

BOOK EXCERPT

The journey I have taken was also not an ordinary one, but a mysterious and transference journey. Where I was being elevated and transited⁸¹ from the ordinary state of mind to the higher state of mind. It's like a transition and change I experience only within my mind.

Specifically, within certain levels of my mind, where I shifted and changed mentally from one level to the next level. From that level of mind where we are connected to our physical self, where we respond to things according to our feelings and emotions, to the next level that is much higher. Where I do things in response to the reading of a single thought or idea that comes to my mind.