

Woman was created to be a help meet to man, she was created to fill a void for him, she is his missing rib. The scripture says that God put Adam to sleep and took his left rib from him, so, when man joins with a woman, his woman; she completes him and makes him whole. She adds to him she does not subtract from him. Women it is not we who are missing the rib, and are incomplete it is man that is missing something from his life, that is why the man is the one who is on the search for his mate. He is on the search for his missing rib that completes him, we are already complete.

Whoso findeth a wife findeth a good thing and obtaineth favor from the LORD (Proverbs 18:22; KJV)

If you put on the glasses of observation you will see that although this scripture is short, it is saying a lot. Let's break it down; other translations say: A man that findeth a wife findeth a good thing. First this implies that a man must be a MAN before he looks or seeks out a wife. There are many things that separates boys from men. A man works, a boy waits for hand-outs, a man handles his responsibilities and pays his bills. A boy leaves them for others to pay or pays them no mind. A man has a dream but knows he still has to work a job while trying to reach his dream and destiny, he understands that it takes money to get to where he is going. A boy thinks that he can go straight for his dream without working or saving money and expects everyone else but himself to sew into his dream. A man knows how to honor and respect women, a boy will use women for his pleasure. A boy likes girls on poles and a man likes women who can achieve goals. A man commits a boy can't commit and jumps from relationship to relationship and bed to bed. Are we seeing the difference? A man will look at a woman who is underdressed and look the other way he won't even be interested even if she is throwing herself at him. But a boy will catch her and use her up and then toss her aside until he is ready to settle down and chase after his real woman, his rib, his missing piece. For after all even though a boy is a boy all boys become men.

A man looks for a wife, he looks for someone he can look forward to coming home to at night. He looks for the woman that he can't live without.

Again, he is the one that was put to sleep while woman was created whole. So, he should be hunting for a mate not the woman. The only thing we should be hunting for women is virtue.
