

I have this uncle, Eric, who either is or was a crackhead. I don't know, I haven't actually seen him in a few years, but I know if I want to find him that I can just go to 79th and Marquette and he can be found standing on the porch of some person I've never met, but who has known me for years.