KLIPPE

THE VIKING

Klippe is a Viking.

However, she does not feel like she belongs with the other Vikings.

Klippe feels that she cannot keep up at school.

That she does not understand the jokes the other Vikings make.

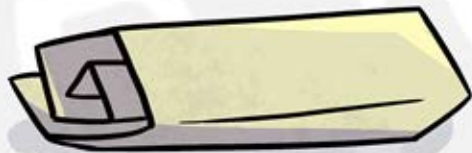

Or that she can play the games she wants to.

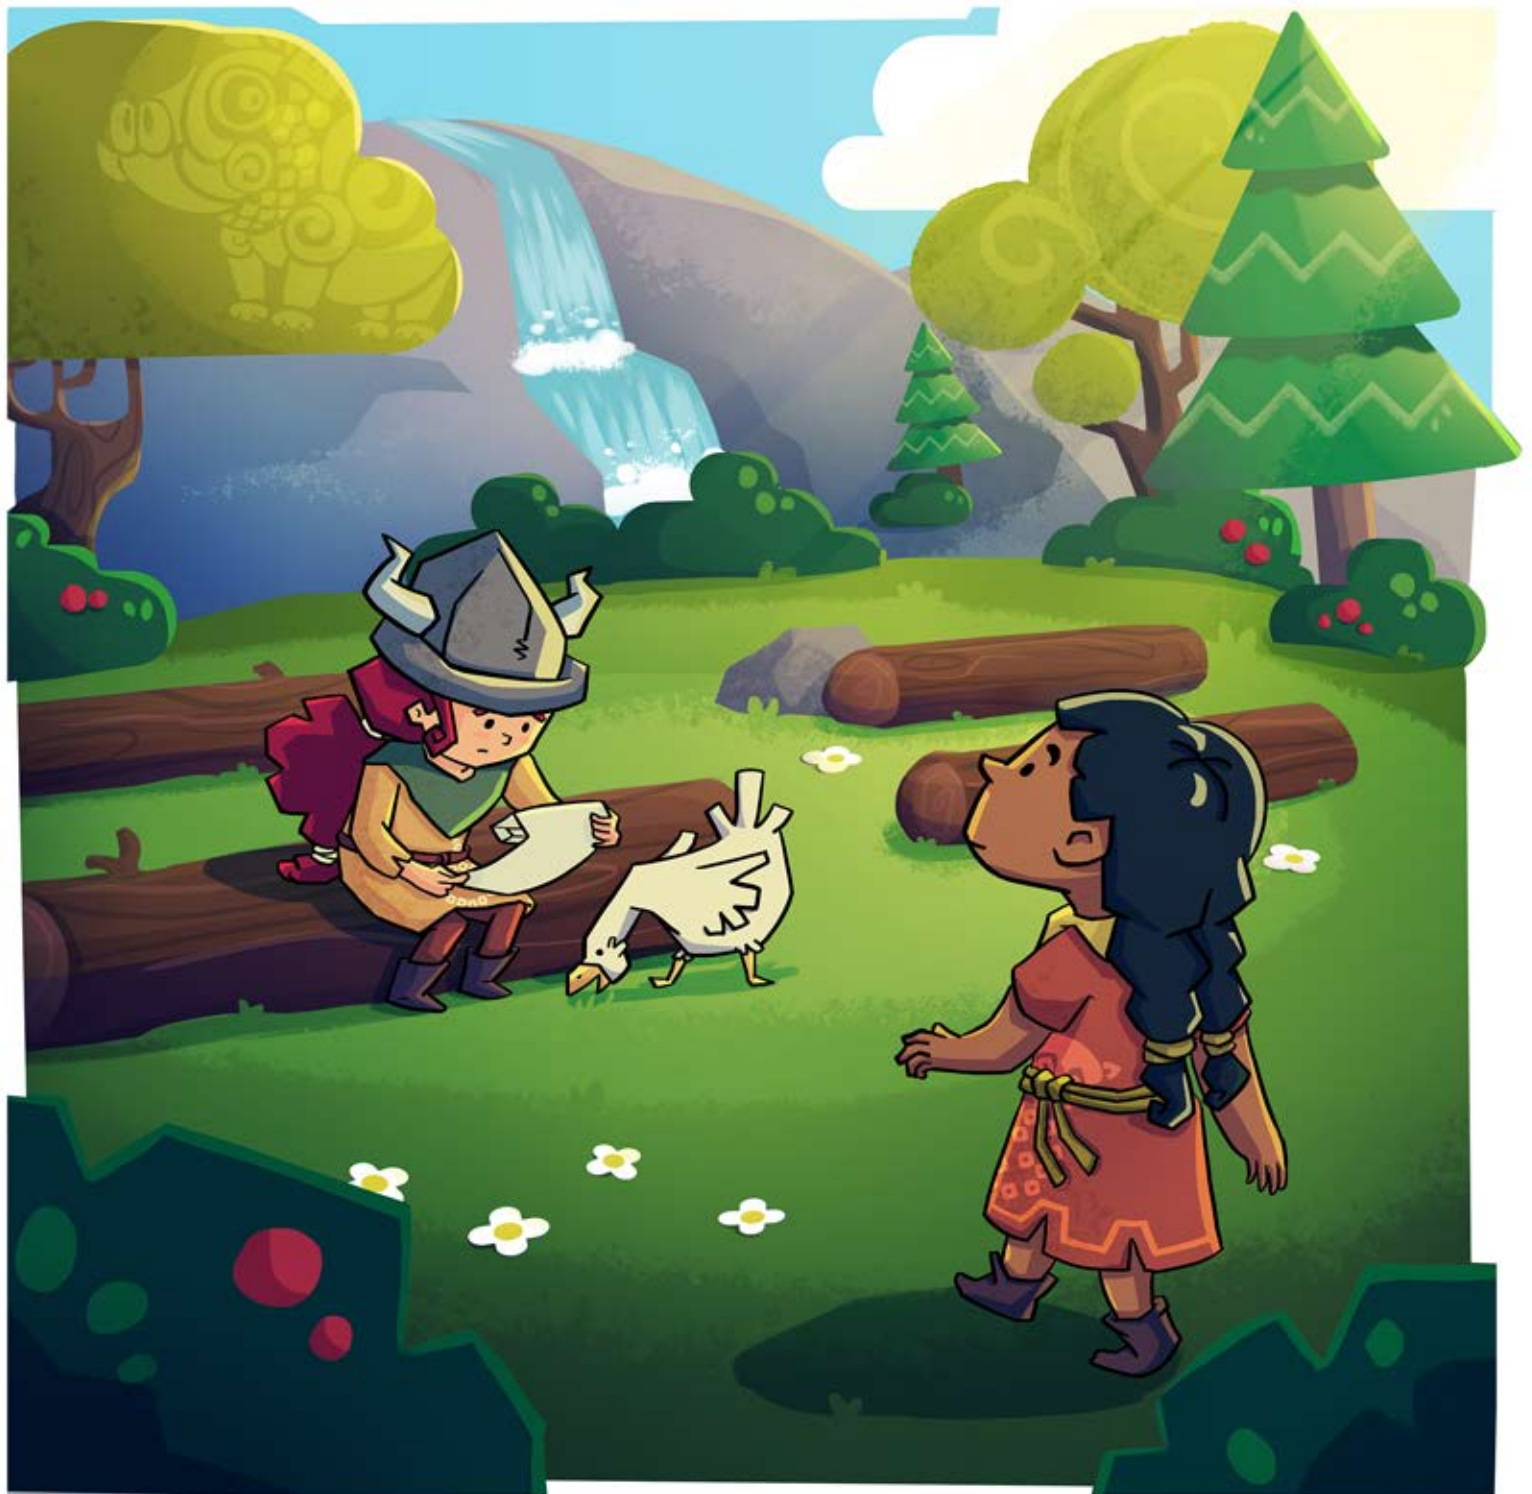

One day Klippe is sitting by herself after class when Kanin walks over.

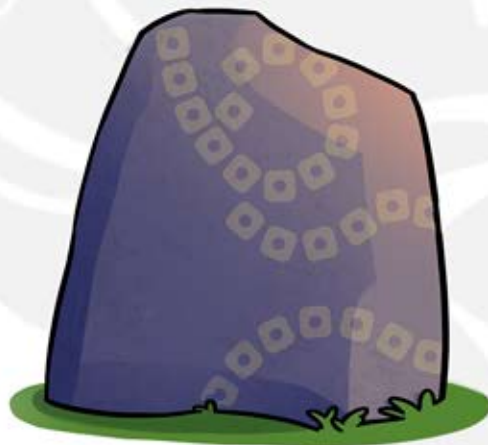

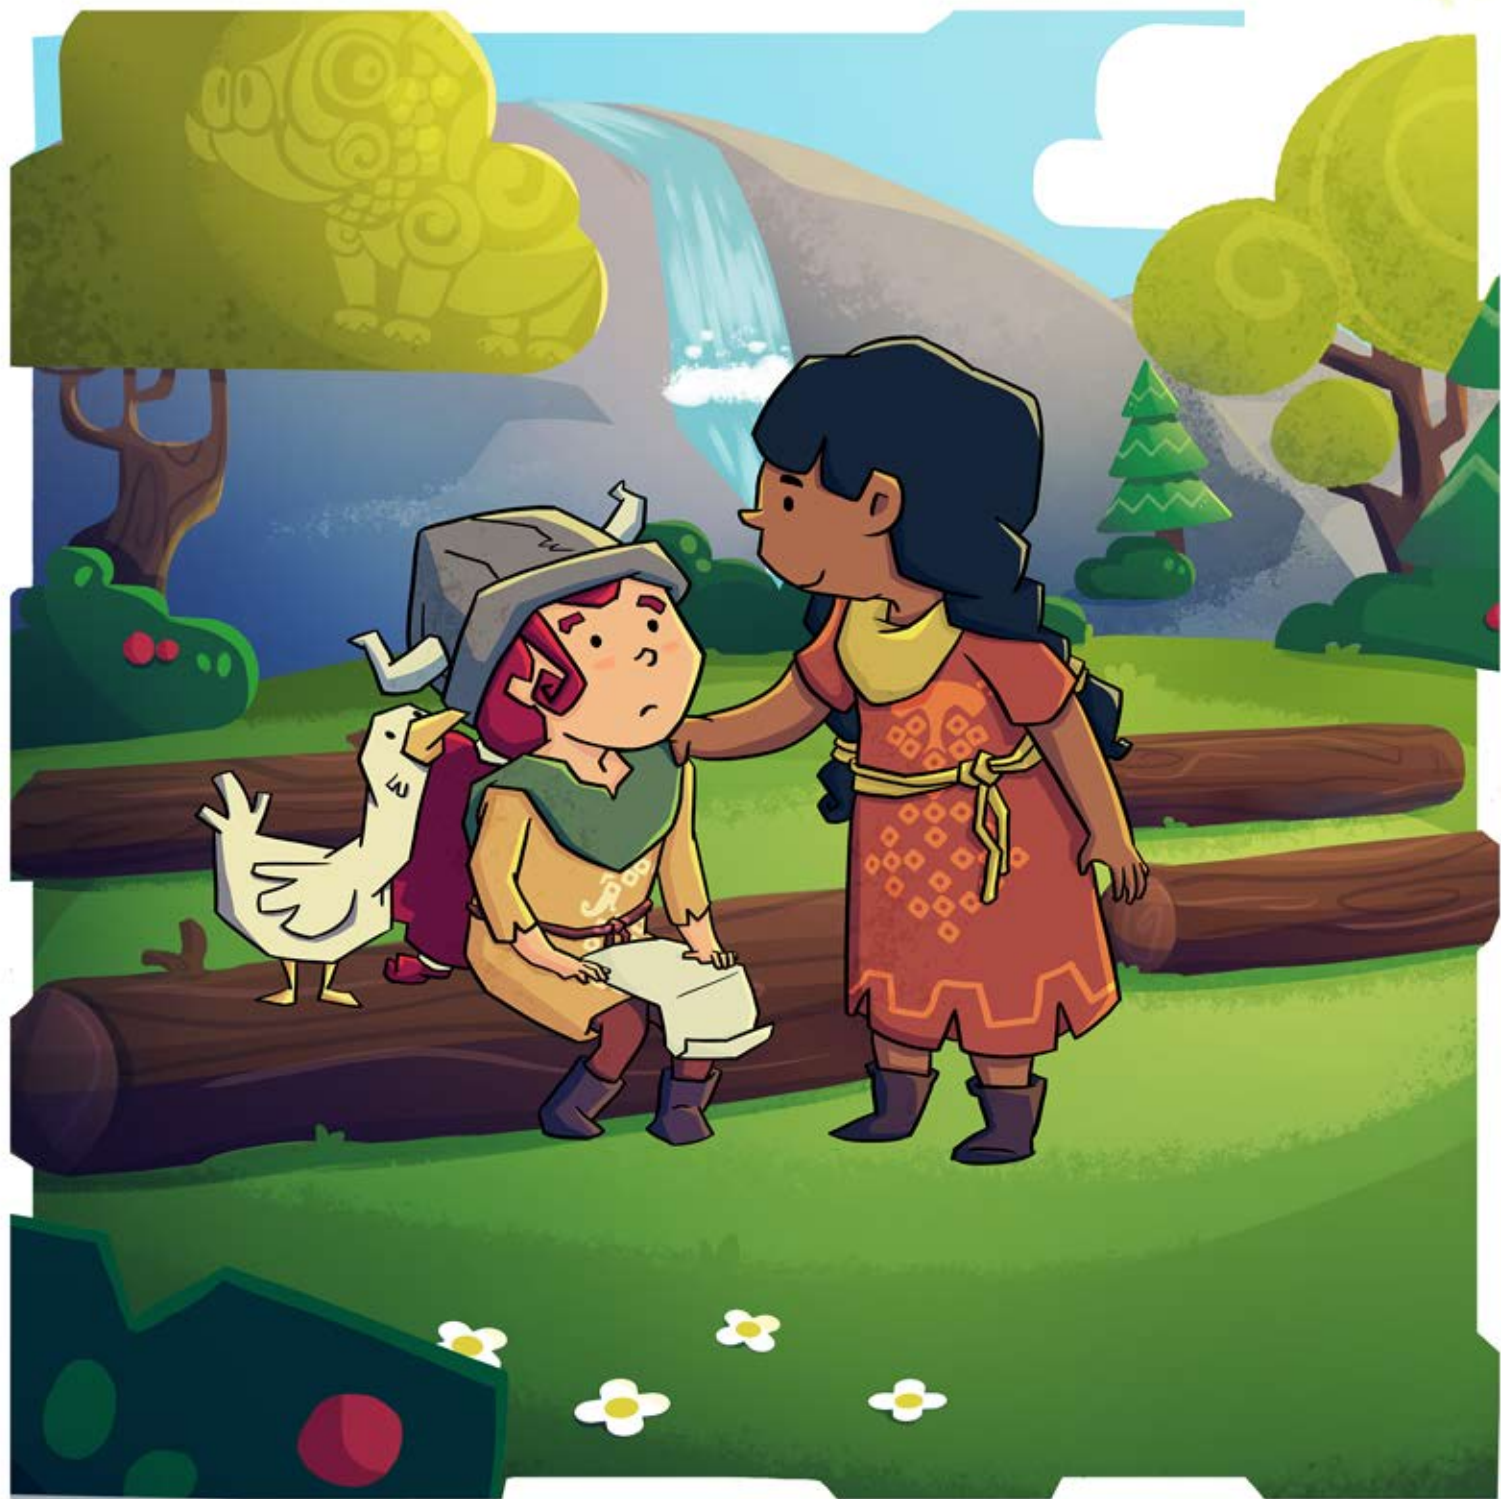

“How did you find class?” Kanin asks.

“I do not understand anything,” Klippe whispers, holding back tears. “I should not be here,” Klippe sighs.

“It is okay. I do not understand it either. Should we work on it together?” Kanin says, as Klippe sits up.

Klippe looks at Kanin and nods her head quickly.

“Who is the chieftain?” Kanin asks.

Klippe looks down at her feet, trying to avoid the question.

"I do not know," Klippe says quietly.

"That is okay." Kanin replies.

“But everyone else knows,” Klippe says, without thinking.

“I ðo not know,” Kanin replies.

Klippe looks up in surprise.

“Maybe if we read ðver the scroll again, we can find ðut. Should we try?” Kanin says.
