

Four children set out on an adventure to explore their city and its hiking trails within seven hours. Follow them as they go from one building to the next, walking through the parks and seeing such magnificent towers. What adventure awaits them behind each door?

This is a book about four children who go on a sightseeing adventure in Toronto. Children will learn to tell time while they explore the big city and observe various kinds of birds that are found on their walking adventure. Parents will enjoy reading about this adventure to their children because of the rhyming and repetitiveness in this realistic picture book.

Little ones will enjoy the activities that follow and parents will be delighted to see their little readers remembering what they have learned. This is the second book in a 5 part series.
