straps when it's time for her to take this corset off."

"We got it covered Aunt Celeste," Bernice says as she adjusts the corset straps around Dana's right shoulder. "When it's time for this corset to come off her, we're gonna unloosen the strings and straps ourselves then remove this corset off her ourselves. After that, we're gonna put one of the other corsets on her and tie the strings and straps again, simple as that."

"How about just putting a simple tank top on her Bernice. That's what she usually wears."

"We got corset bras for her to wear beneath her tank tops Aunt Celeste."

"Corset bras for her to wear beneath her tank tops?"

"Yeah Aunt Celeste," Lonna says. "We have corset bras that are suppose to be worn underneath clothing as under garments and we have corsets that can be worn outdoors."

"Oh yeah?" Aunt Celeste says.

"Yeah."

"Let me see."

Lonna turns to the side. She grabs 2 shiny white bra corsets that have strings and straps around the shoulder parts. She holds up the 2 white bra corsets. She turns the corset bras around. There are strings, snaps and fasteners in the back of the corset bras as Lonna says, "These white bra corsets are to be worn underneath her tank tops and the other corsets can be worn outside on the street."

"Those bra corsets have strings on them too?"

"Yeah."

"Why?"

"Because we like these corsets Aunt Celeste."

"Yeah, we want to put it on her," Bernice says as she finishes adjusting and tightening the corset straps making the straps fit just right around Dana's right shoulder.

"Don't worry Aunt Celeste," Miranda says. "We're good with the strings and straps. We'll take care of them."

"Okay then," Aunt Celeste says.

Bernice then goes around Dana's head to Dana's left shoulder where Kelly is. She takes the strings on the front left side of Dana's corset and the strings from the back left side. She starts to tie the strings together in a knot right on top of Dana's left shoulder. She then ties the strings into a bow. She then pulls the strap on the front left side of Dana's corset and the strap from the back left side. She starts to fasten the straps together. She looks at Dana's neck and says, "I thought y'all cleaned her neck up."

"We did clean her neck up," Charlotte says.

"Then what's that on it?"

The Dianettes, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura look at Dana's neck. Miranda gently touches and pulls the skin on Dana's neck and inspects it. She looks at her fingers and rubs her fingers off. She touches and pulls the skin on Dana's neck again and says, "I don't know. It looks like a bruise."

Nancy touches and pulls the skin on Dana's neck and inspect it too. "No I don't think that's a bruise," she says. "I think that's dirt."

"Dirt?" Lonna says. "How would dirt get on her neck?"

"From when she fell. Let me wipe it off and see if it comes off." Nancy takes the damp towel and wipes Dana's neck. The spot doesn't come off. "It is a bruise," she says.

Everyone sadly looks at Dana's neck. Aunt Celeste gets up off the floor. She comes near Dana's head. She gets on the floor near Dana's head and takes a small damp cloth. She presses it on Dana's neck.

"Did y'all get the paint off her ears?" Uncle Willie asks.

"Yeah we got it all off," Aunt Laura says.

Bernice finishes adjusting and tightening the corset straps making the straps fit just right around Dana's left shoulder. Lonna, Charlotte, Miranda and Aunt Jean start to pull the bottom of Dana's corset down on her as her six-pack abs and belly button continue to show, but the corset doesn't come down any. "I think we have to pull it down from the back first," Aunt Jean says. "Okay let's lift her up." Aunt Jean and everyone else near Dana's torso and hips reach their hands beneath Dana's body. They lift the middle of her body up. They reach their other hands way beneath Dana's back and bring her corset down in the back. They gently bring Dana's body back down. They gently pull Dana's corset down as much as they can in the front and sides. "Now let's close her shirt," Aunt Jean says. Aunt Jean, Lonna, Miranda and Charlotte close Dana's dark blue over shirt, covering her cleavage, chest and abdominal area. They all then take Dana's arms and hands from the sides and place her hands right over her lower chest beneath her breasts and fold them. Nancy takes a small damp towel and presses it right on the top of Dana's head. Dana hisses and moves her legs and body a little, wearing a frown on her face with her eyes closed as everybody tries to hold her still.

"Is she okay Nancy?" Aunt Jean asks.

"Oh I don't know," Nancy says. "I was just trying to hold the towel on her bump."

"She has a bump on her head?" Uncle Willie asks.

"Yeah," Aunt Celeste and the Dianettes say.

Uncle Willie and some relatives come near Dana's head as Nancy gently places the towel down on the side. Uncle Willie and the relatives bend down to Dana's head and look at the top of her head. "Where's the bump at Nancy," Uncle Willie asks.

"It's right here," Nancy says as she puts her fingers on the top of Dana's head then moves some hair on the top of Dana's head apart.

Uncle Willie puts his fingers on the top of Dana's head and puts his fingers through her hair. He feels for the bump and says, "Yeah I can feel the bump," he says.

"Let me feel it," Mickey's voice says as he points the video camera towards the top of Dana's head. He puts his fingers on the top of Dana's head and puts his fingers through her hair too. He feels for the bump and says, "I can feel the bump too."

Suddenly the far away sound of the ambulance siren is being heard approaching. "The ambulance is coming!" one of the three little boys says.

"Good," everyone says. Everyone hears the siren getting closer and closer. They then hear the siren stop.

The camera goes to the back door. The back door opens and the camera goes to the back yard.

The video camera goes to the side of the house and waits for a couple minutes. Diane D, Michael, Nicolas and a team of three male paramedics suddenly appear and rush towards the back yard with a stretcher. Nicolas turns to the paramedics and says, "She's right in here guys!"

Diane D turns to Mickey and says, "How's Dana doing Mickey?!"

"She's still the same Diane," Mickey's voice says. The camera turns and goes back to the back door. The camera reaches the back door and goes back into the kitchen.

The Dianettes, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura and everyone else continue to surround Dana on the floor as they look down at her face while her eyes remain closed and face still a little sweaty. Lonna sprays Dana's neck with some perfume as Kelly wipes the sweat off Dana's face. Diane D, Michael, Nicolas and the paramedics rush in the back door with the stretcher. They rush to Dana as Diane D points to Dana and shouts, "She's right here guys!" Diane D, Michael and Nicolas hurry to Dana as the paramedics hurry behind them with a stretcher. Diane D, Michael and Nicolas bend on the floor to Dana as Diane D says, "Dana the paramedics are here for you, okay? Just hang on."

"Okay we got her," one of the paramedics says. The paramedics bend down on the floor and tend to Dana. They and everyone else lower the stretcher to the floor.

They gently grab Dana and lift her up. They gently place her on the stretcher. The paramedics put a sheet over Dana, tuck her in then roll the stretcher towards the doorway as Diane D and everyone else follows them.

It is an hour later. Diane D's relatives and members of the Diaz-Davidson band are inside the hospital lobby surrounding the Dianettes as the Dianettes sit on the chairs.

Diane D nervously paces back and forth several yards away. Michael and Nicolas approach Diane D. Diane D stops pacing and looks at Michael and Nicolas as Nicolas tells her, "Diane I called Mom, Dad, Grandma, Grandpa, Aunt Christine, Uncle David and everybody else a little while ago. They all got hysterical when I told them what happened to Dana. They're all on their way up here. I also called Tony. He's on his way up here too."

"Okay good," Diane D says. "Did y'all file the accident report with the police yet?"

"Yeah they took the report already. They gave us a copy." Nicolas shows Diane D a paper.

"Good."

"Try to relax Diane," Michael says.

"Michael how can I? I'm worried about Dana."

"I know. You want me to get you some coffee?"

"That's not a bad idea."

"Okay."

"Nicolas do me a favor? Call up Quench Soda and tell them that we can't make it to the photo shoot today? I would call them myself, but I'm too emotional and upset right now."

"No problem Diane," Nicolas says. "I'll call them right away." Nicolas goes to the side.

Michael turns to the crowd and shouts, "Anybody want some coffee while we wait because I'm heading to the coffee shop! Girls y'all want some coffee?!"

"Yeah we want some coffee," Bernice says.

"We'll come with you Michael," Lonna says.

"Okay!" Michael says. Michael and Diane D turn and go towards the exit as Bernice, Kelly and Lonna get up from their seats. Bernice, Kelly and Lonna follow Michael and Diane D as some of Diane D's relatives and some members of the Diaz-Davidson band follow Bernice, Kelly and Lonna.

Bernice, Kelly, Lonna, Diane D's relatives and the members of the Diaz-Davidson Band go through the vestibule and go out the front exit glass door as Diane D and Michael come through the vestibule with their arms wrapped around each other. Diane D turns to Michael and says, "Y'all go ahead Michael. I want to wait around to hear about Dana."

"Okay Diane," Michael says. "We'll be back."

"Okay."

Michael pats Diane D on the shoulder then goes out the front exit. Diane D stays inside the vestibule and worriedly watches them all. She then backs a little and starts to pace back and forth again being worried and nervous as she holds the back of her neck.

"Try to relax Diane," Mickey's voice says.

Diane D stops pacing. She looks behind the video camera at Mickey and says, "How can I Mickey?! Not knowing what's going on with Dana. I wish they hurry and tell us something."

"They will."

"Diane D!" teenage girls' voices suddenly shout. "Oh my God! It's Diane D!"

"Who's that?"

Diane D quickly looks behind the video camera at Mickey then turns and looks towards the front exit. The video camera turns towards the front exit. Three black pre-teen girls from outside excitedly run to the exit door. They open the exit door and excitedly come into the vestibule. They approach Diane D and shout, "Diane D! Oh my God it's you!" The girls look behind the camera at Mickey and say, "And your brother!" The girls look back at Diane D and say, "Hi Diane D!"

"We thought that looked like the Dianettes walking out there with your husband and some other people!" the first girl says. "How are you all doing Diane D?!"

"We're okay so far," Diane D says.

"Wow that's good!"

"Wow," the second girl says. "Those are nice Quench Soda outfits you and the Dianettes have on!"

"Thanks," Diane D says.

"So what are you all doing here Diane D?!" the third girl asks. "What are you doing here in the hospital?!"

"Well my cousin had an accident at home and she's here in the hospital."

"Your cousin had an accident at home?"

"Yeah."

"Which cousin?"

"Dana."

"Dana?!" the first girl says. "You mean the one who was arrested with you before? And the one who was suspected of shooting ....."

"Yep! That's the one."

"Oh. Well what happened to her?"

"She fell off a ladder in my grandparents' kitchen."

"She fell off a ladder in your grandparents' kitchen?"

"Yeah."

"How that happened?"

"My little cousins were running around the house, ran into the kitchen and ran right into the ladder while Dana was on top of it painting the ceiling. The ladder slipped right from beneath Dana and fell to the floor so Dana fell and crashed right to the floor and got hurt real bad. That's why she's in here."

"God. I hope she'll be okay."

"Yeah we all hope so t..." Diane puzzled looks down at the girls' hands and asks, "What are those in your hands?"

The first girl and the other two girls hold their hands up, each holding a cigarette between their fingers as the first girl says, "These are cigarettes."

"Cigarettes?! You're smoking?!"

"Well, yeah."

"My God, how old are you?!"

"Twelve," the first girl says.

"Eleven," the third girl says.

"Twelve," the second girl says.

"Twelve year olds and an eleven year old!" Diane D shouts, "and you're smoking?! You're too young to be smoking, what's wrong with you?! Don't you know cigarettes are bad for your health?!"

"Calm down Diane," Mickey's voice says.

The girls nervously look at Diane D as Diane D shouts to them, "You girls shouldn't be smoking cigarettes at all! Y'all should be ashamed of yourselves, smoking cigarettes at your age! Do your parents know you do this?"

"Well....," the girls nervously say.

"I didn't think so. Listen, I want you girls to do me a big, big a favor, alright? I want you three to take your cigarettes and throw them right there in the trash can," Diane D says as she angrily points to a trash can on the side of the vestibule. The girls nervously look at the trash can. They nervously look back at Diane D. "Well what are y'all waiting for?" Diane D shouts. "Throw the cigarettes in the trash can!" The girls nervously look at the trash can again. They nervously look back at Diane D. "Well," Diane D says. "I see y'all don't want to throw your cigarettes away. Fine, I'll take the cigarettes! Hand me your cigarettes please!" Diane D says as she holds her hand out to the cigarettes. "Come on hand it over!" The girls nervously hand Diane D their cigarettes. Diane D takes the cigarettes out of the teenage girls' hands. "There," she says. She angrily waves her index finger at the girls and says, "Now I don't ever want you three to smoke anymore cigarettes, especially at your age, do you hear me?" The girls sadly look at Diane D. "I said do y'all hear me."

"Yes," the girls nervously say.

"Good." Diane D holds the three cigarettes up and looks at them. She starts to admire the cigarettes. She looks towards the front door and sees Boris approaching it. She then calls out to him and shouts, "Hey Boris!" Diane D walks away from the teenage girls with their cigarettes in her hand. She walks towards the exit door as the teenage girls puzzled look at her.

"Diane, what are doing?" Mickey's voice asks.

"I'll be back Mickey," Diane D says.

Diane D opens the front exit door and stands in the doorway as Boris approaches her. "Hey Boris," she says.

"What's up Diane?" Boris says.

"I have a few cigarettes. You got a light?"

"Do I have a light?"

"Yeah."

"Where did you get cigarettes from Diane?"

"Don't worry about where I got the cigarettes from. Do you have a light?"

"Yeah I got a light."

"Good. You wanna go for a smoke?"

"Go for a smoke? I guess we can go for a smoke."

"Cool, let's go." Diane D pushes the exit door more open and goes out the front door.

"Where are you going Diane?!" Mickey's voice shouts. Diane D and Boris turn and walk away from the exit door and disappear outside as Mickey shouts, "Diane! Diane!" The exit door closes.

The pre-teen girls puzzled look towards the exit doors. Then they turn to each other as the first girl shockingly says, "She took our cigarettes." The girls puzzled look at one another then turn towards the camera and puzzled look at Mickey.

The next afternoon in the video, the video scene shows Diane D, dressed in a shiny long sleeved cream colored blouse with a shiny cream colored corset underneath and shiny cream colored pants with her hair back in one long wavy thick ponytail with a shiny cream colored bow behind the back of her head at the top of her pony tail, and Michael walking through the hospital corridor towards a hospital room. Dana's sisters, Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda, their cousin Judy and several Jamaican relatives are at the doorway. "Hey everybody," Diane D says.

"What's up everybody?" Michael says.

"Hey Diane," Landa says.

"Hey Michael," Linda says.

Diane D and Michael give Dana's sisters and relatives a hug. Dana's sisters and relatives then hug Mickey. "Yuh still got dat camera Mickey?" Londa asks.

"Yep," Mickey's voice says. "I still got it."

"So what's up?" Diane D says. "What's going on in there?"

"Well everybody is in there surrounding Dana," Missy says.

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah. How're you guys doing?"

"Okay."

"Wow Diane," Linda says. "You look so pretty."

"Thanks baby. How's Dana?"

"Oh she's sleeping right now," Judy says.

"Yeah," Landa says. "She's been asleep ever since we got here."

"Oh yeah?" Diane D asks.

"Yeah. Mom, Dad, Grandmas and Grandpas are all in there."

"You mean the family and relatives from Jamaica came up?" Michael asks.

"Yeah."

"Tony's in there too," Judy says.

"He is?" Michael asks.

"Yeah."

"It's not too much room in there," Linda says. "Thas why we're out here."

"Well let me squeeze in there and see what's going on," Mickey's voice says. Mickey heads the camera into the hospital room.

The video camera comes into the hospital room. The hospital room is crowded with Dana's family and relatives from Jamaica, West Indies. Tony, Gracy, Grandpa Mike, David, Christine, Christine's parents Winston and Marie, Marie's sister Merlene and around nine or more of Christine's other family and relatives surround Dana's hospital bed near her head talking, smiling and admiring Dana as Dana lays face up in the bed sound asleep with a blanket up to her hips, dressed in a shiny long sleeved dark red rose print blouse with the shiny bright red rose print corset underneath and shiny dark red leggings with her hair back in one long thick braid with a shiny dark red bow near the bottom of her long thick braid as her long thick braid rests on top of the side of her chest. She has one knee up underneath the blanket, her right hand resting on her lower chest and her left arm and hand resting underneath the back of her head. “Did she eat yet?” Gracy asks

“Yeah,” David says. “The nurse said she only ate a little breakfast this morning.”

“She only ate a little breakfast?” Grandpa Mike asks. “How come?”

“I guess she didn’t have much of an appetite, because her head still hurts from the bump on it.”

“Oh I see.”

“Wow,” Merlene says. “She looks so beautiful laying here like dis.”

“She sure does,” Marie says. “And what a lovely outfit she’s wearing too.”

“It sure is,” Christine’s sister Patricia says. “I got to get me one.” Everyone laughs a little as Dana remains asleep with her eyes closed.

“Hey everybody,” Diane D’s voice says. Dana's family, relatives, Tony and the video camera turn and see Diane D, Michael and Judy enter the room.

“Hey Diane, Michael,” Dana’s family and relatives say.

“What's up guys?” Diane D says. Diane D, Michael and Judy go to Dana's bedside and approach Christine and David. Diane D and Michael give Christine and David hugs and kisses. They all then turn and look down at Dana as Diane D asks, “So what's going on right now? How's she doing so far?”

“Well her head is a little warm,” Christine says.

“It is?”

“Yeah.” Christine and Diane D feel Dana's forehead. They then remove their hands from off her forehead.

“They took care of the bump on her head and said they want to keep her in the hospital for a few days for observation,” David says.

“Yeah they told us the same thing yesterday,” Diane D says.

“They said when she comes home, she might have to use a cane to help her walk and get around for a month,” Gracy says.

“Yeah we heard,” Michael says.

“Your Mom, Dad, your Grandma Margarita and your Grandpa Tomas left here twenty minutes ago Diane,” Christine says.

“They did?” Diane D asks.

“Yeah mon. They're suppose to come back later on.”

“Okay.”

“Dana has a nice scent on her Diane,” Marie says.

“She sure does,” Winston says. “Wah soap or ointment is that on her?”

“Ginga Peach soap, bath oil, showa gel and lotion?”

“Yeah.”

“I've seen that somewhere before,” Christine’s brother Alan says. “Who put it on her?”

“Oh the girls and I came here this morning and bathed her with the Ginga Peach soap.”

“You and the girls came here this morning and bathed her?” Merlene asks.

“Yeah.”

“Was she awake at that time?” Marie asks.

“Yeah she was awake. Her eyes were half open because she was still sleepy.”

“She was?”

“Yeah. After the girls and I bathed her, we put the bath oil, shower gel and lotion on her.”

“You did?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow, it’s smells so nice,” Merlene says. “We also love this beautiful red outfit she has on. Whose outfit is this?”

“That’s my outfit Aunt Merlene.”

“Your outfit?”

“Yeah.”

“It’s so pretty,” Marie says. “But why is your outfit on Dana?”

“The girls wanted to put my outfit on Dana, so they did.”

“You mean they put this entire outfit on her?”

“Yup, they sure did.”

“Wow,” Christine says. “What about this pretty red corset she has on underneath her shirt? Where did she get this corset from?”

“That’s one of my corsets Aunt Christine.”

“One of your corsets?”

“Yeah.”

“What’s it doing on Dana?”

“The girls wanted to put it on her.”

“They put the corset on her too?”

“Yeah, they put everything on her.”

“But Dana doesn’t normally wear corsets Diane,” Marie says.

“I know she doesn’t normally wear corsets Grandma Marie, but the girls wanted to put the corset on her anyway. After Dana got hurt yesterday, the girls wanted to try one of my corsets on her after we cleaned the paint off her, so they chose my blue corset and put it right on her. They saw how nice my blue corset looked on Dana, that’s why they wanted to put my red corset on her this morning with my red outfit.”

“So what happened to your blue corset the girls had on her yesterday?” Gracy asks.

“The girls had to take it right back off Dana when it was time for her to get an X-ray.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“So how did you all wound up with this red corset outfit on her?” Christine asks.

“Well after we bathed Dana this morning, the girls had a few corsets with them and started fussing over which corset to put on her.”

“Yeah. I told them that if they don’t stop fussing and hurry up and decide which corset to put on Dana, I was going to decide myself which corset to put on her.”

“Oh yeah? So what did they do?”

“They made a quick unanimous decision and decided to go with this red corset. That’s why you see this red corset on Dana.”

“Wow, it looks very pretty on her.”

“It does. Then the girls wanted to put matching colors on her to match the corset, so they put my red shirt on her.”

“Wow, it looks very pretty on her too.”

“It does. They even putted my red leggings on her.”

“Yeah we see it,” Christine says as she and everyone else look at the top of the shiny dark red leggings around Dana’s waist.

“Wow,” Judy says. “It looks very pretty on her too.”

“It does. And what about this pretty red bow on her braid?”

“The girls put that bow on Dana’s braid after they combed her hair then braided it again,” Diane D says.

“They combed her hair too?” Merlene asks.

“Yeah. They dressed her from head to toe.”

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow,” Christine says. “How did they match this red outfit and red bow on her so perfectly?”

“Because the girls are into fashion Aunt Christine. They want to start and create their own fashion line.”

“Yeah your mom, dad, Margarita and Tomas was telling us. They said the girls already started attending some fashion school in Manhattan.”

“Yeah Aunt Christine, the girls go to fashion school.”

“Wow, that is fantastic Diane!”

“It is!” Winston says. “What kind of clothing designs do the girls want to create?”

“They want to design corset outfits with matching over shirts, skirts and leggings like this red one, and they want to design corset bras and other lingerie,” Diane D says.

“Corset outfits with matching over shirts, skirts, leggings, corset bras and other lingerie?” Patricia asks.

“Yeah. They already designed and created some corset bras and some corset outfits.”

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow, that’s interesting Diane!” Christine says.

“It is!” Marie says. “Well where are their corset bras and corset outfits?”

“You’re looking at one of them,” Diane D says. “I’m wearing this cream colored corset outfit that the girls designed and created themselves.”

“They designed and created that corset outfit you’re wearing?!” Christine asks.

“You’re kidding Diane.”

“No I’m not kidding Aunt Christine. The girls did design and create this corset outfit.”

“Wow, that is so pretty Diane!”

“It is,” Patricia says.

“Well where are the other corset outfits that they designed and created?” David asks.

“They have it at home,” Diane D says.

“They do?” Marie asks.

“Yeah.”

“Did you design or create any corset bras or outfits too Diane?”

“No I can’t design or create clothes.”

“You can’t?”

“No. I’ve tried to, but my design and creation didn’t turn out right. I’m not good at designing or creating clothes at all like the girls are, so what the girls are planning to do, is put their corset design outfits right on me and practice their fashion techniques on me.”

“What?” Christine says. “They’re planning to put their corset design outfits on you and practice their fashion techniques on you?”

“Yeah. Last week, Grandma Margarita came to me and told me to get ready, because she said all the girls came to her, mom, dad, Grandpa Tomas, Uncle Tonio and Aunt Marilyn and told them all, that they’re planning to dress me up in a yellow corset outfit that they’re going to have made for me when I sing in the music video.”

“What,” Christine laughs. “The girls told your family that they’re planning to dress you up in a yellow corset outfit that they’re going to have made for you when you sing in the music video?”

“Yeah. Grandma also said that the girls are planning to put matching yellow bows in my hair when I sing in the music video?”

“They’re planning to put matching yellow bows in your hair too?”

“Yeah.”

“So in other words, the girls are planning to have you model in their clothes while you’re singing in the music video?”

“It certainly seems that way Aunt Christine.”

“Well who else is going to be in the music video with you?”

“No one. I’m going to be singing in the music video by myself.”

“You are?”

“Yeah.”

“And you didn’t know that the girls were planning to dress you up in their clothes and put bows in your hair for the music video?”

“No I had no idea at all, not until Grandma Margarita came to me and told me about it.”

“I see. Well who did your hair and put that pretty matching bow on the back of it?”

“The girls did it this morning before we came here.”

“They did your hair and put that bow on the back of it?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow that outfit and bow looks nice on you Diane. I think that is so nice that the girls want to dress you up in their clothes and put bows in your hair for the music video.

“It is nice,” Merlene laughs. “So like your Grandma Margarita said Diane, ‘get ready for the girls to dress you up in their clothing line and put bows in your hair for the music video.’”

“Yeah Diane,” Marie laughs. “Get ready.”

“Well you guys better get ready too,” Diane D says, “because the girls are planning to come here tomorrow morning and dress Dana up in their clothing line too.”

“What?” Dana’s relatives say.

“Oh yeeeah. They saw how nice and pretty my corset outfits looked on her yesterday and today, so now they’re planning to practice their fashion techniques on her too.”

“You’re kidding Diane,” Christine says.

“No I’m not kidding Aunt Christine. When the girls come here tomorrow morning, they're planning to bring those corset outfits they designed and created back here with them, and put one of the corset bras and shirt and pants outfits right on Dana."

"They are?"

"Yeah."

"Which corset bra Diane?" Gracy asks.

"You know, the white satin one with the strings and straps around the shoulders, and hooks, strings and fasteners on the back?"

"Oh that one?"

"Yeah. After they put that corset bra on Dana, they're going to put a shirt and pants outfit on her over the corset bra."

"They are?"

"Yeah."

"So the girls are planning to practice their fashion techniques on Dana while she's in the hospital?" Merlene asks.

"Yes while she's in the hospital and when she comes out the hospital."

"When she comes out the hospital too?"

"Yeah."

"But why?" Marie says. "Dana doesn't usually wear corsets Diane."

"Well she does now Grandma Marie. She does now."

"So wahs going to happen to the tank tops she usually wears?"

"Oh she's still going to wear those tank tops. That's wear the corset bras come in for Dana to wear beneath her tank tops, that's all. The girls are crazy about corsets. Once they saw how pretty the corsets looked on Dana, believe me, that was it. They made plans to practice their fashion techniques on her right away. They're planning to put corset bras and outfits on both me and her."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah. The girls got lots of plans for their fashion clothing line. Believe me, they got plans."

"Wow."

"So what are they going to do with this red corset and the rest of this outfit?" Merlene asks.

"They're going to take it off Dana when they come here tomorrow morning," Diane D says. "After they take this outfit off her, they're going to help bathe her again then put one of their corset bras and outfits on her. Then we're going to bring the red outfit home. So by the time you all get here tomorrow afternoon, you will see Dana in a completely different corset bra and outfit that the girls designed and created themselves."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Wow I'm so excited! I can't wait to see the other corset outfits that the girls designed and created!"

"Me neither!" Christine says. "Wow Diane. It sounds like the girls are planning to have both you and Dana modeling their corset outfit clothing line."

"It certainly looks that way Aunt Christine," Diane D says.

"Well obviously their fashion techniques seem to work because you and Dana look so nice in these outfits, you two look like princesses."

"Princesses? We do?"

“Yeah mon. I see the girls did a great job on you two.”

“They sure did,” Marie says. “Where are the girls at anyway Diane?”

“They’re in Fashion School Grandma Marie,” Diane D says. “They got classes right now.”

“They do?”

“Yeah. After we left here this morning, the girls had to hurry and get to the Fashion School so they can be there on time.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Oh oohh Diane,” Patricia says. “You know what that means?”

“No Aunt Patricia, I don’t. What does it mean?”

“It means to ‘get ready’ because the girls are gonna come for you and Dana to dress you two up in more of their corset clothing lines and hair bows.”

Everybody smiles and laughs as Diane D points to Patricia and says, “Oh don’t worry Aunt Patricia, because after the girls finish with me and Dana, they might come for you next, then you’ll be wearing corset outfits and hair bows right along with us, bam!” Diane D throws her fist up in the air as they all laugh then look at Patricia. Patricia smiles and nods her head at Diane D. They all then look down and smile at Dana as Dana remains asleep.

The next morning in the video, the camera is inside Gracy and Mike’s house. The Dianettes are in the living room excitedly holding and gathering a bunch of corset bras and corset outfits and mini-skirts of different colors, designs and patterns wrapped in plastic garment bags.

Margarita is sitting down on a chair in the living room as Barry and Tonio stand next to her with a cup of coffee in each of their hands drinking the coffee and talking to her.

Charlotte, Lonna and Miranda turn and walk towards Margarita, Barry and Tonio with several corset outfits and mini-skirts in garment bags.

Charlotte, Lonna and Miranda approach Margarita, Barry and Tonio as Charlotte says, “Grandma, Uncle Tonio, Uncle Barry? The girls and I are having a hard time deciding which corset bra and corset outfit to put on Diane and which corset bra and corset outfit to put on Dana.”

“Yeah Grandma Margarita,” Lonna says as she holds up a white corset bra, a white corset outfit with bright green and blue leaf patterns on it and a light blue corset outfit with white polka dots. “Should we put this corset bra and corset outfit on Diane and should we put this corset bra and corset outfit on Dana?” Lonna says as she holds up 2 white corset bras, a dark brown long sleeved blouse with a bright white tank shirt underneath with a dark brown collar and dark brown paisley print on it, dark brown leggings and a white short sleeved blouse.

“Or should we put the green, blue and white or silver outfit on Diane and the polka dot or brown outfit on Dana?” Miranda says as she holds up a green, blue and white print outfit, a silver tank top, a silver short sleeved blouse, a light blue polka dot corset outfit, a white short sleeved blouse and shiny gray pants.

“Wow those are lovely patterns girls!” Margarita says.

“They are,” Tonio says.

“I think so too,” Barry says.

“Thanks Grandma, Uncle Tonio, Uncle Barry,” Charlotte says.

“Well I think all those outfits will look great on both Diane and Dana,” Margarita says.

“You think so Grandma?”

“I know so. Are all those outfit’s the same size?”

“Yeah,” Lonna says. “Diane and Dana practically have the same measurements. They wear the same size clothes.”

“Yeah I know.”

“Well since Diane and Dana wear the same size clothes, I guess it doesn’t make a difference which outfit to put on who,” Tonio says.

“Yeah that’s true,” Barry says. “Put either outfit on either of them.”

“Okay,” Charlotte says. “You talked us into it.”

“So we’ll go upstairs and put the white corset bra, these silver shirts and these gray pants on Diane,” Miranda says, “then we’ll go to the hospital and put the other white corset bra and these white shirts and brown leggings on Dana. That settles it.”

“Okay,” Margarita says. “What time are you all going to the hospital?”

“As soon as we finish putting this corset bra and outfit on Diane. After that, we’ll go straight to the hospital to put the other corset bra and outfit on Dana, then after that, we’ll go to school.”

“Okay, you all better hurry because it’s getting late.”

“Okay Grandma,” Charlotte says. “What time are you all going to go to the hospital?”

“Oh we’re going to be there this afternoon while you all are still in school.”

“Okay Grandma. We left some lingerie, some shirts, skirts and some pants on your bed for you, my mom and Aunt Mary to wear to the hospital.”

“Okay baby. Thanks. We’ll have it on when we go to the hospital.”

“Okay.”

Miranda turns to Charlotte and Lonna and says, “Come on girls. Let’s hurry and get upstairs so we can put this corset bra and outfit on Diane then get to the hospital to put the other outfit on Dana.”

“Okay,” Charlotte says. Miranda, Charlotte and Lonna turn and excitedly hurry back to Nancy, Bernice and Kelly with the garment bags.

Miranda, Charlotte and Lonna turn and excitedly hurry towards the staircase as they continue to hold the garment bags. Nancy, Bernice and Kelly turn and excitedly follow them as they continue to hold onto their garment bags. They all excitedly head up the stairs.

Margarita, Barry and Tonio stare up the stairs at the Dianettes. Barry then turns to Margarita and Tonio and says, “You know I don’t think the girls just adopted Diane as their personal doll, I think they adopted Dana too.”

“I think so too,” Tonio says. He then looks at Margarita and says, “I think they’re about to adopt all you women Ma.”

“Well that’s what girls do,” Margarita smiles and says. “They like to help and play dress up.” Margarita, Barry and Tonio continue to smile and chit chat with each other.

That same afternoon in the video, the camera is in Dana’s hospital room again. The hospital room is crowded with Dana’s family and relatives again as they surround her hospital bed near her head talking, smiling and admiring her again as she lays sideways in the bed sound asleep with one hand beneath her head, the other hand resting against her side with the blanket up to her hips, dressed in the bright white tank shirt with the dark brown collar with dark brown paisley print on it, the white short sleeved blouse over it bearing her muscular arms and dark brown leggings with her hair back in one long thick braid again with a bright white bow near the bottom of her long thick braid as her long thick braid rests on the side of her. “Well, Diane was absolutely right yesterday when she said that we were gonna see Dana in a completely different outfit today,” Christine says.

“Yeah she sure was right,” David says. “I guess the girls came here this morning, changed her clothes then hurry and left for Fashion School.”

“Most likely,” Merlene says, “because Dana looks so beautiful laying here today just like she did yesterday.”

“She does,” Marie says. “This is a beautiful outfit just like the red one she had on yesterday.”

“It is,” Alan says. “Did she get up at all? Is she able to walk around?”

“Yeah she’s able to walk around Alan,” Gracy says.

“She is?”

“Yeah. As a matter of fact, Dana got up and walked right to the restroom around an hour ago before you all got here.”

“She did?”

“Yeah. Then she came back out the restroom and got right back in the bed. She’s been asleep ever since.”

“Did she eat anything?”

“She still only ate a little breakfast this morning. She still doesn’t have much of an appetite.”

“I see.”

Dana remains asleep with her eyes closed as her family and relatives continue to admire her.

“Good afternoon everybody,” Diane D’s voice says. Dana's family and the camera turn and see Diane D and Michael enter the room with Diane D dressed in the silver tank top, the silver short sleeved blouse bearing her muscular arms, the shiny gray pants and a silver bow behind her head at the top of her long thick braid.

“Wow look at her,” Dana’s family and relatives smile and say.

“You’re looking sharp and pretty today Diane,” Marie says.

“Thanks,” Diane D says. Diane D and Michael go to Dana's bedside and approach Christine and David again. They give Christine and David hugs. They all then turn and look down at Dana as Diane D asks, “So how’s she doing right now?”

“Well she got up and went to the restroom around an hour ago,” Gracy says.

“She did?”

“Yeah.”

“Well Diane,” Alan says. “We see you kept your promise when you said we are going to see Dana in a completely different outfit by the time we come back here this afternoon because look, she’s in a completely different outfit just like you said.”

“Well the girls did say that they were gonna come back here this morning and change Dana’s clothes and they did,” Diane D says.

“Did you all bathe her again before you changed her clothes?” Merlene asks.

“Yeah we bathed her again.”

“Was she awake at that time?” Marie asks.

“Yeah her eyes were open, she was awake. She was still sleepy though.”

“Oh I see.”

“She still smells nice Diane,” Merlene says.

“She does,” David says.

“Wah happened to the red outfit she had on yesterday?” Winston asks.

“The girls and I brought it back home, then the girls had to hurry and get to Fashion School,” Diane D says.

“They’re in their Fashion School classes right now?”

“Yeah.”

“Diane is this outfit Dana is wearing the same outfit that you were talking about yesterday, that the girls designed and created themselves?” David asks.

“Yeah that’s the outfit Uncle David,” Diane D says.

“Wow, they did a fantastic job.”

“They sure did,” Marie says. “Does she get to keep this outfit she’s wearing Diane?”

“Of course she gets to keep the outfit Grandma Marie,” Diane D says. “The girls gave it to her.”

“I see. Did the girls design and create the outfit you’re wearing right now?”

“Yeah they designed and created this outfit too, and I get to keep it.”

“Wow,” Christine says. “Those are marvelous outfits Diane, but I don’t see corset tops on either you or Dana. I see you two are wearing tank top shirts underneath your outer shirts.”

“That’s because the corset bras are underneath our tank top shirts Aunt Christine.”

“Oh you and Dana are wearing corset bras underneath your tank top shirts?”

“Yeah, it’s not the kind of corsets you wear out in the street, it’s the kind that’s hidden and worn underneath our clothes. It’s actually our undergarments, that’s why you don’t see it.”

“Oh your under garments?”

“Yeah.”

“I see. Wow that is so nice Diane. How does the corset bras feel on you and Dana, is it comfortable on you two?”

“Yeah it feels very comfortable on me Aunt Christine.”

“It does?”

“Yeah.”

“What about Dana?” Merlene asks. “Is the corset bra comfortable on her?”

“Well at first, the girls couldn’t fasten and hook the back of the corset bra on her.”

“They couldn’t?” Marie says.

“No, the fasteners and hooks couldn’t reach each other.”

“No? Why not?”

“Because the corset bra was too small for Dana I guess, so the girls had to take the corset bra off her and replace it with a larger corset bra that they brought here.”

“They brought a larger corset bra here?”

“Yeah.”

“Did the larger corset bra fit Dana? Were the girls able to fasten and hook the back of it on Dana this time?”

“Yeah they were able to fasten and hook the back of the larger corset bra on her. She’s wearing it underneath her tank top shirt right now.”

“She is?”

“Yeah.”

“So what happened to the other corset bra that didn’t fit her?” Gracy asks.

“We brought it back to Grandma Margarita’s house with the red outfit.”

“So what are the girls planning to do with that corset bra since it didn’t fit Dana?”

“They’re planning to add a little more material to it and adjust it so it can fit her.”

“They are?”

“Yeah.”

“How long will that take?” Grandpa Mike asks,

“Maybe a week or less.”

“Dana will most likely be out of the hospital by then.”

“That’s okay. The girls said if Dana is already out of the hospital by the time that corset bra is adjusted and finished, they’ll just bring the corset bra over to your place and put it on her there.”

“They are?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow, these outfits the girls designed and created look so nice and cute on both you and Dana Diane,” Christine says.

“Thanks Aunt Christine,” Diane D says.

“I love the way they match the colors and everything. I see they still put the cute matching bows on both of your hair.” Everyone laughs a little. Christine then says, “It looks like the girls still have both you and Dana modeling their corset outfit clothing line and they did a great job on you and Dana again because you and Dana still look like princesses.”

“They sure do Christine,” Marie says.

“Let me know when the girls start selling their corset outfit and lingerie clothing line because I’m going to definitely buy some of their clothes.”

“So am I,” Merlene says.

“So am I,” Marie says

“Yeah me too,” Patricia says.

“Wow,” Diane D says. “I’m glad you all are interested in buying some of the girls’ clothing line, because the girls are planning to drop some free samples of their clothing line off to you all before you all leave and head back to Jamaica.”

“What?” Marie excitedly says. “They’re planning to drop some free samples of their clothing line to us before we go back to Jamaica?”

“Yeah.”

“You mean they’re going to give us some corset bras and corset outfits, just like they gave you and Dana?” Merlene asks.

“Yeah, so you can wear the clothes and help advertise their clothing line when you all get back to Jamaica so their clothing line outfits can get free exposure.”

“Free exposure,” Christine says.

“Yeah, and hopefully help their clothing line get into some of the stores and hotel resorts down there.”

“Get into some of the stores and hotel resorts down there?”

“Yeah. Grandma Margarita wants to try to get the girls’ clothing line into some of the stores and hotel resorts in the Dominican Republic too.”

“Yeah she was telling us that. Wow that is so cool Diane. I’ll definitely help the girls’ clothing line get free exposure. I’m going to help advertise their clothing line at my clinics in Jamaica.”

“You are?”

“Of course I am Diane, you’re my family. It’s good to support each other and help each other out.”

“Oh thank you so much Aunt Christine. The girls will definitely appreciate it. As soon as the girls advertise the outfits and clothing line on the organization’s website, I’ll let you all know.”

“Oh they’re going advertise and sell their clothing line from the organization’s website?” Marie asks.

“Yeah and we’re going to try to get the clothing line into some stores here too.”

“You are?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow, that is so fantastic Diane!”

“It is,” David says. “By the way Diane, the girls don’t happen to have any free men’s wear to give away do they?”

“Free men’s wear?” Diane D asks. “Sorry Uncle David. The girls didn’t design or create any men’s wear.”

“I didn’t think so. I just thought I’d ask anyway.” Everyone laughs a little.

Christine then says, “Well congratulations to the girls’ corset and lingerie clothing line Diane and I wish their corset and lingerie clothing line all the success.”

“Thanks Aunt Christine,” Diane D says.

“You’re welcome baby.”

Everybody then looks down and smile at Dana as Dana remains asleep.

BACK TO THE PRESENT:

Back in the Quench Soda office, the video goes off. The Quench Soda executives sadly look at each other. They then look at Diane D's family. “I’m sorry,” Seth says. “We had no idea this happened. We didn't know your niece Dana got hurt. It's a good thing you showed us the video.”

“I'm sorry too guys,” Doug says. “Like you said, in situations like this, family comes first.”

“Yeah I'm sorry too,” the second executive says. “I'm sorry your family went through a tragedy like this. How is your niece Dana doing by the way?”

“She's doing okay,” Barry says. “She's still in the hospital. The last part of that video was shot this afternoon.”

“It was?” Seth asks.

“Yes.”

“I see. Well how are Diane D and The Dianettes doing?”

“They're all okay. They're hanging in there.”

“That's good. All I can say is that, Diane D, the Dianettes and the rest of your family were like pros the way they took care of and handled the situation.”

“Yes they were.”

“We saw the wonderful Quench Soda outfits Diane D and the Dianettes were all wearing. We even saw the fashion line clothes that the Dianettes created. Their fashion line clothes were very nice.”

“Thank you.”

“Listen guys, there won't be a lawsuit. You don't have to worry we will not go to court. Maybe we can schedule another photo shoot for Diane D and The Dianettes sometime in the future, if it's okay?”

“I don't see why not,” Barry says. “We'll talk to the rest of our family about it.”

“Okay.” All the men get up and shake hands. “Thanks for showing us the video,” Seth says. “Do y'all have other copies of the video?”

“Yes we do. We have several copies.”

“Well could we buy the rights to this copy?”

“Buy the rights to the copy? What for?”

“Because I would like to show it on television.”

“Show it on television?” Barry and Tomas say.

“Yes.”

“Why do you want to show this video on television?” Tomas asks.

“Well it seemed like such a heartwarming video of everything that happened in there, especially Diane D and the Dianettes and everybody else handling the situation. I would like to share it with the world.”

“Share it with the world?”

“Yes.”

“And you also want the world to see Diane and the girls wearing the Quench Soda outfits, don't you?” Barry says.

“Well, I'll admit that's part of it too. It shows Diane D and the Dianettes being superheroes wearing the Quench Soda outfits while they're helping your niece Dana after her accident. There's one thing in the video I'm sort of puzzled about.”

“And what's that?”

“Does Diane D smoke? The video shows her taking the cigarettes away from the three little girls who came into the hospital entrance and approached her. Then the video shows Diane D leaving the hospital building with the little girls' cigarettes in her hand then walk away with some fellow to smoke the cigarettes herself. I thought Diane D preaches against smoking.”

“She does,” Tomas says. “We questioned Diane about the cigarettes she took from those little girls. She told us she didn't really smoke the cigarettes. She told us as soon as she left the hospital building, she tossed the cigarettes right into a trash can that was outside so the little girls won't be able to find them.”

“Are you sure? Because in the video, she asked that fellow at the hospital entrance door did he want to go for a smoke.”

“We know she did. All we can go by is what Diane told us. She told us she didn't smoke any of those cigarettes.”

“Okay. If we purchase the video from you, we'll leave the cigarette part with the three little girls and Diane D taking their cigarettes out of the video. We don't care to show that. We don't want to upset the little girls' parents and we don't want to set a bad example for the viewers.”

“I see,” Barry says. “Well, we would have to get everybody's permission who's in the video. Especially we would have to get Dana's permission because she's the one who got hurt. She and everyone else would have to see the entire video before we can make any decision.”

“Okay no problem, you got it.”

“If we do give you the video, we’re only going to give you the part of the video that shows Diane and the girls wearing the Quench Soda outfits, not the other parts that shows Dana in the hospital or the girls’ clothing line. The part of the video that shows the girls’ clothes from their clothing line is for us to advertise ourselves.”

“I have no problem with that.” Seth takes the DVD out of the DVD Player. He hands the DVD to Barry and says, “If you get the okay from everybody who appeared in the video, especially Dana, you can bring the edited version of the video right back here to us and we’ll pay your family the rights for it.”

“Pay us the rights?”

“Yes. Allowing us to show it on television.”

“We’ll have to talk about it. I’ll call you tomorrow.”

“Okay. We’ll be here.”

“Okay. Take care gentlemen.”

“You too.”

Barry and his family turn and head towards the door. They open the door and leave out of the office as the Quench Soda executives look on at them.

The next day, Gracy is in her living room. She speaks into the telephone receiver and says, “Hello is this Rodriguez Contractors?”

“Yes, this is Rodriguez Contractors,” a male Hispanic manager says.

“Hello, my name is Gracy Brown. My husband Mike Brown and myself are the ones who hired you guys to fix our kitchen before, but you guys never got a chance to finish fixing our kitchen because our granddaughter Dana threw you guys out.”

“Yes we’re the ones who got thrown out by your granddaughter. What is the problem now?”

“My men said they don’t want anything to do with your household after the way your granddaughter treated them!”

“I don’t blame them, but my granddaughter is not here right now. She’s in the hospital. While she’s in the hospital, you guys can come fix my kitchen real quick and have it done before she comes back home. When she comes home from the hospital, she won’t be able to work on the kitchen anyway because she has to rest and recuperate. So I need you guys right now. If you agree to finish my kitchen, I’ll pay you more money.”

“Pay us more money? What about the money that was paid to us already?”

“That’s your money, keep it. I’ll pay you more money. What do you say?”

“Well. Okay, we’ll be there tomorrow morning.”

“Tomorrow morning? Tomorrow morning is fine. Thank you.”

“You’re welcome. Are you sure your granddaughter won’t be there?”

“No she’s in the hospital and she won’t be back home for another two or three days.”

“Okay. We'll be there in the morning.”

“Thank you. See you then.” Gracy happily hangs up the telephone.

The following day, a black man around his early 30's and his girlfriend, a black woman around her early 30's are in the street reading a newspaper with an article that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA FALLS OFF LADDER AT GRANDPARENTS' HOME! SOUND AND AFTERMATH OF ACCIDENT IS CAPTURED ON VIDEO! QUENCH PAYS MULTI-MILLION FOR RIGHTS OF VIDEO TO BE SHOWN ON TELEVISION!: “My God,” the woman says. “Quench Soda company paid Diane D's family millions of dollars for the rights to the video of her cousin Dana's aftermath of her accident!”

“Yeah I saw it,” the man says. “Quench Soda wants to show the video on national TV. It says Diane D's family went to the hospital and asked her cousin Dana's permission for Quench Soda to show the video on television. Dana said no at first because she doesn't want anything to do with being in the public eye. Diane D's family told Dana that Quench Soda is willing to pay her and her family the rights for the video. Then it says Dana finally agreed so she and her family can get the money. It says Dana and the rest of Diane D's family said Quench Soda could show the video on TV as long as there is no nudity in the video.”

“No nudity?”

“Yeah, no nudity. It also says Diane D's family edited a lot of parts out of the video before they gave the copy back to Quench Sodas.”

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“What part of the video did they edit out?”

“I heard they edit out all the parts that didn't have the Quench Soda outfits and logos in it, like Dana's hospital stay and the Dianettes' clothing line.”

“I understand they edited out the part of the video that had Dana's hospital stay in it because that's personal, but did they have to edit out the part of the video that had the Dianettes' clothing line in it? I would like to see their clothing line.”

“You'll get to see the part of the video that has the Dianettes' clothing line on a separate video that the Diaz-Davidson organization is going to produce.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah, they're going to have that part of the video separate from the part of the video that has the Quench Soda outfits and logos on it.”

“They are?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow, that's good.”

“It is. Boy I can't wait to see both parts of the video on television, even though I wouldn't have mind seeing Diane D, her cousin Dana or any of the Dianettes in the nude because they are all hot! They are some gorgeous chicks!”

The woman angrily looks at the man and slightly smacks him on the back of his head.

The man smiles at the woman and says, “And you're hot too.” The woman smiles at the man as she and the man look back at the article and continue to read it.

It is a few days later. Dana is home at her grandparents' Gracy and Mike's house laying in the bedroom face up in the bed sleeping under the blankets with both hands behind her neck one knee up as Diane D, their entire family and relatives, Michael, Tony, Margarita and Tomas surround her looking at her. "Nice to have her back home," Diane D says.

"It is," Tony says.

"Where's her cane?" Uncle Willie asks.

"Oh it's right here Willie," Christine picks up a dark wooden cane beside Dana's bed and shows it to everybody.

"How long would she have to use that?"

"Until she gets better to move around without it. That'll be only for a short while."

"Was she up yet?" Margarita asks.

"Yeah. She was walking around with it downstairs this afternoon, then she got tired and decided to take a nap."

"Well I think we should let her get more rest," Gracy says. "Let's all go downstairs and let her sleep." Gracy and Christine fix Dana's blanket a little as Dana remains asleep. They all smile at her as they turn and walk towards the door. They all walk out and close the door behind themselves.

The next day at the organization, Diane D and everyone else is all hostile as they surround Charlotte and Kenny who are arguing with each other. Margarita angrily steps in and shouts, "What is going on?!"

"Charlotte and Kenny are arguing again Grandma!" Diane D says.

"Charlotte, what is this all about?!"

"I'll tell what's this all about!" Kenny shouts. "She threw her ring at my face!"

"Okay Charlotte! Why did you throw your ring at him?!"

"He deserves it thrown at him!" Charlotte shouts.

"Now Charlotte, you can give a better answer than that! Where's the ring?!"

"Right here," Kenny says.

"Hand it to me!"

Kenny hands the ring to Margarita.

Margarita turns to Charlotte and says, "Here Charlotte! Now I want you to put this ring right back on your finger where it belongs! Take it!" Charlotte takes the ring from Margarita. She then throws the ring right back at Kenny's face!

Kenny becomes more angry. He is about to go after Charlotte, but Diane D quickly steps right in his way, blocks him with her arms out and shouts, "You hit my cousin and I swear I'll kick your ass and your front!"

"Diane!" Margarita shouts.

"Just don't hit my cousin!"

"She hit me first!" Kenny shouts. "I should throw this ring right back in her face!"

"You better not throw that ring at my cousin's face!"

"I will throw it at her face!"

"Oh yeah?! Try it motherfucka!"

"Diane please!" Margarita shouts.

"Just don't throw that ring at my cousin's face dammit!"

"Diane! Ir al lado!"

"But Grandma!"

“Ir al lado Diane! Por favor!”

Diane D holds her hands up and goes to the side. She puts her hands down, turns around and faces back towards Margarita as she places one hand on her hip.

Margarita turns to Kenny and shouts, “And Kenny, no more fighting!”

“Didn't y'all see what Charlotte just did?!” Kenny shouts. “She threw her ring at me again!”

“I know, I'm gonna deal with Charlotte! Just bare with me Kenny!”

“Alright then! I'll just see her when I get home from work tonight that's all!”

“No you won't!” Diane D shouts. Everyone puzzled looks at Diane D as she walks back towards Kenny and shouts, “You won't be seeing her when you get home from work tonight because she's not gonna be there!”

“What? What do you mean she's not gonna be there?!”

“She's gonna stay with me!” Everybody puzzledly looks at Diane D.

“Stay with you?!” Kenny says. “What do you mean she's gonna stay with you?!”

“She's gonna stay with me at my Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house!” Diane D turns to Charlotte and says, “And you're gonna stay there with me for a couple of weeks!”

“What?!” Charlotte says. “For a couple of weeks?!”

“That's right, a couple of weeks, maybe three! So right now we're gonna go to your place so you can pack your things!”

“Pack my things?! I'm not gonna pack my things Diane! I'm not gonna leave Kenny!”

“Yes you are Charlotte!”

“No I'm not, I can't leave Kenny! We're married now!”

“Charlotte you can leave Kenny for a short while and you will! You two need another break from each other! So let's go to your place and pack your bags!”

“But Diane...!”

“No ifs, ands, or buts about it Charlotte! I mean this fight you and Kenny keep having is too much! So right now, we're going to your place to pick up your stuff!”

“Diane....!”

“Let's go pack your bags Charlotte!” Diane D angrily turns Charlotte around and shoves her. Charlotte frustratingly walks away as Diane D leads her away. Kenny and Diane D's family puzzled look on at them.

Kenny tries to go after Charlotte and Diane D, but Diane D's family steps right in his way. “Can I talk to her for a minute?” Kenny asks.

“You heard,” Tomas says. “She's not staying with you right now.”

“Alright then fine! Have it your way!” Kenny angrily turns around and storms out of the exit door.

Several minutes later, Diane D stands at the doorway of the organization and firmly looks out towards the street with one hand on her hip as Charlotte, Mary, Margarita and Tomas gather themselves behind her and looks out towards the street also. “Are you sure Kenny's gone Diane?” Mary asks.

“I think so Mom,” Diane D says. “Let me hurry and call Grandma Gracy and tell her I'm bringing Charlotte over.”

“Okay.”

Diane D takes out her cell phone. She turns and goes inside of the lobby and dials a number on the cell phone. She then speaks into her cell phone and says, "Yeah Grandma, it's me Diane. Listen Grandma, Charlotte and Kenny just got into another fight."

"Again?" Gracy says.

"Yes again."

"Oh my God, what did she throw at him this time?"

"Her wedding ring."

"Her wedding ring?! Last time it was her shoe! Before that, she threw a rock!"

"I know. She's emotionally upset right now. So I want her to stay with us again for a couple of weeks so I can keep my eye on her."

"Okay Diane that's fine. So you want the extra bed back in the room with you and Dana?"

"Yeah. How's Dana doing by the way? What's she doing right now?"

"She was downstairs earlier, then she went back upstairs to bed and fell asleep. Well Nicolas and Mickey can bring the extra bed back down from the attic and put it in the room again."

"Okay Grandma. We're getting ready to go to Charlotte and Kenny's place right now so we can pack some things for her then we'll be there later on."

"Okay Diane. I'll be here waiting for y'all."

"Okay, thanks Grandma. I'll see you later."

"Okay Diane." Gracy hangs up the phone.

Later on that evening, Diane D, Charlotte, Mary and Barry come in the front door of Gracy and Mike's house with two large suitcases and a small one. They close the door behind themselves as Diane D looks towards the kitchen and shouts, "Grandma we're here!"

Nicolas and Mickey come down the stairs. "Hey what's up y'all?" Nicolas says.

"Hey Charlotte," Mickey says. Mickey and Nicolas hug and kiss their family.

"Charlotte, Kenny didn't throw a hand on you did he?" Nicolas asks.

"No he didn't," Charlotte says.

"Did y'all put the extra bed in the room yet?" Mary asks.

"Yeah we just finished," Mickey says.

"Where's Grandma?" Diane D asks.

"Oh Grandma is putting the sheets and blanket on the bed. It's all being set."

"Good." Diane D turns to Charlotte and says. "Come on upstairs Charlotte." Diane D grabs Charlotte by the arm and starts to pull Charlotte up the steps.

Charlotte stops Diane D and says, "Diane can't I just call Kenny first?"

"You can call him later. Right now let's just get you upstairs and get you settled in. Come on." Diane D continues to take Charlotte up the stairs as Mary grabs Charlotte's other arm and walks up the steps too. Barry, Nicolas and Mickey take the suitcases and follow the women up the stairs.

A few days later, Diane D, Gracy and some other relatives are in the front lawn of Gracy and Mike's house with their knees on the ground fixing the garden. Aunt Celeste comes out of the house. She approaches them all and says, "I'm getting ready to head back home Mom."

"Okay Celeste," Gracy says. "You're gonna stop back by for dinner tonight?"

"Yeah I'll be back. Why are the contractors still working on the house? It's been a few days already. I thought they'd be finished by now."

"Well your dad didn't like the first paint the contractors used," Diane D says. "He said the color was too light and he didn't like the finishing touches they did either, so the contractors are doing the whole thing over and using a much darker paint now."

"Oh. I see Dana sitting on the chair right at the kitchen watching the contractors like a hawk. Why is she doing that? I wanted to ask her myself, but she seems sort of grumpy."

"Celeste, you know Dana is always grumpy. It's nothing new."

"But why is she watching the contractors?"

"Well actually Dana still wants to do the paint job and work on the kitchen herself."

"Nooo she still does?"

"Yeah. She doesn't want those contractors there. But being that she can't do the job herself right now, she wants to make sure they're doing the job right."

"I see. Why does she have string bows on top of her shoulders underneath her tank top? Diane what did you put underneath Dana's tank top?"

"Don't look at me Aunt Celeste," Diane D says. "I didn't put those string bows or anything else underneath Dana's tank top. The girls did that."

"They did?"

"Yeah. They came over this morning with the corset bra that they had to adjust and put it back on Dana."

"You mean the first corset bra they brought to the hospital that didn't fit her?"

"Yeah that corset bra. They added a little more material to it so that the snaps, hooks and fasteners on the back of it can reach each other then they can be able to snap, hook and fasten the back of it when they put it back on Dana. They finished the entire thing by yesterday, so they came over here this morning and brought the corset bra. They put it back on Dana to try and see if it would fit her this time. They were able to snap, hook and fasten the back of the corset bra on her this time."

"They were?"

"Yeah."

"That's good. I didn't know the girls came by this morning. No wonder why I saw six pairs of ballet shoes lined against your dresser Diane."

"Yeah I almost tripped over those ballet shoes. I didn't see them at first."

"You didn't?"

"No."

"Are you okay?"

"I'm fine Aunt Celeste."

"That's good. So how does the newly adjusted corset bra fit Dana now?"

"It fits her pretty good Aunt Celeste."

"It does?"

"Yeah."

"That's good. But when the corset bra didn't fit Dana the first time the girls tried it on her at the hospital, why didn't they just give it away to somebody else or sell it?"

"The girls say they like that corset bra. They said it's so pretty, that's why they wanted to fix it so they can be able to put it back on Dana. So since this corset bra fits Dana now, the girls now know what size corset bras to make for her in the future."

"They're planning to make more corset bras for Dana in the future?"

“Yeah.”

“With string bows, snaps, hooks and fasteners on them?”

“Yeah.”

“Why?”

“I told you all that the girls are crazy about corsets.”

“Are you wearing one of their corset bras on you now Diane?”

“Yeah. Didn’t I tell you all that the girls were planning to practice their corset fashion techniques on me and Dana? Didn’t I tell you all that?”

“Yeah you told us that Diane, but since the girls want to practice their fashion techniques on you and Dana, why can’t they just leave those doggone string bows off the corset bras?”

“Because they like the string bows on the corset bras Aunt Celeste so they’re gonna put it there and probably keep it there.”

“That’s right Celeste,” Gracy says. “You know once the girls get started on doing something, they don't stop. Didn’t you like the corset bra they dropped off for you the other day?”

“Yeah I like it Mom,” Aunt Celeste says. “I just can’t deal with all the strings and bows attached to them. Where're the girls at now?”

“Oh they went to Fashion School today,” Diane D says. “They have classes right now.”

“They do?”

“Yeah.”

“Did Charlotte go to Fashion School too?”

“Yeah, she skipped out of here and followed the rest of the girls right to the school. I told her don't try and sneak to go see Kenny after Fashion School or else she's gonna have to deal with me.”

“Have to deal with you?! Nooh Diane you didn't tell her that did you?”

“She sure did,” Gracy says. “I witnessed it.”

Diane D looks towards the front gate and says, “Well well well, look who's here.” Everyone else turn and look towards the front gate. They see Teresa and a taller black female with very short hair around her late 20's coming through the front gate.

Teresa and the friend approach Diane D and her relatives. “Hello everyone,” Teresa says.

“Hey Teresa,” everyone says.

Diane D gets up off the ground. She approaches Teresa as Teresa gives her a hug. Diane D and Teresa turn and walk towards the other female as Teresa says, “You all remember my cousin Felisha, right?”

“Yeah we remember her,” Diane D says. “How you doing Felisha?”

“I'm okay, and yourself?” Felisha says.

“I'm doing good.”

“So what's going on?” Teresa asks.

“Oh nothing much. We're just trying to fix up this garden that's all.”

“I see. How's Dana doing?”

“Oh she's still in a little bit of pain?”

“She is? She still has the bump on her head?”

“Well most of the bump went away, but she still has a slight fever though.”

“She does? How's her ribs? Does she still need the cane to help her walk?”

“Yeah her ribs are still in a little pain so she still has to use the cane.”

“Oh. Well where is she? Felisha and I want to see her real quick.”

“She's right inside.”

“Yeah we got the contractors painting the kitchen again and Dana's sitting right there keeping an eye on them,” Gracy says.

“Oh really?” Teresa asks. “Why?”

“She wants to make sure they're doing a good job.”

“Why did the contractors come back?”

“Because Grandpa and I wanted the kitchen finished so I called the contractors back to do the job real quick before Dana gets out the hospital. Unfortunately Grandpa didn't like the paint job that's why the contractors came back. So if you two want to see Dana, just go ring the bell.”

“Okay.” Teresa turns to Felisha and says, “Well, I guess we better go ring the bell.” Teresa turns back to Diane D and says, “We'll be back Diane.”

“Okay Teresa,” Diane D says.

Teresa and Felisha turn and walk towards the front door.

Teresa and Felisha approach the front door. They suddenly hear a loud bang coming from inside the house. They suddenly hear Dana's voice shout, “Can't y'all fix the kitchen right goddammit!”

“We're trying to Miss!” the contractor's voice shout.

“No you're not! You're fucking up my grandparents' kitchen!”

Teresa and Felisha nervously look at each other. They nervously turn their heads and look towards Diane D. They turn their heads and look back at the door. They look back at each other as Felisha says, “Teresa, maybe we shouldn't bother Dana right now. I'm not feeling her mood swings, especially with all that profanity she just used.”

“I know,” Teresa says, “but it's too late now Felisha. If we turn around and leave, Diane and her family are gonna ask us why didn't we ring the doorbell.”

“And? Why can't we just tell Diane and her family the truth? I'm sure they'll understand.”

“Yeah, you're right. Let's just ring the doorbell one time. If the door don't open, then we'll just leave.”

“Okay.”

Teresa nervously rings the doorbell. She and Felisha nervously look at each other again. They hear someone behind the door opening the door. They see the door open halfway. They see Dana's angry face and right shoulder peak out as she looks at Teresa and Felisha. “Hey Dana,” Teresa nervously says. Dana opens the door a little more. She turns and walks away from the door with a limp, wearing a mint green tank top bearing her muscular arms with string bows on top of both shoulders underneath the shoulder straps of her tank top and dark green leggings, using a cane as she limps. Teresa nervously goes inside the front door, followed by Felisha.

Dana slightly limps through the living room, walking with the cane. She stops and turns her head back towards Teresa and Felisha and firmly says, “Close the door behind you.” Felisha closes the door behind herself. Dana turns her head back forward and continues to limp with the cane towards the kitchen.

Teresa and Felisha slowly walk into the living room. Teresa then says to Dana, "So how you feel Dana? Are you alright?"

"I'm okay," Dana says.

"Good. You remember my cousin Felisha, right?"

"Yeah. Just have a seat."

"Okay." Teresa and Felisha sit down on the sofa as Dana goes near the kitchen entry way and sits down on a chair there. Teresa and Felisha look and see the three contractors painting inside the kitchen. Teresa and Felisha then look at Dana and see her holding one foot on top of her opposite knee as she leans forward looking at and rubbing her toe nails. Suddenly there's a drop sound coming from the kitchen. Dana turns her head and looks into the kitchen. She rests her elbow on top of her foot and knee and frustratingly looks at the contractors. The contractors pick up the object that fell. Dana continues to watch the contractors.

Inside the kitchen, the three male Hispanic contractors look at Dana, then look at each other. They start to work again.

Dana continues to sit in the living room at the kitchen entry way watching the contractors as her elbow remain on her foot and knee. She then turns her head forward and angrily gets up off the chair. She turns and limps away from the chair with the cane and heads towards the staircase. She turns her head to Teresa and says, "I'll be back Teresa. I'm gonna change my clothes." Dana turns her head back forward.

"Okay," Teresa says. "You need any help?"

"No." Dana starts to limp up the stairs with the cane as Teresa and Felisha watch her. They see Dana disappear into the upstairs hallway. They then hear one of the doors upstairs bang shut. Teresa and Felisha look up towards the staircase. They then look at each other as they continue to wait in the living room.

Around several minutes later, Teresa and Felisha hear one of the doors upstairs opening. They then see Dana limping back downstairs with the cane, wearing different clothes which is a dark brown corduroy pants, a dark brown shirt and a matching short dark brown corduroy jacket. Dana heads to a wall unit and rests her cane on the side. She spreads her legs apart and tiptoes, reaching both her hands for the top drawer. She pulls the drawer open and grabs a set of keys. She closes the drawer back. She grabs some tissues out of the tissue box. She looks into the mirror and starts to wipe her face and mouth as she pokes her mouth from one side to the other. She finishes and grabs her cane. She turns to Teresa and Felisha and says, "Let's go out to the front." Dana limps towards the front door with the cane as Teresa and Felisha get up off the sofa. Teresa and Felisha follow Dana to the front door. Dana opens the front door and walks out of it as Teresa and Felisha follow out behind her.

Dana, Teresa and Felisha are outside the front door with the front door slightly open as Teresa and Felisha stand behind Dana. Dana turns her head towards Teresa and Felisha and firmly says, "Close the door please." Felisha turns around and pulls the front door close behind her, but it doesn't shut. It opens back up a little. She pulls on the door handle and tries to close the door again, but the door still doesn't shut all the way. It slightly opens back up. She tries a third time. The door still does not shut all the way. Teresa pulls on the door knob and tries to close the door. The door still does not stay shut. Suddenly, Dana points her cane handle towards the door knob, raises the cane and slams the handle of her cane right down on the doorknob! She pulls the doorknob with her cane handle with force and slams the front door shut! Dana removes the cane from off the door knob as the door remains shut. Dana angrily turns forward and looks down as she goes down the steps. Teresa and Felisha puzzled look at Dana, then at each other. Teresa and Felisha turn their heads forward and come down the steps. Dana limps towards Gracy as Teresa and Felisha slowly follow behind her.

Dana approaches Gracy who is still down on her knees and alone at the garden. She says to Gracy, "I'm gonna drive to the store Grandma." She turns to Teresa and Felisha and says, "Y'all can stay here. I'll be back."

"What?" Gracy says. "No you can't go to the store now Dana. You still have to get some rest and recuperate."

"I'm alright. Where's Diane and everybody else?"

"They all went to the back yard to fix the garden back there."

"Well tell them I'll be back."

"No don't go to the store Dana! You still got a fever! Whatever you need from the store, we'll get it!"

"No that's okay Grandma. I just need to get some air that's all. I'll be back." Dana goes pass Gracy and limps away.

Gracy looks at Dana and shouts, "Well what about Teresa and Felisha?! They came here to see you, you know! You're just gonna walk away from them and leave them like that?!"

Dana turns her head towards Gracy and shouts, "Just send them in the back to Diane! I'll be back!" Dana turns her head back forward and continues to limp away. She limps out the gate then limps right to her dark blue car as Gracy, Teresa and Felisha all watch her. They see Dana get into her car, start up the engine and speed off.

The Sniper Shooting!

A couple hours later, a lone white female police officer around her late 30's with dirty blonde hair sits behind the wheel in a patrol car talking into the police radio. She suddenly hears two gun shots way in the distance. She becomes startled and looks up out the window. She sees a dark blue car way in the distance speeding and screeching its tires down the street then making a quick illegal turn and speeding in another direction then disappearing! She speaks into the police radio and shouts, "That vehicle was just speeding down the street after I heard a couple of gunshots and made an illegal turn! I'm gonna go after it, roger!" The female officer puts on her siren and speeds her patrol car down the street! She goes after the speeding vehicle!

A couple of minutes later, the police car catches up to the speeding vehicle and drives behind it. The female police officer yells into the speaker and shout, "Pull over to the right!"

The dark blue car does not stop. It continues to drive.

The female officer yells into the speaker again shouting, "Pull over to the right!"

The dark blue car continues to drive.

The officer yells into the speaker again shouting, "I said pull to the right!"

The dark blue car makes a quick turn.

The police car makes a turn and follows the dark blue car. The female officer yells into the speaker again shouting, "Pull to the right now!"

The dark blue car continues to drive. It makes another turn.

The police car makes another turn and continues to follow the dark blue car. The officer yells into the speaker again shouting, "Pull over to the right!"

The dark blue car makes another turn. The police car makes another turn and go after the dark blue car as the female officer shouts, "Are you hard of hearing?! I said pull to the right!"

The dark blue car makes another turn.

The dark blue car goes into an isolated area.

The police car continues to follow the dark blue car.

The dark blue car finally pulls to the right and stops. The police car pulls up fifteen feet behind the dark blue car and stops.

The female officer puzzled looks at the dark blue car. She then looks out the window at the area. She looks back at the dark blue car. She starts to think out loud and says, "Why the hell did this driver stop in this isolated area?" The officer gets out of her patrol car.

The officer closes the car door and looks around the area. She sees that the area is totally isolated. She looks at the dark blue car again. She walks towards the dark blue car.

The dark blue car suddenly makes a turn and goes to the side and stops as the female officer quickly approaches it. The female officer approaches the driver's door. She looks into the car. She sees Dana in the driver's seat. She asks, "Miss? Why did you move your car over here? Can I see your license?"

"I don't have my license on me," Dana says.

"What do you mean you don't have your license on you? Where is it?"

"I left it home."

"You left it home? Why? You know you're suppose to have your license on you whenever you drive. Why were you speeding before and why didn't you pull over immediately when I yelled for you to pull over?"

"I didn't hear you."

"You didn't hear me?"

"No."

"Oh don't give me that! I don't buy it! I heard two gun shots just before I saw your car speeding down the street away from the sound of the gunshots! Why were you speeding away after I heard the two gun shots and why did you make an illegal turn? Were you running from something?"

"No I wasn't."

"It looked like you were! You seem very suspicious about something! I'm gonna have to ask you to step out the car!"

Dana looks forward and does not move.

"You must be hard of hearing!" the female officer shouts. "I said step out the car!"

Dana slowly opens the car door. She gets up and limps out of the vehicle with her cane as she painfully holds her left rib.

The female officer puzzled looks at Dana. She starts to recognize Dana and shouts, "Hey! I know you from somewhere! You're Diane D's cousin Dana, aren't you?"

Dana puzzled looks at the officer.

"You're the one who beat up that newspaper reporter outside a catering hall and chased him down the highway, shooting at his vehicle three times, then you beat up those other two female police officers!" The female officer becomes frightened. She quickly pulls out her gun and points the gun right at Dana.

Dana puzzled looks at the gun then at the officer.

The female officer continues to point her gun at Dana and says, "I'm gonna have to search your vehicle and see if you have any weapons in there, then I'll have to search you, but before I search you, I'm gonna call for back up because I don't trust you. You're not gonna do to me what you did to those other two female officers! Step to the side!"

Dana looks at the officer. She then limps to the side with her cane as she continues to hold her left rib. The officer looks into Dana's vehicle as she keeps the gun pointed at Dana. She then looks at Dana and says, "Well I don't see anything suspicious in there yet. I'm gonna have to search your trunk. Take your keys and open the trunk."

Dana limps to the car. She leans inside her car and slowly takes the keys out of the ignition. She leans back out the car and limps to the trunk of the car with her cane. She unlocks the car trunk and opens it.

"Okay step to the side while I look in the trunk," the officer says.

Dana limps to the side.

The officer looks into the trunk as she keeps the gun pointed at Dana. She closes the trunk. She says to Dana, "Well I don't see anything suspicious in there. I'm gonna call for back up. When the back up gets here, then I'll have to search and frisk you. Turn around and put your hands up against the car until the back up comes!"

"Why? I don't have any weapons on me."

"I'll be the judge of that! Turn around and put your hands up against the car for when I search you later!"

"Officer, you can search my vehicle, but you cannot search me."

"I'm not gonna search you, yet! I'm gonna call for back up first and wait for them to arrive, then I'll frisk you!"

"You're not gonna frisk me."

"Why not? You have something to hide?"

"No I don't."

"Well if you have nothing to hide, there shouldn't be a problem with me frisking you when the back up arrives!"

"I don't care when the back up arrives. Don't put your hands on me."

"You don't seem to want to co-operate with me. You might as well just co-operate with me because I am going to call for back up! So you might as well just turn around and put your hands up against the car while I call for back up! Turn around and put your hands up against the car, now!"

Dana limps as she slowly turns around. She is about to put her hands up against the car. Suddenly she trips over her feet and falls to the ground. The officer looks down at Dana and panics! "Oh my God," she says. "Are you alright Miss? Are you okay?"

Dana holds her side in pain as she lays on the ground.

"Don't worry!" the officer shouts. "I'll help you up!" The officer tucks her gun away. She then bends down to help Dana. She reaches her arms and hands down to Dana. Suddenly, the officer is kicked hard in the stomach! The officer screams and holds her stomach in pain! She is then whacked hard across the side of her head with the cane! The officer screams again and holds her head in pain! She is whacked hard across the other side of her head with the cane with such great force as the cane breaks in two! The officer screams again and is suddenly kicked hard in her private area! The officer screams again and holds her private area as Dana quickly gets up off the ground! Dana starts attacking the officer! She throws several hard loud blows to the officer's face and head. Blood starts to splatter! Dana then throws her fist and gives the officer an uppercut throw to the jaw! Suddenly Dana jumps and quickly spins her entire body around kung fu kicking the officer's legs right from under her! The officer falls to the ground! Dana grabs the officer's head and bangs her head four times against the ground real hard! Dana then throws the officer's head to the ground then bends back up as the officer's body bounces off the ground. Dana angrily turns away from the officer as the officer lays motionless. She picks up the two pieces of the broken cane. She limps back to her car. She opens the back door and puts the two pieces of the broken cane inside a plastic bag. She closes the back door and gets back into the driver's seat. She closes the driver's door, starts up the engine! She then drives her car behind the police vehicle and speeds off! Her car tires screech as she speeds away into the distance leaving the female officer motionless on the ground!

The next day, Diane D, her family, relatives and everyone else at the organization are reading a few newspapers with different headlines that read: NEWSPAPER REPORTER FELIX GREEN HAS BEEN SHOT BY A HIGH POWERED RIFLE! "Oh my God!" Nicolas shouts. "Felix Green has been shot! Grandma, Grandpa did y'all see this?!"

"I saw it!" Margarita shouts, "but I don't believe it!"

"Well believe it!" Tomas says. "It says that Felix Green was shot by a high powered rifle! This time, the bullet didn't miss him! It actually struck him!"

"My God!" Barry shouts. "Does it say who shot him?!"

"No!" Nicolas shouts. "No one knows! It just says that Felix Green and some other newspaper employees were leaving the building of their newspaper firm. As they were walking to their cars, that's when they heard two gun shots! They all ducked down and didn't know where the shots were coming from! Then they didn't hear anymore shots! When they looked, that's when they noticed Felix Green laying on the ground bleeding real heavy around his side and stomach area! They realized he had been shot!"

"Oh Lord!" everyone says.

"They have him in the hospital in critical condition! The doctors aren't sure if he's gonna make it!"

"Did the police catch anybody?!" Michael asks.

"No! They don't have any suspects yet?"

"Do they know who would want to shoot or kill Felix Green?" Tomas asks.

"They don't have any idea who would want to shoot him Grandpa nor do they know the motive for it yet! And did you all see this article too?" Nicolas, Diane D, their family and relatives and everyone at the organization see another newspaper with a headline that reads: FEMALE POLICE OFFICER BEATEN AND LEFT FOR DEAD YESTERDAY!: PASSERBY SPOTS FEMALE POLICE OFFICER LAYING ON THE SIDE OF ISOLATED ROAD NEAR HER PATROL CAR!: FEMALE POLICE OFFICER LAYS UNCONSCIOUS IN THE HOSPITAL, SUFFERING MAJOR BLOWS TO THE HEAD AND OTHER PARTS OF HER BODY FROM AN UNKNOWN ATTACKER!: Diane D's family and the people at the organization are in disbelief. "Another female police officer was beat up and left for dead!" Nicolas says.

"My God!" Margarita shouts. "That is horrible!"

"Both of these incidents with this female police officer and Felix Green happened yesterday?" Diane D asks.

"Yep," Nicolas says. "They both happened yesterday. Almost around the same time." Everyone continues to look at the article.

Several people in the street are reading the different headlines that read:

NEWSPAPER REPORTER FELIX GREEN HAS BEEN SHOT BY A HIGH POWERED RIFLE! FEMALE POLICE OFFICER LEFT FOR DEAD!: PASSERBY SPOTS FEMALE POLICE OFFICER LAYING ON THE SIDE OF ISOLATED ROAD NEAR HER PATROL CAR!: FEMALE POLICE OFFICER LAYS UNCONSCIOUS IN THE HOSPITAL, SUFFERING MAJOR BLOWS TO THE HEAD AND OTHER PARTS OF HER BODY FROM AN UNKNOWN ATTACKER!: “Wow,” one of the men says. “That newspaper reporter Felix Green was shot! This article says he was shot with a high powered rifle! And this article says another female police officer was beaten up and left for dead! It says passerby spots female police officer laying on the side of isolated road near her patrol car. And now she's laying unconscious in the hospital suffering major blows to the head and other parts of her body from an unknown attacker. Who the hell would shoot a newspaper reporter and who the hell would want to hurt a police officer, especially a female officer?”

“I guess the same kind of person who shot at that newspaper reporter Felix Green before when they chased him on the highway and the same kind of person who had hurt the first two female officers that were beat up and left for dead,” a second man says.

“The woman is laying unconscious in the hospital. The police aren't able to get a statement from her until she comes out of her coma, if she ever comes out of it. What was her patrol car doing in an isolated area anyway?”

“I know. That is strange.”

“And this other article says the doctors don't know if that reporter Felix Green is gonna survive this shooting.”

“Oh no,” one of the women says. “Both of those incidents with this female police officer and Felix Green happened yesterday?”

“Yeah they both happened yesterday around the same time, just like the first time that reporter Felix Green was shot at and the first two female officers were beat up. Both of those incidents happened on the same evening around the same time. That's a strange coincidence.”

“It is,” the second man says. “You think there might be some kind of connection there?”

“I wonder, just like it was a connection before with the first incidents which Diane D's cousin Dana was behind. I wonder if she's behind these two recent incidents also.”

“I wonder that too.” The people continue to look at the headline and article.

The next day, men in the street are reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA GETS ARRESTED AND QUESTIONED FOR THE SHOOTING OF NEWSPAPER REPORTER FELIX GREEN! “My God,” one of the men says. “It says Diane D's cousin Dana got arrested and questioned for the shooting of that newspaper reporter Felix Green. The police questioned her for five hours. Then the police had to let her go for lack of evidence.”

“They couldn't find any evidence against her?” the second man asks.

“No, according to this article. She claimed she had nothing to do with the shooting of Felix Green.”

“Wow.” The men continue to read the article.

It is one week later. Diane D's family and relatives are at the organization reading another headline in the newspaper that reads: FEMALE POLICE OFFICER COMES OUT OF COMA AFTER SPENDING SIX DAYS. Nicolas says, "Did y'all read the article about the female police officer who was in the coma since last week?"

"Yeah," Margarita says. "I read she just came out of the coma after being in it for six days."

"She did. The doctors said this woman was near death! They said she suffered a fractured skull a busted ear drum, permanent vision impairment a broken jaw a broken arm and suffers from other injuries!"

"Yeah I read that too," Barry says. "They said she lost some permanent hearing in her ear!"

"That's terrible," Margarita says.

"It says her family never really wanted her to be a police officer, because they felt the job is too dangerous," Nicolas says.

"It is a dangerous job," Barry says. "Did this woman identify her attacker yet?"

"No not yet. The police are having a hard time communicating with her, being that she lost some of her hearing." Barry sadly looks at Nicolas.

The next day at the organization, Diane D is walking holding a cup of coffee in one hand and a newsletter in the other hand as she looks at the newsletter. She takes a sip of coffee. Kory approaches Diane D as he holds a newspaper. Diane D stops and looks at Kory as he says to her, "Boy Diane. You sure can't keep your name out of the headlines, can't you?"

"Keep my name out of the headlines?" Diane D asks. "What the hell are you talking about Kory?"

"Read this!" Kory shows Diane D the newspaper and points to a headline.

Diane D looks at the headline that reads: FEMALE POLICE OFFICER IDENTIFIES DIANE D'S COUSIN AS HER ATTACKER! Diane D becomes hysterical and shouts, "What! What the hell is this?! What do they mean this woman identifies my cousin as her attacker?!"

"This female officer is saying the same cousin of yours who beat up the other two female police officers beat her up! I'm sure we all know which cousin of yours this officer is talking about!"

Diane D angrily looks at Kory.

"Yeah Diane! It says right here that this officer identified the same cousin of yours who was arrested with you on the drunk driving and weapons possession charges!"

"Oh my God! Does my family know about this?!"

"Yeah, they all know about it! They're all downstairs reading the article in another newspaper right now! They're very shocked and devastated by this! They're shocked to find out that your cousin Dana was this woman's attacker too and left her for dead also!" Kory and Diane D suddenly hear a lot of noise approaching them. Diane D and Kory turn their heads to look. They see Diane D's entire family, relatives and other people in the organization hysterically hurrying to them!

Diane D's family, relatives and other people approach Diane D and Kory as Mary asks, "Diane did you see the paper yet?!"

"Yeah," Diane D says. "Kory just showed it to me."

"My God! We got to call up Christine and David!"

“They're not gonna be happy to hear about this Mom.”

“I know, but we got to tell them! We can't keep it from them!”

“They said the time and date this attack happened, which was last Sunday!” Barry shouts. He then turns to Gracy and says, “Ma, wasn't Dana home with you that whole day?”

“No,” Gracy says. “That's the day she had went out to the store and came back later!”

“Oh no!” everyone shouts.

“What time did she leave to go to the store that day?” Barry asks. “How long was she gone for?”

“She walked out the house and got into her car around two o'clock last Sunday afternoon while we were fixing the garden!” Gracy shouts. “It was around five o'clock when she came back home, so she was gone for around a few hours!”

“And it says right here, this female officer stated that the attack on her happened around three or four o'clock on that same day, the time while Dana was gone from the house!”

“Ma,” Aunt Celeste says. “Did Dana say anything or doing anything strange when she came back home that day? How was she behaving?”

“She was behaving the way she always behave,” Gracy says. “Mean and grumpy!”

“What about her cane?” Barry asks. “Did Dana have the cane when she came back home?”

“Yeah she had the cane when she came back home. She was still using it.”

“Yeah I saw her with the cane too when she came back home,” Uncle Willie says.

“I know Charlotte and I saw Dana with the cane that Sunday night in the bedroom,” Diane D says. “I know when Dana went to bed that night, Charlotte and I saw her put the cane right on the side of the night stand then she fell asleep.”

“Is that the same cane she left the house with earlier that day?” Barry asks. “Because this female officer stated right here that Dana whacked her across the head with the cane twice! And when Dana whacked her across the head the second time, she said Dana whacked her so hard that the cane broke in two!” Everyone shockingly looks at Barry. He then says, “She said she felt and saw the cane break in two, then Dana started beating her all in the face and head just before she blacked out! Now if you all saw Dana come back home with the cane, then it can't be the same cane she left out the house with! I don't think anybody can take two broken pieces of a cane and make it whole again!”

“They sure can't,” Margarita says. “Obviously she must have hurried somewhere and purchased the exact same kind of cane so nobody could notice the difference!”

“Well I think Charlotte noticed the difference that night,” Diane D says.

Everyone looks at Diane D stunned as Margarita asks, “Charlotte noticed the difference that night? What do you mean she noticed the difference?”

“Well after Dana fell asleep that night, Charlotte and I still kept the light on. We stayed up all night talking. Later on while Dana was tossing in her sleep, the blanket fell off her on the floor so Charlotte went to fix the blanket and put it back on Dana. While Charlotte was fixing the blanket, she noticed the cane, then she asked me how many canes does Dana have.”

“How many canes does Dana have?” Mary says. “Why did she asked that?”

“I asked Charlotte why did she asked me that. She told me because she thinks it's a different cane.”

“What?” everyone says.

“I told her no it's not a different cane, why would it be a different cane. She said she notice two scratch marks that was on the cane before weren't there anymore and the bottom of the cane looked a little different.”

“What?”

“I told Charlotte she's just imagining things that it IS the same cane. Then I asked her what's the big deal if the two small scratch marks disappeared. They probably just faded away. She told me she guess I'm right. Then Charlotte and I went to bed and never thought anything else about the cane. Then we both fell asleep.”

“Oh my God,” Gracy says.

“Diane, did Dana say anything to you about this incident?” Mary asks.

“No,” Diane D says. “She never said a word to me about it. Just like she never said a word to me about the rifles she hid inside the trunk or about chasing Felix Green down the highway shooting at him three times, nor did she say anything about beating up the first two female police officers.”

“You know Dana,” Barry says. “When she does stuff like this, she is very secretive about it.”

“I know,” Mary says. Mary turns to Gracy and asks, “Ma, is Dana home now?”

“Yeah,” Gracy says. “She's home with Grandpa and the rest of them.”

“Well I think we all better hurry and get there. Now that the police know about this, they're gonna be at the house any minute to pick up and arrest her.”

“Yeah that's true,” Barry says. “Let's go.” Barry and the rest of them all turn around and hurry towards the staircase.

The female police officer is in the doctor's office with her husband, a white male around his early 40's. The female officer's eyes and face are still swollen and bruised. She has a white bandage wrapped around her head and her arm in a cast and sling as her husband speaks to a doctor, a stocky male white around his late 50's. “Will she ever get the hearing in her ear back Doctor?” the female officer's husband asks.

“I'm afraid not,” the doctor says. “There's permanent damage to that inner ear. I don't think she'll ever hear out of that ear again.” The woman starts to cry on her husband's shoulder. “I'm sorry,” the doctor says. “I wish I could tell you otherwise, but I would be lying if I did. You say the other doctors told you the exact same thing, right?”

“Yeah they did,” the husband cries. “They also told us some of her vision might be permanently damage, because she almost lost her eye from this attack! She's seeing double vision all the time!”

“I know. That's terrible.”

“It is! See Doctor, I never really wanted my wife to be a police officer, neither did her parents, because we all know how stressful and dangerous the job can be, but she wanted to become an officer! So her parents and I supported her anyway! Now this happens!”

“Yeah, I know. When is her trial case?”

“The trial is in two days! We were hoping she would get some of her hearing back in that ear by the time the trial comes! We were afraid she won't be able to hear or answer any of the questions when she gets on the witness stand and testifies against her attacker!”

“Her attacker is the one who's related to Diane D, right?”

“Yeah! The attacker is Diane D's cousin Dana!”

“My God. Is she still in jail?”

“No! Her grandparents bailed her out yesterday!”

“She came out?”

“Yeah! I hear that woman's grandparents are always bailing her out of trouble!”

“Yeah I think I read something like that in the paper too. I hear her grandparents are very wealthy. I hear that her grandfather was born rich. I hear that he is an heir to some fortune worth multimillions of dollars that was started and left from his white paternal grandfather.”

“I heard that also. Well obviously most of their fortune is all going towards constantly getting their granddaughter Dana out of trouble!”

“Obviously it is. They should use that fortune to keep her in a mental institution because she is crazy.”

“She is!”

“Well I hope everything goes well for you guys at the trial.”

“I hope so too. Well thanks anyway doctor.”

“You're welcome. I wish I could do more.”

“You did your best. Thanks.”

“Take care.”

“You too.”

The woman limps away as she and her husband sadly leave out of the doctor's office.

The woman and her husband are walking on the sidewalk. They approach a parked car as she cries and weeps on her husband's shoulder. Her husband unlocks the passenger door and opens it. The woman gets inside the car. Her husband closes the door behind her. He walks in the street around to the driver's side. He starts up the engine and is about to pull off. A stray bullet suddenly hits the passenger side of the car! The passenger window and the windshield window both shatter into pieces and fall onto the woman as the woman screams and keel over to her husband. The husband becomes frightened and screams! He quickly speeds off into the distance!

Around an hour later at the hospital, the woman's husband is all hysterical as several police officers surround him! “Someone just shot at our car!” the female officer's husband shouts.

“Do know where the bullet came from?!” a male white police officer shouts.

“No, I have no idea! All I know is that our car was parked right near a big park and trees!”

“You say the bullet entered your car through the passenger window?!”

“Yes!”

“Did the passenger side of the car face the park?”

“Yes it did! If you came out the passenger side of the car, you would have been facing the park!”

“You know who would want to target you or your wife?”

“No! Obviously somebody that doesn't want us to appear in trial the day after tomorrow! Whoever did this don't want my wife to appear in court! She was left for dead when she was attacked! And now I think whoever left her for dead wants to finish the job!”

“Well we have police and detectives over the area your car was parked at right now.”

A white male doctor approaches the husband. The husband looks at the doctor and asks, “How's my wife doctor?!”

“She's alright right now,” the doctor says. “She suffered a lot of cuts and bruises from the broken glass, but the bullet didn't hit her.”

“Thank God for that!”

“Are her parents or other family members coming here?”

“Yeah, her parents are on their way over here. They're bringing our two kids.”

“Okay. You can go up and see her now.”

“Thanks.”

“You're welcome.” The husband hurries away with the officers.

The next morning, two people in the street read several newspaper articles with headlines the read: FEMALE POLICE OFFICER GETS SKINNED BY STRAY BULLET FROM A HIGH POWERED RIFLE AS SHE IS ABOUT TO TAKE OFF IN CAR WITH HUSBAND: - FEMALE POLICE OFFICER GETS SKINNED BY STRAY BULLET FROM A HIGH POWERED RIFLE THE DAY AFTER DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA IS BAILED OUT OF JAIL: - FEMALE POLICE OFFICER GETS SKINNED BY STRAY BULLET FROM A HIGH POWERED RIFLE TWO DAYS BEFORE THE TRIAL OF DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA:

Diane D's uncle Willie sits in the subway. He looks around and sees four different adult passengers reading different newspapers. He suddenly spots the front page headline on one of the paper that reads: FEMALE POLICE OFFICER GETS SKINNED BY STRAY BULLET FROM A HIGH POWERED RIFLE THE DAY AFTER DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA IS BAILED OUT OF JAIL: Uncle Willie starts to panic. He looks at the front page headline of the other passenger's paper that reads: POLICE FEAR DIANE D'S COUSIN IS ON THE ATTACK AGAIN!: - Uncle Willie panics again! He looks at the front page headline of the other passenger's paper that reads: POLICE PREPARE TO QUESTION DIANE D'S COUSIN: He looks at the front page headline of the other passenger's paper that reads: POLICE FEAR DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA MAY HAVE STOLEN ANOTHER RIFLE: Uncle Willie jumps out of his seat! He rushes to the exit doors! He impatiently waits for the train to stop! The train finally stops. The exit doors open. Uncle Willie dashes out the subway car!

An hour later, Diane D's family and relatives are all hysterical as they follow Uncle Willie to his bedroom closet! “I hurried here as soon as I spotted those headlines on those passengers' newspapers who were reading them on the subway!” Uncle Willie shouts as he hysterically unlocks the combination.

“Hurry Willie!” Barry shouts.

“I am! I hope these rifles are still here!”

“Yeah we all hope so!” Gracy says.

Uncle Willie finally unlocks the combination and opens the door. They all look inside. They see both of his rifles inside the closet. They all become relieved. "My God," Mary says. "That was a scare. Good thing these rifles are still in here!"

"Unless someone could have stolen them and put them back," Barry says.

"Let's hope not because nobody knows the new combination to this lock but me!" Uncle Willie says.

"That's good. So far this is good news."

"It is." Uncle Willie closes his closet door and locks it. He turns to everybody. They all give a sigh of relief. Uncle Willie then says, "Come on everybody. Let's get back downstairs." They all turn and walk towards the door, talking and breathing a sigh of relief.

The next day, a man and woman in the street are reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA GETS ARRESTED FOR BEING SUSPECTED OF BEING BEHIND STRAY BULLET ATTACK ON FEMALE OFFICER! FEMALE POLICE OFFICER'S TRIAL DATE CANCELED AND POSTPONED, DUE TO HER ALMOST GETTING HIT WITH STRAY BULLET! "This article says Diane D's cousin Dana got arrested yesterday!" the man says. "The police arrested Dana and questioned her for five hours about the stray bullet on that female officer! She claimed she had nothing to do with the incident! Then it says the police couldn't find any possible evidence against her in either case, so they let her go!"

"What!" the woman says. "They let her back out on the streets again?"

"Yeah, according to this article. They're also postponing her trial for another three weeks." The man and woman look at each other. They then look at the article again.

At the organization the next day, Diane D, her family, relatives and Michael read a newspaper with a headline that reads: NEWSPAPER REPORTER FELIX GREEN'S CONDITION IMPROVES! DOCTOR'S SAY HE'LL SURVIVE SHOOTING BUT MAY SUFFER PERMANENT DAMAGE TO HIS INSIDE ORGANS! "Oh wow," Nicolas says. "This article says that Felix Green is making a pretty good recovery from the shooting!"

"Oh thank God for that," Diane D's family say.

"But may suffer permanent damage to his inside organs!"

"Oh no!"

"Nicolas, does that article say what permanent damages Felix Green is suffering?" Margarita asks.

"Well he's gonna have to wear a catheter and a waste bag on his side for the rest of his life!" Nicolas says.

"What!" Diane D's family shout. "A catheter and a waste bag?!"

"Yeah! A waste bag to collect his waste! They said his insides and intestines were so damaged from that shooting that he's not gonna be able to go to the bathroom the normal way anymore!"

"Not go to the bathroom the normal way?!" Mary shouts.

"Oh my God!" Margarita shouts.

"Whenever Felix Green recovers, he's not gonna be able to work anymore!" Nicolas shouts. "He's gonna have to be on permanent disability, just like those three female police officers!"

"Permanent disability?!"

“Yeah!”

“Sorry to hear he might have to be on permanent disability, but thank God he's still alive! The most important thing is, the doctors saved his life!”

“What’s so good about the doctors saving his life Grandma?!”

“What’s so good about it?”

“What do you mean ‘what’s so good about it’ Nicolas?!” Barry asks.

“It's not gonna make a difference that the doctors saved Felix Green’s life if he's thinking about killing himself?” Nicolas shouts.

“What!” the family and relatives shout. “Killing himself?!”

“Yeah! It says right here that Felix Green is so upset about his condition that he's thinking suicide!”

“Suicide?!” Margarita shouts. “Oh no!”

“He’s on a suicide watch! He doesn’t want to live with that condition and I don't blame him!” Nicolas and the rest of the family look at each other stunned.

It is three weeks later. Diane D’s family and relatives are inside the courtroom looking on anxiously as Diane D, Michael and Tony come down the aisle then turn and walk inside the rows to take a seat.

Prosecutor Jacob Blair is outside the courtroom in the hallway yelling at David and Christine shouting, “This is the third female police officer your daughter Dana beat up and attacked! What is her problem?! She seems to be having a field day on female police officers! First she caused Officer Janice Cooper to lose her unborn child! Second, she injured Officer Janice Cooper so bad that Officer Janice Cooper might not ever be able to have any children at all in the future! Third, she literally threw Officer Liz Martinez right into harm’s way of a live bullet that was meant for her, using Officer Liz Martinez as a human shield, causing her to get shot in the spine making her crippled for life! Number four, she broke this last female officer's jaw and caused her to have permanent hearing loss in one ear and some permanent vision impairment! All three of these female officers wind up having to leave the police force! They all became so devastated by what happened to them! Now they all have to get permanent disability because of the permanent injuries they sustained while on the job, they can't even work anymore, all because of your daughter Dana! She attacked police officers when two of her sisters were fighting inside that church, causing three male police officers to lay in the hospital suffering from injuries put on them! What the hell is wrong with your daughter Dana?! She doesn’t seem to have any regard for authority figures or for human life at all! Why did your daughter Dana do all that?!”

“We all asked Dana why did she go crazy and attacked these female officers!” Christine shouts. “All she kept telling us is that those officers putted their hands on her!”

“We keep telling her those female officers putted their hands on her because they needed to frisk her because they felt she was armed and dangerous!” David says. “We told her those female officers were only doing their job!”

“Now newspaper reporter Felix Green has to be on permanent disability too!” Jacob Blair shouts. “He’s suffering permanent injuries to his intestines because he was shot with a high powered rifle! He was shot around forty-five minutes before that last female officer was found beaten up and left for dead! I think your daughter Dana shot Felix Green! I’m gonna make sure she do some real hard time for these crimes because she is a danger to society!” Jacob Blair angrily walks away as Christine and David anxiously follow him.

The next day, two men and a woman in the street are reading an article in the paper with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA GETS ACQUITTED IN THE SHOOTING CASE OF NEWSPAPER REPORTER FELIX GREEN AND STRAY BULLET OF FEMALE OFFICER! NO EVIDENCE COULD BE FOUND AGAINST HER, BUT SHE WILL GET SENT TO PRISON FOR BEATING FEMALE OFFICER! “Did y'all read this article?” one of the men says. “Diane D's cousin Dana got acquitted in the shooting case of that newspaper reporter Felix Green and the stray bullet of that female police officer when the female police officer was getting into the car with her husband! No evidence could be found against Dana, but she's gonna spend a year in prison and a year of probation for attacking this last female officer!”

“What!” the woman says. “No evidence could be found against her?!”

“No! They can't find the weapon or anything! But still, Dana is being sent to prison again!”

“Yeah I heard,” the second man says. “She's only gonna get a year in prison and a year probation! That's nothing compared to all she did!”

“I know. Her grandparents keep hiring these good lawyers for her!” The people continue to look at and read the article.

It is eight months later. Teresa is inside her apartment. She is about to walk out her front door. The telephone rings. Teresa turns and goes to the telephone. She picks up the telephone receiver. She speaks into it and says, “Hello?”

“Hey Teresa,” Diane D says from the other end of the phone.

“Hey Diane! What's going on?!”

“I have good news again!”

“You do?”

“Yeah.”

“Well what is it? Lay it on me.”

“They're releasing Dana from prison next week!”

“They are?!”

“Yeah!”

“No kidding! A year didn't pass yet! Dana's only been in jail for eight months! Why are they letting her out early?”

“Good behavior again!”

“Good behavior?!”

“Yeah! My family is gonna meet her next week when the authorities bring her down to the city!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“That's good!”

“It is. Well I gotta go Teresa. I just wanted to tell you the news real quick. I'll see you when I come by your place tonight.”

“Okay Diane! I'll be here!” Teresa excitedly hangs up the phone.

It is two weeks later. Diane D's entire family and relatives are inside Margarita and Tomas' mini-mansion. They sadly and tearfully look at a newspaper headline that reads: NEWSPAPER REPORTER FELIX GREEN HAS COMMITTED SUICIDE! HIS BODY WAS FOUND HANGED IN HIS FAMILY'S BATHROOM! The doorbell rings. Marilyn turns and goes to the front door. She looks through the peephole then opens the door. Teresa sadly and worriedly comes inside the house. Marilyn closes the door behind Teresa. Teresa slowly and nervously walks into the living room. She approaches everyone and says, "Hey everybody." Teresa sees everyone looking at the headline. She then says, "I guess you all read about what happened to that newspaper reporter Felix Green huh?"

"Well he succeeded in killing himself Teresa," Nicolas says.

"Yeah," Margarita tearfully says. "It's so sad."

"Are you all sure it was suicide?" Teresa asks.

"According to his family it was," Barry says. "It says right here that Felix Green was home with his family in their apartment when it happened. His family stated that he told them he was going to the bathroom. So when Felix Green went to the bathroom, his family noticed that he hasn't come back out the bathroom for a long time. They became worried and went to check on him. They knocked on the bathroom door, but he didn't answer. When they opened the bathroom door, to their horror they found his body hanging from a clothe line in the bathroom!"

"Yeah I read that too. Is his family sure it wasn't murder?"

"No one else was in the bathroom with Felix Green Teresa," Michael says. "There was no one else in the apartment but Felix Green and his family."

"That's right," Nicolas says. "The bathroom didn't have any windows where anybody could come in or go out of, but Felix Green stated that ever since he came out of surgery from being shot, that he did not want to live with the condition his body was in! He was put on a suicide watch for several months. After that, everything seemed to be going normal with his state of mind. No one thought he was still having suicidal thoughts. Obviously he was still thinking about killing himself without letting anyone on to it."

"That's terrible," Teresa sadly says. "Where's Diane?"

"She's upstairs lying on the bed," Mary says.

"She is? Can I go see her?"

"Yeah, I guess you can Teresa," Margarita says. "Come on. I'll walk you up."

"Okay."

Margarita leads Teresa away towards the staircase.

Diane D is in the bedroom lying face down on the bed fully dressed in a shirt and pants with her legs spread apart, hands beneath her head as she faces away from the door, firmly staring at the window out into space. There is a knock at the door. Diane D does not answer. She ignores the knock as she stares at the window into space. There is another knock at the door.

Outside the bedroom door, Margarita and Teresa are standing there facing the door. Margarita turns the door knob and opens the bedroom door. She looks into the room at Diane D. She goes into the room as Teresa follows her in.

Margarita walks towards the bed. She comes around the side of the bed to where

Diane D is facing. She sees Diane D's eyes open staring at the window and says, "Hey Diane. Are you okay baby?"

Diane D looks at Margarita and says, "I'm alright Grandma."

"Okay. I just want to let you know Teresa is here."

Teresa comes around the side of the bed and waves to Diane D a little. Diane D looks and sees Teresa. She rolls her eyes and stares into space again.

Margarita turns to Teresa and says, "I'll let you two be."

"Okay Miss Margarita."

Margarita goes back around the other side of the bed. She goes towards the doorway. She leaves the room and closes the door behind herself.

Teresa nervously looks at Diane D and says, "Hey Diane. You mind if I sit down?" Diane D does not respond. Teresa slowly sits down on the bed beside Diane D. She nervously looks at Diane D. Then she turns her head and looks out the window. She turns her head back towards Diane D and asks, "Are you okay Diane? I heard and read about Felix Green's suicide." Teresa tearfully says, "It's so sad what happened. Diane, I know what Felix Green did was wrong when he threatened to expose you and Dana in the newspaper, then calling you that horrible name then your family wind up attacking him for it, but you and your family put that all behind y'all, didn't y'all?"

Diane D turns her body over. She slowly sits up on the bed, firmly faces Teresa and says, "No we didn't put that behind us Teresa. Why would we put that behind us?"

"Well I thought y'all did. Diane can I ask you something? Do you think Dana had anything to do with shooting Felix Green?"

"I don't know Teresa."

"Well a lot of people think she did?"

"Felix Green admitted that he's slammed other people in his newspaper before. Maybe one of those people shot him."

"But Diane, Felix Green claimed Dana tried to shoot at him before when she chased him down the highway. He had told police since Dana tried to shoot him before, she can probably do it again. Not only that. I heard that the last female officer who was beat up had stated in court, that while she was sitting in her patrol car, she saw Dana's car speeding away from the distance she heard the gun shots coming from, which is close to where Felix Green worked and which is around the time he was shot. The female officer claimed that's when she chased after Dana's vehicle and pulled Dana's car over. That's when Dana came out of her car then winds up beating the female officer. Diane, does Dana know about Felix Green's suicide? Did she see the article yet?"

"Of course she saw the article. My Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike said they showed the article to Dana earlier."

"Oh yeah? How did she react?"

"I don't know, I wasn't there. All I heard, is that Dana said my family and I should all be glad that Felix Green's not around anymore."

"What? She said you all should be glad that Felix Green's not around anymore?"

"That's what my other grandparents told us she said."

"Is Dana still at your other grandparents' house now?"

"Yeah, so far she still is."

"Diane, it wasn't right what Felix Green said about you and said what he was gonna write about you and Dana, but your family was gonna try to reason with him and keep it from Dana. Your family didn't want Dana to even know about this at all, right?"

"No they didn't. But Mickey felt Dana had the right to know about it and told her about it anyway."

"So Dana winds up finding out about that whole thing and this seems to be the entire result. A newspaper reporter gets chased down the highway and gets his vehicle shot at three times, three female officers beat up, one of them gets a miscarriage, loses her unborn baby and will never be able to get pregnant again which means she will never have children, the other female officer gets shot in the back and winds up paralyzed and is confined to a wheel chair for the rest of her life, they both wind up having to leave the police force then be on permanent disability, the third female officer's vision and hearing is damaged for life, she winds up having to leave the police force then be on permanent disability also, the newspaper reporter gets shot, his inside organs gets ruined for life, he winds up committing suicide because of it. All of these people had permanent injuries Diane!" Teresa cries. "Diane, when Dana came out of prison for beating up the first two female officers, I overheard someone in your family said, that Dana approached Mickey and asked him, if he knew Felix Green's home address or business address on the day she came out of prison! It was like she didn't waste anytime trying to look for him! It sounds like she was thinking about Felix Green the whole entire time she was in prison! I heard that Mickey told Dana that he doesn't know Felix Green's home or business address and that he asked Dana 'why she wanted to know'. I heard that Dana told Mickey that she wanted to send Felix Green something. What in the world would she want to send to Felix Green?"

"I don't know Teresa, but I'm sure it wasn't a Christmas card."

"I'm sure it wasn't either. I heard that when Mickey asked Dana what she wanted to send to Felix Green, I heard that she told him never mind, then she just turned around and walked away. Did you or your family ever found out what Dana wanted to send Felix Green?"

"Yeah. She told my family she just wanted to send Felix Green a letter of apology."

"A letter of apology? That's what she said? Y'all didn't believe her did y'all?"

"Of course we didn't believe her Teresa. We didn't know what Dana really wanted to send Felix Green. All we know, is that someone sent him a bullet to the stomach."

"My God Diane. I heard being the fact that Felix Green killed himself because of what the shooter did to him, the authorities want to charge the shooter with murder."

"No one knows who shot Felix Green Teresa."

"Diane, that last female officer saw Dana's car fleeing from the scene where the gunshots were coming from!"

"They still couldn't prove it at the trial that Dana did it! They couldn't find the shooting weapon! No evidence could be found against her, that's why she winds up being acquitted!"

"I know. I hear they're supposed to have Felix Green's funeral and wake Friday morning. Are you or your family going to it?"

"I don't know whether my family is gonna go to it or not. I know I'm not going to be there."

"You're not?"

"No."

"Diane, it kind of sounds like you haven't forgiven Felix Green either for what he said and threatened to write about you and Dana.”

“No Teresa, I guess I haven't.”

“Oh. Okay. Well, I would like to be there at the funeral and show Felix Greens' family some moral support.”

“Teresa, you might not be able to show Felix Green's family any moral support at all because I heard most of his family isn't even going to be at the funeral.”

“His family isn't going to be at the funeral? Well why not?”

“They're the ones who found his body hanging! I heard they were so shocked by the horror that three of them had to be committed!”

“Three of them had to be committed?!”

“Yeah. I heard their state of mind is not right. None of them can make it to the funeral.”

Teresa frighteningly looks at Diane D as Diane D frustratingly lays back down on the bed then turns face down with her arms and hands beneath her head as she faces away from Teresa. Teresa sadly stares at Diane D.

Three days later at the funeral, the Diaz-Davidson Choir sings 'Praise Him'. Hundreds of people and reporters walk crying with eyes full of tears, looking down at Felix Green's body as it lays in a casket.

The following day, Diane D's family, relatives and a whole lot of other people are at a church function. There are around a hundred people there. A lot of them are reading newspaper articles with the headline that reads: NEWSPAPER REPORTER FELIX GREEN LAYS TO REST! They all sadly look at the article.

Lost In The Woods

One month on a nice cool spring day in Upstate, New York, Diane D, her family, around forty relatives including Dana, her sisters Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda, some of their Jamaican relatives, Tony, Michael, members of the Diaz-Davidson Band, Teresa and Joseph are setting up the campsite. Michael smiles with his hands on his hips as he looks around the scenery. He then says, "Wow, what a beautiful scenery here way Upstate. We're about half-way to Canada."

"Yeah we are," Grandpa Mike says.

Diane D sets up the tables. Teresa approaches Diane D and says, "Diane, are we still gonna go hiking in the woods?"

"Yeah in a little while Teresa," Diane D says. "I'm gonna help set up the camp first."

"Okay, I'll help too." Teresa starts to help Diane D as Diane D continues to set up the table looking up at the table umbrella adjusting it.

Several hours later, Diane D and around twenty-five of them including, Dana, her Jamaican relatives, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda, Mickey, Michael, Tony, Gracy, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, other relatives and Teresa are hiking through the woods in three lines with Dana at the head of the line slowly walking backwards between two of her Jamaican male cousins who are wearing dreadlocks as she faces the crowd watching everybody on the line. Dana slowly turns around and faces forward. She is wearing a shotgun strapped around her back and shoulder with her long black hair loosed out around her back and sides. Everyone continues to follow her and her two Jamaican male cousins. Diane D walks in the middle of the pack holding a long stick, firmly moving the weeds and bushes out of her way. Teresa nervously comes beside Diane D. She taps Diane D on the shoulder. Diane D turns to Teresa and stops as Teresa stops and whispers to her, "Diane, why is Dana carrying a shotgun strapped to her back?"

"She's carrying it for protection Teresa, just in case we run into some wild animals like a bear or something," Diane D says.

"Oh really? Well I wish she wouldn't wear that. That shotgun scares me. I think of Felix Green when I see that shotgun with Dana."

"Don't worry Teresa, everything's gonna be alright. Just try not to think about Felix Green, alright?" Diane D looks away from Teresa and walks up ahead as Teresa nervously looks at her.

An hour later, Dana, Diane D, Michael, Mickey, Teresa and the rest of the crowd are still walking through the woods. Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda talk and laugh with each other as they walk in the front of the line near Dana. Landa throws a peanut on the ground. As they all continue to walk, Landa looks to the side. She then shouts, "Ooh there goes some deer!" Everyone stops and looks to the side. They see three deer way in the distance. Two big ones and one small one. They all stop to admire the three deer.

"Oh look how cute they are," Gracy says.

"Let's go pet them," Missy says.

"No we shouldn't go near the deer and disturb them," Aunt Jean says. "They might run off. Let's just keep watching them from the distance." They all continue to watch and admire the three deer.

"Come on everybody," Diane D says. "Let's hike some more." Everybody turns away from the deer and start to walk forward again.

Everyone continues to walk through the woods. "I'm getting hungry," Linda says.

"So am I," Landa says.

"Okay," Gracy says. "I think we better turn back around and head back to the camp because it's getting late." They all turn and start to head towards the camp.

It is one hour later. Diane D stands with her hands on her hips, holding the long stick looking around the woods as everyone stands behind her looking around the woods also. "We can't find our way back to the camp," she says.

"I know," Michael says. "It's almost getting dark and we need to find our way back to the camp while it's still some daylight so we can be able to see."

"I'm hungry," Landa says.

"Don't worry Landa," Aunt Jean says. "We'll make it back to the camp." They all continue to walk.

Thirty minutes has past. Diane D and everyone else slowly walk as they all look towards the side. "We still can't find our way back," Diane D says. "I don't believe this."

"I don't believe this either and it's almost dark," Aunt Celeste says. "We're really not gonna find our way back!"

"I'm hungry," Londa says. "I want to hurry and find our way back to the camp."

"Yeah me too," Missy says.

Dana approaches her sisters and tells them, "Don't worry girls, I'll get some food for y'all and feed you. I'm gonna get some food for everybody."

Everybody puzzled looks at Dana as Aunt Celeste asks, "Get some food for everybody?"

"How are you going to do that Dana?" Aunt Jean says. "There's no food around here."

"Yeah Dana," Diane D says. "Did you see berries somewhere?"

"Just wait right here everybody," Dana says. "I'll be back." Dana turns away and leaves. She goes and disappears into the woods.

An hour later, everyone is looking around puzzled. "Where did Dana go?" Diane D asks. "She's been gone for an hour."

"She has," Michael says.

"Well I'm going to call her cell phone again," Aunt Celeste says.

"Celeste, we tried ten times to call Dana's cell phone and she didn't pick up," Gracy says.

"I hope no wild animal got to her," Londa says.

"I hope not either," Michael says. "Let's sneak around and follow where she might have went." Michael and everyone else walk through the woods looking and sneaking around for Dana.

"Where could she have gone?" Diane D says.

"I don't know Diane," Michael says. "We don't see a sign of her anywhere."

"I'm getting scared," Landa says.

"Yeah me too," Missy says. Everyone nervously looks at Missy and Landa.

"Don't worry girls," Gracy says. "We'll find Dana." Everybody continues to walk, looking and sneaking around for Dana.

Twenty minutes later, everyone continues to walk through the woods. Missy looks to the side. She then says, "Hey. There goes those three deer again!" Everybody looks to the side. They suddenly spot the three deer way in the distance again walking. They stop and look at the three deer again. They smile and admire the three deer slowly walking away in the distance. All of a sudden, they hear a gunshot coming from a distance and see the three deer turn and frighteningly run off!

Everyone becomes startled as Mickey shouts, "What the ....!" Everyone looks where the gunshot sound is coming from. To their horror, they see Dana way in the distance on a hill aiming and pointing the rifle right towards the deer! Diane D and everyone else then see Dana jump down the hill and charge right after the deer with the rifle as Dana's long black hair bounces around her! Everyone starts to scream and shout, "Dana noooo!"

"What are you doing Dana?!" Gracy shouts. "Nooooo!"

Michael turns to everyone and shouts, "She doesn't see or hear us! We gotta go stop her!" Michael, Diane D, Mickey and everyone else start to race towards Dana!

On the other side of the woods, Dana continues to charge after the three deer!

The three deer continue to frighteningly run for their lives!

Back on the other side of the woods, Michael, Diane D, Mickey and everyone else continue to race towards Dana!

On the other side of the woods again, Dana continues to charge after the three deer!

The three deer continue to run for their lives!

As Dana continues to charge after the deer, she suddenly jumps up on a log and stands with her legs and feet spread apart as her hair flows around her shoulder! She points and aims the rifle right at the three deer again! She then shoots at the three deer!

One of the two big deer get shot down and scream as the other two deer continue to frighteningly run off! The deer that got shot down whimpers.

Back on the other side of the woods, everyone stops running and shockingly look towards the deer in the distance. They turn back towards Dana and see her on top of a hill! They scream out, "Dana noooooo!"

Dana hears her family and turns her head towards them. She becomes shocked to see them. She angrily jumps down from the hill! She starts to race right towards her family with the shotgun!

Everyone shockingly looks at Dana in the dim distance as she rushes right towards them with the shotgun!

Dana angrily approaches her family as she holds the shotgun. She shouts to them, "What the hell are y'all doing following me?!"

"Why the hell did you shoot that deer Dana!" Aunt Jean shouts.

"What the hell you mean why did I shoot that deer?! Missy and the triplets were saying that they were hungry! So I shot the deer so they and the rest of us can all eat it!"

"What!" Aunt Celeste. "So they and the rest of us can all eat it?!"

"You expect us to eat that deer Dana?!" Diane D shouts. "Just like that?!"

"Dana why didn't you tell us you were gonna shoot that deer?!" Mickey shouts.

"If I would have told you all what I was gonna do, y'all would have tried to stop me!" Dana shouts.

"You damn right we would have tried to stop you Dana!" Aunt Jean shouts.

"That's why I didn't tell you!"

"We are not gonna eat that deer Dana," Aunt Laura shouts. "You shouldn't have shot it!"

"If you all don't eat the deer, that means I shot it all for nothing!"

"You damn right you shot the deer all for nothing Dana, because we're not going to eat it!" Aunt Jean shouts.

"Come on, y'all bloody eat meat everyday! Why is it different when I go to kill an animal for meat?!"

"We don't normally witness animals getting shot Dana!" Michael shouts.

"Well y'all wouldn't have witnessed this animal getting shot either, if y'all hadn't snuck around and followed me!"

The whimpering sound of the deer continues. It then disappears. Everyone puzzled looks to where the whimpering sound was. They all stare towards the area. They look back at Dana as Gracy says, "Dana, I don't hear the whimpering sound anymore. Is the deer still alive?"

"I don't know yet Grandma," Dana says. "I'm gonna go to it and find out. If the animal is still alive when I get there, I'm gonna shoot it again."

"What!" everybody shouts. "Shoot it again?!"

“What the hell you're gonna shoot the animal again for Dana?!” Michael shouts.

“That's right Dana!” Aunt Jean shouts. “We're all hungry, but we're not THAT hungry!”

“Dana don't shoot the animal again,” Missy pleads. “Please don't!”

“Why not Missy?!” Dana shouts. “If y'all hadn't complained y'all were hungry, I wouldn't have shot the damn thing!”

“We didn't expect you to do something like that Dana!” Linda shouts.

“Look! If y'all not gonna eat the damn thing, I might as well just sell its meat to a butcher shop!”

“Sell its meat to a butcher shop?!” everybody shouts.

“That's right sell it to a butcher shop! I'm gonna go finish it off.” Dana turns away as she angrily gets the shotgun ready.

“Nooo Dana!” Aunt Jean shouts. “Don't do it!” Dana ignores Aunt Jean as she walks back towards the woods.

“Dana please!” Missy shouts. Dana ignores Missy as she disappears into the woods.

“Godammit Dana!” Aunt Jean shouts as she and Missy angrily start to run after Dana! Everyone screams as they quickly grab and pull Aunt Jean and Missy back!

Michael comes right in front of Aunt Jean and Missy and says, “Aunt Jean, Missy, don't try to stop her, the deer is already hurt! Maybe this will be best, that way the deer will be out of its misery!”

“No Michael!” Missy shouts. “I don't want to hear another gunshot!”

“Maybe we won't hear another gunshot Missy, the deer is probably already dead! If we don't hear another gunshot, that means the deer is already dead. If we DO hear another gunshot, that means the deer was still alive.” Everyone worriedly looks at Michael. They nervously look out towards the dark woods and wait. They suddenly hear another gun shot way out in the dark distance as they all jump! They become startled as they hear the deer screaming loudly! They jump and become startled again as they hear another gun shot! They hear no more sound from the deer. They all become sad as Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Teresa start to cry. Some of Diane D's relatives try to comfort them as Diane D stands there staring at them.

Dana suddenly comes out of the woods. She comes back to everybody with the shotgun. Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Teresa quickly stop crying as they and everyone else look at Dana. Dana looks at everybody and says, “The animal is dead.” She looks away from everybody and walks several yards away to a nap sack that's on the ground. She bends down on the ground and places the shotgun on the side. She grabs the nap sack and pulls some large trash bags out of the nap sack as everyone stunned looks at her not knowing what to do or say. Dana finishes pulling the large trash bags out of the nap sack as everyone continues to stare at her. She then turns to everybody and firmly says, “Does anybody want to come help me wrap the deer's body?” Everyone nervously looks at Dana.

Michael, Mickey and two of the male cousins look at each other, then back at Dana. “We'll help you Dana,” Michael says.

Dana stands back up. She bends down and picks up the shotgun. She turns to Michael and says, “Okay let's go.” Dana turns away and goes back towards the woods as Michael, Mickey and the two male cousins follow her. They all disappear into the woods.

Twenty minutes later, Michael, Mickey and the two male cousins bring and carry the deer's body wrapped in the trash bags as Dana firmly walks behind them.

It is now dark. Everyone continues to walk through the woods with Michael, Mickey and the two male cousins walking at the end of the line carrying the deer's body as Dana follows them with the shotgun strapped back on to her back. Londa looks ahead and shouts, "Hey, here comes Nicolas and the rest of them! They found us!"

"Alriiiiight!" everyone else shouts as they all see Nicolas, the rest of their family and three state troopers approaching them with flashlights. Londa and the rest of them all run to them.

A half hour later, everybody is back at the campsite. Diane D's family and the rest of the relatives surround the back of the pick-up truck as five of the men pick-up the dead deer's body and put it on the back of the pick-up truck. The deer's eyes and face sadly peek out beneath the trash bag. Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Teresa stand several yards away sadly staring at the deer's eyes and face. They see some blood seep out of the bag. Nicolas covers the blood and deer's eyes and head with the trash bag as he and the rest of the men start to tie the deer's body down with strings.

Dana approaches with some extra string. She starts to help tie down the deer's body. She looks across the pick-up truck at her uncle Kevin as he helps tie the deer's body down. She then says, "Uncle Kevin, I want to bring this deer to the butcher shop tomorrow morning, could you and Uncle Ronald come with me?"

"Sure we'll come with you Dana," Uncle Kevin says.

"Good. I want to bring it there first thing in the morning."

"You got it Dana."

Aunt Jean gives Dana an angry stare as she stands there with her arms folded. Everyone continues to look at the deer's body wrapped under the trash bags as Dana and the men tie it down.

Two days later, a man is sitting in the barber shop, reading an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA SHOOTS AND KILLS BAMBI!

Diane D's family and Michael are at the organization. They are inside the office reading a different newspaper with a headline article that reads: DIANE D'S COUSIN DANA SHOOTS AND KILLS A DEER WITH A RIFLE IN THE UPSTATE WOODS! DID DEER AND FELIX GREEN GET SHOT BY THE SAME PERSON? Alex comes into the office holding a newspaper in his hand. He approaches everyone and says, "I see y'all reading the article too. So your niece Dana actually did shoot and kill a deer in the woods Upstate?"

"Yeah she did Alex," Barry says.

"How do y'all feel about this whole thing?"

"We're all sad about it. Especially with them all getting lost, getting hungry and Dana had to go kill an animal for it and they all witnessed it."

"Yeah," Aunt Jean says. "I got emotionally sick by what happened. I didn't have an appetite at all. I completely lost my appetite when I saw the deer get shot.”

“It was very gross when me, Mickey and our cousins first saw the deer's bullet riddled body and started wrapping it up,” Michael says. “It was blood all on the weeds.”

“I kept thinking about the deer the whole time we were riding back home and kept thinking about it all day yesterday. Especially seeing that deer's blood all over the back of the pick-up truck when we all got home and seeing the sad look in it's eyes.”

“Oh yeah?” Alex says. “I heard Dana and two of her uncles went to the butcher shop to sell the deer meat yesterday morning.”

“Yeah they did,” Barry says. “The butcher shop paid Dana a lot of money. Right after that, Dana took the money and went shopping at the supermarket.”

“She did? How much money did the butcher shop pay her?”

“We don't know. Dana never told us how much money the butcher shop paid her, but my brothers said Dana bought and paid for three full shopping carts worth of groceries. They helped Dana bring all the groceries home to my parents' house. Later that night, Dana cooked a lot of the food and fed everybody in the house.”

“Really? Wow. Obviously killing a deer didn't bother her, did it?”

“Nope it didn't,” Aunt Jean says. “She didn't have any emotions about killing the deer.”

“She's not sorry about it at all?”

“The word ‘sorry’ is not even in Dana's vocabulary. The only thing Dana is sorry about, is that we all refused to eat the deer.”

“Wow. How in the world, did this information about Dana shooting a deer in the Upstate woods wind up in the newspaper anyway?”

“Well when Dana and my two brothers took the deer's body to the butcher shop, the butcher shop guys recognized Dana as Diane's cousin from all those incidents that was in the headlines,” Barry says. “They found out that Dana shot the deer in the Upstate woods. After Dana sold the deer meat, she and my two brothers left the butcher shop. The next day we know, is that this headline and article about Dana shooting and killing Bambi is in the newspaper.”

“My God. You think the butcher shop guys went and told the story to the newspaper?”

“Either they did or they told somebody else about it and that person told the newspaper about it. All we know, is that none of us told the story to the newspaper. The newspaper is now comparing the deer shooting incident to the Felix Green shooting incident, questioning did the deer and Felix Green get shot by the same person.”

“Yeah I know. Can you imagine that? How do Dana's sisters feel about this whole thing?”

“Well they feel it's their fault the deer got killed,” Aunt Jean says.

“They do? Why?”

“They said if they never complained that they were hungry, the deer wouldn't have got killed. I told Dana's sisters it is not their fault the deer got killed, they didn't know that it was gonna happen. I told them we all were getting very hungry, but none of us expected THAT to happen. We didn't expect to witness something like that. Now Dana's sisters are all afraid to tell Dana the next time they get hungry.”

“I don't blame them. By the way, is your niece Dana some sort of sharp shooter?”

“Sharp shooter?” Barry asks.

“Yeah.”

“Not that we know of. Why?”

“Because it sounds to me, like this isn’t the first time she’s shot and killed an animal. It sounds to me, like this isn’t the first time she’s shot anything! When some of the staff members were reading the article downstairs, they said it sounds like Dana has shot at things plenty of times before because she sounds too experienced when it comes to shooting something, especially from a far distance!” Everyone puzzled stares at Alex. Alex then says, “Where’s Diane by the way?”

“She and Dana went out somewhere together,” Mary says.

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“Did they go to the butcher shop?”

“To the butcher shop?”

“Yeah.”

“No Alex, why would they go to the butcher shop? Dana already sold the deer meat to them. She already made a huge profit out of the deer meat, she doesn’t need to go back there.”

“Well after people saw and read the article about Diane D’s cousin Dana shooting and killing a deer in the Upstate woods then selling the dead deer to the butcher shop, I heard a lot of people flooded to that butcher shop.”

“What?” everybody says.

“A lot of people flooded to that butcher shop after they saw and read about Dana shooting and killing a deer then selling the dead deer to the butcher shop?!” Mary asks.

“Yeah,” Alex says.

“You’re kidding Alex,” Barry says.

“No, I’m not kidding! I hear there are a lot of people lined up at the butcher shop right now.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“No wonder why those butcher shop guys somehow got the story of Dana killing a deer then selling it to them in the newspaper, so their butcher shop can get publicity and they can make a profit out of it!”

“Well obviously, the publicity worked for them because I hear they got customers lined up right outside their butcher shop door, waiting to get a glimpse of the deer meat or buy a piece of the deer that Diane D’s cousin Dana shot and killed.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah. I heard the line at the butcher shop is so long, that the butcher shop is thinking about raising the price of that deer meat to make a bigger profit out of it. So if anybody out there wants to buy a piece of the deer that your niece Dana shot, killed and brought in the butcher shop herself, they better hurry to that butcher shop while the deer meat is still there and before the price goes up.

“Wow.” Everyone puzzled looks at Alex. Barry then turns to his family and says, “Come on everybody. Let’s go see what’s going on at that butcher shop.” They all turn and rush towards the doorway.

Twenty minutes later, Barry’s car pulls to a curb not too far from the butcher shop.

There is a long line of people outside the butcher shop.

Inside the butcher shop, people shove and crowd around a glass case looking down at pieces of the deer meat as they anxiously say to each other, "This is the deer she shot and killed."

"Oh my," an older lady says. "And she brought the deer in here herself?"

"I think so," a middle aged man says.

Another lady looks up and asks the butcher shop guys, "Is this the deer Diane D's cousin Dana shot and killed?"

"Yes that's the deer she shot and killed," the butcher shop guy replies.

"She brought the deer in here herself?" another man asks.

"Yes, she brought it in here with her two uncles."

"Her two uncles?"

"Yeah."

"Did Diane D come in here too?"

"No we didn't see Diane D. We just saw her cousin Dana and her two uncles."

"When did Diane D's cousin Dana and her two uncles bring the deer in here?" a third lady asks.

"They brought the deer in here yesterday morning."

"Yesterday morning?"

"Yeah."

"How long did they stay here?"

"They didn't stay here too long. After they brought the deer in here, we asked them 'where did they get the deer from', they told us they got it from Upstate in the woods. We asked them 'how did the deer died'. Dana's uncles said she shot and killed the deer in the woods so she and her family can eat it when she and her family got lost up there. Dana said her family had no interest in eating the deer, that's why she and her uncles brought the deer meet here and sold it to us. After Dana and her uncles sold us the deer, they split."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Well I would like to purchase three or four pounds of the deer meat," another woman says.

"You got it Ma'am."

"And I want to purchase five pounds of it," another man says.

"You got it Sir."

Everybody starts to purchase large pounds of the deer meat as Barry, Mary, Alex and some organization staff members stand far on the side looking on in disbelief.

Chapter 23

Diane D Angrily Walks Off Stage And Socks It To Reporter!

One evening, there is a large crowd of people standing at the concert hall. A male announcer is on the side of the stage behind the curtain with a microphone in his hand. He turns around to Michael and asks, "Are the Dianettes gonna perform with Diane D tonight?"

"No," Michael says. "The girls aren't here. They're visiting their families right now so just announce Diane's name. She's gonna perform with the male dancers."

"Okay." The male announcer turns back around. He goes in front of the curtain and walks out to the front of the stage. He speaks into the microphone and shouts, "Ladies and gentleman, here is, Diane D!" The crowd screams and cheers. Music starts to play as the curtain opens. Big bold lighted up letters that read: DIANE D are on the back stage wall. A double platform is on the stage with two black male dancers standing on opposite sides of it. Diane D, dressed in a light blue shirt with elbow length sleeves and light blue jeans and thick black shoes, bangs across her forehead, her long hair all around her back, shoulders and sides and wearing a head microphone comes out on the platform singing, 'Heeere I am. Heeere I am. Heeere I coome. Heeere I coome'. Here I am. Here I am. Heeere I coome. Heeere I coome. She sways a little as the crowd screams and cheers more. Diane D then walks to the male dancer all the way on the left side of the stage as she sings to him and gently touches him. The male dancer sways as Diane D sings to him. Diane D finishes singing to the male dancer and gently moves away from him. She goes toward the male dancer all the way on the right side of the stage as she sings to him, gently touching him also. The second male dancer sways also as Diane D sings to him. Diane D finishes singing to the second male dancer and gently moves away from him. She goes toward the center of the stage as the two male dancers start to follow her. Ten other black male dancers come out of nowhere and go toward the center of the stage. They and the first two male dancers start to dance around Diane D as she continues to sing. Diane D stops singing and dancing as the male dancers face forward and start to dance in sequence with Diane D. The crowd continues to scream and cheer. The crowd is struck in awe as they see Diane D and the twelve male dancers dance in perfect sequence with each other.

In the audience, a four white male reporters, Matthew, Ted, Scott and Morgan are in the center of the crowd watching Diane D's performance. They are in awe of Diane D and the male dancers performance also. As Diane D starts to sing again, Matthew yells out to Diane D shouting, "Oh my God Diane D! Did you drug these dancers too! Huh? Did you drug these dancers too!"

Diane D stops dancing and angrily looks at Matthew. The male dancers puzzled look at Diane D and slow down.

Matthew, Ted, Scott and Morgan puzzled look at Diane D.

The male dancers are no longer dancing and look towards the reporters. They then look back at Diane D as Diane D angrily turns her body to her left and points her finger at Matthew, singing to him, 'Here I Come'. Diane D then angrily leaves the male dancers and heads to the side of the stage as she angrily jerks the head microphone off her head. The music stops.

Matthew, Ted, Scott and Morgan nervously look towards Diane D as Scott says, "Oh oh, I think she's coming over here."

An angry Diane D steps down to the side of the stage right near the crowd and two security guards as she tucks her head microphone into her jean pocket loop. The crowd at the front of the audience scream and become excited as Diane D comes near them. The security guards hold their arms out to Diane D as one of them shouts, "Diane D! Where are you going? You can't go in the crowd!" Diane D angrily shoves the security guards arms away from herself and goes right past them and the crowd at the right. The crowd excitedly stretch out their arms and hands and gently try to touch Diane D as she goes right past them around to the front of the audience. The security guards go and follow Diane D. The male dancers hurry off the stage and follow the security guards and Diane D.

Matthew, Ted, Scott and Morgan continue to see an angry Diane D coming their way. Scott nervously shouts, "She's gonna chew us out right here in front of everybody! I think we better hurry up and hide from her!" Scott, Matthew, Ted and Morgan nervously back up. They turn around and ease towards the back of the crowd, trying to hide away from Diane D.

Michael and the band members are in the upstairs booth looking on through the glass as Ralph shouts, "What's Diane doing?! She walked right off the stage!"

"What the hell is going on down there?" Melvin says.

"I don't know," Michael says, "but I'm definitely going down there to find out." Michael and the guys turn around and hurry out the door.

Diane D angrily goes through the center of the crowd with the security guards and the male dancers following right behind her. The crowd in the center scream and become excited as Diane D goes past them also. Some of them stretch their arms and hands out trying to touch Diane D as she goes past them while others stretch their arms and hands out trying to give Diane D a Hi-Five. Diane D ignores the crowd and continues to head to the middle of the crowd as the crowd scream and stretch out their arms and hands trying to touch her as she goes past them. Some of the crowd excitedly start to follow Diane D, the security guards and the male dancers.

Matthew, Ted, Scott and Morgan see an angry Diane D approaching their way with the two security guards, the male dancers and the crowd right behind her. Diane D catches up to them. She angrily approaches Matthew. She points her finger right in his face and shouts, "Listen asshole! I am sick, and I am tired of you goddamn reporters making that fucking statement and that fucking accusation about me!"

"I didn't say anything!" Matthew shouts.

"Don't hand me that bullshit! I heard what you said while I was on the stage!" The crowd surrounds Diane D as she shouts to Matthew, "First of all, you interrupted my performance, humiliating me while I was on stage and made me look like a fool!" The crowd tries to calm Diane D by gently patting her on both of her shoulders and holding on to both of her arms as she continues to shout to Matthew, "Now if you and your partners keep fucking with me with that statement and that accusation, I swear there's going to be trouble, right in here!" Some of the women in the crowd gently touch and admire Diane D's long black shiny wavy hair. They gently move her hair away from her face and eyes as she continues to shout to Matthew, "Don't you or any of your partners or any other reporters out there ever humiliate me or disgrace me again, especially while on stage, you got it!"

"I don't have to listen to this!"

"You're the one who started this whole bullshit and I'm going to finish it!"

"Oh yeah?! Well I'm outta here." Matthew turns away from Diane D and is about to walk away.

Diane D takes her right hand and quickly grabs Matthew by the collar. She stops him and shouts, "I'm NOT finished with you yet!"

Matthew turns back around towards Diane D and pushes Diane D's hand away shouting, "Don't be grabbing me!"

Diane D violently jerks Matthew by the collar again as the crowd continues to hold on to her arms! She suddenly gets superhuman strength and quickly swings her entire left arm and fist into a circle throwing an uppercut, bashing her left fist right underneath Matthew's throat and jaw practically lifting Matthew off his feet into the air! Her left arm and fist continue to go straight up in the air practically bringing the crowd up in the air with it as she bashes her right fist right into Matthew's nose! Matthew falls backward onto the crowd behind him! Matthew and the crowd behind him fall hard to the ground which causes Matthew to land right on top of the crowd behind him! The security guards and four of the male dancers grab Diane D as the crowd lets go of her! The security guards and male dancers wrap their arms around Diane D, struggling to hold her back as she tries to go after Matthew again as Matthew lays motionless with his face and nose bleeding!

Diane D is still trying to go after Matthew as the security guard shouts to her, "No leave him alone Diane D, stop it! Leave him alone!" The security guards and the four male dancers have a tight grip on Diane D as she breaths heavy, angrily staring at Matthew! Security and tons of people crowd around Matthew and the injured people on the floor and bend to them! "Is he breathing?!" one of the security guards asks.

"I don't know," another security guard says. "It looks like he might be unconscious!" The security guards try to snap Matthew out of being unconscious. Matthew suddenly gasps for air.

"He came out of it," the third security guard says.

"Thank God," the fourth security guard says.

Matthew starts to hold his bloodied nose. More security race through the crowd. The security guard looks up at the other security guards who are holding on to Diane D and shouts to them, "Take her away!" The security guards and the four male dancers take Diane D away.

Matthew continues to lay on the ground in agony with a lot of the crowd surrounding him and several security guards bending down tending to him. One of the security guards turn to the other and asks, "What did he say to Diane D that made her come off the stage and attack him?!"

"I don't know," the other security guard says. "Obviously he said something she didn't like."

The other security guards continue to take Diane D away. Diane D pulls her arm and hand away from the security guards as they let go of her. Michael and some of the band members finally get through the crowd! They approach Diane D and the security guards as Michael shouts, "Diane what happened?! Are you okay?! Why did you walk off the stage?!"

"Yeah what happened Diane?!" Melvin asks.

"Nothing happened!" Diane D shouts. "We gotta continue the performance!"

"What!" Michael shouts. "Continue the performance?! What do you mean continue the performance?!"

"We're gonna get back on stage and continue the performance right where we left off! We're gonna finish it then get the hell out of here! Tell the guys upstairs to start the music again! Tell them to start where we left off!"

"What!"

"I said tell the guys upstairs to start the music again! Tell them to start where we left off!" Diane D reaches into her pants loop for her head mic then turns to the male dancers and shouts, "Come on guys get back on the stage!"

"Get back on stage?!" one of the male dancers shouts. "What do you mean get back on stage Diane?! We can't get back on stage! You just assaulted that reporter! He and other people are laying back there hurt! I'm sure the police are gonna come after you!"

"That's why we gotta hurry and finish the performance before the police get here!"

"You just assaulted a reporter Diane?!" Michael shouts. "A reporter and other people are hurt?! My God, what happened?!"

"Why did you assault a reporter Diane?!" Ralph asks.

"I don't have time to tell you about it now!" Diane D shouts. "I'll tell you about it later!" Diane D turns to the male dancers and shouts, "Come on guys let's hurry and get back on the stage! These people paid money to see this show so we're going to finish it for them, let's go!" Music starts to play again. Diane D starts to run towards the front of the crowd near the stage as the male dancers and the security guards run right behind her.

Diane D starts to run to the right side of the crowd in the front as the male dancers, the security guards and the crowd follow her. The right side is blocked with screaming excited fans shouting, "Diane D!"

"My God we can't get through there!" one of the male dancers shouts.

The crowd at the left side scream out, "Over here Diane D! Over here!" Diane D turns around and starts to head towards the crowd at the left as the male dancers and the security guards follow her.

The left side is blocked with screaming excited fans also shouting, "Diane D!"

"My God we can't get through there either!" the male dancer shouts.

The crowd at the right side scream out, "Over here Diane D! Over here!" Diane D turns back around and starts to head towards the crowd at the right as the male dancers and the security guards follow her.

The crowd at the left side of the stage scream out again, "No over here Diane D! Over here!" Diane D turns back around and starts to head towards the crowd at the left as the male dancers and the security guards continue to follow her. Diane D turns around to the dancers and shouts, "We don't have much time guys, we just gotta finish the performance right here!"

"Right here?!" the male dancer says.

"Yeah right here, let's go!" Diane D quickly puts her head microphone back on her head. She turns and faces each side of the crowd back and forth as the entire audience scream and cheer. Diane D starts to turn her body around real fast as the twelve male dancers join her and turn their body's around real fast. The crowd backs up a little and looks on as Diane D and the male dancers continue to turn their bodies around with the male dancers practically surrounding Diane D. Diane D and the male dancers stop spinning and face the crowd as they perform a dance routine right inside the crowd. Diane D and the male dancers jump. As Diane D spreads her legs apart, a short black male dancer spins and jumps right in front of Diane D and bends to the floor doing the dance routine right between Diane D's spread out legs. Diane D practically dances right over the short guy as she angrily sings into the head mic. Diane D and the male dancers do several more steps. The music stops. Diane D and the male dancers stop dancing as Diane D angrily points her arm and finger towards Matthew and shouts, "You don't fuck with me!" Diane D quickly backs up, turns her head to her left and shouts to the male dancers, "Okay guys we're out!" Diane D turns to her left and races towards the side of the concert hall as all the male dancers turn and race right behind her! The short male dancer grabs onto Diane D's pants loop and races along the right side of her as the other male dancers race behind them! The security guards race behind them!

The crowd on the side move out of the way as Diane D and the short male dancer race right past them! The rest of the male dancers continue to race behind Diane D and the short male dancer as the security guards follow right behind them! Diane D and the short male dancer race right through the exit door and disappear out of sight! The other male dancers race right through the exit door and also disappear out of sight! The security guards race up to the exit door and stop! The crowd tries to follow Diane D and the male dancers through the exit door, but the two security guards and several other security guards stop them. They then push the crowd back! Michael, Melvin and Ralph approach through the crowd as Michael says, "We gotta get through officer!"

"Okay!" the security guard says. The security guard lets Michael, Melvin and

Ralph go through the exit door as the crowd stare towards the exit door.

Several more security guards rush through the crowd where Matthew is laying! They lead several paramedics through the crowd with a stretcher. The police also rush through the crowd! The paramedics, the police, the security guards and Ted bend down to Matthew. The entire crowd surround them looking on. They see heavy blood all over Matthew's face. "Aaaah!" Matthew screams.

"My God," one of the paramedics says. "His nose is all broken!"

"It is?" one of the officers asks.

"Yeah, so is his jaw I think his neck might be broken too and I think he has a concussion! His eyes are all swollen, my God his whole face seem broken! He was practically unconscious for a minute!"

"Really? A broken nose, a broken jaw, maybe a broken neck and a concussion?! My goodness!"

"We're gonna have to hurry and turn him sideways before he chokes on his own blood!" The paramedics turn Matthew over to his side.

"Aaaaah!" Matthew shouts.

The police officer turns to Ted and asks, "You said Diane D did all this to him?"

"Yeah," Ted says.

"My goodness, what did she hit him with?!"

"Her fists! She just walked right off the stage, came up to us, yelled at Matthew then assaulted him when he started to turn away from her and tried to push her arm away from him!"

"Assaulted him? In front of everybody?!"

"Yeah right in front of the entire crowd! She didn't seem to give a damn who was around when she assaulted him!"

"Where's she at now?!"

"I don't know."

The police officer turns to the security guards and asks, "Do y'all know where Diane D is at this moment?"

"I don't know," the third security guard says. "Last thing we know is that she and her male dancers raced right out of the exit door. I'm gonna radio the security upstairs and see if Diane D is still in the building."

"Okay."

The third security guard gets on his walkie talkie and says, "Hey Officer Jones, is Diane D upstairs, is she and her male dancers still in the building? .... They left a couple of minutes ago? ..... Because the police are here right now ..... Okay, I'll tell them, thanks." The third security guard gets off his walkie talkie. He turns to the police officer and says, "The security guards upstairs just told me Diane D and those dancers left the building a couple of minutes ago. He says they're going back to her family's organization."

"Diane D and the dancers are going back to her family's organization?"

"Yeah."

"Okay. We're gonna make a stop at the Diaz-Davidson Organization."

"Okay."

The paramedics and security guards lift Matthew into a stretcher. They then carry the stretcher out the back. The police follow after them.

Outside the concert hall, several police officers get into four separate police cars as Ted gets into one of the police cars. The police cars put on their sirens and pull off! They start to speed down the street!

Around an hour later, Ted and three police officers approach the front door of the Diaz-Davidson Organization.

The front door of the Diaz-Davidson Organization is wide open.

Ted looks in the open doorway. "There she goes!" he shouts. "That's her! That's the one who did it! That's the one who broke Matthew's jaw and nose! I want you to arrest her!"

"Okay we'll handle it," the police officer says.

Inside the lobby of the Diaz-Davidson Organization, Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Gracy, Grandpa Mike, Michael, Nicolas, Mickey, the band members and male dancers completely surround Diane D having their bodies face her as they have their heads back looking towards the front door. Diane D firmly leans against the wall very calm with her head back against the wall, motionless and expressionless, staring outside the front door at Ted with one foot on a stool, one hand resting on her lap as she holds a can of beer.

Back outside the front door, Ted shouts to the police, "Go ahead and arrest her officers!"

"We are going to arrest her sir!" the police officer shouts. "Just let us handle it!"

Another officer takes Ted to the side as the other officers turn towards the front door.

Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Gracy, and Grandpa Mike approach the officers. "What's going on officers?" Mary asks.

"We understand there's been a problem at the concert hall where your daughter Diane D was performing," the police officer says. "We understand that she assaulted a reporter there, so we have to take her in."

Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Gracy, and Grandpa Mike sadly look at the officer.

Inside the police station lobby, a police officer comes from the back and walks into the lobby. Diane D's entire family approach the officer as Barry asks, "So what's gonna happen officers?"

"We're gonna send your daughter Diane D to jail," the officer says.

"To jail?!" Diane D's family shout.

"Yes. She has an assault charge against her."

"But officer!" Tomas shouts. "We heard that this reporter was harassing and heckling my granddaughter while she was performing on the stage!"

"That's right!" Mary shouts. "That reporter had no right to harass and heckle our child!"

"Especially while she's performing!" Margarita says. "We didn't send her to perform on stage so she can be harassed!"

"I understand that Miss Margarita," the police officer says, "but that still doesn't give your granddaughter Diane D the right to just come off the stage, come up to the reporter and hit him! Those reporters are still pressing charges against your granddaughter!”

“Oh really!” Grandpa Mike says.

“Yes.”

“Well if those reporters press charges against our granddaughter, we're gonna press charges against them for harassment!”

“Harassment?”

“Yeah, for harassing Diane while she was performing on stage!”

The officer worriedly looks at Mike.

The next day, a man is sitting on the bus reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D GETS OUT OF CONTROL AGAIN!

Another man is sitting on a city bench reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D GETS ARRESTED AND THROWN IN JAIL AGAIN!

A man is sitting in a barber shop reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D ANGRILY STEPS OFF THE STAGE RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF HER PERFORMANCE TO CONFRONT REPORTER THEN ASSAULTS HIM!

Inside a beauty salon, a woman is sitting reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D STEPS OFF STAGE DURING HER PERFORMANCE AND GOES RIGHT INTO THE CROWD OF SPECTATORS AS SHE CONFRONTS A REPORTER WHO HECKLED HER!

A man is standing on line inside a supermarket reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D SOCKS IT TO REPORTER RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF STUNNED FANS!

A man is sitting in the subway reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D LITERALLY KNOCKS REPORTER OFF HIS FEET RIGHT IN FRONT OF SHOCKED FANS!

A man is sitting in a coffee shop reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: SHOCKED FANS WITNESS DIANE D BREAKING A REPORTER'S NOSE AND JAW AND PRACTICALLY KNOCKING HIM UNCONCIOUS RIGHT BEFORE THEIR EYES!

Inside the jail lobby, Diane D's family and relatives stand around anxious. Michael approaches Mary and says, “Mom, did you call the girls?”

“I didn't have to call the girls Michael, they called me,” Mary says. “They saw all the headlines and articles in the papers about Diane getting arrested for viciously assaulting a reporter.”

“They saw the papers?”

“Yeah. They all got upset and hysterical and now they're all on their way here.”

“They are?”

“Yeah.”

“Okay. So we're going to speak to the lawyers later, right?”

“Of course we are!” Grandpa Mike shouts. “We're gonna counter sue that reporter and his whole staff for harassing and heckling Diane while she was performing.”

“That's right,” Margarita says. “We gotta meet up with the lawyers this afternoon.” Everyone continues to stand around anxious.

The next day, a man is sitting in the barber shop reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S FAMILY THREATENS COUNTER LAWSUIT AGAINST REPORTER FOR HARRASSING AND HECKLING DIANE D WHILE SHE WAS PERFORMING ON STAGE!

A man sitting on the bus is reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: WITNESSES COME FOREWARD AND SPEAK AGAINST REPORTER'S HECKLING!

Inside the hospital room, Matthew's face is till slightly bruised and broken as his wife Jill and fellow reporters Scott and Morgan stand around him. Scott then says, “I think you should really consider dropping the charges against Diane D Matthew.”

“What?!” Matthew shouts. “Are you crazy?! She came right off the stage and attacked me! Didn't some witnesses from the concert come forward?!”

“Yeah witnesses from the concert did come forward alright! The witnesses who were standing very close to you claim, that they heard you yell something out to Diane D while she was on the stage!”

“Yeah,” Morgan says. “They said they heard you yell out asking her, ‘did she drug her male dancers too!’ The next thing they know, is that she stopped right in the middle of her performance and came right off the stage and came after you! In other words, these witnesses are claiming that you provoked Diane D!”

“What!” Matthew shouts. “They're saying that I provoked her?!”

“Yes! They're saying that you provoked Diane D to come off the stage and come after you! They said if you had never yelled out what you yelled out to her, she would have never come off the stage and come after you in the first place! They said she would have stayed right on the stage and went on with her performance as usual and there would not have been any problems!”

“I can't believe these witnesses are speaking against me, saying that I provoked Diane D to come after me and attack me!”

“Well that's what they're saying Matthew,” Scott says.

“She still had no right to hit my husband!” Jill shouts.

“She might not have the right to hit him,” Morgan says, “but still, no witnesses came forward and spoke against her! They all spoke against your husband instead!”

“Why didn't these witnesses speak against Diane D? She still does not have the right to attack my husband! Why didn't they speak against HER!”

“Well obviously these witnesses are her fans!” Scott shouts. “They seem to be kind of loyal to her and not speaking anything against her!”

“That's right,” Morgan says. “I saw the way they all crowded around her, trying to comfort her when she first came and confronted you Matthew. I saw the way they were all giving her a pat on the back and shoulders while she was chewing you out!”

“Yeah I saw it too. So Matthew, you should really think about dropping the charges against Diane D because her entire family is talking about bringing harassment charges against our whole staff!”

“What!” Matthew shouts. “Bringing harassment charges against our whole staff?”

“That’s right! You know Diane D’s family is not going to take this thing lying down, especially her grandfather Mike! He’s ready to legally go after ANYBODY who causes trouble for his family! You see how he’s always bailing his other granddaughter Dana out of trouble! He doesn’t play.”

“That’s right Matthew,” Morgan says. “You mess with Diane D, then you got her entire family to deal with. That reporter Felix Green learned that the hard way.”

Matthew worriedly looks at Morgan.

Two days later, a man at a news stand is looking at a newspaper article with a headline that reads: REPORTER DROPS ASSAULT CHARGES AGAINST DIANE D!

A group of people are sitting in an office building reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D IS RELEASED FROM JAIL! SHE IS PLACED INTO HER FAMILY'S CUSTODY AND PUT ON PROBATION! One of the men turns to the others and says, “Hey. This article says Diane D is released from jail and placed into her family's custody,”

“Yeah I heard,” one of the women says. “I heard that reporter dropped the charges against her. Why did he drop the charges against her?”

“He kept getting pressure from his colleagues and the community to drop the charges against Diane D.”

“He did?”

“Yeah. Plus Diane D's family was threatening a counter lawsuit against the reporter's company for harassment, saying that the reporter started the whole entire thing by heckling Diane D in the first place while she was performing on stage, and some witness told the cops that they heard the reporter heckling Diane D, so I think the reporter and Diane D's family made some kind of out of court settlement.”

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“Isn't Diane D's cousin Dana still in her family's custody too?” a second woman asks.

“Dana? You mean the one who chased that newspaper reporter Felix Green on the highway and shot at his car three times and the one who shot that dear in the Upstate woods and did those other alleged shootings?”

“Yeah, her.”

“Yeah she’s still in Diane D’s family’s custody. Now Diane D and her cousin Dana are both in their family's custody. They’re like two peas in a pod.”

“They sure are. I wouldn’t want to cross those two.”

“Neither would I.” The people continue to look at the article.

A man is at a newsstand looking at a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DON'T HECKLE MISS D!

A month later, a car pulls up to the curb outside of Gracy and Mike’s house. David is in the driver’s seat as Christine sits on the passenger side. The back door opens. Dana comes out of the back seat and steps out the car dressed in dark green pants, an opened short sleeved white buttoned shirt and a mint green corset underneath. She closes the back door behind herself then goes to the back of the car to the trunk as it opens. She bends into the trunk and pulls out a few garments inside some plastic cleaner bags. She then closes the trunk back and walks towards the front gate carrying the garments as David asks, "You got it Dana?"

Dana turns towards David and says, "Yeah I got it Dad."

"Are you sure?"

"Yeah I'm sure."

"Okay."

"And make sure you get some rest Dana," Christine says.

"Okay Mom," says Dana. Dana turns from her parents and walks to the front gate. She reaches the front gate and opens it. She closes back the front gate and walks through the front lawn towards the front door. She reaches the front steps then goes up the steps. She opens the mail box and looks into it. She takes a little mail out and closes back the mail box. She then takes her keys, unlocks the front door and opens it.

"Okay we'll be right back Dana!" Christine shouts.

Dana turns her head towards Christine and waves a little. She then turns her head forward and steps into the house carrying the garments with her. The front door then closes and locks behind Dana.

David then pulls out the curb and drives off down the street.

Thirty minutes later, Gracy is in Dana's room standing over Dana as Dana lays face up on the bed still fully dressed as she has her eyes closed. Gracy says to her, "Are you sure you okay Dana?"

"Yeah I'm okay Grandma," Dana says as she annoyingly rubs and scratches the back of her head. She then says, "I still have a slight headache and feel pain all over myself," as she sucks her teeth.

"You do?"

"Yeah."

"Well the CAT scan you had on your head after you fell off the ladder came out normal. You shouldn't still be in pain from that fall."

"I don't know wahs happening Grandma. All I know is that I need some rest right now."

"Okay Dana. I'll bring you something to eat later, okay?"

"Okay Grandma."

"Have you spoke to Tony today?"

"Yeah he called me earlier."

"Oh yeah? When is he and his family suppose to come back from Maryland?"

"I think they're suppose to come back next week."

"Next week?"

"Yeah."

"Okay. I'll let you get some rest. See you later."

"Okay."

Gracy sadly stares at Dana. She then turns and heads towards the bedroom doorway. She reaches the doorway and looks back at Dana as Dana rests with one knee up, one hand across her belly and the other hand behind her neck with her eyes closed. Gracy then turns and leaves the room.

Gracy comes down the stairs and turns towards the living room. Suddenly the doorbell rings. Gracy goes to the door. She looks through the peephole. She then opens the door and says, "Hi Michael."

Michael steps inside the house and says, "Hi Grandma, how you doing?"

"I'm doing okay. How is everything?"

"Everything is good. Diane told me earlier that Dana wasn't feeling too well, so I came to see how she is. Is she here?"

"Yeah she's upstairs. David and Christine dropped her here from a doctor's appointment a little while ago."

"They did?"

"Yeah."

"Well can I see how Dana is?"

"Yeah go ahead up there. Just knock on the door before you enter the room."

"Okay Grandma." Michael turns away from Gracy and heads up the stairs as Gracy goes into the kitchen.

A minute later, Michael is coming down the upstairs hallway. He heads towards Dana's bedroom doorway. He stops at Dana's bedroom doorway. He looks into the room and sees Dana resting on the bed with her eyes closed. He then sees Dana scratching the back of her head then sees her turn her body over resting face down on the bed with both her arms beneath her head as she faces away from the bedroom door towards the window with her legs and feet slightly spread apart. Michael knocks on the opened bedroom door and calls out "Dana?" Dana does not answer. She continues to rest with her arms beneath her head. "Dana are you okay?" Michael calls out. "I heard you weren't feeling well. Dana?" Dana still does not answer. Michael knocks on the bedroom door again and calls out "Dana?" Dana still does not answer. Michael then steps inside the bedroom.

Michael goes around the bed on the side facing the window. He approaches Dana. He looks down at Dana as she lays on the bed with her eyes closed not responding to Michael. Michael again says, "Dana?" Dana still does not respond. She is fast asleep. Michael stares at Dana. He then looks up towards the bedroom doorway. He suspiciously looks back down at Dana. He looks back up towards the bedroom doorway again then turns and heads towards the bedroom doorway. He reaches the bedroom doorway and pokes his head out the bedroom doorway looking out into the hallway. He doesn't see anyone around. He then pokes his head back into the bedroom. He turns and looks back at Dana. He looks back out in the hallway, then he suddenly closes the bedroom door behind himself.

Out in the hallway, the bedroom door suddenly locks.

Chapter 24

Michael Makes A Shocking Confession To Diane D

It is four weeks later. It is 12:00 noon. Diane D is working inside one of the hospital offices looking at some hospital samples. Suddenly, there is a knock at the door. Diane D puzzled turns to the door and says, "Come in!" The door opens. Michael hysterically steps into the room. Diane D puzzled looks at Michael and says, "Michael, what are you doing up here? I thought you're supposed to meet me for lunch downstairs."

"I was," Michael says as he closes the door behind himself. He then approaches Diane D and says, "I'm sorry Diane, but I have to tell you something."

"You have to tell me something?"

"Yeah. There's too many people downstairs, that's why I came up here to talk to you."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Okay, what is it? What's the matter?"

"It's about Dana."

"Dana?"

"Yeah."

"Well what about her? Is she alright? Did she get hurt again? Did something happen to her?"

"Dana is alright right now Diane."

"She is?"

"Yes she is."

"Oh that's good. So what's the problem then?"

"I have a confession to make to you," Michael worriedly says.

"You have a confession to make to me?"

"Yeah."

"A confession about what?"

Michael turns his head and worriedly looks away from Diane D towards the door. He then turns his head back towards Diane D.

"What is it Michael?" Diane D says. "What is it about Dana you want to talk to me about?"

Michael worriedly looks at Diane D with slight tears in his eyes.

Ryan, a black male hospital employee around his early 40's is walking down the hospital hallway pushing a cart. He is about to pass by the hospital office door when he suddenly hears Diane D's voice shout, "What! Are you serious Michael?!"

"Lower your voice Diane," Ryan hears Michael's voice say. Ryan stops and listens outside the door as he hears Michael's voice say, "I didn't mean for that to happen!"

"You are so stupid Michael!" Diane D's voice angrily shouts. "How the fuck can you make another mistake like this happen again?! Didn't you learn the last time?!"

"I'm sorry Diane!"

"Sorry?! Sorry about what, for making another mistake, or for being stupid?! What the hell is the matter with you?! What the hell were you thinking?! I can't believe you would be so stupid to allow something like this to happen again! I just can't believe it! What is the family going to think if they ever find out about this?! We can't let this information out! We can't let the family find out and know what you did! They can never know about this!"

"I know Diane! What are we gonna do?!"

"I don't know Michael! I'm still shocked by this!"

Ryan continues to listen and eavesdrop outside the door.

Inside the office, Diane D continues to shout, "Boy I can't believe you made the same mistake again Michael! Now I have to go to Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house tonight to give Dana a pregnancy test!"

"What?" Michael says. "You're going to give Dana a pregnancy test tonight?"

"Yeah I have to! I have to know whether she's pregnant by you or not! Tonight I'm gonna stop by the all-night drug store and buy a home pregnancy test kit, then I'm gonna bring the home pregnancy test kit to Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house in the wee hours of the night and morning and secretly give Dana a pregnancy test without the rest of the family knowing about it!"

"Oh yeah? How are you going to do that?"

"The same way I did before! Do that while the rest of the family are all asleep!"

"Oh yeah?"

"Yes!"

"But what if Dana is asleep?"

"I'll just have to wake her up and bring her into the bathroom to do the pregnancy test on her, like I did before!" Diane D starts to worriedly pace back and forth with one hand over her head and the other hand on her hip.

"I'm so sorry Diane," Michael says. Diane D angrily waves her hand at Michael as she continues to worriedly pace back and forth.

Outside in the hallway, Ryan continues to listen and eavesdrop outside the door stunned.

The next day, Ryan is in the hospital hallway pushing carts again. He looks down the hospital hallway and sees Diane D angrily walking in the distance down the hospital hallway. He sees her turn and go into the office. He then hears the door shut. He secretly rushes to the door.

Inside the office, Michael rushes to a fuming Diane D and shouts, “Diane! What happened last night or this morning?! Your grandma Gracy and your grandpa Mike called me earlier and said that you were fuming and was flipped out about something when you left their house! They said they didn’t know what you were fuming and flipping out about, so they called me to find out what was going on and wanted to know if I knew anything! I told them ‘no I don’t know anything!’ What happened?!”

“I’ll tell you what happened Michael,” Diane D firmly says. “When I went to Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike’s house in the wee hours of the night and morning to give Dana a pregnancy test, guess what happened.”

“I don’t know, what?”

Diane D swings her right arm and back slaps Michael right across his head as her mouth pouts with anger!

Michael falls backward against the office furniture holding his head in pain! He looks at Diane D and shouts, “Hey!”

“You fucking asshole!”

“What happened?!”

“What the hell you think happened?! The pregnancy test came back positive!”

“What! The pregnancy test came back positive?!”

“Yes it did! Dana is pregnant!”

“What! Dana is pregnant?! Are you serious?!”

“Yes I’m serious!”

“I mean, are you sure?!”

“Wasn’t I sure the first time you accidentally got Dana pregnant?! When I gave her a pregnancy test the first time you accidentally got her pregnant, the pregnancy test came back positive then, and it came back positive again, this time.”

“Oh my God! So she’s definitely pregnant?”

“Yes she is!”

“I’m so sorry Diane! I didn’t mean for this to happen!”

“Oh Michael!” Diane D cries. “I’m so scared that this incident of my own husband getting my own cousin pregnant again might get back to the family and to the community!”

“I’m so sorry Diane!”

“How can you be so careless Michael?!”

“I don’t know! It’s just that I got caught at the spur of the moment! When I saw Dana laying on the bed sleeping, I somehow got horny, then I decided to close the bedroom door, lock the door, then I went right back over to Dana, woke her up and had sex with her! I didn’t mean to get her pregnant! Are you sure Dana is pregnant Diane?!”

“Yes she’s pregnant! I did the pregnancy test on her myself!”

“You did?”

“Yes I did! When I got to Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike’s house, I went right up to the room, woke Dana up and brought her right into the bathroom with the home pregnancy test kit right in my hand. I closed the bathroom door, then opened the home pregnancy test kit and did the pregnancy test on Dana right then and there. After Dana left the bathroom, I stayed in the bathroom to wait for the result, and when I saw that the result was positive, I wanted to hang you right then and there!”

“My God!”

“She is definitely pregnant! I got so angry about you that I wind up flipping out!”

“I’m sorry Diane!”

“Sorry my ass Michael!”

“Does Dana know she’s pregnant?! Did you tell her about the pregnancy test result?!”

“I didn’t get a chance to tell her anything! I was so flipped out about you!”

“So she doesn’t know she’s pregnant?!”

“No she doesn’t know yet! All Dana knows right now, is that she’s been feeling sick lately and she doesn’t know why! The rest of the family and I didn’t know why either until you confessed to me yesterday that you had sex with her four weeks ago! Now you and I both know why Dana’s been feeling sick lately and she’s been feeling sick lately, thanks to you!”

“Oh Diane! It might not even be my baby! The baby might not even be mines!”

“How can the baby not be yours Michael?! Yesterday you came in here and confessed to me that you had sex with Dana four weeks ago, and you think you might have accidentally gotten her pregnant!”

“Yeah but what if somebody else had sex with Dana around that time Diane?! What if it’s somebody else’s baby?! Are you sure that Dana is pregnant by me?!”

“Well let’s see! Tony wasn’t anywhere around four weeks ago during the supposed time of conception! He had a death in his family! Everyone knows that he and his family had left town for a couple of weeks to go all the way to Maryland for the funeral! We don’t know if anybody else had sex with Dana around the supposed time of conception while Tony was away, but since you confessed to me that you HAD sex with Dana four weeks ago, which is the supposed time of conception, you can’t deny that the baby is possibly yours, but most likely, the baby is probably yours Michael! Why the hell did you take a chance to have sex with Dana without using a goddamn condom, you know she can’t take birth control pills all the time, they give her side affects! You know she doesn’t like the side affects birth control pills give her, so she probably didn’t take her birth control pills at all while Tony was away, because she probably felt she didn’t need to take them while he was gone, then you come along and take the risk of having sex with her without using a condom! Why did you risk having sex with Dana without using a condom Michael?!”

“Like I said Diane, I got caught at the spur of the moment, I didn’t have a condom on me and I didn’t have time to go to a drug store to get one!”

“So you risked having sex with Dana, accidentally getting her pregnant, knowing that she skips taking her birth control pills at times, huh.”

“I guess so.”

“See Michael? See what I have to do now? Now I have to try to fix your stupid mistake again!”

“What? Try to fix my stupid mistake, again? What do you mean ‘try to fix my stupid mistake, again’ Diane? Wwwwwhat are you planning to do?”

“The same thing I tried to do before.”

“The same thing you tried to do before? Wwwhich thing you tried to do before, the thing you tried to do with me before, or the thing you tried to do with Dana?”

“Both.”

“Both?! No Diane, don’t try to do that again! Please don’t!”

"I have no other choice Michael. I have to try and do that again."

"Diane please don't do that! Don't even think about doing that!"

"Oh I am thinking about doing that Michael. I am planning to do it."

"No you're not Diane!"

"Oh yes I am Michael, yes I am. Now the first thing I'm going to do, is call to request to work in both of those areas of the hospital again and see if I can be an assistant again and start working inside one of those areas, today."

"What? You're gonna try to work inside one of those areas today?"

"That's right, today. If I give myself more lessons, maybe this time, I'll get it right."

"Maybe this time, you'll get it right?! No Diane, I won't let you try to do any of that stuff again with me or with Dana, especially with Dana! This time, I'll have to stop you!"

"Stop me?"

"That's right!"

"Why didn't you stop yourself from risking getting my own cousin pregnant, then I wouldn't have to be in this situation in the first place now, would I?"

"But what if the police come after you again?!"

"Michael, the police won't come after me again, as long as they don't know about it." Diane D angrily stares at Michael. She then turns and goes to the telephone on the desk. She picks up the telephone receiver and starts dialing a number.

Michael nervously and worriedly looks at Diane D as he whispers to himself, "What have I done?" He worriedly stares at Diane D.

Ryan continues to listen and eavesdrop outside the door.

It is one week later, two hours after midnight. Shane, a black male hospital employee with a very short haircut around his late 30's, and Josh, a white male hospital employee with short black hair also around his late 30's, are pushing boxes and carts around the corner inside the second floor level of a dimly lit hallway in the back area of the clinic. They suddenly hear the sound of a stairwell door open from around the corner. They puzzled look at each other. They creep to the corner of the hallway. They poke their heads around the corner to look. They become stunned as they peak around the corner. They suddenly hear one of the clinic room doors down the other end of the hallway open, they then hear it shut. They then hear the door lock. Shane and Josh stare around the corner for several seconds. They then poke their heads back in the corner and look at each other stunned as Shane whispers, "That was Diane, walking down the other end of the hallway, sneaking her cousin Dana into one of the empty clinic rooms again, then she shut the door behind herself and her cousin Dana, then locked it."

"I know," Josh whispers. "What are they doing here now?"

"Diane requested to work the night shift again."

"She did?"

"Yeah."

"How come?"

"I don't know. I think she and her cousin Dana are up to something again."

"I think so too."

“Let’s go sneak up behind the door and find out what they’re up to, this time.”

“Okay, but we got to be careful with those two chicks. You know how Diane and her cousin Dana can get whenever they get mad or angry, they both turn into a wild beasts. Remember what we heard happened to those security guards that Diane D kicked in the groins injuring them, landing them in the hospital with permanent injuries causing those security guards to be on permanent disability?”

“Of course I remember that.”

“And remember what we heard happened to those correction officers inside the jail cell they were trying to keep Diane in, right?”

“Of course I remember hearing about that story too. I also remember hearing and reading about the little kid Diane beat up, right inside of an elementary school hallway one night, landing that little kid in the hospital too, and she claims not to remember beating him up!”

“Yeah I remember hearing about that story too. I hear it caused that kid to have permanent injuries too.”

“He has permanent injuries for what Diane did to him?!”

“That’s what I heard. And remember hearing and reading about her walking off the stage to confront a reporter, practically knocking the guy out right in front of the entire crowd, because he heckled her while she was on stage?”

“Yeah I remember hearing and reading about that story too. She was bold to come off that stage to do something like that, especially right in front of the entire crowd.”

“‘Bold’ is not the word Shane, ‘crazy’ is more like it.”

“I know. Not only that, when witnesses came forward and told the police what happened, all of the witnesses took Diane’s side.”

“They sure did. That reporter was getting pressure from a lot of people, including his own colleagues to drop the charges against Diane, so he caved in and did. I wouldn’t want to heckle Diane.”

“I wouldn’t want to heckle her either.”

“And remember how whenever Diane gets out of control and her family tries to stop her, and she be dragging her family members, all at once?!”

“I know! How in the world does she do that, drag several people all at once?!”

“I don’t know. Her family claims, that whenever Diane gets angry and out of control, it seems like some supernatural force or spirit suddenly takes over her body, and she would suddenly get superhuman strength and would be able to do something like that, that a normal person would not be able to do.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“What kind of supernatural force or spirit?”

“Diane’s family claim they don’t really know. They say it’s something that cannot be explained, but they can feel this supernatural force or evil spirit right there inside of her.”

“They can feel it?”

“That’s what they claim. Not only that. Diane’s family believe they’ve been encountered with some supernatural force or evil spirit because they claim after it’s all over, Diane would never remember any of it.”

“She wouldn’t?”

“No, she would never remember dragging her family members.”

“Wow. That sounds pretty scary.”

“It does.”

“But what about her cousin Dana? We heard her cousin Dana did the exact same thing when she and Diane both tried to assault and attack the motorist who cut Dana off on the highway out in Long Island. I read in the newspaper that the motorist and his wife both claimed to have witnessed Diane and her cousin Dana dragging all four of Dana’s sisters and a Jamaican cousin of theirs all at once, causing their feet to slide against the grass and dirt when Dana’s sisters and their Jamaican cousin tried to stop both Diane and her cousin Dana from assaulting or attacking that other motorist! That motorist and his wife both claimed, it appeared as if Diane and her cousin Dana both had superhuman strength. Did some supernatural force or evil spirit take over Dana and gave her superhuman strength too?”

“I don’t know, I have no idea. All I know, is that no normal person can do what Diane and her cousin Dana did, dragging several people at once!”

“Well maybe Diane D and her cousin Dana aren’t normal. Remember those three female police officers her cousin Dana beat up and injured for life, causing one of them to lose her unborn baby and be infertile for life and causing the officer’s partner to be shot in the back, and paralyzed for life?”

“I know. The third female officer she beat up have permanent double vision.”

“I know man. Isn’t that something? She put all three of those female officers on permanent disability!”

“She sure did, and she seems to have no remorse about it.”

“No she doesn’t seem to have any remorse about it at all. Remember that reporter Felix Green she chased after and shot at on the highway and then allegedly shot him injuring him for life?”

“Yeah. He was about to be on permanent disability also, until he took his own life. Both Diane and her cousin Dana be putting people out on permanent disability! That’s why we have to be careful with these two chicks because if they catch us eavesdropping on them, then the next thing you know, is that they’ll attack us, then we’ll be injured for life and have to be on permanent disability ourselves! I don’t want that to happen to us, so let’s be careful with those two dangerous women. They both been in and out of Mental Institutions and I hear they’re both on medication. I don’t want to take any chances with them.”

“I don’t want to take any chances with them either. So let’s just ease outside the door and make sure they don’t hear and catch us.”

“Okay.” Josh and Shane quietly go around the corner.

Josh and Shane quietly tiptoe down the dimly lit back hallway of the clinic.

Josh and Shane reach the other end of the dimly lit back hallway. They hurry and quietly tiptoe right towards the outside of the clinic room door. They nervously look at each other, gesturing each other to keep quiet. They stop, then pin their ears to the door to listen through it. They faintly hear the large sheet of paper that’s on top of the clinic table moving. They then hear the sheet of paper being pulled then ripped. They faintly overhear Diane D’s voice say, “Okay you can just lie down on the table here.” Shane and Josh faintly hear a second person laying down on the sheet of paper that’s on top of the clinic table. They then hear objects moving and clanking. They then overhear Diane D's voice say, "Okay, are you ready?" Josh and Shane then faintly hear Dana's voice say, "Yeah. Let's do this." They then overhear Diane D's voice say, "Okay." Josh and Shane do not hear anything. Then they faintly hear the sound of the sheet of paper moving. They then hear the paper jerk. They overhear Dana hissing then shout, "Ah!" Then they overhear Diane D's voice say, "Are you okay?" Josh and Shane do not hear Dana responding. They then overhear Diane D's voice say, "Try to keep still." They then hear the sound of the sheet of paper moving again. They hear it jerk again. They overhear Dana hissing again then shout, "Ah!" Josh and Shane then hear Diane D's voice say, "Just hang in there Dana." They then hear the sound of the sheet of paper moving again. They hear it jerk again as they overhear Dana hissing again. Josh and Shane look at each other stunned as they remain quiet outside the clinic room door shockingly looking at each other.

Forty-five minutes later, Josh and Shane are still outside the clinic room door anxiously listening through it. They then overhear Diane D's voice say, "Come on. Get dressed." Josh and Shane hear the sound of the sheet of paper moving again. Then they hear Dana getting off the table and hear her feet landing on the floor. They faintly hear the sheet of paper being pulled and ripped from off the table. Josh and Shane quietly back away from the door. Shane gestures for Josh to come on as they turn and hurry back down the other end of the hallway.

Josh and Shane reach the other end of the dimly lit back hallway and quickly turn the corner.

Josh and Shane quickly lean their backs against the wall quietly out of breath.

Fifteen minutes later, Josh and Shane suddenly hear the sound of the clinic room door open from around the corner. They then hear the clinic room door close. They poke their heads around the corner to look. They then hear the sound of the stairwell door open, then hear it shut. Shane and Josh stare around the corner for several seconds. Shane and Josh poke their heads back in the corner. They turn their heads to each other and look at each other stunned. Shane then whispers, "Diane and her cousin Dana just left that clinic room."

"I know," Josh says. "What were they doing in there? Are you thinking what I'm thinking?"

"Yeah. Diane and her cousin Dana were trying to do the exact same thing they were suspected of doing before."

"I know." Josh and Shane shockingly stare at each other. Then they look back towards the edge of the corner and go to poke their heads back around the corner again.

That same day on Monday afternoon, Michael and Tony are worriedly and nervously standing in the hallway of the hospital outside a hospital room leaning against a wall. The door of the hospital room suddenly opens. Michael and Tony anxiously turn to their right towards the door as Diane D steps out of the hospital room looking down at a towel she's holding. "How is Dana Diane?" Tony anxiously asks.

"Is she okay?" Michael anxiously asks.

“She’s okay for now,” Diane D says. “The doctor is with her.”

“He is?”

“Yeah.”

“That’s good.”

Diane D suddenly swings her entire left arm towards Michael and angrily grabs him by the shirt then turning her head to him pushing him right against Tony, pinning Michael into Tony and Tony into the wall as she angrily says, “Listen you two, let me get something straight, okay?” Michael and Tony nervously look at Diane D as Diane D angrily points her finger to them and says, “Dana is my cousin and I love her dearly. I’m not going to allow you guys or any other guy near her for the time being. I swear the next motherfucka who knocks Dana up, is gonna have to deal with me, you two got it?!”

“Yes ma’am,” Michael says.

“We got it Diane,” Tony says.

“Good,” Diane D says. She lets go of Michael and says, “Now I’m going to go back in there and place this towel back on Dana’s forehead. You two wait out here.” Diane D angrily turns around to the door and opens the door. She walks into the room and closes the door behind herself. Michael leans from off Tony as Tony leans from off the wall. They worriedly and nervously look at the door. They then turn towards each other and worriedly look at each other.

The Beast Within Returns

It is now one hour after midnight. Shane and Cody, another white male hospital employee with light brown shoulder length hair and a slight beard also around his late 30's who's slightly taller than Shane, are pushing carts around the corner of the second floor level of the dimly lit hallway in the back area of the clinic. They suddenly hear a stairwell door open from around the corner. They creep to the corner and poke their heads around the corner to look. They suddenly see Diane D walking alone in the distance way down the other end of the dimly lit back hallway with her back towards them. They see her scratching the back of her head as she walks down the other end of the hallway. They then see her turn and go into one of the empty clinic rooms. They then hear the clinic room door shut. They then hear the door lock. Cody and Shane poke their heads back in. They leave from the corner then look at each other as Shane whispers, "That was Diane again. I think she's up to something again."

"I think so too," Cody whispers. "What do you think she's up to this time?"

"I have no idea."

"Where's her cousin Dana?"

"I don't think her cousin Dana came here with her this time. I didn't see her. Let's go find out what Diane's up to now."

"Okay, but we have to be careful with Diane Shane. You know how violent and vicious she can get whenever she gets angry. I don't want my private parts to be on the receiving end of her kung fu kicks, then I'll end up injured and laying inside this very hospital just like those security guards she attacked before."

"I know Cody. I don't want my private parts to be on the receiving end of her kung fu kicks either. I already went through this discussion about Diane and her cousin Dana seeming to have superhuman strength with Josh last night."

"You did?"

"Yeah."

"Where is Josh by the way?"

"He's off tonight. It's his night off."

"I see."

"We'll just ease outside the door like Josh and I did last night."

"Okay." Cody and Shane quietly go around the corner.

Cody and Shane quietly tiptoe down the dimly lit back hallway of the clinic.

Cody and Shane reach the other end of the dimly lit back hallway. They hurry and quietly tiptoe right towards the outside of the clinic room door Diane D went into. They stop and pin their ears to the door to listen through it. They nervously look at each other, gesturing each other to keep quiet. Then they faintly hear Diane D's voice already talking on the phone saying, "Come on Michael. I need you to get over here to the hospital. Come meet me upstairs inside one of the clinic rooms. I got the table ready for us." Cody and Shane shockingly look at each other. Then they faintly hear Diane D's voice say, "Yeah I do. I got everything ready for you, so you should come to the hospital now. .... I know what I'm doing this time Michael, come to the hospital, the table is ready. .... You won't come? .... Why not? .... I know what I'm doing this time, so get over here to the hospital. .... What? .... I need you to get over here to the hospital, now Michael. .... Look Michael, get over here now, I don't have all night in this room. Get over here now while no one is around. .... Come on Michael, get your ass over here, now! .... You're still not going to come? .... Why not? .... But I need you here Michael! Get your ass over here! .... So you still won't come? .... You definitely won't come? .... Oh it's like that? Fine then, stay there, have it your way! I'm outta here! And when I get home, I'm going to fix your ass real good! I'm on my way!" Cody and Shane hear Diane D angrily slamming her cell phone. They quickly back away from the clinic room door. They turn and quietly hurry back down the other end of the hallway.

Cody and Shane reach the corner of the dimly lit back hallway and quickly turn the corner. They quickly lean their backs against the wall quietly out of breath. They suddenly hear the sound of the clinic room door open from around the corner. They quietly hold their breaths and look towards the edge of the dimly lit corner. They quietly tiptoe back towards the corner and hear the clinic room door shut. As they are about to poke their heads around the corner, suddenly, Shane accidentally bumps right into one of the carts causing the metal tray on top of it to fall and crash right to the floor making a loud noise! Cody and Shane become shocked and frightened! They anxiously look down at the tray as it rumbles and vibrates on the floor! Then they anxiously look up at each other. They nervously look towards the corner of the dimly lit hallway and remain quiet. They do not hear anything. They nervously look at each other again. Then they suddenly hear slow eerie footsteps coming down the hallway from around the corner. They hear the footsteps coming their direction! They nervously look towards the corner of the dimly lit back hallway again. They continue to hear the slow eerie footsteps coming down the back hallway getting closer. Cody looks at Shane and quietly points to the stairwell door at the back end of their corner. He quickly and quietly heads to the stairwell door as Shane quickly and quietly follows behind him. Cody quietly opens the stairwell door and quietly hurries into the stairwell as Shane quietly hurries into the stairwell behind him! Cody and Shane quickly and quietly close the stairwell door behind themselves!

Cody and Shane run in the dimly lit stairwell and quietly dash down the first flight of steps! They then turn and quietly dash down the next flight of steps!

Back upstairs at the corner of the dimly lit hallway, a pair of feet in thick black sneakers stands next to the tray that has falling. Diane D appears at the corner of the dimly lit back hallway next to the tray that has dropped puzzled looking down at the tray. She is dressed in a short dark gray denim jacket with a short orange shirt, dark gray jeans and the thick black shoes. She turns her head and puzzled looks up at the stairwell door. She suspiciously looks back down at the tray. She suspiciously looks back at the stairwell door. She looks back down at the tray and starts to walk away towards the staircase door. She turns her head back forward and angrily goes to the stairwell door. She opens the stairwell door and goes right into the stairwell.

Diane D angrily enters the dimly lit stairwell. As she is about to go down the first flight of steps, she suddenly stops right in her tracks as she looks down the flight of stairs. She closes her eyes and almost loses her balance as if she's about to pass out. She quickly grabs onto the railing with one hand and takes her other hand and holds on to her forehead. She turns her body sideways and stands there leaning her back against the stairwell wall, then turns her head and looks back towards the second floor stairwell door as she continues to hold her forehead. She turns her head back around and looks back down the first flight of stairs. She then turns her head back and continues to stand there leaning her back against the stairwell wall. She then closes her eyes again and leans the back of her head against the stairwell wall as she continues to hold her forehead.

Cody and Shane are on the first floor level of the dimly lit back hallway of the clinic area. They desperately try to open one of the clinic room doors to hide from Diane D, but the door is locked. They cannot open the door. They try again. They still cannot open the door. They turn around and quickly go to another clinic room door on the other side of the hallway. They desperately try to open that clinic room door too, but it is locked also. They cannot open the door. They try again. They still cannot open the door. They turn around again and quickly go to a third clinic room door on the other side of the hallway. They desperately try to open that door, but it is locked also. They cannot open the door. They then turn around and see a storage room door on the other side of the hallway which is slightly open. They rush to the storage room door! They push on the storage room door and try to get it open wider, but the storage room door does not open any further. Cody tries to push open the storage room door harder. It does not budge. It remains slightly open. "Why won't the door open all the way?" Shane whispers.

"I don't know," Cody whispers. "I think something is stuck behind it." Cody and Shane look through the open slit of the door. They can see part of a tall file cabinet inside the storage room leaning against the door. "Oh my God!" Cody whispers. "The file cabinet fell against the door! That's why the door won't open all the way!"

Shane peeks through the open slit of the door. He backs up a little and says, "Let me give it a push." Shane backs up all the way to the other wall. Then he runs right to the storage room door and tries to kick it open, but the storage room door only opens an inch further.

Cody then backs up all the way to the other wall. He also runs right to the storage room door and tries to kick it open also, but the storage room door only opens two more inches. "The file cabinet is too heavy!" Cody whispers. "It won't budge!"

Shane backs up all the way to the other wall again. As he is about to run to the storage room door again, he and Cody suddenly hear the slow eerie footsteps again coming down the stairwell from around the corner. Shane stops right in his tracks as he and Cody quickly turn their heads towards the corner and look. "That's her footsteps!" Shane frighteningly whispers. Cody then looks the other direction down the other end of the hallway towards some carts and boxes. He turns back to Shane and points towards the carts and boxes. Cody and Shane quickly hurry down the other end of the dimly lit first floor hallway.

Cody and Shane reach the other end of the dimly lit hallway and hurry to the carts and boxes! They quickly and quietly go behind the carts and boxes! They bend down to the floor and hide behind the carts and boxes. They nervously peek through the carts and boxes and look down the other end of the hallway. They hear the slow eerie footsteps still coming down the stairwell from around the corner. They then hear the footsteps approaching the stairwell door. They hear the stairwell door open, then hear it close. They hear the slow eerie footsteps coming from the stairwell towards the corner of the other end of the hallway as they nervously continue to peek through the boxes. They suddenly see Diane D down the other end of the dimly lit hallway coming from around the corner. They see her stop and suspiciously look around. Cody turns his head to Shane gesturing for Shane to remain quiet. Cody turns his head and looks back at Diane D as he and Shane nervously continue to watch her. They see Diane D still looking around. They then see her look at the first clinic room door that they had went to. They see her go to the first clinic room door. They see her turn the door knob and anxiously try to open the clinic room door, but the door is still locked. Diane D cannot open the door. Cody and Shane see Diane D turn and look around again. They then see her look right at the second clinic room door that they had went to. They see her go right to the second clinic room door and turn the door knob anxiously trying to open that door. It is still locked. Diane D cannot open the door. Cody and Shane see Diane D turn and look around again. They then see her look at the third clinic room door that they had went to. They see Diane D go right to the third clinic room door. They see her turn the door knob and anxiously try to open the third clinic room door. It is still locked. Diane D cannot open the door.

The storage room door suddenly closes a little and makes a squealing sound. Diane D hears the squealing sound. She quickly turns around and looks right at the storage room door! Her eyes are eerily swollen, puffy and half closed with her eyeballs mostly hidden behind her very swollen, puffy eyelids having an eerie blank look in them. She appears to be in a state of trance. She sees the storage room door closing more. She becomes more suspicious. She quickly goes right to the storage room door! She looks through the open slit of the storage room door and tries to look inside the storage room. She then tries to push the storage room door open more further, but the storage room door does not open any further. Diane D anxiously tries to peek through the open slit of the storage room door and tries to look inside the storage room again! The storage room door suddenly makes another sound and closes even more! Diane D becomes more and more suspicious! She then becomes desperate! She anxiously tries to peek through the open slit of the storage room door and tries to look inside the storage room again! She desperately tries to push the storage room door open more further again, but the storage room door still does not budge. Diane D anxiously tries to look inside the storage room again! The storage room door closes even more, causing Diane D to become even more suspicious, frustrated and angry! She suddenly steps back. She steps all the way back to the other wall as she looks right at the storage room door. Then she spreads her legs and bends down with her knees apart, getting into a kung fu position. Then she huffs and she puffs as she continues to look right at the storage room door.

Cody and Shane slightly tap each other's shoulders as they puzzled and nervously watch Diane D.

Suddenly, Diane D runs right to the storage room door! Then she leaps, spins her entire body, bends her upper body and head down in mid air, continues to spin her upper body and head lower to the floor with her left leg aiming higher and gives a high kung fu kick to the storage room door with such a loud 'BOOM' that the storage room door practically breaks right off its top hinges and bangs wide open hard against the file cabinet behind it as Diane D's other foot lands on the floor! There are loud crash sounds coming from inside the storage room as the tall file cabinet and large furniture behind it is heard falling and crashing hard to the floor! Diane D bends her body back up as the door leans and swings closed. Then she spins her entire body around again and kung fu kicks the storage room door wide open again with another loud 'BOOM' causing the storage room door to break further off its hinges making it lean further! Diane D bends her upper body back and angrily kicks the storage room door out of her way then bends back up and goes straight into the storage room! The light is seen coming on inside the storage room. Diane D is then heard pounding and banging the furniture all around inside the storage room!

Cody and Shane frighteningly stand behind the carts and boxes leaning their backs and heads against the wall in a state of shock, sweating, trembling and frozen in fear with their eyes and mouths wide opened! They're not able to move as Cody frighteningly whispers, "Is that the superhuman strength you and Josh were talking about last night?"

"Yep, it sure is!" Shane frighteningly whispers.

"Then what the hell are we waiting for?! Let's get the hell out of here before that superhuman strength finds us! Because the next thing she kung fu kicks won't be a door, it'll be us!"

"I know! We're out of here!" Shane and Cody quickly and frighteningly ease from behind the carts and boxes! They start to run back towards the other end of the dimly lit first floor hallway! They are about to run right pass the storage room! As they are about to run pass the storage room, the banging and pounding sounds inside the storage room become louder, harder and stronger as if some supernatural force is lifting up the heavy furniture, then tossing and throwing the heavy furniture around inside the room! Cody and Shane frighteningly stop right in their tracks! They are frozen in fear again as they hear and feel the vibration of the loud, hard pounding and banging inside the storage room! Cody suddenly gets his grip again and secretly runs right pass the storage room! He quickly runs back down the other end of the dimly lit hallway!

Cody makes it back to the corner of the other end of the hallway! He looks and notices that Shane is nowhere near him! He stops right in his tracks and turns his head around! He becomes shocked and stunned to see Shane still standing near the storage room with his eyes and mouth wide open still frozen in fear as they continue to hear loud, hard banging and pounding coming from inside the storage room! Cody quickly turns back around and quietly runs right back towards Shane!

Cody runs right pass the storage room again as he continues to hear loud pounding and banging coming from inside of it! He reaches Shane and quickly grabs Shane by the arm! He pulls Shane forward as he turns back around and runs right pass the storage room again, pulling Shane right along with him! Cody and Shane quickly run back down the other end of the dimly lit hallway!

Cody and Shane both make it back to the corner of the other end of the hallway and quickly turn the corner!

Cody and Shane run down the shorter hallway as Cody continues to pull Shane with him! They see the stairwell door and quickly and quietly run right towards the stairwell door!

Cody and Shane reach the stairwell door! Cody quietly opens the stairwell door and hurry into the stairwell pulling Shane into the stairwell with him! He quickly and quietly closes the stairwell door behind himself and Shane!

Cody and Shane run in the dimly lit stairwell again and quickly run right up the first flight of steps! They then turn and quietly run right up the next flight of steps not looking back!

Fifteen minutes later, Cody and Shane are in a different building of the hospital. They are on the 5th floor in one of the well lighted upstairs hallways where the patient rooms and receptionists' desk are. They are leaning against the wall sweating and out of breath as they remain in a state of shock, trembling and frozen in fear with their eyes and mouths wide opened staring into the air.

Several yards away is the receptionists' desk where an Asian female receptionist around her mid 40's, an Indian female receptionist around her late 40's and a stocky black female receptionist who's wearing glasses and has shoulder length straight processed hair also around her late 40's, are sitting behind the desk.

As Cody and Shane continue to remain in a state of shock, staring into the air with their eyes and mouths open, Shane shockingly whispers, "Did you see that? I mean, did you see, the way Diane kung fu kicked that storage room door wide open, like if she was Bruce Lee himself?!"

"I saw it, but I don't believe it," Cody shockingly says. "And that's the exact door you and I tried to open, and we couldn't even get it opened! Yet Diane got that door wide open with just one kung fu kick, causing the door to knock all that furniture down that was leaning behind it!"

"She sure did! I think that WAS the spirit of Bruce Lee, right there inside of her!"

"I think so too! Did you hear that loud 'boom' when she kung fu kicked that door wide open?!"

"I didn't just hear the loud boom, I felt the vibration of it too!"

"I felt the vibration also! It felt and sounded like that door got banged open by a bulldozer or something!"

"It sure did! I was so frozen in fear when I heard that and felt the vibration! I couldn't even move!"

"I couldn't move either! We both were frozen in fear when we saw, heard and felt Diane kung fu kicked that door wide open!"

"I know! I'm still frozen in fear!"

"So am I! You heard the way she was banging, pounding and lifting that heavy furniture around while she was inside that storage room, desperately looking for somebody, because she thought whoever caused that tray to drop was probably hiding in there?"

"Yeah I heard, I felt the vibration of it too!"

"I felt the vibration also! It felt and sounded like as if the heavy furniture, was being lifted up, then tossed and thrown around inside the room by an angry giant or something!"

"It sure did! I was so frozen in fear when I heard and felt that vibration! I couldn't move again!"

"I couldn't move again either! We both were frozen in fear when we heard and felt that vibration!"

"I know! I'm still frozen in fear by that too!"

"So am I!"

"If we were hiding inside that storage room when she busted in there, she would have definitely found us and God knows what she would have done if she had saw us in there!" Shane then turns his head to Cody and whispers, "It's a good thing we didn't go in there!"

"It WAS a good thing we didn't go in there, because if we were actually hiding inside that storage room when she kung fu kicked that door wide open, all that heavy furniture, would have probably fell down on us?" Cody then turns his head to Shane and whispers, "We could have been seriously hurt or killed!"

"I know! Not only that! What if she HAD found us hiding inside that storage room and kung fu kicked us, instead of that door?! We would have wound up seriously hurt and injured, just like those security guards and that little boy Marcus!"

"Well wasn't I right when I told you 'let's get the hell out of there?'"

"You sure was right, because I think you and I actually witnessed that supernatural force or that evil vicious entity right there inside of Diane! I think we almost became encountered with that evil vicious entity, just like those security guards, the correction officers and that little boy Marcus did!" Shane and Cody frighteningly look at each other. "Did you notice that her eyes kind of appeared like they were half closed, practically having the eyes of someone who's in a trance?!"

"I couldn't really tell from the distance and being that the hallway was very dim, but her eyes did appear like they were half closed! I thought it was just me who noticed it!"

"No it wasn't just you, I noticed it too! All I can say, is that I would never want to come across Diane in a dark alley!"

"What's the difference?! We almost came across her in a dark hallway, just like that little boy Marcus did!"

"I know! I would never want to come across her in a dark hallway or a dark alley! With that superhuman strength she seems to possess whenever she gets angry and out of control, she can literally break a man in two, especially with her king fu kicks!"

"She ALREADY broke a few men in two, that's why they all ended up in the hospital!"

Maybe that's the reason why her husband refuse to show up here at the hospital when she was talking to him on the phone! He knew what state of mine she was in and didn't want to get caught in it!" Cody and Shane frighteningly stare at each other. Cody then says, "I think we better keep our distance away from working down in that clinic hallway for now, as long as Diane is working the night shift! I don't want to come encountered with that vicious entity we saw inside of her! I don't even want to see it again! Seeing what we saw downstairs in that clinic hallway, was very frightening."

"It was. It gave me the shivers!"

"It gave me the shivers too! Now I know what that little kid Marcus went through!" Cody and Shane frighteningly stare at each other again. Cody then says, "Come on. Let's try to stay and work in this building of the hospital, away from where that She-Hulk is!" Cody and Shane frighteningly stare at each other. They then lean from off the wall slightly trembling. They start to walk away.

As Cody and Shane start to walk away, Shane looks down the end of one of the hallways. He suddenly stops right in his tracks and frighteningly whispers, "Oh shit!"

Cody stops and nervously turns around towards Shane. He puzzled looks at Shane and whispers, "Oh shit? Oh shit what Shane? What's the matter?"

"Don't turn around, but I think the She-Hulk is way down the end of the hallway!"

"What!" Cody's eyes become wider as he shockingly asks, "Diane is down the end of the hallway?!"

"Yeah!"

"Are you serious Shane?!"

"Yeah I'm serious!"

"What the hell, is she doing in this building in this part of the hospital, on this floor, of all places?! I thought we escaped from her!"

"I thought so too!"

"So why is she in this part of the building, on this floor?! She doesn't work up here!"

"I know she doesn't work up here!"

"So what is she doing up here then?!"

"I don't know! I'm not looking directly at her, but from the corner of my eyes, I think she's walking and looking around!"

"Walking and looking around?"

"Yeah! It looks like she's still looking for whoever caused that tray to drop!"

"Oh oh!"

Diane D is slowly coming from down the end of the 5th floor hallway with her head to the side looking around with a look of anger on her face and her fists balled with her face slightly sweaty, her eyes still eerily swollen, very puffy and half closed with her eyeballs still mostly hidden behind her very swollen, puffy eyelids still having an eerie blank look in them. She still appears to be in a state of trance as she stops and angrily looks towards the patients' rooms. She slowly starts to come down the hallway again as she stares at the patients' rooms.

Shane frighteningly watches Diane D. He nervously whispers, "She's coming down the hallway coming this direction!"

“She is?!” Cody frighteningly whispers.

“Yeah! It still looks like she’s looking around for whoever caused that tray to drop! She looks determined to find whoever was down there!”

“My God! What makes her think, that whoever caused that tray to drop would be up here in a different building, far from that clinic area?! She never actually saw who was over there, she only heard something dropped over there! By the time she got there, we were gone! She never saw us there!”

“I know!”

“So what in the world would lead her to this building to this floor, where WE are?!”

“I don’t know!”

Cody turns his head and nervously looks towards Diane D.

Diane D turns her head towards the other side of the hallway. She stops as she continues to angrily look towards the patients’ rooms with her fists balled. She slowly walks towards the doorway and looks into the patients’ room. She sees an older Hispanic male patient and a younger white male patient laying in their beds sleeping with their TVs on. The male patients do not see or notice Diane D as Diane D stands outside their room angrily looking at them.

Cody and Shane secretly watch Diane D as Cody frighteningly whispers, “She’s looking right inside the patients’ rooms!”

“I know!” Shane nervously whispers. “I sure hope she doesn’t intend to go inside any of those patients’ room trying to look for whoever caused that tray to drop!”

“I hope not either, because she seems to have her fists balled like she’s ready to fight whoever was down there! Thank God all those patients’ doors are open! That way she cannot kung fu kick and bust any of their doors open, frightening them to death!”

“I know!” Shane and Cody nervously continue to watch Diane D.

Diane D slowly comes down the hallway again with her fists remaining balled as she continues to angrily look at the patients’ rooms. She turns her head and looks towards the opposite side of the hallway towards other patients’ rooms as her eyes remain swollen, puffy and half closed. She stops again, then slowly walks towards the doorway and looks into other patients’ room. She sees elderly male patients laying in their beds. She sees a white female nurse standing over an elderly black male patient looking down at the patient taking his blood pressure. The nurse and the male patients do not see or notice Diane D as Diane D stands outside their room angrily looking at them.

Cody and Shane nervously continue to watch Diane D. Cody then turns to Shane and whispers, “Her eyes still appear half closed like she’s in a state of trance or something!”

“I think she IS in a state of trance!” Shane whispers.

Cody turns his head and looks back at Diane D. He then says, “I don’t think it’s safe to have Diane walking and wandering around alone with her state of mind like that! She might go off again and literally attack a person this time! I think we should call security or the police!”

“Call security or police?! For what?! So she can attack them again and put them in the hospital like she did before?! The next thing you’ll know, is that they’ll be laying right in this very same hospital, right in those very same rooms along with those other patients in there!”

“Well can’t the police tase her or something?!”

“The police have tased Diane before Cody! And they tased her cousin Dana before too!”

“They have?!”

“Yeah!”

“So what happened?!”

“Nothing! The Taser had no effect on either one of them!”

“It didn’t?!”

“No, they were still out of control! Whenever they become possessed, they would get that superhuman strength and become very powerful, nothing seems to effect them!”

“Well I’m just curious about one thing!”

“What’s that?!”

“Have the police ever try to shoot any of them?!”

“Well one of those female officers DID try to shoot Dana! But Dana wind up turning the tables and caused one of them to get shot!”

“My God!”

“Now the poor woman is paralyzed for life, thanks to Dana!”

“Oh my God! Well what else are we gonna do?! We can’t just stand here and have Diane wander around loose with her state of mind like that! We got to call somebody!”

“How about her family?! I’ve never heard of her attacking her own family! She only drags her family when she gets angry and out of control, but I never heard of her literally attacking them or kung fu kicking ANY of them! I think they’re the ones we should REALLY call! I think they should come get her!”

“I think so too!” Cody and Shane continue to nervously watch Diane D.

Diane D slowly starts to come down the hallway again. She continues to angrily look towards the patients’ rooms with her fists balled as she gets closer to the receptionists’ desk area.

Cody turns to Shane and whispers, “She’s getting closer! I think we should leave out of here, and I mean now!”

“But if we leave as soon as she comes over here, she’s gonna get suspicious!” Shane whispers. “We can’t draw attention to ourselves, we have to stay here!” Shane nervously pulls out his ipod from his pants pocket and pretends to use it as he takes a quick glance at Diane D. He then looks back down at his ipod and nervously whispers, “She’s still getting closer, so no matter what you do Cody, let’s try not to look towards her direction again! I don’t want her to get suspicious that we’re the ones who were down there in that clinic hallway! Just act normal because from the corner of my eyes, I can see she’s looking at us.”

“What! She’s looking at us?”

“Yeah.”

“You’re kidding Shane.”

“No I’m not kidding Cody, she’s looking right at us!”

“Oh oh.”

“That’s why I said just act normal and not look her way!”

“Okay.”

Diane D slowly approaches the reception desk area as she angrily and suspiciously looks at Shane and Cody.

Shane continues to look down at his ipod pretending to use it, trying not to act nervous. He then looks up at Cody and says, “So Cody. Did you get tickets for ‘The Mets’ Game this season?’”

Cody also trying not to act nervous and says, “No not yet, but I’m sure planning to.”

“I’m planning to also. Hey. Why don’t we try to purchase tickets on-line right now.”

“You’re gonna purchase them now?”

“Sure, why not?” Shane looks back down at his ipod and pretends to use it again. He secretly glances towards the receptionists’ desk and whispers, “She stopped at the receptionists’ desk.”

“She did?” Cody whispers.

“Yeah.”

“She’s at the receptionists’ desk now?”

“Yeah. She has her back turned towards us.”

“She does?”

“Yeah. She’s talking to one of the receptionists right now.”

“She’s talking to them?”

“Yeah.”

“Okay! So let’s break out of here! Let’s try to leave out of here now while she’s occupied talking to the receptionist!”

“Okay. We’ll leave one at a time. I go first, then you leave several minutes later.”

“Leave several minutes later?”

“Yeah.”

“So you want to leave me up here alone, with that Female-Bruce Lee?! You really want to put me in danger, don’t you?”

“You won’t be alone Cody! The receptionists are right there behind the desk!”

“They’re not much protection! You really think I’m suppose to be protected and safe around THEM?! You saw what Diane did downstairs! Listen, if that She-Hulk can kung fu kick a door that has heavy office furniture stuck behind it wide open, the exact same door us two men couldn’t get open, if she can put three male security guards in the hospital with permanent injuries after she kung fu kicked them in the groins almost busting out their testicles, and is not effected by a Taser, and can literally drag several people all at once, and can beat the crap out of a little kid by kung fu kicking him a couple of feet in the air, and can come right off a stage and almost knock out a reporter who heckled her, then what makes you think, that I would be safe around those three female receptionists?! After witnessing what we witnessed downstairs, I don’t want to take any chances! I don’t even want to be in the same room with Diane!

I still got the shivers from witnessing what we saw her do down there in that clinic hallway! And I still got the shivers from being practically close to it and I hope I never witness or be close to anything like that ever again! I'll tell you what. Why don't I go first and you stay here alone with that She-Hulk."

"Why don't we both leave and get out of here, because she's sitting behind the receptionists' desk."

"What? Diane is sitting behind the receptionists' desk?"

"Yeah."

"What is she doing sitting there?"

"She's speaking on her cell phone."

"She's speaking on her cell phone?"

"Yeah. I can see from the corner of my eyes, that she's looking right at us while she's talking on her cell phone."

"She's looking at us again?"

"Yeah."

"Why is she looking at us?"

"I don't know! Just continue to act normal!"

"Okay."

Shane pretends to use his ipod again.

Diane D is calmly sitting behind the receptionists' desk right next to the Indian female receptionist, quietly speaking into her cell phone looking slightly tired with her left leg slightly raised. Her face is still slightly sweaty, her eyes are less puffy, more wide open and eyeballs much more visible. She has her upper body leaned towards her left leg gently swaying her upper body up and down with her head tilted gently rubbing her left leg as she suspiciously looks right at Cody and Shane while she quietly speaks on her cell phone. The black female receptionist is sitting right on the other side of the Indian female receptionist. The Asian female receptionist is standing right behind the black female receptionist with a pen and clipboard in her hands writing something as the black female receptionist and the Indian female receptionist smile and chit-chat with each other, looking around for something on the desk. Diane D continues to sit there next to the receptionists quietly speaking into her cell phone with her head tilted as she continues to sway her upper body back and forth, suspiciously staring right at Cody and Shane.

Shane continues to pretend using his ipod as he whispers, "She's still looking at us."

"She is?" Cody whispers.

"Yeah. She keeps staring over here."

"Really?"

"Yeah."

"Why she keeps looking at us? You think she's on to us? You think she knows that we were the ones in that clinic hallway?"

"I don't know, I have no idea. Either way, we have to continue to act normal. Start talking again and just say something normal, you know, strike up a conversation again."

"Okay." Cody then says, "So Shane, let's go out for a smoke. I want to stop by that all-night gas station market up the street and purchase a coffee and another scratch-off ticket.”

“You want to purchase another scratch-off ticket?”

“Yeah. The guy behind the counter told me that a customer won five thousand dollars last week!”

“What? A customer won five thousand dollars from the scratch-off?!”

“That’s what the guy behind the counter told me!”

“Wow. I think I should purchase one of those scratch-off tickets myself and play a game. They’re only a dollar or two. I mean, what the hell,” Shane nervously laughs. Shane and Cody pretend to laugh as they turn and walk away.

Diane D suddenly stops swaying as she watches Cody and Shane walking away. She turns her chair slightly to the side as she continues to hold the cell phone to her mouth, suspiciously looking towards Cody and Shane.

Cody and Shane stop laughing as they quickly walk down the middle of the other side of the hallway. As they walk down the hallway, they turn their heads back a little and notice someone following them. They become startled. They quickly turn all the way around and see the black female receptionist coming their direction. They stop and give a sigh of relief. They puzzled look at the black female receptionist as Shane nervously laughs and says to her, “Hey Mildred! What’s up?! You startled us.”

“I did?” Mildred says.

“You certainly did. You’re leaving so soon?”

“No I’m not leaving. I’m just going down the hall to get some aspirin for Diane.”

“You’re going to get some aspirin for Diane?”

Cody and Shane stop Mildred in her tracks as Cody whispers, “What do you mean ‘you’re going to get some aspirin for Diane?’”

“Rena and I couldn’t find any aspirin on the desk for her,” Mildred says. “So I’m going down the hallway to get the aspirin for her.”

“Oh yeah?” Shane asks. “Why does Diane need aspirin anyway? What’s wrong with her?”

“She claims she doesn’t feel right.”

“She claims she doesn’t feel right? What do she mean by that?”

“Well, she said the strangest thing happened to her a little while ago and just now.”

Shane and Cody suspiciously look at each other, then back at Mildred as Shane asks, “The strangest thing happened to her a little while ago and just now?”

“That’s what she said.”

“What does she mean by that?” Cody asks. “What did she say happened to her?”

“She said she was downstairs passing through the clinic area, when she suddenly heard something drop in the hallway around the corner. She said she walked down the hallway and went around the corner to investigate, to see what dropped, or to see who or whatever was over in that area. She said when she got around the corner, she saw a tray on the floor. She suspected someone was over there in that area, but must have went into the stairwell, so she said she went into the stairwell to find out who was in that area. She said as soon as she was about to go down the stairs, she started feeling woozy so she stopped at the top of the stairs and started to hold her head. Then she said she must have passed out or blacked out after that, because she said she doesn’t remember anything else right after that.”

“What!” Cody and Shane whisper.

“What does she mean ‘she must have passed out or blacked out, because she doesn’t remember anything else right after that?’” Shane asks. “Diane is saying, that she doesn’t remember anything right after she entered the stairwell?”

“Yeah, that’s what she said,” Mildred says. “She said as soon as she got in the stairwell, the next thing she knows, is that she found herself or her spirit floating around in space.”

“What!” Cody and Shane whisper.

“Diane said she found herself or her spirit floating around in space as soon as she got in the stairwell?!” Cody anxiously asks.

“That’s what she said,” Mildred says. “She said after she found herself or her spirit floating around in space, the next thing she knows, is that she found herself back inside her physical body, standing right at the receptionists’ desk wondering what the heck she’s doing up here at the receptionists’ desk and wondering how the heck she got there.”

“What!” Cody and Shane whisper.

“Diane said she found herself or her spirit floating around in space, then the next thing she knows, is that she found herself back inside her physical body, standing right at the receptionists’ desk wondering what she’s doing up here at the receptionists’ desk and wondering how she got there?!” Shane asks.

“That’s what she said,” Mildred says. “She said she doesn’t know how her physical body got from the stairwell of the clinic area, to up here at the receptionists’ desk.”

“What!” Shane and Cody whisper.

“She doesn’t know how her physical body got from the stairwell of the clinic area to up here at the receptionists’ desk?!” Shane asks.

“That’s what she said,” Mildred says.

“Wait a minute now!” Cody shouts. “Now what I’m hearing, is that Diane was in the clinic area hallway and she heard something drop around the corner. She went around the corner of the hallway to investigate and saw a tray on the floor. She was about to look for whatever or whoever caused that tray to fall, so she went into the stairwell, then when she was about to go down the stairs, the next thing she knows, is that she’s floating around in space, after that, she found herself back inside her physical body standing right at the receptionists’ desk and she doesn’t know why she’s up here and don’t know how her physical body got up here?!”

“That’s what she said. She thinks she might have been sleepwalking or something like that.”

“Sleepwalking?!” Cody and Shane whispers.

“Diane thinks she might have been sleepwalking?!” Shane asks.

“That’s what she thinks,” Mildred says, “because she says how else would she have gotten from the stairwell of the clinic area to this building up here at the receptionists’ desk and not remember it.”

“Oh my God!” Cody whispers. “So in other words, Diane doesn’t remember going down to the lower level of the clinic area?!”

“She never mentioned about being on the lower level of the clinic area.”

“What!” Cody and Shane whispers.

“She never?!” Cody asks.

“No,” Mildred says. “She said she doesn’t even remember going down the stairs.”

“What!” Cody and Shane whispers.

“Diane doesn’t remember going down the stairs?!” Shane asks.

“No,” Mildred says. “She remembers going into the stairwell and being at the top of the stairs, but said she doesn’t remember going down the stairs.”

“She doesn’t remember going down the stairs at all?!” Cody asks.

“No, because she said when she was about to go down the stairs, that’s when she suddenly felt like she was about to pass out or black out. She said the top of the stairs on the second floor level of the clinic area was the last place she saw herself when she felt like she was about to pass out, then found herself floating around in space, then found herself up here on this floor standing right at the receptionists’ desk. She said she doesn’t even know why that happened to her.”

“She doesn’t know why that happened to her?”

“No. She said it just happened out of the blue.”

“Happened out of the blue? Is she saying she had no control over finding her soul or spirit floating around in space?”

“Yeah she said she had no control over it. She said it happened just like that?”

“Happened just like that?!”

“Yeah. She asked me how long was she standing at the receptionist desk.”

“What!” Cody and Shane whisper.

“She asked you how long was she at the receptionists’ desk?!” Shane asks.

“Yeah,” Mildred says.

“You mean she doesn’t know how long she was standing there?!” Cody asks.

“I guess not, because she said when she entered the stairwell then found herself or her spirit floating around in space, she said it seemed like only a minute went by then she found herself standing in the receptionists’ area.”

“What!” Cody and Shane whisper.

“She said it seemed like only a minute went by from the time she entered the stairwell of the clinic area to the time she found herself standing in the receptionists’ area?!” Shane asks.

“Yeah,” Mildred says. “She said while she was floating around in space, you two suddenly came right into her vision.”

“What!” Cody and Shane whisper.

“She said while she was floating around in space, us two suddenly came into her vision?!” Shane says.

“Yeah,” Mildred says. “Then she said she turned and saw me, then realize she was at the receptionists’ desk area on this floor.”

“What!” Cody and Shane shout.

“She saw you after she saw us, then realize she was at the receptionists’ desk area on this floor?!” Shane asks.

“Yeah,” Mildred says. “That’s when she asked me how long was she standing there and wondered how she got there.”

“Oh my God!”

“She said she felt kind of dizzy and tired and don’t know why she feels dizzy and tired.”

“She feels dizzy and tired?”

“Yeah. She said she feels pain in her legs and feet too.”

“She feels pain in her legs and feet?”

“Yeah. Especially her left leg and foot.”

“That’s what she said. She said she doesn’t know why she feels pain in her left leg and foot and don’t know why she feels dizzy and tired when she felt absolutely fine earlier. She says it seems like this pain in her left leg and foot and this dizziness and tiredness she has came right out of no where. She claims she started to feel the pain in her left leg and foot and the dizziness and tiredness when she found herself back in her physical body standing at the receptionists’ desk. That’s why she was limping when she came around the receptionists’ desk to sit down.”

“Diane was limping when she came around the receptionists’ desk?” Cody shockingly asks.

“Yeah.”

“That’s strange, because when Shane and I first saw Diane coming from down the end of the hallway where the patients’ rooms are, she wasn’t limping!”

“She wasn’t?”

“No! She wasn’t limping at all, she was just walking slow!”

“She was walking slow?”

“Yes!”

“She was probably walking slow because she felt dizzy and tired and her leg and foot were in pain. That’s why she wants an aspirin right now. I told her ‘why don’t she sit down and get off her feet’ while Rena and I look around the desk for the aspirin.”

“That’s why she’s sitting there behind the reception desk?”

“Yeah.”

“My God. What would make a person suddenly feel pain in their leg or foot?”

“I don’t know. They could have probably hurt or injured themselves and not realize it.”

“Hurt or injured themselves and not realize it?”

“Yeah.”

“Cody and Shane suspiciously look at each other. Cody then asks, “What would make a person, suddenly become dizzy or tired?”

“Well, lots of things can make a person suddenly become dizzy or tired. I know turning and spinning the body around real fast is one of the things that can make a person suddenly become dizzy.”

“Turning and spinning the body around real fast?”

“Yeah.”

Cody and Shane suspiciously look at each other again, getting flashbacks of Diane D spinning her entire body around kung fu kicking the storage room door. Cody nervously says, “Well maybe that’s what happened! Maybe Diane was spinning her entire body around real fast and hurt her leg and foot in the process, that’s probably why her leg and foot are in pain and she feels dizzy and tired!”

“I asked her did she do something like that, and she said to me ‘why in the world would she be spinning her entire body around real fast inside the hospital?’ She asked what would be the reason?” Cody and Shane suspiciously look at each other. Mildred then says, “Diane says she does ballet and acrobatic stunts in some of her performances when she performs on stage, and said that’s the only time and place, she would be spinning her entire body around. She said she wasn’t doing any performance stunts tonight, because she was here in this hospital working, so she said she would have no reason in the world to be spinning her entire body around. She said she also spins her entire body around when she practices her kung fu moves.”

“What!” Cody and Shane whisper.

“She says she spins her entire body around when she practices her kung fu moves?!” Cody asks.

“Yeah,” Mildred says, “but said she would have no reason to be doing kung fu moves here inside the hospital. She said most likely, something else caused her to feel dizzy and feel pain in her left leg and foot.”

“Oh yeah? Something like what?”

“She said she doesn’t know. She said she was wondering if something could have happened to her physical body while she was sleepwalking.”

“She doesn’t remember doing any kung fu moves or kicks at all?!”

“No. She said the last time she did any kung fu moves or kicks at all was two weeks ago inside her grandparents’ basement. She says that’s where she usually practices her kung fu moves at, but says she has no reason in the world to perform or do any kung fu moves or techniques here inside the hospital unless she did it in her sleep while she was sleepwalking and didn’t realize it.” Cody and Shane suspiciously look at each other again. Mildred then says, “Well, I better go get the aspirin for Diane, because she’s sitting there waiting for it.”

“Okay,” Cody says. “By the way Mildred, who was Diane speaking to on her cell phone? Do you know who’s she was talking to?”

“No I don’t. She was talking on her cell phone very low, I couldn’t really hear who she was talking to.”

“You couldn’t?”

“No. I didn’t want to appear nosy.”

“I see.”

“Well, I’m going to get the aspirin for her now.”

“Okay Mildred. See you later.”

“Okay.” Mildred turns and walks away down the hallway.

Cody and Shane shockingly stare at Mildred. Then they turn their heads and look back towards the edge of the hallway that lead back to where the receptionists’ desk area is. They turn their heads the other way and continue to walk down the hallway shocked and stunned.

Cody and Shane reach the end of the other side of the hallway. They stop and turn their heads and look back towards the receptionists’ desk area is again. They do not see anyone coming. Then they anxiously look at each other as Shane frighteningly whispers, “My God, did you hear that?! Diane doesn’t remember anything right after she entered the stairwell! She claims after she entered the stairwell, she felt like she was about to pass out, then found herself or her spirit floating around in space, then the next thing she knows, is that she is standing right at the receptionists’ desk wondering what she’s doing up here and wondering how she got there, and she doesn’t even know or remember how she got up on this floor! You know what that means? That means she has no memory of going down the staircase when we heard her foot steps coming! That means, she has no memory of being on the first floor level of that clinic hallway at all! And that means, she has no memory of going from clinic room door to clinic room door trying to open each door! And it also means, she has no memory of going right to the storage room door kung fu kicking that storage room door wide open, knocking everything down in there looking for somebody!”

“I know!” Cody frighteningly whispers. “If she doesn’t remember doing any of that stuff, but remembers herself or her spirit floating around in space at that exact same moment, that means she was probably dreaming and her physical body WAS sleepwalking, just like she thinks!”

“But Cody, how can Diane just fall asleep like that as soon as she is about to go down the stairs?!”

“I don’t know! Unless, her soul or spirit had actually left her physical body as soon as she entered the stairwell! If her soul or spirit had actually left her physical body as soon as she entered the stairwell, that means, that this other personality or evil vicious entity we’ve been hearing about probably entered her physical body at that very same moment!”

“I think that’s what happened! So when we were on the first floor level of the clinic hallway trying to find a place to hide, then heard Diane’s footsteps slowly coming down the staircase and she doesn’t remember going down the stairs, that means, it was that other personality or vicious entity we’ve been hearing about inside her body coming down the stairs?!” Cody and Shane frighteningly look at each other. “That means, when we were hiding behind the boxes and carts and we heard her footsteps coming from the staircase coming around the corner, it was that other personality or vicious entity’s footsteps coming from the staircase coming around the corner! It also means, it was that other personality or evil vicious entity we saw going from clinic room door to clinic room door trying to open each door! That means, it was that other personality or evil vicious entity that went right to that storage room door and kung fu kicked that storage room door wide open, knocking everything down in that room!” Cody and Shane frighteningly stare at each other.

“Shane, I think that little boy Marcus and his family’s suspicions of Diane being possessed by some evil vicious entity are right! I think she’s possessed! And I think you and I actually witnessed the possession of her right down there in that clinic hallway! My God! No wonder why she was so powerful and was able to kung fu kick that storage room door wide open, because it wasn’t her soul or spirit inside her body at that moment! It was the soul or spirit of that evil vicious entity inside her body!”

“They do say, that people who are possessed become very, very strong and get superhuman strength! Well we just witnessed that superhuman strength with our very own eyes! We saw the way she kung fu kicked that storage room door! That little boy Marcus did claim, that Diane had superhuman strength when she kung fu kicked him a couple of feet in the air as if he was a football or something! That little boy Marcus also claimed, he felt the vibration of the stairwell when Diane kung fu kicked the stairwell door when she was about to go down the stairwell after him! Well you and I felt the vibration too when she kung fu kicked that storage room door! Those correction officers claimed they felt the vibration when Diane kept throwing and slamming her own body right against the cell door! That little boy Marcus also claimed, he heard a loud ‘boom’ which sounded like a bulldozer when Diane kung fu kicked the stairwell door! Well we also heard the loud ‘boom’ which sounded like a bulldozer when she kung fu kicked that storage room door! We experienced exactly what that little boy Marcus and those correction officers experienced, the only difference is, Diane didn't get to beat the crap out of us like she did that little boy Marcus, those security guards and those police officers, but believe me, she would have definitely beat the crap out of both of us with that superhuman strength, if she had found us hiding inside that storage room!"

"Oh my God! So far, she doesn't even know that she kung fu kicked that storage room door!"

"Most likely, she doesn't know! If she gets up from behind the receptionists' desk and goes down to that lower level of the clinic hallway right now and see that storage room door busted wide open like that, she's going to wonder what the heck happened to it! She would have no idea in the world, that she's the one who did it?! She is totally unaware of what she did!"

"Oh my God."

"She would have no idea at all, unless we tell her about it, because we're the ones who actually witnessed it!"

"My God! So after Diane found herself or spirit floating around in space, her original soul or spirit came back into her physical body while her physical body was already on this floor standing at the receptionists' desk! That's why she doesn't know or remember how she got on this floor to the receptionists' desk area because her physical body was already there! If her physical body was already at the receptionists' desk, that means, that the other personality and vicious entity left Diane's physical body after her physical body came to the receptionists' desk! That means, it was that other personality or vicious entity who came on this floor!"

"Oh no!"

"That means, it was that other personality or evil vicious entity who was walking down the other end of the hallway looking into the patients' rooms!"

"Oh my God!"

"That means, it was that other personality or vicious entity who came right to the receptionists' desk area looking right at us!"

"Oh no!"

"We actually encountered that other personality or evil vicious entity we've been hearing about! We sort of met that other personality or evil vicious entity face to face!" Cody and Shane frighteningly stare at each other.

"My God!" Cody whispers. "No wonder why Diane wasn't limping when we saw her coming from down the other end of the hallway looking inside the patients' rooms! It was that other personality or evil vicious entity inside her body coming down the hallway, and that other personality or evil vicious entity does not feel pain! That's probably why Diane WAS limping by the time she went to sit down behind the receptionist' desk, because her original soul or spirit that DOES feel pain had come back into her physical body by then!"

"Oh my God!"

"That's probably why Diane was looking at us suspiciously when you said she was standing at the receptionists' desk area. She didn't know where she was at first! She was probably wondering where she was until she turned her head and saw Mildred!"

"If she was wondering where she was, then why did she keep staring at us the whole time while she was sitting behind that receptionist desk talking on her cell phone?! She hardly took her eyes off us!”

“She didn’t?”

“No!”

“Maybe we happen to still be right in her view, that’s why she was probably looking at us!”

“Cody, Diane had a suspicious look on her face while she was staring at us and talking on her cell phone at the same time! I know a suspicious look when I see one! If that other personality or evil vicious entity was the one that came up on this floor when we first saw Diane walking and looking around at the end of the hallway, looking inside the patients’ rooms, why did it wind up in this building on this floor, out of all places of the hospital?! The floor where we are! It’s strange out of all places in this entire big hospital, Diane came right in this building on this floor then walked right down here, then came right to this area where we are and just looked right at us! And when she went to sit down behind the receptionists’ desk, she hardly took her eyes off of us! She kept her eyes on us the whole time she was sitting behind that desk! Does she know that we’re the ones who were down there in that clinic hallway?!”

“Diane never saw who was in that clinic hallway Shane! There is no way, for her to know, that it was us in that hallway! We were gone by the time she got there!”

“Are you sure she didn’t somehow track our scent when she came in that area, and that scent lead her right to the receptionists’ desk area, where we were and she winds up suspiciously staring at us?”

“Shane, Diane is not a dog. She’s not able to track our scent!”

“Then what lead her to the receptionists’ desk area where we were and she winds up staring at us if she never saw who was down there in that clinic hallway?! Now I’m sure Diane remembers talking to her husband on the phone inside that clinic room, then leaving that clinic room, then hearing something drop around the corner of the hallway, then going to investigate to see what it was, then saw the tray on the floor wondering who or what was over there, then going into the stairwell to try to look for who or whatever it was that cause the tray to fall! She remembers everything up to that point! She’s still probably wondering, who the hell was in that clinic hallway and caused the tray to fall and she’s probably wondering, if whoever was in that clinic hallway overheard her conversation inside that clinic room, that’s probably why she kept staring at us while she was sitting behind the receptionists’ desk! She was probably wondering, if we were the ones who caused that tray to fall and probably wondering, if we heard her conversation inside that clinic room! It’s kind of strange that I accidentally bumped right into that cart and caused the tray to fall and drop on the floor, making a loud sound like that attracting Diane’s attention! Because when we first ran back around the corner after we overheard her speaking to her husband on the phone, the cart was on the side right against the wall! That corner of the hallway was clear nothing was in the way! As soon as we hear Diane leave that clinic office and we go to peak back around the corner, I suddenly bump right into the cart causing the tray to fall making a loud noise?! I don’t remember seeing that cart in the middle of the hallway when we tried to peak back around the corner!”

“Yeah you’re right! I don’t remember seeing that cart in the middle of the hallway either! I remember it being against the wall also when we came back around the corner and when we tried to peak back around the corner! It was no where next to us! It was further away from us! When you accidentally bumped into the cart, I was thinking the exact same thing ‘how did the cart suddenly be next to us, causing you to bump right into it and make that tray fall when it wasn’t in that spot before!’”

“I know! It was like that cart mysteriously appeared next to me on its own, causing me to bump right into it, causing me to knock the tray down and crash on the floor making a loud noise so Diane can hear it, attracting her attention so she can know someone was over there! It was like some unknown force was giving us away to her! It seems like when Diane entered the stairwell and was about to go down the stairs to look for whoever caused that tray to drop, that’s when, the other soul, spirit or personality or evil vicious entity came to her body, pulled her soul or spirit out of her physical body without her control, put her soul or spirit out into space, then entered her physical body and took over, continuing where she left off to look for whoever caused that tray to drop!”

“Oh no!”

“Then it seems like once this other personality or evil vicious entity went to the lower level of the clinic area and continued to look around for whoever caused that tray to drop, then came on this floor, then went to the receptionists’ desk area, then saw and found who was REALLY down there in that clinic area, it seems like it focused and stared right at its target! It seems like once this other personality or evil vicious entity found its target, then focused and stared at its target, that’s when it left Diane’s physical body and Diane’s original soul and spirit comes back and she continues to stare right at us where that other personality or evil vicious entity left off!”

“That’s why we were the first ones who came into Diane’s vision after she entered back into her physical body because it was that other personality or evil vicious entity staring and focusing right on us just before it left Diane’s physical body and we wind up being the first things Diane sees when her original soul or spirit enters back into her physical body! Then she turns her head and sees Mildred, telling Mildred about her strange experience in the stairwell and in space then wonders how long was she standing there at the receptionists’ desk and wonders how she got up here on this floor then goes and limps behind the receptionists’ desk and sits down and continues to stare at us while she’s on her cell phone! Did this other personality or evil vicious entity somehow lead Diane right to us?! Did it give Diane a clue that we were the ones who were down there in that clinic hallway and might have overheard her conversation inside that clinic room! Is that other personality or evil vicious entity somehow looking out for her?!” Shane and Cody frighteningly look at each other. Shane then says, “Cody, what you and I experienced down in that clinic hallway was terrifying, seeing that superhuman strength and power that Diane had and she remembers none of it! Seeing what we saw down in that clinic hallway is something that is going to haunt me for the rest of my life!”

“It’s going to haunt me for the rest of my life too Shane! After what we witnessed down in that clinic hallway, I don’t know if I want to continue to work here in this hospital as long as Diane is working here, knowing that she can be possessed at any giving moment and have no control over it! Then seeing the intense power and strength she has whenever she becomes possessed by this vicious entity then not remember it?! It’s very frightening! I feel that she is a ticking time bomb and a danger to the rest of the employees in this hospital!”

“I feel that way too! I don’t know if I want to continue to work here in this hospital either as long as she is working here! Just seeing or looking at Diane is going to haunt me for the rest of my life!”

“That’s exactly what that little boy Marcus said. I feel the exact way you and he feel. Just seeing or looking at Diane is going to haunt me forever too! Seeing or being in that clinic hallway again is going to haunt me forever!”

“Seeing or being in that clinic hallway again is going to haunt me forever too! Cody, you, I and Josh are going to have to tell someone what we learned about Diane, her husband, her cousin Dana and what we witnessed down there in that clinic hallway!”

“Shane, if we tell somebody and word gets around about Diane, her husband, her cousin Dana and what we witnessed down in the clinic hallway, then Diane is definitely going to know that it was us in that clinic hallway! She’s going to know that we’re probably the ones who caused that tray to drop!”

“Cody, I have a strange feeling, that she already knows it’s us! Why else would she come exactly to this floor where we are and stare at us so hard, especially while she was sitting behind that receptionists’ desk?! I didn’t see her staring at Mildred or the other two receptionists and she was sitting right next to them! It was like she completely ignored them and only focused on us! After experiencing what we saw in that clinic hallway and going through all of this, now I’m sorry that we ever eavesdropped on her conversation! I think that other personality or evil vicious entity or some unknown force is really making us pay for eavesdropping on Diane’s conversation!” Shane and Cody frighteningly look at each other again. They then turn their heads and see Mildred coming back towards their direction with some aspirin and a cup of water. Shane then says, “Hey Mildred. Did you get the aspirin for Diane?”

“Yeah I have it right here with some water,” Mildred stops and says. “I’m going to bring it to her right now.”

“Okay. By the way Mildred, what time do you get off?”

“I won’t be off until six o’clock in the morning.”

“Six o’clock in the morning?”

“Yeah.”

“Okay. See you later. I don’t want to hold you up from giving the aspirin to Diane.”

“Okay.” Mildred turns and leaves as Shane and Cody stare at her still remaining in a state of shock.

Several hours went by. The night has turned into morning. It is now 8:00am. Cody and Shane are back in the other building on the main floor of the hospital with their jackets on. They are about to leave the hospital still in a state of shock. They head towards the main exit when they suddenly hear a loud commotion. They turn their heads to the left and look. They see a heavy crowd of people, hospital employees and the police in the clinic area. They become puzzled. “Oh oh,” Cody says. “There goes the police! I have a strange feeling, that they already discovered that storage room!”

“I have that strange feeling also,” Shane says. “Hey. There goes Mildred. She’s still here. Let’s go ask her what’s going on.”

“Okay.” Cody and Shane start to walk towards the crowd.

Cody and Shane approach Mildred as Cody says, “Hey Mildred.” Mildred, who’s now wearing her jacket, turns to Cody and Shane as Cody says, “We thought you were leaving at six o’clock. It’s eight o’clock now. You’re still here.”

“I was about to leave at six o’clock until I ran into this commotion,” Mildred worriedly says.

“Well what happened?” Shane asks.

“The storage room in the back hallway of the clinic area was found vandalized!”

“What? The storage room in the back hallway of the clinic area was found vandalized?”

“Yeah. Someone busted the storage room door wide open last night and knocked all that furniture down inside the room!”

“Someone busted the storage room door wide open last night and knocked all that furniture down inside the room?!”

“Yeah! The police said it’s file cabinets, office furniture and papers knocked down upside down all over the place!”

“Did you say upside down?”

“That’s what the police said! I didn’t see it!”

“Oh my God,” Cody says. “Do they have any idea who did it?”

“No they have no idea! Nobody knows who did it! But whoever busted that storage room door opened practically knocked the door right off its hinges!”

“What!” Cody and Shane shout.

“The storage room door was knocked right off its hinges?!” Cody shockingly asks.

“That’s what the police said!”

“Did you see the door?!”

“No I didn’t! I couldn’t see anything! The police are not letting anybody back there!”

“They’re not?!”

“No! All these patients here have clinic appointments this morning! Now their appointments might have to be delayed or postponed until the police investigate what might have happened to that storage room door and to the storage room!”

“Oh my God! Is Diane still here?!”

“No Diane left hours ago.”

“She did?”

“Yeah. She still wasn’t feeling too well with the pain all in her legs and feet so she went home around four o’clock this morning.”

“She did?”

“Yeah.”

“Does she know about this?”

“I don’t think so. Why?”

“Because it’s something about Diane, her husband, her cousin Dana and the storage room that we think you and the police should know about.”

“Something about Diane, her husband, her cousin Dana and the storage room that you think I and the police should know about?”

“Yeah,” Shane says.

“Well what is it? What does Diane have to do with the storage room? What is it about Diane, her husband, her cousin Dana and the storage room that you think I and the police should know about?” Mildred puzzled looks at Shane and Cody as they frighteningly look at each other, then back at her.

Police are standing in the back hallway of the clinic area right at the storage room door looking at the broken door hinges. A white male police officer turns to a male hospital staff member and says, “And this storage room was found vandalized!”

“That’s right,” the male hospital staff member says.

“Well obviously someone was desperate enough to get in here to practically knock the door right off its hinges! I mean, look at it! The door is all bent and everything! This is absurd!” The police officer, the male staff member and other officers continue to look at the broken hinges near the top and middle of the storage room door. They then head into the storage room.

Inside the storage room are other officers, tall file cabinets, office furniture and papers knocked down crooked and upside down all over the storage room. The officer then says, “My God, this looks like a war zone or tornado! Did a war zone or tornado went on in here last night?!”

“I don’t know what’s going on officers!” the male staff member says. “Obviously someone broke in here last night during closing hours! Who did it and why they did it, I’m just as clueless as you are!” The hospital staff member and the police continue to look around at the damage storage room and at the damaged furniture.

The following day, media is all outside the hospital with news reporters talking to staff members.

Inside the back hallway of the clinic area are police, reporters and photographers taking pictures of the storage room door. A male white police officer puzzled says to Mildred, “And the two eye witnesses Cody and Shane claimed, to have seen Diane D kung fu kick this storage room door wide open, doing damage to it like that, then did damage inside the storage room?!”

“That’s what they claim!” a shocked and frightened Mildred says.

“And they claim that Diane D doesn’t appear to remember or realize what she had done?”

“That’s right! They said by what I told them Diane was telling me, about herself being on the second floor level in the back hallway of the clinic area, then heard something drop around the corner, then went around the corner to find out what it was, then went into the stairwell and was about to go down the stairs to look for whoever caused the tray to drop, then said she found herself floating around in space, then found herself standing at the receptionists’ desk next to me, that she appears to have no memory of what she had done!”

“She didn’t appear to realize what she done when she spoke with you at the receptionists’ desk that morning?”

“No, she didn’t say or mention anything about the storage room door or the storage room at all! She just mention about being on the second level in the back hallway of the clinic area, then in the stairwell, then at the receptionists’ desk area, and that was it! She never once mentioned about going down the stairs and going to the first floor level, being on this floor or kung fu kicking this door!”

“She never?”

“Never! It’s like she didn’t realize she was ever down here!”

“Wow. What was Diane D’s state of mind like when she spoke to you that morning? How did she seem to you when you first saw her and she spoke with you?”

“Her state of mind appeared normal.”

“It did?”

“Yeah! She just appeared like she was kind of tired and worn out when I saw her and she told me she wasn’t feeling right!”

“Tired and worn out?”

“Yes!”

“I see. And the two eye witnesses, Shane and Cody, who saw Diane D kung fu kick this storage room door wide open, claim that they were hiding right down there at the end of the hallway behind the carts and boxes when they frighteningly witnessed what Diane D did?”

“Yes!”

“Where are they now? We need to talk to them.”

“They’re home right now! They don’t work until the night shift! They’re still shocked and afraid by what they saw Diane did! They claim they’ve never seen anything like that before in their life! They’re so afraid that they claim they’re not gonna come into work tonight!”

“They’re not?”

“No! They claim they don’t want to work here anymore!”

“What? They don’t want to work here anymore?”

“No! They claim the memory of seeing Diane possessed is something that they’ll never forget!”

“Seeing Diane D possessed?”

“Wow! I would be afraid to see or be near something like that too! Well where is the other witness, Ryan, who overheard Diane D and her husband’s conversation inside the clinic room, and the other witness, Josh, who overheard Diane D and her cousin Dana’s conversation inside the clinic room? We need to talk to them too.”

“They’re sort of afraid also, hearing about all of this! Ryan works the day shift, but I don’t think he wanted to come in here today, after hearing about all of this and Josh works the night shift too!”

“He does?”

“I see.” The officer puzzled looks at Mildred and asks, “Are you okay Ma’am? You seem kind of shaky.”

“Of course I’m shaky! I’m scared, seeing this kind of damage done to the storage room door and to the storage room! Knowing that I came close to that other personality of Diane’s while she was standing right next to me at the receptionists’ desk, and I didn’t even know! Then she sat right next to me and the other two receptionists behind the receptionists’ desk and we didn’t even know that we were this close to that other personality?!”

“What other personality?”

“That other personality everyone’s heard about!”

“You mean the evil vicious personality?”

“Yes, that one! The one everybody’s heard about that be viciously attacking people! The one that viciously attacked that helpless little boy inside a school hallway! What if that other personality had attacked ME that morning, huh?! That other personality could have easily kung fu kicked ME, or the other two receptionists as well while Diane was standing at the receptionists’ desk, then came and sat down behind the receptionists’ desk and was sitting right next to us! That other personality could have attacked anybody on the fifth floor or anybody else in the hospital that night or that morning! It’s very scary! When Cody and Shane first told me yesterday about what happened with Diane and this storage room door, I got so angry at them for not warning me or anybody else in the hospital about it, especially after witnessing what Diane did here!”

“Did they say why they didn’t warn anybody when they first witnessed what Diane D did?”

“They said they were afraid that if they tell someone, word will get back to Diane that it was them in the clinic hallway, and they didn’t want her to know it was them that was in the clinic hallway who caused that tray to drop! They were afraid that Diane will probably think, that they might have overheard her conversation inside the clinic room!”

“I see. Well did anybody get hurt that morning besides the storage room door and the storage room?”

“Not that I know of! Thank God no one got hurt, but it’s still very scary, knowing that I was right next to that other personality of hers! It’s scary to know that I practically came face to face with that vicious personality, who could have easily attacked me right there! It’s not that I’m against Diane personally, I have no problem with her! It’s that evil vicious personality that I’m afraid of that can come take over Diane at any given moment!” Mildred frighteningly places both of her hands on the sides of her head as the police officer worriedly looks at her. Mildred and the police officer turn their heads as they, the reporters and the hospital staff members continue to look at the damaged storage room door and the damaged storage room.

Diane D Gets Arrested At Hospital Where She Works!

The following day on Wednesday afternoon, several hospital staff members are working in the hospital emergency room. They suddenly hear a loud commotion coming from outside. They turn and hurry to the exit!

The hospital employees leave the building and hurry down the corner. They become shocked and stunned to see Diane D backing away from two white male police officers with her hands up to them saying to them, "Just hold on. I'm just going to get my stuff. I'll be right back." Diane D suddenly turns around and starts to run from the officers as the officers chase after her! The police officers quickly reach out for Diane D! Diane D trips and falls face down to the ground as she turns her head towards the police officers! The two officers quickly get on the ground to Diane D and grab her by the arms placing both of her hands behind her back with her legs and feet spread apart! Diane D struggles as the officers try to slap handcuffs on her! The hospital employees hurry to the commotion! They become hysterical as they surround Diane D and the officers shouting, "What happened?! What's going on?!"

"Stand back everybody!" one of the officers shout. Everybody backs away a little as Diane D remains on the ground in handcuffs jerking and struggling as her face is away from the crowd.

"Diane are you okay?!" the hospital employees shout. "What happened?!"

Diane D then becomes motionless on the ground as her hands remain behind her back and legs and feet spread apart.

The following Thursday morning, a black gentleman around his 60's and his wife also around her 60's are sitting at their breakfast table eating. The man is looking at a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D, THE FEMALE BRUCE LEE?! DIANE D ARRESTED AT HOSPITAL WHERE TWO MALE HOSPITAL EMPLOYEES FRIGHTENINGLY WITNESS HER SPIN HER ENTIRE BODY AROUND AND KUNG FU KICK A STUCK STORAGE ROOM DOOR WIDE OPEN! He then says, "My God, did you see this article, about Diane D, kung fu kicking a storage room door wide open inside a hospital where she works?!"

"What?" the man's wife says. She gets up from her chair and goes to her husband, looking over his shoulder at the article. "What happened?!" she anxiously asks.

“It says two male hospital employees who work the night shift inside the hospital where Diane D works at witnessed her kung fu kick a stuck storage room door wide open inside the back hallway of the clinic area!”

“What! Two male hospital employees who work the night shift witnessed Diane D kung fu kick a stuck storage room door wide open inside the back hallway of the clinic area?”

“Yeah!”

“Oh my God! And Diane D works at the same hospital we go to for our clinic appointments, right?!”

“Yeah!”

“Oh my God! How did the two employees witness her kung fu kick a door?!”

“They were bending down hiding at the end of the hallway in the back area of the clinic!”

“Bending down hiding at the end of the hallway in the back area of the clinic?”

“Yeah!”

“Why were they bending down hiding?”

“They were hiding from Diane D so she won’t see them!”

“Hiding from Diane D?”

“Yeah.”

“Why were they hiding from her in the first place?”

“I don’t know.”

“Why did she kung fu kick a storage room door wide open in the first place?”

“They claim she was looking for somebody and thought whoever the person is, was hiding inside the storage room when she heard then saw the storage room door move, then they said she tried to open the storage room door more. When she couldn’t get it opened more, the next thing they know, is that she backed up, ran straight to the storage room door, jump, spun her entire body around and kung fu kicked the storage room door wide open knocking everything down inside that room, then kicked the door again and busted in the storage room and started looking for whoever could have been hiding in there!”

“What? She ran to the storage room door, then jumped and spun her body around then kung fu kicked the door and knocked everything down that was inside the room?!”

“That’s what this article says! The two eye witnesses claim that Diane D did a turn-around side kick when she kung fu kicked that door wide open!”

“A turn around side kick?”

“Yeah. Do you know how dangerous a turn-around side kick is?!”

“No. How dangerous is it?”

“It’s very dangerous! It’s those dangerous kicks that Bruce Lee used to do!”

“Dangerous kicks that Bruce Lee used to do?!”

“Yeah! And now Diane D’s doing it!”

“Oh my God!”

“If she was able to get a stuck door wide open with that kick, it has to be pretty powerful and dangerous! That’s exactly how she injured that little boy Marcus in the school hallway that night and gave him broken bones, with that same dangerous kick!”

“My God! No wonder why those two eye witnesses were probably hiding from her!”

“Well wouldn’t you be hiding from Diane D too, knowing that she’s capable of doing something like that?”

“Of course I would! Well who could be hiding inside that storage room that Diane D wanted to look for and get so bad, that she had to kung fu kick the door wide open?!”

“I don’t know! This article says that Diane D is saying ‘how can she kung fu kick the storage room door wide open when she was never down in the lower level of the clinic area in the first place!’”

“What? Wait a minute! Diane D is saying, that she was never down in the lower level of the clinic area?”

“Yes!”

“And that’s where the storage room is?”

“Yeah! In other words, she’s claiming not to remember being in that area or doing any of that stuff!”

“What? She’s claiming not to remember being in that area or doing any of that stuff?! She doesn’t remember being in the back hallway of the clinic area or kung fu kicking that storage room door wide open?!”

“According to this article, she doesn’t!”

“My God! Just like the case when she beat up that little boy inside an elementary school hallway the night she and her family appeared there and she claims not to remember beating the little boy up! I think history is repeating itself! It sounds like that other personality that Diane D suffers from has come back and took over her again!”

“You really think so?!”

“That what it sounds like!”

“Wow. That sounds pretty scary.”

“It does.”

“Wow. I wouldn’t want to be in those eye witnesses’ or that little boy Marcus’ shoes!”

“Neither would I.” The wife and her husband continue to shockingly stare at the article.

Diane D’s former lover Jonathan’s ex-girlfriend Candis, is sitting inside her living room drinking coffee from a coffee mug as she puzzled looks at a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D ARRESTED AT HOSPITAL WHERE SHE WORKS! TWO MALE HOSPITAL EMPLOYEES FRIGHTENINGLY WITNESS DIANE D SPIN HER ENTIRE BODY AROUND AND KUNG FU KICK A STUCK DOOR WIDE OPEN! “What!” Candis shouts to herself. “Diane D was arrested at the hospital where she works? Two hospital employees witnessed her kung fu kick a door wide open?! Oh my goodness! My God! I wonder what happened! I wonder what this was all about!” Candis looks up from the newspaper. She gets up and hurries to the telephone with the newspaper in her hand. She picks up the telephone receiver and dials a number. She puts the receiver to her ear and listens for a few seconds. She then says, “Hello Jonathan?!”

“Hey Candis,” Jonathan says on the other end of the phone. “What’s up?”

“Jonathan did you see the morning’s paper?! It says that Diane D got arrested at the hospital where she works!”

“Yeah I saw it! I’m looking at the article right now!” Jonathan says as he holds a newspaper in his hand.

“What happened?! What did she get arrested for?!”

“I’m not sure Candis! They said she kung fu kicked a storage room door wide open in the back hallway of the clinic area!”

“Yeah I read it! But why in the world would she kung fu kick a storage room door wide open?!”

“They claim she was looking for somebody!”

“I read that part too! But who in the world was she looking for?!”

“I don’t know Candis, but I’m curious to find out!”

“So am I.”

“The couple of eyewitnesses that the paper is talking about, I think I know who they are!”

“You do?”

“Yeah! I know several people who work at the hospital Diane D works at! I’ll see if I can get some information from them.”

“You’re going to go talk to them?”

“Yeah.”

“When?”

“Sometime today I hope.”

“Okay Jonathan. As soon as you get any information about why Diane D got arrested and why she kung fu kicked that storage room door wide open looking for somebody, get back to me as soon as possible.”

“Okay Candis I will. I have to get to work now. Call you later.”

“Okay Jonathan, bye.” Candis hangs up the telephone. She then puzzled looks back at the article.

Outside the hospital entrance are newspaper reporters and the police. A heavy crowd of curious people are trying to get a glimpse of the damage storage room door, but the police are holding them back. One of the men in the crowd turns to the others and asks, “So in there is the door that Diane D kung fu kicked wide open?”

“Yeah,” a lady says. “It’s a storage room door in the back hallway of the clinic area.”

“Did you see the door?” another man asks.

“No, but I would really love to see it. I heard the door and the room got damaged real bad by Diane D.”

“I heard too. I heard the door practically got knocked right off its hinges!”

“I heard that too! My God Diane D is that strong?!”

“She’s claiming she never did that.”

“Yeah that’s what I heard too.” The people continue to look towards the hospital entrance.

The following Friday morning, several people inside an office are reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: THE BEAST WITHIN RETURNS AS TWO HOSPITAL EMPLOYEES FRIGHTENINGLY WITNESS AN ANGRY DIANE D SPIN HER BODY AROUND AND KUNG FU KICK A STUCK DOOR WIDE OPEN! Beneath the headline is a large frightening colorful sketch of an angry Diane D dressed in the same orange shirt, short dark gray denim jacket, dark gray denim pants and thick black shoes with an orange bow at the bottom of her long thick braid in a dark hallway angrily kung fu kicking a door wide open knocking down furniture behind the door as sketches of two frightened faces of the hospital male employees, one white and one black, bent down hiding beneath some carts and boxes secretly watching in horror! “Oh my God!” one of the male employees says. “Look at this article, about Diane D, kung fu kicking a stuck door inside the hospital hallway wide open!” The other employees look at the article headline and see the frightening sketch of Diane D and the frightened male employees hiding and watching her in horror.

“Wow” a female employee says. “That is a frightening thing to see if I was there!”

“I can imagine! I would be out of my wits seeing and being close to something like that!”

“Me too! The employees continue to look at the headline and the frightening sketch.

Several male white office managers are sitting inside a newspaper office. Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Gracy, Grandpa Mike, Tonio and Marilyn suddenly barge right into a newspaper office as the office managers turn and look at them. The office managers stand up as one of them nervously says, “Diaz-Davidson Organization! Hi! How are you?! What can we do for you?”

“How dare you call my child a beast!” Mary angrily shouts.

“Beast? What are you talking about?”

“Look!” Barry shouts as he hands the office manager the newspaper with the headline that reads: THE BEAST WITHIN RETURNS AS TWO HOSPITAL EMPLOYEES FRIGHTENINGLY WITNESS AN ANGRY DIANE D KUNG FU KICK A STUCK DOOR WIDE OPEN! and see the frightening sketch beneath it of Diane D kung fu kicking the storage room door wide open with the two faces of the frightened male employees hiding and watching in horror. “How dare you print in your newspaper saying that my daughter is a beast!”

“Yeah printing that the Beast Within Returns!” Tomas shouts.

“That’s right!” Margarita shouts. “Diane is very upset over this article your paper wrote about her and this sketch your paper drew! She is not a beast!”

“I don’t appreciate anybody calling my granddaughter is a beast!” Grandpa Mike shouts.

“We’re not saying Diane D is a beast!” the manager says. “According to the two hospital employees who witnessed what she did, they’re claiming she was like a beast when they witnessed what she did in that clinic hallway.”

“Diane says she doesn’t know what the heck these two male hospital employees are talking about!” Gracy shouts. “She said she never went to the first floor level of the clinic hallway after she heard a tray drop around the corner! She said she never kung fu kicked any door!”

“We’re not saying that she did any of that! We put in the paper according to what the eye witnesses said she did!”

“Who are these eye witnesses anyway?!” Margarita shouts.

“We can’t say. The hospital wants to protect their identity.”

“You sketched and drew in your paper the exact clothes Diane was wearing that night!” Mary shouts. “How did your paper even know exactly what she was wearing?!”

“The two employees who witnessed what Diane D did, and the hospital employees at the receptionists' desk on the fifth floor described to us exactly what Diane D was wearing that night, so we drew it into the picture. We only wrote and drew by what we heard from the witnesses, the rest of the hospital and the police."

"Well we're going to go to the hospital right now and straighten this whole mess out!" Barry shout. "Then we'll deal with you later!" Barry turns to his family and says, "Come on everybody!" Barry and the rest of the family turn and storm out the office as the newspaper managers look on at them.

Jonathan Tell Candis Shocking Information About Diane D

It is around 12:00 midnight. Candis is sitting inside her living room sipping some tea from a tea cup as she reads a book. The telephone suddenly rings. Candis looks up from the book and looks at the telephone. She puts the book aside, gets up and goes to the telephone. She picks up the telephone receiver, puts it to her ear and says, "Hello?"

"Hey Candis," Jonathan says from the other end of the phone. "It's me."

"Hey Jonathan! How's it going?! Did you get any news? Did you find out what happened to Diane D? Did you find out why she kung fu kicked that storage room door and got arrested?"

"Yep, I sure did."

"You did?! Well what happened?!"

"It's sort of a long story Candis."

"A long story?"

"Yeah."

"I have all the time in the world Jonathan."

"Okay, but I'll make this story as quick as possible."

"Okay. So what happened?"

"Remember when we talked on the phone before, about Diane D being on birth control pills to keep herself from getting pregnant, then you asked me 'what about her cousin Dana', that what if her cousin Dana were to get pregnant by Diane D's husband, and I told you that Dana is on the pill too?"

"Yeah I remember!"

"Then you asked me, what if those birth control pills didn't work, and Dana would have gotten pregnant by Diane D's husband, and I told you, that Dana would have most likely got rid of the baby, then you asked me, 'what did I mean by that', and I told you, that Dana would have gotten an abortion because she had an abortion before?"

"Yeah I remember all of that!"

"Well guess what!"

"What?"

"Diane D's cousin Dana strikes again! She had another abortion!"

"What! Diane D's cousin Dana had another abortion?!"

"Yep, she sure did!"

“You mean she was pregnant?!”

“Exactly!”

“Oh my God! How do you know that?!”

“My friend Brandon who works at the hospital told me that word got around the hospital, that Diane D’s cousin Dana had an abortion a few days ago!”

“What! Diane D’s cousin Dana had an abortion a few days ago?!”

“Yeah, this past Monday!”

“This past Monday?!”

“That’s what I heard!”

“Oh my God, Diane D’s cousin Dana had another abortion! She becomes a baby killer again! My goodness, how can Dana do something like that, Jonathan?!”

“I told you before Candis, Dana doesn’t want any children!”

“So she gets another abortion?!”

“Yep, she went and got another abortion! So now she can add this recent abortion to her resume.”

“Add this recent abortion to her resume?! Why don’t she just add baby killer to her resume! How many abortions has Diane D’s cousin Dana had altogether?!”

“I think this is probably her fourth one.”

“Her fourth abortion?!”

“I think. Look Candis, Dana had so many abortions, I think she lost count.”

“Lost count?! That is so wrong!”

“What is so wrong Candis, that Dana probably lost count, or that she had another abortion?”

“All the above Jonathan! The whole thing is wrong!”

“How is it wrong Candis?!”

“Because Jonathan, don’t you see?! Dana is blessed to be able to get pregnant, but what does she do instead, she gets rid of her unborn babies, that’s what is wrong! Jonathan, there are so many women out there who want children, but can’t have any! They’re not able to get pregnant or if they do get pregnant, they miscarry! I know a couple of women in my life who had several miscarriages! They can’t carry a baby to full term and lose their baby! My sister had four miscarriages, four! Dana is blessed to get pregnant four times but instead, she terminates her pregnancies! It’s women like her that get me so frustrated!”

“Candis, even though Dana is blessed to be able to get pregnant, she still has the right to choose to terminate those pregnancies! She still has the right not to have any children at all if she doesn’t want any, whether you or anybody else like it or not!”

“Jonathan why don’t Dana just stop sleeping around, then she wouldn’t be getting pregnant in the first place! Where was Diane D during this last abortion Dana had?”

“I think Diane D was right there in the room with Dana again while Dana was having this last abortion!”

“What! Diane D was in the room with her cousin Dana again while her cousin Dana was getting another abortion?!”

“Yeah! She was right there hugging and holding on to Dana while Dana was having this recent abortion!”

“She was?!”

“Yeah. I guess she was there so she can give Dana some moral support again.”

“Give Dana some moral support again?! So she becomes an accessory again to her cousin Dana's unborn baby killings! Why doesn't Diane D ever try to stop her cousin Dana from getting abortions Jonathan?!"

"Why would Diane D stop her cousin Dana from getting abortions Candis?! I think it might have been Diane D's idea in the first place for her cousin Dana to get abortions!"

"What! You think it was Diane D's own idea for her cousin Dana to get abortions?!"

"Yeah!"

"What makes you think that Jonathan?!"

"I think Dana got pregnant by Diane D's husband when she had this last abortion!"

"What! Dana got pregnant by Diane D's husband?!"

"Yeah! He accidentally got Dana pregnant this last pregnancy and I heard he accidentally got Dana pregnant before, around two years ago!"

"What! Diane D's husband got Dana pregnant twice?!"

"Yeah! Both times Diane D told her husband that Dana has to get rid of the baby before their family finds out!"

"What! Diane D told her husband that Dana has to get rid of the baby before their family finds out?! Oh my God!"

"Yeah! The first time Diane D's husband accidentally got Dana pregnant, I heard that Diane D tried to abort the baby out of Dana herself!"

"What! Wait a minute, slow down Jonathan! What do you mean Diane D tried to abort the baby out of Dana herself?!"

"The doctor who works inside the abortion clinic at the hospital Diane D works at later found out, that Diane D tried to abort her own cousin's baby at first!"

"What! The doctor who works inside the abortion clinic found out that Diane D tried to abort her own cousin's baby?!"

"Yeah!"

"How?"

"Brandon told me that Ryan, one of the guys who works at the hospital Diane D works in, was walking down the hallway area of the clinic a week and a half ago when he happen to overhear Diane D and her husband Michael's conversation inside one of the offices that had the door closed! Ryan told Brandon that he overheard Diane D's husband confess to Diane D that he had sex with Dana!"

"What! A hospital employee named Ryan overheard Diane D's husband confess to Diane D that he had sex with her cousin Dana?!"

"Yeah! Ryan overheard Diane D's husband say to her that when he saw Dana laying down on the bed sleeping, he got horny then had sex with her and he think he might have accidentally gotten Dana pregnant!"

"What! He told his own wife, that when he saw her cousin laying down on the bed sleeping, he got horny then had sex with her cousin and he think he might have accidentally gotten her own cousin pregnant?!"

"Yeah!"

"What did Diane D do?!"

"I heard she panicked!"

"She panicked?!"

"Yeah! The same thing happened two years ago when Diane D's husband first got Dana pregnant."

“Oh yeah?!”

“Yeah! The first time Diane D’s husband accidentally got Dana pregnant, Cody, another employee at the hospital was standing outside one of the hospital rooms that had the door shut. He overheard Diane D’s husband confess to Diane D, that he had sex with Dana and he think he might have accidentally gotten Dana pregnant!”

“What! Two years ago, another hospital employee overheard Diane D’s husband confessing to Diane D that he had sex with her cousin Dana and he think he might have accidentally gotten her cousin Dana pregnant?!”

“Yeah!”

“Oh my God! What did Diane D do at that time?”

“I heard she panicked then too!”

“She did?!”

“Yeah! Cody overheard Diane D telling her husband that she’s going to go to her Grandmother Gracy’s house that night to give Dana a pregnancy test! I heard when Diane D went to her grandmother Gracy’s house that night and discovered that her cousin Dana was actually pregnant, I heard she flipped!”

“She did?!”

“Yeah! I heard that she got scared that this incident of her own husband getting her cousin Dana pregnant would get back to her family! That following day, Diane D requested to start working inside the abortion clinic!”

“What! Diane D requested to start working inside the abortion clinic?!”

“Yeah!”

“Why in the world would she request to start working inside the abortion clinic?!”

“That’s what some hospital employees wondered. The doctor told some hospital employees that Diane D wanted to watch live abortions and wanted to learn and see how abortions are done!”

“What! Diane D wanted to watch live abortions and wanted to learn and see how they are done?!”

“Yeah.”

“Why in the world would she want to learn and see how live abortions are done?”

“I know, so she started working inside the abortion room!”

“She started working inside the abortion room?!”

“Yeah. The doctor was wondering why Diane D suddenly became interested in learning about abortions and was wondering why would she even want to see live abortions!”

“See live abortions?! How can she just stand there and watch abortions?! Isn’t she sickened by seeing something like that?!”

“I don’t know!”

“How many live abortions have Diane D watched and seen?!”

“The doctor said Diane D has watched and seen almost six live abortions that week!”

“Six live abortions?!”

“That’s what the doctor said! But the doctor said he didn’t know that Diane D was secretly taking notes!”

“Secretly taking notes?”

“Yeah! He said he didn’t know that Diane D was secretly planning to use that very same technique on her own cousin!”

“Oh my God!”

“The doctor said around a week later, Diane D requested to work the night shift at the hospital!”

“She requested to work the night shift?!”

“Yeah, so two nights later, she worked the night shift!”

“She did?”

“Yeah! After that, the doctor from the abortion clinic noticed some abortion tools and some objects missing from the abortion clinic.”

“What! The doctor from the abortion clinic noticed some abortion tools and some objects missing from the abortion clinic?!”

“Yeah. Then while Diane D was working the night shift, Brandon told me that Josh and another employee name Shane saw Diane D from a distance sneaking her cousin Dana down the other end of the hallway then saw Diane D sneak her cousin Dana into one of the empty clinic rooms, then they heard Diane D shut the door behind herself and Dana, then they heard her lock the door. Brandon told me that Josh and Shane hurried and tiptoed right towards the outside of the door to find out what was going on! When they reached the outside of the door, they stopped, then they pinned their ears to the door to listen through it! When Josh and Shane pinned their ears to the door, they could overhear Diane D having her cousin Dana lie down on the table!”

“Yeah. A couple of minutes later, Josh and Shane said they could hear Diane D using the abortion tools and objects on Dana!”

“What! Josh and Shane heard Diane D using the abortion tools on her cousin?!”

“Yeah! They said they could hear her trying to suck and pull the unborn baby right out of her own cousin!”

“Oh my God! Did they hear Dana screaming?! Did she scream?!”

“No, they said they never heard any screaming coming from inside that room at all!”

“They didn’t?!”

“No! They said all they kept hearing was Diane D trying to suck and pull the unborn baby right out of her cousin!”

“Oh my God!”

“Josh and Shane said if they would have heard Dana screaming, they would have tried to burst the door open and go into the room to stop Diane D, but since they never once heard Dana screaming, they didn’t do anything, they just continued to listen outside the door!”

“My God, is Diane D licensed to give an abortion to anybody?!”

“No she’s not licensed at all, she’s not a doctor! Even though she doesn’t have a doctor’s license, that didn’t stop her from trying to suck and pull the unborn baby right out of her own cousin!”

“My God!”

“When that didn’t work out, Josh and Shane overheard Diane D giving up!”

“They did?”

“Yeah. I heard that next day, Diane D took her cousin Dana right to an abortion clinic away from the hospital where she works at. That’s when Diane D told the doctor there to abort her cousin Dana’s baby, so the doctor at that abortion clinic had Dana lie down on the table. That’s when Diane D had the doctor abort the baby right out of Dana's womb!"

"Oh my goodness! Why didn't Diane D and her cousin Dana just go to the abortion clinic in the first place instead of Diane D trying to suck and pull the unborn baby out herself?!"

"Because Diane D figured, that since a lot of people know who she is, sooner or later, they will start talking which is exactly what the doctor, Cody and Shane did! That's how this sort of information got around that time. Diane D was afraid that this information of her husband getting her cousin Dana pregnant would get back to her family, that's why she tried to cover it up by doing the abortion herself and keep quiet about it, but since trying to do the abortion herself didn't work out for her, that's when she gave in and decided to take Dana to an abortion clinic away from the hospital."

"My God!"

"After Diane D finished doing what she did with Dana, I heard that she told her husband why don't he get a vasectomy!"

"What! She told her husband why don't he get a vasectomy?!"

"That's what I heard."

"Why would Diane D suggest for her husband to get a vasectomy?! Doesn't she want children someday, at least children from him?"

"I'm not sure if Diane D ever wants any children at all Candis, she keeps taking birth control pills! She's been on birth control pills ever since she was a teenager and as far as I know, she's still on birth control pills! That's telling me right there that she doesn't want any children!"

"Maybe she doesn't want any children right now Jonathan, but doesn't she want children later on in life?"

"I don't know what Diane D wants later on in life Candis! All I know, is that I heard she told her husband to get a vasectomy, then I heard she requested to start working inside the vasectomy clinic!"

"What! Wait a minute! Am I hearing this right?! Diane D requested to start working inside the vasectomy clinic?!"

"Yeah!"

"Why would she request to start working inside the vasectomy clinic?! Oh no! Don't tell me that she was trying to learn about vasectomies and wanted to watch and see how they are done!"

"That's exactly what she wanted to do, learn about vasectomies and watch and see how they are done!"

"My God, why in the world would she want to watch and learn about that?! Don't tell me she wanted to do a vasectomy on her own husband!"

"That's exactly what she wanted to do!"

"Oh my God! So what happened?!"

"So she started working inside the vasectomy room!"

"She started working inside the vasectomy room?!"

"Yeah! The doctor there was wondering why Diane D suddenly became interested in learning about vasectomies and wondered why would she even want to see live vasectomies! A week later, Diane D requested to work the night shift at the hospital again!"

"She requested to work the night shift again?!"

"Yeah!"

“Then what happened?”

“She worked the night shift again!”

“Oh my God!”

“Then the doctor from the vasectomy clinic said he noticed some vasectomy tools and objects missing from the vasectomy clinic!”

“What! The doctor from the vasectomy clinic notice vasectomy tools and objects missing from the vasectomy clinic too?!”

“Yeah.”

“My God, I’m afraid to find out what happened next!”

“Well while Diane D was working the night shift, Brandon told me that Cody and Shane saw Diane D sneaking her husband down the other end of the hallway.”

“What? Cody and Shane saw Diane D sneaking her husband down the other end of the hallway?”

“Yeah.”

“Just like they saw her sneak her cousin Dana down there.”

“Yeah. They saw Diane D and her husband go into the same empty clinic room Diane D brought her cousin Dana in, then Cody and Shane heard Diane D shut the door behind herself and her husband, then they heard her lock the door. Brandon told me that Cody and Shane hurried and tiptoed right towards the outside of the clinic room door just like they did when they saw Diane D sneak her cousin Dana in there! When they reached the outside of the door, they stopped and pinned their ears to the door to listen through it! When Cody and Shane pinned their ears to the door, they overheard Diane D telling her husband that she got the vasectomy tools ready so why don’t he lay down on the table so she can get him fixed!”

“What! Cody and Shane overheard Diane D tell her husband that she got the vasectomy tools ready so why don’t he lay down on the table so she can get him fixed?!”

“Yeah! I heard she wanted to give him a vasectomy right there!”

“What! Diane D wanted to give her husband a vasectomy right there? Are you serious Jonathan?!”

“Yeah I’m serious!”

“Wow, this story is getting more bizarre by the minute! Then what happened?!”

“Cody and Shane overheard Diane D trying to get her husband to lie down on the table!”

“They overheard Diane D trying to get her husband to lie down on the table?!”

“Yeah, but he refused!”

“He refused?!”

“Yeah! I heard that he told Diane D that she’s not a doctor and she’s not going to give him any vasectomy!”

“What! He told Diane D that?!”

“Yeah!”

“Good for him! I’m glad he told her that! Then what happened?!”

“I heard Diane D and her husband had an argument right inside the room!”

“They did?”

“Yeah! Then Cody and Shane said they overheard Diane D was about to walk out the room so they hurried and dashed back down the other end of the hallway and went around the corner! That’s when they peaked around the corner and saw Diane D angrily walking out the room then go into the stairwell down that end of the hallway!”

“She did?”

“Yeah! After word got around the hospital that Diane D tried to abort her own cousin’s baby and tried to give her husband a vasectomy, I heard the police went after her!”

“The police went after her?”

“Yeah! They went to the hospital to arrest her!”

“What! The police went to the hospital to arrest Diane D?!”

“Yeah, they were going to arrest her for reckless endangerment!”

“Reckless endangerment?!”

“Yeah, because they said suppose something would have went wrong with Dana when Diane D tried to abort the baby out of her and said suppose something would have went wrong with her husband when Diane D tried to give him a vasectomy!”

“So they were going to arrest her for that?!”

“Of course they were going to arrest her for that because she’s not a doctor! The police said Diane D had no right to try to perform an abortion or a vasectomy on anybody! They said what Diane D tried to do is illegal and she can go to jail or prison for it!”

“Oh yeah?!”

“Yeah! But it wasn’t proven that Diane D tried to abort her own cousin’s baby or give her husband a vasectomy.”

“It wasn’t proven?”

“No, she denied it!”

“She denied it?!”

“Yeah!”

“Just like she denied to the police about me last year, telling them that she never threatened me over the telephone and told them that she sped all the way from her family’s organization to the parking lot behind my apartment building to meet up with some friend when she knew she came to the parking lot to come after me! She also lied and told the police that she’s never seen me before in her life when she knew she had! Diane D is a good liar!”

“Well obviously her lies worked for her Candis, because she never got charged in this attempted abortion incident or this attempted vasectomy incident.”

“She never got charged?!”

“No.”

“Well those two hospital employees, Cody and Shane, witnessed Diane D sneaking her cousin Dana into one of the empty clinic rooms that night and overheard everything from outside the door, and they witnessed Diane D sneaking her husband into one of the empty clinic rooms on a different night and overheard Diane D putting pressure on her husband to let her give him a vasectomy! Didn’t they come forward and tell the police what they saw and heard?!”

“No I don’t think so. I don’t think Cody and Shane wanted to get involved and I don’t think that they meant to get Diane D in trouble. They said they would have only gotten involved if they would have heard Dana screaming or if they would have heard a physical fight erupt between Diane D and her husband, but since they never heard Dana scream and never heard a physical fight between Diane D and her husband, they left it alone.”

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“Did the police ask Dana if the attempted abortion was true or not or did they ask Diane D’s husband if the attempted vasectomy was true or not?”

“I think the police asked Diane D’s husband about the attempted vasectomy.”

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“What did he say?”

“He denied it!”

“He denied it?!”

“Yeah!”

“Why did he deny it?!”

“Because he was trying to cover up for Diane D! He didn’t want her to get in trouble either!”

“But what about her cousin Dana? Did the police ask Dana if the attempted abortion was true or not?”

“No I don’t think they asked Dana.”

“They didn’t?”

“No.”

“Why not?!”

“I don’t know. Maybe they felt Dana might deny it and cover up for Diane D also.”

“I don’t understand, why would Dana even trust Diane D in the first place and allow Diane D to stick an object up inside of her and try to abort her unborn baby out of herself?!”

“Oh! So in other words, Diane D and her cousin Dana were more afraid of their family more than they were afraid of the do-it-yourself abortion?!”

“Yeah they were afraid of their family, especially their moms because I hear Diane D’s mom and Dana’s mom don’t play!”

“I know Diane D’s mom don’t play, since she’s the one who be whacking Diane D upside her head!”

“Well I heard Dana’s mom whacked Dana upside her head too after she and the rest of their family overheard Dana and Diane D’s husband in the bedroom together with the bed bouncing and the door locked while Diane D and Dana’s boyfriend Tony took off somewhere together for several hours just to go to a pharmacy.”

“My God! Jonathan, let me ask you something. If both Diane D and her cousin Dana take birth control pills, how come only Dana accidentally gets pregnant?”

“So I guess Diane D don’t suffer side affects from the birth control pills like her cousin Dana.”

“I guess not.”

“So whenever Dana accidentally does get pregnant, she just terminates her pregnancies, huh.”

“Exactly.”

“Were all of Dana’s terminated pregnancies by Diane D’s husband?!”

“No, I think just two of them. The other terminated pregnancies were probably by her boyfriend Tony.”

“Her boyfriend Tony?”

“Yeah.”

“If those other terminated pregnancies were probably by her boyfriend Tony, why didn’t Dana keep THOSE babies?!”

“Because I don’t think Dana wants any children at all Candis, no matter who the biological father would have been!”

“My goodness! So Diane D never told you that part about herself trying to abort the unborn baby out of her cousin Dana herself or that she tried to give her husband a vasectomy or that Dana’s unborn baby might have been by her husband?”

“No she left all that part out. I heard about those parts the same way other people heard about them, through word-of-mouth.”

“You didn’t ask her about them?!”

“No, I’m not going to ask Diane D about those parts Candis! If she didn’t volunteer any of that information to me on her own, I certainly wasn’t going to say anything about them! I would just rather for her to bring the subject up first.”

“Well maybe she was waiting for you to bring the subject up first to see if you’ve heard about them!”

“Yes I have heard about them. I just wasn’t going to say anything to her about them unless she brought them up first.”

“My God, does their family know about this?”

“I think they know of Dana’s abortions Candis, but I don’t think they suspect that any of Dana’s unborn babies might have been by Diane D’s husband and I don’t think they know that Diane D tried to abort those babies out of Dana herself!”

“Abort those babies herself?! How many times have Diane D tried to abort her cousin Dana’s unborn babies?!”

“I heard she tried to abort Dana’s baby both times her husband accidentally got Dana pregnant!”

“Diane D tried to abort her cousin Dana’s baby twice?!”

“Yeah!”

“Oh my God!”

“And I don’t think Diane D’s family knows that Diane D tried to give her husband a vasectomy!”

“My God!”

“When Ryan overheard Diane D’s husband confess to Diane D a week and a half ago that he had sex with Dana and think he accidentally got Dana pregnant again, that’s when she panicked again! Ryan overheard Diane D telling her husband that he’s stupid and everything for making the same mistake again! Then Ryan overheard Diane D tell her husband that she has to go to her grandmother Gracy’s house that night to give Dana a pregnancy test! Ryan said the next day, he overheard that Diane D went to her grandmother Gracy’s home the night before and secretly gave her cousin Dana another pregnancy! When the pregnancy test came back positive and Diane D discovered that her cousin Dana was actually pregnant again, I heard she flipped again!”

“She flipped again?!”

“Yeah!”

“What did she do?”

“I heard that she got scared that this second incident of her own husband getting her cousin Dana pregnant again might get back to her family and the community!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah!”

“So what happened?!”

“Guess what?”

“What?”

“She requested to start working inside the abortion clinic again!”

“Oh no!”

“She went right back to where she started from, inside the abortion room to watch live abortions again so she can secretly give herself more lessons figuring this time, she would get it right!”

“Oh no!”

“So a week and a half ago, Diane D requested to work the night shift again.”

“She requested to work the night shift again?!”

“Yeah, so she got to work the night shift again!”

“Oh my God!”

“Then the doctor who works inside the abortion clinic noticed that some abortion tools and objects from the abortion clinic were missing again!”

“They went missing again?!”

“Yeah!”

“Why the hell did the hospital allow Diane D to work inside the abortion clinic again?! Didn’t they learn from the last time?!”

“No because it wasn’t proven that Diane D tried to give her cousin Dana an abortion Candis, it wasn’t proven, that’s why she got to work inside the abortion clinic again! Then a few nights ago, Brandon told me that Shane and another employee name Josh saw Diane D from a distance sneaking her cousin Dana into one of the empty clinic rooms again, then they heard the door shut behind Dana and Diane D, then they heard the door lock. Brandon told me that Shane and Josh hurried and tiptoed right towards the outside of the door! When they reached the outside of the door, they stopped, then pinned their ears to the door to listen through it! When they listened through the door, they could overhear Diane D having her cousin Dana lie down on the table again! Then they overheard Diane D using the abortion tools and objects on Dana again!”

“They did?”

“Yeah! They could overhear her trying to suck and pull the unborn baby out of her own cousin again!”

“Oh no! Did they hear Dana scream this time?!”

“No, they said they didn’t hear any screaming coming from inside that room!”

“They still didn’t hear Dana screaming?!”

“No!”

“My God, did Diane D succeed this second time she tried to abort her cousin Dana’s unborn baby?!”

“No, she failed again!”

“She did?!”

“She sure did!”

“Good for her! I’m glad she failed!”

“That’s when Shane and Josh overheard Diane D giving up again!”

“She gave up again?”

“She sure did! The next day, Shane and Josh heard that Diane D took her cousin Dana right to another abortion clinic away from the hospital. That’s when Diane D told the doctor there to abort her cousin Dana’s baby, so the doctor had Dana lie down on the table. That’s when Diane D had the doctor abort another baby out of Dana’s womb!”

“My Goodness!”

“The next day, Diane D requested to start working inside the vasectomy clinic again!”

“What! She requested to start working inside the vasectomy clinic again?!”

“Yeah! She wanted to watch and see how live vasectomies are done again, so she started working inside the vasectomy room again!”

“Oh no!”

“Right after that, the doctor from the vasectomy clinic notice some tools and objects missing from the vasectomy clinic again!”

“Oh yeah?!”

“Yeah! That same night, Brandon told me that Cody and Shane saw Diane D walking alone in the distance going into one of the empty clinic rooms again then shut the door behind herself, then they heard her lock the door. Brandon told me that Cody and Shane hurried and tiptoed right towards the outside of the door to find out what was going on! When they reached the outside of the door, they stopped then they pinned their ears to the door to listen through it again! When Cody and Shane listened through the door, they overheard Diane D talking to her husband on the phone, telling him to come meet her at the hospital again!”

“Cody and Shane overheard Diane D telling her husband to come meet her at the hospital again?!”

“Yeah. They overheard Diane D tell her husband that she got the room waiting for him again!”

“She told her husband that she got the room waiting for him again?!”

“Yeah! Then Cody and Shane overheard Diane D telling her husband that she got the vasectomy tools ready for him so he should come to the hospital!”

“What! She told her husband that she got the vasectomy tools ready for him so he should come to the hospital?!”

“Yeah!”

“Then what happened?!”

“Her husband refused to show up!”

“What! He refused to show up?!”

“Yeah! I heard Diane D got mad at him over the phone and was telling him she can’t take the risk of him getting Dana or any other member of her family pregnant again and told him to get his ass to the hospital.”

“She told him that?”

“That’s what I heard.”

“Then what happened? Did her husband eventually show up?”

“No he still refused to show up, then I heard that Diane D got pissed off!”

“She did?!”

“Yeah! Cody and Shane said they overheard Diane D about to leave the room. Then they said they quickly backed away from the clinic room door when they heard Diane D was about to come out the room, then they turned and hurried back down the other end of the hallway.”

“They did?”

“Yeah. Cody and Shane said when they turned the corner, they heard Diane D coming out the room. They said when they went to poke their heads around the corner, Shane accidentally bumped right into one of the carts that had a tray sitting on top of it and caused the tray to fall right on the floor making a loud sound!”

“He did?”

“Yeah!”

“Oh my God! Then what happened?! Did Diane D hear the tray fall?”

“I guess she did because as soon as that happened, Cody and Shane said they heard her footsteps coming!”

“What! They heard Diane D’s footsteps coming?!”

“Yeah!”

“Oh no, what did they do?!”

“They said they got out of there and quietly ran into the stairwell at the end of their corner!”

“They did?”

“Yeah. Cody and Shane said when they got to the lower level of the back hallway of the clinic area, they tried to open one of the clinic room doors to hide from Diane D, but that door was locked, they couldn’t get in! Then they went to another clinic room door! They tried to open that door, but it was locked too! Then they went to a third clinic room door! They tried to open the third clinic room door, but it was locked also! Then they went right to the storage room door which was slightly open.”

“The storage room door? You mean the storage room door that was written about in the paper?”

“Yes that door! Cody and Shane pushed on the storage room door and tried to get it open, but that door did not open any further.”

“It didn’t?”

“No, something was behind the door blocking it from being opened.”

“Oh yeah? What was it?”

“Cody and Shane said they could see it was large file cabinets in there that fell against the door preventing the door from opening any further. They said they tried to push that storage room door open again, but it still didn’t budge. Then Shane said he and Cody tried to kick the door open a few times, but it still didn’t open that much. Then Cody and Shane said they heard Diane D’s footsteps coming down the stairwell.”

“What? They heard her footsteps coming down the stairwell?”

“Yeah!”

“My God, what did they do?”

“They said they panicked!”

“They panicked?”

“Yeah!”

“Then what did they do?!”

“They said they hurried down the end of the hallway and hid behind some carts and boxes. When they bent down behind the carts and boxes, they peaked through the carts and boxes and saw Diane D coming from around the corner down the other end of the hallway.”

“They her down the end of the hallway?”

“Yeah!”

“Oh my God! What did they saw her do?”

“Cody and Shane said they saw Diane D looking around.”

“She was looking around?”

“Yeah.”

“For what or whom?”

“Obviously she was looking around for whom or whatever caused that tray to fall! Then Cody and Shane said they saw Diane D go from one clinic room door to another clinic room door turning the knob trying to get each door open, but the clinic room doors were still locked, she couldn’t open them. Then they said the storage room door was closing and made a squealing sound. When Diane D heard the squealing sound, she turned around and saw the storage room door closing. She thought someone was hiding inside there.”

“She did?”

“Yeah, so Cody and Shane saw Diane D go right to the storage room door and saw her try to push the storage room door open further, but the door still didn’t budge. It still didn’t open any further. Cody and Shane saw Diane D trying again to get the storage room door open further, but she still couldn’t get it open further! Then Cody and Shane said they saw Diane D step back, then they saw her bend and get into a kung fu position.”

“What? She got into a kung fu position?”

“Yeah.”

“Oh no!”

“That’s when they said she ran straight to the storage room door, jumped, spun her entire body around, did a turn-around side kick and kung fu kicked the storage room door wide open!”

“What! She jumped, spun her entire body around and did a turn-around side kick when she kung fu kicked that storage room door wide open?!”

“Yeah!”

“That’s the part that was written in the newspaper, about the two male hospital employees witnessing Diane D kung fu kicking the storage room door wide open?!”

“Yeah that’s the part that was written in the newspaper!”

“Oh my God! So THEY’RE the witnesses, Cody and Shane!”

“Yes Candis, they’re the witnesses. Cody and Shane said the door banged open so wide and so hard that it banged right against whatever was behind it knocking the stuff down crashing the stuff right to the floor!”

“She knocked whatever was behind the door to the floor?!”

“Yeah!”

“My God!”

“And she practically knocked the door right off its hinges!”

“Yeah I read that part!”

“Cody and Shane said they couldn’t believe what they saw!”

“I bet they couldn’t!”

“They said they were both frozen with fear, they couldn’t even move!”

“I bet they were frozen with fear, seeing that powerful strength Diane D had! I wouldn’t be able to move either if I saw and witnessed something like that!”

“I know! Cody and Shane said they saw Diane D kick the door again then go right inside the storage room.”

“Yeah I read that part too!”

“Cody and Shane said when they saw Diane D go into the storage room, they were still frozen with fear and couldn’t move! They said once they were able to move, they got the hell out of there and ran right back down the hallway past the storage room while Diane D was still in there banging the furniture around! Then they ran back around the corner and ran back into the stairwell because they didn’t want the next thing Diane D kung fu kicks and knocks down to be them! They said they didn’t want to wind up like those security guards, the correction officers and that little boy Marcus!”

“I don’t blame them! I would have gotten the hell out of there too because Diane D is crazy! She turns into a ferocious beast whenever she gets mad, angry and out of control! God knows would have happened to Cody and Shane if she would have found them hiding inside that storage room or in that back hallway! My goodness! It sounds like Diane D was determined to find whoever was in that hallway and caused that tray to drop! And it sounds like she was determined for her husband to never get her cousin Dana pregnant again and determined for her cousin Dana to never have her husband’s baby and determined for their family not to ever find out about it!”

“But word got out again that Diane D tried to abort her cousin Dana’s unborn baby!”

“It did?!”

“Yeah. When this information got around, that’s when the police came to the hospital and arrested Diane D right there!”

“So that’s why she got arrested?!”

“Yep that’s why!”

“So she didn’t really get arrested for kung fu kicking that storage room door or damaging the storage room. She really got arrested for trying to abort her cousin Dana’s baby!”

“She did get arrested for kung fu kicking that storage room door and damaging the storage room too! She got arrested for property damage!”

“She did?”

“Yeah! But she claims she never damaged any property because she claims she was never down in the lower level of the clinic area! She claims that she never even went down the stairs after she heard the tray drop so she’s saying that she never kung fu kicked any door!”

“She claims she was never down in the lower level of the clinic area and that she never kung fu kicked a door?!”

“Yes that’s exactly what she’s claiming!”

“Is she trying to claim that memory loss again, just like she claim memory loss when she was accused of beating up that little boy inside the school hallway?!”

“It seems that way Candis! But Diane D mainly got arrested for trying to abort her cousin Dana’s baby. That’s what she mainly got arrested for.”

“My God! No wonder why she was determined to look for and find whoever was in that hallway and caused that tray to drop! Because she knew that whoever was in that hallway might have overheard her conversation inside that clinic room and know that she tried to abort her cousin Dana’s baby and tried to give her husband a vasectomy! She was afraid word will get around and she’ll wind up getting arrested for it and she did!”

“And she was afraid that word will get back to her family too. She didn’t want that to happen either! When the police came to the hospital to arrest Diane D, witnesses said that they saw Diane D backing away from the police, then saw her turn and try to run from them!”

“What! Diane D tried to run from the police?!”

“Yeah!”

“That’s a sign of guilt right there! She tried to run from the police because she knows she’s guilty! If she wasn’t guilty, she wouldn’t have tried to run!”

“Well witnesses claim that the police caught up to Diane D and caused her to fall, knocking her down to the ground!”

“What! The police knocked Diane D down to the ground?!”

“Yeah, then they placed both her hands behind her back while she was on the ground, handcuffed her and arrested her for reckless endangerment and trying to do an illegal abortion!”

“They actually arrested her the second time she was suspected of trying to do an illegal abortion?!”

“Yep they sure did! The police also wanted to arrest her husband as well!”

“What! The police wanted to arrest Diane D’s husband too?!”

“Yeah!”

“Why did they want to arrest him?!”

“Because they wondered if he was in on it, or if he knew what his wife was up to or if he knew what she was planning to do, but the police was mainly focusing on Diane D because they think she was the mastermind in all of that, that’s why they arrested her.”

“Good for her! I’m glad the police actually arrested her this time! She deserved to get arrested for trying to kill an innocent unborn child and trying to give her husband a vasectomy! Good for her!”

“Well it wasn’t good for Diane D too long Candis, because it wasn’t proven that she tried to abort her cousin Dana’s baby again!”

“It wasn’t proven again?!”

“No it wasn’t! She denied it again!”

“She did?!”

“Yeah! She claims that these are all just allegations and vicious rumors about herself!”

“What! Allegations and vicious rumors about herself?!”

“That’s what she told the police! She told the police that some people are just out to get her, that’s why they’re spreading these lies and vicious rumors about herself!”

“Oh really?!”

“Yeah, and since there was no proof again that Diane D tried to do an illegal abortion on her own cousin, she was let go again.”

“She was?!”

“Yeah!”

“Didn’t the police at least try to arrest her for trying to do an illegal vasectomy on her own husband the second time?!”

“No, the police can’t arrest Diane D for trying to do an illegal vasectomy on her husband the second time around because her husband never showed up at the hospital that night she spoke to him on the phone and told him to come there! So there was no proof she tried to do an illegal vasectomy on him. How can she attempt to do an illegal vasectomy on her husband if he’s not there?”

“So the police can’t arrest for that?”

“No because her husband never showed up! He wasn’t going to allow Diane D to cut him! Where there is no victim there is no proof.”

“But those two hospital employees Cody and Shane did overhear Diane D talking to her husband on the telephone trying to get her husband to come to the hospital that night, telling her husband that she got the room ready for him! Didn’t they come forward and tell the police what they overheard?!”

“They didn’t really want to get involved Candis! They were afraid of Diane D after what they witnessed her do to that storage room door! And they were afraid of her when they heard what she was doing to the furniture, once she went inside the storage room! They didn’t want to be next!”

“I don’t blame them!”

“As far as Cody and Shane are concerned, Diane D’s husband was never harmed or killed in this incident, neither was her cousin Dana! Diane D’s husband and her cousin Dana both came out alive and well after this entire ordeal!”

“Well thank God for that! Where is Diane D at now?!”

“She’s at home with her family.”

“She is?”

“Yeah.”

“My God! Does her family know about this? Did they ever find out about this?!”

“Yeah her family found out about this incident both times the police came after Diane D and arrested her, but Diane D denied it to her family too! She told her family that she never tried to abort Dana’s unborn child and told them that she never tried to give her husband a vasectomy! She told them that it was all ‘hear say.’”

“That it was all ‘hear say’?! That’s what she told her family?”

“Yeah that’s what she told them!”

“Did her family ever question her husband or her cousin Dana about any of those attempted incidents to find out from THEM whether or not any of those attempted incidents are true?!”

“I think her family questioned her husband about the attempted vasectomy incident.”

“They did?”

“Yeah. He denied it to them too.”

“He did?”

“Yeah.”

“How come?”

“He didn’t want Diane D to get into trouble by her family!”

“Did her family ever question her cousin Dana about the attempted abortion incident?!”

“No, I don’t think Diane D’s family questioned Dana about that incident.”

“They didn’t?!”

“Not that I know of.”

“Why haven’t they questioned Dana to find out from her whether or not it’s true that Diane D tried to abort her unborn baby out of her?!”

“I don’t think Diane D’s family want to question Dana about that, they didn’t want to ask her.”

“Why not?”

“Because they all felt that Dana went through enough.”

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“Did the police ever question Dana and try to find out from her whether or not it’s true that Diane D tried to abort her unborn baby out of her?!”

“No I don’t think the police ever questioned Dana about that either!”

“They didn’t?”

“No.”

“Why haven’t they questioned Dana about that incident?!”

“I don’t think they wanted to question her.”

“Why not?”

“They didn’t want to ask her.”

“They didn’t want to ask her?”

“No.”

“Why didn’t they want to ask her?! Are they afraid that she’s going to go off and beat on cops again?!”

“No it’s not that.”

“Then why didn’t they want to ask her?!”

“They just didn’t want to, that’s all!”

“My God is anybody going to question Dana at all about this attempted abortion incident?! Nobody seems to be questioning her! Did Dana ever knew Diane D got arrested?”

“Yeah I think she knew Diane D got arrested?”

“She did?”

“Yeah, but I don’t think she knows that the police caused Diane D to fall to the ground.”

“She doesn’t know about that part?”

“No she doesn’t know about that part, her family kept it from her.”

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“How come?”

“They didn’t want her to know!”

“Why not?”

“Because they didn’t want to upset her. They know that Dana would have flipped if she ever found out that the police caused Diane D to fall to the ground!”

“She would?”

“Hell yeah, she would have went ballistic, that’s why their family kept that information from her because they know Dana is protective of Diane D! Remember what happened to that reporter Felix Green, right?!”

“Yeah I remember what happened to him. It’s terrible what happened to him!”

“It is, that’s why Diane D’s family want to make sure, that what happened to Felix Green doesn’t happen to anybody else!”

“I don’t blame them! Did Diane D go to work back at the hospital after the police let her go?”

“Yeah she went to work back at the hospital today.”

“She did?”

“Yeah. When she arrived there, the hospital told her that she’s not allowed to work in the abortion area of the hospital anymore.”

“What! The hospital told Diane D she’s not allowed to work in the abortion area anymore?”

“Yeah, they fired her from that area!”

“They did?!”

“Yeah And they fired her from working in the vasectomy area too!”

“They did?!”

“Yeah!”

“Good for her! She deserved to get fired from those areas, good for her! The hospital should have fired her from those areas the first time they heard she tried to pull that do-it-yourself abortion stunt on her cousin and that do-it-yourself vasectomy stunt on her husband!”

“But it wasn’t proven that Diane D tried the do-it-yourself abortion on her own cousin or the do-it-yourself vasectomy on her husband the first time those two incidents happened, that’s why the hospital allowed her to work in the abortion area and the vasectomy area again! This time when the hospital heard that Diane D tried the do-it-yourself abortion on her own cousin again, they fired her from that area because they don’t want to take any chances or risks with her!”

“Last night, Brandon said he overheard Diane D telling her husband Michael and Dana’s boyfriend Tony that Dana can’t keep having abortions because abortions aren’t safe for Dana to keep having and she herself can’t keep having the police and the hospital come after her! Brandon overheard Diane D telling her husband and Dana’s boyfriend, that if they can’t control themselves from being horny and don’t have time to put on a condom then rush to have sex with Dana and risk getting her pregnant, she’s going to have to do SOMETHING to protect Dana from another accidental pregnancy since the birth control pills give Dana side affects! She told her husband and Dana’s boyfriend that Dana is going to need some kind of other protection! So I think Diane D took her cousin Dana to another doctor and told the doctor that Dana needs contraceptives. So now I think Dana is on contraceptives!”

“She is?”

“I think.”

“Oh that’s good. I hope it works out for her, that way she won’t accidentally get pregnant again and wind up killing another innocent unborn child. You know Jonathan, I just don’t get it!”

“You just don’t get what Candis?”

“Why in the world, would Diane D even put up with her very own husband having sex with her very own cousin?!”

“What do you mean ‘put up with it’?”

“It doesn’t even sound like she was shocked, bothered or angry, that her husband had sex with her cousin!”

“It doesn’t?”

“No! It sounded like she was only shocked, bothered and angry that he got her cousin pregnant! It didn’t even sound like she was shocked, bothered or angry by their sexual encounter! Why is she putting up with her husband having sex with her cousin?!”

“Because Diane D’s husband probably puts up with Dana’s boyfriend Tony having sex with Diane D!”

“What! Dana’s boyfriend Tony had sex with Diane D more than once?!”

“Yeah!”

“My God! How many times has he had sex with Diane D?!”

“I think a lot of times.”

“A lot of times?!”

“Yeah.”

“Oh my God! Doesn’t he already have Dana?”

“Yeah he already has Dana. I guess he wants to have sex with both of them.”

“My goodness! Why would Diane D’s husband even put up with Dana’s boyfriend Tony having sex with Diane D?!”

“Probably so he can have sex with Dana a lot of times! You know, an even exchange.”

“An even exchange?!”

“Yeah.”

“You know Jonathan, I don’t know what the heck is the matter with you men!”

“You don’t know what the heck is the matter with us men? What do you mean ‘us men’ Candis?”

“You men are never satisfied with having sex with just one woman! One woman is never enough for you guys! Dana’s boyfriend be having sex with both Dana and Diane D! Diane D’s husband be having sex with both Dana and Diane D! You had sex with me and cheated on me by having sex with Diane D too!”

“Oh come on Candis! Did you have to go there?!”

“Of course I had to go there Jonathan! Can’t you see?! Diane D and her cousin Dana are exchanging each other’s partners! So Diane D and her husband ARE living their life as swingers, with her very own cousin and her cousin’s boyfriend, just like everyone suspected! I’m just wondering, how many sex partners does Diane D have altogether?!”

“I don’t know Candis.”

“She probably doesn’t know either!”

“Oh come on Candis! All I know, is that Diane D, her husband Michael, her cousin Dana and Dana’s boyfriend Tony have all booked the same hotel room inside many hotels before.”

“What do you mean?”

“All four of them be staying in the same room overnight inside hotels.”

“All four of them inside one hotel room?”

“Yeah. They do that all the time.”

“They do?”

“Yeah.”

“The couples don’t book separate hotel rooms from each other?”

“Sometimes, but not all the time. Most of the time, all four of them would stay in one room.”

“My God Jonathan! It sounds like Diane D, her husband, her cousin Dana and Dana’s boyfriend might all be into group sex!”

“Group sex?”

“Yeah!”

“What do you mean ‘group sex’?”

“After all, they do share each others’ partners, don’t they?!”

“Oh come on Candis! You shouldn’t be too quick to judge them like that, just because they all share the same hotel room! Maybe they all rather just book one hotel room instead of two separate rooms to save up on money!”

“Well if they can’t afford to book two separate hotel rooms, maybe they shouldn’t be booking hotel rooms in the first place! You know what Jonathan, Diane D and her husband seem to have an open marriage!”

“An open marriage?”

“Yeah! They both be having sex outside of their marriage with other partners! Neither one of them seem to respect their marriage vows, because like I said before, Diane D is a slut!”

“Stop calling Diane D a slut Candis!”

“Okay I won’t call her slut Jonathan! I’ll just call her a whore!”

“Don’t call her that either!”

“Okay I won’t call her a whore! I’ll just call her a tramp!”

“A tramp?!”

“That’s right, a tramp!”

“Candis, would you care to go up to Diane D, and call her all those names in her face?!”

“Why?! So she can spin her body around and kung fu kick me like she did that storage room door, those security guards and that little boy Marcus and punch me out like she did that ten foot pole inside that jail cell she was in?! All those people and objects are permanently damaged! Those security guards and that little boy Marcus wind up with broken bones, the hospital have to wind up ordering a new storage room door and new hinges because the original storage room door and hinges are damaged beyond repair and can’t be fixed and that ten foot pole inside the jail cell can’t be straight again! I don’t want to wind up like those security guards, that little boy Marcus and those objects! I almost became like them when Diane D sped all the way in her car to the parking lot in the back of my apartment building to beat me up and she probably would have succeeded in beating the crap out of me if the police weren’t there to stop her! So therefore, I won’t go up to Diane D and call her those names in her face! I don’t want to go anywhere near that psychopath! I’ll just continue to call her those names from a safe distance! One name I do need to call her, is ‘home wrecker’! After all, she did ruin you and my relationship by having sex with you when she knew you already had a girlfriend, causing our engagement to be broken off! And now she broke off a door’s hinges! She seems very good at breaking off things! She’s a home wrecker, a room wrecker and a door wrecker! After hearing all of this, I realize that Diane D was never there in the abortion room to give her cousin Dana moral support! She was only there to make sure that her cousin Dana have the abortions to keep her cousin Dana from ever having her husband’s child and not have their family ever find out about it!”

“Diane D WAS there to give her cousin Dana moral support Candis! She was hugging and holding on to Dana the whole time!”

“She was probably hugging and holding on to Dana the whole time to keep Dana down to make sure Dana not move or get up!”

“Oh Candis please! What about Dana’s other terminated pregnancies that WEREN’T by Diane D’s husband?! Remember, Dana had four abortions altogether, but only two of Dana’s pregnancies were by Diane D’s husband Candis, only two! Those other two terminated pregnancies Dana had, Diane D was still inside the room with Dana during those other two terminated pregnancies that were probably by Dana’s boyfriend!”

“Diane D was there in the room during all of Dana’s abortions?”

“Yeah I think she was!”

“That’s because she’s an accessory to her cousin Dana’s unborn baby killings!”

“Oh come on now Candis!”

“Oh come on now nothing Jonathan! Diane D and her cousin Dana are both baby killers! You know what Jonathan?! Both Diane D and her cousin Dana should have had the same fate those unborn babies had!”

“They should have had the same fate those unborn babies had? What do you mean Candis?”

“Their moms should have aborted them!”

“What! Their moms should have aborted them! You think Diane D and her cousin Dana’s moms should have aborted them?!”

“Yes I do!”

“That’s not a nice thing to say Candis! Why would you say that?!”

“Because Diane D and her cousin Dana had Dana’s unborn babies be killed! They did that four or more times and it seems like they have no problem or remorse about that at all!”

“Candis, the way Dana is, she doesn’t need to be tied down with any babies or children! I think she and Diane D did the right thing by getting rid of those unwanted pregnancies!”

“You think they did the right thing?!”

“Yes I do! I can’t imagine Dana being anybody’s mom!”

“Well you know what Jonathan?! You’re just as bad as Diane D and her cousin Dana, because you’re an accessory to their baby killings too!”

“Me?! An accessory to their baby killings? Why?! I had nothing to do with Dana’s abortions Candis! I wasn’t there!”

“You might not have been there Jonathan, but you do support Diane D’s and her cousin Dana’s actions! You support their baby killings!”

“It’s not that I support their baby killings Candis! It’s just that I support not having unwanted children come into the world then wind up being abused or neglected, that’s all!”

“Well you need to tell Diane D and her cousin Dana to stop sleeping around and sharing each other’s man, then they won’t have to worry about accidentally getting pregnant by each other’s man, and you need to tell Diane D to stop sleeping with other women’s men!”

“Wow Candis. It’s obvious that you and Diane D will never like each other.”

“No I don’t like Diane D Jonathan! To tell you the truth, I used to like her when you and I used to go see her family’s shows and concerts and watch her perform on stage with the Dianettes! I used to be a big fan of hers, but after what she did to me, lying to me on the telephone, telling me that you’re just her friend when she knew she slept with you, and the fact that she slept with you when she knew that you already had a girlfriend?! She knew that you and I were a couple, but she still chose to sleep with you anyway and decided to cheat on her husband at the same time! Telling me that you might be my man, but if she really want to take you away from me, she can?! Telling me that if you are going to marry me, she thinks you’re making a big mistake, then tells me she thinks she’s the woman you REALLY need and blamed me for having her entire family upset with her, saying that I caused her mom to hit her, then threatens me, telling me she’s going to beat my ass for calling her family’s organization complaining about her, blaming me for getting her into trouble with her family and then lied to the police, telling the police that she never saw me before in her life when she knew she had, then lies to the police right in my face that word probably got around my neighborhood, that’s why my neighbors knew that she was coming to the parking lot behind my apartment building when she knew she specifically came to the parking lot to come after me! She made me look like a fool at the police station Jonathan! She sat there with a straight look on her face and made me look like a liar, and you expect me to like her after all of that?! I know all about the violent rages, the violent outbursts and the out of control behavior that Diane D has had in the past when she attacked those police officers and those security guards and wind up going to jail for it! I know all about the other fights and conflicts that she’s had before, but I never thought that I myself would wind up having a conflict with her! And the conflict I had with her was all over you! Diane D is a lot of trouble Jonathan! She constantly keeps getting into trouble with the law and wind up getting herself arrested and going to jail for it! She seems to have no problem with getting arrested at all! I wish she would get deported!”

“Deported?! You wish Diane D would get deported?”

“That’s right!”

“Why do you say that Candis?”

“Because she needs to be deported Jonathan! She needs to go back to the Dominican Republic where she came from! She AND her partner in crime, her cousin Dana, that female cop beater and sharp shooter! Both of them need to be deported back to their countries because all they do, is get into trouble here and wind up getting arrested and going to jail!”

“I don’t know if Diane D can be deported Candis. She is married to a U.S. citizen you know. Her husband is from this country.”

“I know. Well I wish she and her cousin Dana can go disappear somewhere! Doesn’t Diane D and her cousin Dana have a third friend that be with them sometimes?”

“Yeah. A friend of theirs name Teresa.”

“Teresa?”

“Yeah.”

“You know her?”

“You have?”

“Yeah.”

“Does she ever get into trouble like Diane D and her cousin Dana?”

“Not that I know of Candis. I’ve never knew of their friend Teresa having any violent outbursts like Diane D and her cousin Dana do.”

“You never?”

“No, never. I don’t think Teresa has ever gotten arrested or ever went to jail before in her life.”

“She never?”

“Not that I know of Candis.”

“How can she stand to be with and hang around those two violent jailbirds and baby killers?! If I was a member of her family, I would encourage her to stay as far away as possible from Diane D and her cousin Dana, because she seems to good for them!”

“Wow. I’m sorry you feel that way about Diane D and her cousin Dana Candis.”

“You should feel that way about them too Jonathan! You should feel that way about them too! And the next time Diane D’s husband ever happens to accidentally get her cousin Dana pregnant again, maybe it will be best for him not to ever confess to her about it, because the next thing he’ll know, is that his crazy wife is going to want to try the do-it-yourself abortion on her cousin Dana again then want to try the do-it-yourself vasectomy on him again! And it will be best for him not to ever fall asleep around Diane D, because if he refused to show up at the hospital that night for her to give him a vasectomy when she so desperately wanted to give him one, who knows, she just might try to give him a vasectomy while he’s asleep, then wind up having the police come after her again! I don’t know what it is about Diane D Jonathan, but there is something about her that really gives me the creeps!”

“Something about Diane D gives you the creeps?”

“Yeah.”

“What is it about her that gives you the creeps Candis?”

“I don’t know what it is Jonathan! I mean Diane D is very beautiful, she’s very gorgeous and everything. She’s very attractive too, but there’s something about her beauty, soul, spirit or aura that really creeps me out.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah. Ever since I heard and read that story, about what she did to that poor little boy inside that elementary school one night, up in that dark isolated school hallway, viciously attacking that little boy and wind up not remembering the incident! I can imagine what that poor child must have been going through, being all alone up in that dark isolated school hallway with Diane D in her state of mind, beating the crap out of him and he witnessing her being in a state of trance just staring into space not doing or saying anything! The only time she did anything, was when she beat the crap out of the kid, kung fu kicking him, breaking his bones and everything! The rest of the time, she was in a state of trance not saying a word, just staring into space! Especially that little boy claiming to feel the presence of some evil soul or some evil vicious entity that seem to might have been inside Diane D’s body that night! I’ve been freaked out about her ever since! I think that little boy was right. Maybe that’s why Diane D didn’t remember any of that incident, maybe her soul or spirit wasn’t there! Maybe her soul or spirit was actually gone at that time and another soul, spirit or entity came into her body in the school hallway that night and took over! If that was me in that school hallway instead of that little boy, I would have been frightened to death being all alone up in that dark isolated school hallway with Diane D or whatever soul, spirit or entity it was that was inside her body, witnessing her turning from calm beauty to ferocious beast right before my very own eyes! I bet that little boy is sorry that he ever confessed to Diane D about that hoax he and his brother pulled on her and her family! Especially, I bet he's sorry that he took her to a private area to confess to her, that was his big mistake!"

"His big mistake? What do you mean, 'that was his big mistake'?"

"Don't you see Jonathan? This little boy took Diane D to an isolated area inside the school where no one else was around to see or hear him confess to her, but the big mistake was, he took her to an isolated area where no one else was around to see or hear him scream for help! He never thought in a million years that Diane D would turn on him and attack him once he made that shocking confession to her! I'm sure getting beat up by Diane D was the last thing in the world that little boy expected to happen! The last thing I heard about him, is that he's still suffering from nightmares from what he went through with Diane D in that isolated school hallway, still dreaming that she's coming after him, beating him up and attacking him! I hear the poor kid still wakes up screaming to this day!"

"Yeah I heard that too."

"Another thing that gives me the creeps about Diane D, is her violent outbursts and vicious rages when she be attacking other people giving them kung fu kicks, then claims not to remember her violent outbursts and vicious rages! And the fact that her own grandmother Miss Margarita told that little boy and his family and the police at the police station, that Diane D meditates late at night in the wee hours of the night and morning and her soul or spirit can leave her physical body and travel to spirit worlds and other dimensions where she sees dead people! That really creeps me out! All I know, is that I would never want to come across Diane D in a dark alley, a dark hallway or any dark area."

"That's exactly what Cody and Shane said, after they witnessed what she did in that clinic hallway."

"Do you blame them Jonathan?! I bet a lot of other people probably feel the same way!"

Jonathan sadly looks into space.

The next morning, two black women and one Asian woman around their 40's are sitting inside a coffee shop drinking coffee as they look at a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D ARRESTED ON SUSPICION OF TRYING TO PERFORM ILLEGAL PRACTICE ON MYSTERIOUS PERSON "My God," the first black woman says. "This article says that Diane D was arrested on suspicion of illegal practice on a mysterious person! They said she tried to abort a mysterious woman's unborn baby inside the clinic late at night during closing hours!"

"Yeah I read that article when I was on the bus," the second black woman says.

"What?" the Asian woman says. "Diane D tried to abort a mysterious woman's unborn baby?!"

"That's what this article says," the first black woman says. "That's the main reason she got arrested for when everybody heard that she kung fu kicked a storage room door wide open."

“Oh she mainly got arrested for the suspicion of illegal practice?”

“Yeah. Here. Look at the article for yourself.” The first black woman hands the Asian woman the newspaper.

The Asian woman looks at the article and reads it. She then says, “Oh my God! Does the article say who the mysterious woman was?”

“No, the article never said who the mysterious woman was. They seem to be keeping that woman’s identity a secret, to respect her privacy. But word has been going around the hospital where Diane D works at, that the mysterious woman was her cousin Dana.”

“Her cousin Dana?”

“Yeah.”

“You mean that mean, unfriendly one with the green eyes?”

“The one who beat up those three female police officers, injuring them for life?”

“And the one who shot at that newspaper reporter Felix Green on the highway and shot and killed a deer?”

“Yep, that’s the same one. I heard she’s the one who Diane D snuck into the clinic that night and tried to abort her unborn baby.”

“Yeah I heard it was her cousin Dana too,” the second black woman says.

“Oh my God,” the Asian woman says. “How does anybody know that the mysterious woman was Diane D’s cousin Dana in the first place?”

“Because a couple of hospital employees who work the night shift witnessed Diane D from a distance sneaking her cousin Dana into one of the empty clinic rooms that night,” the first black woman says.

“Yeah. This is not the first time these hospital employees witnessed Diane D sneaking her cousin Dana into one of the empty clinic rooms during closing hours.”

“No! This is the second time they witnessed Diane D doing that!”

“It is?”

“Yeah. They witnessed it the first time Diane D’s husband accidentally got her cousin Dana pregnant years ago.”

“What? Diane D’s husband accidentally got her cousin Dana pregnant before?”

“Yeah. When the hospital employees witnessed Diane D sneaking her cousin Dana into one of the empty clinic rooms years ago, they secretly tiptoed to the doorway and listened outside the door to find out what was going on inside the room.”

“They did?”

“Yeah.”

“You mean they were eavesdropping on Diane D and her cousin Dana?”

“I’m afraid they did. After they overheard what Diane D and her cousin Dana were doing inside that clinic room, they told a few other hospital employees, then those other hospital employees told a few more hospital employees, then those hospital employees told people in their family, that’s how word got around that it was Diane D’s cousin Dana whose baby Diane D tried to abort at that time, and now that Diane D’s husband accidentally got her cousin Dana pregnant again. The hospital employees who work the night shift this time witnessed Diane D doing the exact same thing again, sneaking her cousin Dana into one of the empty clinic rooms at night during closing hours.”

“You mean to tell me, that Diane D’s husband got her cousin Dana pregnant twice?”

“It seems that way.”

“Wow.”

“If the mysterious woman was Diane D’s cousin Dana who’s baby Diane D tried to abort,” the second black woman says, “rumor has been going around the hospital, that Diane D and her cousin Dana went through all of that because they were afraid of what their family might think, if their family ever find out that Diane D’s husband accidentally got her cousin Dana pregnant.”

“I know,” the first black woman says. “Rumor has been going around the hospital for the past week that Diane D’s husband might have accidentally gotten her cousin Dana pregnant.”

“Oh really?” the Asian woman asks.

“Yeah, that’s why Diane D wanted to abort the baby herself, to make sure that baby never gets here.”

“Oh my God.”

“And rumor has been going around the hospital, that Diane D’s cousin Dana wasn’t feeling well when Diane D’s husband first walked in on her, saw her laying down on the bed resting then had sex with her and wind up getting her pregnant.”

“She was already not feeling good when Diane D’s husband had sex with her?”

“No she wasn’t.”

“Well if Diane D’s cousin Dana was already not feeling well when Diane D’s husband first walked in on her and had sex with her, maybe she could have already been pregnant before Diane D’s husband even had sex with her but just didn’t know it! In other words, the baby might not have been Diane D’s husband’s after all.”

“But just in case the baby WAS Diane D’s husband’s, I heard that Diane D didn’t want to take any chances. I heard she wanted to hurry and have the baby aborted while it was still early enough. She figured it will be easy for Dana to have the abortion before the unborn baby gets any bigger.”

“My God, that’s the only reason why Diane D wanted to have the child aborted, because it was probably her husband’s child?”

“Yep that’s the only reason. But it wouldn’t have matter who the biological father of the baby would have been. I think Diane D’s cousin Dana would have still gotten an abortion anyway, because I heard she’s had abortions before.”

“I heard that too,” the second black woman says. “I heard she doesn’t want any children at all.”

“That’s what I heard too. But Diane D’s cousin Dana doesn’t need any children the way she is because if she ever do have a child in the future, I would feel real sorry for the poor kid because I wouldn’t want a person like Dana to be my mother.”

“I wouldn’t want a person like Dana to be my mother either, but if that baby would have been born, that would have been a real beautiful baby.”

“A real beautiful baby?” the Asian woman asks. “You think so?”

“I don’t think so, I know so.”

“Oh yeah? How do you know for sure?”

“Because, look at Dana! I mean she might not be the nicest person in the world or the friendliest person in the world, but she’s very good looking! She got that gorgeous face, she got those gorgeous green eyes, she got those dark deep-set eyes, she got that beautiful golden skin color and she got that beautiful shiny long black wavy hair! She's very exotic looking! She has a rare beauty not too many people have. As a matter of fact, I don't see too many people in the world who look like her!"

"I don't see too many people who look like her either," the first black woman says.

"I don't even think anybody else in the world looks like her."

"I don't think so either."

"She's got those one of a kind features. I mean her beauty is so rare, she almost doesn't appear to be human."

"She doesn't."

"Plus she's got that gorgeous body too! She's very easy on the eyes, so is Diane D! Everybody in Diane D's family seem to be nice looking! Plus, Diane D's husband is not so bad looking himself. Dana's baby would have had the perfect genes. It would have been a real beautiful baby."

"I agree, but unfortunately, Diane D and her cousin Dana didn't want that baby to be born, so therefore, it's not going to be born."

"It's so sad," the Asian woman says. "I mean if that baby did turn out to be Diane D's husband's baby, that baby would have been Diane D's step child if it would have been born."

"Not only would it had been Diane D's step child, it would have been Diane D's cousin too, since Diane D and Dana are already cousins. Their fathers are brothers."

"So Diane D and Dana are first cousins?"

"That's right, they're first cousins. They share the same paternal grandparents."

"So that means if that baby would have been born, it would have been Diane D's second cousin."

"That's right. It would have been both, her second cousin and her step child."

"My God. No wonder why she didn't want that baby to get here. Where is Diane D by the way? Is she in jail?"

"No, I heard she was let go, due to lack of evidence."

"Lack of evidence?"

"Yeah. The authorities couldn't prove that she tried to do an illegal abortion on anybody."

"They couldn't?"

"No."

"So where's she at now?"

"The last thing I heard, she was released into the custody of her family."

"She was?"

"Yeah."

"So what are the hospital and authorities planning to do about her kung fu kicking that storage room door wide open?" the second black woman asks.

"They want to charge her for property damage, but Diane D is claiming she never did it, but the two hospital eye witnesses said, she DID do it! Diane D is also claiming she was never in that lower level of the clinic area, so how can she kung fu kick the storage room door wide open if she was never there, but the two hospital eye witnesses said, she WAS there! Right now, it's their word against hers. The two hospital eye witnesses are saying one thing, while Diane D is saying another. Just like that little boy she beat up inside the school hallway said one thing while Diane D said another. Now the authorities are wondering if history is repeating itself from when Diane D attacked that little boy inside the school hallway and not remember it. They think the same thing is happening again this time, instead of her attacking and kung fu kicking that little boy inside a dark school hallway late at night and wind up not remembering it, this time, she kung fu kicked a stuck storage room door wide open inside a dark clinic hallway late at night and winds up not remembering that either.”

“That’s what the authorities think?”

“Well the other newspaper article headline did read, ‘The Beast Within Returns’. They think that evil vicious entity that little boy Marcus encountered inside Diane D’s body in that dark school hallway that night may have returned inside her body, the night she kung fu kicked that storage room door wide open.”

“They think that evil vicious entity returned inside of her?”

“Yeah!”

“Wow, that’s scary!”

“It is! That’s why the authorities want Diane D’s family to take her to a psychiatrist again to see if there is a possibility that Diane D could have actually kung fu kicked that storage room door wide open and not remember it, just like she allegedly attacked and kung fu kicked that little boy inside the school hallway that night and not remember it.”

“The authorities want Diane D’s family to take her to a psychiatrist again?” the Asian woman asks.

“Yeah.”

“Wow. I hope Diane D’s family do take her to see a psychiatrist again and she gets some help because this needs to stop.”

“What do you mean?”

“I mean her attacking people and objects then winds up not remembering any of the incidents! It’s too way out of hand! I’m afraid that if Diane D doesn’t get the psychiatric help she needs, or if they don’t have her committed back into a Mental Institution soon, the next time she goes on an attack, she might literally kill someone, then wind up not remember that either! I sure know I would not want to come across that other personality of hers like that little boy Marcus and those hospital eye witnesses did.” The first black woman and the second black woman frighteningly look at the Asian woman.

The following day, four guys, one white, one black and two Hispanics around their 30’s and 40’s at a bar are sitting down at a table drinking, looking at the cover of a tabloid magazine with a dark colored photo or drawing of small puffy evil eyes that strikingly resembles Diane D’s eyes staring at them and a dark silhouette of a mysterious woman laying down on a clinic room table with her head back and her legs wide open and a headline that reads: DID DIANE D TRY TO PERFORM ILLEGAL PRACTICE ON MYSTERIOUS WOMAN?? “Wow,” the white guy says. “Y’all saw this article about Diane D trying to perform an illegal abortion on a mysterious woman, right?”

“Yeah I’ve seen the article,” the black guy says. “Rumor has been going around that the mysterious woman, was her cousin Dana.”

“That’s what I heard too,” the first Hispanic guy says. “Didn’t Diane D try to pull that same do-it-yourself abortion stunt on her cousin Dana years ago?”

“She did. I heard Diane D’s husband Michael had sex with her cousin Dana years ago and wind up knocking her up back then too.”

“Yeah I heard that too,” the second Hispanic guy says. “I heard Diane D’s cousin Dana eventually had an abortion by a real doctor and got rid of the unborn baby after Diane D tried the do-it-yourself abortion on her.”

“Yeah I heard that too,” the white guy says.

“Wow, Diane D’s husband is a lucky guy,” the first Hispanic guy says.

“Oh yeah? Why do you say that?”

“Because, not only does he gets to have sex with Diane D, he gets to have sex with her cousin Dana as well because I think Diane D and her cousin Dana are both hot, they are gorgeous!”

“They sure are,” the black guy says. “I wouldn’t mind having sex with Diane D myself, as long as she doesn’t lose her cool and goes Bruce Lee on me.” Everyone laughs as the black guy continues, “And I wouldn’t mind having sex with her cousin Dana either.”

“I wouldn’t mind having sex with both of them either,” the white guy says.

“Me either,” the second Hispanic guy says. “I would love to have sex with both Diane D and her cousin Dana because they both have gorgeous bodies!”

“They sure do man,” the black guy says. “They both got some tight asses on them.”

“They sure do,” the white guy says. The men laugh a little as they continue to look at the tabloid photo and headline.

Later on that day, Diane D, her family, Michael, Diane D’s psychiatrist Dr. Stone, the hospital staff, the authorities and photographers are all inside the damaged storage room shockingly looking around at the room. The storage room looks ransacked like a tornado had went through it. There are large file cabinets and furniture knocked sideways and upside down all across the storage room. There are papers all over the floor. Everyone looks around the storage room in horror. Everybody then turns and looks at the damaged storage room door. The door is leaning right off its hinges. The photographers go near the door. They snap pictures of the broken door hinges and the door. Everyone else turns and approaches Diane D as Diane D turns to Mary and says, “Mom? What the heck happened in here?”

“That’s what we’re trying to find out from you Diane,” Mary says.

“Miss Diane D,” a tall male white detective says. “Do you remember anything about being inside this room at all?”

“No,” Diane D says. “Honest, I don’t. I’ve never been inside this room before in my life. What reason would I have to be in here?”

“We don’t know. What we really need, is for you to think hard and see if you can remember being inside this room.”

“Does anything ring a bell Diane?” Margarita asks.

Diane D turns her head and looks around the damaged storage room again. She then says, “No nothing rings a bell Grandma. Whatever happened inside this room, I had nothing to do with it.”

“Well the two hospital employees witness you come in here and heard the damage you were doing inside here.”

“Miss Diane,” Dr. Stone says. “You claim you were at the top of the staircase on the second floor level of the clinic area and you were about to go down the stairs to the lower level of the clinic area and claim you never made it down the stairs, because you felt like you were about to pass out, so you stayed there at the top of the stairs and leaned your back and head against the stairwell wall holding on to your forehead, right?”

“Yes that’s correct,” Diane D says.

“What do you remember while you were standing at the top of the stairwell leaning your back and head against the stairwell wall?”

“I remember feeling like I was being pulled out of my physical body then found my soul or spirit floating around in space.”

“You felt like you were being pulled out of your physical body, then found your soul or spirit floating around in space?”

“Yeah.”

“In other words, you were having an out-of-body experience again.”

“That’s the way it seemed.”

“That’s what happened to you before, when that little boy Marcus claimed you beat him up and attacked him in the school hallway that night, right?”

“Yes that’s what happened to me before.”

“Do you know why this happened to you again?”

“No, I have no idea why.”

“I see. When you found your soul or spirit floating around in space, could it be possible, that you were probably just having a dream?”

“Yes it could be a possibility that I was probably just having a dream Doctor.”

“What happened after you found your soul or spirit floating around in space this time?”

“All of a sudden, I found my soul and spirit back inside my physical body in a completely different part of the hospital in the other building on the fifth floor where the patient rooms and the receptionists’ desk area are, standing right at the receptionists’ desk. I didn’t know what I was doing there at the receptionists’ desk and didn’t even know how I got there.”

“You didn’t know what you were doing at the receptionists’ desk and didn’t know how you got there?”

“No.”

“Did you feel different, when you found yourself standing at the receptionists’ desk, from when you were standing at the top of the stairwell in the other building?”

“Yeah. My physical body felt fine before I even went into the stairwell. As soon as I was about to head down the stairs, that’s when I felt like I was about to pass out.”

“Then how did you feel when you found yourself standing at the receptionists’ desk?”

“I felt very tired and worn out.”

“You did?”

“Yeah.”

“Did you feel any physical pain?”

“Yeah. My left leg and foot were in a lot of pain.”

“Your left leg and foot were in pain?”

“Yeah. That’s why I left the job early and went home.”

“I see. Why were your left leg and foot in pain?”

“I don’t know why my left leg and foot were in pain. At first I thought maybe I was sleepwalking from one place to another and somehow injured myself in the process.”

“You thought maybe you were sleepwalking and somehow injured yourself?”

“Yeah.”

“Did you feel pain anywhere else in your physical body?”

“No not really. It was mainly in my left leg and left foot. I felt dizzy for some reason too.”

“You felt dizzy?”

“Yeah.”

“Why were you feeling dizzy?”

“I have no idea why I was feeling dizzy Doctor. I just felt dizzy and sweating.”

“You were sweating too?”

“Yes that’s the way I felt.”

“Well Miss Diane D,” the detective says. “if you were feeling all that stuff and you don’t remember anything from being at the top of the stairwell of the second floor level of the clinic area, to the receptionist area on the fifth floor in another building and don’t know or remember how you got from point A to point G, then could it be possible, that you were sleepwalking and did things in your sleep and not realize it?”

“Of course it could be possible. After a while, I figured if I was sleepwalking and did anything while I was sleepwalking, I was probably dancing and twirling while I was sleepwalking.”

“Dancing and twirling while you were sleepwalking?”

“Yeah. That’s probably why I felt dizzy and sweaty when I found myself standing at the receptionists desk in the next building. I also probably fell and injured my left leg and foot while I was dancing and twirling in my sleep.”

“Fell and injured your left leg and foot while you were dancing and twirling in your sleep?”

“Yeah. That’s probably why I felt tired too, probably from all that dancing and twirling I was doing.”

“Maybe that is possible. Maybe it is also possible, that you might have kung fu kicked this storage room door too, then damaged this storage room in your sleep, but just didn’t realize that either.”

“No that is not possible.”

“No? Why not?”

“Because, no one is that strong or powerful to kung fu kick a stuck door off its hinges or do damage to a room like this turning heavy furniture upside down unless they use a bulldozer or something! I mean look at this room! It looks like a tornado went right through it! I’m sorry Detective, but it’s just not possible for a person to do damage to a room like this, especially with their bare hands, even if they’re sleepwalking. We’re just going to have to face the fact and reality that those two hospital eye witnesses who ever they are were lying and exaggerating about what they saw and heard, that’s all.” Everyone sadly looks at Diane D. They then turn and look around at the damaged storage room again. They then turn and look at the damaged storage room door again. They sadly stare at the storage room door as it eerily leans off its hinges.

Diane D And Dana's Aunt Patricia Get Into Physical Altercation!

Later on that evening, Mary, Barry, Nicolas, Mickey, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Uncle Willie, Dana's mother Christine, Dana's dad David, Dana's brothers Sammy and Thomas and around eight of Christine's relatives from Jamaica are all at Gracy and Mike's house coming down the stairs into the living room. Christine's sister Patricia quickly comes down the staircase behind them. She quickly turns to them as she passes by them and shouts, "Hey everybody! I'm gonna go to the drug store real quick! I'll be back!"

"What are you going to the drug store for Patricia?" Christine's brother Alan asks.

"You'll see!" Patricia turns forward and hurries to the front door. She opens the front door and quickly leaves out of it closing the door behind herself as her family and relatives puzzled look on towards the door.

Alan turns to Christine and the rest of the family and says, "I wonder wah she's up to now." Christine, her family and relatives look at Alan.

Around forty-five minutes later, Mary, Barry, Nicolas, Mickey, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Uncle Willie, Dana's mother Christine and her relatives are still inside the living room of Gracy and Mike's house standing and talking with Gracy and Mike. Diane D comes down the stairs and approaches everyone. Mary turns to Diane D and says, "Don't forget you have to see the psychiatrist tomorrow, okay?"

"Okay Mom," Diane D says. "I didn't forget." Suddenly the front door opens. Diane D, Mary and the rest of the family turn and look. Patricia quickly comes into the front door carrying some shopping bags as she shuts the front door behind herself. She comes into the living room. Everybody anxiously approach Patricia as Diane D says, "Hey Aunt Patricia. What you got in the bag?"

"I'll show you," Patricia says as she opens up the bag and pulls out some items in a box. She shows everyone the items. When everyone looks, they become stunned to see Patricia holding a couple boxes of breast pumps and milk storage bottles. Everyone looks at Patricia standing there proudly displaying the boxes of breast pumps and milk storage bottles.

"Breast pumps Aunt Patricia?" Diane D puzzled asks.

“And milk storage bottles?” Christine puzzled asks.

“That’s right,” Patricia says.

“What the hell, are you doing with those breast pumps and those milk storage bottles Patricia?” Grandpa Mike asks.

“Well, when I saw that Dana was still lactating, and since she doesn’t have any baby to feed the breast milk to, her breast milk shouldn’t go to waste. It might as well be donated to babies who need it, so I decided to hurry to the drug store to purchase these breast pumps and milk storage bottles for Dana, so breast milk can be collected from her and her breast milk be donated.”

“Donated?” David asks.

“Yeah.”

“You know what happened when you bought breast pumps and milk storage bottles for Dana the first time she had an abortion! She tossed the breast pumps and milk storage bottles right into the trash without ever taking them out the box!”

“That’s right Aunt Patricia,” Diane D says. “Dana doesn’t want to be bothered with that stuff. She wants nothing to do with it!”

“That’s right Patricia,” Gracy says. “If you give those breast pumps and milk storage bottles to Dana again, all she’s gonna do is toss them right into the trash again without ever opening them.”

“Yeah Patricia,” Barry says. “Dana doesn’t ever want any babies. She doesn’t want to look at any products that have to do with babies at all, so therefore, she’s not going to even look at those breast pumps or those milk storage bottles.”

“That’s right Patricia,” Aunt Celeste says. “Dana won’t even touch them again, unless she tosses them into the trash, that’s the only time she will ever touch them.”

“That’s why I’m not gonna give these items to Dana,” Patricia says. “I’ll just pump the milk out of her myself and she’ll never have to lift a finger or even touch or see these items. She doesn’t even have to look at these items, I’ll do all the work, just like I did with her breast milk years ago.”

“Is that right?” David says.

“Yeah. I’ve learned how to use breast pumps. It’s very simple, especially this electrical one.”

“Oh really?”

“Yeah.”

“Well you might as well return those breast pumps and those milk storage bottles back to the drug store Patricia because Dana’s breast milk is not for sale!” Christine shouts. “She’s not a cow! You’re not going to take any milk from her and try to sell it!”

“Why not Christine? I can get a lot of money for the breast milk like I did before. Don’t worry, Dana will get some money.”

“Listen Patricia. Take those breast pumps and those milk storage bottles back to the drug store!”

“No I’m not going to return these breast pumps or these milk storage bottles back to the drug store Christine! I didn’t go out and purchase these items for nothing!”

“Yes you did Aunt Patricia,” Diane D says, “because you’re not going to use those breast pumps on Dana!”

“Why not?”

“Like Christine just told you Patricia!” Alan shouts. “The milk is not for sale!”

“Oh no?”

“No!” everybody shouts.

“Now look everybody! I went all the way to the drug store and bought these breast pumps and these milk storage bottles, because my whole plan is to go upstairs, use this breast pump on Dana and pump the milk from her and dammit, that’s what I’m going to do! I am going to pump that breast milk from out of Dana right now!” Patricia angrily walks towards the staircase.

Diane D quickly steps right in front of Patricia and blocks her way. Patricia stops right in her tracks as Diane D says to her, “You know Aunt Patricia, you need to stop being so money hungry. You’re not going anywhere near Dana with those breast pumps and those milk storage bottles. Dana is resting right now. Let her get some rest.”

“Uh, excuse me Diane, but, Dana is my niece.”

“Aaand she’s my cousin!”

“Just step aside Diane,” Patricia says as she violently shoves Diane D aside.

“Patricia!” everyone shouts as Diane D is about to fall to the side! Everyone tries to catch Diane D as Diane D quickly catches her balance! Patricia tries to hurry up the steps, but Diane D quickly turns around and angrily grabs Patricia by the shirt collar, pulling Patricia back down the stairs as everyone shouts, “Diane!”

Christine and everyone else grab and hold Diane D as Patricia turns her head around towards Diane D and angrily shouts, “Don be grabbing mi! Don be grabbing mi!” Patricia tries to shove Diane D off her collar as Diane D continues to pull Patricia down by the collar! Christine and everyone else continue to try and pull Diane D and Patricia apart as they shout, “Diane! Patricia!” Patricia suddenly throws her arms back towards Diane D and smacks Diane D’s head back as everyone shouts, “Patricia!” Diane D’s head goes back and she suddenly falls as she continues to pull Patricia by the collar bringing Patricia and everybody else down to the floor with her!

Several minutes later, police cars are in the street outside of Gracy and Mike’s house.

The following day in a control room at a TV studio, two black men, Junior and Zaviar around their mid 30’s and a black woman Gwendolyn around her late 30’s are sitting behind TV monitors looking at a newspaper article with a headline that reads: POLICE CALLED TO DIANE D’S PATERNAL GRANDPARENTS’ HOME! “Wow,” Junior says. “This article says that the police were called to Diane D’s paternal grandparents’ house in Queens yesterday.”

“Oh yeah?” Zaviar asks.

“Yeah.”

“What happened?”

“It says right here, that Diane D and her cousin Dana’s Aunt Patricia from Jamaica, got into a physical altercation yesterday!”

“What? Diane D and her cousin Dana’s Aunt Patricia from Jamaica got into a physical altercation?”

“Yeah! It says that Diane D and her cousin Dana’s Aunt Patricia were shoving and pulling each other and the family tried to break it up.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Why did Diane D and her cousin Dana’s Aunt Patricia get into a physical altercation?” Gwendolyn asks. “Does it has anything to do with her cousin Dana’s recent abortion?”

“I think so. This article says that Dana’s Aunt Patricia came all the way from Jamaica when she heard that Dana had an abortion.”

“She came all the way from Jamaica when she heard Dana had an abortion?”

“Yeah.”

“Why would she come all the way from Jamaica if she heard Dana had an abortion?” Zaviar asks.

“Because she figured Dana might be lactating and figured since there’s no baby to give the breast milk to, the breast milk should be donated to a milk bank, so that’s what she wanted to do, donate Dana’s breast milk for money, so when Dana’s Aunt Patricia went to Diane D’s grandparents’ house and saw that Dana was lactating, I heard she quickly left the house! The next thing their family notice is that Dana’s Aunt Patricia came back to the house with breast pumps and breast milk storage bottles!”

“Breast pumps and breast milk storage bottles?” Gwendolyn asks.

“Yeah. The police report says that Dana’s Aunt Patricia was about to go up the staircase to Dana, but Diane D got right in front of her and blocked her way and stopped her from going up the steps! I heard that Dana’s Aunt Patricia shoved Diane D aside then tried to hurry up the steps!”

“She shoved Diane D?!”

“That’s what the police report said!”

“Then what happened?”

“It says that Diane D quickly turned around, grabbed Dana’s Aunt Patricia by the collar and pulled her back down the stairs!”

“Diane D pulled Dana’s Aunt back down the stairs?”

“Yeah, because you’re not gonna shove Diane D and get away with it! Then it says Dana’s Aunt Patricia shoved Diane D’s head back!”

“She shoved Diane D’s head?”

“Yeah, then Diane D fell to the floor!”

“Diane D fell to the floor?”

“Yeah! It got real physical up in there! Diane D and Dana’s Aunt Patricia were at war! That’s why the cops had to be called.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah!”

“My goodness! Was anybody seriously hurt?”

“Not that I know of.”

“Was anybody arrested?” Zaviar asks.

“No. This article just says that after everything calmed down, Diane D left the house and went to her other grandparents’ home and stayed there. I don’t know where Dana’s Aunt Patricia went.”

“Maybe she went to go meet up with Diane D somewhere to continue their battle.”

“I sure hope not,” Gwendolyn says. Junior, Zaviar and Gwendolyn continue to look at the article.

The next day, Christine and David come inside the front door of Gracy and Mike’s house. Dana's sisters Missy and Londa approach Christine and David and give them hugs. "How's Dana," Christine asks.

"Is she alright?" David asks.

"Dana is okay," Missy says.

"That's good." David and Christine turn their heads towards the staircase and suddenly see Patricia quickly coming down the staircase carrying black plastic bags. "Hey Patricia," David says.

"Hey David, hey Christine," Patricia quickly says. "By David, by Christine," Patricia says as she quickly heads towards the front door.

"Where are you going so fast Patricia?" Christine asks.

"I have to hurry back to the store before closing time to return these items because they don't fit. See you guys later." Patricia continues to the front door, opens it and quickly leaves out of it, closing the door behind herself.

Christine and David puzzled look towards the door. Christine then turns to David, Missy and Londa and says, "I hope she makes it back to the store in time." Missy and Londa worriedly look at Christine.

The next day, Christine and her relatives are out grocery shopping. Suddenly Christine's cell phone rings. She goes to the side and reaches into her pocket. She pulls out her cell phone and says, "Hello?"

"Hello Christine?" a male white gentleman around his mid 40's says.

"Yeah speaking."

"Hi Christine. This is Marshall from the milk bank calling you. You remember me, from years ago, right?"

"Yeah I remember you Marshall. What's going on?"

"I'm just here waiting for your sister Patricia to come back to the milk bank?"

"You're waiting for my sister Patricia to come back to the milk bank? Oh no. Don't tell me that she came in there with donated breast milk!"

"Well she did. She came in here and sold us some breast milk today."

"She came in there and sold you some breast milk today?!"

"Yeah. And she sold us some breast milk yesterday."

"Yesterday too?!"

"Yeah, and the day before yesterday."

"What! The day before yesterday too?! You mean to tell me that my sister Patricia came to you and sold you breast milk three days in a row?!"

"Yeah, she sold it to us twice the first day."

"She did?!"

"Yeah."

"You're kidding!"

"No I'm not kidding Christine. When your sister first came in here the other day with storage bottles of donated breast milk, she got so excited about the money she got paid that she told us she was going to go back to collect more breast milk, then that same afternoon, she came back in here with more storage bottles of donated breast milk and sold it to us."

"She did?!"

"Yeah. Then yesterday she came in here three times and sold us more storage bottles of donated breast milk."

“She came in there three times yesterday?!”

“Yeah and twice today.”

“Twice today?”

“Yeah. I’m just waiting for your sister to come back a third time today.”

“Oh really?!”

“Yeah.”

“How many times have my sister come in there and sold your company donated breast milk?!”

“Altogether, seven times.”

“Seven times?!”

“Yeah.”

“Where did my sister say she got the donated breast milk from, because it certainly didn’t come from her! She doesn’t have any babies!”

“I know she doesn’t. She claimed she got the donated breast milk from her niece Dana.”

“Her niece Dana? Is that right?!”

“Yeah. When your sister came in here the second time today and sold us more storage bottles of breast milk, she said she was going to go back to her niece Dana to collect more breast milk. She said she ran out of milk storage bottles and said she have to hurry to the drug store to purchase more milk storage bottles, then hurry and get back to her niece Dana to collect more milk before the rest of her family comes home, then she said she will bring more storage bottles of breast milk this evening, then she quickly left out of here. Your sister left out of here a while ago. She should be on her way back to her niece Dana now.”

“Oh yeah?! Well thank you Marshall! I have to rush home.”

“You have to rush home? Why? Is everything alright?”

“No everything is not alright Marshall!”

“No? What’s wrong?”

“Patricia is going behind our backs using the breast pumps she bought from the drug store on Dana taking breast milk from Dana like Dana is some cow or some milk machine, just so that SHE can make money off of it, which isn’t right! My family and I told Patricia not to do it, and she goes behind our backs and does this anyway!”

“You and your family told Patricia not to do this?”

“We sure did! Obviously she didn’t listen to us!”

“You didn’t know that she was coming in here selling us donated breast milk?”

“No we had no idea!”

“Has Dana said anything to anybody about what her Aunt Patricia is doing?”

“No Dana hasn’t said a word about it!”

“She hasn’t?”

“No, she hasn’t said anything at all! Yesterday my husband and I went with Dana to the doctor! Then after that, we brought Dana back home and dropped her off in front of the house! After Dana went inside the house, my husband and I went to the store, when we came back home, we ran into my other two daughters Missy and Londa inside the house, then my husband and I saw Patricia hurrying down the staircase carrying black plastic bags heading straight towards the front door! I asked Patricia where is she going so fast! She told me she have to hurry back to the store before closing time to return some items because they didn’t fit, then she hurried to the front door and quickly left out the house! Later on, Missy and Londa told me and their dad that before my husband and I picked up Dana and went with her to the doctor, their Aunt Patricia was coming in and out of the house back and forth going up to the room where Dana was!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yes!”

“Well what did Missy and Londa said happen when your sister Patricia went to the room where Dana was?”

“They said they don’t know because their Aunt Patricia would close the door shut!”

“She would shut the door?”

“Yes! Then Missy and Londa said later on, they could overhear the breast pump machine going on inside the room!”

“They overheard the breast pump machine going on inside the room?”

“That’s what they said! Then Missy and Londa told me and their dad after that, their Aunt Patricia quickly left the house with a black plastic bag! Then they said while their dad and I were at the doctor with Dana, their Aunt Patricia had came back to the house and went right back up to the room!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah! They said when we dropped Dana back home from the doctor, their Aunt Patricia was already up in the room waiting for Dana! They said she started placing the pillows from the bed up against the headboard again!”

“She did?”

“Yeah! Missy and Londa said when Dana came upstairs in the hallway, their Aunt Patricia got so happy and excited when she approached Dana, telling Dana she needs to collect more milk from her so she can hurry and bring it to the milk bank before closing time!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah!”

“What did Dana say when Patricia told her that she needs to collect more from her?”

“Missy and Londa said Dana just calmly told her Aunt Patricia to hold on then Dana stepped away to the restroom! They said when Dana came out the restroom and went inside the bedroom, their Aunt Patricia closed the door shut again! Then they said they overheard the breast pump machine going on inside the room again! So when my husband and I came back home, that’s when we ran into Patricia coming down the stairs with black plastic bags. So now I know what was in the black plastic bags, milk storage bottles full of breast milk! When we ask Patricia about it, she would deny it to us!”

“She would?”

“Yes!”

“Dana never said anything to anyone in your family about it at all?”

“No, Dana never said a word about it, she doesn’t talk about the breast pumps!”

“She doesn’t?”

“No she doesn’t talk about any of that stuff!”

“How come?”

“She wants nothing to do with it!”

“She wants nothing to do with it?”

“No!”

“Well how can she not have anything to do with the breast pumps if the breast milk is coming from her?”

“Simple, she doesn’t look at the breast pumps, she doesn’t touch the breast pumps and she doesn’t even think about them! She just completely ignores the breast pumps like they don’t even exist! Obviously she’s able to block her mind off the situation and just sit back while her Aunt Patricia does all the work! I guess once Patricia finishes pumping the milk from Dana, Dana just goes about her business like nothing happened, so she says nothing about it!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah! The only reason why Dana is putting up with and tolerating her Aunt Patricia collecting breast milk from her in the first place is because she loves her Aunt Patricia and she sees how happy and excited her Aunt Patricia gets about the money she’s making off of it, that’s the only reason why Dana is putting up with it!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yes! She’s doing it all for her Aunt Patricia!”

“Well maybe Dana is getting something out of it too. Maybe your sister shares some of the money with Dana.”

“I don’t think so, because Missy and Londa claimed they overheard their Aunt Patricia offer Dana some of the money!”

“Yeah, then they overheard Dana tell her Aunt Patricia not to worry about giving her any of the money because she wants nothing to do with the money!”

“Dana told Patricia she wants nothing to do with the money?”

“That’s what Missy and Londa overheard Dana saying. Then they said they overheard Dana tell their Aunt Patricia to just keep the money or share it with the rest of the family!”

“They overheard Dana tell your sister to keep the money or share it with the rest of the family?”

“Yes!”

“Well did your sister keep all the money or did she share it with the rest of the family?”

“I guess she kept all of it, because she knows if she were to share that money with the rest of the family, we would question her about ‘Where she get the money from’, then she would have to tell on herself how she got the money and let us know that she went behind our backs to get breast milk from Dana, so therefore she didn’t share any of the money with the rest of the family!”

“She didn’t?”

“Not that I know of!”

“But I don’t understand. Why would Dana even tell your sister Patricia to share the money with the rest of the family if the rest of the family is dead set against your sister Patricia collecting breast milk from her?”

“Because Dana doesn’t know that the rest of my family and I are against her Aunt Patricia collecting breast milk from her?”

“She doesn’t know?”

“No, she was upstairs in the room resting with the door closed when my family and I first told Patricia not to do it!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yes, Dana doesn’t know that her Aunt Patricia is actually going behind our backs collecting the breast milk from her!”

“She doesn’t know?”

“No she doesn’t know, we kept it from her!”

“You did?”

“Yes we did!”

“Why?”

“The thing is, Dana doesn’t like it when her family argues, fusses or go against each other!”

“She doesn’t?”

“No, it would really upset her if she knew the rest of her family and her Aunt Patricia were going at it because Dana loves her entire family and she won’t take sides if she knew her family members were going against each other! If my family and I tell Dana not to let her Aunt Patricia collect breast milk from her, she’ll feel bad for her Aunt Patricia, especially if she sees that her Aunt Patricia is so happy and excited about making money off it, but at the same time, she wouldn’t want to go against the rest of her family either and allow her Aunt Patricia to collect the breast milk from her if she knows it’ll upset us! She’ll feel caught right in the middle!”

“She would?”

“Of course she would, because she doesn’t want to hurt either side. That’s why my family and I never told Dana that we’re against her Aunt Patricia collecting breast milk from her, because we don’t want to upset her, she already went through enough right now! I guess my family and I have to be the ones to take care of Patricia! Listen Marshall, I have to hurry back to my in-laws’ house and catch up with Patricia real quick before she takes more milk from Dana because that milk is not for sale anymore!”

“It isn’t?”

“No! I have to call my family’s home to make sure they stop Patricia from going back to Dana when she gets there!”

“Okay then Christine. Sorry the milk is not for sale anymore. Well, take care.”

“I will.” Christine gets off her cell phone and quickly dials a number. She puts the cell phone to her ear. She then speaks into it and says, “Hello Londa?”

“No Mom,” Londa’s triplet sister Landa who’s in the kitchen says from the other end of the phone. “It’s me, Landa.”

“Hey Landa. Did your Aunt Patricia come in the house yet?”

“No, not yet. Why?”

“Because Marshall from the milk bank just called me and told me that your Aunt Patricia came in there and sold some breast milk today!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah, and he said your Aunt Patricia sold them some breast milk yesterday and the day before yesterday! He said your Aunt Patricia came there and sold them breast milk three days in a row, twice the first day, three times yesterday and twice today.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yes! That’s seven times altogether! Marshall says he’s waiting for your Aunt Patricia to come back a third time today!”

“Oh really?”

“Yes! I asked him where did your Aunt Patricia say she got the donated breast milk from. He told me she claimed she got the donated breast milk from Dana. Marshall said your Aunt Patricia told him that she was going to go back to her niece Dana to collect more breast milk but she ran out of milk storage bottles and said she have to hurry to the drug store to purchase more milk storage bottles, then hurry and get back to Dana to collect more milk from her before the rest of her family comes home. Marshall said your Aunt Patricia told him she will bring more storage bottles of breast milk this evening, then quickly left out of there and is on her way back to the house to collect more milk from Dana and I don't want her to do it! Listen Landa. When your Aunt Patricia comes in the house, I want you to stall her and keep her away from Dana until the rest of the family get there, okay?"

"I'll try Mom, but I'm not sure how I'm going to do that because Diane is here."

"What! Diane is there?!"

"Yeah."

"She's there now?!"

"Yeah she's here right now. She came in here a little while ago with a whole lot of Chinese food she bought for everybody."

"She bought Chinese food for everybody?"

"Yeah. She and I already set up the kitchen table waiting for everybody else to come home."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Oh no! Well if your Aunt Patricia comes into the house with more milk storage bottles, I don't want Diane to run into them and see them! She might literally try to stop your Aunt Patricia from bringing that stuff to Dana like she did before, then they'll go at it again! We can't have that! What part of the house is Diane in now?!"

"She went upstairs to bring Dana some Chinese food."

"She's in the room with Dana now?"

"Yeah."

"That's exactly where your Aunt Patricia is heading, right up to that room to Dana and Diane will definitely see those milk storage bottles! Landa, see if you can stall both Diane and your Aunt Patricia and keep them apart while your Aunt Patricia got those milk storage bottles in her hands!"

"Okay Mom, I'll try my best." Suddenly the sound of the front door opens. Landa turns to look. She sees Patricia stepping right inside the front door with plastic white shopping bags. Landa looks at the slightly see through shopping bags as Patricia turns and closes the front door. Landa turns her head back and whispers into the phone, "Mom, Aunt Patricia just walked in the front door."

"She did?"

"Yeah. She got shopping bags in her hands."

"She does?"

"Yeah."

"Oh no. Are you able to see what's inside the shopping bags?"

"A little bit, not much."

"Well put her on the phone right away!"

"Okay." Landa turns to Patricia and sees Patricia walking right towards the staircase. She quickly shouts, "Hey Aunt Patricia!" Patricia stops in her tracks, turns to the side and looks at Landa as Landa says to her, "You're just in time because Mom is on the phone.”

“She is?” Patricia asks.

“Yeah mon. She wants to talk to you. Come take the phone.”

Patricia turns and walks towards Landa. Patricia and Landa suddenly hear footsteps coming down the stairs. Patricia stops in her tracks again as she and Landa turn their heads to the side and look up towards the staircase. They see Diane D coming down the staircase holding a carton of Chinese food in one hand while looking down at the Chinese food and holding a bitten off carrot stick in the other hand while chewing some of the carrot as she says, “Hey Landa.” Diane D reaches the bottom of the steps as she continues to look down at the Chinese food. She turns to Landa as she continues to look down at the Chinese food not noticing Patricia standing several feet away from her. She stops right at Landa and says, “Dana ate a little bit of Chinese food then she fell right to sleep.” Diane D looks up at Landa and says, “I guess I’ll have to finish the rest of this Chinese food for her.” Diane D smiles at Landa. She then looks back down at the Chinese food as she starts to turn away towards Patricia. Landa quickly grabs Diane D by the arm and stops her. Diane D still not noticing Patricia turns her head and puzzled looks up at Landa. She then turns her body a little towards Landa. She takes another bite out of the already bitten off carrot. She smiles at Landa again as she chews on the carrot. She then shrugs her shoulders to Landa then turns away back towards Patricia again as she looks back down at the Chinese food. She starts to walk away again but Landa quickly grabs Diane D again trying to stop her. Diane D suddenly looks up and sees Patricia standing several feet away from her looking at her. She stops right in her tracks and puzzled looks at Patricia. She then says, “Aunt Patricia,” as she chews the carrot. Diane D stares at Patricia as Patricia stares at her. She then says, “What a surprise. I didn’t know you were standing there. How long were you standing there?”

“Not too long,” Patricia says. “I just got here.”

“You did?”

“Yeah.”

“Well that’s good you’re here, because you’re just in time to have some Chinese food. I bought plenty for everybody.”

“You did?”

“I sure did. Have some.”

“I’ll get to the Chinese food later. Right now, I have to get to Dana real quick.”

“You do?”

“Yeah.” Patricia turns and starts to walk towards the staircase.

“Aunt Patricia!” Landa shouts. Patricia stop in her tracks again as she turns her head towards Landa. Landa then tells her, “Mom is still on the phone. She wants to talk to you.”

“Oh Landa! Is it important? Can it wait? I have to hurry and get to Dana.”

“Dana is asleep Aunt Patricia,” Diane D says. “She took a few bites of Chinese food then fell fast asleep.”

“Yeah I heard you telling Landa that. But that’s okay, I’ll just wake her up real quick.”

“Wake her up? I don’t know how you’re going to do that Aunt Patricia, Dana seems to be knocked out.”

“Knocked out?”

“Yeah.”

“Well that’s okay, Dana doesn’t really need to be awake for this.”

“Dana doesn’t really need to be awake for what?” Diane D looks down at the shopping bags Patricia is carrying. She then asks, “What’s that in the bag Aunt Patricia? Is that milk storage bottles again?”

“Yes it is.”

“It is?”

“Yeah.”

“Why do you have those milk storage bottles again Aunt Patricia? What are you planning to do with them? You don’t plan on using them on Dana are you?”

“Of course I’m planning to use them on Dana Diane, that’s why I bought them in the first place.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“So you’re really determined to collect breast milk from her?”

“Of course I’m determined to collect more breast milk from Dana, so I can bring it to the milk bank before they close this evening.”

“What do you mean collect MORE breast milk from Dana? Have you collected breast milk from Dana already?”

“I sure did.”

“You have?”

“Yes I have. I’ve been pumping the breast milk from Dana for the past few days.”

“You have?”

“Yeah.”

“Well Dana never said anything to me about it.”

“And she’s not going to.”

“She’s not?”

“No.”

“Does the rest of the family know about this?” Diane D turns to her right and looks at Landa as Landa puzzled looks back at her.

“No the rest of the family don’t know about it,” Patricia says as Diane D takes her eyes off Landa and looks back at Patricia. Patricia then says, “So now if you will excuse me Diane, I have to hurry and get to Dana.”

“For what? To collect more breast milk from her?”

“Aunt Patricia, Dana is not a cow. I can’t just sit back and watch you treat her like she’s some cow or some milk machine!”

“You don’t have to watch Diane, because you’re not going to be in the room with me and Dana! You’re going to be shut out.”

“Shut out?”

“That’s right.”

“Oh really.”

“Really.”

“Landa wah’s going on over there?!” Christine shouts on the other end of the phone.

“Diane came downstairs,” Landa says.

“She did?”

“Yeah. She ran into Aunt Patricia and saw the shopping bag with the milk storage bottles in them. She was questioning Aunt Patricia about them. They are about to fuss again.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“I’m on my way!” Christine closes her cell phone then turns and rushes away!

Chapter 29

Round 2 Of Diane D Vs. Dana's Aunt Patricia!

"But Dana's asleep right now Aunt Patricia," Diane D says.

"Dana doesn't need to be awake for this Diane," Patricia says.

"She doesn't?"

"No, she doesn't have to lift a finger. I'll handle everything."

"You will?"

"Yes."

"Aunt Patricia, it's not right for you to treat Dana like she's some cow or some milk machine, just so that YOU can make money off of it!"

"Excuse me Diane! But if it wasn't for YOUR HUSBAND getting horny when he saw Dana laying down sleeping, then allegedly woke her up to have sex with her and wind up accidentally getting her pregnant, she wouldn't be in this situation in the first place now, would she?"

"And if it wasn't for MY HUSBAND getting horny when he saw Dana laying down sleeping, then allegedly woke her up to have sex with her and wind up accidentally getting her pregnant, you wouldn't be collecting any breast milk from her to make money off of it now, would you?!"

"And if it wasn't for YOUR HUSBAND getting horny when he saw Dana laying down sleeping, then allegedly woke her up to have sex with her and wind up accidentally getting her pregnant, you wouldn't have allegedly tried to fix what he's done by trying to abort the unborn baby out of Dana yourself, would you?!"

"Aunt Patricia, you did not have to go there."

"Oh I did went there Diane. I did went there. Now if you don't mind, I have to get to Dana."

"Aunt Patricia, before you get to Dana, let me have those milk storage bottles please."

"Let you have the milk storage bottles?"

"That's right."

"I'm not gonna give you these milk storage bottles Diane."

"If you don't give those milk storage bottles to me, then I have to take the milk storage bottles from you."

"Take these milk storage bottles from me?"

"Yes, so you won't use them on Dana."

“Are you kidding me Diane?”

“No I’m not kidding you Aunt Patricia. I’m serious.”

“You can be serious all you want to Diane, but you’re not taking a damn thing from me!”

“But I have to take the milk storage bottles away from you Aunt Patricia! I can’t allow you to treat Dana like she’s a cow!”

“Why is it bothering you what I’m doing with Dana?! SHE doesn’t have a problem with it! She never once complained about me collecting milk from her! Now if it’s not bothering her, then why the hell is it bothering you?!”

“Because you’re using her like a cow to make money for yourself!”

“So what! Don’t worry about it! If Dana is not worrying about it, you shouldn’t worry about it either! The only thing you should worry about, is making sure, that YOUR HUSBAND don’t get horny and knock her up again! Then she won’t be in this situation again!”

“But since MY HUSBAND allegedly is the one who knocked her up, it’s my responsibility to make sure that you not treat her as a cow or milk machine, that’s why I have to take the milk storage bottles away from you!”

“You’re not taking these milk storage bottles away from me Diane. I paid for it and I’m going to use it!”

“No you cannot use those milk storage bottles on Dana Aunt Patricia! I have to take them from you!”

“You’re not taking a damn thing from me Diane!”

“Yes I am!”

“No you’re not!”

“Yes I am.”

“Well try it then!”

“I don’t have to try Aunt Patricia. I will succeed in taking that bag from you.”

“You will?”

“That’s right.”

“No you won’t either! So you might as well step aside Diane! I have to get to Dana.”

“Not with that bag Aunt Patricia.”

“Definitely with this bag!”

“No you’re not!”

“Yes I am!”

Landa comes between Patricia and Diane D and shouts, “Aunt Patricia, Diane, please!”

Missy and Linda are outside Gracy and Mike’s house approaching the front door. All of a sudden, they hear a voice from inside the house shouting, “WILL YOU...” Missy and Linda look at each other! They turn back to the door as Linda quickly puts her keys in the lock and tries to unlock the door. The door opens and Linda and Missy burst into the house as the front door closes behind them.

When Linda and Missy look, they are shocked to see Diane D bending down turning towards the floor trying to pull the shopping bag right out of Patricia’s hands as Patricia bends over Diane D struggling to pull the shopping bags from out of Diane D’s grip with Landa desperately trying to break them up! Linda and Missy scream and rush to grab

Diane D and Patricia as Diane D and Patricia struggle against each other trying to pull the shopping bags from out of each other's grip! Diane D and Patricia lean to the side causing Diane D's body to bang against the wall as Landa, Linda and Missy scream and try to pull Diane D and Patricia apart! Diane D and Patricia then struggle and lean towards the opposite way, causing Patricia's body to bang against the other wall as Landa, Linda and Missy continue to hold on to them! Diane D and Patricia then lean to the other side again causing Diane D's body to bang against the other wall again! Patricia then lifts her leg and knees Diane D right in the stomach area causing Diane D's body to jerk up! Patricia and Diane D continue to try to pulling the shopping bags from out of each other's grip as they lean towards the opposite way again, causing Patricia's body to bang against the opposite wall again as Landa, Linda and Missy continue to scream and try to pull them apart! Suddenly the front door bursts open! Barry, David, Christine, Mary, Nicolas, Mickey, Uncle Willie, Aunt Celeste, Mike, Gracy, Alan and Christine's other relatives from Jamaica burst into the house and approach Diane D and Patricia grabbing them both as Mike shouts, "What the hell is going on here?!" Diane D and Patricia continue to pull the shopping bags from out each other's grip as the rest of the family scream and desperately try to pull them apart! The family finally manages to pull Diane D and Patricia apart with Diane D and Patricia still holding on to the shopping bag as the shopping bag stretches. Suddenly, the shopping bag rips apart and all the empty milk storage bottles and a full liter bottle of cola falls out and drops all onto the floor! An angry Patricia breaks loose from the family members who are holding her! She goes and bends down to pick up the soda bottle! She then rushes right to Diane D, swings the soda bottle in the air and hits Diane D right on the back of the head with the soda bottle as Diane D's head jerks backwards! "Patricia!" everybody screams as Diane D painfully grabs the back of her head! Everybody angrily grabs Patricia as Diane D suddenly falls to the floor! Everybody tries to catch Diane D as she brings everybody down to the floor with her!

Several minutes later, police cars and an ambulance are in the street outside of Gracy and Mike's house. Mike, David, Nicolas, Mickey, Uncle Willie, Aunt Celeste are at the back of the ambulance looking inside of it.

Several yards away, Christine's family and the police surround an angry Patricia trying to calm her down as she hollers and points towards the ambulance shouting, "She had no right to try and take my stuff away from me! I bought it! She got some nerve! Bring her out of that ambulance so I can hit her some more!"

"You are not going to hit Diane again Patricia!" Alan shouts.

"Oh yes I will goddammit! Bring her out here!"

Barry, Gracy and Christine come out of the ambulance. Christine angrily walks towards Patricia and points her arm and finger at her shouting, "How dare you hit Diane with that soda bottle! You had no right to hit her with that soda bottle!"

"Bloodclaat!" Patricia shouts. "She had no right to grab my stuff! She's the one who started this whole mess by grabbing my shit! She don't touch my shit! Bring her out of that ambulance so I can hit her upside her head again! I'm ready for her!" Christine's family and the police continue to surround Patricia trying to calm her down!

The following day, Junior, Zaviar and Gwendolyn are sitting in the control room at the TV Station behind TV monitors again looking at a newspaper article with a headline that reads: ROUND 2 OF DIANE D VS. HER COUSIN DANA'S AUNT PATRICIA!

"Wow," Junior says. "This article says that the police were called to Diane D's paternal grandparents' home again!"

"Oh yeah?" Zaviar asks.

"Yeah!"

"What happened?"

"It says that Diane D and her cousin Dana's Aunt Patricia from Jamaica got into another physical altercation!"

"What? Diane D and her cousin Dana's Aunt Patricia from Jamaica got into another physical altercation?"

"Yeah!"

"What happened this time?" Gwendolyn asks.

"Well according to this article, it says that Diane D and her cousin Dana's Aunt Patricia were trying to pull and grab a shopping bag from out of each other's hands!"

"They were trying to pull and grab a shopping bag from out of each other's hands?"

"That's what this article says. It then says the rest of their family came home burst into the house and caught Diane D and her cousin Dana's aunt Patricia trying to pull the shopping bag from out of each other's hands, so their family grab them both and tried to break them apart!"

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Why were they trying to pull and grab a shopping bag from out of each other's hands?" Zaviar asks.

"I think it had something to do with Dana."

"Dana?"

"Yeah."

"Well what does the shopping bag have to do with her?"

"I think what was in the shopping bag had something to do with her?"

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Well what was in the shopping bag?"

"I don't know, it doesn't really say."

"Was anybody seriously hurt?" Gwendolyn asks.

"Well it said somebody went into the ambulance this time."

"Somebody went into the ambulance?" Zaviar asks.

"Yeah, and guess who it was."

"Dana's Aunt Patricia of course."

"You're wrong. It was Diane D!"

"Diane D?!" Zaviar and Gwendolyn shouts.

"You mean somebody put Diane D into the ambulance?!" Zaviar shouts.

"Yeah!" Junior shouts.

"Wow, it's usually the other way around! Diane D is usually the one who be putting people in the ambulance! You mean to tell us that this time, somebody else put Diane D into the ambulance?!"

"Yep."

"Wow! How did she wind up being put into the ambulance?"

"Well it says that when the family broke Diane D and her cousin Dana's Aunt Patricia apart, that's when the shopping bag ripped apart and all the stuff fell out of the shopping bag onto the floor including a soda bottle, that's when Dana's aunt Patricia picked up the soda bottle, rushed right to Diane D and whammed Diane D right on the head with the soda bottle!"

"What!" Zaviar and Gwendolyn shouts.

"Dana's Aunt Patricia hit Diane D over the head with the soda bottle?!" Gwendolyn shouts.

"Yeah, according to the police report!" Junior says. "This article says that Diane D painfully grabbed the back of her head and fell to the floor!"

"Diane D fell to the floor?!" Zaviar asks.

"That's what this article says. That's why she went into the ambulance."

"Wow."

"Was anybody arrested?" Gwendolyn asks.

"No," Junior says. "Diane D and her cousin Dana's aunt Patricia didn't press charges against each other."

"They didn't?"

"No. It says that Diane D was released from the hospital a few hours later."

"She was?"

"Yeah."

"Well that's good," Zaviar says. "I guess Diane D finally met her match, didn't she? Her cousin Dana's Aunt Patricia is from Jamaica, you don't mess with those Jamaicans, you hear how Dana is, right? She's the one who beat up those three female police officers and injured them for life! They now all on permanent disability, because of her!"

"And she's the one everybody thinks shot at that newspaper reporter Felix Green on the highway and shot him injuring him for life! I wouldn't want to come across her."

"Me neither. I don't want to be on permanent disability."

"Neither do I," Gwendolyn says. "If I ever become a cop and I ever had to arrest Diane D's cousin Dana, I will tell my partner, 'no you arrest her instead' then my partner will say to me 'no you arrest her!' We will be going back and forth at each other trying to debate which one of us is going to have to arrest Dana."

"And while you and your partner are debating which one of y'all are going to have to arrest Dana, Dana will be out of there making her quick getaway." Junior, Zaviar and Gwendolyn laugh as they look at the article.

Grandpa Mike Sends Diane D And Dana's Aunt Patricia Packing

The next day, Christine, David, Grandpa Mike, Aunt Jean, Aunt Celeste, Uncle Willie, Uncle Kevin, Alan and Christine's other relatives from Jamaica are all outside the airport surrounding Patricia, literally holding on to Patricia pulling her towards the airport terminal as they carry and pull her luggage. Patricia angrily shouts to them, "Why are you all sending me back to Jamaica, I'm not ready to go back there right now! I want to stay here, with the rest of you!"

Grandpa Mike stops in his tracks, angrily turns towards Patricia and shouts, "Patricia, we had enough of you and Diane going at it!" Everyone else stop in their tracks, turns towards Mike as he shouts to Patricia, "I had enough of you and Diane disrupting the family and disrespecting my household!"

"But Diane is the one who started this whole entire thing by grabbing my shopping bag! That was MY belongings that she grabbed! She had no right to grab something that belongs to me!"

"Patricia!" Christine shouts. "We also had enough of you treating Dana like she's some cow or some milk machine, collecting breast milk from her, just so that YOU can make money off it! You did that to Dana when she had an abortion before, and now you're doing that to her again! You went right behind our backs and completely went against our wishes!"

"But I was only trying to help Dana, Christine! I hardly made any money for myself at all! I only kept part of the money for myself at first and bought some jewelry with it! I left most of the money for Dana on her dresser! Didn't you all see the money I left on her dresser? It was all to help Dana after the abortion ordeal she went through. I was only trying to help her."

"And help yourself too."

"How can it be to help myself Christine, Dana said she didn't want any of the money! I kept trying to give the money to her, but she kept telling me she doesn't want anything to do with the money! When I tried to give Dana some money again, she got angry and snapped at me!"

"She did?"

"Yes she did! She shouted to me 'I told you to just keep the damn money Aunt Patricia!', then she shouted to me that if I don want the money, to just share it with the rest of the family, then told me not to bother her about the money anymore!”

“She told you that too?”

“Yes she did! So I had no choice but to respect her wishes! So I decided to just keep my mouth shut because I didn’t want her to snap at me again! I just continued to collect the milk from her and never said anything else to her about the money again! I decided to just keep all the money for myself since SHE didn’t want any of it!”

“That still doesn’t make it right for you to treat your niece as a cow or milk machine Patricia!” David says.

“But I don’t understand! Why is Dana the only one NOT complaining about what I’m doing with her?!”

“Because Patricia, you’re Dana’s aunt and she loves you!” Christine shouts. “She sees the fact that you making money off this is making you happy and that’s all she cares about is seeing her family members happy and you’re part of her family, so therefore, she won’t say anything or complain or try to stop you! She’ll just put up with it if she sees that making money off of it is making you happy!”

“That’s right Patricia!” David shouts. “Even though Dana is not complaining about you collecting milk from her or stopping you from collecting milk from her, it doesn’t give you the right to take advantage of her! But since she’s not stopping you, we’re going to be the ones to stop you, that’s why we’re sending you away! When you’re ready to stop treating Dana as a cow or a milk machine, and when you and Diane are ready to stop fighting over Dana, we’ll let you come back here.”

“But it’s not fair that you all are sending me away when Diane is the one who started it!” Patricia shouts. “She was trying to grab something from me, I wasn’t trying to grab anything from her!”

“Oh don’t worry about Diane Patricia, because after we put you on the plane, she’s next!”

“What! She’s next? What do mean ‘she’s next?’”

“We’re sending Diane to the Dominican Republic!”

“What! You’re sending Diane to the Dominican Republic?”

“Yes we are Patricia!” Mike shouts. “We’re sending Diane down to the Dominican Republic for a month or two to stay with her other relatives down there!”

“You are?”

“Yes we are! Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas and Gracy are getting her luggage ready for the airport right now!”

“They are?”

“Yes! You and Diane have totally disrespected my household going at it, fighting inside my house, and it’s all over Dana! I mean it’s ridiculous how you two are fighting over Dana! You keep collecting breast milk from her making money off of it while Diane literally tries to stop you, and whenever Diane allegedly hears that her husband accidentally gets Dana pregnant, she somehow snaps and allegedly tries to abort the unborn baby out of Dana herself! I think Dana needs a serious break from both you and Diane! I’m literally banning both you and Diane from Dana!”

“What! What do you mean ‘you’re banning me and Diane from Dana?’”

“I’m not allowing any of you near Dana for a while!”

“What! You’re not allowing any of us near Dana for a while?! You can’t mean that Mike!”

“Oh I absolutely mean that Patricia.”

“Really. How are you going to do that Mike, Dana is my niece! You can’t stop me from being around my own niece!”

“Oh yes I can stop you, if you’re causing disruption around her environment! Why the hell you think I’m sending both you and Diane away?!”

“I didn’t mean to cause any problems Mike!”

“But you have Patricia! You AND Diane have.”

“This is exactly what I was afraid of Patricia,” Christine says, “when I spoke to Landa on the phone and she told me that Diane came in the house with a lot of Chinese food, and I knew you were on your way back to Dana with new milk storage bottles and Diane would possibly run into you and see you holding the milk storage bottles. I was afraid of this!”

“Now we don’t want you to miss your flight Patricia,” David says. “So let’s hurry and get you to that gate. We are going to make sure you get on that plane.”

“But please,” Patricia says. “Let me stay a little while longer!”

“Why?! So you can continue to collect breast milk from Dana and continue to make money off it, then you and Diane wind up going at it again?! Not a chance!”

“I promise, I won’t do anything!”

“It’s too late Patricia!” Christine shouts. “You have been warned!”

“But Christine!”

“Let’s go Patricia!” Grandpa Mike shouts. “Move!” Christine, David, Alan and the rest of the family start to pull Patricia towards the airport terminal again as Grandpa Mike and the rest of their family follow them with the luggage.

Around two hours later, Grandpa Mike, Gracy, David, Barry and Willie have Michael cornered inside Mike and Gracy house as Grandpa Mike says to Michael, “We want to know the truth Michael! Did you confess to Diane at the hospital, that you accidentally impregnated Dana, which caused Diane to somehow snap and want to try to abort the unborn baby out of Dana herself?!”

“No I didn’t make any confession like that to Diane,” Michael nervously says.

“Was it your unborn child that Dana had the abortion with?” David asks.

“No it wasn’t my child.”

“Yes I’m sure!”

“So why is this rumor going around the hospital, saying that you made this shocking confession to Diane, that you slept with Dana and you think you might have accidentally impregnated her?” Barry asks.

“I don’t know. It’s just a rumor going around that hospital, you know how rumors are.”

“Are you sure you didn’t impregnate one of my granddaughters while you are legally married to my other granddaughter?” Mike asks.

“Yes I’m sure.”

“Well we can’t be too sure Michael, that’s why we’re sending you to the Dominican Republic with Diane so you can be with her. We can’t have you separated from your wife and we can’t risk you being where Dana is while Diane is away or else the same thing might allegedly happen between you and Dana again. We want to be on the safe side.”

“Yeah Michael,” David says. “Because it seems that neither you, Diane nor Patricia have any problem with coming in here, going right up to Dana while she's asleep, then waking her up when y'all want something from her."

"Waking her up when we want something from her?" Michael asks.

"That's right."

"What do you mean?"

"First of all, you allegedly came here, went to Dana, woke Dana out of her sleep to have sex with her, second of all, Diane came here right in the middle of the night, went to Dana, woke Dana out of her sleep and brought Dana right into the bathroom to give Dana a pregnancy test, and Patricia came here, went to Dana, woke Dana out of her sleep a few times to collect breast milk from her! Neither one of you believe in allowing Dana to sleep at all! You all seem to just wake her up whenever y'all want! We think Dana needs a break from all three of you!"

"But I never slept with Dana."

"Michael, rumors just don't start out of nowhere," Gracy says. "They came from somewhere. Now you have to go to the Dominican Republic so you can be with your wife."

"Okay, I have no problem with that Grandma. I have no problem with that."

"Let's go Michael," Grandpa Mike says, "your luggage is waiting." Grandpa Mike, Gracy, David, Barry and Willie take Michael away.

It is two hours later. At the airport, Mary, Barry, Grandpa Mike, Gracy, Margarita, Tomas, Tonio, Marilyn, Aunt Jean, Aunt Celeste, Uncle Willie, Uncle Kevin, Nicolas and Mickey are all surrounding Diane D and Michael literally holding and pulling Diane D and Michael towards the airport terminal as they carry and pull Diane D and Michael's luggage. Diane D then shouts, "I don't want to go to the Dominican Republic right now! I still have things to do here!"

"Things like what Diane?!" Margarita shouts.

Diane D and everyone else stops as Diane D says, "I still have my job at the hospital! I still have to teach my health and fitness class and I still have to do some personal training for my clients!"

"Diane!" Mary shouts, "you should have thought about all of that before you decided to disrupt the family and disrespect your grandparents' household! How dare you and your Aunt Patricia, fight inside your grandparents' house!"

"Now wait a second Mom, I wasn't fighting Aunt Patricia at all! I was just trying to grab the shopping bags that had the milk storage bottles in them from out of her hands, so I can keep her from treating Dana like a cow! I never once hit Aunt Patricia! I didn't hit her at all, she hit me! She kneed me right in the stomach and hit me right on the head with that soda bottle!"

"I'm not condoning your Aunt Patricia hitting you Diane!" Barry shouts. "But you caused your Aunt Patricia to get angry when you grabbed and pulled on her bags, that's why your grandpa Mike is banning you and your Aunt Patricia from Dana and not allowing any of you near Dana for a while!"

Diane D looks at Grandpa Mike and says, "Grandpa Mike, you don't have to ban me and Aunt Patricia from Dana! Aunt Patricia and I learned our lesson! We won't do anything like that anymore! We didn't mean to cause this!"

"But you have caused this Diane," Grandpa Mike says. "Your Aunt Patricia is already on her way back to Jamaica! Now we have to get you and Michael on your way to the Dominican Republic! Your relatives down there are already waiting for you!”

“That’s right Diane,” Tomas says. “We don’t want you to miss your flight to them, so let’s hurry and get you to that gate. We are not gonna have you miss that plane.”

“But what about my job at the hospital Grandpa Tomas?” Diane D asks.

“We already made arrangements with the hospital for you to have an entire month off.”

“You what?”

“Yes we did. The hospital agreed with us to give you an entire month off because they said they need a vacation from you.”

“What? The hospital said they need a vacation from me?”

“They sure did Diane.”

“Why do they think they need a vacation from me?”

“Because they said they can certainly use a break from you and we told them we are going to give them, a break from you.”

“Is that right?”

“Yes indeed Diane. Not only that. The hospital wants to make arrangements with us to give you, a permanent vacation.”

“What! The hospital wants to make arrangements with you to give me a permanent vacation?!”

“That’s right.”

“And what does that supposed to mean Grandpa Tomas? The hospital is not planning on firing me from there, are they?”

“No the hospital is not planning on firing you from there Diane, we are!”

“You are?! What is that supposed to mean Grandpa Tomas?!”

“The employees at the hospital are afraid to work around you Diane.”

“The employees at the hospital are afraid to work around me?!”

“Yes they are.”

“Why? Why are they afraid to work around me?”

“Ever since they all heard about you allegedly kung fu kicking that storage room door wide open, they’re afraid that you might go off on them and attack them next!”

“Attack them next?!”

“But I never kung fu kicked that storage room door Grandpa Tomas! When I went into the stairwell after I heard that tray dropped, I never even went down the stairs! I was about to go down the stairs, but I started feeling like I was about to pass out, so I never even went down the stairs, so therefore, I was never down in the lower level of the clinic area that night at all, so therefore, I never kung fu kicked that door! Those two witnesses Cody and Shane are lying!”

“Cody and Shane?!” Margarita puzzled asks. Everyone else puzzled looks at Diane D as Margarita says, “How do you know it was Cody and Shane who were the witnesses Diane?! Nobody ever told you who the witnesses were! We got strict orders not to tell you who the two witnesses are?”

“Yeah Diane,” Barry says. “How did you know it was Cody and Shane?! They claim you never saw them in that back clinic hallway at all because by the time you got to where the tray fell, they were already gone. You didn’t see anybody when you got to where the tray fell, did you?”

“No Dad,” Diane D says. “I didn’t see anybody. Nobody was there when I got there.”

“So how do you know Cody and Shane are the witnesses? How do you know, it was them in that back clinic hallway?!”

“I don’t know how I know it was them Dad. A strong intuition and feeling came over me and told me it was them.”

“A strong intuition and feeling came over you and told you?” Mary asks.

“Yeah Mom, it did.”

“What strong intuition and feeling?”

“I don’t know. It’s hard to explain. It just told me. Besides, I don’t know why those other hospital employees are afraid to work around me, I’m not even thinking about attacking them!”

“You might not be thinking about attacking them Diane,” Tomas says, ’but THEY’RE thinking about it! They don’t know the next time you go off and kung fu kick something, that something might be them instead of a door. They don’t want to risk the chance of you going off and kung fu kicking them if you continue to work in the hospital! They claim they don’t want to be the next security guards or the next Marcus.”

“The next security guards or the next Marcus?!”

“That’s right. They don’t want history to repeat itself by you going off and kung fu kicking them, then wind up not remembering it!”

“But I don’t remember kung fu kicking those security guards or that kid Marcus!”

“But they all said you DID kung fu kicked them Diane!”

“They’re all lying! And I’m telling you, I never kung fu kicked that storage room door!”

“But the two eye witnesses said you did!”

“But I don’t remember kung fu kicking that storage room door Grandpa Tomas! Honestly I don’t!”

“See? That’s what the hospital employees are all afraid of Diane, that you might go off someday in the future and attack and kung fu kick them and not remember it! Then if the hospital employees get hurt by you and decide to take the hospital to court, the first thing the court is going to ask the hospital is, if they knew you had a history of attacking and kung fu kicking people or objects, then wind up not remembering it, then why did the hospital allow you to continue to work there risking the safety of the other employees there or risking destroying property doing property damage! Then what is the hospital going to say? I’m sorry Diane, but the hospital employees just don’t feel safe around you.”

“But I’m not going to attack or kung fu kick any of those hospital employees Grandpa Tomas!”

“They’re not so sure about that Diane! Now let’s go. We’ll talk about your resignation from the hospital on our way to the gate!”

“Resignation from the hospital?!”

“That’s right.”

“I don’t want to resign from the hospital Grandpa Tomas!”

“But you have to resign Diane!”

“Why?!”

“We don’t have time to discuss it right now, time is running out! We don’t want you to miss that flight!”

“But Grandpa Tomas....”

“Aaah, no more questions Diane!” Grandpa Mike shouts. “Get on that plane!”

“But Grandpa Mike....”

“Estar tranquilo Diane!” Margarita shouts. Diane D worriedly looks at Margarita as Margarita shouts to her, “Vamos!”

Diane D looks forward as Grandpa Mike shouts, “Okay everybody! Let’s get Diane and Michael to the plane!” Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Tonio, Marilyn, Gracy and the rest of the family continue to pull Diane D and Michael towards the airport terminal as the rest of their family follow them pulling and carrying their luggage.

The following day, Junior, Zaviar and Gwendolyn are sitting inside the control room of the TV Station again looking at an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D’S FAMILY SENDS HER, HER HUSBAND MICHAEL AND HER COUSIN DANA’S AUNT PATRICIA PACKING! DIANE D’S GRANDFATHER MIKE BANS HER, HER HUSBAND MICHAEL AND HER COUSIN DANA’S AUNT PATRICIA FROM BEING AROUND DANA! “Yo,” Zaviar says. “This article says that Diane D’s family sent her, her husband Michael and her cousin Dana’s Aunt Patricia packing yesterday!”

“Oh yeah?” Junior asks.

“Yeah! First the family sent her cousin Dana’s Aunt Patricia packing back to Jamaica yesterday, then after that, the family sent Diane D and her husband Michael packing to the Dominican Republic!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah! This article says that Diane D’s family drove her cousin Dana’s Aunt Patricia to the airport and stayed there until Dana’s Aunt Patricia got on that plane! They made sure she got on that flight back to Jamaica, then after that, they drove Diane D and her husband Michael to the airport and stayed there until Diane D and her husband Michael got on that plane to the Dominican Republic!”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah!”

“Why did Diane D’s family send her cousin Dana’s Aunt Patricia packing back to Jamaica,” Gwendolyn asks. “And why did they send Diane D and her husband Michael packing to the Dominican Republic?”

“Because of all this scandal of Diane D’s husband getting horny when he saw Dana laying on the bed sleeping, then woke her up and had sex with her and accidentally knocks her up, getting her pregnant! According to this police report and rumors at the hospital where Diane D works at, Diane D flips out when she allegedly finds out, that her own husband accidentally gets her own cousin pregnant a second time, then allegedly tries to abort the unborn baby out of her own cousin herself a second time, then later gets arrested for it! Later on, Dana winds up getting an abortion by a real doctor, then Dana’s Aunt Patricia down in Jamaica hears about the abortion and comes all the way up from Jamaica, she later comes along with breast pumps and milk storage bottles planning to collect breast milk from Dana so she can sell it to a milk bank, but Diane D stops her, then Dana’s Aunt Patricia and Diane D wind up going at it getting into a physical altercation inside the grandparents’ house, then Dana’s Aunt Patricia goes behind her family’s back with the breast pumps and milk storage bottles and collects breast milk from Dana anyway and winds up succeeding in selling it to a milk bank and actually gets paid for it, then later comes in the house with shopping bags of new milk storage bottles and runs right into Diane D inside the house. Diane D sees the milk storage bottles inside the shopping bags realizing, that Dana's Aunt Patricia is planning to collect breast milk from Dana, then Diane D and Dana's Aunt Patricia go at it again getting into another physical altercation! The rest of the family burst into the house and try to break Diane D and Dana's Aunt Patricia apart causing the shopping bags to rip apart, causing everything inside the bags including a soda bottle to fall and drop on the floor! Then Dana's Aunt Patricia picks the soda bottle off the floor and clobbers Diane D right on the head with the soda bottle causing Diane D to fall out on the floor!"

"Oh my God!"

"Diane D winds up in the ambulance then taken to the hospital. So after all of this, Diane D's grandfather Mike decides to ban Diane D, her husband Michael and her cousin Dana's Aunt Patricia from being around Dana, sending Dana's Aunt Patricia away back to Jamaica, then sending Diane D and her husband Michael away to the Dominican Republic."

"Wow. It sounds like Diane D's grandfather Mike kicked Diane D, her husband Michael and her cousin Dana's Aunt Patricia out of the country just to keep them away from Dana."

"It certainly seems that way. You don't mess with Grandpa Mike. I heard he wants to keep all three of them away from Dana for a while, especially Diane D's husband."

"Oh yeah? Why especially Diane D's husband?"

"Because Diane D's husband is the one who started this whole entire thing by allegedly having sex with Dana and getting her pregnant. If he never had sex with Dana and got her pregnant, none of this would be happening, but since he allegedly did have sex with Dana, I consider him a very lucky guy."

"You consider him a lucky guy too?"

"I sure do."

"It seems like a lot of men are considering him a lucky guy."

"Because he's having sex with both his wife Diane D and her cousin Dana as well. Diane D and her cousin Dana are both gorgeous! I would like to have sex with both of them myself just like Diane D's husband is doing."

"Yeah me too," Junior says. "To tell you the truth, if Dana needed to get rid of that breast milk, her Aunt Patricia didn't have to come all the way from Jamaica to get rid of the breast milk for her, I would have gladly gotten rid of the breast milk for Dana, she could have breast fed me! I wouldn't mind her breast feeding me, she can breast feed me anytime."

"She can breast feed me too," Zaviar says. "If Diane D had any breast milk, she can breast feed me too!"

"Oh Diane D is too busy playing doctor," Junior laughs and says. "First of all, she allegedly tried to make herself a doctor by trying to give her cousin Dana an abortion herself, when that didn't work out, she allegedly tried to make herself a doctor by trying to give her husband a vasectomy!"

"Wow. I wouldn't mind playing doctor with Diane D. I would love to become HER personal doctor. I would love to become Dana's personal doctor too."

"Yeah me too. They both can call me Doctor Feel Good." Junior and Zaviar throw their fists in the air and shout, “Woo woo, woo woo!” Gwendolyn looks at Junior and Zaviar as she nods her head.

Around three weeks later, there is Caribbean Festival going on inside a park. There is a big crowd of people there. Caribbean music is playing. There is Caribbean food laying on tables being served to the people. Christine and some members of her family are preparing some food.

Several yards away, Dana appears dressed in dark leggings, thick black shoes, a short dark blazer and her pony tail at the bottom of her head all loosed around her back and shoulders. She is surrounded by a lot of her Jamaican relatives, Tony, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda, Judy, Teresa and Joseph.

Several yards away, a woman in the crowd looks towards Dana. She says, “Hey! There goes Diane D’s cousin Dana.” People in the crowd turn to look. They are surprised to Dana.

“Where’s she been?” a man in the crowd asks. “We haven’t seen or heard from her since the scandal about Diane D trying to abort her unborn baby.”

“No we haven’t.” The crowd continues to look towards Dana.

Dana turns from her Jamaican relatives, Tony, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda, Judy, Teresa and Joseph and starts to walk towards Christine’s direction. Tony, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda, Judy, Teresa and Joseph turn and follow Dana. They continue to surround Dana and walk with her as she continues to walk towards Christine.

Dana approaches Christine. Christine turns around towards Dana. She and Dana give each other a warm hug and kiss. Christine then says to Dana, “How’re you feeling baby? You feeling alright?”

“I’m okay Mom,” Dana says.

“Are you sure?”

“Yeah, I’m sure.”

“Good.”

Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy approach Christine. Several Jamaican female friends of Christine’s excitingly approach Dana and shout, “Dana!” One of the women gives Dana a hug. She then lets go of Dana and says, “Hey Dana. So how you feeling? Are you okay baby?”

“Yeah I’m okay Miss Francis,” Dana says.

“You are?”

“Yeah. I’m alright.”

“You sure?”

“I’m sure Miss Francis.”

“That’s good baby.” The woman hugs Dana again.

Another woman says, “Don’t be so stingy Francis. I want to give Dana a hug too.” The woman says to Dana, “Hey Miss Green Eyes!” Everyone laughs. The woman gives Dana a big hug as the rest of the crowd approach near Dana looking on. The woman then lets go of Dana and says, “Aauuh Dana. Are you okay?”

"I'm fine," Dana says.

"Are you sure?"

"Yeah I'm sure."

"Good."

More of Christine's friends hug Dana and say, "Aauuh." One of the women lets go of Dana and says, "How you feeling baby?"

"I'm okay," Dana says."

"That's good."

"Wow," a fourth Jamaican woman says. "You look good Dana."

"She always looks good, and sexy too."

"You got that right." The women laugh.

Some Jamaican male friends of Christine's approach Dana and give her hugs too. They, Christine's female friends, Tony, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda, Judy, Teresa and Joseph and the rest of the crowd all surround Dana looking on at her. A fifth Jamaican woman asks Dana, "So Dana, how's Diane doing?"

"She's okay," Dana says.

"She is?"

"Yeah."

"That's good. Is she still in the Dominican Republic?"

"Yeah."

"When was the last time you spoke with her?" the other woman asks.

"This morning. I spoke to her on the phone."

"You did?"

"Yeah."

"How long did y'all talk on the phone for?"

"We spoke on the phone for around two hours."

"Two hours?"

"Yeah."

"That's good."

"Who's in the Dominican Republic with her besides her husband?" the third woman asks.

"Her mom and dad are down their with her."

"They are?"

"Yeah. So are her brothers."

"Her brothers are down their too?"

"Yeah."

"That's nice."

"What about Diane's other grandparents Margarita and Tomas?" Francis asks. "Where are they?"

"They're still here."

"They are?"

"Yeah."

"Oh, okay."

"So when are Diane and her family coming back?"

"They were supposed to come back next week, but my grandpa is not allowing Diane to come back next week."

“Who, your grandfather Mike?”
“Yeah.”
“He’s not letting Diane come back?”
“No.”
“Why not?”
“He told Diane she has to stay down there for two extra weeks.”
“He told her she has to stay down there for two extra weeks?”
“Yeah. He told her relatives down there not to send her back here yet.”
“He did?”
“Yeah.”
“How come?”
“I don’t know, ask my mom.”
“Okay.” The woman turns to Christine and asks, “Hey Christine. How come your father in-law Mike told Diane’s relatives down in the Dominican Republic not to send her back here yet?”
“Oh he’s still mad at Diane because she and my sister Patricia were fighting,” Christine says. “Especially they were fighting right inside his house, not only once, but twice!”
“Yeah we all heard. So he send them away because of it?”
“He sure did.”
“I see. So instead of Diane coming back next week, your father in-law added an extra two weeks behind that and now Diane is coming back in three weeks, right?”
“Yeah.”
“How does she feel about it?”
“She’s not happy about it. She got on the phone and started fussing and complaining to her grandfather about him adding an extra two weeks to her stay down there.”
“She did?”
“Yeah. She told him it’s not right or fair that he’s keeping her from her health and fitness class and from her personal training clients.”
“She told your father in-law that?”
“Yeah.”
“Then what did your father in-law say or do?”
“He told Diane if she keeps popping that lip, he’s going to add another two weeks on top of the two extra weeks he already added.”
“Oh yeah?”
“Yeah.”
“Then what did Diane say or do?”
“She started fussing and complaining even more.”
“She did?”
“Yeah.”
“Then what did your father in-law say or do?”
“He told Diane does she want to try for an extra three weeks instead of an extra two?”
“Oh no. Then what did Diane say or do?”
“Oh she shut up then.”
“She did?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow, I bet she did,” the third woman says as she and the other women laugh a little.

“But my father in-law constantly calls down to the Dominican Republic to check on Diane to make sure she’s alright, to make sure she’s taking her medication and to see if she needs anything.”

“He does?”

“He sure does. He also calls down to Jamaica to check on my sister Patricia to make sure she’s okay and to see if she needs anything.”

“He does that for your sister too?”

“He sure does.”

“Wow that’s nice of him. I bet your sister Patricia tells your father in-law that she needs everything under the sun.”

“No, my father in-law knows what not to give her.”

“Wow. But it’s still nice of him to check on both your sister and Diane.”

“It is.” Christine smiles and turns away to Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda as the first woman turns back to Dana and asks, “Hey Dana. What about your Aunt Patricia? Is she still in Jamaica?”

“Yeah she’s still down there,” Dana says.

“Oh yeah? How’s she doing?”

“She doing okay.”

“That’s good. When she coming back?”

“I don’t know, ask my mom.”

“Okay.” The woman turns back to Christine and asks, “Hey Christine. When’s your sister Patricia coming back from Jamaica?”

“When’s Patricia coming back?”

“Yeah.”

“No time soon I hope.”

“You hope no time soon?”

“That’s riiight. Please. Let’s just leave Patricia, right where she is for now.” The women laugh a little.

Another Jamaican woman holding a little dark skinned 1-year old boy approaches Dana and says, “Hey Dana. You remember my nephew Bertrude right?”

Dana frowns as she looks at the little boy and says, “Yeah I remember him.”

“He still likes your green eye color. Can he take a picture with you?”

“I guess.”

“Thanks. Can you hold him while he and you take a picture together.” The lady hands Dana her nephew Bertrude. Dana holds and carries Bertrude. She looks at Bertrude. She then turns him away from herself and faces him towards the woman as the woman stands several feet from them reaching into her pocket.

The woman pulls her camera out of her pocket.

Dana looks at the camera as the woman holds the camera up towards her and Bertrude.

The woman is about to snap a picture of Dana and Bertrude and shouts, “You ready?!”

The woman calls out, "Over here Bertrude! Look over here!"

Bertrude turns his head towards the woman.

As the woman gets ready to snap a picture, Bertrude turns his head and looks back at Dana's face again.

The woman calls out again and says, "Look this way Bertrude! Look over here!"

Bertrude does not turn to look at the woman. He continues to stare at Dana's face, especially her eyes. Dana frustratingly looks down at Bertrude as she continues to hold him. She then shouts to him, "Come on baby, stop looking at me! Look that way at the camera!" as she points to the woman. Bertrude turns his head back towards the woman. He suddenly turns his head back towards Dana. He continues to stare at Dana's face. He suddenly reaches for Dana's face and tries to touch her eyes, but his hands accidentally touches her face and puts a little powder mess on her face. Dana frustrating removes Bertrude's hand from off her face.

"I'm sorry Dana!" the woman shouts. "He's still trying to figure out if your green eye color is real!" Dana frustratingly looks down at Bertrude again as everyone laughs a little.

Judy approaches Dana and says, "Aauhhh, he messed up your face Dana. It looks like you got some kind of powder mess on your face. Here's a mirror?" Judy takes a small mirror out of her bag. She holds the mirror up to Dana's face. Dana looks in the mirror as she taps the powder off her face.

"You need to wipe it off good Dana," Aunt Laura says. Aunt Laura and the rest of the family approach Dana and are about to help her wipe her face, but Dana continues to look in the mirror tapping the powder off her face as she continues to hold Bertrude. Dana finishes tapping the powder off her face. Everybody then steps back from her. Dana looks back down at Bertrude.

The lady holding the camera shouts, "You need a tissue?!"

Dana looks up towards the lady and shouts, "No! Just hurry up and take the picture!"

"Alright alright." The woman holds the camera out to Bertrude and Dana and tries to snap a picture of them again as the crowd looks on.

Bertrude does not look at the woman. He continues to look at Dana admiring her face. Dana continues to tap the powder off her face as she looks towards the camera.

"Over here Bertrude!" the woman shouts. "Over here!"

Bertrude turns his head and looks at the woman again as Dana looks towards the camera continuing to tap the powder off her face. Suddenly Bertrude turns his head and looks back at Dana's face again. Dana frustrating looks back down at Bertrude.

"This is not going to work!" the woman shouts. "He's more interested in looking at your green eyes than getting a picture taken!"

"So you're not gonna snap the picture?!" Dana shouts.

"No, he won't look this way! He keeps looking at you!"

"Okay come get him!" Dana frustratingly shouts as the crowd laughs a little.

"Okay!" The woman starts to walk towards Dana.

The woman approaches Dana as Dana frustratingly looks down at Bertrude again then hands Bertrude back to the woman. Dana then turns towards Christine as she and Christine quietly talk with each other. Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda then talk with Dana and Christine. Dana then turns away from Christine and back towards Tony, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, Judy, Teresa, Joseph and her Jamaican relatives and shouts, “Okay guys! We’re out!” Dana turns and walks away with Tony, Aunt Celeste, Aunt Jean, Aunt Laura, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda, Judy, her other Jamaican relatives, Teresa and Joseph as the rest of the crowd continues to look on towards her.

Diane D Returns From The Dominican Republic

It is now three weeks later. Diane D and Michael are back from the Dominican Republic. They are walking down the hallway of the Diaz-Davidson Organization carrying some bags as Diane D wears a short mini-skirt bearing her muscular legs, a matching short jacket, a matching cap on her head and thick black shoes as she holds a pair of sunglasses. Staff members excitedly approach Diane D and Michael as Stephanie says, “Hey Diane! Hey Michael! Nice to see you two again!”

“Yeah, welcome back!” Alex says.

“Thanks guys,” Michael says.

“How was the Dominican Republic?”

“Pretty good,” Diane D says.

“It was great down there,” Michael says. “We had a wonderful time there.”

“That’s good,” Stephanie says. “I can’t wait to travel there myself.”

“Yeah me too,” Evette says.

“So you all were suppose to come back two weeks ago, but we heard your grandfather Mike made you stay two extra weeks.”

“Yeah he did,” Diane D says.

“Wow. Well we’re glad to have you all back.”

“Yeah,” the rest of the staff says.

“So Diane,” Harvey says. “Is it true that you won’t be working at the hospital anymore?”

“Yes it’s true,” Diane D says.

“Why won’t you be working at the hospital anymore?”

“Grandma and Grandpa made me resign from there.”

“Sorry to hear about that. You know why they made you resign from there?”

“They claim the employees at the hospital are afraid to work around me.”

“Yeah, that’s what we heard Diane,” Alex says. “We heard those hospital employees didn’t feel safe with you working there, after they all heard the story about you and that storage room door.”

“I know. I don’t know what the hell they’re so afraid of, I don’t plan on attacking any of them! I have no reason to attack them, I’m not even thinking about any of them! They’re the least on my mind, so I don’t know why they would even think that I would want to attack them.”

“Wow. We’re sorry all of that happened with you. I’m sorry you won’t be working at the hospital anymore because I know you really liked working there.”

“I did like working there Alex, but Grandma, Grandpa and the hospital employees don’t trust me working there.”

“We know. We hear Margarita and Tomas are planning to have you work inside one of their offices again.”

“Yes that’s what they’re planning to have me do.”

“How do you feel about that?”

“Well again, I feel like I’m being punished for something I didn’t do.”

“Something you didn’t do? You don’t think you kung fu kicked that storage room door at the hospital?”

“No I don’t think I did. I’ve seen that storage room door after the police released me into my family’s custody. They brought me, Michael, my family and my doctor to the back clinic hallway to show us the storage room door and the storage room.”

“Yeah we heard. So what did you see?”

“I saw the storage room door. I saw how bad it was damaged.”

“You did?”

“Yes I did.”

“How bad was it?”

“Real bad. And I saw how bad the storage room was damaged too.”

“You did?”

“Yeah.”

“How bad was the storage room?”

“Real bad. It looked like it was vandalized or something.”

“Vandalized?”

“Yeah,” Michael says. “The door was even knocked right off its hinges.”

“Yeah we heard. Wow. Who do you think would vandalize that storage room or knocked the door right off its hinges?”

“We don’t know, we have no idea.”

“Wow. I was tempted to go to the hospital to see that damaged storage room door and the damaged storage room for myself, but I never got a chance to go there. I was kind of afraid to see it.”

“Yeah me too,” Stephanie says.

“So what happened when they showed you the damaged storage room and the damaged door Diane?” Norman asks.

“My doctor and the detective wanted to see if I can remember anything,” Diane D says.

“Well did you remember anything when you saw the storage room door and the storage room?”

“No, I remember nothing about it.”

“Nothing at all? You don’t remember being in that area?”

“No I don’t remember being in that area at all. I remember being on the second floor level of the back clinic area, but not the first floor level. Besides, I don’t believe anybody kung fu kicked that storage room door.”

“You don’t?” Alex asks.

“No.”

“Why not?”

“Because by the way it looked! When I saw the damaged storage room door and the damaged storage room, I told my family and the police that no one in this world is that strong or powerful to do that kind of damage to a door or to a room! Something else happened to that storage room door and something else happened to that storage room.”

“Well what do you think happened to it?”

“I don’t know, it looked like a tornado went through there.”

“A tornado?”

“That’s what it looked like to me.”

“Wow.”

“What about you Michael?” Harvey asks. “What do you think happened to the storage room door and to the storage room?”

“Like Diane said,” Michael says. “It does look like a tornado or hurricane bust through the door and went right through that room.”

“My God.”

“Listen everybody,” Diane D says. “Whatever happened to that storage room door or to that storage room, I had nothing to do with it, absolutely nothing.”

“Well Diane, maybe it’s possible that you were sleepwalking and you might have actually kung fu kicked that storage room door in your sleep, but didn’t know it?”

“Yeah that’s what that detective said. Even if I was sleepwalking Harvey, I’m still not that strong or powerful to kung fu kick a stuck door or do damage to a room like that even in my sleep!”

“So if you had nothing to do with the storage room door or the storage room Diane, why are the hospital employees afraid to work around you then?”

“Because they rather choose to believe those two damn eye witnesses who are both lying.”

“So if it’s not true that you kung fu kicked that storage room door or damaged that storage room, why are your grandparents making you resign from the hospital then?” Alex asks.

“Because they’re punishing me for something I didn’t do! But, what else is new? They’re always punishing me for something I didn’t do. I’m getting quite used to it by now.”

“Sorry about that Diane.”

“That’s okay. Well I have to get to the office and wait for my family to come in there so they can give me a new assignment.”

“Give you a new assignment?”

“Yeah. And they’re going to talk about me and the girls upcoming performance in Germany.”

“Oh yeah that’s right. You and the girls are going to perform in Germany next!”

“Yeah.”

“Wow that sounds exciting Diane!” Evette says. “You just came back from the Dominican Republic, and now you’re setting off to Germany soon, huh?”

“Yeah I guess.”

“Well where is your family? We haven’t seen them yet.”

“They’re all outside coming out of my grandfather Mike’s van.”

“What!” the staff members say.

“Your grandfather Mike is outside?” Harvey asks.

“Yeah,” Diane D says. “So is my grandma Gracy.”

“Your grandma Gracy is outside too?”

“Yeah.”

“Are she and your grandfather Mike just dropping your family off, or are they coming in here?” Alex asks.

“They’re coming in here.”

“They are?”

“Yeah.”

“How come?” Stephanie asks.

“To check up on me.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow Diane,” Evette says. “I wouldn’t want to run across your grandfather Mike if he comes in here. Now your grandmother Gracy is a different story, I wouldn’t mind running across her, but not your grandfather Mike.”

“Not my grandfather Mike?”

“No.”

“Why not?”

“Because he sounds like a pretty tough guy.”

“Well, he is. He, my grandmother Gracy and the rest of my family are on their way in here.”

“Okay. Anyway Diane, welcome back. It’s nice to see you again. You look great.”

“Thanks.” Diane D turns to Michael and says, “Let’s go to the office Michael, shall we?”

“Okay Diane,” Michael says. Michael turns to the staff members and says, “See you guys later.”

“Okay,” the staff members say.

Diane D and Michael walk away down the hallway as the staff members turn and puzzled look on at them.

Diane D and Michael continue to walk down the hallway. They then turn and disappear around the corner.

The staff members continue to puzzled look down the hallway. “Well what do you all think?” Harvey asks. “Do you all think she actually kung fu kicked that storage room door, but just doesn’t remember it?”

“I think it’s a strong possibility Harvey,” Alex says.

“Yeah me too,” Evette says. “Because if Diane doesn’t remember all the other past incidents about herself attacking and kung fu kicking other people or objects, then what would make this recent incident any different? I think she actually did kung fu kick that storage room door, but just doesn’t remember it. I think history repeated itself.”

“I think so too. I feel real bad for Diane.”

“I feel bad for her too,” Stephanie says. “I think it’s so sad that she doesn’t remember her own actions whenever she loses her cool!”

“I think it’s sad too,” Norman says, “but what can we do?”

“The only thing we can do, is just be there for Diane,” Alex says. “I hope she takes her medication like she’s supposed to.”

“I hope so too.” The staff members sadly continue to look down the hallway.

Evette then says, “Come on. Let’s get out of here before we run into her grandfather Mike.”

“Okay,” Stephanie says. Stephanie and the rest of the staff turn and walk away.

Diane D Does An Eerie Performance In Germany

It is three months later. Inside a school office in New York, one of the female staff members inside the school picks up the telephone receiver and dials a number. She listens into the telephone receiver. She then speaks into it and says, "Hello? Is this the Diaz-Davidson Organization?"

"Yes it is," Stephanie says from the other end.

"Well my name is Elizabeth Carrington. I work in the Junior High School. I would like to speak to Diane D. Is she there?"

"Oh I'm sorry, Diane is not in town right now. She and her family left the country and flew to Germany a few days ago. They're gonna perform a show over there."

"They all went to Germany to perform a show?"

"Yes."

"How long will they all be there?"

"They're gonna be there for around two or three weeks. Then they'll be back here."

"Oh yeah? Isn't Diane D on probation? How can Diane D go to Germany if she's on probation?"

"The family got permission from her parole officer for her to go to Germany to do a show so that's where they all went."

"Oh yeah? Isn't Diane D's cousin Dana in her family's custody? How can Diane D and her family go to Germany if her cousin Dana is in their custody?"

"They took Dana to Germany with them."

"They did?"

"Yeah."

"Oh I see. Well I just wanted to know if Diane D can come to our school."

"Come to your school?"

"Yeah."

"Diane doesn't come to schools anymore after that hoax that was pulled on her and her family about the little boy who has leukemia. She hasn't forgiven about herself and her family being lied to like that."

"I know and I'm sorry she and her family were lied to about the little boy who has leukemia, but I thought maybe my school and I can try to change her mind."

"Well you're gonna have to wait until Diane and her family all come back from Germany to speak to her family about it.”

“Okay when they come back to town, I’ll call back.”

“Okay no problem.”

“By.”

“By now.”

GERMANY

It is a week later. Mary, Margarita, Barry, Tomas, Tonio, Marilyn, Gracy and Grandpa Mike and two staff members are standing inside a lobby of a German hotel as the identical twins Mike and Mitch who are now around 14-years old stand in front of them talking with them. Around 10 teen German boys who are Mike and Mitch’s friends surround Mike and Mitch as Mike and Mitch talk with Mary, Margarita, Barry, Tomas, still being very loud and rowdy as Mitch says, “Miss Margarita and Mister Tomas, Mom and Dad said when we come back to the States, we can stay with you guys again if we want to.”

“Stay with us again if you want to?” Tomas says.

“Yeah,” Mike says. “They just said it a little while ago.”

“Is that right?”

“Yeah.”

“Well what about what we want guys?” Margarita says.

“But Miss Margarita, we already made plans to come stay with you when we come back to the states next year.”

“You already made plans,” Barry asks.

“Yeah.”

“Or we can stay with Miss Gracy and Mister Mike when we come back to the states,” Mitch says.

“Stay with us?” Gracy asks.

“Yeah.”

“Our house is already packed guys,” Grandpa Mike says.

“It is?”

“Yes indeed.”

“Then we’ll just stay with Miss Margarita and Mister Tomas again,” Mike says.

“Our house is already packed too,” Tomas says.

“But Mister Tomas.” Mike and Mitch continue to talk with Margarita, Tomas, Mary and Barry.

The following day, the Dianettes are inside the hotel room. They have black dance shirts and leggings laying all on the hotel bed as Miranda says, “Okay girls. We all decided to wear these dance outfits for our performance next week.”

“And we’re going to have the bows in our hair when we perform,” Bernice says. “Miranda will wear the pink bow, Charlotte will wear the yellow one, Lonna you will wear the blue bow, Kelly will wear the orange one, Nancy will wear the red one and I will wear the green one.”

“Okay,” Nancy, Charlotte, Lonna and Kelly says.

“Which bow are we going to put on Diane’s hair again?” Lonna asks.

“The purple one,” Nancy says.

“Where is it?”

The Dianettes laugh a little.

It is one week later on a Saturday afternoon. The hotel room is crowded with Margarita, Tomas, Mary, Barry, Tonio, Marilyn, Nicolas, Mickey, Diane D, Michael, the Dianettes, Mike and Mitch and some of their German friends. Margarita starts to shout to everyone, “Okay now listen up everybody!” The entire crowd listens to Margarita as Margarita shouts, “We have to do a show in the park tonight, are we ready?!”

“Yeah we’re ready!” everyone shouts.

“Good!”

Mike and Mitch approach Margarita as Mike asks, “Who’s going to perform first Miss Margarita?”

“Nicolas and Mickey are going to perform first, then you guys will perform after them.” Margarita looks at everyone else and shouts, “Okay let’s go everybody!” Everyone turns and heads towards the doorway.

THE PARK:

A large crowd is in an open field in a park. It is packed full of excited people. The evening sky is partly cloudy. The sun is about to set as a large crowd of around five thousand cheering German spectators including teens, young adults, older adults and seniors are gathered standing shoulder to shoulder on a somewhat hill, facing down the hill looking towards a large low oval shaped stage as they half-way surround it. The stage is half-way surrounded by a barrier between the crowd and the stage with four cameramen spread out at the edge of the stage pointing cameras towards the center of the stage and several male security guards at the edge of the stage near the crowd. Behind the stage is a big 30 feet arch. Behind the arch are some dark bushes, weeds and trees. There are a lot of people holding large banners and large signs high in the air that read, ‘THE DIAZ-DAVIDSON ORGANIZATION’ with very large bold letters printed on them.

There are around three or four luxury trailers parked away from the crowd. Diane D and the Dianettes, who are all dressed in the black dance outfits and colored bows at the end of their long thick braids, Nicolas, Mickey, Michael, the Band members, Mike, Mitch and ten of the Youth Show performers hurry down a pathway in the park towards the trailers.

Inside one of the trailers are chairs facing a large TV monitor. Mary, Margarita, Barry, Tomas, Tonio, Marilyn, Grandpa Mike and two staff members are standing around talking. The trailer door suddenly opens. Diane D, the Dianettes, Nicolas, Mickey, Michael, the Band members, Mike, Mitch and the Youth Show performers enter into the trailer. Barry turns to them and says, “Okay Nicolas and Mickey, you guys are the first to go on. They’re about to announce your names. Head out there now.”

“Okay Dad,” Nicolas says as he and Mickey turn and hurry back out the trailer.

Mary turns to Diane D and the Dianettes and says, “How about you girls? Are you girls ready to perform?”

“Yeah we’re ready Mom,” Diane D says.

“Okay.” Mary, Diane D, the Dianettes and everyone else turn and walk towards the chairs that are facing the TV Monitor.

Grandpa Mike heads to another part of the trailer and shouts, “I’m going to get a beer out of the refrigerator! Who wants one?!”

Tomas turns towards Grandpa Mike and shouts, “They got any Scotch in there Mike?!”

“I’ll take a look Tomas!” Grandpa Mike says as he continues to walk away.

Everyone else sits down on the chairs and face the TV monitor.

Back out in the park, a male German announcer around his late 40’s comes on the stage with a microphone in his hand. He speaks into the microphone and shouts, “Ladies and gentlemen The Diaz-Davidson Organization is here!” The crowd starts to cheer! The announcer then says, “Their first performance is ready to come out! Ladies and gentlemen, here are Nicolas and Mickey the Diaz-Davidson Brothers!” The crowd screams and cheers.

Nicolas and Mickey come out on the stage with a guitar in each of their hands. They wave to the crowd as they walk to the center of the stage with their guitars. They sit on two stools that are on the stage. Nicolas and Mickey start to play the guitars and sing some tunes.

After 4 minutes, Nicolas and Mickey finish their act. The crowd cheers and applauds. Nicolas and Mickey stand and take a bow. They turn and wave to the crowd as they leave the stage. The announcer comes back on stage. He speaks into the microphone and shouts, “Let’s give it up one more time for Nicolas and Mickey The Diaz-Davidson Brothers!” The crowd cheers again. The announcer then says, “Okay ladies and gentleman, we have another wonderful performance, by some talented youths!” The crowd screams and cheers! The announcer then says, “Ladies and gentlemen The Diaz-Davidson Organization presents Mike and Mitch and the Diaz-Davidson Youth Show Performers!” The crowd cheers as Mike, Mitch and the ten German teenage boys come out on stage wearing white T-shirts and dungarees. Music starts to play. Mike, Mitch and the ten German teenage boys start to perform a break dance routine.

After four minutes, Mike, Mitch and the German teenage boys finish their act. The crowd cheers. Mike, Mitch and the German teenage boys throw their fists in the air towards the crowd as they turn and leave the stage. The announcer comes back on stage. He speaks into the microphone and says, “Wow what a great performance that was! Let’s give it up again for Mike and Mitch and the Youth Show Performers!” The crowd cheers and applauds again as the announcer says, “Okay ladies and gentlemen! We have another wonderful performance! Ladies and gentlemen, The Diaz-Davidson Organization presents Michael and The Diaz-Davidson Band!” The crowd jumps and cheers louder.

Michael and his band members come out on the stage. The crowd cheers! Michael and his band members wave to the crowd. They start to play the instruments. The crowd cheers and becomes excited! Michael and The Band continue to perform.

After four minutes, Michael and The Band finish their performance. The crowd cheers. Michael and The Band turn and wave to the crowd as they leave the stage. The announcer comes back on stage. He speaks into the microphone and says, "Wow what a great performance! Let's give it up again for Michael and The Diaz-Davidson Band!" The crowd cheers and applauds again! The announcer then shouts, "Okay ladies and gentleman, we have another wonderful performance! Ladies and gentlemen, here performing a Jazz Ballet called 'The Illusions Of Zero Gravity' are Diane D, The Dianettes and the Howard Jones Ballet!" The crowd screams and cheers as chill music starts to play. Diane D, The Dianettes and seven male dancers, some who are of black and others of different ethnicities come out on stage dancing and twirling. Diane D and each of the Dianettes have a male partner as they and their male partners turn and swirl. Diane D and each of the Dianettes are then each lifted into the air by the male dancers. The crowd calls out to Diane D and the Dianettes as Diane D and the Dianettes continue their dance performance. The music then changes to a haunting jazz music. The Howard Jones dancers twirl towards front of the stage as Diane D and the Dianettes twirl towards the back. They all dance, twirl and spin for a short while. Then the Howard Jones dancers twirl towards the back of the stage as Diane D and the Dianettes twirl towards the front. The Howard Jones dancers twirl off the stage as Diane D and the Dianettes are left alone, twirling around on the stage with Diane D in the front. Diane D and the Dianettes perform slow ballet and yoga movements. They then stand on their hands, performing slow acrobatic skills. They get back up on their feet. Diane D and the Dianettes separate as Diane D and three of the Dianettes swirl to the left as the other three Dianettes swirl to the right. Diane D and the Dianettes come back together as Diane D and three of the Dianettes swirl back to the center of the stage and the other three Dianettes swirl back to the center. They all come together again with Diane D in the front and the Dianettes standing in a straight line behind her. They slowly spread their feet apart. They twirl their arms together in a motion of a caterpillar. They slowly bring their feet together. As they all bring their feet together, they tip toe and slowly raise their bodies up. As they continue to tip toe, their bodies continue to raise up in the air, appearing to levitate in thin air. The crowd becomes shock and astonished as Diane D and the Dianettes slowly bring their bodies back down then spread their feet apart. They continue to spread their feet further and further apart spreading their legs apart as they all go down into a split position. They all then lean forward as Diane D lays her head on the stage floor with her eyes closed, Charlotte leans her head on Diane D's back with her eyes closed, Nancy leans her head on Charlotte's back with here eyes closed, Kelly leans her head on Nancy's back with her eyes closed, Miranda leans her head on Kelly's back with her eyes closed, Lonna leans her head on Miranda's back with here eyes closed and Bernice leans her head on Lonna's back with her eyes closed. The music softens as Diane D and the Dianettes all appear to be sound asleep as they lay on each others' back with their eyes closed. The music changes as the Howard Jones dancers come back out on stage twirling. The Howard Jones dancers approach sleeping Diane D and the Dianettes. One shouts to the others, "Hey! We got to wake up these sleeping beauties!"

"Yyii!!" shouts another male dancer. Each male dancer approach each girl and lift them up. Diane D and the Dianettes appear to have awoken out of their sleep as they swirl and twirl with the male dancers. They all dance, twirl and spin for a short while. The Howard Jones dancers twirl towards the front of the stage as Diane D and the Dianettes twirl towards the back. Diane D and the Dianettes twirl off the stage as the Howard Jones Dancers are left alone, twirling around on the stage.

Inside the lobby of a hotel, a small crowd of people are standing around anxious. A woman in the crowd looks to the side and says, "Hey, isn't that Diane D's grandmother and aunt?!"

A man in the crowd looks to the side and says, "Yeah that is them!"

"Maybe we can speak to them about getting last minute tickets!"

"Yeah let's go!" The people hurry off.

Gracy and Aunt Celeste are walking across the lobby as the crowd of people anxiously approach them. "Hi!" the crowd of people shout. Gracy and Aunt Celeste stop and turn to the people as the woman says, "You're Diane D's grandmother and aunt aren't you?"

"Yes we are," Aunt Celeste says. "What can we do for you?"

"Well we wanted to know if we can hurry and purchase last minute tickets to see Diane D and the Dianettes' show before their show is over, so we came here to the hotel real quick because we all know this is where you all are staying. When we came here in the lobby, we saw your other granddaughter and niece Dana way down the other end of the lobby. We all got excited when we saw Dana, so we decided to approach her. When we approached her, it seemed like she got very annoyed. We asked her how's she doing and told her it's nice to see her. Then we asked Dana does she know whether or not her family have any last minute tickets for the show before the show is over. Then she snapped at us and told us not to bother her. Then she just turned and walked away from us."

"She did?"

"Yeah," one of the men says. "We all got upset about it."

"What!" Gracy says. "You know this is the third time today that people have complained to our family that Dana's been rude to them when they approach her."

"It is?"

"Yes! We can't be having this. We can't be having Dana being rude to the public every time they approach her."

"I know," Aunt Celeste says. "Where is Dana?"

"We saw her go in one of the rooms down the hall," the woman says.

"Well I'm gonna go in that back room and straighten her out." Aunt Celeste turns and walks away from everybody as everyone turns and stare at her.

The people then turn to Gracy as the woman asks, "So does your family have last minute tickets to see Diane D and the Dianettes' show?"

"Yes Celeste have extra last minute tickets," Gracy says. "When she comes back here, you can buy the tickets from her."

"Alright, good!" the people say.

"Don't be raising your voice at me!" Aunt Celeste voice shouts from the room.

Gracy and the crowd of people turn their heads towards the hallway where the bickering sound is coming from.

“Yo what the fuck #*(**&^^$#$^%!” Dana’s voice shouts from the room again. “Yo who the fuck #*(**&^^$#$^%! How the fuck #*(**&^ ^$#$^%! So why the fuck #*(**&^^$#$^%! #*(**&^^$#$^%! Where’s the fuck #*(**&^^$#$^%! So how's the fuck #*(**&^^$#$^%#* (**&^^$ #^%! #*(**&^^$#$^%! Aunt Celeste suddenly comes out of the room. She turns her head back towards the room and shouts, “This is the last time I'm gonna tell you this Dana! I'm just telling you to stay cool!”

Dana comes out of the same room and hollers to Aunt Celeste, “And I'm just telling you, tell those people stay the fuck away from me!” Dana turns away from Aunt Celeste and walks down the hallway. Aunt Celeste angrily stares at Dana as Dana turns and disappears down the hallway.

Aunt Celeste angrily turns back around and heads back to Gracy and the crowd of people.

Gracy and the crowd of people stare at Aunt Celeste. Aunt Celeste approaches Gracy and the crowd of people as Gracy asks, “Is everything okay Celeste?”

“Yeah everything's okay Mom,” Aunt Celeste says. She then whispers in Gracy’s ear and says, “I sure wish we would have left Dana home.”

“I know Celeste, but she’s in our custody. We have to bring her where ever we are.”

“Unfortunately, we do.” Aunt Celeste turns to the crowd of people and says, “Now you all want last minute tickets? I had to get extra last minute tickets made because so many people kept coming asking for last minute tickets we wind up running out of them.”

“Really?” the woman says. “Okay. Sorry about what happened with us and your niece Dana.”

“Yeah,” the man says. “We didn’t mean to annoy her.”

“Oh don’t worry about Dana,” Aunt Celeste says, “I’m not through with her yet. But let’s forget about Dana right now and focus on these last minute tickets so you can see the show.”

“Alriiight!” the crowd happily shouts. “We'll by them now!”

“We still have time to see the show right?” the man asks.

“Yeah the show is still running,” Aunt Celeste says. “It's not over yet. You all can by these discount tickets real quick, then make a quick run to the show.”

“Okay!” the people say.

The cameramen and security guards frighteningly back further away from Diane D!

Diane D turns toward the center of the audience. Her eyes are now half open with most of her eyeballs hidden behind her half closed eyelids. She appears to be in a state of trance as she looks way up towards the back of the audience, giving the back of the audience a stone cold blank look! She throws her left arm and fist up in the air! She suddenly brings her right knee up. Different music starts to play. Diane D stands on her left leg and holds her right leg in the air with her right arm and hand around it. She suddenly looks up as she holds her head back. She then raises her left arm and hand high in the air. She kicks her right leg out and starts to levitate again in a vertical position as her body rises four to five feet in the air!

The crowd continues to scream in fear!

Diane D's body starts to spin in mid air with her head forward and eyes closed again. Her head then falls back, her arms and legs hang from her body as her body continues to spin! She appears to be hanging and spinning by an invisible rope and noose as the crowd continues to scream in fear!

The audience turn around running away out of the field! They are pushing and shoving each other as they desperately try to get away! There is panicking and stampede among the crowd as several people hold their chests, then fall to the grass! Mary, Margarita, Barry, Tomas, Tonio, Marilyn and Grandpa Mike, Nicolas, Mickey, Michael, Aunt Celeste, Gracy and the rest of Diane D's relatives run through the crowd as they hurry towards the stage! They puzzled look at the crowd as the crowd continues to scream and run away! Mary and the rest of Diane D's family then look forward and continue to hurry towards the stage!

As Mary, Margarita, Barry, Tomas and the rest of Diane D's family almost reach the stage, Diane D's body suddenly falls! She quickly waves her arms, hands, legs and feet out and kicks another security guard in the face as she falls! "Aaaaaahh!" the security guard screams and holds his face in pain as Diane D's body drops and lands hard on the stage floor!

Diane D's family finally reach the stage! They see Diane D on the stage floor and shout, "Diane!" They rush right on the large stage and run towards Diane D!

Diane D suddenly lays up on the stage floor as her eyes remain shut. She shakes her head. She then opens her eyes and awakens out of her trance. Her eyes appear as if she has just woken up from a long sleep as she looks around in a daze not seeming to know where she is and not seeming to know what is happening to her. She then grabs her backside and holds herself in pain.

"Diane!" her family shockingly shouts as they continue to rush to her!

Diane D painfully and worriedly looks at her family and the rest of her relatives as they rush to her.

Diane D's family approach her! They bend down on the stage floor to her and shout, "Diane! Diane!" They then grab Diane D. They tightly hold her as they shout to her, "Diane!"

"Estas bien?!" Mary shouts. "Que ha pasado?!"

"Diane!" Margarita shouts. "Hable a nosotros! Diga algo!"

"Diane are you okay?!" Barry shouts. Diane D puzzled looks at her family! "What in the world happened to you?!" Barry shouts. Diane D's eyes are half closed with her head back. Barry then wraps his arm entirely around Diane D. Diane D has her head laid back against Barry's arm as her family worriedly look at her and continue to hold her.

The security guards, the cameramen and other witnesses approach Diane D! Other people rush to Diane D.

Several ambulances arrive in the field. They tend to several people that are on the ground.

The security guards, Diane D's family and people on the stage continue to surround Diane D as three male paramedics rush to them with a stretcher. "Okay everyone let us through!" the paramedics shout. The people look at the paramedics and start to clear out of the way.

The paramedics in the field have several people laying in stretchers. They lift the stretchers and place them into the ambulances.

The paramedics on the stage lift the first security guard who got kicked in the face by Diane D onto a stretcher as they hold a bloody cloth over his face. They quickly walk the stretcher with the security guard away as they continue to hold the bloody cloth over his face. The other three male paramedics have Diane D laying and strapped tightly in a stretcher as they rush her and the stretcher off the stage! Diane D's family, the security officers and cameramen rush and follow off after Diane D's stretcher! Other paramedics lift the second security guard who got kicked in the face by Diane D onto a stretcher as they hold a bloody cloth over his face. They quickly walk the security guard and the stretcher away as they continue to hold the bloody cloth over his face.

Across the grass area, the Dianettes race after Diane D's stretcher as Michael, Nicolas, Mickey, the Diaz-Davidson Band and the Howard Jones Ballet race after the Dianettes! Tons of witnesses race off after Michael, Nicolas, Mickey, the Diaz-Davidson Band and the Howard Jones Ballet!

The paramedics lift Diane D's stretcher and place her into the ambulances. Mary and Barry get into the ambulance. The Dianettes rush to the back of the ambulance! They try to get into the ambulance! The paramedics and security guards pull and hold them back as one of the paramedics says, "I'm sorry you all can't get in there with her, there's no room!" The Dianettes angrily fight off the security guards!

Barry comes out of the ambulance. He tries to calm the Dianettes and shouts, "Girls! Girls! Calm down girls!" The Dianettes calm a little and angrily look at Barry as he shouts, "There's no room for you all to ride in the ambulance! If y'all want to come to the hospital, then you all can ride in the van!" Barry turns to Michael, Nicolas and Mickey and shouts, "Guys, could you ride the girls to the hospital and meet us there?! We will meet you all at the hospital!"

"Sure Dad," Nicolas says.

"Thanks a lot." Barry turns to the paramedics and says, "Okay take it away guys!" Barry quickly steps into the ambulance. The door shuts behind him as Michael, the Dianettes, Nicolas, Mickey and the Diaz-Davidson Band turn and take off! The ambulance then pulls off and races away.

A couple of hours later, Mary, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Gracy, Mike, Aunt Celeste and other relatives stand out in the hospital hallway all in shock as two doctors, several police officers and several reporters speak to them. One of the doctors, a male white in his mid 50's, says, "We're gonna take some X-rays on your daughter Diane D to see if she has any broken bones or any other injuries from when she fell and landed on the stage. We're also gonna have psychologists check on your daughter's state of mind later, because she's not talking right now, but we need to know, what happened with your daughter while she was performing on stage. We got a lot of patients just brought here in the hospital who were shocked then passed out from witnessing your daughter and the Dianettes' performances. Security guards and other witnesses at the performance said while your daughter Diane D was performing, she got all the way down on the floor in a split position and seemed to have meditated right there on the stage! Then they said she seemed to have went into some sort of hypnotic trance. The next thing people noticed, was that your daughter rose slowly in a horizontal position and balanced her body in a horizontal position on her arms and hands, then she lift her entire body upside down in the air and did a hand stand. Then she did the hand stand on one hand, after that, she laid on the stage floor on her back and spun around on the stage floor then levitated herself one to four feet off the stage floor!"

"What!" Diane D's family shout. "Levitated?!"

"That's what witnesses said."

"Come on now, levitated?" Barry says. "You got to be kidding!"

"Didn't you see your daughter's performance?"

"Yes we saw her performance, but we didn't see the ending of it!"

"You didn't?"

"No!"

"Well where were you all while Diane D was performing?" one of the police officers asks.

"We were all watching her performance on a TV monitor from inside one of the trailers in the park!" Mary shouts.

“You were watching her performance on a TV monitor inside the trailer?”

“Yes!”

“And you didn’t you see the ending of Diane D’s performance?”

“No!” Margarita shouts. “The TV monitor suddenly went off and stopped working during the end of Diane’s performance!”

“What? What do you mean the TV monitor suddenly went off and stopped working during the end of Diane D’s performance?”

“While we were watching Diane’s performance on the TV monitor, all of a sudden it went blank for no reason! We didn’t know what happened to it!”

“It went blank?”

“It sure did!”

“So you never got to see Diane D levitate?”

“No we didn’t see any of that stuff!”

“Well after your granddaughter levitated, witnesses said she floated back down to the stage floor. When the security guards came to her and tried to come to her aid, she suddenly raised her knee to her chest, then she kicks her foot up and kicked one of the security guards hard in the face while she was still in a trance! Then she turned over and stood upright on the stage floor, then she stood on one leg then levitated herself again, this time in a vertical position around five feet in the air then started to spin! Did you see any of that?”

“No we didn’t see any doggone levitation!” Barry shouts. “We only caught the tail ending of Diane’s performance when she fell and landed on the stage floor!”

“You saw her fall and land on the stage floor?”

“Yes we did!”

“So what did you think was happening with your daughter when you saw her fall and land?”

“We thought maybe she did a stunt that went wrong.”

“You thought she did a stunt that went wrong? A stunt like what?”

“Like the back flip or something like that.”

“You thought Diane D did the back flip?”

“Yeah.”

“After the TV monitor cut up on us, we started to hear a whole bunch of screaming!” Margarita shouts. “We kept hearing the audience screaming! We thought they were just screaming and cheering, enjoying the show and performances so we didn’t think anything of it! Then the screaming started sounding frightening. So we decided to go out the trailer to find out what the frightening screaming was about! We saw people screaming and running all over the place, so we ran through the crowd to the stage to see what was happening! That’s when we saw Diane fall and land on the stage!”

“Wow,” the doctor says. “The security officers said while your granddaughter was falling down, she jerked her legs and kicked another security guard right in the face, then landed hard on the stage floor. That’s when your granddaughter sat up, opened her eyes and seemed to have awoken out of a trance or whatever state of mind she was in.”

“The security officers and witnesses said when Diane D fell and landed on the stage, she opened her eyes and looked around in a daze like she didn’t know where she was and didn’t know what was happening to her,” a second doctor says. “Has your daughter ever done this before, levitated herself?”

“How was your daughter Diane D able to levitate herself?” one of the reporters asks.

“She didn’t!” Mary shouts. “There’s no such thing as levitation!”

“But Mrs. Brown, witnesses saw your daughter do it,” the police officer says. “Not only that, your daughter’s entire performance was captured on video from the camera men. So how was your daughter able to levitate herself?”

“Well obviously there’s some kind of trick involved!” Barry shouts. “Whatever trick was used, we don’t know anything about it!”

“Well witnesses said when your daughter levitated herself in a horizontal position one to four feet off the stage floor, it scared the hell out of them because they said it seemed like they were watching The Exorcist right before their eyes! Then they said after your daughter’s body came back down on the stage floor, she stood in an upright position then levitated herself again in a vertical position around five feet off the stage floor, then spun her entire body around in mid air then laid her head back! That scared the hell out of a lot of people too because they said it seemed like your daughter was being hanged and spun around by an invisible rope or noose or something like that! That frightened a lot of people! Witnesses said while Diane D was levitating on the stage, her body was there, but her mind soul and spirit didn’t seem to be there at all! The security guards and cameramen who were surrounding Diane D’s body said she appeared to be hypnotized, in a trance or sound asleep the whole entire time her body was levitating! She didn’t seem to be aware of what was happening to her body nor did she seem to be aware of the screaming that was going on all over the place. Was Diane D asleep while her body was levitating in mid-air? Did she somehow hypnotize herself and went into a deep sleep or trance while she was performing right on the stage?!”

“We don’t know!” Mary shouts. “We weren’t there!”

“Well how were two of the Dianettes able to do their performances, vanish into thin air?” a second reporter asks.

“We don’t know that either!” Barry says.

“You don’t? How were the other two Dianettes able to climb a bare wall and crawl across a bare ceiling!”

“We don’t know!” Mary says.

“How were the other two Dianettes able to lift extremely heavy objects and vehicles?!”

“We don’t know that either!” Barry shouts.

“You don’t?!”

“No we don’t!”

“You mean to tell us that none of you knew that your daughter and granddaughter Diane D and the Dianettes were gonna do some unique performances which made them all appear to have superhuman strength or superhuman abilities?!”

“No we didn’t!” Mary shouts.

“We didn’t know that levitating, disappearing into thin air, bare wall climbing, bare ceiling crawling or lifting extremely heavy objects and vehicles were gonna be part of Diane and the girls performances!” Barry shouts. “Look! When Diane told us all that she and the girls were gonna do an ‘Illusions of Zero Gravity’ performance, we didn’t think she meant it literally! We’re just as shocked as everyone else!”

“Didn't you question your daughter Diane D or the Dianettes after their performance?” the police officer asks.

“Yes we did!”

“Well what did they say about it?!”

“Well Diane didn't answer or say anything about it, she wasn't talking! But when we asked the girls about it, they just said it was all an illusion that none of that stuff really happened!”

“An illusion?!”

“That none of that stuff really happened?!” a second police officer asks.

“That's what they said!” Barry says.

“You mean to tell us that the Dianettes are claiming that disappearing into thin air, bare wall climbing, bare ceiling crawling, lifting extremely heavy objects and vehicles and levitating then spinning around in mid-air was all just an illusion?!”

“Yes. An illusion of zero gravity I guess.”

“How were they able to perform those illusions?!” the first police officer asks.

“They didn't say how they were able to perform those illusions. All they said it was a trick of the mind!”

“Trick of the mind?!”

“Yes!”

“Well the security guards, cameramen and witnesses said this whole incident of Diane D levitating over the stage seemed more supernatural than just an illusion! So as far as any of you know, your daughter Diane D has never ever levitated herself before.”

“As far as we know, she hasn't.”

“And the Dianettes never did any of that disappearing, wall climbing, ceiling crawling or lifting heavy objects and vehicles before?”

“No! They said it's all just an illusion, that it never happened!”

“Never happened?!”

“That's right!”

“Well try telling the security officer who got kicked in the face by your daughter Diane D and wind up getting a bloody broken nose behind it, that it is all just an illusion that never happened! Try telling the other security officer who got kicked in the head by your daughter Diane D while she was falling from the air and wind up getting a concussion behind it, that it was all just an illusion also, that never happened! Why don't you go to both of those security officers and tell them both, that their pain, injuries and suffering are just illusions, that their pain, injuries and suffering isn't really happening! They're talking about filing injury lawsuits against your family's organization, and I'm sure that their lawsuits are not going to be illusions! I'm sure that their lawsuits are really going to happen!”

“Listen, we're truly sorry for those security officers' injuries and we're very sorry for all the people in the audience who got hurt! We didn't mean or expect for any of this to happen! Believe me, if we knew what Diane and the girls had in store for everybody, we would have definitely stopped it!”

“That's right we would have!” Mary shouts.

“You don't even know whether or not your daughter has levitated herself before!” the police officer shouts.

“No we don't know that, but we do know that Diane meditates sometimes.”

"Yeah I heard that she meditates," the second police officer says.

"Why does she meditate?" the first police officer asks.

"She's into spiritual meditation, that's all!" Margarita shouts.

"Spiritual meditation?"

"Yes!"

"How long has she been into spiritual meditation?"

"She's been into spiritual meditation for years since she was a pre-teen!"

"Oh really?"

"Yes!"

"Are the Dianettes into spiritual meditation too?"

"We've never seen them meditate. Diane is the only one into it."

"Does anyone else in your family meditates or are into spiritual meditation?"

"We've seen Dana sitting on the floor with Diane while Diane meditates."

"You've seen Dana sitting on the floor with Diane D while Diane D meditates?"

"Yeah."

"What was Dana doing, meditating also?"

"We don't know if Dana be actually meditating with Diane. All we know is that both of them be looking like they're in a deep trance when they're sitting on the bedroom floor."

"Wow."

"What about Diane D's husband?" the doctor asks. "Is he into meditation?"

"No he's not," Barry says. "Look, when Diane told her grandparents and us, she and the girls were going to rehearse for the 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' performance, we didn't think anything of it because she and the girls always go to rehearse for any performance they do. When they went off somewhere to rehearse for this last performance, we didn't question it."

"Do you know where they rehearsed at?" the police officer asks.

"They said they were going to rehearse at some dance studio across town. We just don't know which dance studio they were talking about, they never told us the name of the dance studio."

"Well we want to keep your daughter in the hospital for a couple of days for observation to make sure she's alright," the doctor says.

"Okay thanks Doctor."

"You're welcome. You can go back and see her."

"Thanks Doctor," Mary says. She, Barry, Margarita, Tomas, Gracy, Grandpa Mike, Aunt Celeste and Diane D's other relatives turn and follow the doctors as the police officers follow them.

On the third day, Aunt Celeste is walking through the hospital lobby. A crowd of people and reporters inside the hospital lobby anxiously approach Aunt Celeste as a male white reporter says, "Hey Diane D's aunt. How's Diane D doing?"

"She's okay," Aunt Celeste says.

"That's good. How did she levitate herself?"

"My family and I don't know, we didn't see it!"

"You didn't see it?"

"No. I have to go now." Aunt Celeste turns away from the people and walks away towards the back of the hospital. The people try to anxiously follow her. The hospital security go right in front of the people and block their path stopping them.

Inside Diane D's hospital room, Diane D appears all dazed out and in pain sitting up on the hospital bed with her legs wide apart wearing black leggings with her pajama shirt wide opened. Her eyes are very puffy and very swollen as she leans on her right towards Margarita while Margarita stands on the side of the bed holding on to her and Mary stands on the left side of Diane D pulling Diane D's pajama shirt sleeve off her left arm. Mary then removes Diane D's pajama shirt sleeve from off Diane D's left arm then pulls Diane D's pajama shirt from around Diane D's back removing her pajama shirt off her baring her short white bustier. Diane D is now dressed in the white bustier and black leggings, baring her muscular shoulders, muscular arms, muscular chest, firm cleavage and six-pack abs. She then leans away from Margarita a little as Margarita pulls her pajama shirt sleeve down her right arm. Margarita finishes removing Diane D's pajama shirt sleeve from off Diane D's right arm taking Diane D's pajama shirt off of her. Suddenly, there is a knock on the door. Mary, Margarita and swollen, puffy-eyed Diane D look towards the door. Mary and Margarita turn back towards Diane D and place the sheet and covers over her covering her. Mary looks back towards the door and shouts, "Who is it?!"

"It's us Aunt Mary," Nancy's voice says. "Can we come in?"

Mary looks at Margarita as Margarita nods okay to her. Mary looks back towards the door and shouts, "Yeah come on in!"

The hospital room door opens. Nancy, Charlotte, Lonna, Kelly, Miranda and Bernice walk into the room carrying clothes, bras and corset tops in plastic garment bags. "Hi," they all smile and say.

"Estas a punto de darle un bano de esponja?" Nancy asks.

"Si, estamos Nancy," Margarita says.

"Que podemos darle el bano de esponja Abuela."

"Si Abuela," Charlotte says.

"I see you all brought clothes here for her," Margarita says.

"We sure did," Miranda says.

"Abuela por que no usted y tia Mary descansar un rato," Nancy says. "Nos encargamos de Diane."

"Estas seguro de Nancy?" Mary asks.

"Positivo tia Mary. Manejamos esto antes y podemos hacerlo otra vez."

"Esta bien."

Nancy and Charlotte approach Diane D. They hold onto her as Margarita and Mary gently let go of her. Margarita and Mary turn from Diane D and step to the side. They look back at Diane D as Margarita says, "Diane, tu madre y yo vamos abajo un poco de tiempo."

"Si," Mary says. "Seremos la espalda derecha." Diane D does not respond as she has her head laid on Nancy's shoulder with her eyes closed and the sheet and covers still covering her body as Nancy has her arms wrapped around her. Mary and Margarita turn from Diane D as Margarita says to the Dianettes, "See you later girls."

"Okay," the Dianettes say.

Margarita and Mary head towards the doorway. They open the door and leave the room. They close the door as they take one last look at Diane D.

Twenty minutes later on the first floor hospital hallway, Mary, Barry, Margarita, Barry, Gracy, Mike and Diane D's other relatives stand around anxious. Michael, Nicolas and Mickey approach them holding a bunch of flowers. "How's Diane doing?" Michael asks.

"Oh she's gonna be alright Michael," Mary says.

"She's still in a lot of pain from when she fell," Barry says.

"She is?" Michael says. "What was the outcome of the X-rays?"

"The X-rays came out okay. She didn't suffer any major broken bones, but she's still in pain though. The doctors say her physical condition is gonna be okay, she just needs plenty of rest right now."

"That's good."

"What did they say about her state of mind Dad?" Nicolas asks.

"Well when your mother and I were in the room with her and the doctors, the doctors checked on her state of mind all morning," Barry says. "They didn't get much out of her. She's still not talking."

"She's not?"

"No. When the doctors asked Diane about herself being levitated on the stage, she looked at them like she didn't know what the heck they were talking about."

"She did?"

"Yeah. When the doctors told Diane that she actually levitated right on the stage in front of a live scared audience, she didn't seem to remember herself being levitated on the stage. When the doctors told her that she kicked a couple of security officers right in the face and head and they had to go to the hospital emergency because of it, she looked at them again like she didn't know what they were talking about. She doesn't seem to remember kicking any security officers either so the police and doctors showed Diane a video of her entire performance from when she first came out on stage to when she was put into the ambulance."

"Oh yeah? What did she do or say about it?"

"She looked shocked when she saw the video of herself levitating."

"She did?"

"Yeah, she didn't say anything, she just looked shocked. When the video was over, doctors spoke to Diane again about herself being levitated. She didn't seem to want to listen to what they had to say and didn't seem to want to talk about it either."

"So she didn't say anything about her ordeal at all?"

"No, she didn't say a word."

"Wow."

"Well we want to see her now Dad," Mickey says.

"Y'all might have to wait," Barry says. "The girls are in there."

"The girls are in there?" Nicolas asks.

"Yeah."

"All of them?" Michael asks.

"Yep all of them. They're getting ready to give Diane a sponge bath."

"They're getting ready to give her a sponge bath?"

"Yeah."

"I thought you were gonna give Diane a sponge bath Mom," Mickey says.

"I was," Mary says, "but I didn't get a chance to because the doctors were in there with her all morning. When the doctors finally left the room, I was finally able to start getting the sponge bath ready. When your Grandma and I removed Diane's pajama shirt off her, the girls knocked on the door. I asked who it was and they told me it was them. They asked can they come in. I told them yeah, then they walked right in the room. They saw me and your Grandma about to give Diane a sponge bath so they offered to give Diane the sponge bath instead. They told me and your Grandma to relax for a while, they'll take care of Diane. We said okay then your Grandma and I left the room then came and waited down here.”

“Oh yeah?” Nicolas says.

“Yeah.”

“It sounds like the girls are gonna hog up Diane’s hospital room again like they did before when she was in the hospital! We want to see Diane real quick before the girls start on her sponge bath.”

“I think they already started Nicolas,” Barry says. “Go upstairs, knock on the door and see if y'all can get in there.”

“Okay Dad.” Nicolas, Mickey and Michael turn and walk away.

“Good luck.” Barry smiles at Nicolas, Mickey and Michael as they turn and smile back at him. Nicolas, Mickey and Michael turn back around and walk away.

Nicolas, Mickey and Michael are walking in the upstairs hospital hallway. They approach the hospital room door. It is closed. They knock on the door. Michael turns the doorknob. The door opens. Michael, Nicolas and Mickey are about to enter the room. Charlotte and Nancy approach from behind the door. They step forward and push Michael, Nicolas and Mickey right back out the room as Nancy says, “Ah aaah y'all can't come in here right now, Diane is not dressed.”

“Yeah we're getting ready to give her a sponge bath,” Charlotte says.

“Well we just want to see her real quick before y'all get her sponge bath started,” Michael says.

“We already started. Miranda and Lonna already started putting the soap all over Diane.”

“Nancy where's the new bar of soap?!” Miranda’s voice shouts. “This bar of soap is almost gone!”

Nancy turns her head towards inside the room and shouts, “How can it be almost gone, y'all just started using it on her!”

“It was only a small bar of soap!” Lonna’s voice shouts. “We need a bigger bar!”

“Well the bigger bar of soap is in the brown bag, right next to the bubble bath!”

“Nancy where did you put the shower hose?!” Bernice’s voice shouts.

“The shower hose is in the white bag!”

“Y'all gonna hose her down?” Michael asks.

Nancy turns her head back towards Michael, Nicolas and Mickey and says, “Yeah. How else are we gonna bathe her? Okay guys we gotta close this door back and lock it. As soon as we finish bathing Diane, y'all can see her.”

“Yeah,” Charlotte says. “We'll take the flowers and put them aside for Diane.” Nancy and Charlotte take the flowers from Michael, Nicolas and Mickey. They then move Michael, Nicolas and Mickey away from the door. Nancy and Charlotte quickly get step back into the room. They close the door tightly behind themselves. Michael, Nicolas and Mickey puzzled look at the door, then look at each other. They then walk away from the door.

Ten minutes later on the first floor hallway, Michael, Nicolas and Mickey come back to Mary, Barry and the rest of Diane D's relatives without the flowers. "What happened guys?" Margarita asks. "Did y'all see Diane?"

"No," Michael says. "The girls didn't let us in the room. They said they had already started bathing Diane."

"They did?" Mary asks. "Where're the flowers?"

"The girls took the flowers in the room then they closed the door," Mickey says.

"See?" Barry says. "Didn't I tell y'all good luck?" Barry smiles as he hugs Mickey, playfully shaking him on the top of his head as Mickey smiles back to him.

EXPERIENCE!

A man on another train is reading a tabloid article magazine with a headline that reads: IT'S A BIRD! IT'S A PLANE! IT'S DIANE D! DIANE D'S PARENTS AND GRANDPARENTS REVEAL THAT DIANE D IS INTO SPIRITUAL MEDITATION FROM TIME TO TIME!

A woman in a supermarket is standing on line reading another tabloid magazine article with a headline that reads: THE DISAPPEARING LADIES, THE SPIDER GIRLS, THE WONDER WOMEN AND THE FLY GIRL!

A man in a fast food restaurant is reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S FAMILY NEVER GOT TO SEE HER LEVITATION PERFORMANCE LIVE AS TV MONITOR INSIDE TRAILER THEY WERE IN MALFUNCTIONS!

A woman sitting in the doctor's office reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S BODY MYSTERIOUSLY STOPS LEVITATING AND DROPS AS HER FAMILY HURRIES TO THE STAGE!

A man sitting in the doctor's office waiting area is reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D'S FAMILY ONLY GOT TO SEE HER LEVITATION PERFORMANCE ON VIDEO THE NEXT DAY!

A man inside the waiting area at the airport is reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: WAS DIANE D'S FAMILY SOMEHOW SPARED FROM BEING FRIGHTENED BY HER LEVITATION PERFORMANCE AS REST OF THE PEOPLE WHO WITNESSED HER LEVITATION PERFORMANCE SCREAM IN FEAR?!

GERMANY

Back in Germany, several people and reporters follow Diane D's family in a courtroom hallway towards the courtroom. One of the reporters says, "So Diane D's parents and grandparents, how do you all feel that the spectators want to file a lawsuit against your family's organization for the near heart attacks they suffered from watching your daughter and granddaughter Diane D and the Dianettes' performances?"

"And how do you all feel that the two security guards who got kicked in the head and face by your daughter and granddaughter Diane D want to file a lawsuit against your family's organization too?" a second reporter says.

“Like we said before,” Barry stops and says, “my family and I did not know that the levitation, disappearing acts, bare wall climbing, ceiling crawling and lifting extremely heavy objects and vehicles were gonna be part of Diane and the girls' performances! We didn't know!”

“But we're in charge of Diane and the girls and we're gonna take full responsibility for everything!” Tomas says. “We got to get into the courtroom!” Tomas, Barry and the rest of their family face forward as they and the rest of Diane D's family head down the hall with the reporters continuing to follow them.

NEW YORK, U.S.A.

Back in New York a man is sitting on a subway reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: LAWSUITS AGAINST THE DIAZ-DAVIDSON ORGANIZATION SETTLED FOR UNDISCLOSED AMOUNT!

A man on the bus is reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: AFTER AROUND A DOZEN SPECTATORS SUFFER NEAR HEART ATTACKS AND NEAR LAWSUITS AND TWO SECURITY GUARDS SUFFER FROM A BROKEN NOSE AND A HEAD CONCUSSION, THE DAVIDSON ORGANIZATION AGREES TO HELP WITH MEDICAL BILLS! DIANE D'S FAMILY BANS HER AND THE DIANETTES' 'ILLUSIONS OF ZERO GRAVITY' PERFORMANCE FOR LIFE!

A week later, a man on the train is reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D, HER FAMILY AND THE DIANETTES LEAVE GERMANY AND ARE ON THEIR WAY BACK TO NEW YORK.

A man in a coffee shop is reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: MAGIC SHOWS AND CIRCUS SHOWS POUR IN OFFERS FOR DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES TO PERFORM WITH THEM, BUT DIANE D'S FAMILY BANS HER AND THE DIANETTES FROM EVER PERFORMING THE 'ILLUSIONS OF ZERO GRAVITY' AGAIN!

A man in a barber shop is reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: AFTER THE LAWSUITS AND HELP WITH THE MEDICAL BILLS, DIANE D'S FAMILY BANS HER AND THE DIANETTES' 'ILLUSIONS OF ZERO GRAVITY' PERFORMANCE!

A woman in a beauty salon is reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES NEVER ALLOWED TO PERFORM 'ILLUSION OF ZERO GRAVITY' PERFORMANCE AGAIN ANYWHERE! The woman turns to other people next to her and says, “Hey. It says right here, that Diane D and the Dianettes are never allowed to do their 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' performance ever again!”

“Yeah I read that too,” the second woman says. “I read Diane D's family didn't know that she and the Dianettes were gonna pull a performance like that. Her family was shocked. Her and the Dianettes' performance practically scared the hell out of that audience in Germany.”

“I know,” a man in the salon says. “I read Diane D's family doesn't want anymore lawsuits against their family's organization, that's why they banned her and the Dianettes' 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' performance, even though Diane D and the Dianettes got offers from magic shows and circuses.”

“I don't blame her family.”

“Has Diane D ever said anything about her levitation performance?” a third woman asks.

“No,” the man says. “I heard she never said a word about it. I hear she doesn't talk about it at all.”

“She still doesn't talk about her levitation performance and everything else that happened around it?” a second man asks.

“That's what I heard.”

“What are the Dianettes saying about it?”

“I hear they're still saying the same thing they have been saying since this whole incident started, that ‘it's all just an illusion that none of the stuff they or Diane D did ever happened.’”

“Well what about the security guards who got hurt in the head and face?” the first woman asks. “Are their injuries just an illusion?”

“Well the doctors in the hospital said their injuries aren't an illusion. The doctors said the Dianettes can say whatever they want. All the doctors know, is that the bloody broken nose and the head concussion the two security guards suffered are real. The blood is not fake, it's real and the concussion is real! The heart attacks some of the spectators suffered from weren't illusions either. Their heart attacks really happened.”

“Wow.” The woman continues to read her newspaper.

Three days later, a man in a barber shop is reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D VICIOUSLY THROWS TWO REPORTERS OUT OF HER FAMILY'S ORGANIZATION WHEN THEY CAME TO HER AND QUESTIONED HER ABOUT HER LEVITATION PERFORMANCE! The man turns to the woman next to him and says, “Hey! This article says that Diane D threw two reporters out of her family's organization when they came there and questioned her about her levitation performance!”

“She did?!” the woman says.

“Yeah!”

“Why she threw those reporters out?”

“She didn't want to talk about her levitation performance. When the reporters first questioned her about her levitation performance, she told them she didn't want to talk about it. When the reporters insisted on asking her about her levitation performance, I heard she viciously threw them out of her family's organization!”

“My God,” a second man says. “She still doesn't want to talk about what happened at her performance?”

“Obviously not.” The man continues to read the article.

Two days later, several college students, three women and three men, are at a lunch table chit-chatting. One of them, a Latino guy is reading a newspaper article with a headline that reads: DIANE D ARRESTED! DIANE D PUNCHES AND ATTACKS TWO REPORTERS WHO APPROACHED HER AND HER HUSBAND ON THE STREET WHO QUESTIONED HER ABOUT HER LEVITATION PERFORMANCE! The guy turns to his college mates and shouts, “Yo! Did y'all read this article?! It says that Diane D got arrested the other day for punching two other reporters who came up to her and her husband Michael on the street and questioned her about her levitation performance?!”

“Yeah I heard about it,” the second man says. “I heard that Diane D was walking with her husband. Two reporters saw her then ran up to her. When they questioned her and asked her why she threw the other reporters out of her family's organization, she told them she didn't want to talk about it. Then her husband shoved the reporters away from her. When the reporters came up to Diane D again to question her about her levitation performance, I heard she turned towards the reporters, took her fist and swung her fist right into one of the guys' face, knocking him to the ground, then she kicked the other reporter in the groin and he fell to the ground in pain! Her husband had to stop her and hold her back!”

“Oh yeah?!” a woman says.

“Yeah! Somebody saw the incident then called the police! The police came and arrested Diane D! The ambulance came and took the two reporters to the hospital!”

“What!” a second woman says. “Diane D put people in the hospital again?! Did she go to jail?”

“Yeah she went to jail. They only held her in jail for one night because her family bailed her out. She got let out of jail the next day. She's out of jail until her court date.”

“My God! This is the second or third time, that Diane D has caused two or more guys to be put in the hospital! I'm always hearing she's punching and kicking somebody in the face or groin and they falling out in pain and had to be hospitalized!”

“Yeah but people should know that about Diane D by now,” the first man says. “Diane D has a reputation! That's why people shouldn't annoy her when she doesn't want to be bothered!”

“That's right,” the second man says. “I wouldn't mess with her. Diane D can get real vicious if she's pushed!”

“She sure can. Remember when we read about what happened to that kid Marcus who lied to Diane D and her family about a three year old little boy who was dying of leukemia?”

“Yeah we all remember that story,” the first woman says. “It's so sad.”

“It is sad,” the second woman says. “I hear that little kid still fears Diane D to this day and still never wants to see her or her image again.”

“He still fears her?” the first man asks.

“Of course he still fears her! This fear he has of Diane D might stay with him for the rest of his life! He felt some demon or entity took over Diane D's body right inside that school hallway! I hear he still gets nightmares about it! He had to change schools because the memories of what happened to him inside that school hallway still haunts him to this day! And the two hospital employees who witnessed Diane D kung fu kick that storage room door also felt some demon or entity took over her body right inside that back clinic hallway! I hear they even get nightmares about it!”

“Them too?!”

“Yes them too! They had to quit their job at that hospital and transfer to work at another hospital because the memories of what happened inside that back clinic hallway still haunts them! Those correction officers who were trying to keep Diane D inside that jail cell with a ten foot pole also felt some demon or entity took over her body right inside that jail cell, that's why they had to use a ten foot pole on her to keep themselves from being near her because they were afraid to come in physical contact with her! That's why they had to send a nurse inside her jail cell to bring a tray of food to her the next day because they didn't want to go in there!"

"So they rather put the nurse in danger?"

"I heard Diane D never attacked the nurse."

"Maybe because she was sleeping."

"Ah ah. I remember hearing on that TV interview with Diane D's brothers and those correction officers, that those correction officers claimed the nurse told them while she was checking on Diane D taking Diane D's blood pressure, that Diane D seemed to be asleep at first. Then she said Diane D opened her eyes and looked right at her."

"Yeah I remember hearing it on that interview too. I was wondering why Diane D didn't attack the nurse when she opened her eyes and saw the nurse inside the jail cell taking her blood pressure."

"Diane D's brothers claim that Diane D told her family she never saw a nurse inside her jail cell that day. But the correction officers claim they DID send a nurse inside Diane D's jail cell that morning and that was the only time that day, that they sent a nurse inside her jail cell, but Diane D told her family when she woke up inside the jail cell, it was around two or three o'clock in the afternoon. So if the nurse was inside Diane D's jail cell that morning, and claims that Diane D opened her eyes and was looking right at her, that means Diane D doesn't remember seeing the nurse or, it means that the other personality or evil vicious entity was still inside of her body and hadn't left yet!"

"Oh shit," everybody says.

"That means, if that other personality or evil vicious entity hadn't left Diane D's body yet while the nurse was inside the jail cell, that means that the nurse came in contact with that other personality or evil vicious entity and didn't even know it!"

"Oh my God!"

"I mean this is really starting to creep me out," the second guy says.

"It's creeping me out too!" the first guy says.

"I don't understand," the first girl says. "If the other personality or evil vicious entity was still inside of Diane D's body while the nurse was inside the jail cell taking Diane D's blood pressure, then why didn't this other personality or evil vicious entity attack the nurse? Why was the nurse spared?"

"Maybe it wasn't the nurse that the other personality or evil vicious entity was after," the second woman says. "I think that this other personality or evil vicious entity was waiting around for one of those correction officers to come back inside that jail cell!"

"Oh shit!" everybody says.

"I think that they're the ones that this other personality or evil vicious entity was waiting for!"

"Oh shit!"

"Wow this is really creeping me out," the second guy says.

"It creep those correction officers out too," the second woman says. "I hear THEY even get nightmares about what they went through with Diane D!"

"Them too?!"

"Yes them too! I heard they were creep out when they realized that the other personality or evil vicious entity might have still been inside of Diane D's body while the nurse was inside the jail cell! They even had to quit or transfer their job at the jail and transfer to work at another jail because the memories of what happened inside that jail cell still haunts them! And now the spectators in Germany felt that some demon or entity took over Diane D's body right on that stage! I hear THEY even get nightmares about it!"

"Them too?!"

"Yes them too! I read somewhere that they quit going to see Live performances or Live shows because the memories of what happened on that stage still haunts them!"

"So they're only going to watch shows on TV, movies and videos from now on?"

"That's what I read."

"My God, Diane D has THAT much power?! First she caused a little kid to change schools he goes to, then she caused two hospital employees to quit their job and change hospitals they work at, she caused those correction officers to quit their job at the jail and transfer to work at another jail and now she caused all those spectators in Germany to quit seeing Live shows and just watch pre-recorded shows?"

"Yep! She changed all these people's lives?! All these people have the same fear about Diane D, that she's POSSESSED!" The people frighteningly look at the woman. She then says, "Who wants to mess with a demon! Nobody in their right mind wants to mess with a demon! I know I wouldn't! A demonic force or supernatural force is nothing to mess with! Maybe Diane D needs to stop doing spiritual meditation, because I think that spiritual meditation her family claims she does, has a lot to do with these so called entities taken over her body then doing eerie things and she winds up not remembering any of the eerie stuff she did! I don't know how the heck those two reporters were able to come approach Diane D on the street in the first place! The way these entities keep taking over her body, I'm afraid to come near her! I don't want to wind up like those security guards, that little boy Marcus, those two hospital employees and those spectators in Germany! I don't want to witness anything creepy or peculiar and then be haunted by it for the rest of my life!"

"I know. But Diane D is not the only one who changed people's lives for the worst you know, look at her cousin Dana! Her cousin Dana changed people's lives too! Look at those three female police officers whose lives were changed by her! Dana put all three of those female officers on permanent Disability!"

"I know!" the first guy says, "that is some shit! You know what I would like to see? I would like to see Diane D's evil vicious personality and Dana go at it one on one against each other! I wonder who would win, the one who is possessed by demons, or the one who seems to have her own demons."

"Wow," everyone says.

"I bet Diane D's evil vicious personality and Dana probably get along very well with each other!" the second guy says.

"Most likely they DO get along well with each other," the first guy says, "because it seems to me that Diane D and her cousin Dana are just alike!"

"They ARE just alike, that's why they're always together because 'Birds of a feather flock together!'"

"Wow," everyone else says as they all continue to frighteningly look at the article.

A couple of days later, several adults are standing around a newspaper stand reading an article with a headline that says: ASSAULT CHARGES AGAINST DIANE D REDUCED AS SHE AND HER FAMILY CHARGES REPORTERS WITH HARRASMENT! One of the women turns to the others and says, "My God! It says the assault charges against Diane D were reduced when she and her family decided to charge the reporters with harassment!"

"Oh yeah?!" a man says. "Diane D and her family were gonna charge the reporters with harassment?!"

"Yeah! The reporters didn't want any harassment charges filed against them, so the assault charge against Diane D got reduced."

"Oh yeah?" a second man says. "Reduced to what?"

"Time served from when she spent that one night in jail?"

"Time served?"

"Yeah." The people continue to read the article.

Diane D Is About To Go Off During A Trance!

It is a very dark and cloudy day. Outside of Margarita and Tomas' mini-mansion, Nicolas is standing outside the front gate. A commercial van pulls up to the curb. Nicolas goes to the van as a white male driver around his mid 30's with dark hair and a mustache steps out the driver's door. Nicolas approaches the man and says, "Hey, how you doing?"

"I'm okay," the man says.

"Good. I came to tell you not to go into the house right now."

"Don't go into the house now?"

"No."

"Why not?"

"Because my sister is meditating right now."

"Your sister? You mean Diane?"

"Yes. She's meditating upstairs in the bedroom right now."

"She is?"

"Yes."

"I hear that she meditates from time to time."

"She does."

"That's nice. But what does her meditating have to do with me? I'm only here to fix the broken window in the kitchen."

"I know, but Diane is in a state of trance right now!"

"A state of trance?"

"Yeah! If her physical body suddenly senses a stranger or a non-family member anywhere inside the house, her physical body might go off and try to attack that stranger or non-family member without her even knowing it or being aware of it!"

"What? Her physical body might go off and try to attack that stranger or non-family member without her knowing it or being aware of it?"

"Yeah!"

"How is that possible? I heard about what happened with your sister while she was on stage in Germany. I heard about her kung fu kicking the security guards while she was on stage in Germany and wind up not knowing about it nor was aware of it. I heard about her meditation performance on stage too. Did she really meditated while she was on stage?"

"I think so."

"Wow. I also heard about her levitation performance. Did she really levitated over the stage?"

"I don't know, I didn't see it."

"You didn't see it?"

"No."

"How did you not see it? I heard all the spectators in the park saw and witnessed it."

"I know, but I didn't see it, neither did the rest of my family, so therefore, I'm not able to tell you what happened on stage in Germany."

"Wow. I also heard about what happened at the hospital where your sister was working. I heard that she kung fu kicked the storage room door then did damage inside the storage room, is that true?"

"I don't know, I wasn't there. She said she didn't do it."

"Do you believe her?"

"Right now, I don't know what to believe."

"I also heard about the little kid your sister beat up inside the school hallway."

"Yeah yeah yeah everyone's heard about that story. She claims she didn't do that either."

"Wow. I heard several months ago while your sister was meditating and in a state of trance, your family had a contractor in the house. I heard that your sister tried to attack the contractor! I heard she tried to give the guy a kung fu kick to the head! I heard your family had to hurry and get that contractor out of the house before your sister attacked him, is that true?"

"Yes she did try to give that contractor a kung fu kick to the head and she would have succeeded in kicking him in the head if he hadn't ran out the house!"

"Oh yeah?"

"Yes!"

"But I thought that was just a rumor!"

"It's not a rumor it's the truth!"

"But why would your sister want to harm the contractor? Did the contractor do something wrong to her?"

"It's not Diane that tried to harm the contractor! It's whatever took over her that tried to harm the contractor!"

"It's whatever took over her? What do you mean?"

"When she came back to later on that day and we told her about what she did, she looked right at us like if we were crazy!"

"She did?"

"Yeah, she had no recollection of it!"

"No recollection?! You mean she didn't remember what she tried to do?"

"No she didn't! She didn't remember it at all! And this time if she tries to attack you and kung fu kick you in the head, she's not going to remember that either!"

"She's not?!"

"No! She doesn't remember kung fu kicking all the other people and objects she's accused of kung fu kicking in the past! What would make you any different?!"

"My God."

"That's why I'm telling you not to go into the house right now until her meditation is over because we don't want history to repeat itself!"

"Well when will her meditation be over?"

"We don't know, we have no idea. She's already been into it for a while."

"Oh yeah? Can't you and your family just hold your sister back from harming anybody?"

"Don't you think we tried that? We tried holding Diane back plenty of times before in the past whenever she gets out of control, but when she gets into a state of trance and becomes out of control, she becomes so strong and so powerful that we are incapable of stopping her!"

"Oh yeah?"

"Yes!"

"No wonder why people nickname her 'The She-Hulk'!"

"That's why my family told me to come out here to make sure I don't let you inside the house right now."

"But why did your sister have to meditate now? You know I'm scheduled to fix the broken window now!"

"We know! We didn't know that Diane was gonna wind up meditating now!"

"You didn't know?"

"No we didn't! She usually meditates late at night during the wee hours of the morning!"

"During the wee hours of the morning?"

"Yes when it's completely dark outside! We didn't know that she was going to wind up meditating during the day time! We just happen to pass by her bedroom door and saw her on the floor meditating! I guess since the sky is so cloudy and dark, she decided to take advantage of the dark sky and meditate now."

"Oh yeah? She needs darkness for that?"

"It seems that way."

"But I have to fix the broken window now. If I don't fix it now, I might not be able to come back soon because my schedule is full! You might have to reschedule, and that might take a while!"

Nicolas worriedly looks at the man. He then says, "Okay, let me go inside and see what my family says."

"Okay."

Nicolas turns and walks back around the van to the gate. He goes inside the gate and walks through the front lawn as he goes to the front door. He opens the front door and goes into the house as the front door closes behind him.

The man waits as he looks at the house.

Five minutes later, Nicolas comes back out the house. He approaches the man and says, "So far, Diane is still meditating."

"She is," the man asks.

"Yeah. But, my family say you can come inside the house and fix the window. They're gonna guard Diane's physical body until you leave."

"Guard her physical body until I leave?"

"Yeah, to make sure her physical body don't go off, just in case her physical body senses a stranger in the house."

"Just in case her physical body senses a stranger in the house? Her physical body can sense a stranger in the house?”

“Yeah, when she’s in a state of trance!”

“Oh yeah? How is her physical body able to do that?”

“We don’t know, it just does! Like I said, her physical body becomes strong and powerful whenever she’s in a state of trance!”

“My God. And her physical body has to be guarded by your other family members to protect me?”

“That’s right, for your safety!”

“Wow. I’m not so sure if I want to even go inside your family’s house right now after hearing this.”

“My family is guarding Diane’s physical body right now, you can come inside the house.”

“But you said whenever your sister gets into a state of trance and becomes out of control, she becomes so strong and so powerful that you all are incapable of stopping her!”

“That’s right, we are incapable of stopping her. That’s why I hope you have your running shoes on, just in case.”

The man worriedly looks at Nicolas. He then worriedly looks towards the house.

Nicolas eases through the front door with the man easing in right behind him. The light inside the house is very dim. Tomas is standing near the door looking at Nicolas and the man. Nicolas looks at Tomas and says, “Abuelo. Aun tienen cuerpo de Diane custodiado?”

“Si,” Tomas says. He then looks at the man and worriedly asks, “How long is it going to take you to fix the window?”

“I’m not sure,” the man says. “I don’t want to tell you the wrong thing, but I’ll hurry as soon as possible.”

“Okay. Come. Let’s go.” Tomas turns and quickly leads the man down the hallway as Nicolas quickly follows.

The light is very dim inside the upstairs bedroom. The bedroom door is shut. Diane D’s physical body is sitting on the floor in a meditated position completely in a state of trance with her eyes eerily puffy, eerily swollen, eerily blank and half-closed with her eyeballs eerily looking up almost hidden behind her half-closed eyelids. She is dressed in a black long sleeved shirt with sleeves rolled to her elbows and black pants. There are a few lit candles on the floor in front of her physical body as Mary, Marilyn, Mickey and Charlotte sit on the floor completely surrounding her physical body worriedly looking at her. Margarita and Michael are standing over them worriedly watching Diane D’s physical body while Barry and Tonio stand right at the bedroom door guarding the door as they worriedly look towards Diane D. Mary turns to Barry and Tonio and whispers, “Did the window guy come in the house yet?”

“Yeah,” Barry whispers. “He’s downstairs.”

Mary turns back towards Diane D and worriedly looks at her again. She gently strokes Diane D’s long black hair. Charlotte looks right in Diane D’s face. She then waves her hand back and forth in Diane D’s face to get Diane D’s attention. Diane D does not respond. She remains in a state of trance. Charlotte then turns to her family and whispers, “She’s still not coming out of it.”

“Well put two of those candles out Charlotte,” Margarita says. “I don’t really like those candles being lighted up in here. Just keep one candle burning for her.”

“Okay Grandma.” Charlotte takes two of the candles off the floor and carefully lifts them. She nervously looks at Diane D as Diane D remains in a state of trance. Charlotte gently blows out the two candles. There is only one lit candle now. Everyone worriedly looks at Diane D again.

Margarita then says, “We need her soul or spirit to come back now. Mary, Barry, I need you two to tug Diane on the shoulder. See if you two can call out to her soul or spirit and tell her soul or spirit it’s time to come back from where ever her soul or spirit is. It worked before when you two tugged on her shoulder and called her name when you all were in the van with her that time after she had that encounter with that little boy Marcus in the school hallway See if it will work again.”

“Okay Mom,” Barry whispers. “We’ll give it a try.” Barry starts to head towards Diane D.

Suddenly Diane D’s physical body jerks and leans back as she quickly places her palms on the floor behind herself! Everyone becomes startled and stare at Diane D as she remains in a state of trance! Tonio then whispers, “Is she coming out of it?”

“I don’t know,” Barry says. Suddenly, Diane D’s physical body is about to quickly get up off the floor! Barry, Tonio, Margarita and Michael rush to Diane’s physical body as they and the rest of the family quickly grab her shoulders and bring her physical body back down as she remains in a state of trance! They lean her body back up. Diane D’s physical body sits in a meditated position again. “I don’t think she’s coming out of it.”

“I don’t think so either,” Michael whispers.

“I think her physical body senses a stranger in the house just like her physical body sensed a stranger in the house before when the contractor was here!”

“That’s why you need to call out to her soul and spirit and tell her soul and spirit to get back here,” Margarita whispers.

“Okay.”

Suddenly Diane D’s physical body jerks and leans back again as she quickly places her palms on the floor behind herself! Everyone becomes startled again and stare at Diane D as she remains in a state of trance! Suddenly her physical body is about to quickly get up off the floor again! Her family quickly grabs her shoulders again and try to hold her body down again. Suddenly, Diane D’s physical body quickly stands then jumps to her feet practically knocking Barry, Tonio, Margarita and Michael right out the way as everyone screams! Barry, Tonio, Margarita and Michael quickly catch their balance as they quickly grab Diane D’s physical body and wrap their arms around her torso while Mary, Marilyn, Mickey and Charlotte quickly get up off the floor! Suddenly Diane D tries to head towards the bedroom door as Mary, Marilyn, Mickey and Charlotte quickly grab her and wrap their arms around her torso too! They all try to hold Diane D’s physical body back as her physical body still tries to head towards the bedroom door! Suddenly Diane D bends her knees and starts to drag her family right towards the bedroom door! Barry quickly turns to Charlotte and shouts, “Charlotte! Go downstairs and tell Grandpa and Nicolas to get the window guy out of the house now!”

“Okay Uncle Barry!” Charlotte shouts as she turns and runs to the bedroom door! She opens the bedroom and runs out of it!

Charlotte runs down the hallway. She then runs down the stairs and shouts, “Abuelo! Nicolas! Conseguir que la ventana hombre fuera de la casa ahora!”

Tomas and Nicolas hear Charlotte’s cries. They quickly turn to the window guy as Tomas says to him, “Let’s go. It’s time to get out of here now!”

“Why?” the window man asks. “What happened?!”

“She’s getting ready to go off!”

“Who, Diane?!”

“Yes!”

“Oh no! How did she even know I was in the house?!”

“She senses it!”

“Oh yeah?! How is she even able to do that?!”

“We don’t know, she just does it!”

Suddenly, there is a loud BANG and screaming coming from upstairs as the rest of the family is heard shouting, “Diane!”

The man becomes startled as Nicolas shouts to him, “You have to go now!”

“Okay,” the man says. “I’m out a here!” The man quickly grabs his belongings as Tomas and Nicolas quickly lead him out the kitchen!

Tomas and Nicolas quickly lead the window man down the hallway as they suddenly hear another loud BANG and screaming coming from upstairs! They all stop right in their tracks as the man becomes startled again! Tomas and Nicolas continue to lead the window man towards the front door!

Tomas and Nicolas approach the front door! They open the front door and lead the guy right out of the house!

Tomas and Nicolas quickly lead the man all the way to the street back to his truck! They quickly go around the truck! The man quickly opens the truck door and throws his belongings inside! He quickly gets into the driver’s door, shuts the door and starts up the engine as Tomas shouts, “Go Now! I’ll call you later!”

“Okay!” the man shouts as he quickly pulls off! Tomas and Nicolas anxiously look at the truck as it speeds down the street. They then look at the house and quickly head back towards the house!

Chapter 34

Diane D Drops A Bombshell On Two Reporters

A few days later at the Diaz-Davidson Organization, two male white reporters Chris Parker and James Kern around their mid forties walk through the corridor behind Evette as she leads them down the hall. Evette turns to Chris Parker and James Kern and says, "Diane is right this way."

"Okay," Chris Parker says. "She won't try to kung fu kick us or knock us out, will she?" Evette annoyingly looks at Chris Parker. Chris Parker then says, "I was only kidding. It's just that I heard a window guy had to hurry and leave out of her family's house while she was meditating and in a state of trance."

"Yeah, it's true," Evette says.

"Wow."

Evette stops walking and turns to Chris Parker and James Kern as they stop. She speaks to them and whispers, "Now guys, remember what Diane's parents and grandparents warned you. When you speak to Diane, no questions about her meditation or levitation performance, because if you question her about her meditation or levitation performance, she's gonna throw you right out of her office like she did the other two reporters, then you're gonna have to deal with her family and the courts."

"We remember what her parents and grandparents told us," Chris Parker says "We're not gonna question Diane D about her meditation or levitation performance. We won't mention a word about it."

"That's right, we don't want any problems," James Kern says.

"Good," Evette says. "Let's go." Evette turns and continues to walk down the hallway as Chris Parker and James Kern continue to follow her. She then turns a corner as Chris Parker and James Kern follow her around the corner.

Diane D is sitting inside one of the organization offices on a big office chair behind a desk with one leg crossed over the other as she speaks into a telephone receiver saying, "I don't know yet.... Okay I will.... I'll talk to you later." Diane D takes the phone receiver from her ear and hangs up the telephone. She looks at the computer monitor and leans back in the chair as she starts to type on the computer firmly looking into monitor. She hears a knock on the door. She stops typing and looks at the door.

The door opens. Evette enters the room as Diane D looks at her.

"Hi Diane," Evette says. "The reporters are here to see you now." Evette comes into the office. Chris Parker and James Kern come into the office behind Evette as Diane D looks at them. Evette turns and leave the room as she slightly closes the door behind herself leaving it slightly open.

Chris Parker and James Kern smile at Diane D. "Hello Diane D," Chris Parker says. "I'm Chris Parker. Nice to meet you. And this is my partner James Kern."

"Nice to meet you Diane D," James Kern says.

"Have a seat gentlemen," Diane D says. She firmly looks back at the computer monitor and types again.

Chris Parker and James Kern both sit down on an office sofa. They both look at Diane D. Chris Parker then says, "So Diane D, how are you?"

"I'm holding up."

"Holding up? That's a good one. How's everything?"

"Everything is holding up."

"That's another good one. How are the Dianettes?"

"They're doing fine."

"That's good. How about your cousin Dana? How's she doing?"

"She's holding up too."

"That's good. Thanks for allowing us to speak to you Diane D. I just want to say that James Kern and I heard that you, your family and the Dianettes are working on the Dianettes' clothing lines." Diane D stops typing and firmly looks at Chris Parker. Chris Parker and James Kern puzzled look at Diane D. Then they puzzled look at each other. They then look back at Diane D. Chris Parker then says, "We just want to say that it's good that you, your family and the Dianettes are working on clothing lines. We hear that you all are planning to do some clothing line work in the Dominican Republic next week and have a Fashion Show down there. Is that true?"

"Yeah it's true."

"That's nice. The Dominican Republic is where you're originally from, right?"

"Yes that's correct."

"That's nice. Where are the Dianettes by the way?"

"Three of them went out shopping for more fabrics."

"They went out shopping for fabrics?"

"Yeah." Diane D suddenly hear women's voices talking and laughing near the door. She turns her head and looks through the doorway. The door opens more.

Bernice enters the room smiling, laughing and holding different pastel colored fabrics and corset outfits as Miranda and Nancy follow in behind her laughing and holding fabrics and corset outfits also. "We're back Diane," Bernice says. Bernice, Miranda and Nancy smile at Diane D as they hold up the outfits to her. They turn their heads and see Chris Parker and James Kern.

"Hello ladies," Chris Parker says.

"Hi ladies," James Kern says.

"We hear you all are gonna work on your clothing line in the Dominican Republic and going to have a Fashion Show down there."

"Yeah we are," Nancy says.

"That's good."

Bernice, Miranda and Nancy turn their heads back towards Diane D as Miranda says, "Hey Diane. Check out the fabrics and outfits we bought." Miranda, Bernice and Nancy hold up the fabrics, corset outfits, short skirt outfits with white collars and white cuffed short sleeves wrapped up in plastic bags. Diane D looks at the outfits as Miranda says, "This is what we got for everybody."

"Wow, these are nice," Diane D says as she touches the outfits. "Y'all tried them on, right?"

"Yeah, they fit us real well," Bernice says.

"That's good. Which colors are each of you gonna pick?"

"Well we're gonna wait until we're all together so we all can choose together," Nancy says.

"That's a good idea." Diane D lets go of the outfits.

"Well we're gonna bring the outfits in the back," Miranda says.

"Okay go ahead."

"We'll see you when you come back there," Bernice says.

"I'll be there."

"Okay." Bernice, Miranda and Nancy turn their heads and look back at Chris Parker and James Kern.

"By ladies," Chris Parker says.

"Nice to see you," James Kern says.

"By," Bernice, Miranda and Nancy say. Bernice, Miranda and Nancy turn back to Diane D. "We'll see you when you come in the other room Diane," Bernice says.

"Okay girls," Diane D says.

Bernice, Miranda and Nancy turn around and leave the room. They walk down the hall as Diane D looks on at them. Diane D then turns her head and looks back at Chris Parker and James Kern.

"Wow, those were beautiful fabrics and outfits Diane D," Chris Parker says. "Where are the other three Dianettes by the way?"

"Lonna and Kelly are spending time with their boyfriends right now and Charlotte is with her husband Kenny," Diane D says.

"I see. Diane D, the incident that happened between the Dianettes and the Punky Gurlz, has the Dianettes ever mentioned anything to you again about The Punky Gurlz?"

"No they haven't."

"No? Why not?"

"They don't like to talk about the Punky Gurlz."

"No? Well what about your cousin Dana?. Has she ever mentioned anything to you again about the Punky Gurlz?"

"No."

"Why not?"

"She doesn't like to talk about the Punky Gurlz either."

"I see. Where is your cousin Dana by the way? Is she around? Is she here in the building?"

"No she isn't."

"Well where is she?"

"She's home at my Grandma Gracy and Grandpa Mike's house."

"I see. So Diane D, when is your next show or concert? My wife and I and our children want to come see it."

"So does my wife and kids," James Kern says.

“Oh really?” Diane D says.

“Yeah.”

“Well you can't come see our next concert again because there isn't going to be a next concert.”

Chris Parker and James Kern become puzzled and stunned. They look at each other, then back at Diane D as James Kern asks, “There isn't going to be a next concert? What are you talking about Diane D?”

“What do you mean there isn't going to be a next concert?” Chris Parker asks.

“We're not gonna perform concerts anymore,” Diane D says.

“Who's not gonna perform concerts anymore?”

“Me and the girls.”

“You and the girls? What girls?”

“What girls are we talking about?”

“The Dianettes?”

“That's right. The same girls that just walked in here.”

“All the Dianettes?”

“Yeah.”

“Well why not? Why aren't you all gonna perform concerts anymore?”

“Because my name kept appearing in the papers, accusing me of doing this, accusing me of doing that. I mean every time I look, my name, my family's name, the girls' name and Dana's name kept appearing in the papers. I was getting so sick and tired of my name appearing in the papers it was causing a lot of stress for me, the girls and my family. We didn't have a private life anymore! So we had a discussion and decided the best way for us to have a private life is to hang up our hats on the concerts and just do our charity works in the organization, churches, hospitals and overseas and work on the girls' clothing line and do Fashion Shows.”

“Oh yeah? All of you decided to give up doing concerts?”

“Yeah.”

“When did you all decide that?” James Kern asks.

“We had decided a couple of weeks ago that we all were gonna quit and give up doing concerts.”

“So that means you and the Dianettes are going to stop singing and dancing?”

“Yeah.”

“Oh no Diane D!” Chris Parker says. “You and the Dianettes can't stop singing and dancing, the people want to see you sing and dance!”

“We're still going to sing and dance, but only inside our church. We're not gonna sing and dance at the theaters or arenas around the country anymore.”

“You mean you and the Dianettes aren't gonna sing and dance at the theaters or arenas ever again?”

“That's right.”

“So that means anybody who wants to continue to see you and the Dianettes sing and dance would have to come to your church and watch you all perform?”

“Yeah, if they want to see us sing and dance.”

“But Diane D, not everybody can come to your church,” James Kern says. “What about the thousands and thousands of people around the country who can't make it to your church? Not only that. Most churches can only hold but so many people.”

“We might allow people to shoot videos of our singing and dance performances then share it.”

“Share it? You mean online?”

“Yeah. That should be good enough. It’ll help promote the church.”

“Promote the church?” Chris Parker says. “But Diane D...”

“I’m sorry gentleman, my mind and the girls’ minds have already been made up. The girls and I sat down and had a long meeting with each other. We had a long discussion about this whole thing. We all voted on it and the vote had to be unanimous. The vote came out unanimous, so we decided to quit singing and dancing in theaters and arenas.”

“For good?”

“For good.”

“My God Diane D. How does your family feel about this?”

“They weren’t happy about it at all, but they said if the pressure was making me and the girls unhappy, then they’ll be behind us one-hundred percent. They said our happiness is more important.”

“I understand that Diane D, but what about your brothers, your husband and his band? Are they gonna give up doing shows too?”

“No not yet. They’re gonna hold on for another year or so. After that, they’re gonna give up doing shows in theaters and arenas too and just perform at the church.”

“Well what are you, the Dianettes and the rest of your family gonna do to raise money?”

“We’ll still have the organization. We’re all planning to move back to our old town in the Dominican Republic next year to build and open up a new organization, a new hospital, a new clinic, a new church and open the girls’ clothing line and have Fashion Shows there.”

“Oh really? All of you together?”

“Yeah, all of us. And we also plan to open up a charity organization and a wildlife organization in Africa.”

“A charity organization and a wildlife organization in Africa?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow that’s good Diane D! That’s good you and your family and the Dianettes plan to do all that! You all plan to open a big hospital, clinic and church or small ones?”

“Around medium sizes for each. That’s why we’re all going down to the Dominican Republic next month to do work in one of the churches down there and to look around for empty lots and sites to build our hospital, clinic and church on. We’re gonna be down in the Dominican Republic for three weeks, then we’re gonna come back here to New York. After we be in New York for a while, we’re all gonna fly to Africa to start our charity organization and wildlife organization and stay their for a few months.”

“Oh really? That’s good! So what are you all planning to call this new hospital, clinic, church, charity organization and wildlife organization?”

“We’re going to keep the Diaz-Davidson name and give them all the Diaz-Davidson name.”

“That’s good. So are you and the Dianettes really gonna give up doing singing and dancing at theaters and arenas?”

“We already have.”

"I'm so sorry to see you and the Dianettes quit doing concerts in theaters and arenas Diane D," James Kern says. "I can't believe you all are doing this!"

"Me neither!" Chris Parker says. "All this because of the papers?! Y'all should at least think about this for a little while longer!"

"We've thought about it long enough," Diane D says. "If you want to see our shows, you're just gonna have to come to the church when we open it in the Dominican Republic."

"Come to the church when you open it in the Dominican Republic? Diane D everyone around the country is not gonna make it to your church in the Dominican Republic when you build and open it."

"I know, but the important thing is, hopefully no reporters are gonna show up down there."

"No reporters?"

"That's right."

"Wow. You know Diane D, it's so nice that you, your family and the Dianettes are opening up a hospital, clinic, church, another charity organization, a wildlife organization and a clothing line in the Dominican Republic."

"Yeah. Why not? Listen guys, I have to get ready to go into the other room to meet up with the girls there." Diane D looks towards the doorway and shouts, "Evette!"

Footsteps are heard approaching the door. The door opens more. Evette comes back in the doorway and says, "Yes Diane?"

"Could you see these gentlemen out please?"

"Sure, no problem," Evette says. Evette turns to Chris Parker and James Kern and says, "Right this way gentlemen."

Chris Parker and James Kern puzzled look at Diane D. They then get up from their seats. They worriedly look at Diane D as she firmly looks into the computer monitor and starts typing again. Chris Parker then says, "At least think about it again Diane D. Don't quit doing concerts in theaters or arenas. My wife and kids really wanted to come see your next concert to see you all perform."

Diane D stops typing and firmly looks at Chris Parker again and says, "I said they're more than welcome to come to our church in the Dominican Republic if they want to see a show." Diane D firmly looks back at the computer monitor and starts typing again as Chris Parker and James Kern worriedly stare at her. Chris Parker and James Kern then turn and walk to the door. They sadly follow Evette and walk out the room.

The following day, several people inside an office are reading different articles in different newspapers with different headlines that reads: DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES HAVE QUIT DOING CONCERTS! DIANE D UNEXPECTEDLY ANNOUNCES TO TWO REPORTERS THE END OF HER AND THE DIANETTES' SINGING AND DANCING! One of the women Tammy, a black woman around her early 30's turns to the others and says, "Oh no! This article says that Diane D and The Dianettes aren't gonna be doing concerts anymore!"

"What!" everybody says.

"They're not?!" one of the men says.

"No!" Tammy says.

"Why not?!"

"They're not breaking up, are they?" a second man asks.

"Not that I know of!" Tammy says.

"So why aren't they doing concerts anymore? Because Diane D's family banned them from doing that 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' performance again?"

"I don't know if that's the reason. It says that Diane D told two reporters who came into her office yesterday that she and the Dianettes are quitting doing concerts and shows and are just gonna do charity work in the hospitals and the churches and work on the Dianettes' clothing line. They're planning to move back to the Dominican Republic and build their own hospital and church by next year or two."

"Oh yeah?" the first man says. "That doesn't mean they can't do concerts or shows anymore."

"I know. I was hoping to see their next performance."

"Me too! I want to see Diane D levitate, and I want to see the Dianettes disappear, climb walls, crawl across the ceiling and lift heavy objects and vehicles!"

"Yeah me too," the second man says. "My whole family was planning to see the Diaz-Davidson organization's next performance!"

"Diane D and the Dianettes are not aloud to do that 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' performance anymore," Jennifer, a second black woman, says. "Remember Diane D's family banned her and the Dianettes from ever performing that 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' again because that performance scared a lot of spectators in Germany."

"I know," the first man says. "I was hoping that Diane D's family would change their minds and allow Diane D and the Dianettes to perform that 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' again. I heard a lot of people here want to see those stunts Diane D and the Dianettes did!"

"Yeah my family want to see those stunts too," the second man says.

"I read that Diane D and the Dianettes are only gonna perform shows inside their church when they open it," Ronda, a black woman says.

"Yeah, but that would be down in the Dominican Republic where Diane D and her mom's side of the family are originally from," the first man says. "I might not ever get to their church in the Dominican Republic when they open it. Everybody's not gonna make it to their church in the Dominican Republic."

"I guess majority of the people will never get to see Diane D and the Dianettes sing and dance again," the second man says.

"Well Diane D did tell the reporters that people are allowed to video tape her and the Dianettes' singing and dance performances," Tammy says.

"Yeah, but it's nothing like seeing Diane D and the Dianettes singing and dancing in person! They are some fantastic dancers!"

"They sure are. I guess if we ever want to see Diane D and the Dianettes perform in person again, we're going to have to sacrifice."

"Sacrifice? What do you mean Tammy?"

"We're going to have to make a trip to the Dominican Republic to see them!"

"Make a trip to the Dominican Republic?! Are you serious?!"

"Of course I'm serious! A lot of people travel to the Dominican Republic just like a lot of people travel to Jamaica and the Bahamas. I've been to Jamaica and the Bahamas before, but I've never traveled to the Dominican Republic. This year, I think my family and I should take a different trip. We should take a trip to the Dominican Republic."

“Why, to see Diane D?”

“That’s part of it.”

“But you said their organization won’t move back down there for a year or two.”

“But I’ve always wanted to travel to the Dominican Republic anyway. I just never got the chance to. My neighbor and his wife travel to the Dominican Republic every year. They love it down there. Being that Diane D and her family are planning to relocate back down there, it should be a good enough reason for me and my family to travel down there a few times so we can get to see Diane D and the Dianettes’ perform. Who knows? Maybe I can even catch a glimpse of their Fashion Show.”

“I think you have a point there Tammy,” the first guy says. “I should travel to the Dominican Republic too. I always wanted to go there myself.”

“Yeah me too,” Jennifer says.

“What!” a third guy says. “You mean you’re all planning to travel to the Dominican Republic just because Diane D and her family are relocating back down there?”

“Well why not? I have to admit it, I am a big fan of Diane D’s. I do have sort of a girl-crush on her.”

“You do?!” Tammy asks.

“Yeah I do.”

“Me too!”

“You do?”

“Yeah! Even though she has the habit of getting out of control at times then winds up not remembering it. But I still want to see her and the Dianettes perform live and hopefully get a chance to meet them.”

“Meet them?” the third guy says. “You want to meet Diane D?!”

“I sure do.”

“That deranged woman?! You know she’s been in a Mental Institution before, right? Right after what she did to that little kid inside the school hallway! She and her cousin Dana both been in jail and in Mental Institutions. They both have mental issues!”

“I know. I’ll just make sure I don’t annoy Diane D or get her upset if I ever get a chance to meet her, that’s all.”

“You better not get her upset Tammy! You don’t need that other personality of hers to come out and attack you like it did to that little boy. I heard that other personality tried to kill that little boy!”

“Oh no, I would never want to meet or encounter that other personality of hers like that little boy did! I hear he still suffers from nightmares by that encounter.”

“He is!”

“But I still would like to meet Diane D’s normal personality.”

“I understand. I have to admit, I’m a big fan of hers too.” The other people start to laugh as the third guy says, “I mean I secretly do have the hots for Diane D myself because she is gorgeous!”

“She sure is,” the second guy says. The people continue to look at the article as they smile.

A man is sitting in a half full subway car as he reads an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: THE SUPER SEVEN HAS QUIT DOING CONCERTS! DIANE

D ANNOUNCES TO REPORTERS THE END OF HER AND THE DIANETTES' SINGING AND DANCING!

A man is sitting on a city bus as he reads an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: WILL WE NO LONGER SEE THE SUPER SEVEN PERFORM?!

A few days later, Tammy, Jennifer and Ronda are sitting inside a coffee shop as they look at an article in the newspaper with a headline that reads: DIANE D (THE QUEEN OF LEVITATION) BREAKS HER SILENCE ABOUT HER LEVITATION EXPERIENCE! SHE PLANS TO SPEAK ABOUT HER LEVITATION EXPERIENCE AND OTHER CONTROVERSIAL ISSUES SURROUNDING HER AT THE BLIXON HOTEL THIS SATURDAY AND ANSWER QUESTIONS! "Oh wow!" Jennifer shouts. "It says that Diane D is going to be at the Blixon Hotel this Saturday afternoon! It says she's going to break her silence and speak about her levitation experience and other controversial issues surrounding her and answer some questions!"

"Oh yeah?" Tammy asks.

"Yeah!"

"Oh wow!"

"What other controversial issues?" Ronda asks. "You mean like her kung fu kicking that storage room door inside the hospital?"

"Yeah," Jennifer says. "She's going to speak inside one of the hotel conference rooms. It says the hotel is only going to allow around two hundred people inside the room."

"Two hundred people?"

"Yeah, first come first serve. That means the first two hundred people are only going to be allowed inside the room. I wanna go!"

"Me too!"

"Wow," Tammy says. "Too bad I won't make it there, I'll be out of town. My family and I are heading to Boston for the weekend and we're leaving Saturday morning!"

"Yeah that's right Tammy, you won't be here. But I'm planning to go see Diane D. I should go to the Blixon Hotel Friday night so I can be one of the first people on line!"

"Be one of the first people on line? So you're going to hang out at the hotel all night?"

"I sure am! I want to see Diane D! Hey, I should bring my sister Nicole with me."

"Your sister Nicole?"

"Yeah. She likes Diane D too."

"Well I can't be at the hotel Friday night," Jennifer says. "Who's going to watch my kids? I can't bring them with me and have them hang out with me at the hotel all night."

"So why don't you just rent a room at the hotel Jennifer?"

"Yeah but if I do rent a room in the hotel, who's going to watch my kids if I get the chance to make it inside the conference room to see Diane D? I can't bring my kids inside the conference room with me, only 18 and over are allowed inside the conference room."

“18 and over?”

“Yeah, my kids are too young.”

“Wow, that might be some real heavy stuff Diane D is going to talk about in there.”

“I think so. They say the stuff she is going to talk about, might not be suitable for children.”

“No?”

“Uh uh.”

“Well if you can’t make it inside the conference room Jennifer, I’ll tell you all about it.”

“Well have a good time if you two make it in the hotel conference room to see Diane D,” Tammy says. “Tell me all about it.”

“We will.”

“But while you’re inside the conference room, make sure Diane D’s feet stay on the floor.”

“Make sure Diane D’s feet stay on the floor? What do you mean?”

“Make sure she doesn’t levitate, woohoo.”

“Oh stop it Tammy, you’re scaring me! That levitation performance those spectators in Germany witnessed is serious! A lot of them got sickened and horrified by it. I would love to see Diane D, but I don’t want to see any of that levitation stuff. Seeing something like that would really freak me out.”

“It will freak me out too,” Jennifer says. “I would love to see Diane D also, but I don’t want to see that levitation stuff either. I wanted to see it at first, then I got scared and changed my mind.”

“Me too.”

“Come on. Our lunch break is over.” Jennifer, Ronda and Tammy get up from their seats and head to the exit door. They open the door and leave the coffee shop.

Diane D Gives A Controversial Speech Inside Hotel

Saturday afternoon, there are tons of people inside the lobby of the Blixon Hotel. Security guards try to hold the people back as one of them, a black male, shouts, "I'm sorry folks, but the conference room is full! No one else is allowed inside the room!"

"But we want to see Diane D!" a young Hispanic woman shouts.

"Yeah!" a young white male shouts. "We want to see her levitate!"

"Yeah!" the rest of the crowd shouts.

"Diane D did not come here to do any levitation performances!" the security guard shouts. "She's only here to make a speech!"

"Okay, we'll settle for that!" another white male shouts.

"You can't, the media is in there!"

"The media is in there?!" a Hispanic male shouts

"Yeah! I'm sorry people, but the conference room is already full! We can't have the conference room over-packed!"

"Aaaahhh!" the crowd says.

"Sorry everybody!"

Inside the conference room, there are reporters, three camera men and around two-hundred people sitting down on rows of chairs across the room anxiously facing forward towards the front of the room. There is a microphone stand on one side of the room and large windows on the other side of the room.

In the front of the room, there are large eerie photos of Diane D's 'Illusions Of Zero Gravity' performance posted all across the front wall. There is an eerie photo of her levitating face up in the horizontal position with her head back and eyes eerily puffy, swollen and half-closed with eyeballs hidden behind her eyelids appearing to be in a state of trance and an eerie photo of her levitating in the vertical position with her head back looking up with eyes eerily puffy, swollen and half closed appearing to be in a state of trance again. There is a large frightening sketch of an angry puffy-eyed Diane D kung fu kicking the storage room door wide open in a dark dimly lit hallway with two frightened male faces one white and one black hiding in the background. There is also a large frightening painting of puffy-eyed Diane D in a different position kung fu kicking the storage room door wide open in the dark dimly lit hallway with the two frightened male faces hiding in the background. Also on the front wall, there is a large eerie sketch of an angry puffy-eyed Diane D laying on the floor of a jail cell against the wall with her long black hair all wild and loosed out around her back, shoulders and face, angrily looking towards several correction officers as the correction officers frighteningly stand far away from her poking a ten feet pole against her ribs as they try to push her back and keep her down. There is also a large eerie paint version from a lower angle of angry puffy-eyed Diane D laying on the floor of the jail cell against the wall with her hair wild and loosed out around her back, shoulders and face, angrily looking towards the frightened correction officers as the correction officers stand far away from her poking the ten feet pole against her ribs trying to push her back and keep her down. There is a large eerie painting of puffy-eyed Diane D standing behind bars inside a dimly lit jail cell holding on to the bars as she firmly looks outside the bars into the distance. There is a large eerie painting of Diane D's physical body sitting on the floor in a meditated position inside a large dimly lit bedroom. Her physical body appears to be in a state of trance with her face up and eyes eerily puffy, eerily swollen and half-closed with her eyeballs looking up behind her half-closed eyelids as her see-through soul or spirit creeps away from her physical body with her head turned back looking at her physical body. Underneath that painting is a capture that says: BODY AND SOUL. There is a large eerie close-up photo of Diane D's face, shoulders and upper arms inside a dimly lit room with her arms slightly spread. She appears to be in a state of trance again with her eyes eerily puffy, eerily swollen and half-closed with her eyeballs looking up behind her half-closed eyelids again. There is a large eerie close-up photo of just Diane D's eyes in the same dim light. Her eyes appear to be eerily puffy, eerily swollen and half-closed with her eyeballs looking up behind her half-closed eyelids in a state of trance. There is another large close-up photo of Diane D outside in a park during the daylight balancing her entire body weight face down in a horizontal position two feet off the ground with her arms completely straight, both of her hands on the ground while both of her feet are on top of a bench in a park. She is dressed in different clothes wearing black pants, a short black turtleneck shirt bearing her waist, thick black shoes and a belt made out of chains as she looks off to the side, this time smiling with her eyes less puffy, less swollen and more wide opened. There is a platform in front of the room with a podium on it. There is a microphone attached on top of the podium. There are newspapers on top of the podium with headlines and articles about Diane D. There is that same frightening sketch inside the newspaper of Diane D kung fu kicking the storage room door wide open in a dark dimly lit hallway with the two frightened male faces hiding in the background. There is a TV monitor in front of the room showing small video slides of the 'beginning' of the 'Illusions Of Zero Gravity' performance.

The people in the room anxiously look at the eerie photos, paintings and sketches all along the front wall. They also look at the TV monitor showing eerie video slides of the 'beginning' of the 'Illusions Of Zero Gravity' performance.

Ronda is sitting down on a chair in the middle of the audience next to her sister Nicole who is sitting on Ronda's left as they look towards the front of the room at the eerie photos, paintings and sketches on the front wall and video slides of the 'beginning' of the 'Illusions Of Zero Gravity' performance. Ronda turns to Nicole and nervously whispers, "When is Diane D suppose to come in here?"

"She should be coming in here any minute now," Nicole whispers.

"Oh yeah? Well I'm kind of afraid."

"You are?"

"Yeah."

“Of Diane D?”

“Yeah.”

“Why?”

“Well what do you think? Because of her out-of-control behavior! Especially when we heard what she did to those security guards, those police officers and to those correction officers right inside the jail cell! I’m also afraid of her when we heard what she did to that poor little boy right inside that school hallway! I’m also afraid of her when we heard that she threatened her Jamaican lover’s girlfriend right over the telephone then sped her car all the way to where the woman lives to attack her! I’m also afraid of her when we heard that she walked right off the stage during the middle of her own concert and walked right into the audience and knocked that reporter out right in front of everybody! What if she goes crazy again and does that same stuff right in here?”

“How do you know? There are reporters in here you know. They might ask Diane D the wrong questions and she might go crazy and flip out on them right here in front of everybody like she did to that reporter at her concert!”

“That’s because that reporter at her concert was heckling her while she was on stage. Besides, Diane D is the one who decided to allow people to ask her any questions they want. That’s why she came to this hotel in the first place, to allow people to ask her questions.”

“I’m still afraid of her Nicole, especially when we heard what she did to that storage room door inside the hospital then to the storage room! And I’m also afraid of her when we heard about her levitation performance in Germany! I’m afraid she might get out of control right here in this room then levitate right before our eyes.”

“Oh really?”

“Yeah.”

“Oh don’t be silly Ronda, Diane D is not gonna come in here and get out of control or levitate. Besides, levitating would be something to see. I still would like to know, how she did it!”

“Yeah me too. Hey, when she comes in here, why don’t you go up to her and ask her how she levitated?”

“Me go up to her and ask her?”

“Yeah.”

“I have a better idea Ronda.”

“What’s that?”

“Why don’t YOU go up to Diane D and ask her how she levitated.”

“Me ask her?”

“Yes you.”

“But I’m afraid to even go near her. That little boy Marcus went near her and look what happened to him. Besides, they said that Diane D doesn’t even remember levitating in that performance she and the Dianettes did in Germany.”

“Yeah I heard that too.” Nicole and Ronda turn their heads back forward and look towards the front of the room at the eerie photos, paintings and sketches along the front wall. They also look at the TV monitor now showing eerie video slides of the ‘middle’ of the ‘Illusions Of Zero Gravity’ performance. Nicole then looks towards the front door and nervously says, “Oh oh. There she is.”

“What? You see Diane D?”

“Yeah.”

“Where? I don’t see her.”

“I just saw a glimpse of her standing out in the hallway talking with her family.”

“Her family is out there?”

“Yeah. She’s getting ready to come in here.”

“Oh oh. I think we should move to the back.”

“Move to the back?”

“Yeah.”

“Why?”

“You just said Diane D is getting ready to come in here, didn’t you? I think we’ll be more safer in the back just in case she suddenly gets out of control. If we’re in the back and she suddenly gets out of control, at least the people in the front will be the first ones attacked by her, instead of us!”

“The people in the front?”

“Yeah.”

“Don’t be afraid Ronda, there’s security here.”

“Security?! You mean like in security guards?!”

“Yeah.”

“Oh no! Weren’t they the ones Diane D kung fu kicked in the groins and landed a few of them in the hospital with permanent injuries?! I mean what good are they if she can attack them as well?! I’m telling you Nicole, we should move to the back!”

“Ronda, if you’re that afraid of Diane D, then why did you want to come here? Everybody in this room knew, that Diane D was going to come here to this hotel today and make a speech right in this room. They came here specifically to see her. Why do you think all those people are standing out in the lobby? They want to see Diane D or at least catch a glimpse of her. When you heard and read that Diane D was going to come here to this hotel to make a speech, you got so excited and wanted to come here too and hang outside the hotel all night so you can get a chance to see her or catch a glimpse of her. We were one of the first people on line, so we’re very lucky we got the chance to get in here.”

“I know. I wish we weren’t so lucky, because now I’m afraid.”

“Ronda, you’re getting a chance to see Diane D. Be happy and don’t be afraid.”

“Okay. I’ll try my best. I’m just nervous that’s all.”

“Well try your best not to be nervous because I heard a lot of people wanted to come here to this hotel when they found out that Diane D was going to be here, but they were afraid too.”

“They were?”

“Yeah. They were also afraid that Diane D might levitate right inside this hotel then the same chaos might happen here, like it did in Germany.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah. Did you notice that when the people first walked in this room to sit down, they went straight to the back to sit down in the back seats first, then when there were no more seats in the back, everybody else had to eventually take seats in the middle of the room then towards the front because they’re all afraid of Diane D just like you are.”

“Aren’t you a little bit afraid of Diane D yourself?”

“Yeah I have to admit, I’m afraid of her too. I hope her family comes in here with her because I'll feel a little safer if her family be in here with her."

"Yeah me too." Ronda and Nicole turn their heads back forward and look towards the front of the room again at the eerie photos, paintings and sketches along the front wall. They then look back at the TV monitor now showing eerie video slides of the 'end' of the 'Illusions Of Zero Gravity' performance. The part of Diane D levitating face up in a horizontal position suddenly appears on the screen! Ronda, Nicole and the rest of the people in the audience start to gasp and scream!

"Please turn that off," the audience members plead. A white male hotel staff member approaches the monitor and shuts it off.

A stocky black male hotel staffer who is bald and wearing a suit walks into the room. He approaches the platform. He steps up on the platform and approaches the podium. He stands behind the podium and looks at the crowd. He then speaks into the microphone and says, "Hello ladies and gentleman, thanks for coming here today." The audience claps and cheers. The man then says, "My name is Herman Smith. I'm one of the managers of the hotel. Ladies and gentleman, we have a very special guest here today who wanted to make a point and get her point across." The audience starts to cheer. Herman Smith then says, "Ladies and gentleman, here is, Diane D!"

The crowd in the room stands, claps and cheers as Nicole turns to Ronda and nervously says, "Here she comes!"

"Oh oh," Ronda nervously says. "I'm afraid to look at her."

"Me too. But I'm going to look anyway," Nicole smiles and says as she and Ronda anxiously turn their heads and nervously look towards the front door.

Puffy-eyed Diane D enters the conference room holding a water bottle and walks towards the platform wearing a dark brown shirt with a short dark brown velvet jacket over it, a matching short dark brown velvet mini-skirt with dark brown stockings baring her muscular legs and thick black shoes as she looks at the crowd and waves her hand to them. She is wearing a matching dark brown velvet bow at the end of her long thick braid.

The crowd continues to stand, clap and cheer as Diane D approaches the platform.

Diane D steps up on the platform. She approaches the podium as Herman Smith steps aside to make room for her. She stands behind the podium and looks at the crowd as the camera men point the cameras at her. She places the bottled water on the podium. Herman Smith turns to Diane D and says, "I'll be in the hallway with your family." Diane D nods her head to Herman Smith. Herman Smith then turns and walks away from the podium as Diane D looks back at the crowd. Herman Smith walks towards the doorway. He then steps out the room and closes the door behind himself. Diane D continues to look at the crowd. She then speaks into the microphone as her deep baritone voice comes out of the speakers and says, "Hello ladies and gentleman."

"Hello Diane D," the crowd anxiously says as they stop clapping and cheering.

"Diane D!" a male voice in the back shouts.

"How is everybody doing today?" Diane D asks.

"Okay," the crowd says. "How are you?"

"I'm doing okay for now."

"Oooohh," the crowd says as they nervously look at each other, then nervously look back at Diane D and smile towards her.

"We love you Diane D!" another voice in the back shouts.

“Thanks,” Diane D says. “Have a seat Ladies and Gentleman.”

The crowd sits back down in the chairs. They anxiously and nervously look back at Diane D.

Diane D looks at the crowd again. She then speaks into the microphone again and firmly says, “Okay Ladies and Gentlemen, we’re going to cut down to the chase. We all know why we are here. A lot of you heard that the Dianettes and I are quitting singing and dancing inside theaters and arenas.”

“Aaaaahh,” the crowd says.

“A lot of you heard what happened in the back hallway of the clinic area, in the hospital that I worked in.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at each other, then nervously look back at Diane D.

“And a lot of you heard what happened back in Germany during the Dianettes and my ‘Illusions of Zero Gravity’ performance.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at each other again, then nervously look back at Diane D.

Diane D holds and puzzled looks down at the eerie sketch of herself kung fu kicking the storage room door inside the newspaper that is sitting on top of the podium. She frowns and pokes her mouth to the side as she stares down at the sketch. She then turns towards the front wall and says, “To tell you all the truth people, I don’t remember doing this!” as she points at the sketch and painting of herself kung fu kicking the storage room door wide open.

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously and frighteningly look at the large eerie sketch and large eerie painting of Diane D kung fu kicking the storage room door.

Diane D then turns back to the crowd. She looks at the crowd and says, “When the police brought me and my family to the storage room door to look at the storage room door to see if I can remember anything that happened to it, I couldn’t remember a thing about what happened to that storage room door. I don’t remember ever being near it that night it got damaged. Then when the police brought me and my family inside the storage room to see if I can remember anything that happened inside there, I couldn’t remember a thing about what happened inside the storage room at all. And I don’t remember doing any of that levitation performance everyone has been talking about!”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at each other, then back at Diane D.

Diane D holds and puzzled looks down at the eerie photos of her levitation performance that is sitting on top of the podium. She frowns again as she stares down at the sketch. She then turns towards the front wall and says, “And to tell you all the truth people, I don’t remember doing any of this!” as she points at the large photos of her levitation performance.

The crowd quietly and shockingly look at the large eerie photos of Diane D’s levitation performance along the front wall. The people are so quiet you can hear a pin drop inside the room as they frighteningly stare at the photos on the wall. They frighteningly look back at Diane D.

Diane D turns back to the crowd and says, “Even when the German security and authorities showed the video of me levitating, to me and my family the following day, I didn’t recognize myself in the video. When the doctors here in New York showed the video of me levitating to me and my family last week to see if I can remember anything about it, that's when I finally broke my silence about it and told them all, that couldn't possibly be me in the video, because let me get one thing straight, and let me get it straight right now..... I DON'T KNOW HOW TO LEVITATE EVEN IF I WANTED TO!"

The crowd frighteningly looks at Diane D.

"Levitation is something that is totally impossible to do! But it's a good thing the German security and authorities did show me the video of myself supposedly levitating, because if I never saw the video and they all told me that I actually levitated, I would have thought that they were all full of crap, but it's a good thing I saw the video. I still don't think it's me in the video. If it is me, I don't think I actually levitated. I think they must have did some type of special effects to the video to make it look like I'm levitating. I even think these photos of me levitating aren't real. I believe they were somehow Photoshopped or something like that. But I would just like to apologize to everyone and anyone who got scared and terrified, by the Dianettes and my 'Illusion of Zero Gravity' performance. I heard a lot of people who witnessed the performance Live were almost scared to death and had to be hospitalized. We didn't mean to scare anyone or cause anyone to get hurt. Believe me, I'm not out to get people. I just do my thing. So therefore, if anybody was scared or hurt by me and the Dianettes' 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' performance, you don't have to worry about it anymore because the Dianettes and I will never perform anything like that ever again!"

The crowd nervously looks at Diane D.

"My family has banned me and the Dianettes from ever performing the 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' again. That's one of the reasons why the Dianettes and I won't be singing and dancing inside theaters or arenas anymore."

"Aaaaah," the crowd says.

"It's for the best. So if there's anyone who would like to ask me any questions at all, the time is now. And you're going to have to ask me now while I'm standing up here. I don't want anyone to come up to me on the streets and start asking me any questions. So whatever any of you have on your minds, you all better ask me now. I'll try to answer your questions as best as I can."

Tons of people in the audience raise their hands.

Diane D looks at the people and says, "You all can go to the side of the room and line up right there at the microphone," as she points her finger to the microphone stand at the side of the room.

The people stand and turn to their right. They anxiously walk to that side of the room towards the microphone. They start to line up behind the microphone.

Diane D waits patiently at the podium as she watches the people line up.

The people finish lining up. A white male reporter around his mid 40's is the first one on the line at the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes sir."

"Hi Diane D," the reporter says. "So Diane D, you don't remember ever levitating during your 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' performance at all?"

"No, I remember nothing about it."

"Well according to the video, you had your face and chest down to the floor while your legs were in a split position and you stayed like that for a while. Some of the German spectators suspected that you were meditating right there on the stage floor. Were you meditating right there on the stage floor Diane D?"

"Yes as a matter of fact, I was meditating."

“You were?”

“Yes I was.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at each other, then nervously look back at Diane D.

“Why were you meditating?” the reporter asks.

“So I can get into deep concentration and do my performance right,” Diane D says. “I didn’t mean to meditate that long.”

“You didn’t?”

“No. When I started to meditate, I accidentally hypnotized myself.”

“What!” the audience shockingly shouts.

“You hypnotized yourself?!” the man shockingly asks.

“Yes I did,” Diane D says.

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they shockingly look at each other, then shockingly look at Diane D.

“Unfortunately, my self-hypnosis got out of hand. When I felt myself going under, the next minute I know, is that I found my soul or spirit floating around in space.”

“You felt yourself going under, then you found your soul or spirit floating around in space?” the reporter asks.

“Yeah. Then the next thing I know, is that I suddenly felt myself falling.”

“You felt yourself falling?”

“Yeah. Then I felt myself land and hit a floor. Then I heard a whole bunch of screaming all over the place. Then I opened my eyes and found myself laying up on the stage floor.”

“You opened your eyes and found yourself laying up on the stage floor?”

“Yeah. I started looking around. I didn’t know what was happening or what happened. All I know, is that I kept hearing a whole bunch of screaming. The next thing I see, is my family rushing right towards me.”

“You saw your family rushing towards you?”

“Yeah.”

“How long was it, from the time you first felt yourself going under, to the time you felt your body land and hit the stage floor, heard screaming then opened your eyes and saw your family rushing to you?”

“It seemed like a minute.”

“It seemed like a minute between those two points in time?”

“Yeah.”

“But it wasn’t a minute Diane D. According to the video and the German spectators, your performance from the time you first had your face and chest down to the stage floor meditating with your legs in a split position, to the time you landed back on the stage floor then opened your eyes and saw your family rushing to you, lasted around ten to fifteen minutes. But you said only a minute went by between those two points in time.”

“I know I said a minute went by between those two points in time because that’s the way it seemed to me. The German security guards and camera people already told me, that when I first meditated, to the time I landed on the stage floor, laid up, opened my eyes again then saw my family rushing to me, ten or fifteen minutes had went by.”

“They already told you that?”

“Yes they did.”

“You don’t think ten or fifteen minutes went by?”

“To them, ten or fifteen minutes went by. To me, it seemed like a minute or less.”

“A minute or less?”

“Yeah.”

“Well if it only seemed like a minute or less to you, that means you lost ten to fifteen minutes of consciousness between those two points in time.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at Diane D.

“I guess I did lost consciousness between those two points in time,” Diane D says. “It’s the same feeling when a person is laying down on the operating table about to get an operation. They’re wide awake one minute, they close their eyes and the next minute they open their eyes, they realize that the entire operation had already been done and several hours had already went by. That’s the same experience I felt on that stage.”

“Oh yeah?” the reporter asks.

“Yes.”

“But the thing is, you didn’t have an operation Diane D. No doctor or hospital putted you under. You putted yourself under, and while you were under and unconscious, instead of you having an operation, that was the exact moment your body levitated right over the stage and your body levitated twice!”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at each other, then nervously look back at Diane D.

“So right after you started meditating on the stage, you started balancing your entire body in the air then you lifted your entire body upside down and did hand stands on two hands, then you did the hand stand on one hand, then you did split positions while you were upside down! Then you did the hand stand on your fingertips from only one hand while you were still doing splits upside down! You don’t remember doing hand stands on your fingertips or doing splits upside down during your ‘Illusions of Zero Gravity’ performance?”

“No, I don’t remember doing any hand stands at all during my ‘Illusions of Zero Gravity’ performance,” Diane D says, “nor do I remember doing splits upside down.”

“You saw it in the video, didn’t you?”

“Yeah I saw it in the video, but I still don’t remember doing that. I only remember doing the split when I first got down on the floor just before I started to meditate. After I felt myself going under, I don’t remember doing anything else right after that.”

“You don’t?”

“No.”

“Oh my God,” the crowd says as they shockingly look at each other. “She doesn’t remember,” they shockingly whispers. They puzzled look back at Diane D.

“The only thing I remember after I meditated, was seeing my soul or spirit floating around in space, then feeling myself falling and landing hard on the stage floor, hearing a whole bunch of screaming, opening my eyes looking around, then see my family rushing to me.”

“And that was ten to fifteen minutes after you went under,” the reporter asks.

“I guess so. But I am able to do hand stands on a regular basis, because hand stands is something I’ve been doing all my life. I perform hand stands during my gymnastic stunts, but I’ve never done any hand stands on my fingertips alone, especially on my fingertips from one hand! I don’t think my fingertips are that strong to lift or carry my entire body weight.”

“You don’t?”

“No I don’t.”

“But that’s what happened Diane D. You did a hand stand on your fingertips and you did it with fingertips from one hand. The video proves it!”

“I did see myself doing the hand stands in the video when the German authorities showed the video to me and my family, but I just don’t remember doing the hand stands at that time.”

“No?”

“No.”

“Wow. Okay thank you.” The reporter steps away from the microphone. Another white man around his 40’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Mister.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, you say that you think the photos of you levitating on stage is somehow Photoshopped, right?”

“Right.”

“How can you think that those photos of you levitating on stage is somehow Photoshopped, when around five thousand people actually witnessed you levitate right before their eyes? Did you get a chance to meet any of those spectators who saw you levitate? Did you talk to them about it?”

“No I didn’t. I didn’t talk to anybody about it.”

“You didn’t?”

“No. I stayed quiet after the performance.”

“You did?”

“Yeah.”

“How come?”

“I just wasn’t in a mood to talk after my performance. I was still sort of out of it.”

“You were still out of it?”

“Yeah.”

“From what? When you putted yourself under?”

“Yeah, I wasn’t fully back yet.”

“You weren’t”

“No.”

“Are you fully back now? I mean, how is everything with you now Diane D? Are you okay?”

“I hope so.”

“I hope so too. Well, I’m glad you’re back.”

“Thanks.”

The man steps away from the microphone. An Indian man around his mid 40’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man, points her finger at him and says, “Yes sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, you said when you fell and landed on the stage floor, you saw your family rushing towards you, right?”

“That’s right.”

“Did your family see you levitate? What do they think about it?”

“My family claim they never saw me levitate.”

“They never saw you levitate?”

“That’s what they said.”

“So where were they while you were doing your performance?”

“They were inside one of the park trailers watching my performance on a TV monitor.”

“They were inside one of the park trailers watching your performance on a TV monitor?”

“Yeah. They said they saw the beginning and middle of my performance on the monitor, but didn’t catch the end of my performance.”

“They didn’t catch the end of your performance?”

“No they didn’t.”

“How come?”

“They said the TV monitor inside the trailer suddenly started to malfunction and went blank while they were watching my performance.”

“The TV monitor inside the trailer started to malfunction and went blank while they were watching your performance?”

“That’s what they said. They said they were all wondering what happened to the TV monitor, why did it all of a sudden stopped working and wanted to know what made it go off. They were pissed because they were missing the end of my performance on the monitor. They were trying to find out what happened to the monitor and fix it real quick. They said the monitor was working during the beginning of the ‘Illusions of Zero Gravity’ performance when me, the Dianettes and the Howard Johnson dancers were performing. They said the monitor was working during the Dianettes’ performance. They said the monitor was working during the beginning and middle of my performance, but around the end of my performance, they said that’s when the monitor suddenly started to malfunction and went blank and they couldn’t see anything on the screen anymore.”

“They couldn’t?”

“No. That’s when they started hearing screaming. After a while, they gave up on the monitor and started to rush out the trailer. They had to hurry through the park to catch the end of my performance. Then they said they rushed out to where the crowd was. They said they couldn’t see what was going on at first because of all the people running, screaming and panicking. They said they started to hurry through the crowd and rushed to the stage. They said when they reached the stage, that’s when they saw me land on the stage floor.”

“That’s when they saw you land?”

“Yeah.”

“Where did they think you landed from?”

“They said they thought I did a back-flip then fell down from one of my flips.”

“They thought you did a back-flip then fell down from it?”

“That’s what they said. They thought one of my gymnastic stunts went wrong.”

“They did? So in other words, they caught the very tail ending of your performance when they reached the stage?”

“Yeah.”

“So therefore, your family never once saw you levitate?”

“No. They only saw what happened in the video when the German authorities showed the video to us the next day.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Well what do they think of the video?”

“They claim they don’t know what to think about the video. They think it’s special effects also.”

“They think it’s special effects?”

“Yeah. They think the same way I do, that levitation is impossible. They said if levitation did happen, there is definitely a trick to it, they just don’t know what that trick is.”

“I see. Did they ever find out what happened to the TV monitor and why it all of a sudden malfunctioned and stopped working?”

“No. They said when they went back to the trailer to pick up their belongings, the monitor all of a sudden was working again.”

“It was?”

“That’s what they said.”

“Wow. That’s strange that the monitor went out on your family just before your levitation performance. And it’s strange that your body stopped levitating and fell as soon as your family approached the stage and they only got to see you land, which made them think, that one of your gymnastic stunts went wrong. So therefore, your family never once got to see you levitate Live?”

“No. They only saw what was on video the next day.”

“Wow,” the crowd says.

“Okay thank you,” the man says. The man steps away from the microphone. A white woman around her 60’s with long salt and pepper hair wearing a red sweatshirt steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes ma’am.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, I would like to know, how do you feel, that a lot of people are sort of afraid of you?”

“How do I feel that a lot of people are afraid of me?”

“Yeah, like the hospital employees who didn’t feel safe if you continued to work there.”

“Well, I guess I feel sort of hurt by that, because nobody needs to be afraid of me. I’m not out to get anyone. I had minded my own business when I was working at the hospital, I didn’t bother anybody there, and I mind my own business when I’m out in the street. As long as no one is bothering me or my family, people don’t have to worry about me.”

“It’s not you personally that people are afraid of Diane D. It’s that other personality that people are afraid of!”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at each other, then look back at Diane D.

“Other personality?” Diane D asks.

“Yeah,” the woman says.

“What other personality?”

“I don’t know how to say this Diane D, but, a lot of people think that you’re possessed.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at the woman, then look back at Diane D.

“Possessed?” Diane D asks. “A lot of people think that I’m possessed?”

“Yeah,” the woman says.

“Possessed by what?”

“Some unknown entity, some unknown personality or some unknown force that seems to take over you or your body.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at the woman, then look back at Diane D as they nervously nod their heads.

“An unknown entity, unknown personality or unknown force that seems to take over me or my body?” Diane D asks.

“Yeah,” the woman says.

“No entity, other personality or force is taking over me Ma’am.”

“So how come, you don’t remember a lot of the things that you’ve done, like attacking people, dragging several people all at once, kung fu kicking security guards injuring them for life, kung fu kicking a stuck storage room door wide open then damaging the storage room and levitating in mid air?!”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at Diane D.

“A lot of people feel, that another soul, spirit, personality or force is taking over you or your body, causing you to do certain things that you yourself might not even be aware of! How do you feel that people think that you’re possessed?”

“I don’t know how I should feel about that Ma’am,” Diane D says. “I don’t think I’m possessed.”

“You don’t?”

“No. Why should I think that I’m possessed?”

“Because a lot of people think you are Diane D. They believe that’s where your violent behavior and your superhuman strength comes from! You said yourself that levitation is something that is totally impossible to do, but yet you did it!”

“I don’t remember doing that Ma’am!”

“And dragging several people all at once is definitely something that is totally impossible to do, but yet you do it! The little boy who claimed you attacked him inside the school hallway that night claimed to authorities, that when you kung fu kicked him, you had kung fu kicked him a couple of feet in the air like if he was a football! No one can possibly do that, but yet that kid claimed you did it! And kung fu kicking a stuck storage room door wide open that has heavy office furniture leaning behind it, is definitely something that is totally impossible to do, but the two hospital employees claimed to have witnessed you do it!”

“I don’t remember doing any of those things you just mentioned Miss!”

“See? You don’t get to see or remember the stuff you do or did! You don’t see the attacks, the damage or destruction that you have done in the past, because your soul or spirit might not have actually been there inside your physical body during those times, and another soul, spirit or personality was most likely there inside your physical body during those times and that other soul, spirit or personality did the vicious attacks, the damage and destruction!”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at the woman, then look back at Diane D as they nervously nod their heads.

“That other soul, spirit or personality is the one with the superhuman strength and the only person in the world, who’s capable of having superhuman strength or superhuman power like that, is a possessed person! I just want to know, if you think you’re possessed.”

“No I don’t think I’m possessed Ma’am,” Diane D says. “Do you think I’m possessed?”

“Well, not right now.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they shockingly look at the woman, then nervously look back at Diane D.

Diane D becomes angry as she looks at the woman.

The woman frighteningly hides a little as the rest of the people frighteningly look at Diane D.

Diane D then says to the woman, “Well let me tell you something Miss. Yes there are things my family and other people told me that I’ve done in the past, but I simply just don’t remember them. I am getting help and treatment for my constant memory lapse and hopefully, this situation that I’m going through will stop because it’s not easy for me either! It’s not easy for me to be fine one minute, the next minute, I feel intense pain or find mysterious bruises all over my body and I be having no idea where the intense pain or mysterious bruises come from. They just appear. That is not easy for me. Yeah people might be afraid of me because they think I’m possessed, but I am really suffering from this condition that I have and I wish this condition on no one. Now every time I feel intense pain all over my body or find mysterious bruises on myself that seem to just come out of no where, I have to always wonder and think to myself, did something happen to me that I’m not aware of, or did I DO something, that I’m not aware of. It’s not easy to live like that.”

“Sorry you’re suffering from that condition Diane D,” the woman says.

“So am I.”

“Well, I hope you get all the help and treatment you need.”

“Thanks.”

The woman sadly looks at Diane D. She then steps away from the microphone. A big heavy black man around his late 40’s who’s bald steps up to the microphone.

Diane D takes a drink from her bottled water. She places the bottled water back down on the podium. She looks at the man and says, “Yes sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, I just want to ask you, have you ever tried to reach out to that little boy Marcus in any kind of way? You know, the little boy the lady just mentioned, the little boy who sent you and your family that phony letter about a 3-year old boy who’s dying of leukemia, just so that you can appear at his school. I work at the school Marcus used to go to.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at the man, then look back at Diane D.

“I and a few other teachers went to visit Marcus to see how he’s doing. We found out that he’s still suffering from nightmares with the frightening encounter he had with you on that third floor school hallway that night. Have you ever tried to reach out to him?”

“Yeah I have,” Diane D says, “so did my family. We reached out to the little boy’s mom and grandma and spoke to them on the telephone.”

“Y’all did?”

“Yes we did.”

“Do you know how’s he doing?”

“Well from what the little boy’s mom and grandma told me and my family, the little boy wants nothing to do with me.”

“He doesn’t?”

“No he doesn’t. His mom and his grandma told me and my family, that the little boy still fears me to this day and have nightmares about me coming after him attacking him. I’m not even thinking about trying to get that little boy. Yeah I was upset about him lying to me and my family about a 3-year old boy who’s dying of leukemia whose dying wish is to meet me, but I don’t remember doing any of that stuff to him that he claims to everyone I did!”

“You don’t remember attacking him on the third floor school hallway that night, kung fu kicking him breaking his wrist, kung fu kicking him a couple of feet in the air, kung fu kicking his cell phone right out of his hand, refusing to let him go pass you when he was trying to get back to where the principal’s office is, refusing to let him retrieve his cell while it was laying on the floor ringing? You don’t remember doing any of that stuff?”

“No I don’t! Why would I refuse to let him go pass me to get back to where the principal’s office is?”

“I don’t know, that’s what he claims to authorities you did!”

“And why would I refuse to let him retrieve his cell phone while it was on the floor ringing?”

“I don’t know, he claims to authorities you did that too! Do you remember trying to chase after him in the back stairwell?”

“No I don’t! I don’t remember ever being in that back stairwell!”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at Diane D.

“Like I told my family, the police, the doctors and everyone else, that I was standing at the edge of the school hallway after I backed away from that little boy. Once I backed away from the little boy, he never even came close to me. He was still way down the middle of the school hallway far away from where I was standing! That was the last place I saw him. When I last saw that little kid, he was fine, he wasn’t hurt or anything, he was just leaning against the wall. And while that kid was still way down the middle of the school hallway leaning against the wall, the next minute, I find myself waking up in my family’s van while my husband was driving the van and my parents, Aunt and Uncle were in the back seats.”

“I see. So being that Marcus was fine when you last saw him, you don’t think he got hurt at all?”

“If he did get hurt, it wasn’t by me. Most likely, someone else hurt him.”

“Someone else?”

“Yes.”

“Do you have any idea, who that someone else might be?”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they nervously look at the man then at Diane D.

“No, I have no idea who that someone else might be,” Diane D says. “But whoever that person is, I wish that person wouldn’t have done it, because that little kid is treating me like I’m the monster and I’m not! I wanted to talk to that little kid in person to talk about our issue, but his mom and grandma says that he doesn’t want to come near me! I even offered to talk to the little boy over the telephone and he refused to come to the phone! I could hear him in the background screaming in fear, telling his mom and his grandma that he’s still afraid of me and begged his mom and grandma to please hang up the phone while I was on it!”

“You overheard him in the background screaming in fear telling his mom and grandma to please hang up the phone while you were on the phone?” the man asks.

“I sure did.”

“How do you feel about that?”

“I feel hurt by that because I’m not out to get that little boy, I never was! After that trick he and his brother pulled on me and my family, I was furious of course, then I moved on! Hopefully, he’ll be able to do the same. The only damaged he and his brother did to me and my family, is that we don’t trust any sympathy letters that come our way anymore.”

“Wow. How do you feel, that he has nightmares about you coming to get him attacking him, because I hear he has nightmares about you coming to get him and attacking him all the time! Yeah we all have nightmares once in a while during our lifetime, but we never really repeat the same nightmare, especially over and over. The next nightmare any of us is going to have, is usually going to be a different one, not the same one over and over! I hear that Marcus constantly wakes up in cold sweats from the constant nightmares he has about you coming after him attacking him! I hear the counseling that he gets is not really helping him, that his mom and grandma are so scared that he’s going to compensate suicide, just to escape from the constant nightmares he has about YOU coming after him attacking him! He feels, that this evil vicious entity that he encountered on the third floor school hallway that night is not finished with him yet!”

“Oh no,” the crowd says as they frighteningly look at the man, then frighteningly look back at Diane D.

“He feels that this evil vicious entity is trying to finish where it left off in the school hallway that night! How do you feel, that he has constant nightmares about you coming after him attacking him? How do you feel, that he might compensate suicide because of the constant nightmares he has about YOU?!”

“That is a real tough question for me to answer sir,” Diane D says. “I don’t know how I should feel about that. Should I feel guilty about it? No I don’t feel guilty about it. I don’t control anybody’s dreams or nightmares.”

“Do you think, that this other personality or evil vicious entity, is coming into that kid’s nightmares taunting him and practically scaring him to death?”

“Other personality or evil vicious entity?”

“Yeah.”

“I don’t know what other personality or evil vicious entity you’re talking about sir. This kid is claiming to everybody that he sees ME in his nightmares, not any evil vicious entity!”

“I know. I was just wondering, if this other personality or evil vicious entity, is making itself up to look like YOU then enter into this kid’s dreams and nightmares to frighten him to death!”

“Oh no,” the crowd says as they frighteningly look at the man, then frighteningly look back at Diane D.

“Making itself up to look like me?” Diane D says.

“Yes!” the man says.

“Well this kid sees SOMETHING in his dreams or nightmares that looks like me or something pretending to be me. All I can say, is that whatever it is that’s coming into his dreams and nightmares terrifying him, is not me. I don’t have the power to enter people’s dreams or nightmares.”

“Wow. Even though you moved on with your life and not bothering Marcus, he’s still suffering! You might have forgiven Marcus, but he doesn’t think that this evil vicious entity has forgiven him. He thinks that this evil vicious entity is continuing to torment him where it left off inside the school hallway!”

“Oh no,” the crowd says again as they frighteningly look at the man, then frighteningly look back at Diane D.

“If the counseling is not helping him, you might be the only one that can fix this problem,” the man says.

“Me be the only one that can fix the problem?” Diane D asks.

“Yeah.”

“How am I going to fix the problem sir, when this kid wants nothing to do with me?!”

“I don’t mean fix the problem from his end, I mean fix it from your end. Maybe you can talk to this evil vicious entity and tell this evil vicious entity to leave Marcus alone!”

“Talk to this evil vicious entity?”

“Yes!”

“How can I talk to an evil vicious entity sir, where the heck will I find one?! I don’t think there is an evil vicious entity!”

“You don’t?”

“No I don’t! I’m afraid that nonsense might all be in that kid’s head.”

“You do?”

“Yes I do! Do you think that maybe his subconscious might be feeling guilty about what he and his brother did to me and my family? I think maybe his own subconscious is bothering him and tormenting him, that’s why he sees me, or what looks like me in his nightmares!”

“Maybe it might be his subconscious.”

“It IS his subconscious! Maybe he needs to get that part checked out!”

“Maybe. Boy, I know he’s sorry the day he and his brother ever tricked you and your family Diane D. I wouldn’t want to trick you or your family.”

“Neither would I. Sorry I can’t be of any help to him. I tried.”

“Well thanks for trying. And I’m so sorry that phony letter incident happened to you and your family Diane D. And I’m sorry that hallway incident happened between you and Marcus. Sorry what you two went through with each other.”

“Thanks.”

The man then steps away from the microphone. A Latino man around his late 40’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, I just want to know, did you try to give your cousin Dana an abortion?”

“Did I try to give my cousin Dana an abortion. I’m not allowed to discuss that sir.”

“You’re not?”

“No. For legal reasons, I can’t discuss it.”

“Oh I see. Well did you try to give your husband a vasectomy?”

“Did I try to give my husband a vasectomy. I’m not allowed to discuss that either.”

“No?”

“No. Sorry.”

“Okay thanks.” The man then steps away from the microphone. A black woman around her late 40’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Miss.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, I would like to know, are you still working at that hospital, the hospital where they said you kung fu kicked that storage room door?”

“No I’m not working at that hospital anymore.”

“You’re not?”

“No.”

“How come?”

“My family made me resign from there.”

“They did?”

“Yes they did.”

“Why did they make you resign from there?”

“They claim the hospital employees didn’t feel safe around me working there ever since they heard the story about me kung fu kicking that storage room door. Like I said, I’m not out to get people. I’m the type of person, you don’t bother me, I won’t bother you. Those hospital employees had no reason to be afraid of me, but my family made me resign anyway.”

“I see. So since you won’t be working at the hospital anymore or singing and dancing anymore, what will you do now?”

“The Dianettes and I will still sing and dance, but only in our church when we open it, and I’ll still be working with my family’s organization. We’ll be working on the Dianettes’ clothing line. I’ll still teach my Health and Fitness class and I’ll still do some personal training. That haven’t changed.”

“I see. Okay, thanks.” The woman steps away from the microphone. A white male around his late 40’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Mister.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, after that incident happened between you and that little boy Marcus inside that school hallway, your family claimed to the police that you meditate from time to time. They claim that when you meditate, your soul or spirit is able to travel outside of your physical body. Is it true that your soul or spirit is able to travel outside of your physical body?”

“Yes it’s true.”

“It is?”

“Yes.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd shockingly says as they nervously look at Diane D.

“Is that what happens when you meditate?” the man asks.

“Yes that’s exactly what happens when I meditate,” Diane D says.

“Oooohh,” the audience says.

“Not all the time though.”

“Wow,” the man says. “Is that what’s happening in that Body and Soul painting on the front wall, your soul or spirit leaving your physical body while you’re meditating?” the man asks.

“Yeah.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd shockingly says.

“Who painted that?” the man asks.

“I don’t know,” Diane D says, “some artist painted it.”

“Oh yeah? What made them want to paint that?”

“When word got out to the public that I meditate, and my soul or spirit is able to leave my physical body and travel outside of it, people were inspired by it.”

“They were?”

“Yes they were. They got very curious about that information and wanted to know more about it. It also inspired them to paint a picture of it.”

“It did?”

“Yes it did. So a paint artist winds up coming up with this painting of my soul or spirit leaving my physical body while I’m meditating.”

“Wow. Is that what happened while you were meditating on stage in Germany, your soul left your physical body?”

“Yes that’s exactly what happened.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they frighteningly look at Diane D.

Diane D looks at the crowd and says, “Don’t be alarmed people. I only left my physical body temporary.”

“Is that what you meant when you said you weren’t fully back yet?” the man asks.

“Yes that’s exactly what I meant.”

“That’s why you didn’t really talk after your levitation performance?”

“Yes, that’s exactly why.”

“Why did you leave your physical body Diane D?”

“Because that’s what happens to me sometimes when I meditate. Like I said earlier, I didn’t mean to meditate that long on the stage in Germany, it was an accident. Then the accident got out of hand and I accidentally hypnotized myself. That’s when my spirit left my physical body. I didn’t mean for that to happen on the stage.”

“You didn’t?”

“No.”

“I see. Your family also claim to the police, that when your soul or spirit travels outside of your physical body, your soul or spirit is able to travel to the spirit world where you see dead people.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they shockingly look at Diane D.

“I would like to know from you, is it true? Is it true that you’re able to travel to the spirit world and see people who have passed away?”

“At times, yeah,” Diane D says.

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they shockingly look at Diane D again.

“Not all the time.”

“Who have you seen there?” the man asks

“I really don’t like to get into that part because a lot of people do get freaked out by it. So that part, I would rather not discuss.”

“Can you at least give one proof that you’ve seen dead people?”

“No I’m not going to give any proof that I’ve seen dead people because I don’t owe anybody any proof about that. I would rather not discuss that part.”

“Okay, sorry. Thanks.” The man steps away from the microphone. A Latino male around his mid 50’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Mister.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Yo no hablo ingles, hablo espanol.”

“Eso esta bien, vaya.”

“Okay. Diane D, he oido que la familia fue conmovido y asombrado cuando se enteraron de que ya se sabe que los empleados del hospital, que afirmo haber presenciado que kung fu patadas que puerta de la sala de almacenamiento. Es cierto que usted sabia que los testigos que dicen haber visto que kung fu kick la sala de almacenamiento puerta?”

Diane D turns to the crowd and says, “This gentleman says that he heard, my family was shocked and stunned, when they found out I knew who the hospital employees were, who claimed to have witnessed me kung fu kick the storage room door, and he wants to know, if it’s true that I knew who the witnesses were? I’m going to tell him in his language then I’ll translate it to you.” Diane D turns back to the man and says, “Si, es verdad que sabia quienes eran los testigos que afirmaban haber presenciado me patada al kung fu puerta de la sala de almacenaiento.”

“Es cierto?”

“Si, lo es.”

Ronda excitingly turns to Nicole and says, “Oh my God, she’s even bi-lingual.”

“Of course she’s bi-lingual Ronda,” Nicole says, “she’s Dominican.”

“I know. It’s just that I hardly ever hear her speak Spanish.”

“I think she mainly speaks Spanish at home with her family. I hear she speaks a third language too.”

“A third language? She speaks three languages?”

“That’s what I heard.” Nicole and Ronda look back towards the Latino man and Diane D.

The Latino man continues, “Como has encontrado que los testigos eran? Ha visto alguna vez ellos en la parte del pasillo donde la bandeja cayo?”

“No nunca vi quien estaba ahi donde la bandeja se cayo,” Diane D says.

“Usted nunca?”

“No. Se fueron cuando me puse alli.”

“Como sabes que fueron los testigos? Quien te dijo que los testigos fueron?”

“Nadie me dijo que los testigos eran.”

“Nadie?”

“No.”

“Como sabe usted quienes eran, si nunca vio que se encontraba en la zona?”

“Una fuerte intuicion vino sobre mi y me dijo exactamente que los testigos.”

“Una fuerte intuicion llego al lugar y le dijo a usted?”

“Si.”

“Que intuicion fuerte?”

“Yo no se señor. Es dificil de explicar. Algunos fenomenos no se puede explicar. Es justo ahi.”

“Es alli?”

“Si.”

“Esta bien. Gracias.” The man steps away from the microphone.

Diane D turns to the crowd and says, “When the man asked me, if it’s true that I knew who the witnesses were who claim to have witnessed me kung fu kick the storage room door, I told him yes it’s true, I did knew who the witnesses were who claimed to have witnessed me kung fu kick the storage room door. Then he asked me ‘how did I find out who the witnesses were’. Then he asked me ‘did I see them in the part of the hallway where the tray dropped’. I told him ‘no I never saw who was over there where the tray dropped'. I told him they were gone by the time I got there. Then he asked me 'how did I know who the witnesses were. He wanted to know who told me. I told him 'no one told me who the witnesses were'. Then he asked me 'how did I know who they were, if I never saw who was in the area'. I told him a strong intuition came over me and told me exactly who the witnesses were."

"Oooohh," the crowd says as they shockingly look at Diane D.

"Then he asked me 'what strong intuition'. I told him 'I didn't know, that it's hard to explain'. I told him 'some phenomenas can't be explained. It's just there."

"Wow," the crowd says. A black man around his late 40's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes Mister."

"Hi Diane D," the man says. "Diane D, in that Body and Soul painting of you meditating with your soul or spirit coming outside of your physical body, have you ever actually turned around and looked back at your physical body while your soul or spirit is outside of it?"

"Yes I have."

"You have?"

"Yes."

"Oooohh," the crowd says as they shockingly look at Diane D.

"What did you see?" the man asks. "What was your physical body doing, while you were outside of it looking at it?"

"Nothing," Diane D says. "It was still sitting on the floor in a meditated position where I left it, just like in the painting."

"Just like in the painting?"

"Yeah."

"Oooohh," the crowd says.

"So whenever your soul or spirit steps outside of your physical body, your soul or spirit looks back at your physical body and you actually do see your own physical body sitting there on the floor in a meditated position?" the man asks.

"Yes I do," Diane D says.

"Wow," the audience says.

"Do your physical body's eyes be opened or closed when you look back at it?" the man asks.

"Sometimes my physical eyes be closed and sometimes it be half opened just like in the painting," Diane D says.

"Wow, that seems so creepy!" the man says as the rest of the crowd frighteningly nod their heads again. "How do you feel while your soul or spirit is outside of your physical body looking at it?"

"I feel okay."

"You do?"

"Yeah."

"Wow. You don't get freaked out by seeing your own self like that? You weren't freaked out by looking at your own physical body from outside of it while it's sitting on the floor, especially in a meditated position? Because I know I would definitely be freaked out by seeing or experiencing something like that if it was me. I think I would pass out if I saw my own physical body sitting there like that, especially while it's still alive! Were you freaked out by that at all?"

“No. It happens to me plenty of times.”

“It does?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow, that is so creepy Diane D, because it’s almost like being a ghost!” the man says as the rest of the crowd frighteningly nod their heads. “In the painting, it looks like you’re sitting on the floor in a state of trance with a look-alike ghost standing right over you looking at you!”

“Oooohh,” the audience says as they frighteningly nod their heads again. “That’s true.”

“So what do you do once you see your physical body sitting there?”

“Once I see that it’s okay, I would leave it temporary then come back into it later,” Diane D says.

“You would? You would just abandon your physical body like that?”

“Not just like that. Once I see that it is okay, then I would leave it and come back into it later.”

“Where do you go?”

“To the spirit world.”

“To the spirit world?”

“Yeah.”

“Oooohh,” the crowd says as they shockingly look at Diane D.

“Wow,” the man says. “How long would you be in the spirit world?”

“I can’t say how long I be there,” Diane D says. “There’s no time measurement there.”

“There isn’t?”

“I don’t think so.”

“Wow. How long would you be away from your physical body before you come and enter back into it?”

“It could be anywhere from a few minutes to a few hours.”

“A few minutes to a few hours?”

“Yeah.”

“How would you know how long your soul or spirit be away from your physical body, if there’s no time measurement in the spirit world?”

“Because there is a clock in my bedroom sitting right there on top of the dresser when I do my meditation. The clock is in full view right where I can see it. I look at the time on the clock just before I first start to meditate. Once I start to meditate, my soul or spirit would leave my physical body. When my soul or spirit returns back into my physical body, I would open my eyes and look right back at the clock. When I look back at the clock, sometimes it will be three minutes later, other times when my soul or spirit returns back into my physical body, the clock will be three hours later.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“How would your physical body be when you come back into it?” the man asks. “Would it be okay?”

“If I don’t feel pain or find mysterious bruises on my physical body, that means nothing happened to it, it is okay,” Diane D says. “If I feel intense pain or find mysterious bruises on my physical body, that means something went wrong or something happened to my physical body while my soul or spirit was away from it.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“What would you think happened to your physical body if you feel pain or find mysterious bruises on it when your soul or spirit returns back into it?”

“I don’t know, I would have no idea. I would usually find out about it later on.”

“Later on?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow. Okay thank you.” The man steps away from the microphone. A beautiful young black female reporter around her mid 30’s with shoulder length hair steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Ma’am.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “So Diane D, none of the members in your family saw you levitate Live at all?”

“No none of them.”

“How in the world is it possible, that none of your family members actually saw you levitate Live when around five thousand spectators did?”

“Simple. My family was not standing outside with the crowd watching my performance. They were watching my performance from a TV monitor inside one of the trailers in the park. While they were watching my performance, the TV monitor inside the trailer suddenly went blank just before my supposed levitation performance, so therefore, my family never got a chance to see the levitation as it happened.”

“They didn’t?”

“No. By the time they all ran out the trailer, ran through the crowd and reached the stage, everything was over. They only caught the tail ending of my performance when they saw me land on the stage floor. And when they saw me land on the stage floor, believe me, levitation was the furthest thing from their minds.”

“Wow. What about the Dianettes? Where were they during your levitation performance?”

“They were all inside the trailer watching my performance on the TV monitor too when the TV monitor went blank.”

“They were?”

“Yes they were.”

“So they never really got to see you levitate Live either, did they?”

“No they didn’t. They only saw it on video the next day with the rest of my family.”

“Wow. No wonder why the Dianettes are claiming to everyone that your levitation performance was all just an illusion that it never really happened, because they never actually saw your levitation Live themselves!”

“Oh shoot,” the audience says.

“Diane D I was just wondering, if your body still would have been levitating over the stage if your family hadn’t approached near the stage, because your body was dropped from the air as soon as your family came near the stage. And the TV monitor inside the trailer mysteriously went blank just before your levitation performance, then was mysteriously back on when your family came back inside the trailer to retrieve their belongings. It was like whatever it was that caused your body to levitate, didn’t want your family to see it!”

“Oh shoot,” the crowd shockingly says as they nervously look at Diane D.

“It didn’t seem to mind frightening the hell out of five thousand spectators, but kind of protected your family from seeing it and being frightened by it. Your family was somehow spared from being frightened by your levitation!”

“Oh shoot,” the crowd shockingly says.

“Do you think your body would have still been in the air, if your family had never left the trailer?”

“Oooohh,” the crowd shockingly says.

“I can’t really answer that question Miss,” Diane D says, “because I don’t believe I levitated.”

“You don’t?” the woman asks.

“No I don’t.”

“Even though five thousand people witnessed you levitate right before their very own eyes, you still have doubts?”

“If I don’t remember it and I didn’t see it with MY very own eyes, then yes I have doubts.”

“Wow. Okay thank you?” The young woman steps away from the microphone. A white man around his late 40’s with wavy brown hair steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, I heard that being that your cousin Dana is in your family’s custody, your family had to bring her to Germany with you all. Since your cousin Dana was in Germany also, did SHE see you levitate?”

“No she didn’t.”

“She didn’t?”

“No.”

“How come?”

“She wasn’t at the park while we were doing the performance.”

“She wasn’t?”

“No.”

“Where was she?”

“She stayed behind at the hotel.”

“She did?”

“Yes she did.”

“Why did she stay behind at the hotel?”

“My family didn’t allow Dana to come to the park.”

“They didn’t?”

“No.”

“Why not?”

“Because people in the hotel kept complaining to my family that Dana was being very rude towards them.”

“People in the hotel kept complaining to your family that your cousin Dana was being rude to them?”

“Yes they were.”

“How was she being rude to them?”

“The people would see Dana in the hotel and recognize her as my ‘notorious cousin Dana’, so they would get excited and want to meet her, but, the feeling wasn’t mutual, Dana did not want to meet them!”

“Oh shoot,” the audience members say.

“So whenever the people in the hotel approached Dana, Dana would get very annoyed and give those people the brush off.”

“She would give them the brush off?” the man asks.

“Yeah she wanted nothing to do with them! So the people complained to my family about her behavior telling my family how rude she was to them. My family spoke to Dana and told Dana to stop being rude to people whenever they approach her. Dana got angry and told my family that she did not come to Germany to meet people!”

“Oh shoot,” the audience members say.

“She told my family that she only came to Germany because they made her come.”

“That’s what she said?” the man asks.

“Yes that’s what she said. So to keep Dana from being rude to people at the park, my family thought it would just be best to leave her behind at the hotel and made her stay there which got her pissed off even more! So that’s why Dana wasn’t at the park while we were doing the performance because my family didn’t allow her to be there.”

“Wow. So therefore, she never got to see you levitate either?”

“No she didn’t.”

“Who did she stay behind at the hotel with?”

“My other relatives.”

“Your other relatives?”

“Yes.”

“Did your relatives at the hotel see you levitate Live?”

“No they didn’t.”

“Well wasn’t your performance played Live on the hotel monitors or inside the hotel room TVs?”

“No, only inside the trailers at the park.”

“So in other words, your relatives back at the hotel never saw you levitate Live either?”

“No they didn’t.”

“Did they see your performance on video?”

“Yes they saw my performance on video the next day with the rest of my family.”

“They did?”

“Yes they did.”

“So what do they think about your levitation performance?”

“They think the same thing the rest of my family think, that it was all special effects.”

“They think that it was special effects too?”

“Yes they do.”

“And you think it was special effects.”

“Yes I do.”

“So therefore, not only were your family members inside the trailer spared from being frightened by your levitation, it seems like your cousin Dana and the rest of your relatives back at the hotel were also spared from being frightened by your levitation.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“And not only were your family and relatives back at the hotel spared from being frightened by your levitation, you yourself were also spared from being frightened by your own levitation, because you don’t remember ever doing it!”

“Oh shoot,” the audience says again.

“So therefore, neither you, your family or relatives back at the hotel ever got to see you levitate Live at all, you all only saw it on video the next day!”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“I don’t know what it is Diane D, but obviously something spared you, your family and your relatives back at the hotel from being frightened by your levitation.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“Something was looking out for you, your family and your relatives.”

“Oh shoot,” the audience says again.

“Thank you,” the man says. The man steps away from the microphone. An Asian female reporter around her mid 40’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Ma’am.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, after that incident happened between you and that little boy Marcus inside that school hallway, everyone’s heard that you were put away in a Mental Institution for a while, because the doctors claim that you suffer from mental illness. Is it true that you suffer from mental illness?”

“Yes, doctors have confirmed that I suffer from mental illness.”

“They confirmed it?”

“Yes they officially confirmed it, that’s why I got sent away to the Mental Institution.”

“Oooohhh,” the audience says.

“Wow,” the woman says. “After that storage room door incident happened at the hospital, some people have heard that doctors and the authorities now consider you schizophrenic or borderline schizophrenic, especially after the doctors and authorities saw the damage and destruction that was done to the storage room door and inside the storage room. Have the doctors and the authorities considered you schizophrenic or borderline schizophrenic?”

Diane D sighs. She then says, “That information was suppose to have been private and confidential. Now that the cat is out of the bag, yes the doctors and the authorities have considered me schizophrenic or borderline schizophrenic.”

“They have?”

“Yes the have.”

“Oooooohhh,” the audience says again.

“Even though I do not remember kung fu kicking that storage room door, nor do I remember going down the stairs to the lower level of the clinic and being in that area where the storage room door is, the doctors and the authorities still want to consider me schizophrenic or borderline schizophrenic.”

“They do?” the woman asks.

“Yes they do.”

“Oooohh,” The audience says.

“Did they officially confirmed that you’re schizophrenic or borderline schizophrenic?” the woman asks.

“Yes they officially confirm it,” Diane D says.

“Oooohhh,” the audience says again.

Diane D looks at the crowd and annoyingly says, “Don’t worry people, I took my medication this morning.”

“Wow,” the woman says. “How does your family feel about you being considered schizophrenic or borderline schizophrenic?”

“Of course they’re not happy about it. They’re very saddened by it.”

“I bet they are. Have the doctors ever consider putting you on Mental Disability?”

“Yes they want to put me on Mental Disability.”

“They do?”

“Yes they do, but I don’t want to be on Mental Disability, I still want to work.”

“You do?”

“Yeah. I like what I’m doing. I don’t want to stop what I enjoy doing.”

“But other employees are afraid to work around you Diane D if you continue to work. You said it yourself that’s why your parents and grandparents made you resign from the hospital after that storage room door incident, because the employees at the hospital are afraid of you.”

“That’s why my parents and grandparents and the doctors say, that if I want to continue to work, then I would definitely have to be placed in an office by myself away from any other employees, that’s why my parents and grandparents already placed me in an office by myself.”

“They already have?”

“Yes they did.”

“Do they have you work in an office inside one of their Dominican Hair Salons?”

“No. My grandparents refuse to have me work in any of their hair salons because they claim the employees at the hair salons are afraid to work around me too.”

“The employees at the hair salons are afraid to work around you too?”

“That’s what my grandparents told me. They said the employees at the hair salons had already told them, that if I start to work there, they will quit right away.”

“What? The employees at the hair salons told your grandparents that if you start to work there, they will quit right away?”

“That’s what my grandparents said.”

“How do you feel about that?”

“I feel hurt by it because I’m not out to get anybody.”

“Wow. What if you were to work in the back office inside the hair salon?”

“The employees there claim to my grandparents that my presence inside any part of the hair salon will still bother them, even if I was to work inside the back office.”

“Even if you were to work inside the back office?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow. Sorry to hear about that Diane D. So what office will your grandparents have you work at then?”

“The office in the organization.”

“The office in the organization?”

“Yeah.”

“I see. Wow. Sorry that the employees at the hair salon and the employees at the hospital are afraid to work around you Diane D. And I’m sorry that you’re suffering from that condition. I hope you get well.”

“Thanks.”

The woman steps away from the microphone. A white female reporter around her late 40’s with short dark hair steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Miss.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, when you got sent away to the Mental Institution after that incident you had with that little boy Marcus, I heard that after a while, you started to get out of control inside the Mental Institution, then the Mental Institution had to quickly place you into an Asylum before your out-of-control behavior get any worse. I heard that while you were inside the Asylum, your out-of-control behavior DID get worse then you started going berserk inside the Asylum throwing and slamming your body against the walls and the door so hard, that the staff claim to have felt the vibration!”

“Ooooh,” the audience says.

“They said it really frightened them! They said they had to leave out of the area because they couldn’t stand or take feeling the vibration of you throwing and slamming your body hard into the walls like that! Is it true? Is it true that you got placed into an Asylum and started going berserk inside there?”

Diane D sighs again. She then says, “That information was suppose to have been confidential also.”

“Oooohh,” the audience says.

“Now that the cat is out of the bag again, yes they did place me into an Asylum.”

“They did?” the woman asks.

“Yes they did because when I woke up the next day, I found myself inside there.”

“You found yourself inside the Asylum? What do you mean you found yourself inside there? You don’t remember going inside the Asylum?”

“No I don’t. All I know, is that I woke up and found myself inside there feeling intense pain all over my body.”

“You felt intense pain all over your body when you woke up inside the Asylum?”

“Yes I did.”

“Did you know why you felt intense pain all over your body at that time?”

“Not at first. The next day, they told me that I started throwing and slamming my body hard against the walls and door in there. I just don’t remember doing that.”

“You don’t?”

“No I don’t.”

“Wow. I heard that your cousin Dana was also placed into an Asylum at one time? Is that true too?”

Diane D sighs again. She then says, “That was suppose to have been confidential also.”

“Oooohh,” the audience says again.

“Now that the cat is out of the bag on that one too, yes, Dana was placed into an Asylum at one time also.”

“She was?”

“Yes she was.”

“Wow. Sorry to hear about that Diane D. Sorry that you and your cousin Dana are going through this. I hope you two get well. Thank you.” The woman walks away from the microphone. A Latino male reporter around his early 40’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, you say you don’t know or have any idea what happens to your physical body while your soul or spirit is away from it. You said you would usually find out about it later on. But that’s not good Diane D. What if your physical body is sitting there in a meditated state and someone decides to come up to your physical body and take advantage of your physical body while your soul or spirit is gone away from it? What if someone tries to violate your physical body and feel up all on your physical body or try to attack your physical body while your soul or spirit is temporarily away? You wouldn't even know about it at the time because you won't feel it, just like you didn't feel when that little boy Marcus was throwing those objects at you inside that school hallway! He claimed to the authorities that you didn't even see or feel the objects he was throwing at you! I heard that someone did try to take advantage of your physical body while you were meditating inside a locker room of a dance studio one night."

"Oh shoot," the audience says.

"I heard that after closing hours late that night, you were all alone inside the women's locker room after everyone else had gone home. I heard that you decided to take advantage of the situation and started meditating right there on the floor inside the women's locker room. Is that true?"

"Yes it is," Diane D says.

"What happened after that?"

"Well, after I started meditating, I found my soul or spirit wandering the universe again. When I came back into my physical body and opened my eyes, I saw one of the male staff members laid out on the floor knocked out with his face bleeding."

"What!" the audience shouts.

"You saw one of the male staff members laid out on the floor knocked out with his face bleeding?" the man asks.

"Yeah," Diane D says. "I saw the paramedics and security guards bending down around him. I didn't know what happened. Then I saw the paramedics and the security guards turn and looked at me. I asked them what happened. They told me that they should be asking ME that question. I asked them 'what do they mean by that'. They told me that while I was meditating, the guy had come over to me. They said as soon as the guy was about to touch me, I quickly got up off the floor, spun my entire body around and kung fu kicked the guy right in the head practically knocking his head off!"

"What!" the audience shout.

"That's what I heard!" the man says. "I heard that you had knocked him out cold! Do you remember kung fu kicking the guy in the head knocking him out cold?"

"No I have no recollection of kung fu kicking anybody at all that night!" Diane D says.

"Wow," the audience says.

"I heard before the guy even laid a finger on your physical body, your physical body quickly responded by getting up off the floor, spinning around and giving the guy a quick kung fu kick right to the head!" the man says.

"Oh shoot," the audience says.

"The security guards said right after you kung fu kicked the guy in the head, you quickly went right back down on the floor and continued to meditate right there where you left off as if nothing happened!"

"Oh shoot," the audience says.

"They said you were still in a state of trance and didn't even seem to know or realize what you had just did! When the paramedics got the guy to the hospital, the doctors checked on him and said that his neck was slightly broken from when you kung fu kicked him in the head!”

“What!” the audience shouts.

“They said he was slightly paralyzed from the broken neck and he’s still slightly paralyzed!”

“Oh my God!” the audience shouts.

“Did you get arrested for kung fu kicking the guy breaking his neck?”

“Yeah I got arrested for it,” Diane D says, “even though I had no idea what the hell had happened to him.”

“You don’t remember getting up off the floor kung fu kicking the guy in the head?”

“No I remember nothing about it. The only thing I remember, is feeling pain in my leg and foot when I came to and open my eyes and I didn’t know why I felt pain in my leg and foot. Now I know.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“Sounds like the same incident that happened with the storage room door and the storage room,” the man says. “Did the authorities put you away after you got arrested?”

“Yes they putted me away,” Diane D says.

“Where did they put you away at?”

“The doctors and the authorities had me put away in a Mental Institution.”

“They putted you away in a Mental Institution at that time too?”

“Yes they did.”

“How come they putted you away into the Mental Hospital, if you don’t remember kung fu kicking the guy?”

“Because they claim they didn’t want to take any chances with me. They claim they don’t know when the next time I might go off on somebody again and not remember it. They claim they had to protect the rest of the public from me until I was put on medication.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“Did the security guards ever told you why the guy came and approached you in the first place?” the man asks.

“They said they didn’t really know why the guy came and approached me,” Diane D says. “They said they didn’t know what his intentions were.”

“They didn’t know?”

“No.”

“Do they know now?”

“No, they still don’t know.”

“Why not?”

“They said he’s still not talking.”

“He’s still not talking?”

“That’s what they said.”

“How come?”

“Because they said he’s still slightly paralyzed and not able to speak.”

“He’s still not able to speak because of what you did?”

“That’s what they told me.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“Wow Diane D,” the man says. “First your cousin Dana caused a female police officer to get shot in the back and paralyzed for life, then you caused a staff member at a dance studio to be kicked in the head then paralyzed, probably for life too! I hear the doctors might have to put HIM on permanent disability now.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“If this guy goes on permanent disability, that means you caused another person to be put on permanent disability while you were in a state of trance,” the man says.

“Wow,” the audience says.

“My God Diane D. You seem very, very dangerous when you’re in a state of trance! Look what happened to that little boy Marcus inside that school hallway! Look what happened to those security guards and those police officers! Look what happened inside that jail cell with those correction officers! Look what happened to the storage room door at the hospital and to the storage room! Look at what happened to those security guards on stage in Germany and look what happened to that staff member who approached your physical body while you were meditating inside the locker room at the dance studio! And that all happened while you were in a state of trance! All I know, is that I would never try to come anywhere near you while you’re in a state of trance and I would never want to come across your cousin Dana. I don’t need either of you to cause me to become paralyzed then I’ll wind up being on permanent disability myself! Thank you.” The man steps away from the microphone as the audience claps. A Middle Eastern male reporter around his late 40’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, I heard that while you were meditating inside your family’s house one time, you were in a state of trance. I heard that while you were in a state of trance, you tried to attack and kung fu kick a contractor right in the head that was working inside your family’s home for no reason!”

“What!” the audience shouts.

“I heard that your family had to hurry and get that contractor out of the house before you harmed him! Your family claims you weren’t even aware of what you were doing! I heard that when you came out of your state of trance, your family told you what you had done and when they told you what you had did, you had no recollection of it. Your family said you didn’t remember the incident at all! Do you remember trying to attack the contractor that was working inside your family’s house?”

“No I don’t remember trying to attack anybody that was working inside my family’s home,” Diane D says.

“Do you believe your family when they told you that you tried to attack the contractor?”

“Of course I believe my family when they told me that because my family wouldn’t lie to me. They have no reason to lie to me.”

“So you do believe that you tried to attack the contractor?”

“Yes I believe it, because my family said so.”

“Oh, so if other people told you that, you wouldn’t believe it.”

“I don’t think I would.”

“I see. How did you feel, when your family told you that you tried to attack the contractor?”

“I felt bad about it. I tried to call the contractor’s company up to apologize to the guy, but the company said the guy wants nothing to do with me.”

“That’s what they said?”

“Yes that’s what they said.”

“So the guy never came back to your family’s house to finish the job?”

“No, he refused to ever come back to my family’s house.”

“He refused?”

“Yeah, so they had to send another guy to finish the job.”

“They sent another guy?”

“Yes they did.”

“Did the other guy ever come to the house and finished the job?”

“Yes he did.”

“So why was the second guy bold enough to come work inside your family’s house? Did he have any problems with you?”

“No he didn’t, because I wasn’t there.”

“You weren’t there?”

“No I wasn’t.”

“How come?”

Diane D sighs. She then says, “Because the company made my family sign an agreement, that I will not be anywhere around the house when the second guy comes to the house to finish the job.”

“What! Your family had to sign an agreement to make sure you won’t be around their house when the second guy comes there?”

“Yeah.”

“So if you weren’t around when the second guy came to the house, where were you?”

“I was sent to my other grandparents’ house.”

“You were?”

“Yes I was.”

“How was that? Because I heard a different contracting company had your other grandparents sign an agreement to make sure your cousin Dana won’t be anywhere around their home in order for them to send anymore contractors to their house, is that true?”

“Yes it’s true, but that was at a different time.”

“Oh I see. So if your cousin Dana wasn’t around your other grandparents’ home when those contractors came back over there, where was she?”

“My grandfather Mike sent her to Jamaica to stay with her grandparents down there.”

“Your grandfather Mike sent her to Jamaica?”

“Yes he did.”

“I see. I also heard that your family had to hurry and get a window guy that was working inside the kitchen out of their house while you were in a state of trance before you harmed him too! Your family claims they were trying to hold you back inside your bedroom to keep you from going downstairs after the window guy then all of a sudden you started dragging them right towards the door out the bedroom! Your family claim you weren’t even aware of what you were doing at that time either! Your family claim that when you came out of your state of trance, they told you what you had tried to do while the window guy was inside the house! They said you had no recollection of that either! Do you remember dragging your family members towards the door right out the bedroom trying to go downstairs after the window guy that was working inside your family's kitchen?"

"No I don't."

"Do you believe your family when they told you that you tried to go after the window guy?"

"Yes I believe them."

"How did you feel, when your family told you that you tried to go after the window guy too?"

"I felt bad about that. Again, I tried to call the window guy's company up to apologize, but the company wants nothing to do with my family's household."

"They don't?"

"No. They said the only way they'll ever come back to my family's house to fix the window, is if I'm not there."

"Is if you're not there?"

"Yes."

"Did they ever come back to your family's house to fix the window?"

"Yes they did."

"So if they came back to your family's house to fix the window, that means you weren't there."

"No I wasn't."

"So if you weren't there, where were you, sent back to your other grandparents' home?"

"No. I WAS going to be sent back to their house, but when my grandma Margarita and grandpa Tomas called my grandpa Mike and grandma Gracy again, my grandpa Mike and grandma Gracy said they were getting work done again at their house at the same time too and they didn't want the contractors there to have any problems with me either AND they didn't want the contractors there to have any problems with Dana again?"

"So what did your grandparents do?"

"My grandpa Mike purchased two plane tickets. He used one of the plane tickets to send Dana back to Jamaica again, and used the other plane ticket to send me to the Dominican Republic."

"What?" the audience laughs.

"Your grandpa Mike sent Dana to Jamaica again and sent you to the Dominican Republic?" the man asks.

"Yes he did," Diane D says. "After the work was finished and done at both sets of my grandparents' places, my grandpa Mike sent for me and Dana to come back, so Dana and I came back and stayed with our grandparents again."

"Y'all did?"

"Yes we did."

"Wow, that's nice. Do you and your cousin Dana usually have a problem with contractors that work inside your grandparents' places?"

"Me, not personally. I have nothing against anybody that works inside my grandparents' places, it's Dana that doesn't want them there! I WANT the contractors to be inside my family's places to fix whatever needs to be fixed, I have no reason in the world to not want them there and I have no reason in the world to want to hurt or harm them! It's just that them being inside my family's place at the exact same time I'm meditating, don't seem to mix for some reason."

"It doesn't?"

"No."

"You know why it doesn't mix?"

"No I don't."

"Well YOU might want them there Diane D, but do you think maybe it's that other personality that doesn't want them there?"

"Ooooh," the audience says.

"Other personality?" Diane D asks.

"Yeah," the man says. "Maybe that other personality could be picking up some kind of vibe."

"What other personality? I don't know why the hell I keep hearing about this other personality. There's no other personality sir."

"There isn't?"

"No."

"So how come you don't remember trying to attack the contractors then?!"

"I don't know why I don't remember trying to attack the contractors! I don't know why they being inside my family's home while I'm meditating, doesn't mix!"

"You don't know at all?"

"No I don't."

"I see. So if your meditation is causing you to have problems with contractors working inside your grandparents' places, what's your cousin Dana's reason for having problems with the contractors?"

"She, she just doesn't like them."

"She doesn't?"

"No."

"Why doesn't she like them?"

"She just doesn't."

"Wow, she doesn't seem to like anybody!" the man says as the audience laughs, "especially after hearing how she gave those hotel guests in Germany the brush off and how she treated the Punky Gurlz over the telephone when they tried to reach you at your other grandparents' place! Well, I'm glad both sets of your grandparents were finally able to get the work they needed done in their homes, I'm happy for them. And thank you for sharing that information." The man steps away from the microphone as the audience claps. A black male reporter around his late 40's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes Sir."

"Hi Diane D," the man says. "Diane D, I heard that you AND your cousin Dana have both been tased a few times by the police in the past when either of you got out of control, but I heard that the taser had no effect on either you or your cousin Dana at all. I heard that you two were still out of control regardless of the taser. Is that true?"

"That's what I heard."

"What?" the audience says.

"That's what you heard?" the man puzzled asks. "What do you mean 'that's what you heard'? You don't know whether or not you or your cousin Dana were still out of control regardless of the taser?"

"It's not that I don't know whether or not she or I were still out of control regardless of the taser," Diane D says, "is that I don't remember any of us ever being tased."

"What!" the audience shouts.

"You don't remember you or your cousin Dana ever being tased?" the man asks.

"No I don't," Diane D says.

"Wow," the audience says.

"But the police, other people and my family have confirmed to me, that I and my cousin Dana were both tased before."

"They confirmed it to you?" the man asks.

"Yes they did, but I just don't remember it happening."

"Wow," the audience says.

"So if you don't remember ever being tased," the man says, "that means you don't remember feeling the taser either, do you?"

"No, I don't remember feeling it," Diane D says.

"Wow," the audience says.

"What about your cousin Dana?" the man asks. "Does she remember feeling the taser?"

"She claims she doesn't remember feeling the taser either," Diane D says.

"She doesn't remember feeling the taser either?"

"That's what she said."

"So if someone asks you or your cousin Dana to describe how it feels to be tased, neither of you are able to describe the feeling?"

"No because we don't know or remember how it feels."

"Wow," the audience says.

"Do you even remember your out-of-control behavior at the time you were being tased?" the man asks.

"No I don't remember it," Diane D says.

"You don't?"

"No. The police and my family showed me what happened on video the next day."

"They did?"

"Yes they did."

"So that means you saw your out-of-control behavior on the video."

"Yes I did, but I don't remember behaving that way."

"You don't?"

"No I don't."

"Did you see the police tasing you in the video?"

"Yes I did see them tasing me in the video, but I don't remember being tased or remember feeling the taser."

"You don't?"

"No."

"Wow," the audience says.

"Well if you or your cousin Dana don't remember feeling the taser or remember your out-of-control behavior at the time, maybe because your original soul or spirit wasn't there," the man says.

"Oooohh," the audience says.

"Your original soul or spirit was probably gone away from your physical body while your physical body was being tased and another soul, spirit or entity that we've all been hearing about was most likely inside your physical body at the time. That's probably why you don't remember feeling the taser nor remember your out-of-control behavior that day."

"Wow," the audience says.

"Thank you." The man steps away from the microphone as the audience claps. A white/Latino man around his late 30's with a tan complexion and straight black hair with bangs steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes sir."

"Hi Diane D," the man says. "Diane D, do you think maybe that's why you don't remember levitating off the stage in Germany, because your soul or spirit probably wasn't around your physical body, while your physical body was levitating off the stage?"

"Oooohh," the crowd says as they shockingly look at Diane D.

"And do you think maybe that's why you don't remember beating on and attacking that little boy Marcus inside the school hallway, because your soul or spirit probably wasn't around your physical body, while your physical body was beating and attacking him?"

"Oooohh," the crowd says.

"And do you think maybe that's why you don't remember being tased by the police or remember feeling the taser because your soul or spirit probably wasn't around your physical body while your physical body was being tased?"

"Oooohh," the crowd says.

"I mean how can you not remember being tased?! And do you think maybe that's why you don't remember kung fu kicking that storage room door wide open then damaging the storage room, because your soul or spirit probably wasn't around your physical body, while your physical body was kung fu kicking the storage room door then did damage inside the storage room?!"

"Oooohh," the crowd says again.

Diane D looks up in the air and thinks. She then looks at the man and says, "I don't know how someone's physical body, is capable of doing anything at all, if the person's soul or spirit is not there inside of it at the moment."

"You said your physical body was on the floor sitting in a meditated state while your soul or spirit was out of it away from it, just like in that painting."

"Yeah because that's the way I left it!"

"You said you believed your family when they told you that you tried to kung fu kick the contractor that was working inside their house and you believed your family when they told you that you tried to go after the window guy that was working downstairs inside their kitchen! Don't you think that maybe it's possible, that while your soul or spirit is temporary away from your physical body, another soul, spirit or entity enters into your physical body to take your soul's place for a while and that other soul, spirit or entity is the one doing things like the other lady said, attacking people kung fu kicking them, beating and attacking that little boy Marcus inside that isolated school hallway, kung fu kicking him a couple of feet in the air, kung fu kicking a stuck storage room door right off its hinges then going right into the storage room damaging it, kung fu kicking the guy in the locker room of the dance studio breaking his neck causing him to be paralyzed and trying kung fu kick contractors that are working inside your family's house! And while you were on stage in Germany, do you think while your soul or spirit was temporary away from your physical body after you meditated, another soul, spirit or entity enters into your physical body to take your soul's place for a while and that other soul, spirit or entity is the one doing things, like levitating in mid air right in front of thousands of people?"

"Oooohh," the crowd shockingly says as they nervously look at Diane D.

"And you have no recollection of any of those incidents! How come you never seem to remember any of your out-of-control or out-of-this world behaviors?!"

"Oooohhh," the audience says.

"Diane D, don't you think that maybe you should stop meditating and stop leaving your physical body altogether?" the man says as the audience claps and cheers.

"Man you sound just like my family," Diane D says.

"Well I think your family is right! You said it yourself that when you meditated on that stage in Germany, you accidentally hypnotized yourself and your self-hypnosis got out of hand! Diane D, I think you should stop meditating and stop leaving your physical body altogether to keep other souls, spirits or entities from entering into your physical body and using it!"

The audience claps and cheers.

"By you constantly leaving your physical body, I think you're opening doors for other personalities, souls, spirits or entities to come right into it!"

The audience claps and cheers again.

"It's like these other personalities, souls, spirits or entities are saying 'if you're not going to be inside your physical body or stay inside your physical body, they might as well enter it and use it and do or behave however they want with it! Like they say, 'When the cat's away, the mice will play'."

"Oooohh," the crowd shockingly says as they clap and frighteningly nod their heads.

Diane D looks up in the air and thinks again. She then says, "Yes it is true in life, that when the cat's away, the mice will play, but let me get one thing straight," Diane D looks at the man again and says, "I don't always meditate whenever my soul or spirit leaves my physical body."

"You don't?" the man asks.

"No I don't. A lot of times, it happens completely beyond my control. In other words, it happens on its own. It depends on what mood I'm in, especially, when I'm in an angry mood."

"Oooohh," the crowd says.

"A lot of times, I try not to get angry, because when I do get angry, I feel like I'm about to pass out, or, I feel like my soul or spirit is being pulled or snatched out of my physical body and I suddenly find my soul or spirit floating around in space wandering the universe, all without my control! While my soul or spirit is floating around in space wandering the universe, I be wondering, what the hell am I doing out here! In the hospital, when I heard the tray dropped around the corner of the back clinic hallway, then went around the corner and didn't see anyone there, then went into the stairwell and was about to go down the stairs to try to find out who was in that area, it felt like I was about to pass out right there at the top of the stairs, so I held on to the railing and leaned against the wall to keep myself from falling down the stairs. Then I felt myself blacking out! While I was blacking out, the next minute I know, is that my soul or spirit is floating around in space! The next minute I know, is that I was in the next building standing on the fifth floor hallway at the receptionist desk with terrible pain in my left leg and foot while my eyes were fixed on the two hospital employees, who claimed to have witnessed me kung fu kicked the storage room door. I didn't even know why my eyes were fixed on those two guys at first, it was just fixed on them for some reason. Then I looked around wondering 'Where was I?'. Then I realized that I'm on the fifth floor hallway at the receptionist desk in the next building, wondering what the hell was I doing there. I don't even know or remember how I got on the fifth floor at the receptionist desk in the next building and I did not know why I was even up there! I thought maybe I was sleepwalking or something. So as far as I know, I never made down the stairs to where that storage room door is. As far as I can remember, I went from the top of the stairs in one building, to the receptionist desk on the fifth floor in another building and I did not meditate at all before that incident happened! But I was angry before that incident happened."

"Oh shoot," the audience says.

"I was angry because I wanted to know, who the hell was in that area and caused the tray to drop! I felt that whoever was over there in that area was spying on me. And while my soul or spirit was out there floating around in space wandering the universe, the two hospital employees claim, that's when they heard my footsteps coming down the stairs to the lower level of the clinic area!"

"Oh shoot," the audience says.

"They claim that's when they saw me coming from around the corner of the lower level of the clinic hallway looking around the lower level of the clinic hallway, then they claim they saw me go right to the storage room door which was slightly open. Then they claim they saw me trying to push the storage room door open. When that didn't work, they claim that's when they saw me run right to the storage room door then jumped and spun my entire body around and kung fu kicked that storage room door wide open breaking the door right off its hinges!"

"Oh shoot," the audience shockingly says.

"Then they claim they saw me spin my entire body around again giving the storage room door another kung fu kick breaking the door off its hinges even more! Then they said that's when I went inside the storage room like a lunatic on a rampage and damaged the storage room by ransacking it! Then they claim they saw me on the fifth floor hallway of the next building coming down the hallway angrily looking inside the patients' rooms as I was coming towards the receptionists' desk area where they were. I have no recollection of any of that! Again, I did not meditate before that incident happened! Inside the school, when that little boy Marcus made this shocking confession to me on the third floor school hallway that night, that the little three-year old boy dying of leukemia didn't exist, and told me that the little boy never existed that it was all a hoax planned by him and his brother, I became shocked when I learned what he and his brother did. Then I somehow got scared and backed away from Marcus while he was still down the middle of the school hallway leaning against the wall. Then I started to become furious while I was staring down the hallway at him."

The audience frighteningly stare at Diane D as they listen to her story.

"While I was staring down the hallway at Marcus, the next minute I know, is that I didn't see him anymore. I didn't see the hallway anymore either. The next minute I know, is that my soul or spirit is out there in space wandering the universe! Then the next thing I know, is that I'm sitting in the front passenger seat of my family van feeling intense pain all over my physical body. So as far as I know, once I backed away from Marcus, him and I were never near each other again. As far as I can remember, I went from the edge of the third floor school hallway, to the inside of my family's van and I did not meditate at all before that incident happened! But I was angry before that incident happened."

"Oh no," the audience says.

"I was angry because I realized that this little boy Marcus and his brother tricked me and my family into coming to his school by preying on our sympathy about some dying little kid who has leukemia! I felt really betrayed by this little boy and his brother because I felt that they were preying on my and my families emotions just to get us to come to his school. And while my soul or spirit was out there in space wandering the universe, this little boy Marcus claim to everyone that's when I refuse to let him go by me to get back to where the principal's office is!"

"Oh shoot," the audience says.

"He also claims to everyone that's when I attacked him, broke his wrist, went into a trance, dropped kicked him in his back, kung fu kicked him a couple of feet in the air, refused to let him retrieve his cell phone while it was on the floor ringing! He also claims to everyone that while my cell phone was in my pocket ringing, I didn't answer it, so he attempted to get my cell phone and answer it himself! He also claims to everyone that when he tried to reach and grab my cell phone while it was in my pocket, that's when I spun my entire body around and gave him a kung fu kick kicking him a couple of feet in the air! He also claimed that I did not respond while he was throwing objects at me and claimed that I chased and charged after him on the third floor school hallway and in the back stairwell and swears to everybody that while he was running down the back stairwell, he heard me kung fu kick the third floor stairwell door so hard that the stairwell vibrated!"

"Oh shoot," the audience says.

"I have no recollection of any of that! And again, I did not meditate at all before that incident happened! In the park, when those security guards were rough handling two of the Dianettes, Miranda and Bernice trying to arrest them, I became shocked and ran to stop those security guards. I started beating the crap out of them, then I somehow lost it."

The audience frighteningly stare at Diane D as they continue to listen to her story.

"As I was beating the crap out of those security guards, the next minute I know, is that my soul or spirit is floating around in space wandering the universe! Then the next thing I know, is that I'm waking up inside a jail cell the following day feeling pain all over my physical body and finding mysterious bruises all over it. So as far as I know, I never once kicked those security guards. As far as I can remember, I went from punching those security guards, to waking up inside a jail cell the next day in the afternoon and I did not meditate at all before that incident happened! But I was angry before that incident happened."

"Oh oh," the audience says.

"I was angry because I didn't like the way those security guards were rough handling Miranda and Bernice causing pain on them! And while my soul or spirit was out there floating around in space wandering the universe, the police officers and security guards claim to everyone, that's when I went around like a lunatic on a rampage assaulting them, giving them kung fu kicks to the groin injuring three of them for life! And while my soul or spirit was still out there wandering the universe, that's when the correction officers inside the jail claim to everyone that I was a lunatic inside the jail cell trying to attack them as well and they had a hard time trying to keep me inside the jail cell! They also claim to everyone that they kept poking my ribs with a ten feet pole while I was on the floor of the jail cell trying to hold me back and keep me in there, then claimed that I literally punched and bent the ten feet pole knocking the ten feet pole right out of their hands, then claimed when they escaped out of the jail cell into the hallway and quickly closed the door, they kept hearing me throwing and banging my body against the cell door so hard that they can feel the vibration! Again, I have no recollection of any of that! But when I woke up inside the jail cell the next day in the afternoon, I do remember feeling pain all over my physical body and I do remember seeing a bent ten feet pole laying on the floor, but I didn't know that I had anything to do with it! I did not know that the correction officers were poking my ribs with that ten feet pole, and I did not know that I punched and bent that ten feet pole knocking it right out of their hands! I didn't even know anybody was capable of punching and bending a ten feet pole until my family told me about it when I released from jail three months later!"

The audience frighteningly stare at Diane D as they continue to listen to her story.

"I told my family 'No wonder why I felt pain all over my body and felt slight pain in my ribs the day I woke up inside the jail cell and no wonder why my knuckles were bruised and swollen, and I did not meditate before any of those incidents happened, but I still found my soul or spirit floating around in space wandering the universe during those suppose altercations, therefore, I do not have to meditate in order for my soul or spirit to be pulled or snatched out of my physical body! All I have to do, is become angry, that's when my soul or spirit is pulled and snatched out of my physical body and placed out into the universe for the time being! What happens to my physical body while my soul or spirit is away from it, I do not know. I will usually find out later on when my soul or spirit is placed back into my physical body and my family and other people tell me about it later on what actually happened to me."

"Wow," the audience says.

"Wow Diane D," the man says. "That little boy Marcus also claimed to everyone, that when he was throwing those heavy objects at you inside the school hallway, you didn't seem to even see or feel the heavy objects he was throwing at you. He said you just stood there like a mannequin and didn't move or blink at all! He claims even when your face started to bleed, you just stood right there with your face bleeding and didn't respond or move! Is that why you don't remember him throwing those heavy objects at you, and is that why you didn't seem to see or feel the objects he was throwing at you, because your soul or spirit wasn't there?"

"I guess so," Diane D says.

"So do you believe now that this kid Marcus threw those heavy objects at you?"

"I guess I believe it now. Those scars, blood and bruises that appeared on my physical body and face when I woke up inside my family's van and the pain I felt when I woke up inside my family's van came from somewhere."

"Wow," the audience says.

"Diane D," the man says, "do you know who or what be pulling and snatching your soul or spirit out of your physical body and placing it out into the universe whenever you get angry?"

“No I have no idea,” Diane D says.
“You don’t?”
“No I don’t.”
“Do you know why your soul or spirit be pulled and snatched out of your physical body whenever you get angry?”
“No I do not know why.”
“Wow,” the audience says.
“Are you even able to stop your soul or spirit from being pulled and snatched out of your physical body whenever you get angry?” the man asks.
“No I’m not able to stop it,” Diane D says.
“You’re not?”
“No. It’s beyond my control.”
“You have no control over it?”
“No.”
“You mean to tell me, if you get angry again, your soul or spirit could be snatched out of your physical body again?”
“I’m afraid so.”
“Oh no,” the audience frighteningly says.
“See? That’s why I try not to get angry, because I don’t want my soul or spirit to keep being pulled and snatched out of my physical body then my family or other people wind up telling me that I did this or I did that, or I behaved this way or I behaved that way, and I wind up not remembering any of the incidents!”
“Wow,” the audience says.
“I know one thing Diane D,” the man says. “I wouldn’t want to get you angry. I wouldn’t want your soul or spirit to be pulled and snatched out of your physical body and placed out into the universe for the time being because I don’t know what other personality, soul, spirit or entity might come into your physical body and take your soul or spirit’s place.”
“Oooooohh,” the audience says.
“Thanks for sharing that information.” The man steps away from the microphone as the audience claps and cheers. A Latino woman with bright red hair around her early 60’s steps up to the microphone.
Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Ma’am.”
“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, even though your family never saw or witnessed you levitate Live, how do they feel about you meditating altogether?”
“They don’t really like it.”
“They don’t?”
“Not really.”
“How do they feel that when you meditate, your soul or spirit leaves your physical body temporary?”
“They have a problem with that.”
“They do?”
“Yes they do.”
“How come?”
“They feel my soul or spirit needs to stay put.”
“They do?”
“Yes they do.”

“I see. How do they feel about your soul or spirit traveling to the spirit world?”

“They have a problem with that too.”

“They do?”

“Yeah.”

“How come?”

“They said I don’t need to be going there until it’s my time to. They said once I actually die and pass away and God calls me home for good, that’s when I should be there and not go there before my time.”

“Yeah!” the audience claps and cheers very loud!

Diane D puzzled looks at the audience. She then says, “Wow. Obviously you all agree with my family, don’t you?”

“Yeah!” the audience shouts.

“Because your family is right Diane D,” the woman says. “We agree with your family because we don’t want anything to go wrong again. We don’t want you to accidentally hypnotize yourself and the same thing goes wrong like what happened in Germany! What a lot of us saw in the video really scared us. The first time your body levitated off the stage looked like something right out of The Exorcist!”

“Oooohh!” the audience says.

“The second time your body levitated off the stage looked like you were being hung and spun by an invisible rope or noose!”

“Oooohh!” the audience says.

“That frightened a lot of people! Then your body suddenly dropped and landed on the stage floor as soon as your family approached near the stage! When you opened your eyes and looked around, you didn’t even seem to know where you were or what was happening. You looked like you were in a daze. You seemed like you were in pain from that fall. It really scared me and saddened me to see something like that happen to you and I’m sure the audience in Germany didn’t expect to see anything like THAT happen!”

“It was never my intention for anything like that to happen Miss,” Diane D says.

“Did your neck get hurt or damaged by that experience Diane D? Was your neck in pain from that ordeal?”

“No, my neck wasn’t in pain, it was fine. I didn’t feel any pain in my neck at all.”

“You didn’t?”

“No.”

“Was there any bruising on your neck or anything like that?”

“No. The only pain I remember feeling, was when I dropped on the stage floor and landed on my ass. That’s the only pain I remember feeling.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yes.”

“Why do you meditate in the first place Diane D?”

“Because I like it. It gives me a peace of mind.”

“I see. Well if you HAVE to meditate, please be careful. Just meditate and keep your soul and spirit inside your physical body, don’t let it go off anywhere. We all love you and we don’t want you to accidentally hypnotize yourself and the same thing wind up happening again like it did in Germany.”

“I understand Miss. I’ll try to be careful.”

“Thank you. That’s all we want and I’m glad to see that you’re okay.”

"Thanks Miss."

"You're welcome." The audience claps and cheers as the woman turns and steps away from the microphone. A young chubby black lady around her early 20's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the young lady and says, "Yes Miss."

"Hi Diane D," the young lady says. "Diane D, I would like to know, does anybody else in your family meditates besides you? How many people in your family meditate altogether?"

"Just me."

"Just you?"

"Yeah. Every so often, my cousin Dana would meditate with me."

"She would?"

"Yeah."

"Does her soul or spirit travels outside of her physical body too when she meditates? And if it does, does her soul or spirit travel to the spirit world also?"

"I'm sorry, I can't really talk about what Dana does or goes through during her meditation experience. She's a private person, she doesn't like her business being talked about. So that is something I have to keep private between me and her. I'm a private person too, I'm just not as private as she is."

"I understand. Do the Dianettes meditate?"

"No they don't. They're not into meditation."

"They're not?"

"No, not at all."

"Just you."

"Just me."

"I see. Okay thank you." The young woman steps away from the microphone. A young Middle Eastern man around his early 30's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes Sir."

"Hi Diane D," the man says. "Diane D, I would like to know, if you can teach me how to levitate."

"Can I teach you how to levitate?"

"Yeah. I'm an inspiring magician, and I would love to learn what you did! I and other performers were watching that video a few days ago. We saw what you did in the video when you balanced your entire body in a horizontal position two feet off the stage floor while your arms were completely straight! I was amazed! I and the other performers were trying to practice doing that exact same technique at the dance studio, but we just couldn't do it! The only time we were able to actually balance our entire body in a horizontal position two feet off the floor with our arms completely straight like you did, is if our feet is held on to something like a bench like that photo of you in the park or if we're under water at a pool or a beach and the water brings and holds our entire body and feet up, but you weren't at a pool or beach when you levitated or balanced your entire body in a horizontal position two feet off the floor with your arms completely straight Diane D. You were on a stage! And your feet weren't held on to anything! How'd you do it?!"

"And this part of me balancing my entire body in a horizontal position two feet off the stage floor was before my meditation part or after my meditation part?"

"It was after you meditated with your legs in a split position."

“Okay. Like I told everybody earlier, all the performance I did after I meditated, I don’t remember. So if that part of me balancing my entire body in a horizontal position two feet off the stage floor came after my meditation part, I don’t remember it. I remember nothing after I meditated. The only thing I remember after I meditated, is feeling my body fall and drop to the stage floor then opened my eyes and see my family rushing to me. By then, my entire performance was over. Being that I don’t remember the part of the performance after I meditated, I missed the ending of my own performance.”

“You did?”

“Yeah. I only saw the ending of my own performance on video the next day.”

“Wow.”

“Sorry I wish I had an answer for you. But Good Luck on your magician adventure.”

“Thank you.” The man steps away from the microphone. A young white woman around her mid 20’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Ma’am.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, speaking of magician, I would like to know, are you a magician yourself?”

“Am I a magician?”

“Yeah.”

“No I’m not a magician.”

“You’re not?”

“No I’m not. Why would you think that?”

“Because of you and the Dianettes’ Illusions Of Zero Gravity performance. You all did things that are impossible. That’s why I want to know, if you’re a magician.”

“No I’m not a magician, but I do like magic shows though.”

“You do?”

“Yes I do.”

“I see. Okay thank you.” The woman steps away from the microphone. A young white man around his early 30’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, I would like to know, how do you feel that people are labeling you ‘The Queen of Levitation?’” The audience claps and cheers.

“The Queen of Levitation?”

“Yeah.”

“I don’t know how I should feel about that label Mister, because I don’t remember levitating and I don’t believe I actually levitated.”

“Not at all?”

“Not at all. I really can’t take credit for something I don’t remember doing or something I don’t believe I did.”

“Wow. Okay thank you.” The man steps away from the microphone. A black man around his early 60’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, how do you feel, that people and the newspapers are labeling you as ‘The Female Bruce Lee’ by your kung fu kicks?”

“How do I feel about it?”

“Yeah.”

“Well, I have a lot of legendary idols from the past, and he’s one of them. So do I take it as a compliment? Yes I do take it as a compliment.”

“You do?”

“Yes I do.”

“That’s good. How do you feel that people sometimes label you Bruce Lee’s sister?”

“Bruce Lee’s sister?”

“Yeah. Are you related to Bruce Lee in any kind of way?”

“Am I related to Bruce Lee?”

“Yeah, because you do kind of resemble him, especially around the eyes and hair.”

“Yeah I’ve been told that before.”

“You have?”

“Yes I have. Well, as far as I know, I’m not related to Bruce Lee. My family has no blood relations or blood ties with him.”

“Y’all don’t?”

“As far as I know, we don’t.”

“Oh. Okay. Thank you Diane D. And I think you are so beautiful and gorgeous.”

“Thank you sir.”

“You’re welcome.” The man steps away from the microphone. A white woman around her late 50’s with dark hair steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Ma’am.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, how is your cousin Dana’s Aunt Patricia doing? I would just like to know, are you and she still fighting over Dana?” The crowd laughs a little. The woman then says, “And is it true that your grandfather Mike actually threw you and her out of the country because of it?”

“I wish the authorities had not put that in the newspaper. It was a personal family matter like any other family situations out there. But since they did put it out there in the papers and you want to know about it, Aunt Patricia and I are not fighting anymore. And yes it’s true, my grandfather Mike did throw me and her out of the country because of it and believe me, Aunt Patricia and I don’t want to go through that again.”

“I don’t blame you. Is Aunt Patricia still in Jamaica?”

“Yes Aunt Patricia is still in Jamaica.”

“She is?”

“Yeah.”

“How come she’s still there and you got a chance to come back here.”

“Because Aunt Patricia originally lives in Jamaica, she doesn’t live here in New York.”

“She doesn’t?”

“No she was only visiting here. I’m the one who actually lives here in New York, that’s why I came back and she didn’t.”

“Oh I see. So since she was only visiting, she had to eventually go back to Jamaica anyway, right?”

“Yeah, but not on that day. Aunt Patricia was supposed to stay here in New York another two months when she and I had that physical altercation and fallout. But since she and I had that physical altercation and fallout, my grandfather Mike cut her visit short and made her leave sooner. But Aunt Patricia will be back in New York to visit in a couple of months.”

“She will?”

“Yes she will.”

“That’s nice. Will you two fight again?”

“No, we won’t be fighting anymore, we learned our lesson. We don’t need my grandfather Mike throwing us out of the country again.”

The crowd laughs a little. The woman then says, “But he did send you and your cousin Dana out of the country to keep the contactors working inside his home from having problems with you two.”

“Yes he did. My Grandpa Mike has no problem with sending me or any of my family members out of the country if he has to.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“I see,” the woman says. “Okay thank you.” The woman steps away from the microphone. A young Latino man steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, I just want to know, are you still friends with that Jamaican guy?”

“Jamaican guy? What Jamaican guy?”

“You know, the one that you disappeared in the woods with before, then you two wound up in the hospital with drugs found in your system? The one you tried to marry when you were already married to someone else?”

“You mean Jonathan?”

“Yeah, I think that’s his name, Jonathan. Are you still friends with him?”

“I haven’t seen Jonathan in a while.”

“You haven’t?”

“No, and I don’t remember trying to marry him. But the last time I saw him, he was okay.”

“He was?”

“Yes he was.”

“That’s good. What about his girlfriend?”

“His girlfriend?”

“Yeah. You know, the one who claimed you threatened her over the telephone, then claimed you sped your car all the way to her apartment building to beat her up in the parking lot behind her apartment building?”

“Yeah. What about her?”

“I just want to know, did you actually threaten her over the telephone?”

“No I did not threaten that woman.”

“You didn’t?”

“No.”

“Is it true that you sped your car all the way to the parking lot where she lives so you can find her and assault her?”

“No I did not speed my car to where she lives and I did not plan to assault her.”

“Well have you seen her lately? Do you know how she’s doing?”

“No I don’t know how’s she doing. Why, you want her number?”

“No I don’t want her number. I was just curious.”

“I really don’t know how’s she doing and frankly my dear, I do not really give a damn how she’s doing and I do not really care to discuss her! Next question please!”

“Sorry.” The man steps away from the microphone.

“Please don’t get her upset!” a voice from the back of the audience shouts.

Diane D quickly turns her head and firmly looks towards the back of the audience where the voice came from.

The audience members quickly become quiet as Diane D firmly stares towards the back of the audience. The audience members puzzled stare at Diane D. Diane D continues to firmly stare towards the back of the audience. The audience members start to turn their heads and puzzled look towards the back of the audience. They turn their heads and puzzled look back at Diane D. Diane D continues to stare towards the back of the audience. The audience members start to become nervous as they stare at Diane D. Diane D continues to stare towards the back of the audience. The audience members frighteningly stare at Diane. Diane D then looks back towards the microphone area.

Nicole steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at Nicole and says, “Yes Ma’am.”

“Hi Diane D,” Nicole says as the audience gives a sigh a relief. Nicole then says, “Diane D, I just want you to know, that I think you are marvelous and I think you are so beautiful.”

“Thanks Ma’am.”

“And that is a lovely outfit you’re wearing. Where did you get that outfit?”

“Oh the Dianettes made it for me. This is part of their clothing line.”

“It is?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow, it is beautiful! I was wondering if it was part of their clothing line because I do see a matching bow on your hair. I figure a matching bow is part of their trademark.”

“I think so.”

“Wow. Where do they find matching bows for your outfits?”

“They usually make the matching bows from the left-over material that they use for the clothes.”

“Oh really?”

“Yeah. If there’s no left-over material to make matching bows, then they will just go out and shop around for bows that fit the color of the outfit.”

“They would?”

“Yeah.”

“That’s a good idea. Do you like wearing bows in your hair?”

“It doesn’t really matter to me. Normally, I don’t put bows in my hair, but the girls like to put them in my hair.”

“They do?”

“Yeah.”

“How come?”

“Because they’re crazy about bows.”

“But you’re not as crazy about bows as much as they are, are you?”

“Personally, I can take them or leave them.”

“I see. Well I think the bows look so cute on you Diane D. I see you’re even wearing a bow in that sketch of you and painting of you kung fu kicking the storage room door. Were you wearing an orange bow in your hair that night they claimed you kung fu kicked the storage room door?”

“Yes as a matter of fact, I was wearing an orange bow in my hair when I went to work at the hospital that night.”

“You were?”

“Yes I was.”

“Is that outfit in the sketch and painting of you, the same exact outfit you were wearing that night?”

“Yes I was wearing that exact outfit that night.”

“You were?”

“Yes I was.”

“So you remember what you were wearing that night?”

“Yes I do. Even though I don’t remember kung fu kicking the storage room door, I do remember what I was wearing that night.”

“I see. How did whoever drew that sketch of you and made that painting of you know exactly what you were wearing that night? Did they see you that night?”

“No they didn’t. The hospital employees saw me that night and saw what I was wearing and they described to the sketch artist and paint artist what I was wearing.”

“Oh the hospital employees described what you were wearing to a sketch artist and paint artist?”

“Yes they did. So whatever clothes the hospital employees describe to the sketch artist and paint artist, that’s what the sketch artist and paint artist are going to wind up drawing on my image, right down to the orange bow that was in my hair.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“How did you happen to wear an orange bow in your hair that night?” Nicole asks.

“Well,” Diane D says, “when I was about to walk out my family’s house that night, the Dianettes stopped me right at the front door and said, ‘Wait a minute Diane, we can’t let you go out there without this matching bow in your hair.’ They had an orange bow in their hand waiting for me, that’s when they put the orange bow at the bottom of my braid. Once they put the orange bow on my braid, I walked out the front door, got in my car and drove to work at the hospital.”

“And that was the same night those two hospital employees claimed you kung fu kicked the storage room door?”

“Yeah that was the same night.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“Well I think it is so cute how the Dianettes want to put bows in your hair Diane D,” Nicole says. “What about the sketch and painting of you laying on the floor inside the jail cell? I see you’re wearing what looks like a white turtleneck shirt in the sketch and painting. Is that what you were wearing the day you got arrested for beating and attacking the security guards and police officers?”

“Yes I was wearing a white shirt that day,” Diane D says.

“You remember what you were wearing that day too?”

“Yes I do.”

“How did whoever drew that sketch of you and made that painting of you know exactly what you were wearing inside the jail cell? Did they see you inside there?”

“No. The correction officers saw me and remember what I was wearing that day and they described what I was wearing to the sketch artist and paint artist.”

“The correction officers described what you were wearing to the sketch artist and paint artist too?”

“Yes they did. So whatever the correction officers described to the sketch artist and paint artist, that’s what the sketch artist and paint artist are going to wind up drawing and painting on my image.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“What about that ‘Body and Soul’ painting of your physical body sitting on the floor in a meditated state while your soul or spirit is coming out of it?” Nicole asks. “It looks like your soul or spirit is creeping away from your physical body ready to sneak off somewhere.”

“It does,” the audience says.

“How did whoever did that painting, know to put that image like that?”

“Because the doctors and the authorities started asking my family questions after my family claim to them that they have accidentally walked in on me several times and caught me sitting on the bedroom floor meditating,” Diane D says. “The doctors and the authorities wanted to know from my family, what do my family see when my family walk in on me and catch me meditating. My family told the doctors and the authorities that they would see me sitting on the bedroom floor in a meditated position inside a dimly lit bedroom. Then the doctors and the authorities wanted to know, how do I look like while I’m sitting on the bedroom floor meditating. My family told the doctors and the authorities that I look like I’m in some hypnotic state of trance with my eyes half closed staring into space. They told the doctors and the authorities that my body is there, but my mind, soul or spirit don’t seem to be there at all because they said whenever they wave their hands back and forth to me trying to get my attention, I do not respond to them. They told the doctors and the authorities that it doesn’t even look like I see or notice them in the room with me because I seem to look right through them as if they aren’t even there.”

“That’s what your family told the doctors and the authorities?”

“That’s right.”

“That’s what that little boy Marcus claim to authorities too. Do you remember seeing your family entering the room waving their hands back and forth to you while you’re meditating?”

“No I don’t remember seeing them.”

“You don’t remember seeing them in the room with you at all?”

“No.”

“Do you remember yourself being in a hypnotic trance with your eyes half closed staring into space?”

“At times because my soul or spirit would be on the outside of my physical body looking back at my physical body while my physical body is still sitting on the floor in a meditated position just like in the painting.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“So according to my family’s description of how I look like while I’m on the floor meditating, the doctors and the authorities started having ideas of how I might look like while I’m sitting on the floor meditating. They got a paint artist to paint a picture of how my physical body might look like while my physical body is sitting on the floor in a meditated position, then they got the paint artist to paint an image of how my soul or spirit might look like while my soul or spirit is walking away from my physical body leaving it looking back at it. After it's all done, this painting winds up being the result."

"Wow," the audience says as they frighteningly stare at the large BODY AND SOUL painting of Diane D's soul or spirit creeping away from her physical body with her spiritual head turned around looking back at her physical body while her physical body is left on the floor in a meditated position in a state of trance. "That is so scary and creepy," the audience members say.

"It is," other audience members say.

"Wow Diane D," Nicole says. "Even though those images are creepy, I think they are so remarkable and so uncanny."

"They are," the audience says.

"I love those images of you Diane D. Even though they give me the creeps, I still love them and I think they're brilliant and I think you are so wonderful."

"Thanks Ma'am," Diane D says.

"You're welcome." Nicole steps away from the microphone as the audience claps. A younger black woman steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the young woman and says, "Yes Miss."

"Hi Diane D," the young woman says. "Diane D, I love that photo of you balancing your entire body two feet off the ground with your arms straight and your hands on the ground with your feet appearing to be rested on top of a bench. I notice that you're smiling in that photo Diane D. That seems to be the only image up there of you smiling. Since you're smiling in that photo, you don't appear to be angry or in any state of trance or anything like that. You seem to be happy, awake and alert and seem to know what is happening and what is going on around you. Since you don't remember doing any balancing acts or any levitations during your 'Illusions Of Zero Gravity' performance in Germany, do you remember doing that balancing act in the photo of you smiling?"

"Yes I remember doing that."

"You do?"

"Yes I do."

"Wow. Where was that photo shot at? Was it shot in Germany?"

"No it wasn't. That photo was shot right here in a park in New York."

"It was?"

"Yes it was. It was shot while me and the Dianettes were rehearsing for 'The Illusions of Zero Gravity' performance."

"You and the Dianettes were rehearsing for the 'The Illusions of Zero Gravity' performance in that photograph?"

"Yes we were. The photographer wanted to get shots of us rehearsing, so that's just one of the shots the photographer took."

"It is?"

"Yes it is."

"You didn't rehearse at a dance studio?"

"Yeah we rehearsed at a dance studio too. We rehearsed in both places, at a dance studio and at a park."

"I see. So you do remember doing that balancing act in that photograph of you smiling."

“Yes I do remember doing this balancing act in the photograph of me smiling, the other images on the wall I don’t remember.”

“Wow,” the audience says again.

“Well I like that photo of you smiling Diane D,” the woman says, “I think it’s a very lovely photo. The other photos, paintings and sketches of you give me the creeps, because you seem to be angry in some of them. Some of the other ones, you seem to be in a state of trance or something like that and you didn’t seem to know what was happening or what was going on around you. I think those photos, paintings and sketches of you are so remarkable, even though they scare me, I think they are remarkable and I think you’re remarkable too.”

“Thanks Miss,” Diane D says.

“You’re welcome.” The young woman turns and walks away from the microphone. An Asian man around his late 40’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Mister.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, I and the rest of the staff members from the museums and exhibits were so inspired by all those frightening images of you on the front wall, that my staff approached your family earlier and offered to make wax figures out of the frightening images of you and place those wax figures inside the horror division of a museum or exhibit, but my staff said your family declined that offer. Why did your family decline that offer?”

“Because they said my alleged ordeals don’t need to be on public display like that.”

“They did?”

“Yes they did.”

“How do you feel about that?”

“I feel the same way my family feels about it. I don’t need my alleged ordeals on public display like that.”

“Wouldn’t you like to see yourself or an image of yourself in wax?”

“Maybe not like that,” Diane D says as she points at her images on the front wall. The audience laughs a little.

“Would you like to see yourself in wax at all?” the man asks.

“I never really gave it a thought.”

“You never?”

“No.”

“Not even a thought of having you and the Dianettes performing in wax?”

“No. It never crossed our minds.”

“My staff said they also offered to make a wax figure of your cousin Dana too and place that wax figure inside the horror department of a museum also, but your family declined that offer too and said they would never allow a wax figure of yourself or a wax figure of your cousin Dana to be inside a horror department of a museum or exhibit. Why would your family never allow that?”

“Because if you museum people put a wax figure of me and a wax figure of Dana inside the horror department, then what are you trying to say about me and her?!”

“I wasn’t trying to say anything about you and her.”

“So why choose the horror department for my and her wax figures then?”

“I don’t know. The staff members and I thought it would be a good spot for your wax figures, that’s all.”

“Well my family and I are not interested in having any wax figures of myself or any wax figures of Dana being on display inside the horror department, no thank you.”

“Okay. Sorry.” The man steps away from the microphone. A young white man around his late 20’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Mister.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, I would like to know, are you an endurance artist?”

“An endurance artist?”

“Yeah.”

“What do you mean?”

“With the stunts you do, like meditating, hypnotizing yourself, balancing your entire body in a horizontal position, balancing your entire body upside down, doing hand stands on one hand, doing hand stands on your fingertips, martial arts, traveling outside of your physical body and going to the spirit world and levitating. I just want to know, are you an endurance artist.”

“No I don’t think I am.”

“You don’t?”

“No.”

“Okay, thank you.” The man steps away from the microphone. A South American man around his late 30’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, being that you meditate and you’re able to do these out-of-this world things like hypnotizing yourself, having your soul or spirit travel outside of your physical body and go to the spirit world and you get these other supernatural powers like dragging several people at once, kung fu kicking that little boy Marcus a couple of feet in the air, kung fu kicking a stuck storage room door wide open knocking the door right off its hinges then did damage to the storage room and you’re able to levitate, it sounds to me like you deal with the dark side.”

“Oooohh,” the audience says.

“I would like to know, do you deal with the dark side?”

“What do you mean ‘dark side?’” Diane D asks.

“Do you worship the Devil?”

“Oooohh,” the audience says again.

“People have accused me of worshipping the Devil,” Diane D says.

“They have?” the man asks.

“Yes they have, and the answer to that question is ‘no’, I do not worship the Devil.”

“You don’t?”

“No I don’t worship the devil, and do you know why I don’t worship the Devil?”

“No I don’t. Why?”

“I don’t think there is a such thing as the Devil.”

“What!” the audience shouts.

“You don’t believe there is a Devil?” the man asks.

“No I don’t,” Diane D says.

“What?!” the audience shouts. “How can you not believe that?!”

“But the Bible says there is a Devil Diane D,” the man says. “Do you believe in God?”

“If my family’s organization started in the churches and we perform the organization in the churches and we’re planning to build more churches, that should tell you right there that I believe in God,” Diane D says.

“But you don’t believe there is a Devil.”

“Not really.”

“Oooohh,” the audience says.

Diane D looks at the audience and shouts, “Hey! Everybody has a right to their own beliefs! Now if you all believe that there is a Devil, then fine, that’s your belief! I’m just saying I don’t believe there is a Devil!”

“Then where do you think all the evilness and wrong doings that people do come from?” the man asks.

“I believe we’re born that way.”

“You do?”

“Oh absolutely.”

“I see. Well do you believe there is a Hell?”

“Yes I do believe there is a Hell.”

“You do?!”

“Yes I do, and do you know why I believe there is a Hell?”

“You’ve probably seen it during your out-of-body experiences?”

“No that’s not why.”

“So why do you believe there is a hell then?”

“Because I believe we’re in Hell right now, I believe this world is Hell.”

“What!” the audience shouts.

“You believe this world is Hell?” the man asks.

“Yes I do,” Diane D says.

“How can you believe this world is Hell Diane D?!”

“Because what can be worst than this?!”

“Oooohh,” the audience says.”

“Wow,” the man says. “So you don’t believe in the other Hell, the one that has the fire and brimstone with the Devil and pitch fork in it?”

“No I don’t,” Diane D says.

“Wow,” the audience says.

“How does your family feel that you have doubts about the existence of the Devil or the other Hell?” the man asks.

“I don’t know how they feel about that,” Diane D says.

“Well do they believe there is a Devil or Hell?”

“My family do believe, that there ARE dark forces out there.”

“They do?”

“Yes they do. They’re not sure what those dark forces are, but they do believe in it.”

“But you don’t.”

“Not really.”

“Do you believe in Angels?”

“I don’t know, I’m not sure.”

“I see. Well what about your cousin Dana?”

“What about her?”

“Does she deal with the dark side? Does she worship the Devil?”

“No, Dana does not deal with any dark side or worship the Devil either.”

“She doesn’t?”

“No.”

“Does she believe there is a Devil?”

“I’m not sure if she believes there is a Devil.”

“You’re not sure?”

“No.”

“Does she believe there is a Hell?”

“I don’t know if she believes in that either.”

“You don’t?”

“No. That subject is not something we really talk about.”

“You don’t talk about it?”

“No we don’t.”

“Do you two talk about religion at all?”

“Not with each other. I talk about religion when my family and I do the organization at the churches, but it’s something I don’t talk about with Dana.”

“No? Why not?”

“Because she’s not really into religion.”

“She’s not?”

“No she’s not. She doesn’t want anything to do with religion.”

“What!” the audience shouts.

“She doesn’t?” the man asks.

“No she doesn’t,” Diane D says.

“Why not? She’s not an Atheist is she?”

“I don’t know whether or not Dana believes in God or any religion at all. But what does it matter to you whether she’s an Atheist or not? As long as YOU take care of YOUR belief. All I know, is that I respect her thoughts and opinions and not talk about religion with her.”

“Wow. You know it’s so strange that your family DO believe that there ARE dark forces out there, but out of your family, only you and your cousin Dana don’t believe in it, but yet only you two are the ones who meditate, seem to get these out-of-control behaviors that you don’t remember and these superhuman strengths that you don’t remember and be possessed by other spirits or entities, not the rest of your family, the ones who actually DO believe that there are dark forces out there.”

“Oooooohh,” the audience says.

“I’m just saying. Thank you.” The man steps away from the microphone. A middle aged white man steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Mister.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, you say that you don’t believe that you harmed that little boy Marcus inside the school hallway, nor do you believe that you kung fu kicked that storage room door wide open and did damage to it then did damage inside the storage room and you don’t believe that you levitated. It sounds to me like you might be in some sort of denial of all the things you’re accused of doing. I would like to know, are you in denial of doing all those things you’re accused of doing?”

“No I don’t think I’m in denial of those things if I actually don’t believe I committed those things.”

“Well you got sent to the Mental Institution for a reason. Why do you think they sent you to the Mental Institution in the first place?”

“Because of what that little boy told them. He claims I beat him up, I’m claiming I didn't. The doctors and the authorities chose to believe his word over mine, that's why I got sent to the Mental Institution."

"Maybe they chose to believe his word over your word because of your violent history. You do have a violent history you know."

"Yes that's exactly why they chose to believe his word over mine because I got judged of my violent history which I have no memory of, but what else can I do? All I can do, is just go on for the rest of my life and continue to be punished for things I don't remember ever doing."

"Wow," the audience says.

"Sorry you're going through that," the man says.

"Yeah me too," Diane D says.

"Thank you." The man steps away from the microphone. A heavy-set black man around his mid 30's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes Sir."

"Hi Diane D," the man says. "Diane D, have the hospital or the authorities ever charged you with kung fu kicking or damaging the storage room door or damaging the storage room? Did they ever charge you for property damage?"

"No they haven't charged me for anything yet because they're still investigating on what might have happened to the storage room door and to the storage room. The two hospital eye witnesses claim I did damage the storage room door and the storage room, I'm claiming I didn't. So right now, it's their word against mines."

"I see. So is the hospital trying to fix the storage room door now or the storage room?"

"No they can't do anything with the storage room door or with the storage room right now until the investigation is over."

"I see. So far right now, the storage room door and the storage room are still damaged?"

"Yeah. I haven't been by it lately, but my family have been by it lately and they told me that the storage room door and the storage room are still damaged."

"They told you that?"

"Yes they did."

"Wow. What did you think of the storage room door and the storage room when the authorities first showed the storage room door and the storage room to you and your family?"

"It looked like a tornado had blasted right through that door and into the room."

"It did?"

"Yes it did."

"Wow. What did you see or what do you remember seeing?"

"I saw the storage room door bent and the hinges broken with the door leaning and all the file cabinets practically turned upside down."

"What!" the audience shouts.

"You saw the file cabinets turned upside down?!" the man asks.

"Yeah," Diane D says.

"Wow," the audience says.

"I heard that the file cabinets inside the storage room were very, very heavy and very tall like six feet tall!" the man says. "You mean to tell me, that you saw six feet tall heavy file cabinets turned upside down?"

"I'm afraid I did."

"Wow," the audience says.

"What do YOU think really happened to the storage room door and to the storage room?" the man asks.

"I don't know what really happened to that storage room door and to the storage room sir," Diane D says. "As far as I know, I wasn't there."

"Wow," the audience says.

"Okay thank you." The man steps away from the microphone. A stocky black female reporter around her mid 50's with a short black hair cut steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, "Yes Ma'am."

"Hi Diane D," the woman says. "Diane D, you said you woke up one day and found yourself inside the Asylum, but you don't remember going into the Asylum, you just woke up and found yourself in there. You also said you felt intense pain all over your physical body when you woke up inside the Asylum because the staff there said you started throwing and slamming your body hard against the walls and the door, but you don't remember doing that either. How do you know for sure if they're telling the truth about you throwing and slamming your body hard against the walls and the door? How do you know THEY didn't take advantage of you and hurt you themselves, but claim that you hurt your own self knowing that you won't remember anything?"

"Because my family members were there. My brother Nicolas and the rest of my family claim to have witnessed my out-of-control behavior inside the Asylum."

"Your family witnessed it?"

"Yes they did. They confirmed that I suddenly started getting out of control in there."

"They confirmed it?"

"Yes they did. They said no one was around me when I started throwing and slamming my body hard against the walls and the door. They said I did it to myself."

"They did?"

"Yeah."

"Wow. Do your family members get to stay with you at the Mental Institution and the Asylum?"

"Yeah. My family won't let me be in there without them."

"They won't?"

"No."

"That's good. Who in your family gets to stay with you?"

"They all take turns."

"They do?"

"Yeah. Sometimes my mom and my grandma Margarita stay there with me. Sometimes my Aunt Celeste and my grandma Gracy stay there with me, then other times I have both of my parents stay there with me, other times I have my grandma Margarita and my grandpa Tomas stay, other times I have my other set of grandparents my grandma Gracy and my grandpa Mike stay there with me, sometimes my brothers will stay there with me or my husband will stay there, my aunt Marilyn, my aunt Jean and my aunt Laura, but most of the time it'll be my mom and my grandma Margarita stay in there with me. So there's always someone in my family staying there with me."

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“That’s good. At least your family members get to be in there with you and keep an eye on you to make sure nothing goes wrong. Okay thank you.” The woman steps away from the microphone. An Indian male reporter around his late 40’s steps up to the microphone.

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, I heard that a lot of people had got so curious about your meditation, that they want to come to your family’s house to see and witness for themselves first hand how you look like while you’re meditating. I heard that people told your family, that the next time your family walk in on you and catch you meditating, they would like your family to call them right away, so your family can invite them right to their house and go up to your bedroom to catch and witness you meditating and hopefully snap pictures of you and take videos of you while you’re in a state of trance, but your family told the people ‘no’ because they said first of all, they do not invite the public to their house, second, they said they would never allow people to impose or invade on your private moment or your private space. The people were still anxious to see you meditating and being in a state of trance that they even offered to pay your family big bucks to come to their house to go up to your bedroom to see and witness you being in a state of trance. I heard that there would lines right outside of your family’s house going all the way around the corner of people anxious and curious to witness you being in a state of trance, but your family still declined that offer because they said even if they DID allow for people to come see you while you’re in a state of trance, it might not be safe for the people because your family is so afraid, that once the people step foot anywhere inside their house or into your bedroom, your physical body would suddenly sense strangers or non-family members in the house or room with it, then get up off the floor and attack the strangers and non-family members by giving them kung fu kicks to the head and not know or realize it, just like you didn’t know or realize that your physical body tried to kung fu kick that contractor that was working inside your family’s house, just like you didn’t know or realize that your physical body tried to go downstairs after the window guy that was working inside your family’s kitchen, just like you didn’t know or realize that your physical body practically kung fu kicked that guy’s head off in the dance studio locker room breaking his neck and knocking him out cold while you were in a state of trance causing him to be paralyzed, just like you didn’t know or realize that your physical body kung fu kick those security guards and police officers injuring a few of them for life while you were in a state of trance, just like you didn’t know or realize that your physical body was trying to attack the correction officers inside the jail cell, just like you didn’t know or realized that your physical body punched and bent that ten feet pole inside the jail cell while you were in a state of trance, just like you didn’t know or realize that your physical body allegedly kung fu kicked that little boy Marcus two feet in the air inside that school hallway while you were in a state of trance, just like you didn’t know or realize that your physical body allegedly kung fu kicked that storage room door wide open bending the door knocking it right off its hinges while you were in a state of trance, just like you didn’t know or realize that you kung fu kicked those security guards on the stage in Germany while you were in a state of trance. I mean the list goes on and on! Someone suggested to your family, that if they allow the public to come to your room to witness you meditating, your family should put a fence or gate around your physical body while your physical body is in a state of trance to keep the spectators safe, that way your physical body won't be able to harm the spectators if your physical body suddenly senses strangers in the house or in the room, but your family still told the people 'no' that they will not put you on public display like that, but people still want to see you meditating with their very own eyes Diane D."

"The people in Germany already witnessed me meditating with their very own eyes sir."

"Wow. That was a very unfortunate incident for them. But are you willing to teach your meditation skills inside a classroom or studio?"

"No because my family don't trust me doing meditation in front of people."

"They don't?"

"No. They said they don't want the chaos that happened in Germany to repeat itself."

"So there is no chance for spectators to come to your house to witness you meditating and being in a state of trance?"

"No."

"Okay, thank you." The man steps away from the microphone. A young white woman around her late 20's with light brown shoulder length hair steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, "Yes Miss."

"Hi Diane D," the woman says. "Diane D, you mention that your family accidentally walks in on you sometimes and catch you meditating in your bedroom, right?"

"Right."

"I would just like to know, do you live with your family?"

"Yes I do live with my family."

"You do?"

"Yes I do."

"How come?"

"Because whenever I come out of jail or come out of the Mental Institution, I be placed into my family's custody."

"You do?"

"Yes I do."

"I see. Where does your family live?"

"My parents and my maternal grandparents which are my grandma Margarita and my grandpa Tomas live up in Westchester County."

"They live in Westchester?"

"Yes they do."

"Wow, Westchester is very nice. What part of Westchester?"

"Close to Putnam County."

"Close to Putnam County?"

"Yeah. And my dad's family which are my grandma Gracy and my grandpa Mike live in Queens."

"They live in Queens?"

"Yeah."

"I see. Which family members do you live or stay with?"

"Sometimes I live and stay with my parents and my maternal grandparents up in Westchester, and sometimes I stay with my paternal grandparents in Queens. I go back and forth between my two sets of grandparents."

"You do?"

"Yes I do because both sets of grandparents have custody of me."

"They do?"

"Yes they do."

"I see. Where does your husband stay?"

"He stays with me and my family."

"He does?"

"Yes."

"So when you and your husband stay with your parents and grandparents in Westchester, that means y'all have three generations living in the same house?"

"Yes we do."

"Wow, that's nice. Is it a two-family home or three-family home?"

"It's a one-family mansion."

"A one-family mansion?"

"Yeah."

"Wow, that sounds real nice. How many rooms does your family's mansion have?"

"We have a lot of rooms."

"You all do?"

"Yes we do."

"Wow that's nice. Which side of the family walks in on you while you're meditating, is it your parents and maternal grandparents in Westchester or your paternal grandparents in Queens?"

"Both sides of the family would walk in on me while I'm meditating."

"Both sides of your family?"

"Yeah."

"You don't lock the bedroom door?"

"No, I have to keep it unlocked for emergency purposes."

"Emergency purposes?"

"Yeah. I usually have a couple or a few lit candles on the floor in front of me while I'm meditating."

"You have candles on the floor while you're meditating?"

"Yes I do, so I have to keep the bedroom door unlocked for safety reasons just in case something goes wrong that I'm not aware of, then my family will be able to come into the room and stop it."

"You mean just in case a fire breaks out or something like that?"

"Yeah."

"I see. Do your family see you being in a state of trance when they walk in on you?"

"That's what they tell me."

"Do you see them?"

"No, I don't remember seeing them."

"You don't remember seeing them at all?"

"No. They see me, but I don't see them."

"Wow," the audience says.

“Okay, thank you,” the woman says. She then steps away from the microphone. A white man around his late 20’s with dark shoulder length hair and a slight beard steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Mister.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, in that close up photo of your eyes and that close up photo of your face being in a state of trance, who snapped those photos?”

“My aunt Marilyn snapped the photos of my eyes and face while I was sitting on the floor meditating.”

“Your aunt Marilyn snapped the pictures of your eyes and face while you were meditating?”

“Yeah.”

“How close was she to you, when she snapped those photos of your eyes and face?”

“Very close.”

“Oooohh,” the audience says.

“She didn’t zoom the camera in on you?” the man asks.

“No she didn’t,” Diane D says. “She told me she and my cousin Charlotte, who’s her daughter, sat down on the floor right in front of me, held the video camera right at my face for a while and took a video of my face while I was meditating.”

“Your aunt and your cousin sat down on the floor in front of you and took a video of your face while you were on the floor meditating?”

“Yeah. Then my aunt Marilyn snapped the picture of my face.”

“Your aunt snapped the picture of your face right after she and your cousin took a video of it?”

“Yeah. Then she and my cousin held the video camera closer to my face and held the video camera right at my eyes, then took a video of my eyes.”

“They took a video of your eyes while you were in a state of trance?”

“Yeah. Then my aunt snapped the picture of my eyes.”

“Your aunt snapped the picture of your eyes right after she and your cousin took the video of it?”

“Yeah.”

“How were your aunt and your cousin even able, to risk getting close to your physical body while your physical body was in a state of trance, when we just heard that your family say, it might not be safe for spectators to even step foot into your house or into your bedroom while you’re in a state of trance?”

“That’s right,” the audience says.

“Weren’t your aunt and your cousin in danger of your physical body getting up off the floor kung fu kicking them in the face or head causing them to bleed or be paralyzed, just like your physical body did to that guy in the locker room and to those security guards on stage in Germany and tried to do to those contractors that were working inside your family’s house?”

“I guess my aunt and cousin weren’t in danger,” Diane D says. “I didn’t see or hear of them being attacked or hurt by my physical body.”

“You didn’t?”

“No. They seemed absolutely fine when they showed the videos and pictures of my eyes and face to me the next day.”

“They did?”

“Yes they did. I didn’t see them hurt or bruised at all.”

“You didn’t?”

“No. They told me they even moved some of my hair out of my eyes and face and placed my hair right behind my shoulders before they took the videos and snapped the pictures of me.”

“They moved your hair out of your eyes and face and placed your hair behind your shoulders?”

“That’s what they said.”

“You don’t remember them doing that?”

“No I don’t.”

“You didn’t see them at all?”

“No, I don’t remember seeing them.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“They were very LUCKY that your physical body didn’t attack them!” the man says. “Why were your aunt and your cousin spared from being attacked by your physical body? Your physical body would only attack strangers in the house or room, not family members?”

“I don’t know. As far as I know, none my family members has ever been attacked by my physical body while my soul or spirit was away from it.”

“None of them?”

“As far as they know and as far as I know, none of them.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“My family claim the most my physical body ever did with them while my soul or spirit is away from it, was drag several of them all at once.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“My God,” the man says. “What did you think of the videos and pictures of your eyes and face in a state of trance when your aunt and cousin showed the videos and pictures to you the next day?”

“I thought it was odd,” Diane D says.

“You thought it was odd?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow. How did the pictures of your eyes and face wind up on the front wall?”

“The hotel asked me is it alright if they put the pictures of my eyes and face on the front wall. I told them ‘go ahead’ and they put the pictures on the front wall.”

“Wow. What do your family think about seeing you meditating? What do they think about seeing you in a state of trance? Do they get freaked out by it?”

“I don’t really know.”

“Wow. I know I would get freaked out by it if I was them. I don’t know if that’ll be something I would ever want to see. And if those spectators are willing to line up right outside of your family’s house to go up to your bedroom to witness you meditating and being in a state of trance, you don’t have to worry about me EVER being on that line because I would not risk going anywhere near your physical body while you’re in a state of trance. I would rather stay far away from your physical body while you’re in a state of trance because I do not want to wind up with a broken neck.”

“Oooooohh,” the audience says.

“Thank you.” The man steps away from the microphone as the audience claps and cheers. A black man around his mid 30’s steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, “Yes Sir.”

“Hi Diane D,” the man says. “Diane D, that little boy Marcus claimed to the authorities, that when you went into a state of trance inside that school hallway that night and attacked him, he said your facial appearance had changed. He claimed that your eyes got so swollen inside that school hallway and were getting puffier and puffier, which almost made you look like a completely different person.”

“Oooohh,” the audience says.

“He said your behavior even changed from when he first saw you laughing and smiling on that third floor school hallway with your family to when you became vicious and attacked him. He said after you went into this state of trance, it seemed and felt like he was up in that dark isolated school hallway with someone else instead of you.”

“Oooohhh,” the audience says.

“Your eyes even appear to be puffy and swollen in those photos on the front wall. It kind of gives me the creeps because you do sort of look like a different person.”

“Oooohh,” the audience says.

“Do your eyes always get more puffy and swollen whenever you get into a state of trance?”

“That’s what my family tells me,” Diane D says.

“Your family told you that?”

“Yes they did.”

“You don’t get to see or remember your eyes being more puffy and swollen while you’re in a state of trance?”

“Not really. Only when my soul or spirit steps outside of my physical body and I turn around and look back at my physical body, I see my physical eyes being puffy and swollen.”

“You do?”

“Yes I do. While I’m inside my physical body, I don’t see it.”

“You don’t?”

“No.”

“Wow,” the audience says.

“Have you tried looking at your physical face in the mirror to see it?” the man asks.

“The mirror is right there in front of me while I’m meditating,” Diane D says.

“It is?”

“Yes it is. When I see my reflection in the mirror, I don’t see my physical eyes being puffy or swollen.”

“You don’t.”

“No I don’t.”

“Wow,” the man and the audience say.

“So if your soul or spirit is outside of your physical body and the mirror is right there, do you look into the mirror while your soul or spirit is outside of your physical body?” the man asks. “What do you see when you look in the mirror? Do you see the reflection of your soul or spirit in the mirror? I mean does your soul or spirit casts a reflection in the mirror?”

“I don’t know,” Diane D says. “I don’t really pay attention to the mirror while my soul or spirit is outside of my physical body.”

“You don’t?”

“Not really.”

“Oh, I see. Okay thank you.” The man steps away from the microphone. A

Philippine man around his mid 30's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes Mister."

"Hi Diane D," the man says. "Diane D, you don't seem to remember a lot of the things that you have done. For example, you said you don't remember the part of your performance after your meditation, but say you remember the part of your performance before your meditation. So since the part of you spinning your body around then doing kung fu moves and kick-boxing moves happened just before you got down on the floor with your legs in a split position to meditate, that means you remember doing that part right?"

"Yes I remember doing that part."

"You do?"

"Yes I do."

"Wow, I thought those were fantastic moves you were doing Diane D, I really like that part. The other parts you did after your meditation were fantastic too, but it gave me the creeps. But you do remember the kick boxing moves?"

"Yes I remember them. After I started to meditate, I remember nothing else about my performance."

"Wow," the audience says.

"Okay, thank you," the man says. He then turns and steps away from the microphone. A thick Latino woman around her mid 30's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, "Yes Ma'am."

"Hi Diane D," the woman says. "Diane D, if these other souls spirits or entities enter into your physical body to take your soul's place for a while, I don't blame them for doing that because you got a beautiful, gorgeous body! You have a gorgeous face and you have beautiful hair! I mean who wouldn't want that?! If I was a soul, spirit or entity, I wouldn't mind entering your physical body either Diane D! I wouldn't mind trading physical bodies with you right now! I would like my soul and spirit to enter into your physical body while your soul or spirit enters into my physical body, what do you say? A trade off or even exchange?" The audience laughs a little.

"People aren't able to trade physical bodies like that Ma'am. But I appreciate the compliment, thanks."

"You're welcome. How did you get a physique like that in the first place?"

"Well I got it from my dad's side of the family, plus I've been athletic all my life doing martial arts, gymnastics, dancing and a whole lot of other stuff. Eventually it pays off."

"I see. Wow. Okay thank you." The woman steps away from the microphone. A white woman around her mid 60's with dark hair and glasses steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, "Yes Ma'am."

"Hi Diane D," the woman smiles and says. "Diane D, you seem to have this certain glow coming from you. Are you having a baby?"

"No I'm not having a baby. But I was told all my life that I have a certain glow about myself."

"You were?"

"Yes I was. I don't have any babies yet."

"I see. So you're not pregnant then?"

"No I'm not."

“Do you want children or would you like to have children someday?”

“I can take it or leave it. I’m not really in any rush to have children.”

“You’re not?”

“No. Don’t get me wrong, I do love children. I just don’t have the desire to have my own yet.”

“I see. When will you have the desire?”

“I don’t know, I have no idea.”

“I see. Okay thank you.” The woman steps away from the microphone. A Latino woman steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Ma’am.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, I would like to know, how many languages do you speak?”

“How many languages do I speak. I speak two and a half languages.”

“Two and a half?”

“Yeah. I speak English, Spanish and some French.”

“You speak some French?”

“Yeah.”

“How did you learn French?”

“Well I learned to speak French when my family’s organization spent some time in France, so I picked up on a lot of the language there.”

“You did?”

“Yes I did. Plus I took up French courses in High School.”

“You did?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow, you’re very multi-talented Diane D! You sing, you dance, you choreograph dance moves, you do gymnastics, you do balancing acts, you do hand stands, you do flips, you do splits, you do martial arts, you do personal training, you sky dive, you dive into the ocean, you ride motorcycles, you meditate, you’re able to hypnotize yourself, your spirit can leave your physical body and travel to the spirit world, you levitate and you can speak multi-languages! Wow! I mean the list goes on and on! I think you are very magnificent!”

“Thank you Ma’am.”

“You’re welcome.” The woman steps away from the microphone. A young Hispanic woman with short curly hair steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Ma’am.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, I just want you to know that I’m one of your biggest fans.”

“Thanks Miss.”

“You’re welcome. I just want to know, do you have nicknames for your fans?”

“Nicknames for my fans?”

“Yeah.”

“Nicknames like what?”

“Oh anything.”

“No, I don’t have any nicknames for my fans.”

“You don’t?”

“No.”

“So what do you call your fans then?”

“I call them Ladies and Gentlemen.”

“Ladies and Gentlemen?”

“Yeah.”

“Well how about naming your fans after yourself and call them ‘Dianatics’.”

“Dianatics?”

“Yeah. Since the Dianettes are already named after you, your fans can be named after you too and be called Dianatics.”

“Is that right?”

“Yeah.”

“No that’s okay Miss. I’ll just stick to calling my fans Ladies and Gentlemen.”

“You don’t want to give your fans nicknames?”

“No.”

“Are you sure about that?”

“Oh I’m positive about that.”

“Oh. I see. I just thought I’d ask. Okay thank you.” The young woman steps away from the microphone. Another young Hispanic woman steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Ma’am.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, I’ve been trying to follow you on Social Media for a while, but I can’t seem to find you on Social Media anywhere. Are you on Social Media or do you have a Social Media account?”

“No I’m not on Social Media, I don’t have a Social Media account.”

“You don’t?”

“No.”

“How come?”

“I just don’t have one, no reason.”

“Do you want a Social Media account?”

“If I wanted a Social Media account, I would have had one.”

“I see. So since you don’t have a Social Media account, that means you don’t want one.”

“Not really.”

“So how do you share things online with your family and friends?”

“I have an email account.”

“You do?”

“Yes I do, that’s how I usually share things online with my family and friends.”

“I see. Well do you share your email address with your fans?”

“No I do not.”

“Why not?”

“Because I only share my email address with my family and friends, that’s it.”

“Not with your fans?”

“No.”

“Well how can your fans follow you online then?”

“They can just go to my family’s organization’s web page and follow me there. That’s also where we advertise our upcoming performances inside the churches, the Diaz-Davidson Bath Oil, the Dianettes’ clothing line and other stuff.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

"I see. Okay, I'll check out your family's organization's web page. Thanks for that information."

"No problem."

The woman steps away from the microphone. A white male reporter around his mid 40's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes Mister."

"Hi Diane D," the man says. "Diane D, I just want to know, have you heard from or been in touch with the Punky Gurlz lately?"

"No I haven't."

"You haven't?"

"No."

"Would you collaborate with them if they ever ask you again?"

"No because the Dianettes are still not interested in me or themselves collaborating with the Punky Gurlz. They don't like the Punky Gurlz and the Punky Gurlz don't like them. I don't need to add fuel to the fire by joining the Punky Gurlz and collaborating with them. It will only get the Dianettes upset again and make things worse. We don't need that drama in our lives."

"I understand. Okay thanks." The man steps away from the microphone. A white male reporter around his mid 60's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes Mister."

"Hi Diane D," the man says. "Diane D, how do you feel about that reporter Felix Green's suicide? How do you feel that he killed himself?"

"I do not like to speak about Felix Green."

"You don't?"

"No."

"You don't have an opinion about him taking his own life?"

"Of course I have an opinion about that sir, but I keep that opinion between me and my family. That's something my family and I would talk about in the privacy of our own home, we don't talk about that issue in public."

"You don't?"

"No. Sorry."

"That's okay. Okay thanks." The man steps away from the microphone. A black female reporter around her mid 50's with a short hair cut steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, "Yes Miss."

"Hi Diane D," the woman says. "Diane D, I just want to ask you, how do the Dianettes feel about chasing down the Punky Gurlz on the highway attacking them at the airport injuring them, causing the Punky Gurlz to miss their flight?"

"I don't know how they feel about that Miss. They don't talk about it."

"They don't?"

"No."

"How do they feel that because of them, the Punky Gurlz' concert in Paris had to be canceled?"

"I don't know, they don't talk about that either."

"Well are they at least sorry about what they did to the Punky Gurlz causing them to miss their flight which caused their concert in Paris to be canceled?!"

"I don't know if they're sorry about that Ma'am. It doesn't seem like they're thinking about it.”

“It doesn’t?”

“No.”

“Well how does your cousin Dana feel about the three female police officers that she attacked and injured for life? How does she feel knowing that she caused them not to be able to work anymore because of her actions? How does she feel that she caused all three officers to be on Permanent Disability?”

“I don’t know how Dana feels about that Miss. She doesn’t talk about it.”

“She doesn’t?”

“I’ve never heard her talk about it.”

“She doesn’t at least talk about it with you?”

“No she doesn’t even talk about it with me.”

“Is she at least sorry about what she did to those female officers and what she caused?!”

“I don’t know if she’s sorry about that. It doesn’t seem like she even thinks about it.”

“So none of the Dianettes nor your cousin Dana are sorry about their actions and what they caused?”

“I don’t know, I can’t speak or think for them.”

“Well if the Dianettes and your cousin Dana don’t seem to be sorry about their actions and what they caused, I would like to know, are you sorry about your actions and what YOU caused.”

“Ooooooh,” the audience says.

“Me?” Diane D asks.

“Yes you,” the woman says. “Are you at least sorry about the people you injured in the past?”

“Well of course I’m sorry about the people I supposedly injured. Like I said earlier, I found my soul or spirit wandering the universe during those supposed altercations so therefore, I don’t remember injuring any of those people if I did do it.”

“Just like you don’t remember the little boy you injured inside that school hallway that night and all the other things that you’ve done in the past but don’t remember?”

“Exactly. Now if I did injure those people and damaged that storage room door at the hospital, I’m sorry about that.”

“You are?”

“Yes I am.”

“I see. Okay thank you.” The woman steps away from the microphone. A young Asian woman steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, “Yes Miss.”

“Hi Diane D,” the woman says. “Diane D, is it true that your family’s organization is planning to relocate back to the Dominican Republic?”

“Yes it’s true.”

“How soon are you all planning to relocate back down there?”

“Maybe in about a year or two or three.”

“I see. Will you continue to meditate while you’re in the Dominican Republic?”

“I don’t see why not. I’ve been going back and forth between New York and the Dominican Republic all my life. Being in a different place or country does not stop me from meditating. You saw me meditating on stage in Germany in the video didn’t yuh?”

“Yeah,” the audience says.

“I mean where do you think I learned to meditate from in the first place? I learned to meditate when my family and I traveled to Asia. I learned to meditate from the people over there. So Asia is where I learned and started the two Ms, meditation and martial-arts. So once I learned meditation and martial-arts in Asia, I brought the practice back home with me.”

“We all see,” the Asian woman smiles and says.

“As a matter of fact, I have a photo of the teachers in Asia who taught me meditation and martial arts.”

“You do?”

“Yes I do.” Diane D bends and reaches underneath the podium. She pulls out a large photo. She holds the photo up to the crowd and says, “These are three of the guys who taught me meditation and martial arts.” In the photograph is an old picture of Diane D at the age of around 9 wearing dark blue pants, a dark blue long sleeved shirt with her hair in two long thick ponytails one ponytail hanging on each side of her head and chest, smiling and posing in the picture with 3 Asian men who are wearing martial arts suits as she stands on a stool between two of them, with one around each of them and the third Asian man on his knees in front of Diane D with his arms folded as they all smile towards the camera.

“Wow. Those were your teachers Diane D?”

“Yes three of them.”

“That’s interesting. How old were you in that picture?”

“I was nine years old in this picture.”

“Wow. How many teachers you had altogether?”

“I had so many teachers I can’t even count. But these are three of the main ones who taught me meditation and martial arts.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow. They seem to have taught you very well. Do you still keep in touch with them?”

“Yeah I still keep in touch with them.”

“You do?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow. How are they doing?”

“They’re doing great. They’re still teaching meditation and martial arts in Asia.”

“They are?”

“Yeah. I’m planning to go back to Asia in the near future and study with them some more.”

“You are?”

“I sure am.”

“Wow. Well I hope everything goes well when you go back to Asia and study with them again Diane D. And I hope everything goes well when your family relocates your organization back to the Dominican Republic.”

“Thanks Ma’am.”

“You’re welcome.” The woman steps away from the microphone.

Diane D bends back down and places the photo back down underneath the podium.

She bends back up and looks back towards the people again.

A white male in his early 30's with dark hair steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the man and says, "Yes Sir."

"Hi Diane D," the man says. "Diane D, when that school hallway incident happened between you and that little boy Marcus, your grandmother Margarita told the authorities and the police that you were planning to write a book about your meditation and out-of-body experience called 'Wandering the Universe', is it true? And if it is true, are you still planning to write that book?"

"Yes I was planning to write a book about meditation and out-of-body experience called 'Wandering the Universe' and yeah, I would still like to write that book some time in the future. I'm just not sure when though."

"I see. Well whenever the book comes out, I would be very interested in purchasing it and having it signed and autographed by you."

"Thank you sir."

"You're welcome." The man steps away from the microphone. An Indian female reporter around her late 30's steps up to the microphone.

Diane D looks at the woman and says, "Yes Miss."

"Hi Diane D," the woman says. "Diane D, the two reporters who came to talk to you at your family's organization claim, that you and your family are planning to be in the Dominican Republic soon. Is that true?"

"Yes it's true."

"How long are you all planning to be down there when you go, for good or only temporary?"

"Temporary. Like I said, we don't plan to relocate down to the Dominican Republic for another two years."

"Oh I see. So when will you all go down there temporary?"

"In another two or three weeks."

"How long will you all stay down there?"

"For two or three weeks."

"I see. Okay thank you." The woman steps away from the microphone.

Diane D looks at the crowd and says, "Okay everybody, it's time for me to wrap up now, the hotel is about to shut this room down."

"Aaaahh," the crowd says.

"But I appreciate each and everyone of you for coming out here to the hotel to listen to me and hear me speak out, trying to get my point across on these controversial issues surrounding me. Thanks again."

The crowd stands, claps and cheers.

Diane D then grabs her water bottle. She looks back at the crowd then turns and walks away from the podium as she waves bye to the crowd.

"Bye Diane D!" the crowd shouts as they wave back to Diane D.

Diane D heads towards the front door.

The crowd continues to clap and cheer as Diane D leaves out the front door.

Outside the front door, Margarita, Mary, Barry, Tomas and the rest of Diane D's family are all standing outside in the hallway surrounding Diane D chit-chatting and talking to her. A few hotel workers approach Margarita. They greet Margarita as she turns and gives them hugs.

Chapter 36

The Mall Hoax

It is three weeks later. Four men of different heritages, all around their mid to late twenties, are playing in a small band inside a house garage as they each play an instrument. One of the guys Arty, a male white, turns to the others and says, "You know guys? It would be real nice if our group had more exposure."

"What do you mean more exposure?" Dave says.

"I mean we should start performing in public places again where more people can see us! I mean how would our band get discovered if not too many people see us? We already performed at the park last week where a small crowd of around twenty-five people gathered to watch us. We have to get more exposure."

"Yeah you're right Arty. What should we do?"

"We should put out an advertisement."

"Put out an advertisement?" Marlon says. "Put out an advertisement where?"

"In the newspaper."

"In the newspaper? You know how much it costs to put an advertisement in the paper! Even if we did advertise our band in the paper, nobody would still come to see us. Nobody knows who we are! We're not well known at all! People wouldn't pay much attention to the ad anyway."

"That's the point I'm trying to make! Nobody knows who we are, yet. We got to get people to know us!"

"How are we going to do that?"

"What if we say, we're gonna be an opening act for a well known singer or singing group?"

"Be an opening act for a well known singer or singing group? You mean put out a lie?"

"Well it won't fully be a lie, we'll still perform. When we put on an opening act for the well known singer or singing group and start performing, we'll just tell the crowd or audience that we just got word that the singer or singing group couldn't make it and won't be performing. The crowd will be disappointed at first, but once they hear our band, they will forget all about that well known singer or singing group and just enjoy our band."

"I don't like the sound of this Arty," Ray says "I don't think I'm gonna like us lying to the public like that.”

“It'll just be a small article in the newspaper. I'm sure not too many people will notice the small article anyway. It's a chance I'm willing to take just so we can get more exposure. Are you guys with me?”

Dave, Marlon and Ray look at each other puzzled, then back at Arty. “Yeah I'm with you Arty,” Marlon says.

“Yeah, me too,” Dave says.

“So am I,” Ray says. “Suppose you DO get big and famous behind this, I don't want to be left out.”

“Great!” Arty says.

“So what well known singer or singing group were you thinking about putting in the ad?”

“I was thinking about maybe putting Diane D and The Dianettes in the ad.”

“What!” Dave, Marlon and Ray shout. “Diane D and The Dianettes?!”

“From The Diaz-Davidson Organization?!” Marlon shouts. “Why do you want to use Diane D and The Dianettes' name? Didn't Diane D and The Dianettes quit doing shows or concerts?!”

“Yeah,” Arty says.

“So why use their name and have Diane D's name be put in the papers again?”

“Well Diane D has been in the headlines and articles a lot lately.”

“Don't you think she went through a lot already with her name constantly put in the papers? The papers and media talking about her and the Dianettes' ‘Illusions Of Zero Gravity’ performance in Germany! Especially about her levitation performance! That's the reason why she quit doing shows and concerts in the first place! And now you want to add her name to the headlines and articles again! Just throw the fuel to the fire!”

“Well, I figure people might want to see Diane D and the Dianettes because of their ‘Illusions Of Zero Gravity’ performance. Especially Diane D's levitation performance!”

“Arty, everybody knows that Diane D and The Dianettes had quit doing shows and concerts! Everybody heard about it! Even if Diane D and The Dianettes didn't quit doing shows and concerts, Diane D's family banned her and the Dianettes from ever doing that ‘Illusions of Zero Gravity’ performance again and the crowd won't be able to see that performance! How are you going to pull this off in the paper?!”

“Well I know someone who works in one of the newspaper companies personally who can put Diane D and The Dianettes’ name in the ad for me. A few people would see and read the advertisement and think that Diane D and the Dianettes have changed their minds and decided to come back to do one last show. People would be desperate to see Diane D and The Dianettes and would definitely want to come see them perform if they think Diane D and The Dianettes are gonna be performing one last show!”

“The person who works in the newspaper company would lie for you and do that?” Dave asks.

“Yeah, for a price.”

“How much?” Marlon asks.

“The same price it costs to put any ad in the paper.”

“You have that kind of money Arty?” Ray asks.

“Yeah. I have a trust fund saved up for me since I was a kid. I'll use some of that money to pay for the ad.”

“Wouldn't the newspaper want proof in order to print such a thing like that in the paper?” Dave asks.

“I'm gonna give them all the proof I can give them.”

“What are you planning to say in the ad?” Ray asks.

“I'm gonna place a small ad in the newspaper with a headline that says, 'The Hicks Band performs and opening act for Diane D and The Dianettes at the Staten Island Mall on Saturday May 12th.’”

“What!” Marlon shouts. “The Hicks Band performs and opening act for Diane D and The Dianettes at the Staten Island Mall on Saturday May 12th? That's another three weeks from now!”

“I know.”

“Isn't Diane D and her family out of town?” Ray says. “Didn't they go down to the Dominican Republic for a while?”

“Yep, they sure did! That's a good excuse to tell the crowd, that Diane D and the Dianettes couldn't make it to the mall to perform tonight because they haven't returned back from the Dominican Republic yet! I think that'll work! So we better hurry and start calling up the newspaper if we want that ad in the paper.” The rest of the guys worriedly look at Arty. Arty looks at them and says, “Oh don't worry guys. The ad will be very small. It'll be in a small corner near the back of the newspaper that nobody in the Diaz-Davidson Organization will even see it! I'm sure only two or three people in this entire planet will even see or notice the ad. They'll spread the word to their family and friends. By word of mouth, their family and friends will tell other people. Then they'll all come to our performance. It'll probably be only a hundred people or less there. It shouldn't be more than that. Let me get on the phone and start dialing.” Arty gets on his cell phone. He starts to dial a number. He puts the cell phone to his ear and waits for several seconds. He then speaks into the cell phone and says, “Hello? Is this the local newspaper? Well I would like to speak with an employee there named Eddie Thompson..... Is he there? ..... Can I speak with him? .... Sure, I'll wait. .... Hello Eddie? .... Yeah Eddie what's up, this is Arty. .... I'm okay man. .... Listen Eddie, I need a special big favor from you. .... Yes, a big, big favor. I need you to print a certain advertisement for my band. ....” Dave, Marlon and Ray worriedly look at Arty.

Three days later, Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray are on a sidewalk at a news stand. Arty picks up a newspaper copy as Dave, Marlon and Ray stand around him looking at the newspaper. “Let's hope it's printed in here,” Arty says. Arty opens the newspaper all the way near be back. He, Dave, Marlon and Ray look and see a small article in the corner of the page with a headline that reads: THE HICKS BAND PERFORMS AND OPENING ACT FOR DIAND D AND THE DIANETTES AT THE STATEN ISLAND MALL ON SATURDAY MAY 12. “They printed it!” Arty excitedly shouts. “Oh my goodness, they printed it!”

“I can't believe this?!” Dave shouts. “The paper actually did print this! So what do we do now?!”

“We better start getting ready to play in three weeks!”

“Man I hope it works out Arty!”

“Yeah me too. Let's keep our fingers crossed.” Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray are nervous and excited.

It is three weeks later, Saturday May 12th. The mall is packed with shoppers. There is a stage in the mall. There are several instruments on the stage. Everybody is surrounding the stage with excitement. Several yards away from the stage are seven tall larger than life size photos. Each photo has a picture of either Diane D or one of the Dianettes on it. The tall photo on the far right has a picture of Bernice dressed in her black 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' dance outfit as she peers from behind a pole looking out in the distance with the illusion of the lower half of her body being see through. The tall photo on the left side of it has a picture of Charlotte dressed in her black 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' dance outfit as she sits on the ground with her knees up to her chest with the illusion of the lower half of her body being see through. Underneath both photos is one long sign that reads: 'THE DISAPPEARING LADIES'. The tall photo on the left side of Charlotte's has a picture of Diane D dressed in her black 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' dance outfit with one knee up to her chest, the opposite hand raised and her head up with the illusion of her levitating in a vertical position off the stage as she looks up towards the sky with her eyes half closed and eyeballs practically hidden behind her eyelids appearing to be in a state of trance. Underneath her photo is a sign that reads: 'THE FLY GIRL'. The tall photo on the left side of Diane D's has a picture of Miranda dressed in her black 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' dance outfit as she is high up near the top of a wall clinging her chest to the wall with the illusion of her holding and hanging on to the top of the wall with her chest, arms, hands and legs as she looks up towards the ceiling on top of her. The tall photo on the left side of Miranda's has a picture of Lonna dressed in her black 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' dance outfit as she is high up near the top of a wall clinging her back to the wall with the illusion of her holding and hanging on to the top of the wall with her back, arms, hands and legs as she looks out in the distance. Underneath both photos is one long sign that reads: 'THE SPIDER GIRLS'. The tall photo on the left side of Lonna's has a picture of Kelly dressed in her black 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' dance outfit as she is kneeled on the floor with the illusion of her holding and carrying a refrigerator on top of her back with her arms and hands spread out underneath the refrigerator holding it up as she looks out in the distance. The tall photo on the left side of Kelly's has a picture of Nancy dressed in her black 'Illusions of Zero Gravity' dance outfit as she has her chest, arms and hands laid down to the floor with her lower body upside down in the air with legs up with the illusion of her knees, lower legs and feet holding and carrying a vehicle with her knees, lower legs and feet underneath the vehicle holding it up as she looks out in the distance. Underneath both photos is one long sign that reads: 'THE WONDER WOMEN'.

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray stand on the side looking at the photos stunned. They see around several hundred people near the large photos of Diane D and the Dianettes staring up at the photos. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray then look at the stage. They see around a thousand people at and around the stage. Arty nervously turns to Dave, Marlon and Ray and whispers, "Man this crowd is bigger than I expected!" Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray see some people wearing T-shirts that read: 'DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES' THE SUPER SEVEN. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray see a bunch of other people wearing yellow and green T-shirts that read: 'THE DISAPPEARING LADIES' Two Dianettes seem to vanish into thin air! Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray see a bunch of other people wearing pink or blue T-shirts that read: 'THE SPIDER GIRLS' Two Dianettes seem to defy gravity as they climb a bare wall then crawl across a bare ceiling! Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray see a bunch of other people wearing red or orange T-shirts that read: 'THE WONDER WOMEN' Two Dianettes seem to defy gravity as they lift heavy objects and vehicles into the air! Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray see a bunch of other people wearing purple or white T-shirts that read: 'THE FLY GIRL' Diane D seems to defy gravity as she levitates and floats in thin air! Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray see a bunch of other people holding flowers with ribbons around it that say: DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES! THANKS FOR DECIDING TO PERFORM FOR US AGAIN! Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray also see a bunch of people cheering as the people hold and wave banners high in the air that read: 'DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES' THE SUPER SEVEN! THANKS FOR DECIDING TO COME BACK! Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray then see a middle aged black man and a very large group of family members wearing T-shirts that read: 'THE DISAPPEARING LADIES' 'THE SPIDER GIRLS' 'THE WONDER WOMEN' AND 'THE FLY GIRL' The middle aged black man and the large group of family members approach a group of young people. The group of young people are also wearing different colored T-shirts that read: 'THE DISAPPEARING LADIES' 'THE SPIDER GIRLS' 'THE WONDER WOMEN' 'THE FLY GIRL'. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Steve overhear the man talk to the young people saying to them, “Excuse me, but is Diane D and The Dianettes supposed to be here today?”

“Yeah that's what the radio said,” the young man says.

“Oh yeah? My son said he heard it from the radio station too.”

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray puzzled look at each other then back at the people as they overhear a young woman says, “Yeah I heard it from the radio too.”

“You did?” the young man asks.

“Yeah. I remember a few weeks ago, one of the DJs on the radio mentioned on the air that he spotted a small advertisement in the back of a newspaper about the Hicks Band performing an opening act for Diane D and The Dianettes at the Staten Island Mall. That's how I found out about it. Then I told my family and friends about it. Then my family told their friends. Then their friends told their family and everybody else, then everybody else told their families and friends.”

“Yeah my son heard it on the radio three weeks ago too,” the older man says. “Then he told me and the rest of my family about it. Then me and my family told everybody else. Then everybody else told their families and friends too. We were all saying that we thought Diane D and The Dianettes had quit doing shows and concerts and were only gonna do shows at their church when they opened it in the Dominican Republic. Then we all thought well maybe Diane D and The Dianettes changed their minds and decided to do one last show. That's when we all decided why don't we come here to the Staten Island Mall to see for ourselves if Diane D and The Dianettes are really going to be here!”

“Yeah we've been waiting impatiently for three weeks every since we heard about this!” the man's wife says. “We came all the way from Long Island to see this.”

“We came all the way from Upstate,” the young man says. “My family decided to come here to see if it was true too if Diane D and The Dianettes were really going to be here, because we never heard anything more about it on the radio.”

“You didn't?” the older man asks.

“No. We only heard that advertisement on the radio that one time. The DJ never mentioned about the ad again.”

“No? Well I guess we all came to the right place to find out if Diane D and The Dianettes are really going to be here.”

“Yeah that's true,” the man's wife says. “I think everybody else came here to find out too, to see if Diane D and The Dianettes are really going to be here after everybody heard they quitted performing in public for good.”

“I hope they be here,” the young man says. “Boy I can't wait to see Diane D, if they're really going to be here!”

“Yeah me too!” the older man's son says. “I want to see The Dianettes!”

“I want to see the Dianettes too. I would like to see them perform their 'Illusions Of Zero Gravity' performance that they did in Germany. Especially Diane D's levitation performance.”

“Aren't they banned from doing that?” a young woman asks.

“Yeah that's what everybody heard. I was hoping Diane D and the Dianettes would take a chance of doing that performance one last time.”

“I don't think so. Diane D's parents and grandparents do not want anybody trying to sue their organization again! That's why I don't think anybody is gonna be able to see that 'Illusions Of Zero Gravity' performance again.”

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray look at each other stunned. “My God,” Marlon says. “Did you all hear that? A DJ spotted the ad in the back of the newspaper and mentioned about it on the air! People heard the ad on the air and told everyone else about it. No wonder why this crowd is bigger than we expected!”

“It sure is,” Ray says. “The information spread like wild fire. All these people are expecting to see Diane D and The Dianettes, but Diane D and The Dianettes aren't even going to be here! Diane D and The Dianettes have no idea this is going on! What are we gonna do?”

“I don't know,” Arty says. “My God look! More people are showing up!” Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray look towards the Mall entrance. They see a few hundred more excited people coming into the mall wearing T-shirts that say: DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES' THE SUPER SEVEN! THANKS FOR COMING BACK. They see some people holding and waving banners high in the air that say: 'DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES' THE SUPER SEVEN! THANKS FOR COMING BACK. They see other people holding and waving posters high in the air that say: 'DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES' THE SUPER SEVEN IS BACK! as they try to get near the stage. They see a bunch of other people wearing different colored T-shirts that read: 'THE DISAPPEARING LADIES' 'THE SPIDER GIRLS' 'THE WONDER WOMEN' AND 'THE FLY GIRL'. They then see reporters, many photographers and the paparazzi coming into the mall with cameras and tripods. They see the reporters, photographers and the paparazzi going towards the stage. They overhear the reporters talk to the people in the crowd as one of the reporters says, “Excuse me, but is this the stage Diane D and The Dianettes are supposed to perform on?”

“I believe so,” another young man says.

“Are you sure? Because everyone thought that Diane D and The Dianettes had quit doing shows or concerts.”

“Well I guess they decided to do one last show. I see instruments on the stage.”

“But Diane D and The Dianettes don't play instruments, they sing and dance.”

“Well maybe those instruments belong to Diane D's husband's band,” a second reporter says.

“No. Diane D's husband's band have more instruments that. I don't think those instruments belong to her husband's band.”

“Maybe that's the opening act's instruments, the Hicks Band. After their opening act finish performing, then Diane D and The Dianettes are gonna come out on stage.”

“I hope so, because Madilyn Lewis is here,” the first reporter says.

“Madilyn Lewis?!” the crowd excitedly say.

“Madilyn Lewis is here!” a teenage girl asks.

“Yeah,” the first reporter says. “And she wants to perform on stage with Diane D and The Dianettes.”

“Madilyn Lewis wants to perform on stage with Diane D and The Dianettes?!” a teenage boy asks.

“Well that's what she came here for. She said as soon as she heard Diane D and The Dianettes were gonna be at the Staten Island Mall, she made plans that she was gonna come here and perform with them. She and her husband Randy Coleman went backstage to try to meet Diane D and the Dianettes!”

“Randy Coleman is here too?!”

“Yeah.”

“Will the Dianettes allow Madilyn Lewis to perform with them?” the second reporter asks.

“Madilyn Lewis says she doesn't think the Dianettes are gonna have a problem with her. She says she know they'll accept her. She thinks she will be able to perform with them and Diane D.”

“I hope so. For her sake.”

The 1st reporter worriedly looks at the 2nd reporter, then turns to the photographers and shouts, “Okay, right this way guys!” The reporters, photographers and the paparazzi come closer to the stage and set up the cameras, pointing the cameras right towards the stage. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray look at each other puzzled. They then look towards the entrance. They see a few hundred more excited people coming into the mall wearing different colored T-shirts that say: DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES 'THE SUPER SEVEN', 'THE DISAPPEARING LADIES', 'THE SPIDER GIRLS', 'THE WONDER WOMEN' AND 'THE FLY GIRL'. They see some people holding and waving banners high in the air that say: 'DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES' THE SUPER SEVEN! 'THE DISAPPEARING LADIES', 'THE SPIDER GIRLS', 'THE WONDER WOMEN' AND 'THE FLY GIRL'. They see other people holding and waving posters high in the air that say: 'DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES' THE SUPER SEVEN as they shove each other trying to get near the stage. “This is going to get ugly,” Marlon says.

“You bet it is!” Arty says. “Madilyn Lewis is here! She's one of the biggest stars in the world! She's planning to perform on stage with Diane D and The Dianettes! After our performance is finished, this entire crowd and Madilyn Lewis are gonna be expecting Diane D and The Dianettes to come right out on that stage! When Diane D and The Dianettes don't appear, the crowd and Madilyn Lewis are gonna be disappointed!”

“You said the crowd will get over it!”

“Yeah, but I didn't expected the crowd to be this big! I certainly didn't expect reporters, photographers or the paparazzi to show up here! I never expected a celebrity to come here and I never expected this to be mentioned on the radio!”

“Well you did say it yourself that Diane D has been in the headlines and articles a lot lately,” Dave says. “That's probably why all these people came here. They want to see her and The Dianettes in person!”

“Well if the DJ mentioned this advertisement on the air, then maybe word got out to someone in the Diaz-Davidson Organization and hopefully that person will spread the word to the rest of the Diaz-Davidson Organization’s attention and make plans for Diane D and The Dianettes to get here,” Ray says. “Come on. We have to get ready to perform.” Ray, Arty, Dave and Marlon turn away and leave the area.

In the back area, R&B singer Madilyn Lewis, a slim black woman around her late 30’s with curly shoulder length hair, dressed in a long slim sparkling navy blue gown with long sleeves looks in a wall mirror and anxiously fixes her clothes. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray anxiously approach Madilyn Lewis and shout, “Madilyn Lewis!” Madilyn Lewis anxiously turns around to Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray. Arty shakes Madilyn Lewis' hand and shouts, “Nice to meet you Madilyn Lewis!”

“Same here,” Madilyn Lewis says, “I see you guys are an upcoming band? I didn't mean to invade on your parade.”

“That's okay Madilyn. You're more than welcome to rain on our parade, but we didn't expect you or any celebrity to show up to our performance.”

“Well when I heard that Diane D and the Dianettes were gonna be here and perform, I jumped at the chance to meet them and perform with them! I can't wait to meet them and perform with them!”

“That's good,” Arty nervously says. “But what about what happened between the Dianettes and the Punky Gurlz? The Dianettes refused to perform on stage with the Punky Gurlz or any other female performers.”

“I know about all of that, but I don't think the Dianettes are gonna have a problem with me. I think I might have chemistry with Diane D and The Dianettes and they'll accept me. I'll be able to perform with them.” Madilyn Lewis excitingly turns and walks away.

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray nervously stare towards Madilyn Lewis. Arty then turns to Dave, Marlon and Ray and says, “I don't think I'm gonna like this. I can't go on like this.”

“See?” Marlon says. “See what one small lie can do?” Arty worriedly looks at Marlon.

A black male security guard approaches Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray and asks them, “Are you guys ready to perform?”

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray nervously look at the security guard as Arty says, “Yes we're ready.” Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray turn and leave the back area as the security guard follows them.

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray come back out in the mall area near the stage. They look at the crowd. To their shock, they see more and more people have arrived. They see the crowd growing and growing. Arty turns to the security guard and says, “How many people are here in the crowd?”

“It looks like around a few thousand people,” the security guard says.

“A few thousand people?!”

“Yeah. I think more are on their way.”

Arty turns away from the security guard and says to himself, “Oh Lord.” Arty,

Dave, Marlon and Ray go up on the stage. The crowd claps and cheers for them. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray start to perform. They are secretly nervous as they start to perform.

An hour later, Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray finish their performance as the crowd cheers and claps their hands. Arty nervously goes to the microphone. He then says, "Thank you. Thank you all for being here." The crowd claps and cheers again. Arty turns away from the microphone. He, Dave, Marlon and Ray leave the stage as the crowd claps again.

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray are in the back area. They are nervous and tense. The security guard approaches them and asks, "Is the main act ready to perform?" Arty, Dave, Marlon and Steve nervously look at the security guard. They nervously look at each other. They look back at the security guard as Arty tells him, "No. I don't think they're here yet."

"Well the stage hands are going to get the stage ready for seven male dancers that are gonna dance for the crowd."

"Seven male dancers?" Marlon asks. "There're guys that are gonna dance on the stage?"

"Yeah. They're just gonna perform to hold the crowd. Plus they said they want to get some exposure for their dance group." The security guard turns away and leaves as Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray nervously stare at him.

Back out in the mall, a male announcer comes on the stage. He makes an announcement and says, "Ladies and gentlemen we have another opening act! The Riverside Dancers are going to perform a slow dance to Diane D and The Dianettes song 'Country Life - City People!'" The crowd starts to cheer as the announcer shouts, "Ladies and gentlemen, here are the Riverside Dancers!" Seven young black men in their mid to late twenties resembling male versions of Diane D and The Dianettes come on the stage as the crowd claps and cheers. Slow music to 'Country Life - City People' starts to play. The crowd screams and cheer as the seven guys start to do a slow dance to the music. They imitate Diane D and The Dianettes dance moves as they dance in slow motion.

It is five minutes later. The seven guys finish their performance. The announcer comes back on stage and shouts, "Let's give it up again for the Riverside Dancers!" The crowd screams and cheers again as the dancers bow, then walk off the stage.

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray stand on the side behind the crowd. The mall security guard approaches them again and asks, "Did the main act get here yet?"

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray nervously look at the security guard. Arty then says, "No, they still didn't show up yet."

"No? Well maybe they got caught up in traffic. We'll wait for them." The security guard turns and walks away. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray nervously look at him. They then turn and look at the crowd. They see the crowd has gotten even bigger. They see the crowd waiting anxiously as the crowd look on at the stage.

It is thirty-five minutes later. The crowd is still getting bigger! They are waiting anxiously at the stage. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray remain on the side behind the crowd. The male mall security guard approaches them again and asks, "Did the main act get here yet?"

"No they still didn't show up yet," Arty says.

"No? Well the stage hands are going to get the stage ready for them now. That way the stage will be ready whenever they get here." The security guard turns and walks away. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray nervously look at him. They then turn and look back at the crowd. They see the crowd still getting bigger. They see the crowd continue to wait anxiously as the crowd look on at the stage.

It is another forty minutes later. The crowd continues to wait anxiously as they look on at the stage. Suddenly, a white male stage hand walks on the stage carrying two microphone stands, one in each hand. The crowd becomes quiet as they anxiously watch the stage hand set the two microphone stands and line them in place. Another white male stage hand walks on the stage carrying two microphone stands, one in each hand. The crowd becomes excited as they watch the guy set the two microphone stands and line them in place near the other two microphone stands. A third white male stage hand walks on the stage carrying two microphone stands, one in each hand. The crowd becomes excited as they watch the guy set the two microphone stands and line them in place near the other microphone stands. The crowd sees that there are altogether six microphone stands lined up on stage. They anxiously watch the three guys line the six microphone stands across the stage. The first stage guy turns to the other two guys and shouts, "We have six microphone stands! We need one more mic!"

"One more mic!" the second guy shouts.

"One more mic!" the crowd anxiously shouts. The third guy turns and leaves the stage area. The crowd continues to watch anxiously. Suddenly, the third guy comes back on the stage with a seventh microphone stand. The crowd becomes more excited. They start to scream and cheer as the third guy lines the seventh microphone stand next to the six microphone stands. There are now seven microphone stands lined up on stage. The stage hand guys turn to each other. A white teenage boy turns around to his father and says, "Dad they got seven microphones up there!"

"Yeah!" the boy's father says. "That means Diane D and The Dianettes are really gonna be here!" The boy, his father and the rest of the crowd look at the stage and watch anxiously as the three guys stand across the stage, studying the microphone stands positions. A white stage woman comes on the stage and approaches the three guys. She and the three guys stand across the stage studying all seven microphone stands' positions. The stage woman turns to the three guys and says, "Doesn't she usually stand on the right side of the stage?"

"Most of the times," the first stage guy says.

"So we gotta pull that microphone up," the second stage guy says. The stage woman points to the microphone stand on the far right. The third stage guy goes right to the microphone stand on the far right. He moves the microphone stand on the far right up a foot.

The crowd becomes more excited and scream out, "Diane D!" The woman and the three guys study all seven microphone stands' positions again.

The second stage guy asks, "Doesn't she usually stand a little bit more further to the right?”

“I think so,” the first stage guy says. The stage woman, the first stage guy and the second stage guy point further to the right.

“Further to the right!” the crowd shouts. The stage woman and the stage guys turn to the crowd as the crowd shouts, “Further to the right!” The stage woman and the stage guys look back towards the microphone stand as the third stage guy moves the microphone stand on the far right a little further to the right as the crowd becomes excited again. Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray nervously look at each other as Marlon says, “We are in troublllle.” Arty, Dave and Ray nervously look at Marlon. They then nervously look back at the stage and the crowd.

Uncle Charles is driving in a car in Staten Island as Aunt Mindy sits in the passenger seat beside him. They are driving on a street leading right to the Staten Island Mall. Uncle Charles and Aunt Mindy look at the traffic. “Why is there so much traffic here today?” Uncle Charles asks.

“I don't know,” Aunt Mindy says. “It looks like all this traffic is going towards the mall.”

“Towards the mall? Why is all the traffic going to the mall? It's not usually like this.”

“I know. Maybe there's something special going on at the mall today.” Uncle Charles and Aunt Mindy continue to ride and look on at the traffic. Aunt Mindy suddenly becomes stunned as she looks out the window. “Wait a minute Charles,” she says. “Look at all those people walking towards the mall! Look at the signs they're all carrying!” Uncle Charles and Aunt Mindy look at the people walking towards the mall. They see a heavy crowd of people holding and waving signs and banners high in the air that read: 'DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES, PERFORMING AT THE STATEN ISLAND MALL! THE SUPER SEVEN IS BACK! THANKS FOR COMING BACK!'. They see a bunch of people wearing different colored T-shirts that read: THE DISAPPEARING LADIES, THE SPIDER GIRLS, THE WONDER WOMEN AND THE FLY GIRL. Uncle Charles and Aunt Mindy are shocked and stunned as they shout, “What!”

“What in the world is going on here?!” Uncle Charles shouts. “What do those signs mean Diane D and The Dianettes are performing at the Staten Island Mall?! Diane and the girls aren't performing anywhere! They quitted performing in public places!”

“And I don't even know if they all came back from the Dominican Republic yet!” Aunt Mindy shouts. “What the heck are these signs talking about?!”

“I have no idea Mindy! Margarita or Tomas never said a word to us about this!”

“They sure didn't! We gotto find out what the heck is going on here! I better call Mary and Barry's cell phone right now and have a talk with them!” Aunt Mindy continues to look at the signs and banners. She angrily goes into her purse and pulls out her cell phone. She dials a number on the cell phone. She waits for a few seconds. She then speaks into the phone and says, “Hey Barry! It's me Aunt Mindy! How are you?”

“I'm fine Aunt Mindy,” Barry says from the other end of the phone. “How are you?”

“I'm fine too.”

“That's good. How's Uncle Charles?”

“Uncle Charles is doing fine too.”

“That's good. So what's going on with you two?”

“That's what I want to find out about you Barry, what's going on with you?”

“Me? Nothing much Aunt Mindy. Mary and I are just trying to get these dishes done so we can head to the organization.”

“Dishes done? What dishes?”

“Dishes at home.”

“Dishes at home? Where are you Barry?!”

“I'm at home.”

“You're at home?! When did you come in from the Dominican Republic?!”

“We all just got in around five o'clock this morning.”

“Around five o'clock this morning?!”

“Yeah.”

“Well I just wanted to say thanks for not telling me and your Uncle Charles about the organization's performance at the Staten Island Mall today!”

“Thanks for not telling you and Uncle Charles about the organization's performance at the Staten Island Mall? What are you talking about Aunt Mindy?”

“I'm talking about Diane and the girls performing at the Staten Island Mall today! Why didn't you tell us about it? I thought Diane and the girls had quit doing shows and concerts!”

“Diane and the girls did quit doing shows and concerts. They aren't performing at the Staten Island Mall!”

“Yes they are! Charles and I just got off the highway! We just came from Atlantic City! We're on the service road now! There's heavy traffic out here going towards the mall! There is a heavy crowd of people walking towards the mall holding signs, banners and posters high in the air that says Diane D and the Dianettes to perform at the Staten Island Mall today! They're even wearing colored T-shirts with Diane and the girls' name on them!”

“What!”

“Yeah Barry! That's where a lot of these cars are going, towards the mall! Now maybe Diane and the girls decided to perform at the Staten Island Mall and they just didn't tell you about it!”

“Aunt Mindy, Diane and the girls are not performing at the Staten Island Mall! They quitted performing shows, don't you remember?!”

“Barry that's what the signs and posters are saying! That Diane and the girls are performing at the Staten Island Mall today!”

“Aunt Mindy, how can Diane and the girls be at the Staten Island Mall?! How can they be at two places at the same time!”

“Two places at the same time? What do you mean?”

“Four of the girls are here!”

“They are?”

“Yes! They're in the bed sleeping!”

“They're in the bed sleeping? Oh my goodness!”

“Like I said Aunt Mindy, we all came home around five o'clock this morning! The girls are tired and they need some rest! That's why they're sleeping now.”

“Well if four of the girls are there, where are the other two and Diane?!”

“Charlotte and Kenny got into another argument when we came in this morning so Charlotte ran off to Marilyn and Dante's house to get away, and Lonna had a doctor's appointment in Manhattan so that's where she's at now!"

"Where's Diane?!"

"Diane is working at a hospital!"

"She's working at a hospital?"

"Yeah."

"I thought you all made her resign from working at the hospital because the employees there were afraid of her!"

"We did make her resign, but for right now we have her working at a different hospital way out in Long Island! We have her working in a private office away from the other employees there."

"You do?"

"Yes! She really didn't feel like going there. She was tired when we drove her out there, but she said she wanted to make extra money today! We're suppose to pick her up in a little bit, so she can't be at the Staten Island Mall! Now who ever is performing at the Staten Island Mall is not Diane and the girls!"

"Then why do we see people walking towards the mall with signs and posters that say Diane D and The Dianettes to perform at the Staten Island Mall today?!"

"There can only be a few reasons for that Aunt Mindy! Either it's a hoax, or they have look-alikes there at that Mall posing as Diane and the girls just like the Punky Gurlz had a Diane look-alike with them at the airport, or there's another group somewhere out there called Diane D and The Dianettes, because Diane and the girls are no where near that mall!"

"My goodness."

"Now Aunt Mindy, I need you and Uncle Charles to do me a favor!"

"Sure Barry! What is it?!"

"Go into the mall for me and find out what's going on in there!"

"Okay Barry. I want to find out what's this all about too."

"And when you find out anything, call me back and let me know right away!"

"Okay Barry, you got it. Talk to you later." Aunt Mindy puzzled puts away the cell phone.

Uncle Charles turns to her and says, "So it sounds like Diane and the girls aren't even suppose to perform here, huh?"

"No," Aunt Mindy says. "I don't understand. We have to go in the mall and see what the heck is going on."

"Okay." Uncle Charles makes a quick turn into the mall parking lot.

Twenty minutes later, Barry, Mary, Margarita and Tomas are in the kitchen fussing as Tomas shouts, "I don't understand! Someone might have used Diane and the girls name without them knowing about it?"

"That's what it sounds like!" Barry shouts. "I just have to wait for Aunt Mindy to call me back to confirm it!" Suddenly Barry's cell phone rings. He picks his cell phone up. He looks at the name on the cell phone. He anxiously speaks into it and says, "Well Aunt Mindy, did you find out anything?"

"Yes!" Aunt Mindy says. "Your Uncle Charles and I spoke to the manager of the mall! He told us four guys who are an up and coming band are supposed to be an opening act for Diane and the girls!"

“What! Four guys who are an up and coming band are supposed to be an opening act for Diane and the girls?!”

“Yes! Your Uncle Charles and I found out who the four guys are and spoke to them! They told us what happened!”

“They did?! Well what happened?!”

“Well these guys told me and your Uncle Charles that they innocently used Diane and girls’ name in their advertisement!”

“What! They innocently used Diane and girls’ name in their advertisement?!”

“That's what they said! They said they wanted their band to have more exposure where a whole lot of people can see them! So the only way for their band to get more exposure was for them to put a lie in the newspaper and say they were gonna be an opening act for a well known singer or group! They decided to use Diane and the girls' name because they said Diane has been in the headlines a lot! They said they were only expecting a hundred people to show up at the mall! They didn't know the crowd would get this big!”

“This big! How big is the crowd Aunt Mindy?!”

“I'm not sure, but it looks like several thousands of people!”

Barry almost drops the phone as he shouts, “Several thousands of people?!”

“Yeah! There's a stage set up already!”

“A stage set up?!”

“Yeah! There's seven microphone stands lined up right on the stage waiting for Diane and the girls! There are large life size pictures of Diane and the girls on the wall!”

“Large life size pictures of Diane and the girls on the wall?!”

“Yes! There are reporters here too!”

“Reporters too?!”

“Yes and the paparazzi is here!”

“The paparazzi?!”

“Yes! There are cameras everywhere and a huge crowd of people! They're all waiting right at the stage to see Diane and the girls! The microphone stand all the way on the right where Diane usually stands is up further from the other six microphone stands where the girls usually stand! People are wearing T-shirts that say Diane D and The Dianettes! They're holding signs, posters and banners high in the air that say Diane D and The Dianettes! Some of the people even have flowers that say Diane D and The Dianettes! Some of the people are holding signs that say 'The Super Seven! Thanks for deciding to come back!’”

“Oh my God! So the entire crowd have no idea that this is a hoax?!”

“No they don't have any idea Barry! They're starting to seem impatient, wondering when Diane and the girls are gonna come out on stage! I don't know what's gonna happen with this crowd when they realize that this all was a hoax and that Diane and the girls never planned on being here!”

“Hold on Aunt Mindy, stay there! I'm gonna try to get Diane and the girls over there!”

“What!” Mary, Margarita and Tomas shout.

“Barry!” Aunt Mindy shouts. “I thought you said that four of the girls were tired and in bed and that Diane is way out in Long Island and the other two girls went off somewhere else!”

“I did say all of that Aunt Mindy!” Barry shouts. “I’m just gonna have to round them all up!”

“Round them all up?! How are you going to do that Barry?!”

“I don’t know Aunt Mindy! I’m gonna try to take care of everything!”

“You are?!”

“Yeah!”

“Alright Barry.”

“We’ll be there later Aunt Mindy!” Barry takes his cell phone from his ear and puts it away. He turns to Mary, Margarita and Tomas and says, “Alright everybody! We have to round up all the girls and we have to round them up fast!”

“Barry!” Mary shouts. “Have you lost your mind?! You really gonna expect to round up all the girls and have them perform at the spur of the moment like this, way out in Staten Island?! Especially the fact that they’re all tired from just coming in from the Dominican Republic this morning?!”

“I know Mary, but I just don’t want to disappoint the crowd! If Diane and the girls don’t show up and perform at that mall, the next thing you know is that the crowd will get upset and disappointed and label Diane and the girls a ‘No-Show’! I could see it in the headlines and articles right now, ‘Diane D and The Dianettes were No-Shows at the Staten Island Mall’! I don’t want Diane and the girls to be labeled No-Shows!”

“Barry!” Tomas shouts, “it’s not Diane and the girls fault that someone used their name without their permission and without their knowledge! The crowd should know the truth about that! If we cover up for the people that falsely used Diane and the girls’ name, other people will follow and start to do the same thing, just to draw a crowd!”

“If it ever happens again, then we really have to tell the crowd the truth! I’m only willing to cover up this time! I won’t cover up if there’s gonna be a next time!” Barry looks towards the hallway and shouts, “Nicolas! Michael! Mickey come in here quick!”

Nicolas, Michael and Mickey come into the kitchen. “What’s up Dad?” Nicolas says.

“Listen, we have to round up all the girls! Something suddenly came up! The girls have to perform in Staten Island at the Staten Island Mall. We have to round up all the girls now!”

“What!” Nicolas, Michael and Mickey shout.

“Perform at the Staten Island Mall?!” Mickey asks.

“Yes!” Barry shouts.

“Dad the girls quitted performing!”

“I know they quitted performing, but something came up!”

“Something came up?” Michael asks. “What came up?! What’s going on?!”

“I’ll explain it to you all in a little bit. Michael, go upstairs and wake the girls up. Tell them we all have to go to Staten Island. Nicolas, go pick up Charlotte from Marilyn and Dante’s house and Mickey, see if you can meet Lonna at her doctor’s office in Manhattan. Whatever you do, don’t mention anything to the girls about them performing at the Staten Island Mall yet! You all get the girls while your mother and I go pick up Diane from the hospital out in Long Island. Once you all get the girls and Mary and I get Diane, we all meet back at the organization then we’ll explain everything to the girls there, okay?”

“Okay.”

“Dad are you gonna tell us what's this all about?” Nicolas asks.

“As soon as we all meet at the organization, I'll explain everything there,” Barry says.

“Okay.”

“Alright let's go!”

Nicolas, Michael and Mickey turn and leave the room as Barry, Mary, Margarita and Tomas hurry out the room behind them.

Out in the street, Barry opens the car door and hurries into the driver's seat as Mary hurries into the front passenger seat and Margarita and Tomas hurry into the back seat. They close the door behind themselves. Barry starts up the car engine. He speeds the car out of the driveway and speeds into the street making a quick turn.

Inside the car, Mary pulls out her cell phone and says, “I'm gonna call Diane now.”

“Okay,” Barry says. “I hope she answers her cell phone.”

“I hope so too.” Mary dials a number on her cell phone then puts the phone to her ear. She waits several seconds. She then speaks into the cell phone and says, “Yeah Diane? Thank goodness you picked up the phone! Listen Diane, something came up! Your father, your grandparents and I are on our way to come get you! ..... Yes! Are you finished at the hospital? ..... Good because we're on our way. .... I can't explain it to you right now Diane. We'll be there shortly.”

At the hospital, a tired looking Diane D sits on top of a desk as she speaks into her cell phone and says, “Okay Mom, I'll be here.” Diane D puzzled looks at her cell phone, then puts it away.

A female hospital worker in the room says, “Diane D, are your parents and grandparents coming to pick you up?”

“Yeah.”

“Why do you have to leave so soon?”

“What do you mean so soon, I've been here since this morning. I'm ready to go home and rest now.” Diane D turns and walks away.

The hospital worker puzzled look at Diane.

Michael comes out of the house pulling sleepy Miranda and sleepy Kelly by the hand as they all go down the steps. “Where are we going Michael?” Miranda asks.

“Staten Island,” Michael says.

“Staten Island?” Kelly says. “For what?”

“Dad is gonna explain everything to us when we meet him at the organization.” Michael pulls both Miranda and Kelly to a van. He turns his head towards the house and shouts, “You got Nancy and Bernice, right Uncle Tonio?!”

“Yeah I got them Michael!” Tonio shouts as he pulls sleepy Nancy and sleepy Bernice by the hand and go down the front steps.

“Dad where are we going?” Nancy asks.

“We're going to the organization, then to Staten Island?”

“To the organization, then to Staten Island?” Bernice asks. “Why?”

“Something suddenly came up.”

“Something suddenly came up? What?”

“Uncle Barry is gonna explain everything to y'all when we all meet him at the organization.” Tonio pulls both Nancy and Bernice to the van.

Inside the car, Nicolas is driving as sleepy Charlotte sits in the passenger seat beside him. Charlotte turns to Nicolas and says, “Nicolas, do you mind telling me why you rushed me out of Mom and Dad's house like that?”

“I'm sorry Charlotte,” Nicolas says, “but Dad wants all you girls at the organization now.”

“Really? Why? Are we having some sort of meeting?”

“Yeah. Everyone is meeting at the organization.” Charlotte looks at Nicolas, then looks forward as Nicolas continues to drive.

Inside another car, Mickey is driving as Lonna sits in the passenger seat beside him. Lonna turns to Mickey and says, “Mickey why does your father want all of us at the organization now? Especially sending you to come pick me up from the doctor's office?”

“He said something suddenly came up in Staten Island,” Mickey says.

“Something suddenly came up in Staten Island?”

“Yeah.”

“What?”

“He's gonna explain everything to us when we all meet up at the organization.”

“Gee. I wonder what it is that suddenly came up In Staten Island that I had to be dragged away from the doctor's office.”

“I'm wondering the same thing myself Lonna.”

Lonna turns from Mickey and looks forward as Mickey continues to drive.

Back inside Barry's car, Barry is driving already talking as a tired Diane D sits in the passenger seat beside him and Mary, Margarita and Tomas sit in the back seat as Barry says to Diane D, “So that's what happened in Staten Island.”

“Really?” Diane D says. “I don't understand how in the world somebody could just go make up a print in the newspaper about me and the girls performing somewhere! They had no right to do that!”

“I understand that Diane. We're just doing this for the crowd.”

“For the crowd? Well what about me Dad, I'm tired! We just came in from the Dominican Republic early this morning! I was planning to go back home and go straight to bed right after I left the hospital!”

“Diane, you and the girls could just go to the Staten Island Mall and perform two or three songs, that's all,” Mary says. “After that, we're all gonna go back home and get some rest. Right now we're just gonna bring you to the organization real quick where you'll meet up with the girls and you all will change into some outfits, then we're all gonna head out to Staten Island.”

“Don't worry Diane,” Tomas says, “we'll make it up to you girls. We're gonna pay each of you girls big time money for this!”

“That's right Diane,” Margarita says.

“But Grandma and Grandpa, what if something like this happens again?!” Diane D says. “What if somebody else falsely use our name again?! Are we gonna come to their rescue too?!”

“No we're not Diane,” Mary says. “If something like this does happen again, we're not gonna have anything to do with it. Those people will be on their own. The only thing we will do if that happens again is make a public announcement that it is a hoax and that someone falsely use you and the girls' name. We will have to let the crowd know the truth then.”

“Don't worry Diane,” Barry says. “We know you and the girls don't want to perform shows anymore. We just want you and the girls to come to the rescue this one time, that's it. No more after this, okay?”

Diane D angrily looks at Barry, then looks away from him and looks straight ahead as Barry continues to drive.

Inside the Staten Island Mall, the crowd has gotten even bigger! They are still anxious, waiting for the arrival of Diane D and The Dianettes.

It is thirty minutes later. Outside the Diaz-Davidson Organization, there are several vans in the street lined up ready to pull off. Barry runs past all the vans heading towards the first van! He stops and looks back towards all the vans and shouts, “Are we ready guys?!”

Michael leans out the window of the second van in the driver's seat and shouts, “Yeah Dad, we're all ready!”

“Okay let's hit the road!” Barry rushes into the driver's seat of the first van and starts up the engine. He quickly pulls off as the other vans quickly pull off and follow him.

Around forty-five minutes later, Barry's van quickly leaves the highway and quickly heads onto the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge as the other vans quickly follow behind his.

Around forty-five minutes later, a black male store employee around his late twenties is on the second level of the mall in a back area. He looks out a small back window. He sees Michael's van and a few cars. He sees Michael, Barry, Mary, Margarita, Tomas, Gracy, Grandpa Mike, Nicolas, Mickey, Diane D's other relatives, members from the Diaz-Davidson Organization stand near one of the cars looking towards the inside of it. The store employees becomes excited and shouts, “Oh my God! They're here!” The store employee excitedly turns to his co-workers and shout, “Diane D and the Dianettes are here!”

“They are?” one of the male co-workers shout.

“Yeah! I see Diane D's father and I see her husband and his band and the rest of Diane D's family out the window!”

Around seven co-workers hurry to the window. They see Barry, Michael, Diane D's family and relatives, members from the Diaz-Davidson Band and several members from the Diaz-Davidson Organization as a female co-worker shouts, “Oh my God, it is them!”

“Almost the whole Diaz-Davidson Organization!” the first co-worker shouts. “Where're Diane D and the Dianettes?! I don't see them!”

“They're probably inside that car!” the store employee shouts. The store employees see Barry and the rest of Diane D's family and some members from the Diaz-Davidson organization walk towards the back of the building as Michael and the Diaz-Davidson band members stay behind at the van. "They're coming inside the building!" the male co-worker shouts. "Let's hurry and go downstairs!" All the employees turn and leave from the back window and rush towards the exit door!

Around ten minutes later on the second story level, Diane D's family and relatives including Aunt Mindy, Uncle Charles and some members from the Diaz-Davidson Organization peak out from the second floor level of the mall. They are shocked and stunned to see thousands and thousands of people wearing 'Diane D and The Dianettes' T-shirts! They are shocked to see a stage with microphones set up for Diane D and the Dianettes. They are shocked and stunned to see the people and the paparazzi all waiting at the stage to see Diane D and The Dianettes. "Oh my god," Mary says. "I don't believe this! We had no idea this was going on!"

"Well believe it," Aunt Mindy says. "Here's the ad that was in the paper." Aunt Mindy hands Mary, Barry, Margarita and Tomas the newspaper article. They all look at the newspaper article with a headline that reads: THE HICKS BAND PERFORMS AND OPENING ACT FOR DIANE D AND THE DIANETTES AT THE STATEN ISLAND MALL ON SATURDAY MAY 12TH.

"My God, this is unbelievable," Barry says. "They really went this far to print the girls' name in this article? Where did you find this article?"

"Those guys handed it to me when they were explaining everything," Aunt Mindy says. "They saved the article. This is why all these people are here, because it started from this article. It only took maybe a few people to notice this article. One of those few people was a DJ. The next thing you know, the DJ mentioned about this article on the radio."

"We didn't hear anything about this on the radio."

"Of course you didn't Barry. You were all down in the Dominican Republic."

"Well you were here Aunt Mindy. You didn't hear about this on the radio?"

"No. If I did, I would have definitely told you all about it."

"Yeah but those guys still shouldn't have put out a hoax like this!" Margarita says.

"Oh they understand that now. They said they didn't expect this little hoax or lie to get out of hand like this!"

"But it did! Just like the hoax and lie that little kid Marcus and his brother pulled when they sent a phony letter to the organization about a little boy who is dying of leukemia just to get Diane to appear at his school and look what happened. The kid winds up getting beat up and hurt by Diane and now this!"

"I know. The guys apologized to me and everything. They said they've learned their lesson and said they will never print a phony advertisement again."

"No they better not ever use Diane and the girls' name again," Mary says.

"They won't." Aunt Mindy looks to the side and says, "Oh here they are." Diane D's family turn and look. They see Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray coming their way.

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray approach Diane D's family. "Hi!" they all nervously say. "Nice to meet y'all," Arty says. "Listen, we're very sorry we used Diane D and The Dianettes' name in our advertisement. We didn't expect it to turn out like this."

"Yeah but it did," Mary says. "It caused a big crowd!"

"I'm sorry. We only expected a few people to see the ad and were only expecting a hundred people to show up."

“But what would you have told those a hundred people if the girls didn't show up on the stage? What would you have told them?”

“I don't know. We were gonna make up something.”

“Yeah, a lie! Giving people false information?!”

“I know, but we'll make it up to you all. Promise.”

“Where're Diane D and The Dianettes!” voices in the crowd shouts. Diane D's family, Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray and everybody else turn their heads towards the sound of the crowd. “Come on we want to see them!” voices of the crowd shout.

Barry turns to his family and says, “I think we better get the girls.” Barry turns to Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray and says, “Listen guys, we'll talk about this later.”

“No problem,” Arty says.

Barry and the rest of his family turn and hurry away as Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray turn and follow them.

Inside an office in the upstairs back area, Mary, Barry, Arty, Dave, Marlon, Ray, Alex, Harvey, Norman, Kory and some other members from the Diaz-Davidson Organization stand around talking. Dave turns to Barry and asks, “Where are Diane D and the Dianettes?”

“They should be knocking on the door any minute now,” Barry says. Everybody suddenly hears loud angry banging on the door and jump a little. They all look at each other puzzled. “Wow,” Barry says. “It sounds like somebody's mad. Maybe it's them.” Barry turns and heads towards the door as Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray nervously and anxiously look at the door.

Outside the office door, Diane D and the Dianettes are standing outside the door identically dressed in sparkling navy blue short blazers, short navy corsets and navy leggings as Diane D firmly leans against the wall with Lonna right beside her. Diane D, Lonna, Miranda, Kelly, Charlotte and Bernice look at Nancy as Nancy says, “He said we're not gonna be here too long anyway Diane. We're only going to be here a short time.”

“I don't care if it's a long time or a short time Nancy,” Diane D says. “I am tired, I really don't feel like doing this. I don't even feel like being here.”

“Yeah none of us do,” Miranda says.

Barry opens the office door. Diane D and the Dianettes turn their heads and look at him. “Come on in girls,” Barry says. Diane D comes in the doorway and enters the back area office as the Dianettes follow behind her. Diane D walks in the room looking around as the Dianettes follow closely behind and around her. “Everybody's over there,” Barry says as he leads Diane D and the Dianettes further into the room.

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray excitedly approach Diane D and the Dianettes. Diane D and the Dianettes look at Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray and stop as Arty excitingly says, “My God Diane D and The Dianettes! It's really you!”

“We're so glad to meet you all!” Dave shouts.

“Diane, girls, these are the guys responsible for putting your name in that newspaper ad,” Barry says.

“Oh Diane D!” Arty says. “We're so glad that you and the Dianettes can be here!” Arty holds his hand out to Diane D to shake her hand.

Diane D places both her hands on her hips and annoyingly looks down at Arty's hand and sighs. She then looks up at Arty and shouts, "Yeah we bet you're glad we can be here to cover up your false ad!"

Arty takes his hand away from Diane D as he, Dave, Marlon and Ray nervously look at each other then back at Diane D. "I'm sorry Diane D," Arty says.

"Please forgive us Diane D, Dianettes," Dave says. "We'll make it up to you all. Whatever money we earn from this and the future, we'll donate to your organization and any of your favorite charities. But please do this for us?"

"Look!" Diane D shouts, "let's get something straight, okay?! What you guys did, caused me and the girls to be pulled away from what each of us were doing, to come way out here at the spur of the moment to perform at a mall! Especially as tired as we all are from coming home from the Dominican Republic five o'clock in the morning!"

"Diane D, this will never ever happen again," Arty says, "promise!"

"These guys explained everything to us Diane," Barry says. "I think they learned their lesson. Any way Diane, you girls and Michael already decided to sing and play to the song 'Deep Purple', right?"

"Yeah we got 'Deep Purple' down packed Dad," Diane D says.

"Good."

"Diane?" Tomas says.

"What's up Grandpa?" Diane D says.

"Try to put a smile on your face?"

"That's right Diane," Barry says. "We don't want the crowd out there to see you unhappy. Remember, you, the girls, Michael and the guys are each gonna get a big pay check for this when we all return home. Are Michael and the guys still at the van getting the instruments ready?"

"Yeah they're still at the van Dad," Diane D says.

"Where's Nicolas and Mickey?"

"They're at the van too."

"Okay."

"Diane D, Dianettes?" Arty says. "We just want to tell you that, there's someone special here who wants to meet you all."

Diane D and the Dianettes puzzled look at Arty. They then look at each other, then back at Arty as Diane D says, "Someone special wants to meet us? Well who is it?" Diane D's cell phone suddenly rings. "Hold on," she says. Diane D looks down and pulls her cell phone out of her waist. She looks at the phone number. She then speaks into her cell phone and says, "Yeah Michael what's up? ..... The music notes are in there. Did you look in the glove compartment? ..... It's in the van! I know where I left it! ....."

Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray excitedly look at each other as Arty whispers to them, "We did it! They're really here!" Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray happily look at each other, then back at Diane D and the Dianettes.

Diane D continues to speak into her cell phone and says, "Look in the glove compartment Michael. .... You don't see it in there? Look harder! .... You still can't find it! You don't see it! Fine! Let me come down there and get it myself! Just hold on, I'll be right down!" Diane D closes her cell phone and puts her cell phone back into her waist belt. She turns to her family and the Dianettes and says, "Listen up everybody, I gotta go to the van to find the music notes. I'll be back." Diane D turns around and gently holds onto some of the Dianettes' shoulders as she says, "Girls stay here until I get back.” Diane D turns her head to Arty and says, “I’ll meet whoever this special person is when I come back up.”

“Okay Diane D,” Arty says.

Diane D turns away from everybody and heads to the door. “I’ll go with you Diane,” Mary says. Mary heads to the door and follows Diane D as they both leave the room closing the door behind themselves.

Diane D and Mary both walk down the back hallway as Mary holds onto Diane D’s arm and says to her, “Sabes que no te has permitido a caminar sola, no?”

“Se Mama,” Diane D says as she and Mary continue to walk down the back upstairs hallway.

Chapter 37

The Dianettes Vs. Madilyn Lewis Showdown!

Back in the office, Arty, Dave, Marlon and Ray excitedly look at the Dianettes. All of a sudden, there are loud excited voices coming from a door in back of the room. Everyone turns and look. They see an excited Madilyn Lewis, her husband Randy Coleman, a short stocky black man around his late 30's who's also a singer, who is dressed in a white 3-piece suit, and a few of their entourage coming into the room. Members of the Diaz-Davidson Organization are shocked to see Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman. Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman approach the members of the Diaz-Davidson Organization. The members of the Diaz-Davidson Organization are excited to meet Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman. Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman excitedly approach the Dianettes, Barry, Margarita, Tomas and Diane D's other relatives! The Dianettes, Barry, Margarita, Tomas and Diane D's other relatives are stunned to see Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman. "Dianettes!" Madilyn Lewis shouts. "Oh my God! It's you! I can't believe it! You're here! How are you all doing?!"

"Dianettes," Arty says. "This is the special person who wanted to meet you all! It's Madilyn Lewis!"

Madilyn Lewis happily shakes the Dianettes hands and says, "Wow Dianettes! How's everything going?"

"Okay!" the Dianettes smile and say.

"Good!" Madilyn Lewis looks around and asks, "Well where's Diane D?!"

"Oh Diane had to go downstairs to the van in the parking lot all the way at the other end of the building to pick up something," Barry says. "She'll be right back."

"Okay good!"

"Hey Dianettes, guess what?" Arty says. "Madilyn Lewis came all the way here to the Staten Island Mall to perform with you all and Diane D!"

The Dianettes become shocked and stunned and shout, "What!" The Dianettes turn towards Madilyn Lewis and look at her stunned. Then they puzzled look back at Arty as Miranda asks, "What do you mean perform with us?"

"Well I want to perform with you all and Diane D!" Madilyn Lewis excitingly says. "I think you all are a wonderful amazing group, full of energy, full of spunk and I want to get a chance to work with you all, if it's okay!"

"No it's not okay."

Madilyn Lewis, Randy Coleman and everyone else stare at Miranda and the rest of the Dianettes stunned as Madilyn Lewis asks, "It's not okay?"

"No."

"Why not?"

"Why can't Madilyn Lewis perform with you all?" Arty asks.

"Simple," Lonna says. "We don't need her."

"You don't need me?" Madilyn Lewis asks. "Well I just want to perform with you all and Diane D just one time."

"That's right," Randy Coleman says. "My wife is not asking to perform with you all the time. She just wants one chance, just this one evening to perform with you all and Diane D in the mall."

"We don't need her," the Dianettes say.

"So you're not gonna let me perform with you all?" Madilyn Lewis asks.

"No," Nancy says. "We're not interested in you performing with us."

Charlotte steps up right to Madilyn Lewis' face and says, "That's right, do you have a problem with that?"

"Girls!" Barry shouts. "This is Madilyn Lewis! She's a big star! She's a celebrity! She wants to perform with you all and Diane! Shouldn't that mean something to you?"

"That's right," Margarita says. "Can't you all just give Madilyn Lewis a chance?"

"We're not interested!" the Dianettes shout.

Margarita and Barry puzzled stare at the Dianettes. Barry then becomes frustrated. He turns around, then back towards the Dianettes and shouts, "Okay now this is ridiculous! Madilyn Lewis wants the opportunity to perform with you all and Diane and you all are gonna turn her down?! Listen, I want Madilyn Lewis to perform with you all, okay?!" Barry turns to Madilyn Lewis and says, "Madilyn, do you know the classic song 'Deep Purple' or know the words to it? Because that's what the girls and Diane are gonna sing."

"Yes I know the classic song 'Deep Purple!'" Madilyn Lewis says, "and I know the words to it! Sure I'll sing the song with them!"

"Good!"

"What!" the Dianettes shout.

"So we don't get a say so in this Uncle Barry?" Bernice says.

"Uncle Barry how can you do this to us?!" Kelly shouts.

"We don't want to perform with her!" Miranda shouts.

"We don't need her to perform with us Uncle Barry!" Charlotte shouts.

"That's right," Lonna says. "We can stand on our own, we don't need any help!"

"But I want you all to have this one chance in life to perform with Madilyn Lewis!" Barry shouts.

"If she goes out on stage, we're not gonna go!" Bernice shouts.

"What!" everyone else shouts.

"Girls you can't mean that!" Barry shouts. "The crowd is out there right now waiting to see you all!"

"Let the crowd have Madilyn instead!" Bernice shouts. "We're outta here!" Bernice turns to the rest of the Dianettes and says, "Come on girls." The Dianettes angrily turn around and walk towards the front door.

"Girls stop!" Barry shouts. "And I mean stop right now!" The Dianettes stop walking. They turn back around towards Barry as Barry shouts, “You mean to tell me, you're willing to walk off and disappoint the crowd?!”

“Yes we are!” Lonna says.

“Either she goes, or we do!” Miranda says.

Everyone looks at the Dianettes stunned. Barry calms a little. He then says, “Okay, if that's what you all want, fine! I'll respect your wish. You don't have to perform with Madilyn Lewis!”

“Thank you!” the Dianettes say. The Dianettes walk back towards Barry.

Barry then says to the Dianettes, “You all and Diane will sing the song to 'Deep Purple', okay?”

“Okay.”

“Good. And when you all and Diane finish performing that song, I'll let Madilyn and Diane get the opportunity to perform another song together.”

“What!”

“Yeah. I'll have Madilyn Lewis and Diane sing a different song while they're on stage.”

“Oh nothing doing!” Nancy shouts. “Diane is not gonna sing any songs with Madilyn Lewis!”

“Don't worry girls!” Barry shouts. “You're not the ones gonna perform with Madilyn!”

“Well we don't want Diane performing with Madilyn either!” the Dianettes shout.

“Why can't Diane D perform with me?” Madilyn Lewis shouts. “Y'all said it yourself y'all don't need me!”

“We don't need you!”

“Diane don't need you either!” Bernice shouts. “She's got us!”

“I think SHE should be the judge of that!” Madilyn Lewis shouts.

“Madilyn and Diane WILL sing a duet together!” Barry shouts.

“No they aren't!” the Dianettes shout.

“Diane is not gonna do any duet with Madilyn Lewis or any other female singer!” Miranda shouts.

“Yes she is!” Madilyn Lewis shouts.

“No she isn't!” the Dianettes shout.

“If you try to sing with Diane, I swear we'll pull your ass right off the stage!” Lonna shouts.

“What!” everyone else in the room shouts.

“Girls!” Barry shouts. “You can't mean that!”

“Oh yes we do?!” the Dianettes shout.

“You don't believe us?!” Lonna shouts. She then looks Madilyn Lewis up and down with arms folded and says, “Try it!”

Everyone stares at the Dianettes stunned. Barry sadly looks at the Dianettes. Then he sadly looks at Madilyn Lewis and says, “I'm sorry Madilyn, I can't let you perform with Diane.” Madilyn and everyone else shockingly looks at Barry. Barry then says, “If I let you perform with Diane, I can see right now that there's gonna be a whole bunch of chaos just like with the Punky Gurlz and we don't need a whole bunch of chaos! That's not what we're here for! It's just not worth it.”

“So you're gonna cater to them and let them have THEIR way?!” Madilyn Lewis shouts. “Okay, fine then! I won't sing or do any duet with Diane D, while I'm here!”

The Dianettes puzzled look at Madilyn Lewis. Madilyn Lewis turns away and angrily leaves from the Dianettes and Barry. She heads towards the front door as Randy Coleman angrily follows her.

Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman reach the front door and stop. Madilyn Lewis angrily turns around towards Barry and shouts, "You know I just want to let you know something! I'm having an upcoming concert at Madison Square Garden next month! I was gonna invite Diane D AND the Dianettes to perform with me! But being that the Dianettes don't want to perform with me and they're not interested in performing with me, I would like to know, if you would let Diane D perform with me at my upcoming concert!"

"No!" the Dianettes shout.

"I didn't ask you!" Madilyn Lewis shouts to the Dianettes. She then says to Barry, "Will you let Diane D perform with me at my upcoming concert in Madison Square Garden?"

"I'm sorry Madilyn Lewis," Barry says. "I would love Diane to perform with you at your upcoming concert, I really would! But I think it would be best if she doesn't."

"Why not?! Would Diane D have a problem performing with me?!"

"No absolutely not! Diane wouldn't have a problem performing with you at all! She'll perform with anybody!"

"She would?"

"Of course she would! Listen Madilyn Lewis, there's one thing you might not know about Diane!"

"And what's that?"

"She doesn't have an ego issue!"

"She doesn't?"

"No! She doesn't have an ego issue, like some people I know!"

The Dianettes annoyingly look at Barry.

"So why can't she perform with my wife?!" Randy Coleman shouts. "Because THEY have a problem with it?!"

"Well that's right," Barry says.

"Well that's not right of you to do that!" Madilyn Lewis shouts. "That is not right of you to stop Diane D from performing with me or anybody else because THEY have a problem with it! I think Diane D herself should be the judge of that and answer for herself! I would rather hear the answer from HER! I want Diane D to perform with me at my upcoming concert and I am going to find her and ask her if she would like to perform with me whether any of the Dianettes like it or not!"

"Oh yeah?!" Nancy shouts. "You go anywhere near Diane and there will be hell to pay!"

"Oh yeah?! I AM gonna go near Diane D, as soon as I find her!" Madilyn turns to Barry and says, "You said Diane D went to a van in the parking lot all the way at the other end of the building? Well I'm gonna go to that van and meet Diane D herself! And I'm gonna go to that van, right now!"

"Oh no you not!" the Dianettes shout.

"Oh no?! Watch me!" Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman angrily turn around and open the door. They walk out the door slamming the door behind themselves!

The Dianettes angrily look at the door. They then look at each other. Lonna then shouts, "Come on girls, y'all ready?!" Lonna and the rest of the Dianettes angrily throw their fists up in the air and shout, "Let's....get her!" The Dianettes start to charge towards the door, but Alex, Harvey, Norman, Kory and the rest of the men in the room quickly grab them all and stop them! ## Chapter 38

Attack Of The Angry Women!

Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman are quickly walking through the back of the mall in an isolated parking lot on the ground level looking around, trying to find Diane D as Randy Coleman walks on the right side of Madilyn Lewis. Randy Coleman looks forward and says, "Hey, I see a van way on the other side of the parking lot! I think that might be the van Diane D's at. That looks like her husband near it!" Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman stop and look. They see the back of a van way in the distance with its doors opened. They see what appears to be Michael and a few guys around the van. They see Michael walking around the van. They then see what appears to be Diane D angrily coming from the other side of the van with Michael following her, appearing to be fussing at Michael.

"Oh my God Randy look!" Madilyn Lewis excitedly shouts. "I think that's Diane D! I think I see her!"

"I see her too!" Randy Coleman excitedly says. "My God let's hurry and go to her while we got the chance!"

"Okay!" Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman start to hurry towards Diane D.

"Let's call her so she can see us!" Randy Coleman and Madilyn Lewis start to shout, "Diane D! Diane D!" Randy Coleman and Madilyn Lewis wave their arms and hands high in the air trying to attract Diane D's attention. They do not see Diane D, Michael or anyone else at the van responding to them.

"My God she doesn't see or hear us!" Madilyn Lewis shouts.

"I know, we're too far away! We gotta get closer!" Randy Coleman and Madilyn Lewis continue to hurry towards Diane D as Randy Coleman shouts, "Let's call her again!"

"Diane D!" Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman shout. "Diane D!" Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman wave their arms and hands high in the air again. They still do not see Diane D or anyone else at the van responding to them. "She still didn't hear us!" Madilyn Lewis shouts.

"We're still too far away! We gotta get more closer!" Randy Coleman and Madilyn Lewis suddenly see Diane D go disappear into the van as Michael follows Diane D and disappears into the van also, shutting the door behind himself.

"Oh no she and her husband just went inside the van! Now they really not gonna see or hear us!"

“We still gotta get closer!” Randy Coleman shouts. Randy Coleman and Madilyn Lewis continue to hurry towards the van. As they continue to get closer to the van, they suddenly hear loud commotion and loud screaming coming from way behind them in the distance. They turn around to look. They stop and become shocked. “Oh shoot, the Dianettes are coming!” Randy Coleman shouts. “They're after us! Come on!” Randy Coleman grabs Madilyn Lewis by the hand as he and Madilyn Lewis turn back forward and frighteningly run for their lives!

Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman run as fast as they can as Madilyn Lewis screams out, “Aaaah! Oh my God!”

Randy Coleman turns around to look as he continues to hold onto Madilyn's hand! He then shouts, “My God, they're gaining up on us! Run faster!”

“I'm trying!”

Randy Coleman turns back forward as he and Madilyn Lewis continue to run with all their might! They get closer to the van! They call out towards the van and shout, “Diane D! Diane D help!” Randy Coleman turns back around to look! He then shouts, “Shit, they're getting closer!” Randy Coleman turns back forward as he and Madilyn Lewis continue to run with all their might! The van is appearing more closer to them! They call out towards the van again and shout, “Diane D! Diane D help!”

Randy Coleman and Madilyn Lewis continue to run!

Charlotte, Nancy and Kelly suddenly gain up behind Madilyn Lewis charging right after her as Miranda, Lonna and Bernice gain up behind Randy Coleman charging after him! Miranda then shouts, “One two three hit it!” The Dianettes suddenly jump and leap forward in a horizontal position as Charlotte, Nancy and Kelly clench their fists together hard into Madilyn Lewis' back and Miranda, Lonna and Bernice clench their fists together hard into Randy Coleman's back, causing Randy Coleman and Madilyn Lewis to fall sideways right towards each other, knocking and banging right into each another! Randy Coleman and Madilyn Lewis violently bounce off each other as the Dianettes turn their bodies around in mid air, making themselves land on their sides! Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman fall and land hard on the ground like bowling pins! Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman lay on the ground in pain!

Everyone approaches Madilyn Lewis, Randy Coleman and the Dianettes as the Dianettes quickly get up off the ground!

The Dianettes approach a hurt and injured Madilyn Lewis and a hurt and injured Randy Coleman! Charlotte, Nancy and Kelly grab Madilyn Lewis as Miranda, Lonna and Bernice grab Randy Coleman! Several security guards run to the commotion! They grab all the Dianettes as the Dianettes scream and try to break from the security guards!

Inside the van, the radio is playing loud 'Oldies' music as Nicolas, Mickey and some members of the Diaz-Davidson look through some papers. Michael then switches the radio stations back and forth. He suddenly hears a loud commotion coming from somewhere. He looks up in the air puzzled. He turns the radio down. “What the hell is all that noise?” he says. Michael steps out of the van to look.

Michael is outside the van and looks way behind the van. He becomes shocked and stunned to see a big commotion in the distance! “Oh my god!” he shouts. “Diane! Mom! Nicolas, Mickey get out here!”

“What happened Michael?” Mary’s voice shouts.

“It’s the girls! They’re fighting over there!”

They are all shocked and hostile surrounded by the commotion as they see two people lying on the ground hurt! They see security holding on the Dianettes and several men from the organization holding their red, bruised, bleeding and swollen arms, hands and fingers in pain! Mary turns to Barry and shouts, “Barry what the hell happened?!”

“The girls started fighting!” Barry shouts as he and members of the Diaz-Davidson Organization start to explain everything to Mary, Diane D, Michael, Nicolas, Mickey and members of the Diaz-Davidson Band.

Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman continue to lay on the ground surrounded by security guards with Madilyn's head bleeding as the security guards hold a towel to her bleeding head.

“I can't believe this!” Mary shouts

“I'm telling you Mary, that's Madilyn Lewis laying over there!” Barry shouts. “And that’s her husband Randy Coleman laying right there!” Mary, Diane D, Michael, Nicolas, Mickey, Barry and members of the Diaz-Davidson Band rush towards Madilyn Lewis.

Mary, Diane D, Michael, Nicolas, Mickey, Barry and members of the Diaz-Davidson Band shockingly look at Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman laying on the ground in pain. “Aaaah!” Randy Coleman screams.

“He says his arm and shoulder feels broken!” one of the security guards shouts. “He can't move them!”

“Oh no,” another security guard says.

Diane D and Mary shockingly turn to Barry as Diane D shouts, “My God Dad, the girls did all of this?!”

“Yes!” Barry shouts.

“All the girls?!” Mary shouts.

“Yes Mary each and everyone of them, Miranda, Kelly, Nancy, Charlotte, Bernice and Donna! They all did this just because Madilyn met them and told them she was gonna ask Diane to sing with her at her upcoming concert!”

“What!” everybody shouts.

“Yes! The girls didn't want Madilyn Lewis to meet or go to Diane! Madilyn Lewis told the girls she was gonna go to Diane and meet Diane anyway whether the girls like it or not, so the girls went after her and attacked her because of that! And they attacked her husband as well!”

“My god!” everyone says.

“You know Dad, the girls went too far this time!” Diane D shouts. Diane D angrily turns from her family and races away shouting, “Girls! Girls!” Nicolas turns and races after Diane D!

Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman continue to lay on the ground surrounded by security guards.

Across the parking lot, an angry Diane D lunges right at the Dianettes and is about to physically attack them shouting, “Yo what the fuck is wrong with y'all!” as the Dianettes scream and frighteningly back away from her! A security guard quickly grabs Diane D and pulls her back! The security guard holds on to Diane D as another security guard steps in right between the Dianettes and Diane D trying to block Diane D's path. Diane D turns towards the security guard holding on to her and shouts to him, “Will you...!” She suddenly stomps her foot hard right onto his foot, then swings her arm, spins her body and bangs her elbow right into his head!

“Aaaaah!” the security guard screams as he is knocked right to the ground! The Dianettes look on shocked and stunned! The security guard lays there on the ground screaming, “Aaaaahhh!” as he holds his head and foot in pain!

Diane D angrily stares at the security guard. She then shouts to him, “Will you step aside, or you're going to be next!” The security guard frighteningly looks at Diane D. He then turns and runs off! The Dianettes frighteningly look at Diane D then turn and run off after the security guard!

Back across the parking lot, Mary and Barry look at the members of the Diaz-Davidson's Organization red, bruised and swollen arms, hands and fingers. She then turns to Barry and shouts, “You know Barry this nonsense is gonna stop and it's gonna stop right now!” Mary quickly turns away!

Mary goes to a pile of two by fours laying on the ground several yards away! She bends and grabs one of them!

“Mary what are you doing?!” Barry shouts.

Mary picks up the two by four. She turns around and angrily hurries off shouting, “Girls! Girls!”

Across the parking lot, the Dianettes stop running. They turn and see Mary angrily coming their way holding the two by four. The Dianettes puzzled look at Mary. They then become frightened. They turn and start to run the opposite way. Mary chases after the Dianettes with the two by four as Barry, Michael, Nicolas, Mickey and the crowd scream and run after her!

Mary continues to chase after the Dianettes! She chases them towards the other side of the parking lot!

The Dianettes accidentally run right into a corner in the parking lot! Mary traps all the Dianettes in the corner as she holds the two by four! The Dianettes are nervous as Mary starts to shout to them, “What the hell y'all doing attacking Madilyn Lewis and her husband Randy like that and biting the guys?!”

“Aunt Mary!” Bernice nervously smiles. “We can explain!”

“Explain?! Well explain this!” Mary takes the two by four and swings it, whacking it hard right against Bernice's hip! Bernice holds her hip in pain as Mary whacks her other side with the two by four! She then whacks Bernice again! As Bernice goes down in pain, Mary swings the two by four and whacks it against Charlotte's hip! Charlotte holds her hip in pain as Mary whacks Charlotte's other side with the two by four then whacks Charlotte again! As Kelly's body leaps up then falls backward in pain, Mary whacks Kelly's hip twice, then whacks her other side! As Kelly goes down in pain, Lonna tries to run off, but Mary quickly blocks Lonna's path and swings the two by four hard against Lonna's side! As Lonna's body leaps up, Mary whacks Lonna's side again! As Lonna falls backward in pain, Mary whacks Lonna's hip twice, then whacks Lonna's other side twice! As Lonna goes down in pain, Nancy quickly runs off and escapes! Mary turns and points to Nancy shouting, “Come back you!”

Nancy continues to race away!

Mary starts to run after Nancy!

Nancy continues to run away as Mary goes after her!

Barry, Michael, Nicolas, Mickey and the crowd get up off the ground! They then run after Mary!

As Mary continues to chase after Nancy, she suddenly traps Nancy in another corner of the parking lot! She takes the two by four and swings it, whacking it hard against Nancy's hip! Nancy's body jerks from the loud whack blow! She gives a sturn angry look at Mary. Mary then whacks Nancy's other side with the two by four twice! Nancy goes down in pain! She lands on her back and has her arms and legs spread out! Mary continues to whack Nancy several times! Nancy lays helpless on the ground as her body jerks against the blows!

Back across the parking lot, Barry, Michael, Nicolas, Mickey and the crowd race towards Mary as Nicolas shouts, “Mom you're hurting her!”

“Mary nooo!” Barry shouts as he, Nicolas, Michael, Mickey and the crowd continue to race towards Mary!

Inside the mall, the crowd is still waiting anxiously for Diane D and The Dianettes to appear on stage, totally unaware of what's going on outside the back of the building in the parking lot. A security guard inside the mall suddenly gets a call on his walkie talkie. He speaks into the walkie talkie and says, “Hello? ..... What! They're fighting out there?!” Many people in the crowd hear the security guard and look at him stunned as he continues to speak into his walkie talkie and shouts, “Oh my goodness, you're kidding! No wonder why there's no action going on, on the stage!”

All the action is happening out there! ..... The police is on their way? Alright, I'm on my way!" The security guard disconnects and redials his walkie talkie! He then shouts into it, "Calling all security calling all security! There's trouble out back! We have to get to it!" The security guard and several other guards hurry off to the back as the crowd look at them stunned. The crowd anxiously start to follow the guards to the back! Other security guards stop the crowd from going to the back! The crowd becomes anxious and hostile! "What's going on back there?!" a man in the crowd asks. "We overheard they're fighting back there!"

"They are but we can't let anybody back there!" the security guard shouts. The crowd starts to scream and become hostile!

Several police cars and ambulances hurry to the scene!

The paramedics are in the parking lot. They have Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman each in a stretcher as they surround them. They lift each of the stretchers and put them into an ambulances. Other paramedics tend to several men from the organization who were bitten.

In the upstairs office, paramedics tend to the other guys who were bitten. They wrap heavy bandages around the guys' red, bruised, bleeding and swollen arms and fingers. "You all might have to get shots and stitches for this," one of the paramedics says. "This looks horrible." The guys worriedly look at the paramedics.

Around an hour later inside the police station lobby, members from the Diaz-Davidson Band, Diaz-Davidson Organization, reporters and an entire crowd of people including Latin duo singers Carmen and Rachel stand around anxiously as they hear a whole bunch of shouting going on in the back of the police station!

Michael, Barry, Nicolas, Tomas and Tonio suddenly come from the back of the police station out to the lobby as the crowd approaches them. "So what's going on?!" Aunt Celeste asks.

"The police got all the girls!" Barry says.

"Oh no!" the crowd shouts.

"Yeah! The girls might not be able to come home tonight! They all might have to go to jail!"

"What!"

"Where's Diane, Mary, Margarita and Marilyn?!" Uncle Charles asks.

"They're all back there with the girls!" Barry says.

"So what's happening back there?!"

"The girls are all screaming and shouting that Madilyn Lewis started the whole thing! Now the girls want to file a lawsuit against Madilyn Lewis and sue her!"

"What?!"

"They want to file a lawsuit against Madilyn Lewis and sue her!" Aunt Mindy asks.

"Yes!" Barry says. "They said Madilyn Lewis started everything by challenging them, by telling them that she was gonna go to Diane and ask Diane to sing with her at her upcoming concert! They claim they told Madilyn Lewis not to go near Diane, but Madilyn Lewis was about to go to Diane anyway regardless of what the girls said, they said that's why they attacked her! They said it's not their fault all of this happened, because they never expected to, planned to or even wanted to come out here in the first place! It was the spur of the moment thing for them!”

“They still had no right to attack Madilyn Lewis! Madilyn Lewis had a right to meet Diane if she wanted to! Even if she doesn't sing with Diane, she still had a right to just simply meet her!”

“We all know that Aunt Mindy, but the girls didn't want Madilyn Lewis to meet Diane! They didn't want Madilyn Lewis going anywhere near Diane! They don't want Madilyn Lewis singing with Diane and they don't want any other female singer or female singing group going near Diane or singing with Diane! They said they don't care what anybody says, they said they're not gonna share Diane with any other female singer or female singing group period, that's it!”

“Share Diane?!” Uncle Charles asks.

“That's right, that's exactly what they said! They said that the next female singer or female singing group that even approaches Diane or come anywhere near Diane, that female singer or female singing group is gonna have a problem!”

“Have a problem?!”

“That's what they said.”

“Really,” Aunt Mindy says. “What kind of problem Barry?! They can't stop any certain person or certain people from going near Diane!”

“Yeah but they did! They certainly succeeded in stopping Madilyn Lewis and her husband from going near Diane! Madilyn Lewis still didn't get a chance to meet Diane you know!”

Mary, Margarita and Marilyn suddenly come from the back and approach the crowd. The crowd anxiously approach them. “They're not letting the girls go!” Margarita shouts. “They're sending the girls to jail!”

“What?!” the crowd shouts.

“For how long?!” Uncle Charles asks.

“We don't know yet!” Margarita says.

“Where's Diane?”

“She's still back there with the girls chewing them all out!”

“She's still chewing them out?” Barry asks.

“Yeah.”

“What are the girls saying?”

“Nothing. They're just sitting there still in pain.”

“Did the police say how Madilyn Lewis and her husband are doing?”

“The other officer just said Madilyn Lewis and her husband might have to be kept in the hospital for a few days,” Mary says. “And they said Madilyn Lewis's upcoming concert at Madison Square Garden have to be canceled or postponed for a few or several months.”

“What!” the crowd shouts. “A few or several months! Oh no!”

Barry then shouts, “First The Punky Gurlz concert in Paris had to be canceled and postponed, now Madilyn Lewis's concert has to be canceled and postponed, all because of the girls!”

“Excuse me Diane D's family,” a male white reporters says. “I just want to ask you all, do any of you know why the Dianettes refuse to share Diane D with other female singers?”

“No we have no idea why!” Margarita says.

“And we don't think Diane herself even knows why!” Barry shouts.

Diane D angrily slams the door behind herself as she comes from the back room. Her family, relatives, reporters and the rest of the crowd anxiously approach her. “Diane!” everybody shouts. “Diane D!” Everybody starts to surround Diane D.

“How are you doing Diane D!” the reporter asks.

“Not good at all!” Diane D shouts.

“No? Well can I ask you some questions?”

“No you may not ask me any questions! I am not in a mood to answer any questions okay! All I know is, I need a cigarette right now!” Diane D angrily turns and walks through her family, walking away from everybody.

“What?” everyone says as they all turn and stare at Diane D as she walks to the back of the precinct. “A cigarette?”

The crowd turns to Diane D's family as the reporter says to them, “I had no idea Diane D smokes! Doesn't she preach against that?” Everyone looks at the reporter. They then turn and are about to follow after Diane D.

Michael quickly puts himself in front of everybody and stops them as he shouts, “Diane is alright! She just needs some time away from all of this! I'll go keep her company.” Michael turns away from everyone and follows off after Diane D as everyone sadly looks towards him.

Barry sadly turns to everyone and says, “Man. I bought the girls out here just to please the crowd when I heard several thousand people were out at the Staten Island Mall waiting to see them all. Now all this happens.”

“We understand Barry,” Margarita says, “but none of us knew that Madilyn Lewis was gonna be there at the Staten Island Mall when we decided to bring Diane and the girls out here. None of us knew that. And none of us knew that Madilyn Lewis even had intentions on singing with Diane and the girls!”

“I know. We all found out Madilyn Lewis was planning to sing with Diane and the girls the same time the girls found out. It was like an ambush to all of us and the girls.” Everyone sadly looks at Barry.

The Latin duet singers Carmen and Rachel stand behind the crowd looking on. Carmen then turns to Rachel and whispers, “Hey Rachel! Maybe we can try to catch and talk to Diane D out in the back while the Dianettes are in custody. They can't stop us now.”

“That's right they sure can't,” Rachel says. “This might be our only chance and opportunity to talk to Diane D with the Dianettes out of the way. Come on let's go for it. We'll go out the front then sneak around to the back.”

“Okay.” Carmen and Rachel excitedly grab and hold each other as they quietly chant, “No stopping, no stopping.” They turn and hurry towards the front entrance.

Carmen and Rachel excitedly leave out the front entrance of the police station then turn and hurry around the corner towards the back.

Several minutes later in the back room of the police station, two police officers are trying to control the angry Dianettes as the Dianettes sit on chairs, holding their waists, hips and backsides in pain. A third officer comes into the room. One of the officers in the room turns to him and asks, “Where is Diane D at?”

“I just saw Diane D and her husband outside in the back,” the third officer says.

“Outside in the back? What are they doing back there?”

“I don't know. I see those two ladies trying to talk to them.”

“Two ladies trying to talk to them? What two ladies?”

“Carmen and Rachel.”

“Carmen and Rachel? Who are they?”

“You know, the two Latin singers that be singing Latin music at the clubs.”

“What!” the Dianettes shout. The Dianettes leap up from the chairs! They bust away from the police, knocking the police down! They charge towards the door and run right out of it! The police quickly get up and hurry towards the door after the Dianettes!

"It certainly sounds that way!"

"Are Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman still in the hospital?" a second female deejay asks.

"As far as I know they are," a first male deejay says. "They might have to stay in the hospital for a few or several days! Now Madilyn Lewis' upcoming concert at Madison Square Garden have to be canceled, just like the Punky Gurlz' concert in Paris had to be canceled."

"Boy that's a shame."

"It is. Did y'all read where Diane D's mom cane and whacked all the Dianettes with a big two by four stick for attacking Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman and biting the guys from their organization."

"Yeah," the third male deejay says. "I heard Diane D's mom whacked the hell out of the Dianettes' hiniies."

"I heard that too," the second male deejay says. "I guess the Dianettes won't be able to dance or sit for a while after that.”

“Oh no?” the first male deejay says. “You didn't hear about the Dianettes trying to attack two other female singers outside the back of the police station after they got arrested!”

“What!” everybody shouts.

“Yeah! It says right here that while the Dianettes were in police custody, they heard that two female Latin singers were outside the back of the police station trying to talk to Diane D! When they heard that, they went berserk! It says that the Dianettes broke lose away from the police and ran right out the back door of the police station! They saw the two female singers talking to Diane D and went charging right after them!”

“What?!” everybody shouts.

“The Dianettes went charging after two female Latin singers because the Latin singers were talking to Diane D?!” the second male deejay asks.

“Yeah!” the first male deejay says. “Those two female singers had to run for their lives!”

“They had to run for their lives?! Oh no! Who were the two Latin female singers?”

“The duo Carmen and Rachel! The ones that be singing at night clubs sometimes!”

“Oh them?!” the first female deejay asks. “The Dianettes chased after Carmen and Rachel too?!”

“Yeah! The police had to chase after the Dianettes to stop them! Police and witnesses said the Dianettes were running like cheetahs after a prey when the Dianettes were chasing after Madilyn Lewis, her husband Randy Coleman and Carmen and Rachel!”

“Wow! I hear the Dianettes and Diane D can really run, so can Diane D's cousin Dana!”

“Yeah I heard that too!” the second male deejay says.

“They can!” the first male deejay says. “But the police caught up with the Dianettes and grabbed the Dianettes when the Dianettes went after Carmen and Rachel! So that caning and whacking the Dianettes got from Diane D's mom didn't seem to stop their behavior at all! They were still able to run after that and they were still able to chase after Carmen and Rachel and still give Carmen and Rachel a beat down.”

“Wow, are the Dianettes still in jail?”

“Hell yeah they're still in jail!”

“All of them?”

“Yep every single one of them! Now that they're in jail, I guess they can't stop any female singers from talking to Diane D now.”

“No they sure can't, so all you female singers out there who wishes to sing and collaborate with Diane D, get your chance to talk to Diane D now while you can.”

“That right.” They all then look back towards the newspaper.

Inside the hospital lobby, a crowd and reporters are all standing around hostile talking to a black male doctor around his 50's! A male reporter speaks to the doctor and asks, “How are Madilyn Lewis and her husband Randy Coleman doing?”

“They're still in a lot of pain,” the doctor says. “We're keeping them here for observation for a few more days.”

“What about the men from the Diaz-Davidson Organization who were bitten by the Dianettes?” a second male reporter asks. “How are they doing?”

“Oh they were taken to a different hospital. They had to get shots and stitches.” The crowd looks at the doctor stunned.

A week later, Mickey is inside the living room of Margarita and Tomas' mini-mansion. The telephone suddenly rings. Mickey picks up the telephone receiver. He speaks into the receiver and says, “Hello? .... Hey Charlotte! How are you and the girls doing?! ..... That's good! How're y'all feeling? ..... That's good. .... Bail? I think Mom's mind is already made up Charlotte. She says she's not gonna pay bail for you and the rest of the girls. .... Hold on. I'll ask her again.” Mickey turns his head towards the kitchen and shouts, “Ma! Charlotte se encuentra en el telefono de nuevo! Ella y las muchachas quieren saber puede usted, el papa, la Abuela y el Abuelo sacarlos de la carcel!”

“Look, Charlotte y el resto de las muchachas me llamaron cinco veces ya!” Mary's voice shouts. “Yo ya les dije, que van a permanence en la carcel que se ensena una leccion! Tienen que permanecer en la carcel hasta que corte!”

Mickey gets back on the phone and says, “I'm sorry Charlotte, Mom says you and the rest of the girls are gonna have to stay in jail until your court date.” Mickey listens in the phone. He turns back to Mary and shouts, “Ma Charlotte dice que la decision de la corte no es hasta dentro de tres semanas. Ella dice que no es justo para ella que se separan o se alejan de Kenny! Estan casadas!”

“No tienen libertad bajo fianza! Mi mente esta hecha!”

Mickey speaks back into the phone and says, “I'm sorry Charlotte, Mama no va a cambiar su mente.” Mickey listens in the phone. He turns back to his mother and shouts, “Ma! Charlotte dice que no es justo para ella separarse de su marido cuando Madilyn Lewis que comenzo todo se pone para quedarse y estar con su marido!”

“Charlotte y el resto de las muchachas ne estan saliendo de la carcel, eso es todo! No quiero escuchar mas!”

Mickey speaks back into the phone and says, “I'm sorry Charlotte, Mama todavia no va a cambiar su mente. .... Oh Diane se fue con la abuela, el abuelo, a todos los demas para hablar con usted y los abogados de las ninas. .... Si. Todos deberian estar en un momento posterior. .... Quieres hablar con mama? .... Hold on.” Mickey turns to his mother again and shouts, “Ma Charlotte quiere hablar con usted! Ella aun quiere salir bajo fianza!”

Mary approaches Mickey and says, “Parece que ella es no tomar un no por respuesta.” Mary takes the phone receiver. She speaks into the receiver and shouts, “Charlotte, que parte de ‘no’ no te entiendo?! Usted y las muchachas no van a recibir un rescate de la carcel! ..... Usted no debe estar lejos de Kenny? .... Oh Charlotte, me das pena. Debe haber pensado en ello antes de que used y el resto de las chicas compensador morder y luchar! Si desea ver Kenny, que puede venir con el resto de nosotros cuando todos nos visita usted manana! Vale?! Ahora quiero que las ninas para descansar un poco. Nos vemos manana.” Mary hangs up the telephone. She is about to walk away. The telephone rings again. Mary stops and puzzled looks at the telephone. She then picks it up the telephone receiver. She speaks into it and says, “Hello? .... Yes this is the Diaz-Davidson Organization. .... No Diane is not here right now. What can I do for you? ..... I'm sorry Diane has her hands full right now, she can't come visit any schools or lecture at any schools at this time. .... Her hands are full! All of our hands are full right now with the girls being locked up and their trial coming up. We don't have time for anything else. Sorry. Call back another time.” Mary hangs up the telephone and walks away.

It is three weeks later. Tons of people are in the lobby of the courthouse including several reporters. Diane D's family comes into the lobby from outside with three attorneys. The reporters approach them as a male white reporter asks, “So how are you all doing? Are you ready for the Dianettes’ trial? I see you all have the Dianettes' lawyers with you.”

“Yes we do,” Barry says. He then turns to the lawyers and says, “We’re ready guys.” Barry turns to his family and lead them and the lawyers into the courtroom.

Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman suddenly appear walking towards the courtroom wearing bandages around their heads, arms and shoulders. Their lawyers walk right behind them.

The crowd and reporters see Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman. They anxiously approach them shouting, “Madilyn Lewis! Randy Coleman!”

“How are you two feeling?” the reporter asks.

“Not good,” Madilyn Lewis says. “I just want to go to trial and get this over with. Come on Randy.” Madilyn Lewis lead Randy Coleman and their lawyers into the courtroom.

A couple of hours later, Diane D, her family, her relatives and the Dianettes and the Dianettes' families are at the end of the hallway smiling, hugging and celebrating that the Dianettes are coming home. Diane D suddenly looks down the hallway. She becomes excited. She then turns to Mary and says, “Hey Mom!” Mary looks at Diane D as Diane D says to her, “There goes Madilyn Lewis right there!” as she points her finger towards Madilyn Lewis. Mary looks down the hallway towards Madilyn Lewis. The Dianettes then turn their heads and look right at Madilyn Lewis.

Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman are down the other end of the hallway looking back towards Diane D, Mary and the Dianettes.

The Dianettes give Madilyn Lewis a hard stare. Mary then says to Diane D, “You want to meet her?”

“Meet her?” Diane D asks.

“Yeah. Why don’t you go say ‘hello’ to her?”

“Say ‘hello’ to her? You think I should Mom?”

“Why not? Go for it. I’ll come with you.”

“You will?”

“Of course I will.”

“Okay, let’s do it then.” Diane D and Mary are about to head down the hallway towards Madilyn Lewis. Suddenly, the Dianettes come right in front of Diane D and Mary and stop Diane D and Mary right in their tracks deliberately blocking Diane D and Mary from seeing Madilyn Lewis and blocking Madilyn Lewis from seeing them as Nancy says, “Hey Diane, Aunt Mary! There’s a news caster outside who wants to interview you two!”

“What?” Diane D says. “A news caster outside wants to interview us?”

“Yeah.”

“What news caster?” Mary asks.

“A news caster from one of those cable news channels,” Miranda says.

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“We didn’t hear anything about a news caster wanting to interview us,” Diane D says.

“That’s because they just showed up,” Lonna says.

“They did?”

“Yeah,” Bernice says. “Come on. We’ll take you outside to them.”

“We’ll see them in a few minutes girls.”

“But they said if they don’t interview you now Diane, they’ll leave because they have another person to interview,” Charlotte says.

“They have another person to interview?” Mary asks.

“Yeah.”

“Okay,” Diane D says. Charlotte, Bernice, Lonna, Nancy, Miranda and Kelly turn and happily lead Diane D and Mary right towards the exit door. They then turn their heads and give a quick glare at Madilyn Lewis as they take Diane D and Mary right out the building! Everyone else in the hallway go out the exit door following Diane D, Mary and the Dianettes out the building!

Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman shocking stare towards the exit door.

The following day, several deejays at a radio station are sitting around reading a newspaper with a headline that reads: JUDGE ORDERS DIANETTES TO PAY FINE AND PUTS THEM ON ONE-YEAR PROBATION! JUDGE ORDERS DIANETTES INTO COUNSELING FOR THE BITING AND THE CONSTANT FIGHTING! The first male deejay turns to the others and says, “Hey! The Dianettes got let out of jail! The judge fined them and putted them on a one-year probation and ordered them to get counseling for the biting and the fighting!”

“Yeah I heard,” a second male deejay says. “So now that the trial is over and the Dianettes are let out of jail, you think Diane D is gonna kick those Dianettes to the curb for what they did?”

“Well according to this article she's not!”

“She's not?! What do you mean?”

“Read this.” The first male deejay hands a couple of articles to the second male deejay.

The second male deejay takes the paper. He sees the article in the newspaper with headlines that read: JUDGE PUTS DIANETTES ON ONE-YEAR PROBATION AND RELEASES THEM INTO THE CUSTODY OF DIANE D'S FAMILY! “What!” the second male deejay shouts. “Diane D's family has custody of the Dianettes?!”

“Yeah! Her family and some of their relatives do! They all signed to take custody and responsibility of the Dianettes while the Dianettes are on probation! Diane D's family have to make sure the Dianettes get counseling too!”

“What!” the third male deejay shouts. “You're kidding!”

“No I'm not kidding! It says so right there! Not only that, being that Diane D's family are responsible for the Dianettes, it says that they're planning to move all the Dianettes into Diane D's paternal grandparents' home with Diane D, Dana and Diane D's other relatives for a whole year or more!”

“What!”

“Yeah! They'll move the Dianettes back and forth between both sets of grandparents' homes, but they're gonna move the Dianettes into Diane D's paternal grandparents' home first. Diane D's family want to keep a close eye on the Dianettes to make sure the Dianettes stay out of trouble! Diane D's family and their relatives are gonna make sure the Dianettes get counseling because they're gonna take the Dianettes to counseling themselves!”

“What?!” everyone shouts.

“Doesn't Diane D's family already have custody of Diane D herself and her cousin Dana?!” the woman deejay says.

“Yeah!” the first male deejay says. “That's exactly why Diane D's family want to move the Dianettes into Diane D's paternal grandparents' house so they can keep an eye on Diane D and her cousin Dana at the same time!”

“My God!” the third male deejay shouts. “Diane D's parents and grandparents had to deal with the Dianettes constantly fighting other female singers over Diane D and wind up going to jail for it, they had to deal with her cousin Dana fighting and beating up female police officers injuring them for life and going to jail for it, they had to deal with her allegedly chasing that reporter Felix Green on the highway shooting at him three times, they had to deal with Diane D herself getting out of control constantly kicking security guards in the groin and going to jail for it, they had to deal with Diane D walking out into the audience to punch and knock a reporter out right in the middle of her show, breaking his nose and breaking his jaw in three places then wind up going to jail for that, they had to deal with her allegedly cheating on her husband and threatening her Jamaican lover's girlfriend then sped to the woman's place of residence to assault her, they had to deal with her kung fu kicking some guy's wife in the face when the wife confronts her for asking her husband to be her date for some High School dance, they had to deal with her allegedly beating the crap out of that little boy Marcus inside that school hallway, they have to deal with her literally dragging them and several other people all at once whenever she gets angry and out of control, they had to deal with her allegedly trying to give her cousin Dana an abortion, they had to deal with her allegedly trying to give her husband a vasectomy, they had to deal with her allegedly kung fu kicking a storage room door inside a hospital clinic hallway wide open, they had to deal with making her resign from the hospital because the employees at the hospital are afraid to work around her and they had to deal with not ever letting her work in any of their own Dominican Hair salons because even the employees at the salons are afraid to work around her! It sounds like Diane D's parents and grandparents are gonna have their hands full dealing with all those angry women!”

“It sure sounds that way,” the first male deejay says. The people continue to read the article.

Madilyn Lewis is inside her hotel room in tears as Randy Coleman and a couple of family and friends surround her trying to comfort her. They look at and read the newspaper articles with headlines that reads: JUDGE PUTS DIANETTES ON ONE-YEAR

PROBATION AND RELEASES THEM INTO THE CUSTODY OF DIANE D'S FAMILY! JUDGE ORDERS DIANETTES INTO COUNSELING FOR THE BITING AND THE FIGHTING! Madilyn Lewis then shouts, "Those Dianettes attacked me and my husband, and after that, they chased those two Latin female singers right outside the back of the police station then attacked them and that's all they're gonna get is counseling and a one-year probation?!"

"I'm sorry things didn't turn out for you Madilyn," Madilyn's sister Gina says. "Did y'all see Diane D in the courtroom?"

"Yeah we saw Diane D in the courtroom and she saw us!" Randy Coleman shouts.

"She did?"

"Yeah! We saw her again outside the courtroom in the hallway when the trial was over! She, her family, her relatives and the Dianettes and the Dianettes' families were way down at the other end of the hallway all smiling, hugging and celebrating that the Dianettes were coming home! Then Diane D saw us again from down the hallway!"

"She did?"

"Yeah."

"Diane D seemed excited when she saw me," Madilyn Lewis says.

"She did?" Gina asks.

"Yeah. I saw her turn to her mother and pointed me out to her mom."

"She pointed you out to her mom?"

"She sure did. Then I saw the Dianettes looking at me. Then I saw Diane D's mom saying something to her as she nodded her head towards me. I don't know what Diane D's mom said to Diane D, but it looked like she was telling Diane D 'Let's go over and meet me'."

"It did?"

"That's what it looked like because for a second, it looked like Diane D and her Mom were about to come right towards me."

"It did?"

"Yes!"

"Then what happened?"

"The next thing I know, is that all of the Dianettes came right in front of Diane D and her mom telling them something, like they were deliberately blocking my view from Diane D so I couldn't see her and blocking her view away from me so she couldn't see me! They stopped me and Diane D from looking at each other! Then I saw the Dianettes excitedly lead Diane D and her mom right out the building like they were trying to get Diane D away from my view! Then I saw everyone else following them out the building! I wanted to send somebody out there to Diane D to tell her I want to meet her, but I couldn't send anybody to her with the Dianettes around! Now I read right here that Diane D's family have custody of the Dianettes and is moving all the Dianettes into her paternal grandparents' house with Diane D and her relatives and they are moving the Dianettes in with them for a year?! Now I'll never get a chance to meet or talk to Diane D now that she's gonna have the Dianettes living in the same house with her! Those Dianettes succeeded again in stopping me and Diane D from ever meeting each other!"

"Oh Madilyn, maybe there's a way you can be able to speak to Diane D. Maybe you can find out her paternal grandparents' telephone number and give that number a call."

"Diane D's cousin Dana lives there with Diane D's paternal grandparents you know,” Randy Coleman says. “Diane D and her family have custody of Dana too! What if Dana picks up the telephone like she did when the Punky Gurlz called there?! If Dana picks up the telephone and finds out that it is Madilyn Lewis on the other end of the telephone, she's gonna curse Madilyn out just like she cursed the Punky Gurlz out! She's not gonna care WHO Madilyn Lewis is, celebrity or no celebrity! She's gonna tell Madilyn to stay the hell away from her cousin Diane just like she told the Punky Gurlz that and she did not care WHO the Punky Gurlz were. She did not care that they are celebrities! She didn't see them as celebrities! The way Dana would see it, is that Madilyn is causing disturbance around her family, that's the way Dana saw it with the Punky Gurlz! As far as she is concerned, they are no celebrities to her!”

“The Dianettes probably whispered in Dana's ear and told Dana not to let the Punky Gurlz speak to Diane D.”

“Anything is possible.”

“That's alright,” Madilyn Lewis cries. “I don't need to find out Diane D's paternal grandparents' telephone number. I don't need anybody who picks up the other end of the phone cursing at me! It's just not worth it. I'm just gonna have to forget about ever meeting Diane D. Whenever my concert comes around, I'll just find another singer to do a duet with.” Madilyn Lewis starts to tear more heavily as Randy Coleman, Gina and the other people sadly surround her.

It is four days later. A crowd of people and reporters are outside the organization all anxious as they knock on the door. The door opens. Barry steps outside. “Where's Diane D and the Dianettes?!” a male white reporter asks.

“They do not want to talk to anybody right now,” Barry says. “So if you would all please go away, my family and I would appreciate it! Thank you!” Barry turns away and goes back inside the door, slamming the door behind himself.

It is three weeks later. Margarita is inside her office. The telephone rings. Margarita picks up the telephone receiver. She speaks into the receiver and says, “Hello Diaz-Davidson Organization.”

“Hello, is this Margarita Diaz-Davidson?” Emily a young white female says.

“Yes this is. What can I do for you?”

“Well my name is Emily Cohen from the School Committee. I called your organization before because the School Committee would like for Diane D to start coming back to a few elementary schools to visit and speak to the children like she used to do.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yes. When I called your organization before, I think I spoke to Diane D's mom. Diane D's mom told me Diane D's hands were full and that Diane D won't be able to make it to visit any schools and told me to call back another time. Well it's another time now and I'm calling again. So can Diane D come visit the elementary schools?”

“Oh I'm sorry, Diane is not here right now. She left town last week.”

“She left town?”

“Yes.”

“Well where did she go?”

“She, her husband, her parents and her brothers flew down to Jamaica with her cousin Dana to stay and live with Dana's mother's family and relatives for a month.”

“Diane D flew down to Jamaica? You mean Jamaica, West Indies?”

“Yes.”

“To stay there for a month?”

“Yes.”

“Why?”

“They all wanted to get away from the trial the girls had and wanted to get away from the reporters that kept coming around here.”

“Oh yeah? Why did her cousin Dana go to Jamaica?”

“Well Dana's from Jamaica. She always travel back and forth between New York and Jamaica. So when it was time for Dana to go back to Jamaica, Diane and the rest of the family decided to go to Jamaica with Dana, so they all flew down to Jamaica together to stay with Dana's mother's family and relatives.”

“Oh yeah? What about the Dianettes? Aren't the Dianettes in Diane D's family's custody too?”

“Yes the girls are in our family's custody. Diane and the rest of the family flew the girls down to Jamaica with them.”

“They did?”

“Yes.”

“All the Dianettes?”

“Yes, all of them. The girls are gonna live in Jamaica with Diane and the rest of them for a month also.”

“But aren't the Dianettes supposed to be getting counseling?”

“Yes. We are gonna have the girls go to counseling down in Jamaica while they're there. We already made arrangements with their probation officers for the girls to go to counseling in Jamaica. We're gonna make sure the girls get counseling where ever they are.”

“Oh I see.”

“Diane should be back in New York in a month.”

“Oh okay. Tell her that Emily Cohen from the school committee called and we would love for her to start visiting the schools again. Tell her the children would love to see her. We understand she doesn't make appearances in schools anymore, ever since that hoax about the little boy who's dying of leukemia was pulled on your family. We were all hoping she got over that hoax and changed her mind and start coming back to schools again.”

“We tried to talk Diane into going back to the schools and talking to the children again. We didn't had any luck with her.”

“You didn't?”

“No.”

“Well hopefully I can get her to change her mind if I get to meet her and talk to her.”

“Well good luck in trying to change her mind if you do get a chance to meet her. I'll tell her you called.”

“Okay, thanks. Bye.”

“Bye.” Margarita hangs up the telephone and goes away.

Kenny's Flashbacks

It is evening now. Inside the organization lobby, members of the Diaz-Davidson Band and the Diaz-Davidson Choir straighten up some furniture as bystanders stand around looking on. Kenny is sitting down on a chair looking sad. Melvin stops and looks at Kenny. He approaches Kenny and says, "What's the matter Kenny? You miss Charlotte don't you?"

"Of course I miss Charlotte," Kenny says. "She's my wife."

Everyone else stops and turns to Melvin and Kenny as Ralph asks, "Well why didn't you fly down to Jamaica with them all?"

"Diane and her family told me I couldn't come!"

"They did?!"

"Yeah! They said Charlotte is in their custody right now and I can't live with Charlotte because Charlotte is living with them! They told me I can visit Charlotte, but I can't stay with her. They said if I come down to Jamaica to visit, I would have to stay in a hotel or motel."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Wow."

"Man, the girls wouldn't be in this predicament in the first place if they haven't been fighting other female singers over Diane!"

"Yeah that's crazy the way they be fighting other female singers over Diane. They act like they own Diane, they don't own her!"

"That's right they sure don't," Melvin says.

"Yeah that's true," Anthony says.

"Yeah the girls might act like they own Diane," Kenny says, "but to tell you the truth, Diane is no better than they are! She acts like she owns the girls! She tells them what to eat, what not to eat, she says to them 'eat this eat that, don't eat this, don't eat that'. She tells them not to wear any make-up and not to drink any hard liquor. If she catches any scent of hard liquor on any of the girls, she'll hit the ceiling! If she catches any of the girls with make-up in their possession, she'll take away their make-up and throw their make-up right in the trash! Then she'll start to holler and scream at the girls! When the girls try to explain things to Diane, she'll interrupt them and start to holler and scream at them louder. When the girls try to explain louder, Diane will interrupt them again and holler and scream at them even more loud! She'll make a complete scene and won't care who's around! Then she'll leave and come back with a vegetable or fruit and have the girls eat it! And she's ready to fight and kick anybody in the groin if they hurt or harm any of the girls! I think she's worst than they are! Y'all remember when she fought and kicked all those security guards in the groin when those security guards got rough handling Miranda and Bernice, then she winds up getting arrested and locked up in jail behind that! Then while she was being locked up, she tried to kick the correction officers in the groin right inside the jail cell!"

"Yeah I remember hearing about that."

"Diane D don't really have the Dianettes eat the vegetable or fruit does she?" a female bystander asks.

"Yeah she does! We've seen it! If the girls don't eat the fruit or vegetable, Diane looks like she's about to jam the fruit or vegetable right down their throats! The girls would try to break away from Diane, but Diane would not let up! Then the girls would give in and wind up eating the fruit or vegetable!"

"That's right," Kenny says. "A couple of years ago, Diane caught Bernice with make-up in her hand, then Diane went into a fit! She ran right to Bernice and snatched the make-up right out of Bernice's hand and threw the make-up right in the trash! Bernice was real devastated. Then Diane hollered and screamed at Bernice. Then she went and got a fruit and brought it right to Bernice so Bernice can eat it. Bernice didn't want to eat the fruit so she turned around and ran off. And do you know that Diane went and chased right after Bernice!"

"She did?" a male bystander asks. "Are you serious man?"

"I'm dead serious, we were there! We saw the whole thing! Diane chased Bernice for two or three blocks! She caught up with Bernice and grabbed her! I thought they were about to have a fight. The security had to come to them! By the time we caught up to them we realized that Bernice had already ate the fruit because she was practically choking, tearing and gasping for air."

"She was?"

"Yeah! We think Diane might have shoved the fruit right down Bernice's throat just before we and security got to them."

"My god," a second female bystander says. "Did any of you ask Bernice did Diane D shove the fruit down her throat?"

"Yeah we all asked Bernice," Melvin says. "but she didn't answer. Her family and Diane's family asked them both about it also, but neither Diane or Bernice ever answered the question. They both refuse to talk about it even to this day."

"Not only that," Kenny says. "A few years ago while Diane was working at the computer in her office, she smelled a scent of hard liquor right on Charlotte and Miranda when they came near her. And do you know she went into a fit of rage, leaped up off the chair and knocked the whole damn computer and desk down, causing the computer and desk to crash to the floor and break!"

"What?!" a male bystander says.

"Yeah! Then she hollered and screamed at both Charlotte and Miranda for drinking hard liquor!"

"Really?"

"Yeah it's the truth! We all heard Diane yelling and screaming then heard a crash. Then we heard Diane hollering, cursing and screaming again so we all came running into her office to see what happened and to see what was going on. When we got into her office, we were all shocked to see the computer on the floor and the desk knocked down. We saw paper files, pens and pencils all over the floor! We didn't know what happened! At first I thought it was a fight in the office because it almost looked like a tornado had come through the room! Then we all found out that Diane smelled hard liquor on Charlotte and Miranda then went into a fit of rage! Diane's family got real upset when they came in her office and saw all the damage!"

"They saw all the damage inside her office?"

"Yeah."

"Wow. That sounds like the same damage that we all heard was done to the storage room door and the storage room inside the hospital."

"Diane's family was wondering if history repeated itself when they heard that she kung fu kicked the storage room door in the hospital then did damage inside the storage room when they went to see the damaged storage room door and damaged storage room with doctors and the authorities."

"They wondered if history repeated itself?"

"Yeah they wondered that! When Diane knocked the computer off the desk, her family realized the computer was damaged and couldn't be fixed. They said all the important information and files they kept in the computer might have gotten destroyed. Then they got upset with Charlotte and Miranda asking them did they had to come near Diane and let Diane smell the hard liquor on them. Diane's grandparents had to buy two whole new computers and two new desks for her office. They bought two computers just in case one of them gets knocked down in the future, the other computer will still be there."

"They hope," Melvin says.

"Ever since that incident, none of the girls dare to come anywhere near Diane after they sneak and take a sip of hard liquor! They won't even come in the same building she's in. They would rather stay outside in the cold or go home first, then clean the liquor scent off themselves before they come anywhere near Diane again. Diane has a crazy temper you know."

"Yeah we all seen that," Al says.

"My god," the male bystander says. "Why did Charlotte and Miranda come near Diane D after they snuck and took a sip of hard liquor?"

"They didn't know that Diane was gonna smell the hard liquor on them," Kenny says. "They only took a sip which was a few hours earlier!"

"Wow," the second female bystander says. "Maybe Diane D is allergic to the scent of hard liquor, that's why she gets irritated if she smells it."

"Oh Diane is not allergic to the scent of hard liquor, she drinks hard liquor herself!"

"She does?"

"Yeah! She drinks it with Dana!"

"She drinks hard liquor with Dana?"

"Yeah! She won't get irritated if she smells the scent of hard liquor on you or anybody else out there! Diane smells the scent of hard liquor on plenty of people, she doesn't say a word to them! She just goes on about her business like nothing! She smells the scent of hard liquor on us, she doesn't say a word to us about it! She's mainly concerned about the girls, she doesn't want any of them to drink hard liquor! But once in a while the girls would sneak and take a couple of sips of hard liquor when Diane's not around. Then they would stay far away from Diane until they get the scent of hard liquor off themselves. They know Diane is gonna blow her top if she smells any scent of hard liquor on any of them and they don't want any problems from her.”

“But isn’t Diane D being very hypocritical if she tells the Dianettes not to drink hard liquor then she goes and drinks hard liquor herself with her cousin Dana?”

“Yeah Diane is being very hypocritical! You can’t tell her that! One time in the winter, all the girls came to the organization and found out Diane was inside the building. When they found out Diane was inside the building, they refused to go inside because they all just had a sip of hard liquor from a bar. They almost couldn't get home because the roads were all icy and blocked, not too many people were able to drive on the icy roads.

FLASHBACK:

The Dianettes, their boyfriends and some of the band members are inside a bar having drinks. Melvin then turns to the Dianettes and says, “Y'all shouldn't be drinking hard liquor. You know Diane is gonna have your hides if she smells hard liquor on any of you.”

“Diane went to Philadelphia with Michael,” Nancy says. “I don't think they're gonna be back home until tomorrow morning. The smell of hard liquor is gonna be off us by then.”

“Yeah I hope so.”

“Are we ready to leave now?” Bill asks.

“Yeah we're ready. Let's go back to the organization girls.” Melvin, the Dianettes and the fellows put their drink glasses on the bar. They turn around and walk towards the exit.

Twenty minutes later, the Dianettes and the band members are walking on the sidewalk heading towards the organization. They reach the organization gate. They then walk towards the organization door.

The Dianettes and the band members reach the organization front door. Nancy is about to unlock the door with the key. Before she gets the chance to unlock the door, the door swings open. Michael starts to come out of the door and runs into the Dianettes and the band members. The Dianettes and the band members are stunned to see Michael. “Michael!” they all shout.

“What are you doing here?” Nancy says.

“We thought you were in Philadelphia with Diane,” Melvin says.

“We were on our way there,” Michael says, “then the person in charge of the meeting over there called on our cell phone and told us we didn't have to show up because they ran into a family emergency over there, so Diane and I had to turn around and come back.”

“Oh yeah? Where's Diane at now?”

“She's inside.”

“What!” the Dianettes shout.

“Diane is in side?!” Nancy shouts.

“Yeah,” Michael says.

“Well I'm not going in there!”

“Me neither!” Charlotte says.

“Why what happened?” Michael asks. “Don't tell me you girls had some hard liquor?”

“Yeah they did,” Kenny says. “We all did. We thought you and Diane weren't gonna be here until tomorrow morning!”

“Yeah we thought so too.”

“Well I'm getting out of here!” Nancy says.

“So am I,” Lonna says.

“We're y'all gonna go?” Melvin says. “There's hardly any vehicles driving right now.”

“Hey I see a taxi cab down the street!” Nancy shouts. “Maybe we can catch it real quick!”

“What!” Miranda shouts. “I don't feel like running after any cab!”

“Yeah!” Bernice says. “Especially in this cold!”

“Come on Miranda and Bernice!” Lonna shouts. “Where are y'all gonna go?”

“We're gonna stand near the side of the building and call for another cab!” Miranda shouts. “Y'all should stand with us too.”

“It might take a long time for another cab to come, I don't want to stand in the cold!”

“That's right!” Nancy shouts. “Not too many vehicles are running in this icy whether!”

“Yeah, so let's just try to catch that cab!” Charlotte says.

“You're not gonna catch it Charlotte!” Miranda shouts.

“Yes we can, it's stopped at a red light! We can make it!”

“Yeah let's hurry and go for it!” Nancy shouts.

“Come on!” Kelly says. Kelly, Lonna, Nancy and Charlotte turn and race down the sidewalk. They wave their hands and call out to the taxi cab shouting, “Wait! Taxi! Wait!” Everyone watches as Lonna, Kelly, Nancy and Charlotte race down the street.

Miranda and Bernice turn and walk to the side. The fellows look at them as Melvin asks, “Where y'all gonna go?”

“We gonna stand near the building to keep warm while we call for another cab,” Miranda says. Miranda and Bernice go to the side of the building and cuddle to each other, shivering from the cold as Bernice takes out her cell phone and dials a number.

“I think y'all should go inside to get warm.”

“No that's okay. We'll just wait for another cab.”

“Come on this is ridiculous!” Michael shouts. “We can't just let y'all stand out here calling and waiting for another cab that might not show up in this whether!”

“It'll show up!”

“Come on we can't leave y'all out here!” Ralph says.

“Y'all can go inside,” Bernice says. “Just don't tell Diane we're out here.”

“Listen,” Michael says. “If you two don't get in here, we're gonna pick you up and bring you in here!”

“Okay,” Miranda says. “But can we just finish calling the cab? If the cab don't show up, I promise we'll come inside.”

“Are you sure?”

“Yeah. Just bring some hot tea out here for us.”

'Alright, but that cab better be here in ten minutes or else we're gonna pick you up and bring you in here!'

"Okay."

Michael and the guys stare at Miranda and Bernice. They then go inside the organization.

Ten minutes later, Michael and the guys bring some hot tea in foam cups out the building. They look and do not see Miranda and Bernice anywhere in sight. "My God," Michael says. "Where did they go? They're not here."

"I guess the cab did come after all," Melvin says.

"Good. I'm glad for their sake, because I don't want them standing out here freezing."

"Me neither," Ralph says. The fellows turn around and head back towards the front door of the organization.

It is three hours later. It is now dark. Michael, Kenny and several other people are inside the organization lobby. The doorbell rings. Michael goes to answer the door as Kenny follows him. He opens the door. Outside stands a middle aged black male with booklets and pamphlets in his hand. "Hello sir," the man says. "I'm Steward. You're Michael, Diane D's husband right?"

"That's right," Michael says. "What can we do for you?"

"Well, can I leave some Jehova Witness information with you and your family's organization?"

"No thank you sir."

"No? Why not?"

"We don't need it right now."

"Aah can't you just take one more pamphlet from me?"

"One more pamphlet? What do you mean 'one more pamphlet'? You never gave us a pamphlet before."

"Yes I did. I just gave the two young ladies standing out here a pamphlet."

"Two young ladies?"

"What two young ladies?" Kenny asks.

"Two of the young ladies that be singing and dancing on stage with Diane D," the man says. "The Dianettes."

"The what?!" Michael shouts. "Don't tell me that Miranda and Bernice are still out there!" Michael and Kenny rush out the door! They look out at the side of the building. They do not see anybody. They turn to the man as Michael shouts, "Sir! What are you talking about?! We don't see anybody out here!"

"Well there were two young ladies that look like the Dianettes just here standing over there shivering."

"Shivering?!" Kenny says. "Really?! When?!"

"A minute ago."

"A minute ago?!" Michael says. "There were two young ladies standing out here a minute ago?!"

"Yeah."

"They were standing out here three hours ago!"

"Three hours ago? Well they're not there now. I guess when they saw me walking to this door they decided to leave because they did ask me, why was I gonna ring the bell if they already accepted a pamphlet from me.”

“Oh really! That's probably why they accepted the pamphlet from you! To keep you from ringing this doorbell, but you came and rang the doorbell anyway!” Michael rushes back to the front door. He pokes his head inside the door and shouts, “Come on guys we got work to do! We got two young ladies to look for to pick up and bring in here!”

BACK TO PRESENT:

Back inside the organization lobby, Kenny then says, “So now we all realized a cab never came for Miranda and Bernice. When we brought the hot tea outside to them and they weren't there, we now realized that they were hiding from us so we can think they caught a cab, but they didn't catch a cab. They wind up standing outside the building in the cold that whole time for three hours!”

“My God,” the female bystander says. “Well if the other four Dianettes went to catch that cab, why didn't they had the cab driver turn the cab around to pick up Miranda and Bernice?”

“Because we found out later, that the other four girls never caught that cab!”

“They never caught it?!”

“No! They knew they weren't gonna catch that cab!”

“So why did they try to go after it?”

“They were only pretending to go after that cab! They were only using that cab-chasing as an excuse to get away so none of them would have to face Diane!”

“Really?”

“Yeah!”

“Well if they didn't catch that cab, what happened to them?”

“They walked all the way home!”

“They walked all the way home?! In the cold?!”

“Yep in the cold! We had four girls walking all the way home in the cold! We had the other two girls standing outside the building in the cold for three hours! I mean those girls would rather face the cold than face Diane! If it wasn't for that Jehovah Witness guy, we would have never known that Miranda and Bernice were still out there in the cold.”

“My God. Did Diane D ever knew or found out that Miranda and Bernice were outside the building freezing or that the other four Dianettes walked all the way home in the cold?”

“No, she never knew any of the girls were out there in the freezing cold. She would have had a fit if she knew about it! She would have chewed all of the girls out, then chewed us out for not telling her that they were out there!”

“My God.”

“I don't understand,” the male bystander says. “Why would Diane D drink hard liquor herself and not want the Dianettes to drink it?”

“She claims it's no good for the girls or their health,” Kenny says. “She's always lecturing the girls about their health and their eating habits. She just wants to make sure they're eating right and eating healthy.”

“Yeah but what about her health? Why does she drink hard liquor then?”

“We all asked Diane the same question, why does she drink hard liquor herself but she will never answer the question. She would change the subject or just walk away from us. Whatever the answer is, I'm afraid only she and God knows the answer.”

“Wow. I just want to ask you. Since the Dianettes be sneaking behind Diane D's back to take a sip of hard liquor or gotto sneak to have make-up in their possession so Diane D won't get into a fit of rage, why don't the Dianettes just stand up to Diane D and say ‘Hey! We're grown and we do what we want to do!’”

“They tried that. Believe me, the girls tried to tell Diane that they're grown. It didn't do any good. When they tried to tell Diane that they're grown, Diane did not listen to them! She kept interrupting them by hollering and screaming at them like she didn't hear them! It was like it went in one of her ears and right out the other. She just continued to holler and scream at the girls even louder, totally ignoring that grown statement! Then she'll get the girls' parents and family involved and everything, then it'll turn into a whole big hassle because the girls' parents and family members will always side with Diane, then they all will start hollering and screaming at the girls right along with Diane!”

“They do?”

“Yeah!”

“I think the girls' parents and family members probably only side with Diane just to shut her up,” Melvin says.

“They probably do. I mean the girls just can't win against Diane! Besides, Diane's the one who had me arrested a few times before whenever Charlotte and I got into a fight!”

“Diane D had you arrested?” the male bystander asks.

“She sure did.”

“Well what happened?”

“Diane and her family made Charlotte put out an Order of Protection against me. Whenever I came near Charlotte, Diane and her family would have me arrested for violating the Order Of Protection! Each of those times, I wind up staying in jail for a week or two.”

“You did?!”

“Yeah.”

“Why do you and Charlotte be fighting anyway?”

“Because she's the one who be starting the fights. I think Charlotte's spoiled. She's was spoiled as a child and I think she's still spoiled. She keeps getting an attitude towards me. If I don't do things her way, she starts arguing with me and hitting me!”

“She be hitting you?”

“Yeah. She banged and broke my car windshield right in the middle of when I was driving. We could have had a serious accident! Glass could have gotten into both of our eyes and everything! She starts all the fights, yet Diane and her family want to jump and attack me for it! Then they would have me arrested for assaulting Charlotte and make Charlotte get an Order Of Protection against me!”

“They would?”

“Yeah! Last year, Diane and her family had Charlotte put an Order Of Protection against me. After that, I saw Charlotte alone and tried to talk and reason with her. Then Diane and her family came along and caught me! Then Diane came charging right at me like a raging bull!”

“She did?”

“Yeah! She tried to jump and attack me, but her family came charging right after her and pulled her back!”

“They did?”

“Yeah!”

FLASH BACK:

Kenny is inside the organization hallway trying to talk to Charlotte as Charlotte stands there nervously looking around. Charlotte then turns to Kenny and says, “Kenny would you please hurry and get out of here before Diane and the rest of my family and relatives see you!”

“Okay I'm going, I'm going,” Kenny says. “Charlotte please think about what I said alright? Please?”

Diane D, her family and relatives, Kelly, Bernice and Nancy suddenly appear from around the corner talking and laughing. They all look forward and see Kenny talking to Charlotte. They shockingly stop in their tracks.

Charlotte and Kenny nervously look at Diane D and her family. Diane D becomes angry. She points her arm and finger at Kenny and shouts, “Get the hell away from her!” Diane D charges towards Kenny and shouts, “You're supposed to stay the fuck away from her!” Diane D's family, Kelly, Bernice and Nancy charge after Diane D as she lunges straight for Kenny trying to attack him, but they all and Charlotte grab Diane D and pull her back! They all hold tightly onto Diane D with their arms wrapped around her torso and waist as she tries to struggle away from them all continuing to yell at Kenny as she points her arm and finger at him and shouts, “Stay the fuck away from her!”

“She's my wife!” Kenny shouts.

“I don't give a good sh...!” Diane D tries to go after Kenny again, dragging her family and the Dianettes along with her as they all scream, struggling to hold on to her!

Margarita anxiously comes in front of Diane D and shouts, “Diane stop it!” Diane D ignores Margarita as she continues to drag her family towards Kenny as they all scream, struggling to hold on to her! Margarita anxiously turns to Kenny and shouts, “Kenny just go please!”

“Alright fine!” Kenny says. “I'm going!” Kenny turns away and quickly leaves the area.

That afternoon, the police have Kenny in handcuffs leaning him against the hood of the police car as Diane D's family, Charlotte and the rest of the Dianettes stand to the side. A police officer speaks with Diane D and says, “And you say he violated an Order Of Protection against your cousin Charlotte, his wife?”

“Yes he did,” Diane D says.

Charlotte approaches Diane D and cries, “Diane!”

Diane D angrily turns and points her finger at Charlotte shouting, “Excuse you, I'm not finish!” Diane D turns her back to Charlotte as she faces the officer and continues to talk to the officer as Charlotte frustratingly walks away back to Diane D's family.

BACK TO PRESENT:

Back inside the organization lobby, Kenny says, "So that's how Diane got me arrested."

"I can't believe Diane D actually had you arrested," the female bystander says.

"Yeah. Anytime Diane makes Charlotte get an Order Of Protection against me, she would not hesitate to call the police if she finds me anywhere near Charlotte or anywhere in the area where Charlotte is! When she made Charlotte get an Order Of Protection against me last year, she heard I was in the area outside the organization."

"Oh yeah?" the male bystander says. "What happened?"

"Scott and I snuck around the organization earlier that day. I wanted to secretly talk to Charlotte and reason with her without Diane knowing I was anywhere there. Some people saw me. I guess word got back to Diane that I was in the area. I heard that Diane came to Charlotte and started yelling and screaming at Charlotte asking Charlotte did she see me or if she knew I was in the area. So Scott and I left. Later on that day, Scott and I came back and snuck around the organization again. We were outside the building. Then we heard and saw Diane and some of the girls outside around the corner.

FLASHBACK:

Kenny is walking and ducking on the grass behind a brick wall as another black male Scott walks and ducks behind him. "Yo Kenny," Scott says. "Are you sure it's gonna be safe to try to talk to and reason with Charlotte? What if Diane D or anybody else sees you?"

"Well we have to make sure that Diane or anybody else don't see me," Kenny says. "It's okay for Diane to see you, she doesn't know you. She has no idea who you are, she's never seen you before. So I need you to take a peak out there for me and see if you see Charlotte. If you see her, try to get her attention and let her know that her husband is here. Just don't let Diane or anybody else know that I'm here."

"Gotcha."

Kenny pauses as Scott heads in front of him. Scott and Kenny come to the edge of the brick wall. They hear hollering coming from around the corner behind the brick wall. "That sounds like Diane," Kenny says. "Let's take a peak and see what's going on."

"Okay." Scott and Kenny peak their heads from behind the brick wall and look around the corner. They look way in the distance.

Around the corner way in the distance, Diane D is angrily walking away as Miranda and Bernice hurry and approach behind her. Diane D turns to her right and throws her right arm in the air, pointing and hollering at Charlotte as Charlotte and Lonna come from another distance. Diane D hollers, swears and points her finger at Charlotte shouting, "You keep fucking with me and you're asking for it, you hear?!"

"But Diane!" Charlotte shouts. "I swear I didn't see Kenny!"

"You keep fucking with me! Just keep fucking with me!" Diane D angrily turns away from Charlotte, Lonna, Miranda and Bernice as she walks towards Scott and Kenny's direction.

Charlotte cries to Lonna, Bernice and Miranda and shouts, "See?! She never listens to what I have to say!"

Diane D looks in the distance. She suddenly spots Scott and Kenny peeking from behind the brick wall and stops right in her tracks!

Back around the corner behind the brick wall, Scott and Kenny quickly turn their heads away from Diane D as Scott says, "Oh oh she saw us!"

Kenny quickly hides behind the brick wall while Scott has his face turned away from Diane D. Kenny leans his back against the brick wall. He then looks at Scott and asks, "She didn't see our faces good did she?"

"I don't know."

"Diane don't know who you are Scott. You don't need to have your face hidden from her. Turn your head back towards her. Take a look back at her and tell me what she's doing."

Scott nervously turns his head back towards Diane D and looks at her.

Back around the corner in the distance, Diane D stands there and shockingly stares towards Scott's direction. Lonna, Charlotte, Bernice and Miranda stand beside Diane D puzzled looking at her. They then turn and look towards Scott's direction to see what Diane D is looking at. Lonna, Charlotte, Bernice and Miranda turn their heads back towards Diane D puzzled looking at her. They come more closer to Diane D and surround her. Lonna, Charlotte, Bernice and Miranda turn their heads back puzzled looking towards Scott's direction again. They turn their heads back puzzled looking at Diane D again. Miranda comes right in Diane D's face puzzled staring in Diane D face, blocking Scott right out of her view as Lonna, Charlotte and Bernice come beside Diane D staring in Diane D's face also.

Back behind the brick wall, Scott stares towards Diane D and the Dianettes. Kenny continues to lean behind the wall. He looks at Scott and asks, "What's she doing?"

"Nothing," Scott says. "She's just standing there staring towards this direction."

"What? Is she looking at you?"

"It looks like it. It looks like she's looking right at me."

"Oh oh."

Back around the corner, Miranda, Bernice, Lonna and Charlotte continue to stand in front of Diane D's face trying to find out what's wrong with her as she stands there in a trance like state staring in the distance. "Diane are you alright?" Miranda asks.

"Say something Diane," Bernice says. Bernice, Miranda, Lonna and Charlotte puzzled look at each other. They do not know what to do. They puzzled look back at Diane D. They wave their hands back and forth in Diane D's face. Diane D does not respond. Bernice, Miranda, Lonna and Charlotte turn their heads back towards Scott's direction. They look back at Diane D. Bernice then shouts, "Snap out of it Diane!"

"Yeah please snap out of it," Charlotte shouts.

"Say something Diane!" Lonna shouts.

"You know this has got to stop!" Miranda shouts. "I'll get her to snap out of it! Here goes!" Suddenly Miranda raises her arm.

Behind the brick wall, Scott and Kenny hear a smack. Kenny puzzled looks at Scott and says, "I just heard a smack. Don't tell me the girls smacked Diane in the face?!"

"They certainly did," Scott says. "How did you know?"

"Because it's not the first time they had to smack Diane out of her trance."

"It's not?"

"No."

Scott continues to stare around the corner.

Back around the corner, Miranda, Bernice, Lonna and Charlotte continue to stand in front of Diane D's face trying to find out what's wrong with her as she continues to stand there in a trance like state staring in the distance. Charlotte then shouts, "Your smack didn't work Miranda!"

"Let me try one more time!" Miranda shouts.

"No!" Charlotte, Bernice and Lonna shouts.

"Don't smack her again Miranda!" Bernice shouts.

"Just one more time!" Miranda shouts. She raises her arm again and smacks Diane D right across the face again! Diane D suddenly closes her eyes as Miranda, Bernice, Lonna and Charlotte slightly back away from her frighteningly look at her. Then she opens her eyes again, shoves Miranda aside and runs off as Miranda, Bernice, Lonna and Charlotte scream and run from her! Miranda, Bernice, Lonna and Charlotte quickly stop running! They turn around towards Diane D as Diane D charges in the distance! They scream and shout, "Aaaahh! Diane! Where're you going?! Diane!"

Behind the brick wall, Scott is leaning against the wall near Kenny. They suddenly hear angry footsteps charging their way! They become puzzled! Scott pokes his head around the corner to look. "Oh shit," he shouts. "She's charging over here!" He turns his head back towards Kenny and shouts, "Let's get out of here!" Scott and Kenny quickly run and dash from behind the brick wall! They make a run down the grass!

Scott and Kenny suddenly hear somebody crashing to the ground with a thump from where they just left as they dash out towards the streets!

Scott and Kenny continue to dash out into the street, making a run for it refusing to turn their heads back to look!

Scott and Kenny run across the street behind a different building! They lean against the brick wall of the other building out of breath! Scott turns to Kenny and says, "My God! She was really trying to get us!"

"I know!" Kenny says. "What was that loud thump we heard?! It sounded like she fell!"

"I think she did fall! I saw her charging towards our direction so fast like a raging bull, I think she tripped and might have hurt herself!"

"Oh my God! I hope she's alright. I hope she wasn't hurt too bad. If Diane's hurt, I feel responsible! Well I'm gonna get the hell out of here and get home before I risk being seen again! When I get home, I'm gonna try to see if I can contact somebody from the organization to see if Diane is okay. Come on let's get out of here.” Kenny and Scott quickly leave from behind the brick wall and hurry towards the street!

BACK TO PRESENT:

Back inside the organization lobby, the female bystander asks, “Did Diane D actually fall?”

“Yes she did fall,” Kenny says.

“Oh no! Did she get hurt real bad?”

“Yes she got hurt. The next day, I heard that when she fell, she tried to get up off the ground, but the girls refused to let her get up. They were scared she was real hurt so they called the ambulance for her right then and there. I heard Diane still tried to get up off the ground again, telling the girls she don't need the ambulance. The girls still refused to let her get up. Then they called her family. Her family rushed over there, then the ambulance arrived. The paramedics put Diane on the stretcher and she was taken to the hospital and she wind up staying in the hospital for three days for observation. The hospital didn't want to release her until they was sure she was okay. The third day while Diane was in the hospital, she told everybody she thought she saw me in the area so she tried to go after me, that's why she started running. Later on that day everybody came to my home jumped down my throat asking me was I in the area, did the sight of me cause Diane to run after me and get herself hurt.”

“They asked you that?” the male bystander says.

“Yeah they sure did.”

“Wow. It sounds like they were trying to blame you for Diane D getting herself hurt.”

“It certainly sounds that way!”

“What did Charlotte do or say about that?”

“I don't really know what Charlotte did or say about it, I wasn't allowed near Charlotte. As far as I know, Charlotte didn't do or say anything. I heard she stayed by Diane's side the whole time Diane was in the hospital. As a matter of fact, their family has a video of when Diane and Charlotte were both kids. In the video, Diane hit Charlotte so hard when she caught Charlotte and some other kids from the neighborhood playing and teasing a pit bull that was behind a gate. Charlotte and the other kids kept putting their hands and fingers over a fence, teasing and agitating the pit bull, putting their fingers right in front of the pit bull's face, then quickly pulling their fingers back as the pit bull tries to bite at their fingers! They were playing Russian Roulette with their hands and fingers! Diane saw what Charlotte and the other kids were doing from a distance and she flipped.

SCENE IN VIDEO:

Eleven-year-old Charlotte and some other kids from the neighborhood are playing and teasing a pit bull that is behind a fence in a front yard of a house.

Twelve year old Diane D sees Charlotte from a distance. She starts to shout, “Charlotte! Charlotte! Charlotte! Get the hell away from that pit bull!”

Charlotte and the rest of the children look at Diane D. They then walk away.

Diane D angrily stares towards Charlotte. She then turns and walks away.

Several minutes later, Charlotte and the kids from the neighborhood approach the pit bull again and start teasing and agitating the pit bull even more. They put their fingers right in front of the pit bull's face, then quickly pull their fingers back as the pit bull barks and tries to bite at their fingers!

The constant barking attracts Diane D's attention. She sees Charlotte from a distance again playing with the pit bull again. She becomes frightened and hysterical. She runs a little and calls out to Charlotte shouting, "Charlotte! Charlotte!"

Charlotte and the other kids do not see or hear Diane D coming as they continue to tease the pit bull, putting their fingers right in front of the pit bull's face.

Diane D becomes angry and runs towards Charlotte and the other children.

Charlotte and the other kids still do not see Diane D coming as Diane D heads towards Charlotte.

Charlotte and the other kids continue to tease the pit bull. Diane D angrily slows down as she approaches Charlotte. She is slightly taller than Charlotte as she angrily grabs and jerks Charlotte by the collar and shouts, "Didn't I tell you to leave that dog alone?! What the hell are you trying to do, lose your fingers!" Diane D smacks Charlotte hard across the back!

"Ouuuu!" Charlotte screams.

"Get in the house!"

An angry Charlotte tries to hit Diane D back but Diane D blocks her and smacks Charlotte hard across the back again!

"Ouuuu!" Charlotte screams again.

"Get in the house!"

Charlotte cries in pain again as she runs off screaming, "Ouuuu! Grandma! Grandpa Diane hit me!" Diane D angrily follows after Charlotte totally ignoring the other kids and everyone else as they quickly move out of her way. They all then look on towards Diane D shocked and stunned.

Five minutes later, Margarita, Tomas, Mary, Barry, Charlotte's parents Marilyn and Dante are outside the fence arguing and fussing with the owners of the pit bull as a crowd stands around looking on.

A few days later outside Margarita and Tomas' mini-mansion, kids from the neighborhood are playing a game on the sidewalk. Charlotte sadly stands inside of the gate, watching the kids play as she painfully holds her back. One of the boys turns to Charlotte and says, "Hey Charlotte. You still on punishment for putting your fingers in that Pit Bull's face?"

"Yeah," Charlotte sadly says.

"How long are you on punishment for?" a second boy asks.

"A week."

"A week?" the first boy asks. "So you're not allowed out of the house at all?"

"No. I just snuck out for a few minutes to get some air."

"Oh yeah? You look like your still in pain Charlotte. Does your back still hurt from when your cousin Diane hit you?"

"Yeah I'm still in pain." Charlotte takes a look down the street. She sees Diane D and several other kids talking. She then sees Diane D turn around her way, coming right towards the house. Charlotte becomes nervous and heads towards the back door.

The neighborhood kids look at her. "Where're you going Charlotte?" the first boy shouts.

Charlotte turns to the boy and shouts, "I have to get back in the house, Diane is coming! I don't want her to catch me out here! She's gonna hit me again! And if she comes inside the house and don't see me, she's gonna look for me! I have to get back in the house!" Charlotte turns around and quickly makes a run for the house as the kids sadly stare at her then towards Diane D.

BACK TO PRESENT:

Back inside the organization lobby, Kenny says, "After Charlotte got in the house, that's when the video went off and finished."

"Wow!" the male bystander says. "I've seen that video before. I thought Diane D hit her cousin Charlotte too hard in that video."

"I think so too."

"Diane D didn't really have to hit her cousin Charlotte that hard?" the female bystander says.

Yeah. Charlotte says she still remembers how the pain felt to this day. She said it hurt like hell and she was in pain for a few days after it happened."

"My God."

"Did Charlotte ever say what happened when she got inside the house after she saw Diane D coming down the street?" the male bystander asks.

"Yeah," Kenny says. "She said when she first saw Diane coming towards the house, she got nervous, went inside the house then ran straight upstairs and got in the bed, pulled the blanket half-way over her head and started to pretend she was asleep. Then she heard Diane coming inside the house, then she heard Diane's footsteps coming up the stairs. Then she heard Diane's footsteps coming inside the bedroom she was in. Then she heard Diane's footsteps walking right up to her bed, then felt Diane pulled the blanket off her head to check on her. Charlotte still pretended she was asleep. Then she felt Diane placed the blanket half-way back over her head, then she heard Diane's footsteps walking away then leaving the room."

"Wow."

"We started teasing with Charlotte and asked her, now that she's practically the same height as Diane, would she try to hit Diane back right now."

"Oh yeah? What did she say?"

"She said no way! She said she would not hit Diane back now because first of all, Diane is not gonna allow her to hit her back now. Second of all, Charlotte says it was a long time ago and she would just like to forget about the whole incident because it was too painful for her."

"My goodness," the female bystander says. "How does Diane D feel about hitting Charlotte?"

"I don't think she regrets it. She said if she didn't step in, Charlotte would have definitely lost her hand and fingers from that Pit Bull and that situation would have been much worst."

"My God. Does Diane D always interfere in you and Charlotte's marriage?"

"No. Only when Charlotte and I are fighting. As long as Charlotte and I aren't fighting, Diane does not interfere. Diane and Charlotte practically grew up together. They're first cousins, their mothers are sisters. When Diane and Charlotte were growing up back in the Dominican Republic, Diane's family would sometimes live with Charlotte's family and Charlotte's family would sometimes live with Diane's family and they would stay with their grandparents Margarita and Tomas at times. Diane was always like a big sister or mother figure to Charlotte when they were growing up and she still acts that way till this day."

"But Charlotte is your wife now," the male bystander says.

"That doesn't mean anything to Diane. As far as she's concerned, Charlotte is still her cousin. Diane told me one time she doesn't give a damn that Charlotte is my wife. She told me not to ever hit Charlotte or else I'll have to deal with her."

"She told you that?" the female bystander asks.

"She sure did."

"I don't understand," the male bystander says. "Even after all I heard about what the Dianettes have been going through with Diane D, her hollering and screaming at them, telling them what to eat and what not to eat, telling them not to wear any make-up and throwing their make-up in the trash if she finds make-up in their possession, forcing and jamming fruits down their throats, getting into a fit of rage if she smells any hard liquor on them, they still want to fight other singers over her and refuse to share her with other singers?"

"Yep they still want to fight other female singers over her after all they've been through with her. Even though the girls go through this with Diane, and have been going through this with Diane practically all their lives, they all still love Diane and Diane loves them."

"What? You mean all of that did not stop the Dianettes from loving Diane D?"

"Heck no! As a matter of fact, the girls not only love Diane, they're crazy about her."

"They're crazy about Diane D?"

"Yeah."

"Wow. Maybe that's why the Dianettes don't want to share Diane D with other female singers. They fear losing all that attention Diane D gives them about their health and their eating habits, hollering and screaming at them, acting like she's their mother. They fear if Diane D gets together with other female singers and collaborates with other female singers, that Diane D might put all that health focus and attention on the other female singers and then Diane D will pay less attention to them and they don't want to lose or share that attention!"

"They probably don't. That's probably why they fight over her. To keep her attention focused on them." Everyone puzzled stares at Kenny.

"So have you heard from Diane D or the Dianettes lately?"

"Yeah, I heard from Charlotte yesterday. She said they're all okay. She said Diane is gonna work on the computer to file her and the rest of the girls' taxes for them."

"Oh yeah? Diane D files taxes for the Dianettes?"

"Yeah."

"All of them?"

"Yep all of them."

"My god that's nice," the female bystander says. "How come the Dianettes don't file their own taxes?”

“Please, the girls don't want to deal with that kind of paper work. They find it confusing. It gets too much for them. They become lazy when it comes to filing their own tax forms, so Diane does it all for them. Diane's been filing their taxes for them for the past few years! She's use to doing that and a lot of other paper work. She does accounting for people and charges a fee.”

“Diane D does accounting too?”

“Yeah, Diane does everything.”

“Wow,” the male bystander says. “Does she charge the Dianettes when she file taxes for them?”

“No she doesn't charge the girls at all. She doesn't want any money from them, she does all their taxes for free.”

“All of them?”

“Yeah, all of them. After she finishes filing all the girls' taxes and get all their tax forms out the way, she files and works on her own taxes.”

“She does? Does she file taxes for you guys?”

“Yeah, but she will charge all of us if we want her to file our taxes for us.”

“Diane D would charge you guys if she files your taxes?”

“Yeah, but she won't charge any of the girls.”

“Well maybe she takes the fee out of their salary, after all, they do work for her family.”

“Anything is possible.”

“So Kenny, what are you gonna do about going down to Jamaica and seeing Charlotte?” Ralph asks.

“I plan to go down to Jamaica next week to visit Charlotte,” Kenny says. “Margarita and Tomas told me they were flying down to Jamaica next week. They said Dana's mother's family is gonna have a big dinner down there and told me I can come. I would just have to stay in a hotel or something.”

“Oh yeah? What about Diane? What if she tries to fight you for coming near Charlotte or try to get you arrested again?”

“Diane is not gonna have a problem with me as long as Charlotte and I aren't fighting and there is no Order Of Protection against me. Like I said, as long as Charlotte and I aren't fighting, Diane is not gonna bother me. When I go down to Jamaica, I'm gonna make sure Charlotte and I don't get into any fights, I'll just walk away before that happens. Plus when Charlotte spoke to me on the phone, she said she's not gonna start anymore fights because she doesn't want Diane or the rest of her family to get upset anymore.”

“Oh that's good. Hey? You want us to come with you down to Jamaica? We all miss Diane and the girls and want to see them too.”

“Yeah that's a good idea, you guys come with me! We can find a hotel we can all stay in!”

“That sounds cool!” Melvin says. “I can't wait to see Diane and the girls, plus I don't want to miss that big dinner. Count us in.”

“You got it!”

“That must be a big house in Jamaica for Diane D to have the Dianettes and the rest of her family living there for a while,” the male bystander says. “What bedroom do Diane D and the Dianettes all stay and sleep in?”

“Oh some of them have to pile up and sleep in the same bedroom with somebody else. Diane moved herself and three of the girls into Dana's bedroom to stay and sleep in there and moved the other three girls into another bedroom with Dana's sisters.”

“She does that at her paternal grandparents' house?”

“Yeah, all the time. See Diane doesn't have her own bedroom whenever she stays at her paternal grandparents' house. Every time she stays at her paternal grandparents house or lives there for a while, she always stay and sleep in Dana's room with Dana. Then whenever Diane brings the girls to stay there with her or have them spend the night, she just pile three or four of the girls into the same bedroom with herself and Dana and have them stay and sleep in there too and put the other two or three girls in the room with her aunt Celeste.”

“I see.”

“Well I have to get ready to leave.” Kenny says. He turns to the band members and asks, “Any of you guys need a ride?”

“Sure Kenny,” Vincent says. “I'll ride with you.”

“You got it.” Kenny and the rest of the people start to leave.

Chapter 41

In Jamaica

It is a week later. Inside the living room of Dana's relatives home, Nicolas, Mickey, many of Christine's relatives including her sister Patricia and some kids, Michael, Kelly, Miranda, Nancy, Kenny and the members of the Diaz-Davidson Band are all talking, laughing and drinking with Kelly, Miranda and Nancy all dressed in identical pearl colored leggings, pearl colored long sleeved short shirts showing their bellies and fluffy slippers with their long hairs loosed out along the back and sides.

In the kitchen, Lonna, Charlotte and Bernice also dressed in identical pearl colored leggings, pearl colored long sleeved short shirts showing their bellies and fluffy slippers with their long hairs loosed out along the back and sides, Dana's cousin Judy, other Jamaican relatives, Diane D's family and some kids hang in the kitchen. Mary, Margarita, Gracy, Christine and Marie cook over a stove and counter. They then look in the stove to check on something cooking in it as Lonna, Charlotte and Bernice stand next to them looking on. Marie then asks, "Is the ham ready yet?"

"I don't know," Christine says. "Diane was checking on it, hold on." Christine turns toward the kitchen doorway and shouts, "Diane! Diane!"

Diane D enters the kitchen behind the Dianettes wearing a cap, also dressed in an identical pearl colored leggings, pearl colored long sleeved short shirt showing her belly and fluffy slippers with her long hair loosed out along her back and sides as she says, "What's up Aunt Christine?"

"Is the ham ready?" Christine asks.

Diane D gently comes between Lonna, Charlotte and Bernice. She then goes in front of them and opens the stove looking into it. "It's almost ready," she says. "I'll give it another ten minutes." Diane D closes the stove back and says, "Could you take it out after ten minutes Aunt Christine? I gotta step outside for a minute."

"Okay Diane," Christine says.

Diane D turns to Lonna, Charlotte and Bernice and says, "Girls come with me." Diane D turns away and heads out the kitchen as Lonna, Charlotte and Bernice turn and follow her out the kitchen.

Marie turns to Winston and says, "Winston you don't want any salt on your food right?"

"No, no salt Marie," Winston says.

Everyone suddenly hears keys unlocking the front door around the corner. “Here comes Dana now,” Christine says. “That’s her keys unlocking the front door.” Some of the people in the kitchen go towards the kitchen exit.

Suddenly Diane D enters the kitchen again. Judy hands Diane D a large opened bag of rice as she is about to go out the kitchen and says, “Here you go Diane.”

Christine's sister Patricia comes into the kitchen next to Diane D holding a champagne glass in her hand as she shouts, “More champagne!” Patricia and Judy bump right into each other causing Patricia to drop and break her champagne glass all on the floor and causing the large bag of rice to fall, spilling rice all over the floor. Everybody stops and looks down at the spilled rice and broken glass.

“What the .....!” Uncle Harold says.

“Look!” Christine shouts. “What a mess here! Rice and glass all over the place!”

Christine's brother Harold looks at Patricia, Diane D and Judy and shouts, “Look what you three did!”

“Three?!” Diane D shouts. “It wasn't my fault Uncle Harold!”

“It wasn't my fault either!” Judy shouts.

“What are y'all trying to say it's my fault?!” Patricia shouts.

“Well whose fault was it?!” Uncle Harold shouts.

“I don't know Uncle Harold!” Diane D shouts. “All I know is that Judy just threw the opened bag of rice right in my hands and let go of it without waiting for me to get a good grip on it!”

“Well excuuuuse me!” Judy says as she places her hands on her hips.

“Excuse you nothing Judy! Clean this rice up!”

“Me?! Now wait a second Diane...”

Diane D holds her hand out to Judy's face and walks away going towards the kitchen doorway as Judy, Uncle Harold, Aunt Patricia, Christine, Marie, Winston, Mary, Barry and everyone else in the kitchen start to fuss as they follow off after Diane D.

In the hallway, there are murals of old large pictures on the hallway wall of a young Marie, a young Winston, a young Christine, Christine's siblings a young Patricia, Harold, Alan and other family and relatives during Christine's childhood. Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda excitedly run down the hallway past the mural of large pictures, smiling shouting, “Dana! Dana!”

Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda reach the front doorway! They approach Dana and wrap their arms around Dana, giving Dana big warm hugs as Dana, dressed in a short brown shirt, brown leggings and brown cap, has her arms wrapped back around her sisters.

Nicolas, Mickey and some relatives come down the hallway as Nicolas says, “Man, I wish I can get that much love.”

“Yeah right,” Mickey says. “I've been working all day too.”

Dana and her sisters turn and see Nicolas, Mickey and the relatives coming down the hallway towards them.

Nicolas, Mickey and the relatives approach Dana and say, “What's up Dana.”

“What's up guys?” Dana says.

“Gosh Dana,” Mickey says. “Where have you been all day?”

“You went hunting again Dana?” Nicolas asks.

“Sort of,” Dana says.

“Sort of? You didn’t kill another deer did you Dana?”

“No Nicolas. Sammy, Thomas, Uncle Alan, Uncle Kevin, Uncle Willie and I went fishing.”

“Y’all went fishing?”

“Yeah, we brought fish for everybody.”

“Oh that’s good. I can’t wait to eat it.”

“You coming in the living room Dana?” Linda asks.

“Yeah, hold on baby,” Dana says. She turns back to Nicolas and Mickey and says, “Guys do me a favor? They got a lot of fish in the van. Could y’all help them get the fish out the van?”

“Sure Dana,” Mickey says. “We’ll go get it.” Suddenly, they all hear the sound of glass breaking coming from the kitchen. They all look towards the kitchen as Mickey says, “Is that Aunt Patricia again? Don’t tell me she dropped another champagne glass.” They all start to hear fussing coming from out of the kitchen.

“There they go again,” Nicolas says.

“I’ll take care of them,” Dana says. She then walks away into the hallway with her sisters. Everyone else follows Dana and her sisters. Nicolas and Mickey and a male relative turn away and head towards the front door.

Chapter 42

School Committee Wants Diane D To Visit Schools Again

It is one month later. Margarita is inside the organization office. The telephone rings. Margarita picks up the telephone receiver. She speaks into the receiver and says, "Hello. Diaz-Davidson Organization."

"Hello, this is Emily Cohen from the school committee," Emily says.

"Oh Emily how are you doing?"

"I'm doing okay, and yourself?"

"I'm okay."

"Good. I just want to know has Diane D come back from Jamaica yet."

"No not yet. She and the rest of them decided to stay in Jamaica another couple of months."

"Another couple of months?"

"Yeah, then they'll all come back to New York."

"Okay, I'll call back when she comes back to town."

"Okay no problem. Take care." Margarita hangs up the telephone.

It is a month later. Inside a school office, several adults are sitting around talking. A black man in the group around his late 30's name Frank speaks out and says, "Hey! I here Diane D is back in town."

"She is?!" everybody says as they rush to Frank.

"Diane D is back in town?!" Sherman, a white male around his early 40's asks.

"Yeah," Frank says. "My brother said he and his wife saw Diane D from a distance going inside her family's organization this morning. They said she was walking with three of the Dianettes."

"Your brother and his wife saw Diane D with three of the Dianettes this morning?!" a woman asks.

"Yeah."

"Which three Dianettes?"

"I don't know, my brother said he wasn't sure which three Dianettes it was. He couldn't tell from the distance, but he know it was three of them with Diane D."

"Really?" Emily says. "I spoke to Diane D's grandmother on the phone last month. I thought her grandmother told me Diane D was gonna be in Jamaica another couple of months. It's only one month. What's Diane D doing back in town already?"

“Well I heard Diane D and her family heard that someone from the city council wanted to buy their family's organization. They didn't want that to happen so I heard they all rushed back here to New York to stop it.”

“Oh my God?”

“Yeah. They think they might lose their family's organization if the city council buys it, now Diane D's parents and her grandparents all want to run for city council.”

“What!” everybody shouts.

“Diane D's parents and grandparents all want to run for city council?” a second man asks.

“That's what I heard,” Frank says. “I heard they all were gonna have a meeting with the Board Of Directors at the end of the week.”

“My goodness! If Diane D's family run for city council, they're certainly gonna have my vote! I'll vote for them!”

“They'll have my vote too!” a third man says.

“Well if Diane D is back in town,” Emily says, “maybe I can call her family's organization and try to meet her and see if she would come to the schools!”

“What?” Frank says. “You want to try and meet Diane D?”

“Of course I want to meet Diane D! I've always wanted to meet her. I think she's so cool.”

“And you want her to try and come to the schools?”

“Yeah.”

“You know Diane D has stopped coming to the schools ever since she and her family were lied to by that kid Marcus and his brother about some little boy who was dying of leukemia.”

“I know, that was a terrible lie. That kid Marcus and his brother shouldn't have done that.”

“I know. They definitely learned their lesson from it.”

“They sure did. I just thought maybe I can persuade Diane D and her family to change their mind and have Diane D start coming back to the schools again.”

“Well if you meet Diane D, you better make sure the Dianettes aren't around when you meet her.”

“Why?”

“You're a singer aren't you?! Remember, the Dianettes don't want any female singers approaching Diane D or being around her! Remember when we read about what happened to Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman, the Punky Gurlz and those two Latin singers Carmen and Rachel?!”

“Yeah I remember what happened to all of them, but the Dianettes don't know who I am! They don't know that I'm a singer! They've never seen me before! Plus I'm not gonna ask Diane D to sing with me anyway! I only want her to start coming back to the schools again so she can speak to the children like she used to do!”

“I guess you're right. Just don't ask Diane D to sing with you, because when Diane D, her family and the Dianettes were all down in Jamaica, I heard that three of the Dianettes Lonna, Nancy and Bernice went and cursed a female singer named Shannon out down there when they heard that this female singer Shannon was gonna sing a duet with another singer named Diane!”

“What!” everybody shouts.

“You're kidding!” Emily says.

“No, I'm telling the truth!” Frank shouts. “That's what I heard! I heard that Lonna, Nancy and Bernice heard that a female singer named Shannon was gonna sing a duet with a singer named Diane at a club later on one night! Lonna, Nancy and Bernice heard the name Diane and just assumed that this singer Diane was Diane D. I heard Lonna, Nancy and Bernice went to that club looking for that singer Shannon and when they found out who Shannon was, they went straight up to her and cursed her out! I heard they cursed that singer Shannon out so bad. I heard they even threatened her!”

“They threatened her?”

“Yeah! The security had to come! That singer Shannon got so upset by what happened, she ran off! Then the security called Diane D's family! Diane D's family came there and found out what happened. They found out that this singer Shannon was gonna sing a duet with a singer named Diane Woods, not Diane D! After it was all over, the security let Diane D's family take Lonna, Nancy and Bernice away from the area. When the time came for Shannon and Diane Woods to perform and sing at the club, Shannon didn't even show up! She never came back to the club. The people at the club said she was so upset by those three Dianettes. I heard that singer Diane Woods had to wind up performing alone and wind up having to sing another song.”

“My God,” the second man says. “You know that whacking the Dianettes got from Diane D's mom and the month they all spent in jail didn't seem to change their attitude or behavior at all.”

“No I guess it didn't.”

“Where were the other three Dianettes when this cursing out took place?” Emily asks.

“I heard they weren't there. I heard they were somewhere else with Diane D at the time.”

“My god. Well if Diane D do come to the schools and sing to the children, she would be singing to the children alone by herself! I nor anybody else is gonna sing with her!”

“Okay, but still, if the Dianettes happen to see you with Diane D, don't let them know or let them find out that you're a singer, because they will tear your hide. They already putted three of the Punky Gurlz in the hospital causing them to cancel their concert in Paris, they already putted Madilyn Lewis and Randy Coleman in the hospital causing them to cancel their concert at Madison Square Garden, they bit the men from the Diaz-Davidson Organization and put them in the hospital as well causing those men to get shots and stitches and they chased after the Latin singers Carmen and Rachel, pulled one of their hair and ripped her collar and knocked the other one down on the street and jumped on her back! The Dianettes were about to put Carmen and Rachel in the hospital too if the police hadn't caught up to them and stopped them and now this latest incident in Jamaica! So if you want to send a singer to Diane D, just make sure it's a male singer that's all.” Frank starts to drink from a cup as Emily Cohen worriedly looks at him. Emily then gets on the telephone on the desk. She picks up the phone receiver and dials a number. She waits for a few seconds. She then speaks into the telephone receiver and nervously says, “Uh hello? I'm sorry to bother you, but I heard that Diane D is back in town. Could I speak to her please?”

“Oh I'm sorry Diane is not here right now,” Alex says. “She and her family took the girls to counseling a little while ago.”

“They did? Oh so in other words, Diane D and her family are back in New York.”

“Yes they're all back in New York. They flew back in town three days ago.”

“Oh really? Well this is Emily Cohen from the school committee.”

“Oh Emily Cohen. I heard of you. You called here before, right?”

“Yes, I did.”

“Miss Margarita told us about you.”

“She did?”

“Yeah.”

“Well I just want to know if Diane D could come visit the schools again.”

“Well Diane and her family are gonna be taken the girls to counseling all week. Why don't you call back to speak to Diane on Saturday. I think she should be free then.”

“She'll be free? Okay no problem, I'll call back Saturday. Thanks a lot. By.” Emily Cohen hangs up the telephone. She excitedly turns to Frank and says, “Well you're right, Diane D is back in town! Someone from the Diaz-Davidson Organization just told me I can call back there Saturday because Diane D and her family took the Dianettes to counseling a little while ago!”

“They took the Dianettes to counseling?” Frank says. “Oh that's good! So call there again Saturday!”

“I'm not gonna call there Saturday, I'm gonna go there in person so I can talk to Diane D directly! Oh I am so excited!” Everyone is excited for Emily.

It is now Saturday. Frank, Emily Cohen, Sherman and several people from the school committee are outside the front door of the Diaz-Davidson Organization. They knock on the front door. No one answers. Frank turns to the others and says, “We've been standing here ringing the bell and knocking on the door for ten minutes. No one is answering yet.”

“Maybe they're not around,” Sherman says.

“Well someone here from the organization said Diane D should be available Saturday,” Emily says. “Today is Saturday.”

“Maybe they're at the park,” Frank says. “I hear they go to the park on nice days. It's a nice day today. Let's go to the park and see if we see them or find anybody we can ask.” Frank, Emily, Sherman and the rest of the people turn and leave the front door.

Frank, Emily, Sherman and the rest of the people from the school committee walk through the park. They see a big husky black man sitting on top of the benches with several people around him talking and laughing. “What about those people over there?” Frank asks. “Maybe we can ask them.”

“Okay,” Emily says. Emily, Frank, Sherman and the rest of the people start to walk towards the people on the bench.

Emily, Frank, Sherman and the rest of the people approach the people on the bench. “Hello,” Frank says. The people on the bench turn to look as Frank says, “Excuse us, but do any of you know if the Diaz-Davidson Organization is opened today? We've been knocking on the front door for a while but no one has answered. We've been trying to get in touch with Diane D. We want to speak to her to see if we can change her mind about visiting and lecturing the children at the schools, but no one is at the organization. We hear they come to this park sometimes when the weather is nice.”

“Yeah they do come to this park,” the husky man says. “As a matter of fact, I saw the Dianettes, Diane D's husband, Diane D's older brother and some of Diane D's relatives around here earlier.”

“You did?”

“Yeah. I don't know where they are right now. They still might be somewhere in the area.” The husky man looks to the side. He then says, “Oh there goes the Dianettes now. Maybe you can ask them where Diane D is.” Frank, Emily, Sherman and the rest of the people from the school committee and everyone on the bench turn and look at the Dianettes.

In the distance, the Dianettes are walking down a path. They are all dressed in identical dark leggings, short dark jackets, belly bearing tops and long hair around their backs and sides and thick black sneakers. They are walking in two rows with Miranda walking in the front on the far left side, Nancy walking directly behind her, Lonna walking in the front middle, Charlotte walking directly behind her, Kelly walking in the front on the far right side closer to the people and Bernice walking directly behind her, all talking and laughing with their heads turned facing each other. Nancy and Kelly lean towards each other, giving each other a loud high five then they all look forward as Lonna chews and blows bubble gum.

Back on the bench, the husky guy turns to Emily and Frank and tells them, “Go ahead. Ask the Dianettes where Diane D is.”

“Yeah go ahead Emily,” Frank says. “Ask them where Diane D is.”

“I'm not gonna ask them,” Emily nervously says.

“Why not? Don't you wanna know where Diane D is?”

“Yeah, but I don't want to ask THEM!”

“Why not? They don't know you're a singer.”

“I still don't want to ask them. They might find out later by somebody who knows me.”

“You're a singer?” the husky man asks.

“Yes I am. I sing at a few churches and at a few night clubs and I'm trying to get a record deal.”

“Oh yeah? So you don't want to ask the Dianettes where Diane D is because you're a singer?”

“Right. I'd rather ask someone else where's Diane D.”

“Well I don't see any one else around you can ask.”

Emily turns to Frank and says, “Why don't you ask the Dianettes for me Frank.”

“I don't want to ask them either,” Frank says. He then turns to Sherman and says, “How about you Sherman? You want to ask the Dianettes where Diane D is?”

“With their attitude?” Sherman says. “No way.”

“Well if none of y'all want to ask the Dianettes where's Diane D at, I guess I'll have to ask them for you,” the husky man says.

“Thanks,” Emily says. “Just don't mention to them that I'm a singer.”

“I won't.” The husky man turns towards the Dianettes and shouts, “Excuse me Dianettes! Dianettes! Dianettes!”

The Dianettes turn their heads and look towards the man as they walk down the path.

Other people and children in the park see the Dianettes and anxiously hurry halfway towards them. “Dianettes!” some children in the park shout.

The husky man then shouts, “I’m sorry to bother y’all, but I just want to know, where’s Diane D at?!”

The Dianettes puzzled look at each other, then back at the man.

“I just want to know, where Diane D is!” the husky man says. “Some people want to get in touch with her! I just want to know where’s she at!”

“She went to a meeting!” Miranda shouts.

“I’m sorry, she went where?!”

“She’s at a meeting!” the rest of the Dianettes say.

“Oh she’s at a meeting?!”

“Yeah!”

“You know where?!”

“At the city council!”

“The city council?! Oh that means her family must be gonna run for city council! I hope they run!”

The Dianettes nod their heads then look forward as they continue to walk down the path.

The husky man calls out to the Dianettes again and shouts, “Hey Dianettes!”

The Dianettes turn their heads and look back towards the husky man again.

The husky man shouts, “If Diane D’s family run for city council, they’re gonna have my vote! I’ll definitely vote for them! And when y’all see Diane D again, tell her a few people would like to get in touch with her!”

The Dianettes nod their heads again then look forward as they continue to walk down the path as the people and children watch them. The people and children see the Dianettes walking further into the distance.

The husky man turns back to Frank, Emily, Sherman and the rest of the people and says, “Well I asked the Dianettes for y’all where Diane D is. Now that y’all know where Diane D’s at, you can go to the city council and try to meet her and speak to her directly.”

“Thanks,” Frank says.

“You sure the Dianettes won’t show up at the city council later?” Emily asks.

“No,” the husky man says. “They’re going that way aren’t they?” Everyone sees the Dianettes in the distance walking down a different path after turning a corner. They see Michael, members of the Diaz-Davidson band, some of Diane D’s family members and relatives approach the Dianettes. They see them all stop and talk. They then see Michael, members of the Diaz-Davidson band, some of Diane D’s family members and relatives lead the Dianettes away. The husky man turns to Frank and Emily and says, “Well if you all want to see and speak to Diane D, here’s your chance now.”

Frank turns to Emily, Sherman and the rest and says, “Okay let’s go.” He turns back to the husky man and says, “Thanks again.”

“No problem,” the husky man says.

Frank, Emily, Sherman and the people from the school committee turn and leave the area.

In the lobby of the City Council building, Frank, Emily, Sherman and the rest of the people from the school committee approach the front desk. Rodney, a black male around his early 40's, sits behind the desk and says, "Hello, may I help you?"

"Yes," Frank says. "We heard Diane D is here in the building at a meeting. We're from the school committee and we would like to speak to Diane D because we want to know if she can come visit the schools again like she use to."

"Oh really? Yeah Diane D is here. She and some of her family are at a meeting on the second floor."

"Oh yeah?" Emily says. "Do you know when the meeting will be over?"

"No I don't. They've been at the meeting for a while." Rodney looks to the side. He then says, "There goes Diane D's brother. Hey Mickey?!"

The people from the school committee look to the side and see Mickey coming from the staircase. They become excited. Mickey approaches Rodney and says, "What's up Rodney?"

"Mickey these people are from the school committee." Mickey looks at the people. Rodney then says, "They would like to speak to your sister Diane D to know if she can come visit the schools again like she use to."

"Oh yeah?" Mickey looks at Frank, Emily, Sherman and the rest of the people and says, "You guys want Diane to come visit the schools again?"

"Yes," Frank says. "We know she and your family stopped visiting schools after the letter about a little boy dying of leukemia was sent to your family, then Diane D and the rest of your family found out that whole letter was a hoax, but we were hoping to change Diane D and the rest of your family's mind. We heard Diane D's at a meeting here. We would like to know when the meeting is gonna be over so we can speak to Diane D herself."

"Mickey is your family still having the meeting upstairs?" Rodney asks.

"I'm not sure yet," Mickey says. "But you all can come with me to find out. If Diane is still in the meeting, I'll see if I can interrupt the meeting real quick and bring her out to you guys."

"No you don't have to do that," Emily says. "We didn't want to disturb Diane D. We were willing to wait until the meeting is over."

"I don't know when it's gonna be over though," Mickey says. "You might be waiting a long time. I'll see if I can get Diane to come out for a minute or two. Come on." Mickey turns and leads the people to the staircase.

Mickey leads Frank, Emily and the rest of the people down the second floor hallway. He goes to the side and knocks on a door. Frank, Emily and the rest of the people all wait. Mickey knocks on the door again. Emily then says, "That's alright, you don't have to disturb Diane D."

"It'll only take a minute," Mickey says. Mickey knocks on the door again. The door opens. A janitor, a male black opens the door. Mickey looks in the room and sees that it is empty of people. "Where is everybody?" he asks. "The meeting is over already?"

"No they moved the meeting to a room on the third floor," the janitor says. "They said they had needed more space, it wasn't enough space in here."

"Oh okay, thanks." Mickey turns to Frank and Emily and tells them, "The meeting was moved to the third floor. Follow me." Mickey starts to walk away.

"Listen that's alright," Emily says. "We can catch Diane D when the meeting is over."

Mickey stops, turns around and says, "Do y'all want to speak to my sister or not?"

"Yes we do, but...."

"That settles it then. Follow me." Mickey turns and walks away. The people from the school committee look at him then follow him.

Mickey leads Frank and the rest of the people up a flight of stairs that leads to the third floor. Emily nervously stays behind. Mickey turns around and looks down the staircase towards Emily. He then says, "Well what are you waiting for Miss? My sister is right up this way if you want to speak to her."

"I can wait," Emily says.

"We're almost there Ma'am. I'm gonna bring my sister out in the hallway if you would just bare with me."

"That's alright, I don't want to cause any problems."

"Problems? What are you talking about 'cause any problems?"

"She's a singer," Frank says.

"What?" Mickey looks down the stairs at Emily and asks, "You're a singer?"

"Yes I am," Emily nervously says. "I sing at a few churches and at a few night clubs and I'm trying to get a record deal."

"Oh yeah? Well that's good. That's good and dandy you're a singer and trying to get a record deal, what's the problem with that? How's that gonna cause a problem with you coming upstairs?"

"Being that she's a singer, she's worried about approaching Diane D or coming near Diane D because of the Dianettes," Frank says.

"Oh yeah?" Mickey turns to Emily and says, "Is that what it is? Because of the girls? You don't have to worry about the girls, they're not here."

"I know," Emily says. "We saw them in the park earlier. Even though the Dianettes aren't here, they still don't want any female singers approaching Diane D or coming near her. If you bring Diane D out in the hallway, I was gonna let Frank approach her and speak to her."

"Sweetheart, you came near Diane the minute you stepped into this building. So since you're already here, you might as well just speak to her."

"But what if Diane D do decide to come visit the schools and the Dianettes come with her?"

"The girls do not come visit any schools."

"They don't?"

"No. Have you ever heard of the girls coming to any schools?"

"No."

"Exactly, Diane only does that. Well, she used to do that."

"Oh. I see."

Mickey turns and looks up the staircase. He sees a black man walking past the doorway and calls out to him, "Hey Glenn!" The man stops and looks in the stairway at Mickey as Mickey says, "Are you going pass the meeting room?!"

"Yeah!"

"Could you do me a favor?! When you pass by the meeting room, knock on the door and tell my mom some people from the school committee is out here to see Diane!”

The man looks in the staircase and says, “Oh yeah? These people want to see Diane?”

“Yeah.”

“Okay.” The man turns and goes away.

Mickey turns to the people and says, “Come let's go up there.” Mickey turns and leads everyone up the stairs as Emily nervously stays behind. Mickey turns back and looks down at Emily again. He then asks, “Ma'am? Are you coming?”

“No that's alright,” Emily says. “I'll let Frank speak to Diane D. I'll wait downstairs.”

“I'm not gonna speak to Diane D Emily,” Frank says, “you're gonna speak to her.”

Emily slowly starts to head up the stairs.

Mickey sighs then says, “If you want to speak to my sister Miss, you gotta hurry up! She has to get back to the organization after the meeting! Not only that, my whole family is heading back to Jamaica in three weeks, so if you want to speak to Diane, you better speak to her now!”

“You all are going back to Jamaica?!” Emily asks.

“Yeah. We would have still been in Jamaica if we hadn't heard that the city council wanted to buy the organization.”

“Oh. Well how long are you all gonna stay in Jamaica when you go back?”

“Maybe for one month, then go to St Thomas for a couple of months, then go back down to the Dominican Republic!”

“St. Thomas and the Dominican Republic too?”

“Yeah. So we'll be traveling back and forth between New York, Jamaica, St Tomas and the Dominican Republic.”

“Oh yeah?” Frank asks. “Are the Dianettes going back to Jamaica, St Thomas and the Dominican Republic with your family when Diane D and your family go back?”

“Yes they have to come back with us, they're gonna be in my family's custody for a year or more, so they have to go everywhere we go.”

“Isn't your cousin Dana in your family's custody too?”

“Is she going to travel with your family to St. Tomas and the Dominican Republic too?”

“Yep, she sure is.”

“Wow. I wish I was in your family's custody. That way I can get to travel around the Caribbean too.” They all laugh a little.

Glenn comes back to the staircase and says, “Mickey, I told your mom these people are out here and want to see Diane, but she said Diane left the meeting early.”

“Yeah. Your mom said Diane left a couple of minutes ago. She said Diane went down the backstairs to the parking lot, got in her car and drove off. She said Diane is heading back to the organization now.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

Mickey turns to Frank and Emily and says, “Well you heard. Since Diane is not here now, maybe you can speak to my mom about changing her and the rest of my family's mind about getting Diane to start visiting schools again. Want to speak to my mom? Come on. I'll bring you to her.”

“Okay,” Frank says.

Mickey turns back to Glenn and says, “Glenn tell my mom I'm bringing these people to talk to her.”

“Okay,” Glenn says as he turns around and leaves the staircase.

Mickey turns back to Emily and says, “Come on Ma'am, let's go.” Mickey turns around and walks to the door as Emily and the rest of the people walk to the top of the staircase.

Mickey leaves the staircase entering the third floor hallway as Emily and everyone else come out the stairwell. Mickey walks down the hallway as Frank, Emily and the rest of the people follow him. Mickey looks down the hallway. He turns to Emily and points his finger down the hall and says to her, “There goes my mom right there. She's standing right down there at the door.” Emily and the rest of the people look down the hall. They see Glenn and Mary standing outside the doorway looking at them with their bodies facing each other as Mary leans against the doorway. Emily and the rest of the people nervously start to head down the hall. Mickey calls out to Mary and shouts, “Mom!”

Mary puzzled raises her head a little.

“Estas son las personas que estoy trained a usted!” Mickey shouts. Mickey continues to bring Frank, Emily and the rest of the people down the hall to Mary.

Mickey, Frank, Emily and the rest of the people approach Mary and stop as Mickey turns to Emily and says, “Here you go ma'am.” Mickey turns to Mary, gives her a loving kiss then says, “Hasta luego mama.”

“Okay baby,” Mary says.

Mickey turns and walks away as Mary looks at Frank, Emily and the people from the committee.

Emily nervously looks at Mary and says, “Hi Diane D's mom! How are you?! Nice to see you! My name is Emily Cohen. We're from the school committee. I spoke to you on the phone before when I called your organization. I'm sorry we pulled you away from a meeting. I just need to speak to you about something. We would like to know if your daughter Diane D could visit the schools and speak to children again like she use to do. We know she and your family stopped visiting schools after the letter about a little boy who's dying of leukemia was sent to your family's organization, then Diane D and the rest of your family found out that whole letter was a hoax, but we were hoping to change Diane D and the rest of your family's mind. I have some flyers and information that might be of help to you.”

“I'll take a look at it,” Mary says as she holds her hand out to the flyers. Emily nervously hands Mary some flyers. Mary looks at the flyers. She starts to read the flyers. Emily and the people from the school committee nervously and anxiously look at each other, then look back at Mary as Mary continues to read the flyers. Mary finishes reading the flyers. She looks up at Emily and asks, “You're having a youth fair at two schools?”

“Yes. We would like to know if your daughter Diane D can come to the youth fairs and speak and lecture to the children and maybe sing for them?”

“Really? When is the fair supposed to be?”

“Next month. Your son Mickey just told us that you and your whole family are gonna head back down to Jamaica in three weeks.”

“We are, but before we decide to change Diane’s mind and the rest of our minds about having Diane come to the schools again, I’ll have to go check the schools out first and see what they’re about, then I would have to speak to Diane and the rest of my family about it. Where are these schools at?”

“They’re right here in town. They’re both a mile away from here. You can come with us to check the school buildings out today if you want.”

“Yeah? Maybe I’ll check them out right now. I’ll try to go there real quick and come right back.”

“Right now? That’s good, but what about your meeting?”

“I’ll see if my parents can cover for me until I get back. Hold on.” Mary turns towards the doorway and heads inside the room closing the door behind herself as Frank, Emily and the people from the school committee wait in the hallway.

A few minutes later, the door opens. Mary steps back out into the hallway with her cell phone to her ear as the door closes behind her. She starts to pace back and forth a little as she holds the cell phone to her ear. She then speaks into her cell phone and says, “Hey Michael. ... Yeah the meeting is going okay, we didn’t finish yet. .... No. Hey Michael listen, I have to step off real quick. Some people from the school committee is here out in the hallway. They asked me if Diane could attend a youth fair at two schools they’re gonna have next month. ... Yeah. .... I know Diane doesn’t want to come to the schools anymore, but I told the people before we decide to change Diane’s mind and our minds about having Diane come to the schools again, I’ll have to go check the schools out first and see what they’re about, then we would have to speak to Diane and have a meeting with the rest of the family about it. .... I know we’re leaving for Jamaica in three weeks, I just want to check the schools out real quick. I want to take a quick run over to the schools right now, then come right back. While I’m there, Grandma and Grandpa are gonna cover for me in the meeting until I get back. You still got the girls with you, right? Are they still with you, Nicolas and the rest of the family? .... Okay good. .... What? You gotta doctor’s appointment today? .... What time? .... You’re going right now? You don’t plan to bring the girls there with you, do you? .... Well you can just leave the girls with the rest of the family or I can just bring them all with me real quick.”

Emily, Frank and the rest of the people nervously look at Mary, then at each other. Frank whispers to Emily and says, “I think you better let Diane D’s mom know that you’re a singer before she decides to bring the Dianettes with her. That way she’ll know not to bring them near you and they wind up finding out that you’re a singer who wants to talk to Diane D and there winds up being a chaos with them and you, then after that, you got to worry about Diane D’s cousin Dana cursing you out.”

Emily frighteningly stares at Frank. She then says, “You’re right,” Emily nervously looks at Mary and says, “Uh excuse us?”

Mary stops pacing and holds her hand up to Emily, firmly suggesting for Emily to wait. Mary starts to pace again as she continues to speak into the phone and says, “The girls are gonna go with Nicolas, Aunt Celeste and the rest of the family? .... Okay, no problem. .... Okay then. By.” Mary disconnects her cell phone. She turns to Emily as she puts her cell phone away and says, “I’m sorry, what were you trying to say to me?”

“Oh I had just wanted to ask you if were you bringing the Dianettes with you.”

“I was, but my family is gonna take them somewhere else. Why?”

“Oh it's just that it wouldn't have been anymore room in our van if they came along.”

“Anymore room in your van? I wasn't planning on riding in the same vehicle with you guys. I'm gonna drive my own car and follow you guys to where the schools are.”

“You are?”

“Yeah.”

“Oh okay. That's fine with us.”

Mary's cell phone rings. She puts the cell phone to her ear. She then speaks into it and says, “Hey girls. What's up? ..... Y'all downstairs? .....” Emily and the people from the committee puzzled look at Mary as Mary says into her cell phone, “What are y'all doing down there? ..... Well Diane is not here right now, she left the meeting early. .... Yeah. She's on her way back to the organization.” Emily and the people from the committee puzzled look at each other then back at Mary as Mary says into her cell phone, “Yeah the meeting is still going on, it's not over yet, but I'm on my way downstairs now. .... Yeah. Just stay down there, I'll see you all when I get downstairs. ... Alright.” Mary disconnects her cell phone and puts it away as Emily and the people from the school committee puzzled look at her. Mary turns to Emily and Frank and says, “Alright we can go downstairs now.” Emily nervously looks at Mary as Mary starts to head down the hall. Emily, Frank and the people from the school committee turn and follow Mary down the hall.

A couple of minutes later, Mary, Emily and Frank and the people from the school committee walk through the lobby as Emily nervously looks around. Emily nervously turns to Mary and says, “Um excuse me Miss Mary?” Mary stops and turns to Emily as everyone else stops also.

“Oh never mind,” Emily says.

“Never mind?” Mary says. “Never mind about what?”

Emily becomes very nervous as she looks down breathing heavy.

“Aunt Mary!” women's voices shout. Mary turns her head towards the voices and says, “Hey girls?!” Mary turns her body and walks away from Emily heading towards the voices as Emily nervously looks at her.

Emily nervously looks down, refusing to turn her head to look towards the women's voices. She hears Mary and the women's voices talking and laughing. Emily nervously turns her face away from the direction of Mary's and the women's voices. She slowly heads towards the opposite direction of Mary and the women's voices and goes to the side. She stops and turns her head to look. She looks towards Mary and the voices with a little tears in her eyes. She becomes surprised as she sees Mary with Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy all talking and laughing with each other. Emily gives out of sigh of relief. Frank goes to Emily and says, “You thought that would be the Dianettes waiting down here, didn't you?”

“I sure did,” Emily says.

“Yeah we all thought the same thing.”

“I was about to tell Diane D's Mom to cancel this whole school thing a minute ago. I didn't want the Dianettes to catch me with Diane D's mom to talk about Diane D because the Dianettes would eventually find out that I'm a singer if somebody else who knows me happens to spot me and mentions it in front of them. I don't need any problems.”

“I don't blame you. I know what you mean.” Frank and Emily look back towards Mary.

Mary continues to talk with Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda and Judy as Linda says, “Sorry to disturb your meeting Aunt Mary, but Judy had wanted to see Diane real quick.”

“Ah ah don't blame me Linda,” Judy says. “I could have waited until after the meeting was over for Diane to hand me back my make-up kit.”

“But you didn't want to wait until after the meeting was over Judy. You wanted your make-up kit now.”

“Well of course. I wanted to catch Diane before she throws my make-up away and replace it with a vitamin or fruit.” They all smile and laugh.

Chapter 43

The Dianettes' Fear Of Diane D

On the street outside of the organization, Michael, Aunt Celeste, Kenny, the Dianettes, their boyfriends and some organization members come out of a Charter Bus. Nicolas who's in the driver's seat of the Charter Bus calls out to them and shouts, "I'll be right back everybody! I gotta pick up the rest!"

"Okay Nicolas!" everybody shouts. Nicolas pulls off with the Charter Bus.

The Dianettes and everybody else are on the sidewalk. They start to head towards the organization building. Kory, Melvin and Ralph approach them. "What's up guys?" Kory says.

"Hey!" Michael and Kenny says.

Kory sniffs the air. He then says, "Damn what's that hard liquor I smell?"

"Yeah I smell it too," Ralph says.

"So do I," Melvin says.

Michael, Aunt Celeste, Kenny, the Dianettes and their boyfriends nervously look at Kory, Ralph and Melvin as Michael says, "Well there was a small party at the hotel. The people at the party recognized us and invited us all to come in there, but we didn't have time to go in there, but Charlotte and Lonna decided to take a quick run over to the party and went in there. When they were in there, the host offered them some hard liquor."

"Some hard liquor?" Kory says.

"Yeah," Kenny says. "And guess what? Charlotte and Lonna both took a sip of the hard liquor then quickly left out of there."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah."

"Well guess what? Diane is in there."

"What!" the Dianettes shout.

"Diane is inside?" Aunt Celeste asks.

"Yeah," Kory says.

"You mean right now?!" Miranda shouts. "Right this minute?!"

"Right this minute."

"She's working in her office on the computer," Melvin says. "I think she's working on finishing filing all your taxes."

"What!" the Dianettes shout.

“Melvin we thought Diane was still at the meeting and was gonna come here later on in the evening to finish filing girls' taxes,” Aunt Celeste says. “We didn't know she was gonna be here right now.”

“Well she is here right now,” Melvin says. “She left the meeting early. I think she wanted to get a head start on finishing filing the girls' taxes, that's why she left the meeting early. After she finishes filing the girls taxes, I think she's gonna start on her own. She just wants to get the girls' taxes done first.”

“Well shoot!” teary eyed Charlotte says. “I'm not going in there! I got this hard liquor scent on me!” Charlotte turns to Aunt Celeste and says, “Oh Aunt Celeste if Diane smells this hard liquor scent on me, she'll kill me!”

“Yeah me too!” Lonna says. “I'm not going in there either!” Miranda, Nancy, Bernice and Kelly worriedly wrap their arms around Lonna and Charlotte as they all look towards the organization building.

“That's right y'all can't go in there and let Diane smell the hard liquor on y'all,” Michael says. “She's gonna blow her top!”

“Yeah especially if she's working on that computer,” Dennis says. “She might knock the whole computer and desk to the floor like she did before.”

“Well y'all don't have to worry,” Lonna says. “Charlotte and I are not gonna step foot inside that building and risk Diane smelling the hard liquor on us! We're gonna need a ride home to clean the scent off us!”

“How are y'all gonna get home?” Nancy ask. “Nicolas just drove off.”

“None of the other members are here now Lonna,” Kory says. “They all took the vans and went to the churches. There are no other cars or vans in the parking lot but Diane's car.”

“What!” the Dianettes nervously shout.

“So what are we gonna do?!” Charlotte asks.

“Maybe we can call Nicolas on the cell phone so he can pick y'all back up,” Michael says. Michael takes out his cell phone and dials a number. He puts the phone to his ear. Everybody waits nervously and anxiously as Michael listens into his cell phone. The Dianettes and everybody else nervously look at each other. They nervously turn their heads towards the organization building, then turn their heads back towards Michael. Michael takes the cell phone out of his ear. He turns to the others and says, “He's not answering.”

“That's it,” Lonna shouts. “I'm gonna call a cab!”

“You're gonna call a cab?!”

“That's right! I'm not going anywhere near Diane until we get this hard liquor scent off us!”

“Yeah,” Charlotte says. “Lonna and I are gonna stay right out here until we get a cab ride home!”

“But it's getting chilly out here girls!” Aunt Celeste says. “Y'all can't stay out her in the cold!”

“Aunt Celeste we did it before and we'll do it again!” Lonna says.

“Now this is getting out of hand!” Michael says. “I'm gonna call a cab real quick! If I can't contact a cab, I'm just gonna have to call up Mickey or Mom and Dad from out of the meeting and see if they can come real quick and pick y'all up!” Michael dials a number on his cell phone again. He puts the phone to his ear. They all wait nervously and anxiously as Michael listens into his cell phone.

The Dianettes and everyone else nervously look at each other again. They all turn their heads and nervously look towards the organization building again. "Is she coming?" Al asks.

"So far no," Nancy says. The Dianettes and everyone else turn their heads back towards Michael.

Michael starts to speak into the phone and says, "Yeah car service? Yeah could you send a cab over to the Diaz-Davidson Organization? ..... Yes we need a cab right away." Everybody nervously turn towards the organization building again. They turn back around towards Michael as Michael continues to speak into the cell phone and says, "Three minutes? ..... Okay. .... Look for a light blue cab? ..... Okay gotcha. Thanks." Michael takes the phone out of his ear. He turns to the others and says, "The cab is on its way!"

Everybody excitedly screams and wave their arms in the air. As they shout, "Yeeeah! Yeeehaaaw!"

"And we have to look out for a light blue cab!"

"A light blue cab?!" Dennis asks.

"Yeah. It's one of those private cabs."

"I hope it doesn't take too long!" Charlotte says.

"Me neither!" Lonna says. "I hope it shows up before Diane happens to come out here!"

"I hope so too!" Miranda says.

"Yeah but what if the cab doesn't show up and Diane do winds up stepping out here?" Bernice says. "She can step out here any minute you know!"

"Then we'll run!" Charlotte says.

"It won't do y'all any good to run Charlotte," Michael says. "If Diane happens to come out here and winds up smelling hard liquor on you two and y'all run, she'll chase y'all down two or three blocks like she did Bernice!"

"If Diane happens to come out here, hopefully she won't smell the hard liquor," Aunt Celeste says.

"She is gonna smell the hard liquor Aunt Celeste," Michael says. "Kory, Melvin and Ralph noticed the hard liquor smell right away! They noticed the smell as soon as they came over here. Now if they were able to smell the hard liquor, Diane will definitely smell it too!" Everybody nervously stare at Michael.

Lonna nervously turns around towards everybody and shouts, "Anybody have any candy or gum?!"

"Or something?" Charlotte says. Everybody starts to search their pockets for candy or gum.

"I don't have any candy or gum," Anthony says.

"Oh come on Anthony!" Lonna shouts. "You had some gum yesterday!"

"But I don't have any today."

"Come on! Somebody's got to have some type of gum or candy on them!"

"I don't think I have any candy or gum on me either," Dennis says.

"Well look for it Dennis!"

"I am looking for it!"

"You're not looking fast enough Dennis!" Kelly shouts. "Look faster!"

"I'm trying to look as fast as I can Kelly!" Dennis and everybody else looks towards the building again. They all look away from the building and search their pockets for candy and gum again.

Lonna nervously turns towards the street and shouts, "What is taking that cab?!"

"Relax Lonna," Michael says. "I only called for the cab a minute ago. You have to give it more time. But I think we should all stand over there where we can't be too close to the building." Everybody starts to move further down the sidewalk away from the organization building.

Nancy goes in front of everybody and looks way down at the boulevard. Everybody follows Nancy and look way down at the boulevard also. Nancy walks further down the sidewalk. She points towards the boulevard and shouts, "Hey! I see a light blue car way up the street! It's heading towards the intersection!" Everybody runs towards Nancy. They look out towards the street. They all see a light blue car driving by way up on the boulevard heading towards the intersection. They all get excited!

"Is that the cab?!" everybody shouts. "Is it coming this way?!"

"It looks like it might be coming this way!" Aunt Celeste shouts. Everybody anxiously watches the light blue car as it heads towards an intersection. They then see the light blue car continue to ride straight through the intersection down the boulevard, not coming their way. The light blue car then disappears into the distance.

"That wasn't the cab!" Charlotte shouts.

"Damn!" Lonna shouts.

"Are you sure they said a light blue car Michael?" Aunt Celeste asks.

"Yeah I'm sure they said it," Michael says. "Most likely that was just another light blue car!" Everybody continues to look way down at the boulevard.

Nancy points towards the boulevard again and shouts, "I see another light blue car heading towards the intersection!"

"Is that the cab this time?" Melvin says.

"We sure hope so!" Miranda says. Everybody anxiously watches the light blue car as it drives down the boulevard towards the intersection. They then see the light blue car stop behind two other cars at a red light.

"It's stopping at the red light!" Billy says. "Is it gonna turn here?"

"We don't know," Michael says. "We gotta wait and see!"

"Come on light blue car!" Lonna shouts. "Make a turn, make a turn!"

"Yeah don't go straight down the street like the other light blue car did!" Charlotte shouts. "Turn this way!" Everybody continues to anxiously watch the light blue car as it is stopped at a red light. They then see the red light turn green.

"The red light just turned green!" Ralph shouts. Everybody anxiously watches the light blue car. They see the two cars in front of light blue car start to move forward into the intersection. They then see the light blue car start to move forward to the intersection.

"Is that light blue car gonna turn," everybody shouts. "Is it gonna turn?!"

"Come on baby, turn this way!" Melvin shouts.

"Come on light blue car, turn this way!" Michael shouts. Everybody sees the two cars in front of the light blue car go straight. They see the light blue car suddenly making a turn. Everybody gets excited.

"That is the cab!" Ralph shouts. Everybody excitedly wave their arms and hands to the light blue car as it makes a turn. They see the light blue car coming down the street towards their direction as they all shout, “Woo hooo! The cab is coming! Woo hooo! Yeeehaaaaw!” Everybody continues to wave their arms and hands to the light blue car as it comes down the street towards them. Charlotte and Lonna are so happy and excited as they dance in a circle around each other, shaking their shoulders as everyone happily watches them. Charlotte happily points her arm and finger towards the light blue car. Everybody looks at the light blue car as it continues to head towards them.

“Michael!” a deep voice shouts. “Michael!” Everybody becomes shocked and nervous as Charlotte and Lonna shout, “Aaaaaah! That's Diane! Aaaaaah!” Charlotte and Lonna nervously rush and cower in front of Michael and Aunt Celeste as the rest of the Dianettes nervously rush and cower by their side. Everybody nervously turn their heads around towards the voice and look. They are all stunned to see Alex standing far behind them shouting, “Michael!”

“Hey Alex!” Michael nervously says. “You scared us half to death!”

“I did?”

“Yeah! We thought you were Diane!”

“You all thought I was Diane?”

“We sure did!” Lonna says.

“Do I sound like Diane to y'all?”

“Yeah, sort of,” Michael says. “Anyway what's up Alex?”

“Christopher is in the lobby. He wants to see you real quick.”

“Oh yeah?”

“Yeah.”

“Okay I'll be there.” Michael turns to everybody. They all look at each other and give a sigh of relief.

“Hey where's the party at?!” Alex says. “I smell liquor out here!” Everybody nervously looks at Alex. “Did y'all have a party somewhere and didn't invite me?” Everybody nervously continue to look at Alex.

“There was no party Alex,” Michael says. “Me and some of the guys just had a few drinks that's all. Let's go see what Christopher wants.” Michael turns to Lonna and Charlotte as the light blue cab pulls to the curb next to them. Michael tells Lonna and Charlotte, “Okay girls, get in the cab.” He turns to everyone else and says, “I'll be right back.”

“Okay Michael,” everybody says. Michael heads towards Alex. Alex turns around as he and Michael start to head to the organization building together. Kory follows behind them.

Around a dozen people are inside the organization lobby standing around talking. Michael, Alex and Kory enter the lobby. Michael turns to Alex and says, “Well where's Christopher?”

“He probably stepped off somewhere real quick,” Alex says. “He'll be back.”

Diane D suddenly comes towards Michael, Alex and Kory with some papers and forms in her arm and hands. She approaches Michael and says, “Michael, where are those charity files you had for me yesterday? I need them now.”

“You finished filing the girls' taxes already?” Michael asks.

“Almost.” Diane D starts to look through the papers and forms and says, “I finished filing three of the girls' tax forms the other day. I just finished filing the fourth and fifth tax forms yesterday, I'm working on the last one now. After I finish filing the last one and get all their taxes out the way, I'm gonna work on mines, that's why I need those files.”

“Okay. Well I left those charity files in Grandma and Grandpa's office on the side of the table. It's in there.”

“Okay.” Diane D suddenly hears voices cheering outside. She looks towards the window. She goes to the window and peeks through the blinds. She then says, “You got the girls outside Michael?”

“Yeah. The guys and Aunt Celeste are out there with them. I'm gonna go back out there in a few minutes.”

“Okay.” Diane D turns from the window. She walks back to Michael and says, “Don't forget we have to take the girls to their probation officer first thing in the morning, after that, I have to go see my probation officer.” Alex and Kory laugh a little. Diane D puzzled looks at them and asks, “What's funny?”

“Oh nothing,” Kory says. “It's just that you and all the girls got probation officers, even Dana has one.” Diane D annoyingly looks at Kory as he shrugs his shoulders at her. Diane D starts looking through her papers and forms again.

Christopher, a black male, enters the lobby with a clipboard filled with sheets of paper. He sees Diane D and shouts, “Oh Diane!”

Diane D looks up from her papers and forms and looks at Christopher.

Christopher says to her, “Now that I see both you and Michael, these are the girls' probation papers that need your and your family's signature.”

Christopher approaches Diane D and hands her a clipboard with probation forms on it. Diane D looks down through the paper forms and counts them as Christopher and Michael stand beside her looking on. “All six probation forms are there,” Christopher says. Alex comes on the other side of Diane D and looks on. Diane D sees a paper with Miranda's name on it. She lifts the paper up and sees a paper with Lonna's name on it. She lifts all the papers up and sees each paper with a Dianette's name on it. “See, I told you, all six probation papers are there,” Christopher says.

“Okay I got it,” Diane D says. Diane D turns away and goes to the side. She leans against the back of a chair with her legs crossed as she looks down through the papers again. Two black woman in their early thirties and a man around his late thirties walk through the lobby together. They see Diane D. One of the woman calls out to Diane D and shouts, “Diane D! Diane D!” Diane D stops looking through the probation papers and looks up towards the woman. The two woman and the man approach Diane D as the woman says, “Hi Diane D!”

“Hey Diane D!” the second woman says. “Hey Diane D?! We saw the video of you and your cousin Charlotte when you two were kids!” Diane D puts her pen down near her side as she firmly looks at the woman. “Yeah!” the second woman says. “We saw you hit your cousin Charlotte in that video for playing and teasing with that pit bull! In the video, you seemed like you disciplined your cousin Charlotte real hard by hitting her. Did you really hit your cousin Charlotte that hard?”

“Didn't you just said you saw the video?” Diane D says.

“Yeah I saw it.”

“Well what did it look like to you?”

“It looked like you hit your cousin Charlotte real hard.”

“Well if that's what it looked like to you, that should answer your question then.”

“Yeah I guess it does. But you hit her so hard.”

“Yeah I hit her hard. And?”

“It seemed you hit her too hard.”

“That's right I hit her too hard! What's your point?!”

“Never mind. I just wanted to ask.” The second woman backs away as Diane D annoying looks at her. The woman then says, “Sorry I asked.” Diane D continues to annoyingly look at the woman. The second woman, the first woman and the man start to back away from Diane D.

Diane D becomes frustrated. She turns her head to Michael and says, “Michael I'm gonna get those files now.”

“Okay Diane,” Michael says.

Diane D leans up off the chair and walks away as she says to Michael, “And don't forget about tomorrow morning.”

“Yes ma'am.”

Diane D heads down the hallway as Michael, Kory, Alex and Christopher, the two women and the man look on at her.

Five minutes later, Michael, Kory, Alex, Christopher, the two women and the man look down the hall. They see Diane D swiftly walking down the hall with more forms in her hands as she holds her cell phone to her ear. They then see Diane D going towards the staircase and go up the steps.

A minute later, Diane D walks in an upstairs hallway towards one of the rooms as she continues to hold a cell phone to her ear quietly speaking into her cell phone. She then goes into her office and slams the door behind herself.

Stephanie, Harvey and Evette who are at the other end of the hallway puzzled look at each other as Stephanie says, “My God! Who slammed the door like that?”

“That was Diane,” Harvey says. “She just went inside her office.”

“Oh yeah? Why did she slam the door like that?”

“I don't know. It looks like she's in a bad mood.”

“Oh yeah?” Evette says. “Maybe we should find out if she's okay.”

“Heck no. Just let it be. Whenever Diane gets into one of her mood swings, it's best to just stay away from her and just leave her alone.”

“Yeah that's true,” Stephanie says. “Let's not bother her.” Stephanie, Harvey and Evette turn their heads and look down towards the office door.

Harvey then says, “Come on, let's get out of here.” Harvey, Stephanie and Evette look forward then walk away.

Miranda, Bernice, Nancy, Kelly, some of their boyfriends and members of the Diaz-Davidson Band come into the lobby. They walk to Michael as Michael asks, “Is the cab still out there?”

“No,” Dennis says. “Charlotte, Lonna and Aunt Celeste got inside the cab and left. They said they'll be back as soon as possible.”

“Okay good.”

“Is Diane still upstairs in the office?” Miranda asks.

“Yeah, she came down here and went back up.”

“Oh yeah?” Nancy says. “She finished filing our taxes yet?”

“Yeah she finished most of yours already. She's working on one more right now.”

“Just one more?” Bernice asks.

“Yeah.”

“Good.” Bernice turns to Miranda, Nancy and Kelly and says, “Come y'all. Let's go see how much money we're getting back this year.”

“I hope I get back more than last year,” Kelly says.

“Me too,” Nancy says as she Miranda, Bernice and Kelly turn and excitedly go towards the stairwell.

“Wait a minute, hold up girls!” Melvin shouts. Miranda, Bernice, Nancy and Kelly stop and turn around towards Melvin as he shouts, “Now are you sure that none of you four got the scent of hard liquor on you?”

“Yeah we're sure,” Nancy says.

“Yeah these four didn't drink any hard liquor Melvin,” Michael says. “Just Lonna and Charlotte. We don't have to worry this time, I think my family's computer will be safe. It won't get knocked down to the floor like the other one did.”

“Are you sure man?” Melvin asks.

“Yeah I'm sure. Plus when Diane's family got this computer and stand, they made sure that the stand got nailed to the floor.”

“They should have did that with the computer too.”

“I don't think it's gonna make a difference if the stand gets nailed to the floor,” Alex says. “When Diane gets angry again, her superhuman strength is going to over power those nails in the floor!”

“I know,” Michael says, “but let's think positive for now. Hopefully that won't happen ever again as long as the girls don't smell like hard liquor!”

“We don't smell like hard liquor,” Miranda says.

“I know.”

Nancy turns to Miranda, Bernice and Kelly and says, “Come on y'all, let's go up stairs!” Nancy, Miranda, Bernice and Kelly excitedly turn away and head up the stairs as the fellows look up at them.

Several minutes later, Diane D is sitting inside her office on a stool at the computer stand with her back facing the door typing and clicking away on the computer looking into the computer screen as Miranda, Bernice, Nancy and Kelly stand around her talking and smiling as they look at the computer monitor. “Wow that's a lot of money it looks like I'm gonna get back,” Kelly says. “That's how much I'm gonna get back so far Diane?”

“Yeah,” Diane D says.

“Oh yeaah let's celebrate.” Kelly places her hands on Diane D's and Nancy's shoulders as she celebrates bouncing her body up and down a little as she chants, “I'm gonna get some money. I'm gonna get some money.”

“That's more than you got last year Kelly,” Nancy says.

“It sure is.”

Bernice looks down at one of the forms on the table and says, “Hey Diane, you wrote down that I donated to the Red Cross. I never donated to them.”

“I know you didn't Bernice,” Diane D says. “That's not yours.”

“It isn't?”

“No, that's my form.”

“It’s yours?”

“Yeah. I didn’t get a chance to put my name on it yet. Your form is underneath mine.”

“Oh I see.” Bernice looks underneath Diane D’s form as Diane D continues to look into the computer screen, typing and clicking away.

Two hours later, Michael, Kory and Diane D’s relatives are inside the lounge area talking and laughing. Nancy, Miranda and Bernice enter the lounge. They walk to the refrigerator and open it. They grab some sodas out of it. “How’s it going ladies?” Michael says.

“Okay,” Nancy says.

“Where’s Kelly?”

“She’s still upstairs with Diane?” Miranda says.

“Oh. Is Diane still filing your taxes?”

“No she finished filing all of ours taxes,” Nancy says. “She just finished filing Kelly’s taxes. Now she’s getting ready to start her own.”

“She is?”

“Yeah.”

Bernice turns to Nancy and Miranda and says. “Come on girls. We gotta hurry and get back upstairs.”

“Hurry and get back upstairs?” Michael says. “Hurry and get back upstairs for what? If Diane finished filing all your taxes already, y’all don’t need to go back. Y’all don’t plan to watch Diane work on her own taxes do y’all?”

“Well yeaah!” Nancy says. Nancy, Miranda and Bernice turn away and excitedly hurry back out the lounge.

Everyone looks on at them as Kory says, “They’re so noseeee.” Everyone laughs a little.

Twenty minutes later, Kory walks through the upstairs hallway. He walks towards Diane D’s office door. He peeps through the door which is slightly open. He slowly opens the door and walks into the office.

Kory walks towards Diane D, Miranda, Bernice, Nancy and Kelly with their back towards him as Miranda and Kelly fix the bow on the bottom of Diane D’s long braid. Bernice and Nancy stand around Diane D talking and looking into the computer screen with Diane D as Diane D types and clicks away on the keyboard and mouse. Kory comes around Miranda, Bernice, Nancy, Kelly and Diane D and sees Diane D looking into the computer screen as Nancy says, “Wow Diane. You be getting a lot of money back.”

“She sure do,” Miranda says.

“You’re gonna take us out to dinner again, right Diane?” Bernice says as Miranda, Nancy and Kelly laugh a little.

“Hey Diane,” Kory says.

Miranda, Bernice, Nancy and Kelly turn their heads away from the computer screen and look at Kory. Diane D takes a quick glance at Kory then firmly looks back at the computer monitor and continues to click away as she says, “Kory what are you doing in here?”

"I just came to see how you were doing with working on your taxes."

"Oh really."

"Yeah."

"I don't need you to see how I'm doing with working on my taxes."

"No?"

"No. Please leave."

"Leave? Why? I just want to watch what you're doing and learn from what you're doing, so I can prepare my own taxes and not have to keep paying somebody else to do it for me."

"I don't need you watching my tax business. Just get out."

"But I want to learn how to file my own taxes."

"If you want to learn how to file your own taxes, go find somebody else to watch. Now get out."

"Well excuse me! Don't worry! I'm outta here." Kory turns away and heads towards the door as Nancy, Miranda, Bernice and Kelly turn and look on at him.

Diane D's cell phone suddenly rings. Nancy, Miranda, Bernice and Kelly turn their heads back towards Diane D as Diane D looks down at her cell phone and pulls it out of her belt holster. She looks at the number on her cell phone. She then puts the phone to her ear. She speaks into the cell phone and says, "Yeah what's up?" Diane D starts typing and clicking again as Miranda, Bernice, Nancy and Kelly continue to surround her looking at the computer monitor.

Kory enters back into the lounge area where Michael and Diane D's family are. "What are you doing back here so soon Kory?" Aunt Jean asks. "We thought you were gonna watch Diane work on her own taxes so you can learn from her."

"I would have," Kory says, "but Diane didn't let me stay there. She wanted me to leave."

"Diane wanted you to leave?" Michael asks.

"Yeah. She said she doesn't need me watching her business and told me to get out."

"She told you to get out?" Aunt Jean asks.

"Yeah. She chew me out, then she threw me out. But she's letting her daughters stay in there."

"Her daughters?" Aunt Jean and everyone else laughs a little.

Two hours later, Charlotte, Lonna and Aunt Celeste happily walk into the organization lobby with Charlotte and Lonna wearing different clothes. Everybody approaches them. "Y'all finally made it back," Michael says.

"Yeah," Lonna says. "Y'all don't smell the hard liquor scent on us do y'all?" Everybody starts to sniff the air as Lonna and Charlotte nervously look at them.

"No I don't smell any hard liquor," Michael says.

"Are you sure?"

"Yeah I'm sure. I don't smell it."

"Neither do I," Aunt Jean says.

"Good," Lonna says.

"So Charlotte, how you doing?" Kory asks. "How does your back feel now?"

"How does my back feel now?" Charlotte asks. "What are you talking about?"

“Some people wanted to know earlier if your back still hurt from when Diane hit you when y'all were kids,” Michael says.

“Really? What people?!”

“The people that were standing in the lobby earlier.”

“So does your back still hurt?” Kory playfully smacks Charlotte on the back.

“Man you better leave her alone before Diane get on your ass,” Ralph says.

“That's right,” Melvin says.

“I was just kidding with her,” Kory says. “Fine, I won't do it again.”

“We're just looking out for you bro.”

“Where is Diane by the way?” Aunt Celeste says. “Is she still in her office?”

“Yeah she's still up there working on her taxes now,” Michael says. “She finished filing all of the girls' taxes.”

“She did?!” Charlotte shouts. “Oh good! Come on Lonna, let's go see how much money we're gonna get back this year!” Lonna and Charlotte turn and excitedly go through the lobby.

“I'll go with you girls,” Aunt Celeste says. Aunt Celeste turns and follows off after Lonna and Charlotte. Lonna and Charlotte past right by the man and two women who questioned Diane D earlier as the man and two women look at Lonna and Charlotte heading towards the staircase. Lonna and Charlotte excitedly hold on to each other as they head up the staircase. Aunt Celeste follows right behind them.

Teresa and Felisha are walking on the sidewalk. They walk towards Dana, Judy and another Jamaican female relative of Dana's named Tiffany who is in her late 20's as Dana leans against a pole with her legs crossed drinking from a brown paper bag as Judy and Tiffany stand beside her. “Hey ladies,” Teresa says.

“Hey Teresa,” Judy says as Teresa and Felisha approach her, Dana and Tiffany.

“Did y'all go inside yet?”

“We're getting ready to, but Dana has to wait for Aunt Mary and Uncle Barry to come out the car first.”

“Oh yeah? How come?”

“She's in their custody Teresa. Don't you remember? You know Dana can't go anywhere without her family with her.”

“Oh yeah that's right. Sorry.”

Judy turns to Dana and asks, “Did you save me any beer Dana?”

“No,” Dana says.

“Why not?! You could have least save me some beer.”

“I'll get you a beer later Judy.”

“Okay thanks.”

Mary, Barry, Missy, Landa, Londa and Linda approach Dana, Judy, Tiffany, Teresa and Felisha as Mary says, “Okay girls, we're going into the building now. Ready Dana?”

“Yeah I'm ready Aunt Mary.”

“Okay come on.”

Dana leans off the pole. She turns and walks away between Mary and Barry. They all head towards the organization building as Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda, Judy, Tiffany, Teresa and Felisha follow them.

Dana, Mary, Barry, Judy, Tiffany, Teresa and Felisha enter the lobby of the organization lobby. All the people in the lobby approach them as Michael holds a coffee pot full of coffee in his hand and says, "Hey guys. How's it going?"

"Okay Michael," Barry says.

"What are you doing with that pot of coffee Michael?" Mary asks.

"I was just about to take this coffee pot up to Diane. She asked me can I make her a pot of coffee so she can keep herself awake because she wants to hurry and finish working on her taxes. She's upstairs working on her taxes right now."

"She is?"

"Yeah."

"Okay. We'll come with you Michael."

"Okay." Michael turns around and heads up the staircase with the pot of coffee as Dana, Mary, and Barry head up the stairs behind him. Judy, Tiffany, Missy, Landa, Londa, Linda, Teresa and Felisha all head up the staircase and follow them.

Chapter 44

Diane D Visits The Schools Again

One month later, Diane D is inside a school auditorium with children and teachers. She gets ready to leave the auditorium as Michael walks beside her. “By Diane D!” the students shout. “Bye!”

Diane D turns to the students and shouts, “By everybody!”

Emily approaches Diane D and says, “Thank you so much for coming to the school Diane D. Are you able to come to the other school next week?”

“Oh no, sorry I can't. My entire family and I are leaving back for Jamaica tomorrow morning.”

“You are? So soon?”

“It's not soon. My family and I was supposed to have been back in Jamaica last week. We only postponed the entire trip so I can be here today. But my family is ready to go back.”

“Oh yeah? Are the Dianettes going back to Jamaica with your family?”

“Yeah the girls are going back with us. I called my grandparents' house around an hour ago and spoke to the girls. They told me they got most of my belongings and their belongings packed already.”

“They did? That's nice. What about your cousin Dana? Is she going back to Jamaica with you too?”

“Yeah she's going back too. We're all staying at her mother's family's house again. We all have to be at the airport tomorrow morning to catch the eight thirty flight, so I have to go home and get some rest.”

“Thank you so much for being here. I wish you wouldn't have to go. Well by Diane D. Take care of yourself.” Emily gives Diane D a hug as Diane D hugs her back.

Diane D lets go of Emily. She turns to the students and teachers and shouts, “By everybody!”

“By Diane D!” the students and teachers shout. “Bye!” Diane D turns back around and leaves as Michael follows her.

Michael has his arms wrapped around Diane D as he and Diane D leave the school building and head towards the sidewalk.

Diane D and Michael are walking outside on the sidewalk.

The students and school staff members come out on the sidewalk and look on at Diane D and Michael. They then wave and shout, “Bye Diane D! Bye Michael!”

Diane D and Michael turn and wave bye to the students and staff members. They turn back forward and continue to head down the street. They reach the middle of the sidewalk.

The students and staff members continue to wave towards Diane D and Michael and shout, “Bye Diane D! Bye Michael!”

Diane D and Michael turn around again and wave by to the students and staff members. They turn back forward and head further down the street.

The students and staff members continue to wave to Diane D and Michael and shout, “Bye Diane D! Bye Michael!”

Diane D and Michael turn back around and take one last look at the students and staff members. They wave by to the students and staff members. They then turn back forward and head further down the street. They reach the corner. They then turn the corner and disappear out of sight.

The students and staff members sadly stare down the street not seeing Diane D and Michael anymore. They stand there and stare for a few seconds. They then turn and sadly start to head back to the building as they turn their heads and take one last look towards the direction Diane D and Michael disappeared into.
