CHICAGO, June 17: He's at it again - the stories never stop! Hundreds of eye-witnesses claim Jesus of Las Vegas did something supernatural at Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore last week. Thousands of people from Chicago converged on the park when word got out that Jesus and his deacons stopped their vans and were camped at the park. Witnesses say Jesus taught and "healed" - as they call it - all day long. As the sun was setting, Jesus took 5 Big Macs and 2 fries and blessed them. Then people allege Jesus started handing the food out to his 12 deacons. Now get this! They claim he just kept handing the 5 hamburgers and 2 fries to all fifteen-thousand people who had been listening! Yea, thousands ate from one lunch! How do these stories get started, and why do they always have to do with Jesus? They just get wilder and wilder! Does he drug these listeners - or what? They come up with these cockamamy stories and they sound soo sincere.
