Introduce young ones to the digestive system, and the vital processes of elimination, with this cute character story. Designed for interaction, the small print has suggestions for actions you can have fun with together!

We hope you'll have as much fun reading it, as we did creating it. (The term, "Phoot-Phoot House" was an editorial directive from my 2-year old co-writer, who decreed it should not be called "bum-bum" or "tummy-tum"...)

Take a look inside
Phoot-Phoot's house!

Food goes down here, in little balls called "bolus"

Esophagus

Liver

Gallbladder

Stomach

Squoshes food together with stomach juices into a paste called "chyme"

Pancreas

Big Intestines

Small Intestines

Nutrients & water from food are absorbed, and waste gas and solids go out...

Once upon a time, there was a Phoot-Phoot.

It lived in a Phoot-Phoot
House.

It was warm and cosy inside the Phoot-Phoot
house.

(rub lower tummy)

But when there were lots of other Phoot-Phoots and Poo-Poos ...

Eve Verne's Really Useful Stories

for parents of little kids

A cautionary tale for toddlers who won't sleep...

Why you really might want to brush your teeth!

A clear, practical guide to emotional awareness & self management.

Upcoming Series:

Adaptations from the Jataka Tales

Combining conflict and comedy, worldly wisdom and wit; the Jataka Tales are a collection of over 500 ancient parables that may date as far back as the 5th century BC.

They share the humorous elements which give Aesop's Fables, Persia's Nasruddin stories, and the Anansi stories of Africa a timeless appeal.

This upcoming series reinterprets selected Jataka stories for younger audiences.
