

“Mommy, when can we go back to school?” Mawuli asks Mommy one afternoon. “We’ve been staying at home for so long ... I miss my friends.”

Daddy hears Mawuli’s question as he walks into the living room.

“Actually, boys, you’ll be beginning school in a couple weeks,” he explains.

The boys are excited! But there’s a twist:

“This year is going to be a little different,” Daddy continues. “You will do school at home, on your computers!”

The boys are even more excited. They can already see themselves playing games during school time. They’ve gotten used to playing on the computer a lot during lockdown!

“Yay!” Mawuli and Kunale say as they jump up and down around Mommy and Daddy.

“I can’t wait to see my friends!” Mawuli says.

“I can’t wait, either!” Kunale adds.

“This is so exciting,” Mommy chimes in. “You might really love it!”
